(WX)-SEATTLE, MARCH 21-(AP)-WE WERE AT WORK AT SANGLEY POINT ACROSS THE BAY FROM THE CAVITE NAVY YARD THAT DECEMBER MORNING WHEN MANILA NEWSPAPERS BROUGHT WORD OF PEARL HARBOR.

WE BEGAN BUILDING BOMB SHELTERS.

WE SAW NO JAPANESE PLANES THE FIRST DAY, BUT WE HAD 14 OR 15 CATALINAS PATROLLING THE MANILA BAY AREA. THEY WENT UP THE SECOND DAY AND WE NEVER SAW THEM AGAIN.

TWO DAYS LATER CAVITE WAS BOMBED. WE GOT ABOUT HALF AN HOUR'S WARNING. SEVENTY-TWO JAPANESE PLANES CAME OVER IN SIX FLIGHTS. WE SAW THEM DROP A FEW BOMBS OVER NICHOLS FIELD, THEN FLY OVER MANILA AND COME BACK OVER CAVITE. SOME WERE DIVE BOMBERS.

WE COULD SEE THE EXPLOSIONS FROM ACROSS THE BAY. IT WAS SOME OF THE BEST BOMBING I'VE EVER SEEN THE JAPANESE DO. THEY MISSED ONLY ONCE, ONE FLIGHT OF BOMBS DROPPING INTO THE BAY. THEIR BOMBS HIT IN THE OFFICE BUILDINGS AND BARRACKS AND TREMENDOUS FIRES STARTED IMMEDIATELY.

MAR 22 1944

MOST OF THE DEATHS WERE AMONG LABORERS AND OFFICE AND NAVY PERSONNEL. FROM 500 TO 1,000--NO CASUALTY LISTS WERE ANNOUNCED--WERE KILLED OUTRIGHT OR BURNED TO DEATH IN THE CROWDED QUARTERS.

FOR 10 DAYS AFTER THAT THERE WAS LITTLE REGULAR WORK FOR US.

AFTER CHRISTMAS WE PLANNED OUR ESCAPE, KNOWING THAT MANILA WOULD SOON FALL.

SEVERAL OTHER AMERICANS, MY WIFE AND I LEFT EARLY IN JANUARY IN A 29-FOOT RACING SAIL BOAT.

WE HAD AN EXTRA PAIR OF SAILS, SOME BOAT EQUIPMENT AND CANNED GOODS.

WE TALKED WITH ANOTHER AMERICAN AND HE HAD PLANNED TO GO WITH US BUT GAVE UP THE IDEA FOR ARRANGEMENTS MORE SUITABLE TO HIM.

WE INTENDED TO HEAD FOR SINGAPORE.

THE FIRST TWO NIGHTS WE STAYED ABOARD, BUT AFTER THAT NEARLY EVERY NIGHT WE GOT ASHORE. WE TOOK THE SO-CALLED "OUTSIDE ROUTE" AWAY FROM THE REGULAR CHANNELS.

IT WAS SEVERAL MONTHS BEFORE THE JAPANESE FINALLY INVADED THE CENTRAL ISLANDS IN THE PHILIPPINES. WE DIDN'T SEE ANY JAPANESE SHIPS ON THE WAY THROUGH THESE ISLANDS ENROUTE TO A LARGE CITY. THAT CITY WAS SHELLED TWICE IN THE DAYS WE WERE THERE.

WE ABANDONED PLANS TO HEAD FOR SINGAPORE WHEN WE LEARNED THAT THE JAPANESE HAD MOVED SOUTH SWIFTLY, ALONG THE MALAY PENINSULA.

LATER WE REACHED ANOTHER LARGE ISLAND AND SPENT NEARLY A YEAR THERE. OF THAT, I CAN SAY NOTHING AT THE PRESENT TIME. FINALLY, WITH OTHERS, I REACHED AUSTRALIA.

THERE WERE REWARDS OFFERED BY THE JAPS FOR THE CAPTURE OF AMERICANS. THESE INCREASED IN SIZE AS THE MONTHS WENT ON.

THE EQUIPMENT WITH WHICH RESISTING FILIPINOS AND AMERICANS HAD TO FIGHT WAS INADEQUATE AND OUT-OF-DATE. FOR ONE THING THERE WERE OLD ENFIELD RIFLES AND AMMUNITION DATING BACK TO 1918.

COLUMBIA, S.C., MARCH 21-(AP)-LORD HALIFAX, THE BRITISH AMBASSADOR, SAID TODAY OF HENRY FORD'S PREDICTION IN A COPYRIGHTED INTERVIEW FOR THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION THAT THE WAR WOULD BE OVER IN TWO MONTHS, THAT ANY "MAN WHO ADOPTS THE ROLE OF A PROPHET IS TAKING A GREAT RISK WITH HIS REPUTATION."

HALIFAX ARRIVED HERE TODAY WITH LADY HALIFAX FOR A VISIT TO THE STATE CAPITAL AND TO CHARLESTON.

THE AMBASSADOR SAID IN A SHORT PRESS CONFERENCE HE WOULD BE "VERY HAPPY IF I FELT THAT" FORD'S PREDICTION WERE TRUE, "BUT I SEE NO REASON MYSELF TO ASSUME THAT," AND ADDED THAT "I ALWAYS SAY, WHEN I AM ASKED THAT QUESTION, THAT THE WAR IS FOUR AND ONE-HALF YEARS NEARER THE END THAN WHEN IT BEGAN."

NEW YORK, MARCH 20 --(AP) -- NUMEROUS REPORTS FROM INSIDE THE WALL OF SECRECY SURROUNDING NAZILAND ARE NOW BEING OBTAINED FROM AMERICAN REPATRIATES WHO HAVE ONLY BEGUN TO LEARN HOW MUCH OF THEIR INFORMATION WAS UNKNOWN TO THE OUTSIDE WORLD.

THESE CONCERN PARTICULARLY NEWS OF AMERICANS CAUGHT IN HITLER'S EUROPE WHO HAD NOT BEEN HEARD FROM, AS WELL AS THE CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH UNITED STATES CIVILIANS AND PRISONERS OF WAR ARE BEING HELD.

MAR 22 1944

WE ARE REPATRIATES CAN THUS DISCLOSE -- WHAT WE SUPPOSED TO BE KNOWN -- THAT A PROMINENT AMERICAN BANKER AND SOCIETY LEADER IN FRANCE WAS SHOT IN THE LEG WITHOUT PROVOCATION BY A GERMAN GUARD AT THE COMPIEGNE CONCENTRATION CAMP FOR AMERICAN MEN.

THE VICTIM OF THE SHOOTING WAS NORMAN LEWIS, 51, INVESTMENT BANKER AND PARIS REPRESENTATIVE OF THE EASTMAN DILLON COMPANY. HIS AGED MOTHER, MRS. R. E. LEWIS OF MOULTRIE, GA., WAS UNAWARE OF THE INCIDENT.

MR. LEWIS, A HOLDER OF THE FRENCH LEGION OF HONOR AWARD, WAS ONE OF THE LEADING SPIRITS AMONG THE INTERNED MEN AND AS BARRACK CHIEF WORE AN ARMBAND ENTITLING HIM TO APPROACH THE CAMP GATE. ON HIS DOING SO ONE DAY LAST NOVEMBER, HOWEVER, A GERMAN GUARD FIRED AT HIM WITHOUT WARNING AND THE BULLET PIERCED HIS LEG.

AS A RESULT, MR. LEWIS WAS HOSPITALIZED FOR TWO MONTHS AT VAL-DE-GRACE AND AFTER COMPLETE RECOVERY WAS PERMITTED TO RETURN TO FREEDOM WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS OF PARIS, WHERE HE IS BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN JOINED BY HIS FRENCH FAMILY FROM THEIR ESTATE NEAR BORDEAUX.

GERMAN GUARDS AT COMPIEGNE, THE WORST OF THE CAMPS FOR AMERICANS IN GERMANY OR FRANCE, WERE PARTICULARLY JUMPY BECAUSE OF AN ADJOINING CAMP FOR FRENCH DEGAULLISTS WHO WERE ATTROCIOUSLY TREATED.

THE TWO CAMPS WERE SEPARATED BY A DOUBLE ROW OF BARBED WIRE ENTANGLEMENTS. THE INTERNED AMERICANS, WHOSE BARRACK WINDOWS LOOKED OVER INTO THE OTHER CAMP, REPORTED THAT THEY SAW FRENCHMEN SHOT TO DEATH AN AVERAGE OF THREE OR FOUR TIMES WEEKLY.

IN THE FRENCH CAMP THEY SAID CONDITIONS OF ACTUAL STARVATION PREVAILED. ONE FRENCHMAN WORKED HIS WAY THROUGH THE BARBED WIRE EARLY ONE MORNING SIMPLY TO PICK UP POTATO PEELINGS LEFT AS REFUSE OUTSIDE THE AMERICAN BARRACKS. ON THE WAY BACK TO HIS OWN CAMP, HOWEVER, HE BECAME CAUGHT IN THE WIRE AND AMERICANS SAW HIM SHOT DEAD AS HE HUNG HELPLESSLY ENTANGLED, STILL GRIPPING THE PEELINGS.

FROM THE FORMERLY UNOCCUPIED ZONE.

THE FAMILIES HAD BEEN PREVIOUSLY ORDERED TO A MOUNTAIN TOWN IN SOUTHEAST FRANCE WHERE THEY HAD TO PAY FOR THEIR OWN MAINTENANCE AT [illegible] 180 FRANCS A HEAD DAILY. AS SOON AS THEY RAN OUT OF MONEY THEY WERE TAKEN TO THE AMERICAN CAMP AT COMPIEGNE WHERE A SEPARATE SECTION WAS WIRED OFF FOR THE WOMEN WHO WERE SEPARATED FROM THEIR HUSBANDS, FATHERS, SONS OR BROTHERS. IT WAS FORBIDDEN FOR ANYBODY TO APPROACH THE DIVIDING LINE FROM EITHER SIDE, AND WARNING SHOTS WERE IMMEDIATELY FIRED IN THE AIR IF THEY ATTEMPTED TO DO SO.

Compiegne was the only American civilian camp where internees were asked to volunteer for outside [illegible] work -- it was the only way to get outside. In return they might be allowed to stop at a cafe or trade with the local inhabitants on the way.

According to international regulations such work must only be of a nature relating to the camp, but internees reported that on one occasion, when sent to the station supposedly to unload camp supplies, they found they were unloading cases of hand grenades instead, and staged a strike.

As if to add to their troubles, the camp is in an industrial area and they often witnessed air battles overhead. On one of the four occasions that bombs fell on the camp, three persons were killed including the restaurant keeper "California Joe" who was well known to Paris habitues.

MAR 22 1944

The other German camp for Americans seized in France [illegible] is located at the watering resort of Vittel. Originally only for British and American women, it is being converted into a family camp where interned families are united as a special privilege.

MAR 22 1944

Here the internees are housed in hotels around the fenced off park containing the famous Vittel mineral springs. In the park is an arcade with shops now run by internees themselves to cater to internment necessities -- shoe-repairing, dress-making, stationery.

For Americans seized in Germany or elsewhere outside France there are three camps, all in Upper Bavaria. One is a camp for women at Liebenau, the other two are camps for men at Laufen and Tittmoning -- the latter a segregation camp for Jews, Polish-Americans, Negroes and nationals of Latin American countries.

All three are built on the same general plan -- an old castle or manor house with the rooms crudely fitted out as dormitories and mess halls and the grounds surrounded by barbed wire. MAR 22 1944

The internees count mainly on weekly American Red Cross prisoners' parcels for their food, and as a result eat considerably better than the Germans outside.

At Laufen the sports field is shared with internees deported from the German-captured British channel islands off the Norman coast. They are headed by American-born Robert Woodward Hathaway, Lord of Serk, known to the Channel Islanders as [illegible] actually only husband of the Dame of Serk Mrs. Sibyl Hathaway, A group of a hundred Badoglio Italians, under Count Marsano was also interned at Laufen.

Repatriated aboard the Gripsholm were 185 internees from Vittel, 68 from Compiegne, 28 83 from Liebenau, 31 from Laufen and 28 from Tittmoning. Twenty-four internees whom the Germans had promised to repatriate were not delivered, including Mr. Ng; an Lewis

Reds Capture Pervomaisk, Drive to Within Eight Miles of Nikolaev.

NIGHT

LONDON, Thursday, March 23—(AP) The Red army hurled back the Germans at the southeastern end of the Ukrainian battleline—the Nazis' easternmost extension in Russia—yesterday by capturing the important fortified railway junction of Pervomaisk, driving to the approaches of Voznesensk to the southeast and reaching a point eight miles from Nikolaev on the Bug estuary, Moscow announced today

On the northwestern end of the 500-mile line a fierce pitched battle with fresh German reserves flung in for a counter-attack resulted in the liquidation of detachments of two German guards divisions, the midnight Soviet communique said.

More than 1,000 men were killed and many prisoners and much booty captured in the battle, which the Russians located as near Podzamchye. Podzamchye, 13 miles east of Brody in old Poland, was reported captured last Sunday.

The late bulletin, recorded by the Soviet monitor, said hundreds of Germans were drowned in the Bug river when the Russians, in a two-day battle, cracked carefully erected German defenses around Pervomaisk. Moving in from the east and the south the Russians pinned the German garrison against the river and wiped out those who tried to hold on. Much war material and many prisoners were reported taken.

Pervomaisk is an important fortified railway junction which has been protecting the German withdrawal from the southern Ukraine.

To the southeast the Russians "engaged the enemy on the approaches of Voznesensk," a station on the Odessa-Cherkasy railway, 85 miles north-east of Odessa. One of the hamlets reported captured was Alexandrovka, nine miles north of Voznesensk.

The Russians closed in on Nikolaev from the north, east and south and had the Nazi defenders pinned back against wide estuary of the Bug river. Soviet troops pushing up from the south captured the town of Balabanovka, eight miles from Nikolaev's outskirts, it was announced in the Moscow daily communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Open Flanking Move

The Germans, meanwhile, announced that the Russians had launched a big flanking offensive in the strategic Proskurov-Tarnopol hinge position in the western Ukraine and Poland and had forced the Nazis to fall back before strong infantry and tank blows.

The fall of Pervomaisk was announced by Premier Stalin in an order of the day in which he described the town as "a powerful strongpoint in the German defenses on the central part of the southern Bug river." In peacetime a town of 50,000, Pervomaisk lies 100 miles northwest of Nikolaev and 120 miles north by Odessa. In recent days it has been a stubbornly-held position at the elbow of the Germans' extreme southern front, holding off Russians who have been trying to drive southward and westward.

The battle for Pervomaisk was mainly of infantry. The comparatively minor role taken by artillery and tanks was indicated in Stalin's naming only one tank commander and one artillery commander among ten generals cited for the victory.

The town was one of two main Nazi bastions on the eastern bank of the Bug barring the approach to Nikolaev and Odessa. The other is Vosnesensk 40 miles to the south and when that falls the Russians will have a relatively clear path to both Black sea cities.

Moscow was silent on the German-reported offensive in the important Proskurov-Tarnopol area, which joins the western and southern sections of the long Russian-German front, but this is often the case when a big Russian movement is under way.

The Russians reported advances throughout the southern front, taking more than four-score towns and villages on the various sectors.

The communique said several populated places were taken in a continuing advance westward in Poland toward Lwow. More towns were retaken in advances southwestward and southward from the Vinnitsa and Zhmerinka areas, and the big bridgehead on the right bank of the Dniester below Mogilev-Podolski was further expanded.

The Germans reported also that the Russians were attacking to the north in the region of the Polish town of Brody, where the Red Army is only fifty miles east of Lwow, a rail junction.

Berlin also reported that the Russian command was setting the stage for a concentrated blow in the region of Narva, Estonia, far to the north, declaring that the Russians had assembled there about 100 divisions — well over 1,000,000 men.

The Russian offensive from the Tarnopol area might well trap large German forces which have just been pulled out of the Vinnitsa region to the east. These forces now are at the bottom of a deep pocket which, according to Berlin, the Russians now are trying to close. To do this they would meet forces now on the banks of the Dniester at Mogilev-Podolski.

Pervomaisk Is Captured—Other Advances Reported in Stalin Order.

London, March 22 (A. P.).—Moscow announced tonight the capture of Pervomaisk, a strong point of German defenses on the Bug River northwest of Nikolaev, and of several towns around that Black Sea port, including Balabanovka, eight miles south of Nikolaev.

DAY

Further advances west and southwest of Kremenets and Vinnitsa, and south of Zhmerinka were related in the Russian communique, broadcast by Moscow and recorded here by the Soviet monitor. Marshal Stalin announced the capture of Pervomaisk in an order of the day.

Fall of this important German stronghold punched a segment out of the German line directly north of Odessa and added to the threat to the thousands of German troops in southern Russia. The station of Podgorodnoye, four miles above Pervomaisk, fell yesterday.

Pervomaisk was an important railway junction and powerful strongpoint in the German defenses on the central part of the southern Bug River, Stalin's order declared, and was captured after two days of stubborn fighting. In peacetime the city had a population of 50,000.

Meanwhile the Berlin radio declared Soviet armies were striking in a "great flanking attack" to break the Tarnopol-Proskurov line in support of their sweep to the southeast into Bessarabia and said the Soviets made some penetrations near Tarnopol.

The admission of gains near Tarnopol "in a southerly direction" possibly indicated that this great Nazi stronghold seventy-five miles southeast of Lwow was about to topple. Tarnopol was the stoutly held hinge of the German line stretching 500 miles into southern Russia. Proskurov is sixty miles east of Tarnopol.

The broadcast said the flanking assault here was in support of "enemy formations advancing in the direction of the Dniester." The Germans have not acknowledged the Russian crossing of the Dniester and plunge into Bessarabaria, which Moscow declared had knifed to within thirty miles of the Prut River border of Rumania.

Other Soviet forces striking southward were reported within forty-eight miles of the major escape road for the thousands of Germans in the Odessa bottleneck.

[Marshal Ivan Konev's forces have pushed the front to the borders of Rumania, a dispatch to the Moscow News, quoting an officer just returned by air from Bessarabia, declared today. Moscow considers the Prut River the border of Rumania. It was not clear whether the officer meant the Soviets already had reached the Prut, or were rolling the enemy back upon that river.]

Reinforced by masses of tanks and artillery pouring steadily across the Dniester River, the Russians slashed the Cernauti-Baltsky trunk railway in their advance toward the Prut, starting line for the southern wave of the 1941 German invasion. The Russian units sweeping southward toward the Odessa-Tiraspol-Iasi railway also struck to within twenty miles of another escape line for the Germans in the south.

About 330 more towns and villages fell yesterday.

The forces striking for Lwow, big Nazi communications hub in old Poland, had crashed into Lwow Province. The Russians were within fifty-six miles of Lwow itself. The Russians said the Nazis threw in an infantry division just arrived from Denmark, but several German counter-attacks were repulsed and 900 of the enemy were killed.

Nazis Report Big Battle.

A battle of unparalleled ferocity was declared by the Germans to be raging around Kovel, an important rail junction 100 miles north of Lwow on the road to Warsaw, but the report was without Soviet confirmation. Kovel is 500 miles from Berlin, the same distance as the Allied invasion forces massed in Britain.

Crashing through Bessarabia on a front now widened to fifty miles. The Russians have swept twenty-five miles west of Soroki, west bank Dniester town which fell Sunday.

As one Russian force swept southward in Bessarabia in a flanking movement on Odessa, Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky sent his Third Ukrainian Army through ninety-two more villages, hurling the Germans back toward the big Black Sea base from the north. German broadcasts indicated the Nazis were trying to disengage themselves from the attacking Russians in this sector. Nikolaev, Black Sea port sixty-five miles northeast of Odessa, already is encircled on its three land sides.

1,500 Tons of Explosives Dropped on Berlin; Nazi Fighters Not Encountered.

LONDON, Thursday, March 23—(AP) American heavy bombers, escorted by powerful fighter formations, struck Berlin through heavy flak yesterday, losing 13 bombers and nine fighters, and the R.A.F. followed up with a strong smash at Frankfurt and unspecified other German targets in the night.

The Berlin station said in a broadcast shortly after midnight that "strong British bomber formations tonight bombed places in the Rhineland." This enemy report was promptly confirmed in London, with identification of Frankfurt as the major objective. American heavy bombers had attacked the Frankfurt area Monday.

The American daylight attack yesterday on Berlin was the fifth in 19 days and the heavy bombers were estimated to have dropped 1,500 tons of explosives. They encountered no fighter opposition, but the flak was extremely heavy.

Heavy Fighter Protection

Six hundred Fortress and Liberators participated in yesterday's assault on Berlin. A communique said they were accompanied by "very strong" fighter formations indicating the escort was equal in number to the heavy bombers, or larger.

The R.A.F. night attack on Frankfurt was the 48th raid of the war on the Nazi chemical and engineering center.

A report early today from Stockholm said telephone communication between the Swedish city and Berlin had been broken since the American attack on the Nazi capital.

The assault was by "strong divisions" of Fortresses and Liberators, a communique from U. S. Army headquarters announced, adding that the planes "met no opposition from German fighters, although anti-aircraft fire over Berlin was intense."

The lack of aerial resistance was reflected in the announcement which, instead of telling of the shooting down of dozens of Nazi fighters, said only "one heavy bomber taking off from an airfield was destroyed by our fighters."

Military targets still standing in Berlin as well as factories and transportation facilities in the surrounding area were pounded by the big bombers, although some of the formations were forced to drop their explosives by instrument through thick clouds and could not observe results.

The American armada was estimated at between 500 and 750 bombers and between 750 and 1,000 escorting craft.

The communique said "very strong forces" of Mustang, Lightning and Thunderbolt fighters of both the Eighth and Ninth air forces took part in the raid.

Fighters Circle Berlin

These circled over Berlin for a considerable period, the announcement said, and later left the bombers to search for action elsewhere—strafing airdromes, railways and other targets in Germany and enemy vessels along the coast.

The capital's anti-aircraft batteries appeared to have been strengthened since the last daylight raid March 9, crewmen said.

Several fliers reported seeing bombers broken in two over the target by flak. One U. S. bomber was forced down on the island of Gotland, Sweden, the Swedish radio announced.

Through occasional breaks in the clouds crewmen said they saw hundreds of fires in Berlin and the billowing black smoke from these added to the darkness over the city.

Passengers arriving in Stockholm by plane from Berlin said today's raid was the "severest" on the capital since the U. S. airforce began knocking out Berlin's industry. They said great fires were visible in the city, especially to the north, and that Oranienburg appeared badly hit.

These passengers, who said the alarm lasted approximately an hour, also reported the industrial district of Tegel, northwest of Berlin, was hit. The mammoth Rhein-Mettal-Borsig armament plant is located there.

One of the returning airmen, Capt. Harold Thoreson of San Bernardo, Calif., said "it was a marvelous sight to see hundreds of Fortresses pouring bombs out like tipping a barrel of apples." Staff Sgt. Robert A. Lalumiere, Haverhill, Mass., said "I don't think there's a hell of a lot left of Berlin. Hitler must have moved."

It has lately been noticed that the Luftwaffe has been defending southern German cities more fiercely than those in the north, creating speculation that war industries have been shifted southward to be farther from British bombing bases.

As the heavies drove to Berlin, Allied medium bombers continued their unrelenting pounding of the Pas-de-Calais area on the "rocket coast" of France. Last night, British Mosquito bombers executed their 12th straight night mission in bombing western German targets without loss.

Stockholm Describes Assault as Severest Yet Made by Americans.

DAY

FIFTH SUCH GREAT ATTACK

Thunderbolts, Lightnings and Mustangs Accompany Flying Fortresses and Liberators.

MAR 23 1944

London, March 22 (A. P.).—Berlin was bombed in daylight today, for the fifth time this month, by a strong force of United States Liberators and Flying Fortresses, which met intense flak, but little fighter opposition.

[Travelers arriving in Stockholm on planes which had left Berlin after the American raid in force reported that it was the severest yet made upon the German capital by the heavy United States bombers.]

An estimated 1,500 tons of high explosives and incendiaries were cast down through clouds by between 500 and 750 bombers, supported by from 750 to 1,000 hunderbolt, Lightning and Mustang fighters. Black bursts of anti-aircraft followed the bombers all the way in from the coast of Germany, but otherwise the 600-mile trip seemed to follow the pattern of the last raid on March 9, when the German Air Force failed to give battle and when seven bombers and one fighter failed to get back.

Industrial and military installations in the German capital district were today's targets, American Headquarters announced. This was the fifth United States heavy bomber attack against Berlin.

Lightning fighter planes started the United States visits with an offensive sweep on March 3. A small force of Flying Fortresses bombed the Berlin district the next day and on March 6 about 850 heavy bombers dropped 2,000 tons of bombs on special targets there. Several hundred bombers made return visits on March 8 and 9.

Few Nazi Fighters Aloft.

Mustang pilots who first came racing back from the Berlin raid reported that they saw only a couple of enemy fighters, though they ran into the most intense flak experienced in any raid on Berlin. Several times the pilots said that they shot through barrages of red marker flak, usually sent up to guide German fighters, but still they encountered no Nazi aircraft.

"We met flak all the way, which was unusual," said Lieut. Glen T. Eagleston of Alhambra, Cal., who has been to Berlin five times. "Generally they take pot-shots at us fighters and then don't bother us until we meet the bombers, but today we had flak even before the rendezvous."

With today's assault, it was estimated that between 2,700 and 3,000 American bombers have been over the German capital this month, dropping approximately 6,000 tons of high explosives and incendiaries. One hundred and three heavy bombers have been lost in these Berlin attacks, not including today's operation.

In addition to the wounds left in the capital of the Reich, the heavy planes and their escorts downed at least 301 fighters badly needed by the Germans, according to official compilations. The journey to Berlin was the seventeenth operation of the month for the Eighth Air Force heavies—one short of the record of eighteen major missions established in February.

R. A. F. Sows Mines.

Mosquito bombers struck in western Germany last night. The Royal Air Force's overnight operations, which included the laying of mines in enemy waters, were carried out without the loss of a single plane, the Air Ministry reported.

The German radio declared this morning that Allied heavy bombers, presumably American Fortresses and Liberators, had roared into northwestern Germany. English coastal observers reported several contingents of medium bombers thundering toward the cliffs of France, which were visible in clear weather.

About 100 German warplanes subjected London to a sharp attack last night, causing casualties and damage in a number of districts in the heaviest assault upon the city since the fire raid of March 17. Bombs also were dropped at scattered points in East Anglia and southeastern England by the raiders, nine of which were shot down, a communique said.

The planes which attacked London struck in three waves from the northeast and southeast and were greeted by a thunderous barrage which reared a new window-rattling peak in some areas.

Mobile 40-millimeter cannon operated by United States troops as well as American batteries of 90-millimeter guns added their barks to the din set up by the British anti-aircraft defenses.

Bombs Dumped in Suburbs.

British night figters and the heavy barrage apparently forced many attackers to jettison bombs haphazardly in the London suburbs, but many nevertheless fell in the city. Rescue workers believed that the death list would not be nearly as heavy as in some February raids.

The Nazis used a pathfinder technic, the first planes over the city dropping scores of flares to light up the target. Both incendiaries and high explosives were unloaded by the raiders.

Call Raid Severest Yet

STOCKHOLM, March 22 (AP).—Passengers arriving by plane from Berlin said today's daylight American attack on the German capital was the "severest" since the United States Air Force began its assault on Berlin's industry.

The raid alarm was sounded at 12:05 p. m., and lasted approximately an hour. The Berlin-Stockholm plane was delayed three hours by the attack.

As the plane left the capital, passengers said, they could see great fires in various parts of the city, especially toward the north. Oranienburg appeared badly hit. The passengers said the industrial district of Tegel to the northwest of Berlin, where the mammoth Rhein-Mettal Borsig plant is situated, also was hit.

DAY

Raid Warning

London, March 22 (AP)—The American bomber fleet which hit Berlin today flashed a radio warning while en route that the attack was coming and urgently advised citizens of two districts to evacuate immediately, the Daily Herald said in a dispatch from Stockholm.

NIGHT

Sixty minutes before the bombers and their fighter escorts reached Berlin, it said, this warning was sent out:

"We are coming. Our targets will be in the northern and Wedding (northwestern) districts of Berlin. Evacuate those districts at once."

Every few minutes the warning was repeated, the dispatch said.

Bebe Helps In Raid

MAR 23 1944

London, March 22 (AP)—A large piece of the last big London raid centered near the home of Bebe Daniels and Lieut. Col. Ben Lyon, former Baltimore film star, who have won laurels in Britain. Bebe served tea during and after the raid to 150 firemen and had the house filled with wounded civilians.

Incidentally, Bebe's version of "Panama Hattie" is about the only show in London which has refused to start its night performance earlier since the raids resumed. Other shows and plays moved the last show time up an hour as business fell off, but Bebe's idea was, "Why should we give the Germans the satisfaction of knowing they forced us to change performances just because we might have a raid?"

JIMMY STEWART TAKES PART IN BERLIN RAID

A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN BRITAIN, March 22 — (AP) Maj. James Stewart, film star turned airman, first visited Berlin today, commanding a Liberator combat wing.

DAY

After completing his 11th raid since arriving in the European theater, Stewart said: "The flak was heavy and fighter support swell. I saw a few enemy planes, but they kept their distance."

Asked if the mission was any more unusual than others, he exclaimed:

"Unusual? Of course. We hit Berlin, didn't we?"

Germans Begin Hourly Reports On Air Raids

London, March 22 (AP) — The German radio began a schedule of "hourly reports" on air raids today.

Here is a log of the air-raid broadcasts as recorded by the Associated Press:

GERMAN RAIDERS ATTACK LONDON

WHITE

LONDON, March 22.—(AP) German raiders returned to London tonight while the sprawling British capital still was cleaning up the damage caused by the attack of more than 100 Nazi planes early today.

NIGHT

The return visit, however, was of minor consequence and the alert, early in the night, lasted only half an hour.

Flares were dropped in one district of the capital and in southern England, indicating the small-scale effort may have been an armed reconnaissance mission, since the Nazis seldom brave daylight for "spying" on the island.

Only a few of the planes reached the metropolitan section and one was destroyed.

The early morning assault, causing many casualties and fires, was delivered in greater strength than the Nazis had employed last week, but the enemy lost at least ten planes.

London's people dug with quiet urgency into the wreckage for their dead.

The German news agency DNB claimed that Nazi pilots had used a new trick to break through London's strong defenses and asserted, "the battle of London continues. We shall come again."

THIS MOON WAS STRICTLY GERMAN

London, March 22 (A. P.).—The latest boner of Paul Joseph Goebbels's Nazi Propaganda Ministry provided bombed Londoners with a grin. To stress the damage done, the German radio said the pilots could clearly see the targets in "bright moonlight." The raid started and ended before the moon popped up at 10:53 P. M.

"The Luftwaffe has something really good now," grinned an apartment porter. "They bring their own moon with them."

Bombs Damage Harrow

LONDON, March 21 (AP).—Historic Harrow—Winston Churchill's school—was damaged by a fire-bomb shower in a recent night raid, it was announced today. The head master's house, the chapel, war memorial and gymnasium were among the buildings damaged. There were no casualties.

Antenna Wire Used To Bring 'Fort' Home

United States Bomber Base in Britain, March 22 (AP)—A Fortress piloted by Lieut. Clarence A. Strawn, Pueblo, Col., returned safely from a raid on southern Germany, thanks to the resourcefulness of Engineer Sergeant Howard Carey, Ocean View, Del., who patched shredded rubber control cables with bits of antenna wire and cord from an electrically heated flying suit.

Carey came to the rescue when the Fortress was pitching wildly after a battle with German fighters in which one of the engines was knocked out and the rudder cables cut.

"I think Carey could build a Fortress out of match sticks and rubber bands," Strawn declared.

FOUR FLYERS HONORED

DAY

London, March 22 (A. P.).—Four crew members of the flying fortress "Squakin' Hawk Second" have been decorated for heroism—one posthumously—for bringing their riddled ship home through savage Nazi fire from Stuttgart last September.

The Distinguished Service Cross was awarded Capt. Sumner H. Reeder of St. Louis, Mo., pilot; Lieut. Russell W. Engel, Clarissa, Minn., navigator, and Flying Officer Harry E. Eddeburn of Brockroad, Va., co-pilot, who was mortally wounded. Sergt. Harold L. Pipe of Emerson, Neb., engineer and gunner was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Mosquitos Now Carry 2-Ton Block Busters

London, March 22 (AP)—Some of Britain's 400-mile an hour Mosquito bombers which disturb Germany nightly now can carry two-ton blockbusters, an RAF commentator said today.

DAY

The all-wooden planes were designed originally for 1,000-pound bomb loads.

The nightly Mosquito incursions into Germany generally are in forces of from 12 to 20 planes. The commentator said the Mosquitos had flown 200 daylight sorties this year through March 17, striking deep into Europe seeking stray planes in the air and attacking German airfields.

NAZIS EXTENDING GRIP OVER SHAKY BALKAN NATIONS

KASISCHKE

RUMANIA NERVOUS

Nazis Follow Hungary Move by Pushing Into Bulgaria, Rumania.

LONDON, March 22.—(AP) With Hungary occupied and a puppet government established, Germany was reported tonight extending a stranglehold over neighboring satellites in a feverish rush to construct a fortress-within-a-fortress against the Russians westward surge and other Allied threats.

NIGHT

"A general mobilization of all southeastern Europe" was the announced aim. The Germans followed up their plunge into Hungary, where Nazi bayonets erected a Quisling premier to direct a fuller Hungarian part in the German war effort, by penetrating into Bulgaria, Rumania and Slovakia, said dispatches from neutral capitals.

Germany's seizure of once-favored, but often recalcitrant Hungary was officially told by the Berlin radio today, and tonight it declared "German troops are still arriving." The first announcement said the Hungarian government had resigned and that the Nazi forces "arrived in Hungary as the result of a mutual understanding."

The radio tonight said there was no resistance to the occupation, but castigated a "small group of anti-German politicians who provoked a war of nerves."

"These anti-German politicians and crowd of Jews have now to be alarmed about what will happen to them," the broadcaster threatened.

The German-controlled Budapest radio told the Hungarian people that Regent Nicholas Horthy, widely reported under Nazi detention since the German invasion early Monday, had sworn in the new pro-Nazi cabinet in the ceremonial hall of the Royal Castle late today.

Coupled with reports that the Germans might take similar action elsewhere in southeast Europe, was an Ankara dispatch which said "there is every sign Rumania may send one of her generals across Bessarabia's mud any day now to ask for an armistice from the Soviet command."

The grey-clad Nazi legions marched in, said a Hungarian news agency communique broadcast by the German radio, "in order to assist Hungary against the common enemy x x x in particular to intensify an effective struggle against Bolshevism by the mobilization of all energy x x x."

[Paul Archinard, NBC correspondent, said in a message from Switzerland that Admiral Horthy was reliably reported imprisoned at Koenigsberg. He said also that it was understood in Switzerland that Maygar resistance against the Germans is stiffening.]

Sztojay New Premier

The broadcast said Doeme Sztojay, a former Hungarian army officer and Hungarian minister to Berlin, had been named to head a new puppet government. DNB later announced that, to keep him in line, Hitler had appointed Dr. Edmund Veehsenmayer as "minister and trustee of the greater German Reich in Hungary."

30. 24 - 14019

Berlin declared Sztojay had been charged with the formation of the new government by Regent Nicholas Horthy. No mention, however, was made of the whereabouts of Horthy, previously reported to have been held in Germany, along with two other Hungarian officials, when the Germans struck across the Hungarian border Sunday, and prevented from returning to his country.

As the official news of the occupation went out, neutral capitals were reporting the German army rolling southeast across Hungary — which apparently could muster only sporadic opposition to the Nazis—into Transylvania and the Carpathians, with reserves entering Rumania to form a new defense line behind the back-pedalling Nazi armies in Russia.

Middle East reports to London said the Germans were swinging their power to the southeast — leaving only a skeleton force occupying key points in Budapest and other strategic centers — and were feverishly constructing a defense line to cover Bucharest and the vital Ploesti oil fields in Rumania.

(Bulgarian communications services already are under German control, and Hitler is expected shortly to place Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary under the unified command of a German commander in chief, said the Ankara radio.)

The first outspoken opposition to Sztojay's regime — which dropped from Premier Nicholas Von Kallay's cabinet virtually every member considered a moderate, and retained those known as pro-Nazi — came from the Hungarian legation in Stockholm, which announced it would not recognize any government Horthy appointed.

The 60-year-old Sztojay, long known for his strong pro-Nazi views, has been Hungary's envoy to Berlin since 1935. Educated to become a professional soldier, he was a member of the Austro-Hungarian general staff in the last World War.

Berlin Says New Government Is Taking Over in Hungary

Asserts Sztojay Is Forming a Cabinet—Rumania and Bulgaria Reported Menaced by Hitler's Moves

DAY

London, March 22 (A. P.).—The Berlin radio, in its first account of the Hungarian crisis, said tonight that the Hungarian Government had resigned and that German troops "arrived in Hungary as the result of a mutual understanding."

The broadcast said that Doeme Sztojay, former Hungarian Minister to Berlin, had been charged by Regent Nicholas Horthy with the formation of a new government. It made no mention of rumors that Admiral Horthy himself was held prisoner by the Germans.

[The Budapest radio said tonight that "enemy planes are over southern Germany" and later that Budapest itself "is in an air raid danger zone." The broadcasts were heard in New York.]

German troops, already in control in Hungary, were reported moving today to extend full military occupation to Bulgaria and Rumania, and the Turkish radio expressed the view that Adolf Hitler soon would place all three countries under one command "to intensify the German war effort in southeast Europe."

Advices from neutral capitals indicated the Nazi divisions were seizing strategic military and civil administration centers with all the speed and ruthlessness that characterized German troop movements at the start of the war. Except for minor cases of resistance, the occupying forces apparently were having things all their own way.

The Bulgarian Cabinet was said by the Ankara radio to have met in prolonged session yesterday to discuss German demands for active help in the Nazi war against Russia. Bulgaria, at war with Britain and the United States, never has interrupted relations with Russia, long her friend and champion.

London morning newspapers published dispatches saying that it was reported there that Premier Ion Antonescu of Rumania was planning to seek an armistice with Russia, whose troops already are surging deeply into Bessarabia. Rumania was believed ready to renounce all claim to Bessarabia as one of the armistice conditions, these dispatches said.

Nazis Control Hungary.

A flood of reports about the situation in Hungary agreed on one point only—that 100,000 German troops now completely dominate the country with full control of all railways and communications. There were indications the Nazis were attempting to set up a Quisling regime in Budapest under Bela Imredi.

[The Stockholm radio, in a broadcast recorded by United States Government monitors, today reported continued fighting on the Hungarian-Rumanian border between Hungarian and Rumanian troops. Fighting developed into actual battles at some points, especially in Arad and Nagy-Varad when the Rumanians tried to cross the frontier, the broadcast said.]

[Russian planes flew over eastern and southern Hungary last night, but dropped no bombs, the Hungarian MTI agency said today. Its broadcast to European newspapers was heard by United States Government monitors.]

Berlin itself remained silent about what is proposed in the Balkans, although a Foreign Office spokesman indirectly intimated military occupation of the entire area might be proposed.

"Before present political developments aimed at strenghtening German defense forces there have been concluded no German statement may be expected," he said, adding: "Germany's Allies must now assume burdens equal to those borne by Germany."

As in the case of Hungary, swiftly occupied in a thirty-six-hour coup early in the week, information about the situation in Rumania and Bulgaria was confused. The London Daily Mail said it was believed in Ankara that occupation of Rumania was imminent, if not actually in progress, and quoted unconfirmed reports that four German motorized divisions and several divisions of infantry were advancing toward Bucharest.

To Name Commander Shortly.

An Ankara broadcast said the Germans had seized control of Bulgarian postal and telegraph offices.

An Associated Press dispatch from Ankara said the entire German Southeastern Defense Command was being tightened under command of a German general whose name was expected to be announced shortly. This dispatch quoted the correspondent of a Turkish newspaper as declaring "these measures are much more important than they might appear."

CHURCHILL ASKED ABOUT CHARTER

LONG

Premier Says Clarification Of Document Is Necessary

London, March 22 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill will deliver a broadcast to Britain Sunday, March 26, at 9 P. M. (4 P. M. E.W.T.), it was announced tonight. Churchill's talk also will be beamed to America.

London, March 22 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill, under increasing fire over the Atlantic Charter, said today that there must be new consultations on the subject among the big powers.

Although the Prime Minister did not say what form these new consultations might take, his carefully chosen words left open the possibility of a second Roosevelt-Churchill-Stallin meeting.

NIGHT

The statement was made in the House of Commons, where some members tried for the second time in two weeks to put the whole question of the Atlantic Charter into open debate and to raise the issues of post-war borders.

Churchill made it clear that he regards the charter as a living doctrine which must be adapted and expanded.

Clarification Wanted

"It is evident," Churchill said, "that as the changing phases of the war succeed one another, some further clarifications will be required of the position under the document which has become honorably known as the Atlantic Charter, and that this must be a subject for renewed consultation between the principal Allies.

"I am not prepared to embark on this subject at question time today further than to state that the Atlantic Charter stands as a declaration of the spirit and purpose in which its signatories are waging this war—not without success—and that it implies no pact or bargain with our enemies."

Churchill's statement left no doubt that Russia would be in on the discussions.

Russian Claims Indorsed

As shown from the tone of most of the questions hurled from the floor of the Commons, the issue is whether recent Government statements imply that the charter has been jettisoned. Britain has tacitly indorsed Russian claims to the western Ukraine and the Moscow tentative offer to Poland of territory in the west to be pared from Germany.

The second clause of the charter expressed "the desire to see no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the people concerned."

Both Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden have answered a flat "no" to questions in Commons whether this also is to be applied to border modifications of defeated enemy countries.

Churchill Tells Commons Principal Allies Will Renew Consultations.

CITES CHANGING CONDITIONS

Eden Asserts Moscow Is Being Asked Why London Was Not Consulted on Italy.

DAY

London, March 22 (A. P.—Prime Minister Churchill told Commons today that there would be "renewed consultation between the principal Allies" on the application of the Atlantic Charter under the changing phases of the war.

Mr. Churchill did not elaborate whether these consultations might take the form of a new meeting of the Allied "Big Three"—as has been rumored.

His reference to the Atlantic Charter—on which he only last week refused to schedule an open debate in Commons—arose when Member Daniel Lipson asked for a clarifying statement "in view of the doubts which existed as to what territories the principles of the Atlantic Charter were to apply."

"It is evident that as the changing phases of the war succeed one another, some further clarifications will be required of the position under the document which has become honorably known as the Atlantic Charter" Mr. Churchill replied, "and that this must be a subject for renewed consultation between the principal Allies."

Parries Questions.

"I am not prepared to embark on this subject at question time today further than to state that the Atlantic Charter stands as a declaration of the spirit and purpose in which its signatories are waging this war—not without success—and that it implies no pact or bargain with our enemies," Mr. Churchill said.

Mr. Lipson asked: "May we take it that means that the support of the Government to the principles of the Atlantic Charter remains as strong today as when the document was drawn up?"

"I said I was not prepared to embark on this subject at question time further than to make the particular statement I have made," Mr. Churchill replied, "but it implies no contradiction of the question that I do not wish to add to what I have said."

Mr. Churchill made no further comment after Laborite Geoffrey Mander asked: "Will you make it perfectly clear that we shall not have to go down on our knees and ask for German consent to any alteration of her prewar boundaries?"

MAR 23 1944

Eden Questioned.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons today that the "whole question" of the mechanism for administering French territory when it is liberated "is now under examination by the Britsih Government and the United States Government."

He replied to a query by Frederick Seymour Cocks, Laborite member, who also asked whether Mr. Eden had "seen the statement from Washington that President Roosevelt has already come to a decision on this subject?"

President Roosevelt told Washington reporters March 17 he had arrived at a decision three days before on the French situation, but he gave no clew to the decision or its trends.

"I do not think Mr. Cocks's underlying assumption is correct," Mr. Eden replied, "the two governments are examining the position together. Whatever we say and do we shall say and do together."

The Foreign Secretary was similarly wary in replying to a wide range of questions dealing with foreign policy. He declined to go into any detailed discussion of the Yugoslav situation.

He said "the British Government is in communication with the Soviet Government concerning establishment of diplomatic relations between Moscow and the Badoglio regime in Italy" and is inquiring why the British Government "was not consulted beforehand."

TOJO CALLS JAPS' POSITION GRAVE

London, March 22 (A. P.).—Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo told the Japanese Diet today that Japan's military position in the last few months has become grave and the empire now is facing battles which will decide its fate, the Berlin radio said today.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said Tojo appeared before the Diet when it reconvened for a final three-day plenary session after a lengthy decess.

DAY

Tojo told the Diet:

"Through heroism, Japanese soldiers have been able to ward off the first onslaught of the Americans, but new attacks must be expected from this stubborn and tough enemy, who bases his plans on material superiority. These new attacks are likely to be launched with greater weight than anything experienced so far. The war situation is truly grave."

He said the home front was just as important as the fighting front and added:

"Final victory can be won only if our strategic measures are put into effect ruthlessly and if, at the same time, all the material and spiritual strength of the nation is summoned up for the war effort. The military strength of the nation—especially in the air—is growing, but the tense war situation does not permit a moment's delay."

NAZI ADMITS POLES ARE OUT OF HAND

London, March 22 (A. P.).—Hans Frank, Nazi Governor-General of Poland, admits that the German police no longer can keep order in that country, the Polish Telegraph Agency reported here today. The news bureau said that Frank called upon Germans in Poland to organize self-defense units against "the danger which threatens German colonists," adding that the uniformed German police need help in facing such events.

Eire Urged To Boost Food, Fuel Production

London, March 22 (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, warning citizens of neutral Eire of the risk entailed in depending on supplies of essential commodities from abroad during wartime, today urged increased production of fuel and food at home.

Without mentioning a possibility of economic sanctions as a result of Eire's rejection of the United States request to oust Axis diplomats, de Valera said in a broadcast over the Dublin radio:

"Everyone knows a city can be reduced by starvation, no less than by the sword. It should not be necessary at this stage of the war to warn anyone of the terrible risk we run in depending for any essential commodity on supplies from abroad."

NIGHT

He said Eire produced only enough wheat for a seven-month home supply, and urged each farmer to sow an acre and a half for each acre planted last year. He also called for a doubling of production of turf for fuel.

Story Relative To Slight In Dublin Brings Denial

London, March 22 (AP)—M. Macnamara, general secretary of the Irish Red Cross, denied today that David Gray, United States Minister to Eire, was excluded from an Irish Red Cross function at Dublin Castle St. Patrick's night, which Japanese and German envoys attended.

NIGHT

Macnamara's statement, which referred to a story on the Eire-Allied situation written March 20 by Roger D. Greene, Associated Press correspondent, after an eight-day stay in Dublin, said:

"It has been circulated by your agency that a function was held in Dublin on St. Patrick's night at which Japanese and German representatives were present but the American Minister was not invited.

No Invitations Issued

"This statement is false and should be contradicted. The function was held to raise funds for the society and therefore there were no invitations issued to anybody. Hundreds of prominent citizens and all foreign representatives in Dublin were sent circulars notifying them of the holding of the function and enclosing an application form for tickets.

"No application for tickets was received from the American Minister. I have learned that your special representative who has now circulated this story was informed of these facts on March 18."

British Sub Commander Gets American Award

London, March 22 (AP)—The British submarine commander—Lieut. Norman Limbury Auchenleck Jewell—who took Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark to North Africa on a secret mission before the United States Army landed in 1942, was decorated today by Admiral Harold R. Stark.

NIGHT

The Legion of Merit was awarded him "for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services" to the United States during the landing on Sicily.

RUSSIAN VIEWS U. S. POLITICS

Red Star Writer Discusses Presidential Race.

DAY

Moscow, March 22 (A. P.).—The Russian people were given their first press discussion of American presidential possibilities for 1944 today in an article in Red Star, organ of the Red Army.

Political writer Maxim Mendelson quoted New York's Wall Street Journal as predicting President Roosevelt's renomination and election, the election of a Republican Congress and as forecasting that the presidential campaign would be based on foreign policy while the congressional campaign would be based on domestic issues.

[The Wall Street Journal said today it had made no predictions concerning the November elections, adding that the article in Red Star evidently referred to a story from Washington last September which said the consensus of the nation's Congressmen was that President Roosevelt would be the Democratic candidate in 1944 and that he had better than an even chance of re-election.]

On Republican Contest.

Mr. Mendelson said that Wendell Willkie and Thomas E. Dewey had strong, active backers and that a deadlock might occur which would result in the Republican nomination of a dark horse.

"Until recently Willkie usually agreed with Roosevelt on foreign policy and the conduct of the war and was considered an enemy of isolation. The approaching election will show that deep changes will take place in Willkie's position," Mr. Mendelson wrote. He did not detail these changes.

Gov. Dewey, Mr. Mendelson said, "is a man of great silence, but according to the press he is the most popular man among the Republicans. Dewey has not announced his candidacy, but this usually doesn't mean anything.

"Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio is not so popular as Willkie. He has made but few statements on politics in general, but he still has a chance foir the nomination."

No Threat to Democrats.

The writer touched on Senator Alben Barkley's brief resignation as Senate Majority Leader and the overriding of the veto on the tax bill, but said, "it is obvious this will have little effect n the Democratic convention."

Reviewing congressional action on the soldiers' vote, the writer said the Republicans were against it because they obviously feared the majority of the soldiers would vote for the President."

Mr. Mendelson put a bracket after this declaration, saying, "It is quite typical that Gov. Dewey protested against this."

Discussing Mr. Roosevelt's chances, Mr. Mendelson said, "One may assume that the nomination of Roosevelt is even more plausible than in 1940. Then his candidacy was opposed by th third term tradition. It is clear than in 1944 such a formal reason against his candidacy will not play an important role."

Further Finn-Russian Talks Held Unlikely

Moscow, March 22 (AP)—Further peace conversations between Moscow and Helsinki appeared unlikely today in the wake of an official Soviet announcement warning Finland that she must bear responsibility for whatever may happen, as a result of her failure to accept Russian armistice proposals.

The Finnish Gove's decision to reject a So -point plan was announced to the Russian people last night by the Moscow radio, which said "a negative reply" had been received from Helsinki on March 17.

CASSINO

Finns Held Responsible

"Thereby the Finnish Government has taken upon itself entire responsibility for the consequences," declared the announcement, which was issued by the Soviet Foreign Office.

There was no indication what those consequences would be, but they could take the form of an all-out Russian offensive against Finland, coupled with air and sea action, now that the Baltic fleet at Leningrad is freed from blockade.

Negotiations Reviewed

The statement by the Foreign Office reviewed the diplomatic exchange with Finland, starting with the publication March 1 of the Soviet terms, which are regarded here as generous.

DAY

(Dispatches from Stockholm quoted Swedish press correspondents in Berlin as saying the Germans predicted the Russian announcement would be followed by a new Red army offensive in Estonia designed to clean up the Baltic states, which—if successful—would place Finland in a hopeless military situation. These advices said the Russians were reported to have concentrated 100 divisions on the Narva front in preparation for such a drive.)

COUNTER ATTACKS FAIL

Germans Say Military Installations to Be Taken from Rome.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 22 — (AP) Allied infantrymen, fighting with everything from flamethrowers to bush knives, advanced slowly tonight against bitter German resistance and severe terrain handicaps in the battle for Cassino and the eastern slopes of Monastery Hill.

Field guns supported the foot troops from close range.

The Germans were ejected from several more of the fortified buildings at the southwestern corner of the ruined town and Fifth Army troops wired and mined the newly captured areas to prevent enemy infiltration.

(North of Cassino, German troops made a sustained, five-hour attack Wednesday morning against Allied troops on Castle Hill, but were repulsed, the British roadio announced in a broadcast recorded by CBS.

("As the German troops made desperate efforts to climb the hill," it said, "Allied rifle and machine-gun fire held them back. At the same time about 20 German fighter planes were sent over to straf Allied rear areas.")

Allied artillery was hauled up today to blast point-blank at fanatic German parachute troops clinging to the ruins of the Continental Hotel and a half-dozen other buildings at the southern edge of Cassino as the fight for the Nazi stronghold rose to its wildest pitch.

Behind this raking fire, battle-hardened New Zealand infantry slogged forward foot-by-foot, often engaging in fierce hand-to-hand combat. At the end of a week of savage fighting the Germans still were resisting with a ferocity that has characterized their defense of the road to Rome.

Counter Attacks Smashed

Fighting fully as bitter raged on the steep slopes of Monastery Hill west of Cassino, from which German guns and mortars pumped terrific fire into the battle areas. Two more Nazi counter-attacks against Allied-held Castle Hill, directly above the rubble of Cassino, were flung back today.

(The German-controlled Rome radio announced that the Nazis would withdraw all military installations from Rome and "further deviate" military traffic from the Eternal City "so that responsibility for bombing Rome will remain entirely with the Allies." The Germans declared Rome an open city last Aug. 14, when they said all military installations had been withdrawn.

Describing the swirling battle laid out before him, Lynn Heinzerling of the Associated Press wrote at 4:40 p. m., today: "The flashes of Allied shells could be seen as they exploded in the German-held portion of Cassino immediately at the base of Monastery Hill. Clouds of smoke drifted over the town and valley as the battle grew in intensity without any major chance in positions."

He said about 30 more German prisoners were taken today, bringing to 268 the total seized in a week of hard fighting. Allied observers estimated that at least three German companies were wiped out in last Wednesday's huge air and artillery bombardment of Cassino's defenses. In subsequent fighting other Nazi companies were believed to have been reduced to a handful of men.

Today's Allied communique described the current fighting as "very heavy," It again was necessary to parachute food, water and ammunition to Indian troops isolated on a plateau halfway up Monastery hill.

It is conceeded here that no quick break-through into the Liri valley leading to Rome is in sight, but Allied troops are fighting with a determination that promises eventual success.

American and British troops on the Anzio beachhead appear to be safe against any further all-out German attempt to drive them into the sea.

Allied medium-bombers and fighters flew about 800 sorties yesterday in weather that grounded the four-engined fleet, losing four planes and destroying an equal number of enemy craft.

CASSINO FIGHT RAGING WILDLY

HEINZERLING

Nazis Counter-attack Twice —Artillery Duel On.

DAY

With the Fifth Army at Cassino, March 22 (A. P.).—The fight for the ruins of Cassino developed into the wildest battle of the Italian campaign today with two German counter-attacks against Castle Hill, behind the town; New Zealanders slugging it out in the streets, and German and Allied mortar and artillery shells landing within a few hundred yards of each other. Allied guns were brought up to fire at direct range upon the Continental Hotel, in which the Germans managed to reinstall themselves after once being driven out.

The hotel area and entire south end of town held by the Germans were brought under this fire. The Germans indicated their concern over the situation by sending a large formation of planes to attack communications in the rear of the Fifth Army's line. Allied planes took up the chase.

The flashes of Allied shells could be seen as they exploded in the German-held portion of the town, immediately at the base of Monastery Hill. Clouds of smoke drifted over the town and valley as the battle grew in intensity, without any major change in positions.

The first German attack against Castle Hill, held by New Zealanders, was launched at 5:30 A. M., but was broken up by Allied artillery and mortar shells, plumped upon the Germans' route, from the Anglo-American stronghold on Hill 165. About thirty more German prisoners were taken.

Picture of Battle Area

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY AT CASSINO, March 22 (AP)—This is the scene of the battle of Cassino:

Highway No. 6 enters Cassino from a little south of due east. The highway crosses the Rapido River, which flows north and south at this point, about a half mile before the town is reached. Here American engineers have constructed a bridge.

As the highway reaches the city limits, a broad road forks off to the left while the highway continues straight through the extreme southern part of the town to the base of Abbey Hill. It is at this end of the highway and in the triangle formed by the road forking to the left that the heaviest fighting is under way. The Continental Hotel is somewhere near the end of the highway before it turns sharply south on the way around Abbey Hill.

After traveling through the town to the base of the hill, the highway runs almost due south for about a half mile and then swings in an arc around Abbey Hill toward the west and continues in a northwestern direction toward Rome. The coliseum and amphitheatre are between the highway and Abbey Hill just before the road swings around to the west. The coliseum is closer to the road. The ducal castle is on the opposite side of the road, almost directly across from the coliseum. The castle fronts on the highway.

The only portion of Highway 6 held by the Allied troops is that portion entering the town from the east up to a point in the town itself. The triangle formed by the road forking to the left contains a number of large buildings and is criss-crossed by streets in the wider part near the base of the hill

'The Cause Of God'

Allied Headquarters in Italy, March 22 (AP)—A young American lay minister who pilots a Liberator bomber today expressed his personal attitude toward bombardments by asserting that "the cause of freedom is the cause of God."

The pilot is Lieut. Norman O. Richards, 25, of Oakland, Cal., where he used to conduct services at the Montclair Presbyterian Church, although he is not an ordained minister. He leads church services every Sunday night in the offices' mess hall of the 15th Air Force Squadron in Italy.

"As one who preaches the gospel," Richards said, "I find myself perplexed. Here we are dropping death and destruction upon innocent people as well as the guilty, which is in direct disobedience of the commandments 'Thou shalt not kill.'

DAY

"I am aware o fthis and pray we shall be forgiven our ignorance for not having the insight to solve today's conflict except by fighting and killing. Therefore I am forced to do my utmost to fight for the preservation of what I believe is right. I know the cause of freedom is the cause of God."

FLYERS BAG NAZIS ATTACKING CUBS

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 22 (A. P.).—A flight of American Spitfire flyers over Cassino caught four Messerschmitts attacking two Piper Cub artillery observation planes.

Two of the Messerschmitts were shot down by Lieut. Richard F. Hurd of 37 Main street, Tarrytown, N. Y., which gave him a grand total of six enemy planes destroyed—and the title of "ace." Lieut. James A. Jacobs of Fall River, Mass., and Lieut. Lawrence N. Guarino of 295 Clifton avenue, Newark, N. J., received credit for the other two. It was the first victory for each. Lieut. Guarino said he was infuriated at seeing the Germans attack the little Cubs.

Nazis Declare Rome Will Be Demilitarized

L. HAWKINS

But London Doubts Allies Will Take Foes' Word, Grant Open-City Status

LONDON, March 22 (AP).—The Germans said today they would completely demilitarize Rome in an effort to place responsibility for bombings on the Allies, but it was regarded as unlikely that the Allies would take any cognizance of this unilateral declaration of an "open city."

NIGHT

The Nazi-controlled Rome radio said the Germans, within the next few days, would withdraw all military installations and divert all military traffic from the Eternal City "so that responsibility for the bombing of Rome will remain entirely with the Allies." The statement said everything would be removed "which could serve as the slightest pretext for air terror."

Rome originally was declared an open city on Aug. 14, 1943, by Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio's government before the Italian surrender.

Military men were skeptical of German intentions, because they believe the supplying of Nazi troops at the Anzio beachhead would be almost impossible without the use of Rome's highways and rail lines. All worth-while routes from the north funnel through Rome or its outskirts.

Effective "opening" of the city would entail either blind acceptance of the Germans' one-way, unofficial declaration or a complicated system of inspection by neutral observers.

The German announcement was seen here as a possible indication that Allied bombings of communications are pinching the supply of the fifteen or more Nazi divisions in action in Italy.

While the Rome broadcast could be intended as propaganda to embarrass the Allies, it could have, it is believed, a more sinister import—that the Germans might use the "open city" talk as a prelude to deliberate destruction which they then would attempt to blame on the Allies.

MAR 23 1944

NAZIS SAY THEY WILL CLEAR ROME

London, March 22 (A. P.).—The German-controlled Rome radio today announced that the Germans would withdraw all military installations from Rome and would divert all military traffic from the city, in an effort to place responsibility for bombings entirely on the Allies.

DAY

The broadcast apparently sought to declare Rome an open city. Such a unilateral declaration, of course, has no effects in international law, since it would have to be accepted by the Allies to make it binding. The Badoglio government of Italy sought to declare Rome an open city before Badoglio capitulated last September.

Today's broadcast said: "So that responsibility for the bombing of Rome will remain entirely with the Allies, the German command in the next few days will scrupulously withdraw from Rome every installation which could serve as the slightest pretext for air terror, and will still further devi... military transports from the Eternal City."

After the Italian capitulation, German forces seized Rome on the pretext of protecting it, and they later centred north and central Italian defense communications there.

Patch, veteran of Guadalcanal and New Caledonia, has been assigned to command the United States Seventh Army, replacing Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr., who led it to victory in Sicily and later was rebuked by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower over the slapping ... in a field hospital i...

[Gen. Patton, known in the field as Old Blood and Guts, will command "another Army," the War Department said in Washington, but the unit and the General's whereabouts were not disclosed. It was considered possible that his new duties might be connected with the invasion of western Europe.]

Gen. Patton apologized to the officers and men of the Seventh Army for the slapping incident. Reports originating in America last December that Gen. Patton had been relieved of his command as a result of the incident were denied at that time by Allied headquarters, which declared that he would remain at its head.

The Seventh Army, whose whereabouts are undisclosed, has not been reported in action since the Sicilian campaign, though some units which were in it have been in combat as part of the Fifth Army in Italy. Among these are the Third and Forty-fifth Infantry Divisions, now on the Anzio beachhead, below Rome.

Coal Gas Killed 426 Italians In Tunnel

LUDIN

Naples, March 22 (AP)—A total of 426 Italians died from coal-gas asphyxiation when a train stalled in a tunnel in southern Italy March 3, it was announced today.

Allied military investigators found the accident "an act of God" caused by a combination of murky atmosphere with no wind to ventilate the tunnel and wet rails which caused the train to stall.

Carbon monoxide gas overcame the engine crew before they could start the train again and the scores of unauthorized passengers who had climbed aboard the train were asphyxiated swiftly.

MOUNT VESUVIUS LASHES SECTION WITH LAVA STONES

FUCHER

POMPEII, Italy, March 22—(AP) Mount Vesuvius lashed out anew tonight when the erupting volcano covered a strip of the countryside with a somber blanket of ashes two feet deep and pelted inhabitants with a rain of lava stones an inch in diameter.

NIGHT

Winds carried the volcanic ash as far as 25 miles southward to a point 10 miles beyond Salerno but the heaviest rain of lava stones and ash fell westward along a strip three-quarters of a mile wide, particularly around Pompei.

Inhabitants of the Volcano-lashed area, with washtubs over their heads and their children wrapped in blankets, began to flee the area afoot as showers of cinders and hot ashes blocked transport and hampered organized evacuation.

Fields were damaged by the rain of ashes, but no additional casualties were reported. The eruption already has claimed two lives.

Authorities said tomorrow should bring the climax of the eruption, since those from Vesuvius usually last five or six days and this one began Saturday.

Capt. Arthur Carter, former mayor of Amsterdam, N. Y., who was on watch for the Allied Military Government, said that tomorrow the sheer weight of the millions of tons of lava on the edge of the crater might crash through its crust and be hurled out again not as lava, but as "black snow."

Scattered settlements menaced by red hot lava flowing southward down the slopes, between Torre del Greco and Torre Annunziata—two large towns at the base of Vesuvius—were being evacuated.

This southerly stream became the most menacing after the flow of another mass westward on the town of Cercola slackened.

The immediate danger at Cercola appeared to have passed.

The great tongue of lava stretching toward Torre del Greco and Torre Annunziata also appeared to be slowing.

Lt. Gen. Mark Clark and King Vittorio Emmanuele were among today's visitors to the area of yesterday's destruction when two villages were destroyed.

The eruption is adjudged the worst since 1872.

Molten Lava Falls On Pompeii; 3d Town Periled

MAR 23 1944 MORTON

On the slopes of Mount Vesuvius, March 22 (AP)—A great new eruption today covered the area around Pompei with a two-inch layer of lava hurled through the air in chunks, and sent a gigantic finger of glowing rock into houses of a third town on the northwestern slope. DAY

Pompei, at the foot of Mount Vesuvius on the south, was buried by the eruption of 79 A. D.

The hail of lava fell over crops in the area, burning them. American and British soldiers wore steel helmets against the shower, and natives placed iron pots on their heads.

Cercola In Path

Early this morning the molten river of lava rolling down the northwestern side of the mountain had swept away the first houses in Cercola two miles from the peak.

The latest blowoff of the famed volcano, whose lava swallowed up the villages of San Sebastiano and Massa di Somma, yesterday, came at 4 A. M. today. Flames shot 200 feet high, showering the countryside with cinders and lava dust, and fine particles were still falling at midmorning in Salerno, 25 miles to the southeast.

Pollena Evacuated

Authorities proceeded with the evacuation of 5,000 inhabitants of Cercola and completed the removal of the residents of the small town of Pollena-Trocchia, which lies immediately to the east of buried San Sebastiano and Massa di Somma.

Concern also was felt for several coastal towns farther to the west in the path of the new stream which, while still more than two miles away, was rolling slowly toward them at the rate of 25 to 30 feet an hour. They are Portici, Torre del Greco and several intervening villages, all situated on an important coastal road.

Three Streams Of Lava

Only a handful of buildings on the extreme western fringe of Cercola had been buried by 10 A. M., and authorities still held out some hope that the main section of the town might be spared.

At the Royal Vesuvius Observatory, halfway up the western slope, Prof. Guiseppe Imboi said he saw no indication of a cessation of the eruption. Imboi said the flow still was taking the form of three big streams, one flowing toward Cercola, another toward Portici and Torre del Greco and the third toward the south. The movement of the latter field was hardly discernible, he added, and far less dangerous than the others.

The region was almost as dark as night with great black clouds and lava dust overhead. It was flying lava like that of today, but much heavier, which buried ancient Pompei in 79 A. D. and thus preserved it just as it stood in Roman days until archæologists dug the lava away centuries later.

Falling in small chunks this lava does not destroy like that streaming down the mountain sides. These great avalanches of molten rock, running to fifty feet high and a half mile wide, crush buildings and their contents almost to powder before covering them over.

Flowing Lava Aids Cupid

DAY

On the Slopes of Mount Vesuvius, March 22 (AP)—A United States Air Force officer reports he is engaged to an Italian girl with whom he is aiding refugees fleeing Vesuvius' flow or lava.

The officer is Lieut. Norbert W. Bussmann, of Richmond Heights, St. Louis. He said he had known the girl, Signorina Tina Scafora, some time but had not thought of marriage until today, when he found himself working beside her. They set the marriage for May 20, when Bussmann is due for a leave. They plan a honeymoon at Capri.

"We'll be married here at the Church of Immaculate Conception. If it's still standing," said Bussmann, with a glance toward the lava mass approaching Cercolo.

Tina, 18, is a schoolteacher at Cercolo. Her home was destroyed by lava.

Lehman Discusses Relief With Wilson and Devers

Expects to See De Gaulle and Giraud on French Needs

ALGIERS, March 22 (AP).—Herbert H. Lehman, director of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, has conferred on relief problems with General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson and Lieutenant General Jacob L Devers, Allied commanders in this theater. NIGHT

Confined to a hospital with a fractured knee, Mr. Lehman said today he hopes to be about Saturday to continue to the middle East. He expects to confer with Charles de Gaulle, President of the French Committee of National Liberation, and General Henri Giraud, commander in chief of French forces, on relief questions in France.

Mr. Lehman was informed by his daughter, Hilda Jane (Mrs. Boris de Vadetsky), who is a WAC stationed in this theater, that she had been appointed a corporal.

JAP COLUMNS GAIN IN INDIA

GRUMICH

Penetration Toward Imphal Is Noted By Headquarters

New Delhi, March 22 (AP)—Japanese columns have made their first penetration of India and are pushing on westward through the Manipur mountain country in the direction of the key road junction of Imphal, 30 miles away.

The Japanese drive into India was announced by Allied headquarters today in a communique which stated little except that the enemy "continued to move to the west."

Imphal is the southern terminus of an all-weather road that winds 175 miles north through the Naga hill country to a junction with the India-Assam-China supply line, Allied jugular vein in the Burma theater. NIGHT

Minimized By Auchinleck

General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, commander in chief for India under Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, southeast Asia commander, minimized the seriousness of the Japanese threat. He said the Manipur drive was an effort "to divert Allied forces and relieve strong Allied pressure against their lines on the Arakan front."

[The Arakan front is on the west Burma coast roughly 250 miles southwest of the enemy push into Manipur.]

"No real threat can materialize unless and until the Japanese manage to penetrate to points where they can attack our rail and river communications or our airfields in Assam," General Auchinleck said.

Air Inferiority Cited

General Auchinleck based his discounting of the Japanese threat on their inferiority in the air, which will not permit them to supply their forward columns by plane, and will prevent them from interfering with air supply to Allied troops.

The Japanese forces now in India apparently crossed the upper Chindwin virtually unmolested while Allied troops in the area were concerned with an open crossing of the river north of Homalin.

The Japanese, today's communique indicated, may be mounting another attack aimed at India in the Chin hills sector north of Tiddim, about 20 miles from the India-Burma border, on the lower Manipur river.

Several Towns Bombed

On the north Burma front, roughly 200 miles northeast of the Japanese invasion of India, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's 22d Chinese Division was reported south of the Jambu Bum pass between the Huxawng and Mogaung valleys.

Heavy units of the Eastern Air Command strategic air force loosed their bombs on Prome, Martaban and Moulmein in south and central Burma on the night of March 21.

Headquarters at Chungking announced that the 14th United States Air Force was harassing the Japanese in South China and Indo-China. It was credited with sinking three Japanese coastal steamers.

In addition to the units which crossed the Chindwin and are forging westward, another Japanese force cut the only passable road in several places north of Tiddim. The lofty highway runs almost a mile high in places.

Japanese Units Push Across India Border

GRUMICH

New Delhi, March 22 (AP)—Japanese troops striking out in a major offensive have penetrated into India, it was officially announced today, crossing into the Indian state of Manipur "at one or two places" from northern Burma.

The Japanese forces, described as "raiding columns," crossed the Chindwin river apparently at night and advanced practically unmolested with the jungle cloaking their operations. DAY

Contacted By Patrols

For their drive against rich India, the Japanese chose the same general route over which General Sir Harold L. Alexander withdrew his main forces in 1942 when the enemy overran Burma. Manipur is ruled by a Hindu Maharaja and is bordered by Assam and Burma.

"At some points" the Japanese "are in contact with our advanced patrols," said the Southeast Asia Command communique.

On the north Burma front, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters said, the Chinese 22nd Division continued its drive southward from the Hukawng valley to the Mogaung valley, and forward elements are "fighting along the road south of the highest point on the pass over Jambu Bum."

Attack Near Falam

In the Chin hills area, 100 or more miles below the Manipur border action, some Allied troops have moved north to "deal with Japanese outflanking movements north of Tiddim," and staged a small-scale attack near Falam, below Tiddim, Monday.

Allied air fleets struck at Japanese positions and communications in the chindwin, Chin hills, Arakan and Kaladan areas, and heavy bombers attacked Prome, Martabam and Moulmein in central and southern Burma, all without loss.

Blow In South Repelled

At the same time, Mountbatten's headquarters declared that Allied troops had repulsed a comparatively heavy Japanese attack in Maungdaw-Buthedaung area at the southern end of the Burmese front, where British and Indian forces have been moving slowly along the coast toward enemy-ehld Akyab.

In another engagement in this sector, headquarters said, Allied trops captured a hill feature south of Buthedaung.

First Acknowledgment

The Allied announcement was the first Allied acknowledgement of Japanese penetration of India. The Berlin radio in May, 1942, had reported Japanese crossing of the frontier, quoting Tokyo dispatches.

The Tokyo radio today declared that leaders of the Indian Independence League were jubilant "over news of the Indian National Army march into Indian soil."

Berlin relayed a Japanese dispatch that the "provisional government of Free India in the name of Subhas Chandra Bose, head of the government and supreme commander of the Indian National Army, issued a special statement yesterday clarifying the significance of the fight for independence undertaken jointly by the Indian National Army and Imperial Japanese forces."

Bombers Smash Ships Attempting to Supply Isolated Garrisons.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Thursday, March 23.—(AP) A Japanese destroyer and two small merchantmen have been sunk by Allied bombers off Aitape, New Guinea, northwest of Wewak, headquarters announced today.

Aitape is in a sector where considerable enemy shipping has been noted recently, indicating efforts to supply wavering garrisons.

Headquarters also reported another unopposed raid on isolated [illegible]baul, New Britain, during which 33 tons of explosives were dropped on the St. Matthias islands, whose [illegible]sion Monday completed the [illegible]tion of Rabaul, Marines have reoccupied their positions at [illegible] without encountering any Japanese opposition. Light enemy resistance was overcome in the initial landings.

On the ground front below the Japanese New Guinea coastal base of Madang, headquarters said that Australians in the interior have sent patrols to within seven miles of Bogadjim. Bogadjim is an outpost for the defense of Madang and is located about 20 miles to the south of that base.

Blast Barges, Supplies

To the northwest of Madang, large forces of bombers blasted enemy personnel, supplies, barges and guns at Wewak, at Hansa Bay and along the Sepik river.

A Liberator on reconnaissance located the destroyer 22 miles east of Tadji in the Aitape area Monday night, damaging it heavily with a 1,000-pound bomb. The Liberator lost sight of the warship, spent part of the night locating it, then sent it down early Tuesday 32 miles southeast of Tadji with a 1,000 pounder and two 500-pound bombs.

Medium bombers swept low to sink the two merchantment in the same general area.

Aitape is about midway between Wewak and Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea. In the latter vicinity, two convoys have been attacked from the air over the past week-end with the certain loss of five ships and damage to others.

Bombers from the Solomons continued at midday Monday the campaign to rip apart Rabaul's ground defenses. Supply areas and anti-aircraft positions were among targets of the 133 tons of bombs. At least 10 guns were put out of action.

Supply and bivouac areas near Wewak were dealt a 160-ton bombing blow Tuesday by escorted Liberators, Mitchells and Bostons. Within little more than a week, the Wewak-Aitape region has been rocked by more than 1,600 tons of explosives. Fires started in the latest raid sent up smoke for 4,000 feet.

The Aussies patrol near Bogadjim, following the Kabenau river which runs to the sea made contact with an American patrol moving up the shoreline from Saidor. There were small clashes with the Japanese.

Landings Tighten Noose On Japs

Southwest Pacific Headquarters, March 22 (AP)—The snapping shut of an invasion ring around thousands of Japanese at Rabaul, Kavieng and in the Solomons by marine landings in the St. Matthias Islands, 580 miles south of Truk, was disclosed today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The flat island of Emirau, a potential air base, and near-by Elomusao were occupied easily Monday by ground forces from the Solomons, who thus shot the front line of Admiral William F. Halsey from the Green Islands on past the length of New Ireland to a near juncture with General MacArthur's conquerors of the Admiralties.

Big Battleships Help

While the invaders brushed aside light opposition, the town of Kavieng on New Ireland, 84 miles to the southeast of the St. Matthias group, virtually was erased in a three and one-half hour bombardment. Big American battleships, making their first appearance in the Bismarck Sea, joined other warships in hurling 1,000 tons of shells.

The leap-frog thrust into the St. Matthias group "completes isolation of all enemy bases in the Bismarck archipelago and places us in bombing range of Truk," General MacArthur said.

The strangulation noose—air bases won by amphibious invasions dating back to November—extends clockwise through the Green Islands, Empress Augusta Bay on Bougainville, western New Britain, the New Guinea coast past Saidor, the Admiralty Islands, 155 miles east to St. Matthias and back to the Green Islands.

The invaders of St. Matthias are nearer Truk than any other Allied forces. In the western Marshalls, Central Pacific forces have an air base at Eniwetok, 750 miles—land-based bombing distance—east of Truk. Thus the time approaches when that Carolines naval base will be open to bombing attacks from two directions.

Solomons Foe Surrendering

BOUGAINVILLE, Solomon Islands, March 22 (AP).—A spokesman for Lieutenant General Millard F. Harmon, Army commander in the South Pacific, said Sunday that "dazed and undernourished enemy soldiers of the once crack 6th Japanese Infantry division were surrendering to American troops on Bougainville while American patrols rounded up survivors of depleted units. Harmon's spokesman predicted the Japanese assault would be resumed, but probably on a reduced scale.

The official count of enemy dead has mounted almost to 3,000, but the spokesman said the Japanese probably lost nearer 6,000, because many bodies have been obliterated by artillery fire and some have been buried by the enemy.

IKE SCHLOSSBACH IN PACIFIC CRASH

MAR 23 1944

Guadalcanal, March 21 (delayed) (A. P.).—The injury of Lieut.-Commander Ike Schlossbach, 54 years old, United States Navy retired, famous explorer and world traveler, in an airplane accident February 10 was disclosed today.

The former submarine skipper, who explored the South Polar seas with Admiral Richard Byrd and who subsequently took Sir Hubert Wilkins into the North Pole region, cracked up while taking off alone in a Navy dive-bomber from Guadalcanal's Henderson Field.

Commander Schlossbach has been commander of Henderson Field since shortly after the airstrip was wrested from the Japs.

His dive-bomber failed to attain takeoff speed and fell into the river at the northwest end of the field. Commander Schlossbach fractured six ribs and sustained other injuries. He is reported recovering in a Noumea, New Caledonia, Naval hospital.

Commander Schlossbach was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1915 and saw submarine service in world war one. He claims to be the only man to "loop the loop" with a submarine. In 1925, he gained fame by falling out of a fighter plane cockpit near Norfolk, Va., when doing barrel-rolls, hanging on and falling back in when the plane righted itself.

Japanese Marshalls Bases Raided Again

MAR 23 1944

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, March 22 (AP)—The attrition campaign against marooned Japanese garrisons in the eastern Marshall islands continued Monday with bombing and strafing attacks on four enemy-held atolls, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

A heavy explosion was observed on one island objective, said the press release, and several fires and explosions on another.

All planes returned from the attacks, which were carried out by planes of the Seventh Army Air Force, Fourth Marine Air Wing and Second Navy Fleet Air Wing.

Marylander Heads Crack Air Unit Getting Leave In U. S.

Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, March 23 (AP)—The navy's Skull and Crossbones Squadron, which shot down 154 enemy planes in 79 days and lost not a bomber in 60 escort missions, is on its way to the United States for leave.

Modestly, casually, such heroes as its skipper, slight, blond Tommy Blackburn, and its leading ace, big, red-faced Ira (Ike) Kepford, today talked about their outfit's exploits over Bougainville, New Britain and New Ireland.

Former Dental Student

Lieutenant (j. g.) Kepford, 24, of Muskegon, Mich., former Northwestern blocking back and dental student, has 16 planes to his credit.

The pilots have destroyed seven enemy cargo ships and 17 barges with their Corsair guns.

Lieutenant Commander Blackburn, 31, of Chevy Chase, Md., a quiet-voiced skipper with 11 planes to his credit, explained the squadron's record of never losing a bomber by simply saying, "That's what we were up there for."

Warded Off Japs

Rear Admiral Charles A. Pownall, commander of aircraft in the Pacific, presented Blackburn, Kepford, Lieut. Com. R. R. Hedrick, 29, San Gabriel, Cal., squadron executive officer, and Lieut. Harry March, 25, of Washington, 1940 national pentathalon champion from the University of North Carolina, at a press conference.

Kepford got four of his total last Armistice Day warding off Japanese planes which tried to attack a naval task force after its carrier planes had raided Rabaul. He blew up one enemy torpedo plane just as it was on the point of letting go its "fish" at Kepford's own carrier.

Flew Off Guadalcanal

Blackburn and Hedrick agreed they could see no evidence that the Japanese are running out of good pilots.

March, who flew off Guadalcanal back in September, 1942, said the Japanese fighter pilots then "just milled around and didn't seem to know what they were doing."

Hedrick said the Japanese flyers now use parachutes whenever they have the opportunity and apparently have armor-plate protection on their planes.

JERSEYITE OVER TRUK

Headquarters, Seventh Army Air Force, March 22 (A. P.).—Staff Sergt. Robert S. Applegate, 61 Robinson street, West Orange, N. J., says Truk looked like a Fourth of July celebration during the first assault by United States land-based planes on the Jap bastion in the Central Pacific in March 15. The blaze of lights appeared to indicate feverish construction activity.

Sergt. Applegate, who has twenty-six missions to his credit, was a member of the crew of the bomber AWOL, on which one engine failed and another appeared to be failing after it unloaded its explosives. A Jap fighter trailed the plane, but turned back after twenty minutes. The AWOL got back to its base only after it was stripped of its guns, ammunition and other supplies to gain altitude.

TIMES IN AUSTRALIA

Somewhere in Australia, March 22 (A. P.).—"The New York Times Overseas Weekly," the first American newspaper printed in Australia for American troops in the southwest Pacific war theater, appeared on newsstands today.

The eight page edition was printed by the Brisbane Courier Mail from plates flown from the United States. It contained numerous cartoons and maps, a review of world events, columns devoted to "News at Home," reviews of sports, radio and movie news and dispatches from The New York Times foreign correspondents.

The newspaper will be distributed to American units throughout the command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Second Front Started By Raids: Montgomery

New York, March 22 (AP)—The "second front has already begun" with the heavy bombing of Germany, in the view of General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and will make the invasion of Europe "a setup," the New York Times said today in a dispatch from Britain.

The British general, interviewed by a Times correspondent on his headquarters train somewhere in Britain, declared the bombing of Germany was "terrific," and "when the Germans have been sufficiently stunned, we will move in."

The invasion is "a combined operation in which each service will play its part," he continued, and the army will begin its part when Germany is thoroughly prepared for invasion.

Mihailovic's Forces Clas' With Germans

New York, March 22 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic's radio station YTG returned to the air today after a 10-day silence attributed to German action and announced that "in northern Serbia clashes with the enemy are continuing."

Mihailovic, commander of Yugoslav regular army forces, is King Peter's Minister of War. Allied support of his forces has shifted in recent months to the units of Marshal Josip Broz Tito, rival leader.

The station broadcast a statement denying allegations "in the Quisling press of Belgrade and Zagreb" that there were "certain agreements between some of our commanders and enemy authorities."

Canada Reports Two Flyers Missing

Ottawa, March 22 (A. P.).—Two Royal Canadian Air Force flyers with next-of-kin in the New York suburban area were listed officially today as missing on active service after air operations.

They are Warrant Officer John Lindsay, whose father, John Lindsay, lives at 139 Brighton avenue, Kearny, N. J., and Flight Sergt. William Kilworth Murray Love, whose mother, Mrs. W. F. Love, lives at 4 River Road, Cos Cob, Conn.

U. S. SUB SCORPION IS PRESUMED LOST

Large American Craft Carried Crew of 75 Men and Officers.

MAR 23 1944

WASHINGTON, March 22 — (AP) The Scorpion, one of the larger American submarines with a crew of about 75 officers and men, is overdue and presumed lost, the Navy said today in its fourth such grim announcement of the last eight days and its 20th of the war.

Where the Scorpion was patrolling was not made known in the Navy's communique but presumably it was in Pacific waters, where American submarine activity has been concentrated.

If so, its loss was another reflection of the stepped up intensity of the war against enemy shipping which has seen both American and Japanese losses mounting rapidly.

Already, American submarines have sunk, probably sunk or damaged 642 Japanese ships of all types.

Only yesterday, Secretary of the Navy Knox told a press conference the Japanese anti-submarine technique is improving but he said "our submarines are increasing in efficiency and numbers paralleling any increase in skill of the Japanese."

Of 1,525 tons surface displacement, the Scorpion was built at Portsmouth, N. H., and was launched July 20, 1942. She was commanded by Commander Maximilian G. Schmidt, a native of Boonville, Mo.

U. S. War Casualties Total 165,061 Since War Started

WASHINGTON, March 22—(AP) Casualties of the United States armed forces since the outbreak of the war total 165,061, the Office of War Information reported today on the basis of figures most recently available from the War and Navy departments.

The dead number 38,846; wounded, 58,964; missing, 35,521; prisoners of war, 31,730.

Among the prisoners of war, 1,894 have died in prison camps, mostly in Japanese-occupied territory.

Among the wounded, 25,688 either have returned to duty or have been released from hospitals.

Republican Freshmen Ask Hull for Policy Statement

WASHINGTON, March 22—(AP) Two dozen first term Republicans in the House who said they had supported President Roosevelt's steps to date toward international collaboration, made public tonight a week-old letter to Secretary of State Hull in which they pressed for a clear-cut declaration of foreign policy.

The 24 were called together late today by Rep. Robert Hale of Maine to discuss Hull's re-statement last night of the 17 points of United States foreign policy.

Hull, meantime, talked for two hours with members of the Senate Foreign Relations committee and he said he "brought the committee up to date" on State department moves. Details were held confidential.

Hull reportedly devoted much of his discussion to a plea against pressure for specified moves which might, he said, interfere with prosecution of the war.

The House group will see Hull Friday morning and get his reply to their letter, delivered by Hale to the State department a week ago. Some of them were frankly

And almost immediately there developed two schools of Russian thought, and a long series of contests in the governing heart of the Communist party itself. As Lenin grew physically less potent, two leaders appeared—Stalin and Trotsky. Mr. Duranty believes that had Trotsky not made two or three colossal mistakes, he could have (and would have) succeeded to the mantle of Lenin. He did make them, and the first was his failure to attend Lenin's funeral.

Stalin was the practical man, willing to compromise. He knowingly edged his country away from strict communism, and by the use of devices well known to American politics, established himself and his rule. One of the devices, Mr. Duranty points out, was the ancient one of purging dissident elements, and replacing them with new and trustworthy party members. Mr. Duranty runs a nimble course through the tangle of two decades of Russian history, and does more to explain Russia and the Russians than nine out of ten recent writers.

36,000 AIR FORCE MEN TRANSFERRED

MAR 23 1944

Assigned to Ground Duty as Draft Boards Fail to Meet Quotas.

WASHINGTON, March 22—(AP) Confronted with unfilled draft quotas and a general shortage of ground forces, the Army announced today the transfer to ground duty of 36,000 young men who had been earmarked for air training.

Meantime, a high military official reported that draft boards had been failing for 13 months to meet the calls of the armed forces, and asserted that "the time has arrived when we must have the fighting men we need."

This statement was the latest development in a tug of war between the armed forces and industry and agriculture for the services of thousands of young men under 27. An aviation industry official countered with a claim that blanket cancellations of draft deferments granted the young men would cripple war-necessary airlines.

Plans for Congressional inquiries into charges that the draft has been used as a lever to force farmers into the government agriculture program gave the situation a new twist.

The Army Airforces also announced the suspension of enlistments of 17-year-olds in its enlisted reserve, saying that under the circumstances it is inadvisable to hold a reserve beyond immediate requirements. It was announced, however, that airforce applications from youths of 17 still will be accepted and training will not stop.

Cumulative shortages in inductions since July, the War department said, have made it necessary to use every available man for pending operations. The military official, who declined to permit use of his name, put the draft shortage even further back, saying it had run for 13 months.

General H. H. Arnold, Chief of the Army Airforces, testifying before the House Military committee on a bill to give army status to the Women's Airforce Service Pilots (WASPS) set the induction deficit at "over 200,000."

The 36,000 released by the airforces are men who have completed basic training in the army and have been accepted for instruction as pilots, navigators, and bombardiers.

General George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, explained that another factor in the airforce cutback was the fact that American forces are "approaching complete air supremacy in practically every theater in which they are in operation at a much faster pace than the Army had dared to hope."

He added that airforce casualties had been lower than expected.

Arnold, thanking the men transferred and expressing regret that they had been disappointed, expressed pride in air combat crews already trained "who by their aggressive superiority in the air have permitted me to reduce somewhat my training requirements in terms of men needed."

The military official, who declined use of his name, asserted that current moves for drastic curtailment of occupational deferments for young men will not reduce war production if proper use is made of manpower facilities.

He declared that draft boards have been falling behind on their quota for 13 months while commanders in every theater were "crying" for young men. Draft heads previously had said that the lag began last October.

Asserting that 562,000 non-fathers 26 and below already are deferred on farms and the number is rising by 17,000 a month as the movement of men from less "safe" occupations increase, he said farm workers must be screened as carefully for indispensability as others.

"The time has passed," he declared, "when the armed forces can be held responsible for manpower shortages."

An industrial claim on young men was made by Col. Edgar S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transport Association of America, who asserted that at least one-fourth of the airlines' skilled flight and maintenance personnel is under 27 and abolition of draft deferments for them would "badly cripple" both civil and military contract operations.

Fly Contradicts Charge F. C. C. Imperiled Navy

MAR 23 1944

Calls on Miller to Bring Case 'Into Open,' Terms Story 'Irresponsible'

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP).—James L. Fly, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, today described as "irresponsible" the charge of Representative Louis E. Miller, Republican, of Missouri, that F. C. C. "amateurs" assigned to radio monitoring work had caused a United States naval task force to be trapped by Japanese warships in Alaskan waters.

Representative Miller made the charge before the special House committee investigating the F. C. C., and stated he would produce two sailors to testify.

"If Mr. Miller has any evidence that F. C. C. men were responsible for any 'incident' as he hinted," Mr. Fly said in replying by formal statement, "he should bring his case into the open. This charge has been tossed at us at least five or six times during these hearings."

The alleged Alaskan matter, mentioned by Representative Miller without elaboration at previous sessions, was brought up again yesterday. The Missourian, a bitter critic of the F. C. C., asserted that "amateur bunglers" of the F. C. C. handling monitor stations in the Alaskan area told the Navy about locating a Japanese force in a certain area, with the additional information that another sea lane was clear. Representative Miller said that American ships then went into the latter lane and were attacked.

Mr. Miller then stated that Rear Admiral Stanford C. Hooper, former Pearl Harbor communications officer, knows about the incident but has been "silenced by executive order," and that Rear Admiral Joseph Redman, Chief of Naval Communications, had spoken of the incident at a closed session of the committee.

He said that F. C. C. members had seen a letter "presumably from the White House" which said that "certain things might happen" to any one who disclosed military information in the course of the F. C. C. inquiry.

Charles R. Denny, F. C. C. chief counsel, who was on the stand at the time, vigorously denied the commission had any knowledge of the Alaskan matter, said he could "prove affirmatively" that Mr. Miller's charge was untrue if Mr. Miller would elaborate with date and other details.

To this Mr. Fly added today:

"Neither Admiral Hooper's secret testimony nor that of any other official sets forth facts to substantiate such an irresponsible charge. Miller knows that. We have had thirteen months of this sort of abuse from certain Representatives."

UNRRA LEGISLATION SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 22—(AP) Congress pledged the United States today to contribute its time, effort and money to rebuild the health and welfare of war-wracked nations once they are liberated from the Axis yoke.

Legislation committing the U. S. to a big role in the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRRA) was approved finally and sent to the White House for President Roosevelt's anticipated signature.

The House adopted, 285 to 58, the conference report which the Senate passed yesterday, but only after a last-minute fight over two possible facets in the program: The shipment of farm machinery abroad, and the possibility of UNRRA participating in anything of a religious or political nature in foreign countries.

LAND DEFENDS SHIP COST FEES

Calls Shipbuilders' Managerial Job Greatest in History

MAR 23 1944

Washington, March 22 (AP)—A defense of fees paid operators of Government-owned shipyards came today from Chairman Emory S. Land of the Maritime Commission, testifying before a House committee investigating reports they are excessive.

"These shipbuilders have done one of the greatest managerial jobs in all history," Land declared, adding that the commission's fee policy was the most economical and most productive one that could have been adopted.

Challenge Committee Figure

The Merchant Marine subcommittee, headed by Representative Capozzoli (D., N. Y.), called the hearing to consider data compiled by its investigators showing that 19 companies operating 23 Government-owned yards had earned $174,944,051 in fees as of November 30, 1943, and, under existing contracts, ultimately would receive fees of $228,234,832.

The yards cost the Government $371,960,113, and committee investigators said the operators' capital investment was only $22,879,276. Land, however, challenged the latter figure, saying it should be $30,029,275, to include money loaned to the operators by shareholders.

Furthermore, Land argued, that figure should not be called the operators' "capital investment," but their fixed working capital. In some cases, he said, it was "purely nominal," just to establish credit arrangements with the operator's bank.

"There is virtually no relationship between a shipbuilder's profit in this brilliant production record and his invested capital," Land said. "His profit is measured on the basis of output, on the basis of production achieved and not upon the dollars he has invested in the yard or its facilities."

The fees shown as paid were before renegotiation and before taxes, Land said, adding that if the fees were to be figured on a percentage basis, "I think it should be a percentage on brains and not a percentage on capital."

EXPANSION HELD KEY TO POSTWAR FULL EMPLOYMENT

MAR 23 1944

WASHINGTON, March 22—(AP) Congress was told today that expansion of America's economy, rather than cutbacks, is the key to reemployment when the war ends.

Three House committees delved into what will happen in the shift to peacetime, with these results:

1—Official postwar committee heard from General Motors President C. E. Wilson that the automobile manufacturing concern has a $500,000,000 nest egg to expand its facilities and believes it will double its pre-war employment of 201,000 persons.

2—John M. Hancock, co-author of the Baruch report on post-war aims, recommended to the Banking committee that the vast synthetic rubber plants be kept intact so that another "Japanese invasion of Malaya will not be risked.

3—Charles M. Upham, engineer-director of the American Road Builders association, told the roads committee a $16,500,000,000 five-year program of highway and street improvements should be undertaken after the war.

Wilson's testimony was sought by the post-war group particularly with reference to how the big auto industry proposes to meet the impact of re-conversion. He said he thought GMC would be employing almost as many persons after the war as the 465,000 it now has on its rolls, and as for the nation, a similar planned expansion of peacetime activity would take complete care of the reemployment problem.

WASPS TO OBTAIN MILITARY STATUS

MAR 23 1944

WASHINGTON, March 22—(AP) Military status for the Women's Airforce Service Pilots (WASPS) was approved by the House Military committee today after General H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Airforces, testified they are good fliers and that he plans to send all the male pilots to fight.

The WASPS, now numbering 534 civilian women, ferry Army planes, make weather flights, tow aerial targets, and do other non-combat flying.

The general said many of them could fly all types of planes and had shown ability to endure long flying hours. One, he said, recently won the air medal after flying 8,000 miles in four days.

The need for qualified men in combat areas, and the inadvisability of lowering physical standards, General Arnold said, require relieving as many men as possible from domestic duty.

Under the approved bill women pilots and aviation cadets would be appointed in the Army Airforces on the same level with men, performing the same duties.

Jacqueline Cochran Odlum, noted woman pilot who now heads the WASPS, probably would rank as a lieutenant colonel.

Americans Have More to Eat Than Before War Says Jones

WASHINGTON, March 22—(AP) War Food Administrator Marvin Jones declared today present food controls have worked so well that Americans on the average have had more to eat than before the war. He expressed concern, however, about wheat supplies.

Jones was a witness at Senate Banking committee hearings on extension of price control and the stabilization act for another year. Told by Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) that a War Production Board official had said that "all our wheat surplus has been exhausted," he replied:

"I am concerned about wheat. But there is a saving clause in that more wheat should be available from South America."

"How are we going to feed Europe when the war ends?" Taft asked.

"We are not going to be able to feed Europe on our own," Jones said. "We can contribute, we can help and we are anxious to help in all reasonable amounts. Feeding Europe will have to draw from such places as Australia and Argentina, and we hope many of the liberated areas will be able to grow food themselves."

Senator Bushfield (R.-S. D.) charged in a Senate speech last week that administration planners intend for America to feed the world.

Jones asked continuance of the administration's stabilization program without change, saying "no nation can long afford to engage in total war without instituting some safeguarding controls to see that food and the other necessities are produced in abundance and equitably distributed, and this means at prices which the masses can afford." As to the home front he had this to say:

Rationing—he does not expect anything to be added in the immediate future with the possible exception of milk and "we hope" to avoid that.

Separation of butter from meat rationing—he called this a matter primarily for OPA, and was advised by Senator Hawkes (R.-N. J.) that it would be well for WFA to get to-g[illegible] OPA to bring this about.

Farm [illegible]ges—[illegible]ave put into effect several [illegible] ceilings" in areas where there was danger of the loss of vital war crops "and there may be need for extending such measures this year."

House Passes Post-War Rivers and Harbors Bill

$355,000,000 Measure, Carrying No Funds, Goes to Senate

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—Legislation authorizing post-war rivers and harbors work estimated to cost $355,000,000 was approved today by the House.

The measure passed on a standing vote of 213 to 46 after the House eliminated from the bill the proposed $66,000,000 Tennessee-Tombigbee waterway by a roll call count of 195 to 156. The measure, calling for nearly 300 projects, now goes to the Senate. It carries no funds.

The House approved an amendment to authorize a survey of Oswego Harbor, N. Y., and another lifting restrictions on the use of water from irrigation in Central Valley, Calif.

PRESIDENT STUDIES GOVERNORS REPLIES

MAR 23 1944

WASHINGTON, March 22—(AP) President Roosevelt today began study of the service vote bill in the light of a poll of governors which turned up a 19-19 tie of "ayes and nays" on the question of approval or probable approval of use of Federal ballots as provided in the measure.

Executives of nine states were non-committal and the White House had yet to receive a reply from Governor Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina.

Mr. Roosevelt conducted the poll to help him decide whether to approve or veto the bill which gives priority and preference to state ballots instead of the Federal ballots which he recommended to Congress. He indicated he would make up his mind on the basis of whether the new legislation would mean more or less voting by those in uniform.

The bill would permit use of Federal ballots only by service men and women overseas and only in cases where they apply for a state ballot by Sept. 1 and do not receive one by Oct. 1.

TREASURY COUNSEL GENERAL RESIGNS

WASHINGTON, March 22—(AP) Randolph Paul, who advocated higher wartime taxes than Congress has been willing to enact, resigned today as general counsel of the Treasury.

The 54-year-old attorney told President Roosevelt in a letter of resignation that it appeared "I can contribute little more at present in this special field." Mr. Roosevelt accepted the resignation with "great regret" and told Paul his services had been "of the highest value of your country."

There had been reports even before the recent Congress-White House row over taxes that Paul was in a mood to leave the Treasury. He and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau were said not to have seen eye-to-eye at all times although both advocated greatly increased wartime levies.

However, Paul denied to newsmen that there had been any rift between him and Morgenthau, adding that "it was just a matter of everything being pretty well of its way," meaning that tax matters were virtually settled for the time being.

Paul came to the Treasury in 1941. Member of a New York law firm, he formerly was a lecturer on taxation at Harvard and Yale universities and is the author of several monographs and studies on taxation.

Fifth Loan Goal to Be Fourteen Billions

Washington, March 22 (A. P.).—The Fifth War Loan, tentatively set for early June, will aim at the same $14,000,000,000 mark that was exceeded by $2,730,000,000 in the January-February Fourth War Loan.

This was learned today as a group of State bank executives met with Treasury officials following a two-day conference of national bank heads.

Prisoner Of Nazis Is Now In U. S. Navy

Albany, N. Y., March 22 (AP)—Arthur Femea, 18-year-old United States citizen who escaped from a Nazi prison camp and twice tried to join American forces in Italy, is a "gob" today.

The youth, who left Rome, N. Y., in 1936 to live with relatives in Italy, was inducted in the Navy yesterday.

He spent some time in a Nazi prison camp in Italy, where he said he worked 12 hours a day on road repairs with one meal daily, "mostly pigs feet."

Femea, a native of Pittsburgh, related how he walked 28 days, from near Florence to Naples. Reaching United States forces, he twice volunteered his services, but was rejected due to an inadequate knowledge of English.

Allied military government officials returned him to the United States.

DIVE IN CACTUS PATCH SAVED U. S. MAJOR IN AFRICA

BOSTON, March 22—(AP) Playing hide and seek with German tanks among the cactus plants of North Africa—and picking up a thousand cactus needles which had to be extracted one by one—was just the big experience of Major William C. "Kim" Farmer of Kansas City, Mo.

But he is the only ordnance officer, so far as the army knows, who went without sleep for 96 hours, was dive-bombed 30 times in four days and had to walk 35 miles over a mountain to reach his outfit.

All this was revealed today by Lt. Col. Whitney Stone, commander of the Boston Ordnance district. Major Farmer now is serving at the ordnance school, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md. He is 33 years old married, and is a former service engineer for the Ford Motor company.

He has seen action in North Africa, Sicily and Italy, with the First Armored Division, First Infantry division and with the Fifth Army headquarters.

It was in North Africa, however, that he experienced his most memorable day.

During the Kasserine Pass blitzkreig, he got his men to a safe spot but delayed his own departure too long. Came the Stukas and he was pinned to the ground.

Fled in Jeep

"Five hundred pound bombs rained all around me, some within 150 feet," his story goes. "My driver and I got in my jeep and started across the country for the mountains, but two Messerschmitts dove on me and the bullets really fanned me as we hit the ground."

He reached a Arab village only a short time before German artillery began to shell it. He and his driver raced across country on foot, leaving the jeep behind.

"The Germans dropped shells all around us," he continued, "but shell fragments obligingly went over us."

Winded, the two decided to take a rest—and quickly changed their minds.

"Fortunately I looked up in time to see a number of German tanks heading right for us," the Major continued, "the only cover was a cactus patch about 200 yards away and we sprinted for it. I darted around the cactus patch—and ran right into a lot of German infantrymen in an armored half-track vehicle. As luck would have it, they were looking in another direction. We retreated and took a swan dive into the cactus.

"By this time the tanks were about 400 yards away. The Germans sprayed the cactus with machine guns and all eight tanks rumbled by within 50 feet of me."

At that point, he added, American artillery engaged the tanks and Farmer and his driver just squirmed in the cactus as the battle raged close by.

Then began the long trek over the mountains.

"It was cold but somehow I didn't seem to mind," commented Farmer.

He still carried the cactus needles.

German Access To Patents Alleged

MAR 23 1944

Boston, March 22 (AP)—John Hays Hammond, Jr., internationally known American inventor and scientist, was quoted today by the Boston Traveler as saying that the Germans got information for their radio-controlled glider bombers "from our own Patent Office at 10 cents per patent."

In the third of a series of articles, approved by the Office of Censorship, the Traveler reported Hammond as saying:

"These should have been kept in secret archives of the Patent Office. They had been secret, but one admiral came along and thought there was no need for secrecy, and permitted them to be published."

The Traveler said that Hammond would not disclose the name of the admiral, but quoted the Gloucester inventor as adding, "They're still putting up monuments for some damned fools."

SINK NAZI SHIPS

Philadelphia, March 22 (A. P.).—French warships, either rebuilt or refitted here, sank five of six German ships in a convoy in the Adriatic Sea recently, Vice-Admiral Raymond A. Fenard, head of the French Naval Mission to the United States, said last night.

He said that the action took place only a few days ago, but he could not reveal the exact time nor what French ships were involved.

He spoke at a party given for him, Lucretia Bori, Metropolitan Opera soprano, and Edward Johnson, manager of the Opera Company, by A. J. Drexel Paul, president of the Officers' Club.

SALVATION ARMY AIDS EISENHOWER

Philadelphia, March 22 (A. P.).—A garment already named the Invasion Sweater is being knitted to order for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower at the Salvation Army Women's War Service Bureau here.

Mrs. Samuel Hepburn decided that the generals were being neglected and wrote to Mrs. Eisenhower asking if her husband could use a sweater.

The reply came from the general himself. "I would, indeed, be honored to have one of your sweaters and would in addition find it a most convenient thing to have," he wrote. "I think size forty would be about right."

Tanker for Norway Launched at Chester

Chester, Pa., March 22 (A. P.).—The Hegra, first American-built tanker to be transferred to the Norwegian flag since the war began was launched yesterday at the Sun Shipbuilding & Drydock Company yards.

A delegation of Norwegian officials participated in the ceremony, with Mrs. Wilhelm M. Morgenstierne, wife of the Norwegian Ambassador, acting as sponsor. The ship was named for the fortress in Norway where 250 soldiers held out for twenty days against the German invaders in 1940.

Raids On Cities Backed By Methodist Journal

Richmond, March 22 (AP)—The Virginia Methodist Advocate, entering the controversy that has been raised by churchmen in the United States and England in protest over the bombing of Germany's cities, supports such bombings as being "a tremendously important part of disarming the enemy."

An editorial in the current issue declared: "If some civilians are killed, it is horrible; but it is war."

Seconding the remarks of Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, who gave a radio talk from Boston, the editorial repeats the bishop's statement that current bombings are a "revolting necessity."

Adm. Hart Asks Rescue Of Men in Philippines

Bids Marine Officer Class 'Go Out and Bring Them Back'

QUANTICO, Va., March 22 (AP).—The marines are not going to forget their comrades held captive by the Japanese in the Philippines, Admiral Thomas C. Hart, former commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, declared today.

Addressing a graduating class at the Marine Officers' Training School here, he told the newly commissioned officers that he expected most of them to go to the Pacific war.

"The Asiatic Fleet lost heavily in that campaign of two years back," he continued. "A part of those losses are some thousands of men who stayed in the Philippines with the Army in the stand on Bataan and Corregidor. About half of them were in the 4th Marine Regiment.

"Some of those men we shall not see again. The rest are still on their legs—with the time becoming long for them. Young gentlemen, go on out there and bring them back."

U. S. Japs Refuse Army Discipline

Fort McClellan, Ala., March 22 (AP)—Twenty-eight Japanese-Americans who refused to take military training at the military replacement center here have been placed in the camp stockade to await court-martial, Brig. Gen. Wallace C. Philoon, commanding general, announced today.

General Philoon said the men were members of a battalion which began training recently and that all other members of the group had accepted training willingly. Most had been recently inducted.

"The men in question have lived for several years in Japan," he said, "and have become indoctrinated with the military philosophy of that country." They refused to "accept training under the American flag," said the general.

DEWEY AHEAD IN GOP POLL

66.6% Of 1940 Delegates For Him, 15.7% Favor Willkie

Chicago, March 22 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York took first place by a wide margin tonight in a poll conducted among delegates to the 1940 Republican National Convention on the question of which man they preferred for the party's Presidential nomination this year.

James S. Kemper, Chicago insurance executive who was a delegate to the Philadelphia convention four years ago, made public the final returns of a survey he made recently on the Presidential preferences and on other subjects. He included for comparison the outcome of a similar canvass of the same group he made last September.

Compared With September

Statistics on preferences now and last fall were given on Dewey, Wendell Willkie, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio and Gen. Douglas MacArthur as follows:

	March	September
Dewey	66.6%	36.21%
Willkie	15.7	18.66
Bricker	14.0	20.33
MacArthur	3.7	6.96

The tabulation on the question of "the least desirable candidate" was:

	March	September
Willkie	65.8%	54.28%
MacArthur	21.5	1.82
Bricker	12.0	4.49
Dewey	.7	1.22

Presidential preferences involving a theoretical choice between various men were: Dewey 82.5 vs. Bricker 17.5; Bricker 76.7 vs. MacArthur 23.3; Bricker 76.4 vs. Willkie 23.6; Dewey 92.7 vs. MacArthur 7.3; Dewey 84.2 vs. Willkie 15.7; MacArthur 65.4 vs. Willkie 34.6.

Dewey May Take Stump

Washington, March 22 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York says the defense of constitutional government is a timely subject for discussion and hints that he may consider speaking engagements outside of New York at some future date.

Dewey wrote Wade H. Cooper, member of the board of managers of the Columbia Historical Society, who has invited the New Yorker to speak at the society's 50th anniversary dinner here April 12:

"It would give me great pleasure to accept your invitation if it were possible, but I am unable to undertake any engagements to speak outside the State at this time."

Willkie Demands Stand Be Taken

Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 GOP nominee who is campaigning for renomination, has been demanding that Dewey and others who may be receptive state their position and debate issues.

Dewey's last important speech was at Madison Square Garden February 29, when he declared the terms of peace must be "enforceable but flexible" and based on a growing sense of fellowship between people. He has another New York address scheduled for April 27 before the annual dinner of the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, at which he may discuss foreign policies.

Dead Air Hero's Parents Seeking His Dog, Flak

Sister Writes Arnold, Who Says Army Will Try to Return Him

CHICAGO, March 22 (AP).—An Indiana farm couple, whose soldier son died a hero on the battle front, probably will get something to remember him by—his prized cocker spaniel—if arrangements can be made by Army Air Forces headquarters.

Since last October Sergeant Robert K. Bell's letters to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bell, of Denver, Ind., had much to say about his five-month-old spaniel, Flak. He and the dog were inseparable, he wrote his parents.

Sergeant Bell, who received the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Purple Heart, was killed in action. Later his sister, Mariette Bell, a cadet nurse here, wrote a letter to General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Forces, appealing for his aid in having Flak sent to her parents.

"My mother is not well," Miss Bell wrote General Arnold. "She made the statement, 'If we only had Robert's dog here with us so that we could look after it, as he would if he were living.'

"Please try to return Flak to us. This would be all we would have to remember him (Robert) by."

Yesterday General Arnold's headquarters replied to Miss Bell and told her they are trying to bring Flak home to the parents.

Teheran Conference Pianist Dies In Italy

Chicago, March 22 (AP)—Sergt. Richard M. Cram, 27, a soldier who played the piano for President Roosevelt, General Eisenhower and other high officials at the Cairo and Teheran conferences, died in Italy March 3 from injuries suffered in a motor vehicle accident, his parents said the War Department has notified them.

Sergeant Cram, an Army Air Force flight engineer, accompanied Col. Elliott Roosevelt to the conferences as a member of the photo squadron the President's son commanded.

Willkie Denies Backing F. D. R. Foreign Policy

Manitowoc, Wis., March 22 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie says he never has had a political talk with President Roosevelt "in my life," and he contends "there is no man in public life in America who has so frequently disagreed" with the President as he has.

Campaigning in Wisconsin for the Republican Presidential nomination, Willkie in a speech in Green Bay last night asserted that "I am in complete disagreement with the President's Vichy policy, his Darlan policy and his dealings with the Fascist forces of Italy."

Foreign Policy Link Hit

He gave the lie to what he described as "stories spread around that I am in league with President Roosevelt and agree with his foreign policy."

"As a matter of fact," Willkie declared, "I don't know what his foreign policy is."

During his campaign, in this State, Willkie has described the Wisconsin primary April 4 as "the most important primary contest to be held by either party in 1944, one that will determine in what direction the Republican party will turn and whether the party will prevail in the 1944 election."

Speeches Increased Significance

Since his 13-day tour began last Saturday, the importance of the primary to the GOP has increased with the number and vigor of Willkie's speeches.

In Green Bay, he said, it would be "the most important" primary, and added, "by either party." Earlier yesterday, in Appleton, he had said that in his judgment "there is no question that Mr. Roosevelt will be the candidate again of the Democratic party."

Cooperation, Liberalism Stressed

Hammering away on the theme that the only course the GOP can take to victory this year is one of international cooperation and economic liberalism, Willkie's speeches also have progressively increased the importance of his own candidacy in relation to such principles.

Yesterday, in Appleton, he personalized it to the extent of declaring: "If my hand is not upheld, then the Republican party is going to take a route down the road to defeat."

MacArthur's Old Words Are Coming True Today

San Francisco, March 23 (AP)—"Cut them off and let them starve."

Those words Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander in chief in the Southwest Pacific, said at his headquarters in Manila four years ago during a discussion of a possible Pacific war involving island-to-island fighting.

The general's idea appears to be bearing fruit these days as he directs the Southwest Pacific campaign against the Japanese.

Uncounted thousands of Nipponese troops, their supply lines cut by American air, sea and land power, are starving or facing starvation in the Solomons and on New Britain and New Ireland. The Japanese supply line into their stronghold at Wewak, New Guinea, is getting shaky as American airmen sink their ships in the Hollandia area.

THIS CENSOR ASSERTED IT WAS "UNFAIR TO PICK OUT AN ITEM LIKE THAT AND MAKE IT APPEAR TO REFLECT EIRE'S ATTITUDE," ALTHOUGH GREENE POINTED OUT THE GRAY ANGLE WAS "BURIED" IN THE STORY AND NOT EMPHASIZED.

LONDON, THURSDAY, MARCH 23-(AP)-THE LONDON DAILY MAIL SAID IN A MADRID DISPATCH TODAY THAT GERMAN AIRBORNE TROOPS HAD OCCUPIED THE SOVIET EMBASSY IN THE BULGARIAN CAPITAL OF SOFIA AND HAD DETAINED THE RUSSIAN DIPLOMATIC STAFF.

(ALTHOUGH BULGARIA IS AT WAR WITH BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES SHE IS NOT AT WAR WITH SOVIET RUSSIA AND HAS MAINTAINED DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH MOSCOW.) ff

LT.JOHN W.BEATON, 548 SOUTH CAVALRY ST., DETROIT, MICH., A BOMBARDIER, REMARKED THAT "BIRTHDAYS JUST AIN'T WHAT THEY USED TO BE. I SPENT MY 27TH GETTING SHOT AT TODAY. IT WAS THE COLDEST MISSION I EVER WAS ON."

"WE GOT A GOOD LOOK AT THE TARGET AND THERE WERE HUNDREDS OF FIRES," SAID LT.PAUL K.HOFFMAN OF COLLEGEVILLE,PA., A PILOT. "THE SHIP RIGHT NEXT TO US GOT A DIRECT HIT OF FLAK WHICH KNOCKED THE REAR HALF OFF BEHIND THE BALL-TURRET."

"THEY SENT UP ALL THE SCRAP IRON IN BERLIN," COMMENTED LT.ERNEST M.WENDT, RHINELANDER,WIS., A PILOT. "FLAK BROKE THE WINDSHIELD IN FRONT OF MY FACE." MAR 23 1944

"IT LOOKED LIKE NIGHT OVER THE CITY. ALL YOU COULD SEE WERE BLACK BURSTS OF SMOKE FROM FLAK," COMMENTED SGT.FREDERICK R.SALVANI, 1443 FERRIS PLACE, BRONX, N.Y., A TAIL-GUNNER.

SGT. GEORGE AGIASOTTELIS,JR., 39 BERKLEY ST., WATERTOWN, MASS., BALL-TURRET GUNNER SAID "OUR BOMBS WENT CRASHING HOME AND SMOKE BILLOWED A MILE HIGH. AS WE LEFT FIRES SEEMED TO BE SPREADING ALL OVER THE PLACE."

LONDON, MARCH 22-(AP)-AMERICAN FIGHTER PILOTS RETURNING TODAY FROM ESCORTING HEAVY BOMBERS TO BERLIN AND BACK SAID THEY WERE SURPRISED AT THE LACK OF FIGHTER OPPOSITION BUT DECLARED THE ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE WAS TERRIFIC.

SOME SAID THEY ENCOUNTERED CLEAR WEATHER. OTHERS DECLARED THEY RAN INTO 80 PERCENT OVERCAST.

"I DIDN'T SEE ONE ENEMY FIGHTER MYSELF--I DON'T UNDERSTAND IT BECAUSE IT WAS NICE WEATHER AND THEY COULD HAVE SENT THEM UP IF THEY'D WANTED TO," REMARKED LT. H.E.FRISK, SPOKANE, WASH.

THE FOLLOWING MUSTANG PILOTS NOW HAVE BEEN TO BERLIN FIVE TIMES:

LTS JAMES B.DALGLISH, ROME, N.Y.; WILLIAM I.DAVIS, TOPEKA, KAS.; EDWARD E.PHILLIPS, SPRINGFIELD, N.J.; ROBERT E.GOODNIGHT, POCATELLO, IDAHO; BOB TENORE, WILLIS, MICH.

FOR 19-YEAR-OLD LT. J.M.CARR, AURORA, ILL., HOWEVER, IT WAS THE FIRST COMBAT TRIP AND HE WAS EXCITED WHEN HE RETURNED.

"YES, I WAS SCARED AT TIMES," HE SAID. "THAT FLAK SEEMED JUST LIKE BALLOONS AND A COUPLE OF PUFFS CAME PLENTY CLOSE. IT WAS JUST ABOUT WHAT I EXPECTED, THOUGH."

LT. FRANK O'CONNOR, 2355 POLK ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF., A MUSTANG PILOT, SAID HE SAW ONLY TWO GERMAN FIGHTERS.

"I SAW THE LIBS SHOOT DOWN A ME-109 JUST BEFORE WE REACHED THE TARGET," HE SAID. "LATER I SAW ANOTHER HUN AND ABOUT 15 OF OUR FIGHTERS WERE AFTER HIM."

COL. JAMES HOWARD, 20 CRESTWOOD DRIVE, ST.LOUIS, MO., WHO LED A MUSTANG GROUP: "THE FLAK WAS PRETTY BAD BUT I DIDN'T SEE AN ENEMY FIGHTER."

MAR 23 1944

"I BROUGHT OUT FIVE STRAGGLERS AND WENT ALL THE WAY FROM 30,000 TO 1,000 FEET AND DIDN'T SEE A THING EXCEPT FLAK AND MORE FLAK," REPORTED MUSTANG SQUADRON LEADER CAPT. JACK BRADLEY, BROWNWOOD, TEX. "IT WAS THE FIRST TRIP I'VE MADE WITHOUT SEEING AN ENEMY FIGHTER."

CAPT. HAROLD P.THORESON, FORMER POSTMASTER OF SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF., ONE OF THE FEW INTELLIGENCE OFFICERS DOING COMBAT DUTY, MADE HIS SECOND MISSION TODAY AS A FORTRESS WAIST GUNNER AND SAID, "THE FLAK REALLY WAS THICK. I SAW PLENTY B-17S GO DOWN OVER BERLIN. ONE WENT INTO A SPIN AND BURST INTO A THOUSAND PIECES. BESIDES THE FLAK THE NAZIS SHOT ROCKETS FROM THE GROUND WITH STRINGERS BEHIND. THE GERMAN FIGHTERS WOULDN'T POKE THEIR NOSES ABOVE THE CLOUDS."

"IT WAS MY FIRST TRIP OVER BERLIN AND REALLY A THRILL. THE ONLY THING YOU CAN LIKEN IT TO IS A WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP BOXING MATCH. IT IS A MARVELOUS SIGHT TO SEE HUNDREDS OF FORTRESSES POURING OUT BOMBS LIKE TIPPING A BARREL OF APPLES."

MAR 23 1944

"I SAW THE TARGET THROUGH A BREAK IN THE CLOUDS AND LET THE BOMBS GO," SAID FLIGHT OFFICER JAMES B.WILLIAMS, FORTRESS BOMBARDIER, 1099 GLADYS AVE., LONG BEACH, CALIF.

"THE BOMBS REALLY HIT THE TARGET AND I COULD SEE BLACK SMOKE SWIRTINGOTONE SKY. THEY'LL HANG UP A SIGN 'OUT OF ORDER' ON THE DOOR OF THAT FACTORY--IF THE DOOR STILL IS STANDING."

MOST OF THE BOMBING WAS DONE THROUGH CLOUDS WITH THE NEW AMERICAN OVERCAST TECHNIQUE.

THE LEADING PLANE IN ONE GROUP OF FORTS WAS PILOTED BY LT.HOMER CLAYMORE, CHEYENNE AGENCY, S.D., A PART INDIAN AIRMAN WHO SAID THE TRIP WAS "TIRESOME AS HELL."

MAR 23 1944

"I WATCHED A B-17 HIT BY FLAK OVER BERLIN," RECOUNTED STAFF SGT. RAYMOND E.DEAN, VALIER, MONT., A TAILGUNNER. "SHE PULLED OUT OF FORMATION, LEVELLED OFF, SWUNG TO THE RIGHT, TURNED ON HER BACK AND WENT INTO A SPIN JUST LIKE A TOP. ALL AT ONCE SHE BROKE IN HALF AT THE RADIO COMPARTMENT. THE NOSE WENT ONE WAY, THE TAIL THE OTHER."

THE FORTRESS WAS STARTING ITS BOMBING RUN WHEN IT WAS JUMPED BY SEVERAL NAZI FIGHTERS. POPE HIT ONE WHICH BLEW UP SO CLOSE ITS FRAGMENTS HIT THE TAIL OF THE FORTRESS, KNOCKING OUT PART OF ONE STABILIZER.

THEN CAME A HAIL OF NAZI SHELLS. ONE TORE OUT THE NOSE OF THE BOMBARDIER'S COMPARTMENT. ANOTHER WOUNDED EDDEBURN AND A THIRD PUNCTURED A WING AND GAS TANK.

WITH EDDEBURN SPRAWLED DYING BESIDE HIM, REEDER WAS SHOT IN THE ARM AND LEG AND THE PLANE'S RADIO WAS KNOCKED OUT. BUT REEDER STUCK TO THE CONTROLS, BRINGING THE SHIP OUT OF THE BOMB RUN WITH THE ENEMY IN HOT PURSUIT.

SPLINTERS HIT ENGEL IN THE HEAD--PUTTING OUT ONE EYE--BUT HE REFUSED MORPHINE TO MOVE FORWARD TO HELP REEDER AT THE CONTROLS.

THEN LT.PETER F.DELAO OF SAN ANTONIO, TEX., BOMBARDIER, WAS WOUNDED IN THE FACE, HANDS, ARMS AND LEGS AS SHELLS KNOCKED OUT THE OXYGEN SYSTEM SUPPLYING THE FORWARD COMPARTMENT.

POPE DEVISED AN EMERGENCY OXYGEN LINE TO SUPPLY THE WOUNDED--STOPPING ONLY TO TAKE OCCASIONAL WHIFFS TO KEEP HIMSELF GOING--AS REEDER AND ENGEL BOBBED THE SHIP IN EVASIVE ACTION THAT FINALLY BROUGHT THEM TO AN EMERGENCY FIELD IN ENGLAND. BUT ON THE WAY WAIST GUNNER SGT.ROBERT M.LOVIN OF 4096 EAST GRANVILLE ST., TYLER, TEX., KNOCKED DOWN ANOTHER NAZI.

BOTH WAIST GUNNERS WERE WOUNDED BY BURSTS OF 20 MILLIMETER SHELLS AND CO-PILOT LT.RONALD J.CASEY OF 143 THORPE ST., PONTIAC, MICH., SAID THAT WHILE HE WAS BANDAGING THE LEFT-WAIST-GUNNER THE OTHER GUNNER "STOOD OVER US TO PROTECT US, ALTHOUGH HE WAS HIT IN THE FACE AND LEG."

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, MARCH 22-(AP)-NEW ZEALAND TROOPS OF THE FIFTH ARMY, SLUGGING IT OUT WITH THE ENEMY IN SAVAGE HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTING, ARE MAKING SLOW BUT STEADY PROGRESS IN THE SOUTHERN SECTION OF CASSINO, ALLIED HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

FIGHTING EQUALLY AS BLOODY RAGED IN THE HILLS TO THE WEST FROM WHICH AN ESTIMATED 30 PIECES OF GERMAN ARTILLERY AND MANY MORTARS CONTINUED TO RAIN SHELLS INTO THE RUINED TOWN.

MAR 23 1944

"OUR EFFORTS TO CLEAR THE TOWN OF CASSINO AND OCCUPY THE EASTERN SLOPES OF DOMINATING MONTE CASSINO WERE PUSHED ENERGETICALLY AGAINST BITTER ENEMY OPPOSITION AND TERRAIN DIFFICULTIES MONDAY AND TUESDAY," A HEADQUARTERS COMMENTATOR SAID.

ALLIED TROOPS HOLDING ONE POINT ON THE MONTE CASSINO SLOPES WERE ONLY 400 TO 700 YARDS FROM TWO STRONG GERMAN ARTILLERY POINTS JUST WEST OF THE TOWN, MAKING IT PARTICULARLY DIFFICULT FOR ALLIED GUNNERS, FIRING FROM THE VALLEY OR THE HILLS BEYOND, TO NEUTRALIZE THE ENEMY FIRE WITHOUT ENDANGERING THEIR OWN MEN.

THE HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTING IN CASSINO'S SOUTHERN PORTION WAS OFFICIALLY DESCRIBED AS "VERY HEAVY."

GERMAN DEFENSE FORCES IN CASSINO WERE REINFORCED MONDAY BY YOUNG NAZI PARACHUTE TROOPS AND UNITS OF AN ARMORED GRENADIER DIVISION. OFFICIAL REPORTS OF FIGHTING IN THE TOWN'S SOUTHERN SECTION INDICATED THAT THEY MAY HAVE REGAINED SOME GROUND THERE AFTER RECAPTURING THE CONTINENTAL HOTEL WRECKAGE.

AN OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT SAID THAT ADDITIONAL GERMAN PRISONERS HAVE BEEN TAKEN, INCREASING TO 238 THE TOTAL CAPTURED SINCE THE BATTLE BEGAN A WEEK AGO.

MAR 23 1944

ON THE MONTE CASSINO SLOPES, BRITISH TROOPS MADE A DETERMINED ATTACK ON TWO GERMAN POINTS LAST NIGHT AND WERE MAKING GOOD PROGRESS UNTIL THEY RAN INTO A MINEFIELD. THE GERMANS MEANWHILE STARTING INFILTRATING DOWN A GULCH TOWARD THE BRITISH-HELD HILL, FORCING THE ATTACKERS TO RETURN TO THEIR BASE.

OTHER ALLIED TROOPS MADE A FORAY TO A SECOND GERMAN-HELD POINT ABOUT 1,000 YARDS FROM THEIR OWN POSITION IN AN ATTEMPT TO PREVENT THE INFILTRATION DOWN THE GULCH BUT WERE BEATEN BACK.

INDIAN TROOPS HOLDING A SMALL PLATEAU FARTHER SOUTH RECEIVED SUPPLIES BY AIR YESTERDAY AS THEY HAD ON THE TWO PRECEDING DAYS. INVADERS AGAIN DROPPED THE SUPPLIES BY PARACHUTE.

ALLIED TROOPS RETAINED TWO POINTS SOUTHWEST OF CASSINO UNDER HEAVY ENEMY ATTACKS. NEW ZEALANDERS IN THE TOWN HAVE BEEN ATTACKING TOWARD THESE POINTS AGAINST STRONG INTERVENING ENEMY OPPOSITION.

THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD SECTOR WAS MOSTLY QUIET EXCEPT FOR HEAVY GERMAN ARTILLERY FIRE NEAR PADIGLIONE. ON THE ADRIATIC SIDE OF THE BATTLE LINE, PATROL CLASHES OCCURRED, ESPECIALLY IN THE ORSOGNA REGION.

ALLIED ARTILLERY SCORED DIRECT HITS ON GERMAN-HELD HOUSES NEAR TOLLO AND MORTARS FIRED INTO MOVING GERMAN TROOPS NEAR ARIELLI.

FLYING FOR THE SECOND STRAIGHT DAY IN WEATHER WHICH GROUNDED THE FOUR-ENGINED BOMBERS, ALLIED MEDIUM BOMBERS YESTERDAY AGAIN LASHED AT RAIL AND PORT FACILITIES NORTH OF ROME, KNOCKING OUT TWO BRIDGES AND TWO VIADUCTS, AS WELL AS HARASSING SHIPPING ALONG THE DALMATIAN COAST.

BRIDGES FELL AT POGGIBONSI, SOUTH OF FLORENCE, AND AT CECINA, BELOW LEGHORN. THE VIADUCTS WERE AT AREZZO AND BUCINE.

ONE PATROL OF SPITFIRES INTERCEPTED FOUR MESSERSCHMITT 109S WHICH WERE ATTEMPTING TO ATTACK THREE PIPER CUB OBSERVATION PLANES OVER CASSINO AND SHOT DOWN ALL FOUR. FOUR ALLIED PLANES WERE LOST DURING THE DAY OUT OF APPROXIMATELY 800 SORTIES.

MAR 23 1944

ON A SWEEP NEAR ROME THUNDERBOLTS SCORED EIGHT DIRECT BOMB HITS ON A RAILROAD BRIDGE, THEN SHOT UP TWO LOCOMOTIVES AND SIX MOTOR VEHICLES. AN AUSTRALIAN KITTYHAWK SQUADRON SANK ONE SIEBEL FERRY AND SET ANOTHER AFIRE ALONG THE DALMATIAN COAST. THEY ALSO SANK THREE SCHOONERS IN THE SAME AREA.

LT.WILBUR WENDLING, OF 6337 KENISTER STREET, LOS ANGELES, WHO LED THE MEDIUM BOMBER FORMATIONS WHICH DESTROYED THE BRIDGES BEYOND ROME, SAID THEY WERE WELL COVERED WITH BOMBS AND "OURS WERE AMONG THE FIRST TO FALL AND OUR BOMBARDIERS SAW THEM EXPLODE ON THE STRUCTURE."

TWO OF THE FOUR MESSERSCHMITT VICTORIES OVER CASSINO WERE CREDITED TO LT.RICHARD F.HURD, OF 37 MAIN STREET, TARRYTOWN, N.Y., WHICH GAVE HIM A GRAND TOTAL OF SIX ENEMY PLANES DESTROYED--AND THE TITLE OF "ACE."

LT.JAMES A.JACOBS, OF 50 MOODY STREET, FALL RIVER, MASS., AND LT. LAWRENCE N.GUARINO, OF 295 CLIFTON AVENUE, NEWARK, N.J., RECEIVED CREDIT FOR THE OTHER TWO. IT WAS THE FIRST VICTORY FOR EACH.

JACOBS SAID THE DOGFIGHT WAS FOUGHT IN A HAIL OF GERMAN FLAK "BUT WE PAID NO ATTENTION TO IT."

LT.GUARINO SAID HE WAS INFURIATED AT SEEING THE GERMANS ATTACK THE LITTLE CUBS.

MAR 23 1944

"I PICKED OUT A VICTIM AND FOLLOWED HIM RIGHT TO THE GROUND," HE SAID. "AFTER I SCORED A FEW STRIKES ON HIS FUSELAGE HE PULLED UP TO 800 FEET AND BAILED OUT SUCCESSFULLY."

AMERICAN MARINES TODAY POSED A NEW THREAT TO TRUK, JAPANESE NAVAL AND SUPPLY BASE, FROM THE ST.MATTHIAS ISLANDS OF THE NORTH BISMARCK ARCHIPELAGO, THE CLOSEST APPROACH YET MADE BY GROUND FORCES TO THAT ENEMY FORTRESS IN THE CAROLINE ISLANDS.

A SURPRISE THRUST BY FORCES OF ADM.WILLIAM F.HALSEY'S SOUTH PACIFIC COMMAND, SUPPORTED BY ALLIED AIR AND NAVAL SUPREMACY, MET NEGLIGIBLE RESISTANCE IN THE NEW AMPHIBIOUS LANDING MONDAY 580 MILES SOUTH OF TRUK.

MAR 23 1944

THIS NORTHWARD SURGE OF ALLIED POWER BY-PASSED THE NIPPONESE BASES OF KAVIENG, NEW IRELAND, AND RABAUL, NEW BRITAIN. IT "COMPLETES ISOLATION OF ALL ENEMY BASES IN THE BISMARCK ARCHIPELAGO AND PLACES US IN BOMBING RANGE OF TRUK," SAID GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR IN ANNOUNCING THE INVASION.

THE REFERENCE TO TRUK IS SIGNIFICANT, POINTED OUT MURLIN SPENCER, ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT AT HEADQUARTERS, BECAUSE EMIRAU ISLAND, WHERE MARINES LANDED, IS SUITABLE FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF AIRSTRIPS LARGE ENOUGH FOR HEAVY BOMBERS.

EMIRAU IS 55 MILES CLOSER TO TRUK THAN THE MOMOTE AND LORENGAU AIRFIELDS IN THE ADMIRALTIES, RECENTLY CONQUERED BY AMERICAN FORCES, AND 170 MILES CLOSER THAN ENIWETOK ATOLL IN THE WESTERN MARSHALLS. ENIWETOK WAS CAPTURED BY AMERICAN TROOPS JUST A MONTH AGO AND AN AIRFIELD THERE HAS BEEN IN USE FOR SOME TIME.

JAPANESE FORCES NOW COMPLETELY ENCIRCLED IN THE BISMARCK ARCHIPELAGO AND NORTHERN SOLOMONS, WITHOUT HOPE OF BEING EVACUATED OR SUPPLIED, PROBABLY TOTAL MORE THAN 100,000 MEN. SPENCER REPORTED 50,000 WERE AT KAVIENG AND RABAUL ALONE. WHEN THE GREEN ISLANDS, NORTH OF THE SOLOMONS, WERE INVADED LAST MONTH, MACARTHUR ESTIMATED THE OPERATION CUT OFF 22,000 JAPANESE ON BUKA, BOUGAINVILLE, CHOISEUL AND THE SHORTLAND ISLANDS TO THE SOUTH.

OTHER ENEMY GARRISONS ARE AT SUCH IMPORTANT POINTS AS GASMATA,

ON THE SOUTHERN COAST OF NEW BRITAIN, AND WEWAK, ON THE NORTHERN. COAST OF NEW GUINEA.

THE OCCUPATION OF EMIRAU AND NEARBY ELOMISAO ISLAND COINCIDED WITH A TERRIFIC NAVAL BOMBARDMENT OF KAVIENG, 84 MILES TO THE SOUTH AMERICAN BATTLESHIPS PARTICIPATED IN THE SHELLING WHICH, MACARTHUR REPORTED, COMPLETELY DESTROYED WHOLE SECTIONS OF THE TOWN, BLEW UP AMMUNITION DUMPS AND SILENCED SHORE BATTERIES.

WHILE THE MARINES HIT THE ST.MATTHIAS BEACHES UNDER COVER OF DESTROYERS AND AN UMBRELLA OF HUNDREDS OF AIRCRAFT, CRUISERS AND BATTLESHIPS HOVERED IN THE OFFING TO WARD OFF ANY INTERCEPTION BY JAPANESE NAVAL UNITS. THEIR BIG GUNS REMAINED COOL, HOWEVER, FOR NO JAPANESE SHIP APPEARED.

THE RESULTS OF THIS NEWEST, SUCCESSFUL OFFENSIVE ACTION ARE FOUR FOLD:

1. MACARTHUR ANNOUNCED THE "OPERATION COMPLETES ISOLATION OF ALL ENEMY BASES IN THE BISMARCK ARCHIPELAGO."

2. THE GENERAL ADDED IT "PLACES US IN BOMBING RANGE OF TRUK," BIG JAPANESE NAVAL BASE 580 MILES TO THE NORTH.

THE INVASION TODAY OF EMIRAU ISLAND IN THE NO[illegible]RCK ARCHIPELAGO CAUSED SOME SURPRISE AMONG OBSERVERS[illegible] THOUGHT

IT WAS THE FIRST TIME SINCE THE OPENING OF THE U.S. SOUTHWEST PACIFIC OFFENSIVE THAT THE AMERICAN COMMAND BYPASSED TWO MAJOR ENEMY BASTIONS. LIKEWISE, IT WAS THE MOST IMPORTANT BYPASSING MOVE IN THIS AREA TO DATE.

OBSERVERS FELT THAT MAJOR CONTRIBUTING FACTORS TO THE SUCCESS OF THE OPERATION WERE THE TREMENDOUS AIR VICTORIES SCORED BY ADMIRAL WILLIAM F.HALSEY'S SKY FIGHTERS WHEN THEY DESTROYED ABOUT 1,000 JAPANESE PLANES AT RABAUL, WRECKED AIR FIELDS AND MADE THE HARBOR UNTENABLE FOR NAVAL CRAFT. THE JAPANESE OFFERED NO AIR OPPOSITION AND THE NEGLIGIBLE SHORE FIRE MADE NAVAL BOMBARDMENT UNNECESSARY ALTHOUGH WARSHIPS HAD THEIR GUNS TRAINED ON THE BEACHHEAD. THERE WAS NO ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE.

A British rating hustled to the rail and ordered him away.

"Get away yourself," Griff snorted, "I was here first waiting for you," and added, "Anyway, I didn't hurt your old boat, and if I did I'm sorry."

On another occasion, when the Duke of Windsor and his bride, Wally Simpson, were visiting her aunt in Baltimore county, Griff was one of the group of cameramen waiting for the duke to play a round of golf. In one of his famed democratic gestures, the Windsor brought out a round of drinks for the waiting lensmen. It impressed everybody but Griff.

Russians Advance 43 Miles, Break Into Town of Kovel.

NIGHT

LONDON, March 23 (AP) The Russians tonight announced a 37-mile-deep breakthrough in the stubbornly-defended Tarnopol hinge area of the eastern front, and Berlin reported that other Red army forces to the northwest in a 43-mile advance deep inside old Poland had broken into the town of Kovel on the main road to Warsaw.

The smash into Kovel, on which the Russians were silent, carried the swift-rolling Russians to a point only 33 miles from the German-Russian partition boundary established in 1939—the line from which the Germans invaded Russia June 22, 1941.

May Trap Nazi Troops

The Russian announcement of the big Tarnopol breakthrough came 24 hours after Berlin had reported the offensive, describing it as a powerful flanking maneuver to the south to meet Russian forces on the Dniester. Such a thrust could trap large German forces pocketed to the northeast up as far as the Vinnitsa area.

The Russian daily communique broadcast from Moscow tonight disclosed that the First Ukraine army had driven directly between the hard German cores of defense at Tarnopol and Proskurov and swirled right and left in maneuvers designed to encircle those cities and thus smash the pivot pins on which the Nazis' Ukraine forces depend.

With Tarnopol already cut off on the north, east and south, the Russians said they had taken 32 miles of the railway running south, from a point three miles south of the city to the junction of Kopchintse, 35 miles south of Tarnopol.

200 Towns Regained

Besides Kopchintse, captured railway stations included Trembovlya, Nikoltsy and Grzhimalov, plus 200 towns and villages taken in the past three days, the Soviet communique stated.

The Russians related that after withstanding a German counterattack in the Tarnopol area, they went over to the offensive and almost immediately broke through to the south. In taking Kopchintse they cut the east-west railway between Chertkov and Gusyatin, while other Soviet formations in a drive south from the region west of Proskurov cut the Germans into isolated groups and cleaned them up.

At one point 50 German tanks were wrecked or burned, at another two trainloads of German tanks and trucks were captured, and at another 800 Germans were killed, the communique said.

The Russians made their greatest effort in the area south of Tarnopol without withdrawing any strength from other sectors of the flaming southern front, where their offensive rolled forward again today through another 115 settlements.

Apart from the Tarnopol breakthrough, the most striking announcement of the night was the Soviet advance to Voznesensk, on the Bug river 50 miles above Nikolaev. There the Russians reported suburban street battles were in progress, while capture of the string of villages to the south cleared the Germans from the entire eastern bank of the Bug.

Nikolaev's Fate Sealed

This advance goes far to seal the fate of Nikolaev itself, already virtually under siege, with Russian forces less than five miles away on the southeast.

West of the Voznesensk battle the Russians swung farther down in the direction of Odessa, capturing 30 more hamlets southwest of Gaivoron in a campaign intended to cave the roof in on perhaps 100,000 Germans stuck in the mud between the lower Bug and the Dniester.

In the drive in Bessarabia the Russians reported a developing offensive on the west bank of the Dniester had taken the river town of Vertuzhany, 50 miles southeast of Mogilev-Podolski, and had seized Tyrnovo, 23 miles south of Mogilev and 30 miles northeast of the Prut river.

The Russian communique referred to these and 40 other recaptured places as being in the Moldavian Soviet republic, thus reiterating the Russian position that Bessarabia is Russian territory and that the Rumanian border is the Prut. Rumania ceded Bessarabia back to Russia in 1940 but took it and additional territory in payment for joining Germany in the 1941 invasion.

Rumanians Remain in Fight

That Rumanian troops still are fighting alongside the Germans was signified in the Russian announcement that more than 1,000 Rumanian and German officers and men were captured in Bessarabia. In that same area a large convoy of property "stolen by the Germans from the population" was recovered, the Russian communique added.

Between that sector and the Tarnopol front, the Russians reported another slashing stroke on the way to Kamenets-Podolsk had freed 25 towns in the side of the big German bulge left hanging in the Ukraine line.

The Russians first began their drive on Tarnopol Feb. 11 under Gen. Nikolai Vatutin, who later became ill and was succeeded by Marshal Gregory Zhukov, one of Russia's foremost strategists.

On March 9 the Russians fought into the streets of Tarnopol, but the Germans, recognizing the threat to their entire Ukraine system, poured in reserves to hold the town to protect the great exodus from the southeast.

RUSSIAN TANKS PUSH 120 MILES INSIDE POLAND

Red Armored Unit Attacks Kovel on Main Road to Warsaw.

DAY MAR 24 19

London, March 23 (A. P.).—Berlin announced today that a Russian tank column, advancing nearly fifty miles beyond all previously reported positions, had broken into the town of Kovel, deep inside Poland on the main road to Warsaw. The Germans also indicated that the Russian steamroller was gaining important ground both in Poland and in the strategic Tarnopol-Proskurov hinge area of the Western Ukraine.

In a communique broadcast by the Berlin radio the German High Command stated that the German garrison at Kovel repelled new Russian attacks and shot up six out of ten enemy tanks which had broken into the town. In addition, the Russians were advancing northwest of Kovel in fierce fighting.

The Russians for the moment were silent on this action, which was taking place well beyond any fighting reported previously by either side. Kovel is 120 miles inside Poland and lies only ninety miles east of the city of Lublin, through which a main highway leads to Warsaw, another 100 miles to the northwest.

Tonight's Russian communique, broadcast by the Moscow radio, said that the Red Army has made an important new advance of from twenty-five to thirty-seven miles in the direction of Tarnopol, in whose streets German and Russian forces have been reported fighting for several weeks.

The capture of Zalozhtse, twenty miles northwest of Tarnopol, and of Veliki Glubochek, five miles northwest of Tarnopol, indicated that the Russians have by-passed that stubborn German defense center and are driving on toward Lwow in Poland.

More than 200 other populated places fell to the new Russian offensive in the Tarnopol area, and the Russians overcame German counter-attacks to continue their offensive in the Vinnetsa area to the southeast.

Russian troops have reached the town of Voznesensk and are now fighting in the outskirts of that last German bridgehead east of the Bug River between Pervomaisk and Nikolaev, Moscow said.

The Russian forces smashing into Bessarabia captured Tyrnovo, about eight miles east of Myndyk, which fell yesterday, and within about thirty miles of the Prut River. Southwest and south of Gaivoron, on the lower Ukrainian front between Rudnitsa and Pervomaisk, Russian troops took the town and railway station of Kodima and more than thirty other populated places.

troops fought today within sight of the Black Sea naval base of Nikolaev and drove into the hills of Bessarabia where the land begins rising gradually to the Carpathian Mountains.

The battle for Nikolaev has begun and the Germans appear doomed.

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's mobile troops reached points 25 miles from the Prut river, where the Rumanians and Germans launched their invasion of Russia, and 18 miles from the Bessarabian communications center of Byeltsi.

Kovel Battle Reported

(The German high command said today that fighting was going on inside Kovel and northwest of that center below the Pripet marshes in the eastern part of old Poland—approximately 50 miles beyond the announced positions of the Red army.

("The German garrison at Kovel repelled renewed Russian attacks," a broadcast communique recorded in London said, "and shot up six out of 10 enemy tanks which had broken into the town. Northwest of Kovel German troops stopped the advancing enemy after fierce fighting."

(A new Russian offensive southeast of Vitebsk on the other side of the marshes also was reported by the Germans.)

German planes in great numbers sought to destroy bridges and roads behind the Russians, but bridges over the Dniester and southern Bug rivers were too numerous and the Red army was too strong.

Moscow Exhibits New Nazi Weapon

Moscow, March 23 (AP)—A Moscow exhibit of newly captured German arms includes a self-propelled, electrically controlled land torpedo used as an anti-tank weapon.

Tass news agency said the torpedo, captured along with a 10-barrel reactive mortar mounted on an armored carrier, had been held a close secret by the Germans but had been abandoned during the rapid retreat from the Leningrad sector.

Tass said the torpedo was controlled by a wire a mile and a half long.

Among other exhibits are a 105-mm. gun with range of about 11 miles and a 150-mm. gun with a range of more than 12 miles.

PEACE TIDE STEMMED

NIGHT

Nazis Wage Campaign to Organize Satellites for War on Reds.

MAR 24 1944

LONDON, March 23.—(AP) In a desperate demonstration of Nazi power, Adolf Hitler, holding Hungary under his thumb today, launched a campaign of bullying the other southeastern European nations into a stand-or-perish position with Germany against the onrushing Red army.

A strongly-supported Ankara report said that German troops began the formal occupation of Rumania early today. Telephone communications between the Rumanian capital of Bucharest and Sofia in Bulgaria were interrupted.

Summoned By Hitler

(A London broadcast said a dispatch from Switzerland declared that Prince Cyril of Bulgaria and Regent Bogdan Philov "have been ordered to the headquarters of Hitler next Monday." This broadcast was reported by CBS.)

Germany's present moves apparently were designed to stem the rising tide of peace sentiment in that section of war-weary Europe and prevent—temporarily at least—a repetition of the disintegration which led to Germany's downfall in 1918.

Even as Hitler rode herd over Hungary through a new Quisling premier, there were indications that all Nazi satellites were being given the choice of providing complete military cooperation under Nazi direction, or of being occupied by Nazi troops.

It was elsewhere indicated that Hitler was preparing to "kidnap" Rumania to shore up his tottering Balkan edifice. There were widespread rumors that Premier Ion Antonescu had been summoned to Hitler's presence as Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, had gone before him.

Rumania Warned

The British radio immediately beamed broadcasts to Rumania.

"Of two evils, you must choose the lesser," the Broadcast warned.

"If you oppose Germany, Germany will wreak vengeance on you, but if you oppose the Allies, an even graver fate is in store."

German occupation of Rumania would be largely academic except as a measure of utter political control. The country is little else than a German camp area now.

Neutral reports said the new Quisling regime in Hungary and the Gestapo were pressing a purge of anti-Nazis and Jews throughout the country and neighboring satellites were closing their borders to the refugees.

The cabinet of Doeme Sztojay, premier in the new puppet government, held its first meeting, and Minister of Agriculture and Supply Kurczek was said to have declared upon emerging from the session:

"Whoever dares get in the way of Hungary's goal and makes mental reservations must be brushed aside. The solution of the Jewish problem is absolutely essential."

Rumanians Get New Warning On Hitler

DAY

London, March 23 (AP)—Maneuvering swiftly to caulk his Balkan dike against the Russian flood Hitler appeared today to be about to kidnap the Rumanian Government as he already has abducted that of Hungary.

There were widespread reports that Premier Ion Antonescu of Rumania has been summoned to Hitler's presence as Admiral Nicholas Horthy, Regent of Hungary, had gone before him. There was speculation that Antonescu was likely to be kicked out because of German suspicions that he was involved in peace overtures toward the Soviet.

British Warn Rumanians

The British radio at once began broadcasting this warning to the Rumanians:

"Rumanian leaders have been called to Hitler's headquarters. If you oppose Germany, Germany will wreak vengeance on you, but if you oppose the Allies an even graver fate is in store. . . . German transport is exposed and runs through Rumania. Concerted evidence of the desire to help the Allies now would be the first step toward Rumania's survival."

Germany's occupation of Rumania would be largely academic except as a measure for complete political control, for the country already is little more than a German camp area.

Denies Horthy Is Prisoner

A German Foreign Office spokesman, according to a Berlin broadcast, "emphatically denied" that Horthy was being held prisoner, that Premier Nicholas Kallay had escaped to southern Hungary and had sent out an appeal for help from abroad, and that Yugoslav Marshal Tito had established contact with Hungarian forces.

In the first official Nazi announcement since German forces crossed Hungary's borders early Monday, the Berlin radio said yesterday that a new government had been formed in Budapest under a quisling premier and a German Gauleiter.

Opposition Reported

From Stockholm came the first outspoken opposition to Doeme Sztojay, the new puppet Premier, as Antal Ullein Reviczky, Hungarian Minister to Sweden, refused to acknowledge the new regime, calling it "a Quisling government without legal basis."

Swiss dispatches said the Hungarian Legation to Switzerland and the Hungarian Minister to Finland also had broken with the new Budapest Government.

Hungary's fate was an example for countries failing to fall in line as Hitler strove to build up an eastern wall of defense against the fast-moving Russians.

Dispatches from neutral capitals continued to refer to Bulgaria and Rumania as possibly next on Hitler's list for full military occupation and added another—Slovakia, created from the carved-up state of Czecho-Slovakia.

Envoy Detained, Report

A Daily Mail dispatch from Madrid said German air-borne troops were seizing Bulgaria's railways and communications systems and had detained the Soviet Ambassador and occupied the Embassy in Sofia. Bulgaria and Russia have remained at peace.

London viewed Rumania as too weak to be other than docile, particularly since the Russians are knocking against her Prut river border. London dispatches from Ankara quoted rumors there that Hitler had promised Antonescu immediate return of Transylvania from Hungary as one inducement for full collaboration.

A Vichy broadcast heard by the Associated Press said that Antonescu had gone to Hitler's headquarters for important discussions.

The German-controlled Budapest radio told the Hungarian people that Regent Nicholas Horthy, widely reported a prisoner when the Germans moved into his homeland, had sworn in the new pro-Nazi Cabinet late yesterday.

Doeme Sztojay, a former Hungarian army officer who has been Hungarian minister to Berlin, was named Premier in the new puppet government. DNB announced that Hitler had appointed Dr. Edmund Veehsenmayer as minister and trustee of the greater German Reich in Hungary—a job obviously designed to keep the quislings in line.

From Stockholm came the first outspoken opposition to Sztojay as Antal Ullein Reviczky, Hungarian minister to Sweden, refused to acknowledge the new regime, calling it "a quisling government without legal basis."

ANKARA, Turkey, March 23.—The Germans began formal occupation of Rumania early today, according to a strongly supported report at Ankara. Telephone communications between Sofia, the Bulgarian capital, and Bucharest, the capital of Rumania, were said to be interrupted.

Nazis Gather Forces In East Prussian Ports

Stockholm, Friday, March 24 (AP). Reports circulating in Stockholm military quarters said today the Germans were concentrating troops and warships, landing boats and other craft in East Prussian ports.

Inasmuch as the concentration was said to be more than normally required at present for military security reasons, these informants suggested the Germans might be planning to occupy the Finnish Ahvenanmaa islands between Finland and Sweden at the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia.

These islands would be vital to the Germans in the event the Russians were able to reach the Baltic Sea.

Nazis Said To Hold Balkan Ports

Istanbul, March 23 (AP)—Reliable reports reaching here tonight said the Germans had taken complete control of every Rumanian and Bulgarian city on the Black Sea and had confiscated all transportation facilities on the Danube from Budapest to Galati.

The reports said all local troops in these cities had been placed under German commanders. The Germans were said to be using every available boat and barge on the Danube to move troops and material.

Another report said the Germans still were sending reinforcements to the Greek Aegean islands despite the supply difficulties. Allied air and naval offensives against the German island supply routes have been so successful, the report said, that the commandant of the German-held islands had been forced to ask for increased military aid and more food from the German general commander in Greece.

German Fighters Put Up Strong Defense as Raiders Attack.

R.A.F. HITS FRANKFURT

Greatest Bomb Load in History Batters Industrial Target.

NIGHT

LONDON, March 23. — (AP) Strong forces of American bombers, following up a record 3,360-ton bombardment of Frankfurt by the R.A.F. last night, carried out a sweeping series of daylight attacks against five other German targets today, and a powerful escort of fighters shot down at least 20 enemy planes as the Nazi air force came up in strength to battle.

Twenty-seven American bombers and six fighters were lost as the U. S. Eighth Air force used probably more than 1,500 planes in bombing rail yards, war factories and air bases in northwest Germany.

It was the 13th attack against German targets in March and the sixth strong blow in nine days.

18th Raid in Month

It was the 18th operation for the month for the heavies and equalled the record set in February—indicating that the record number of daylight attacks made in one month would be easily exceeded by the end of March.

The Germans had no time to recover from the daylight operations before air raid warnings were sounded in the Reich against R.A.F. night attackers. At 9 p. m. the Berlin radio warning system broadcast: "A number of nuisance raiders are over northwestern Germany.

U. S. strategic air force headquarters announced strong formations of Liberators and Fortresses hit:

The railway yards at Hamm; an air station at Achmer; a bomber base at Handorf; a war factory at Muenster and the Messerschmitt production center at Brunswick.

This was the first time the German air force had given battle since March 18.

It was considered about time, for not less than 5,000 Allied planes had gone deep into the Reich in the 24 hours ending at 1:00 p. m. (8 a. m. E.W.T.) raining down at least 6,000 short tons of bombs—a rate of approximately 250 tons every hour and more than four tons every minute.

Losses Less Than 2 Per Cent

In this 24-hour period the attack cost a total of 73 bombers and 13 fighters—less than two per cent of the total attacking force.

In the latest raids all the scattered targets were bombed visually in good weather with good results, the air force communique said, except Brunswick, where clouds required use of instruments.

The R.A.F. was barely back from firing Frankfurt, one of the big centers of the I. G. Farbenindustrie chemical works and home of important plane plants, with a bomb tonnage that the Air ministry said was a record for one raid, when the American heavies—escorted by Lightnings, Thunderbolts and Mustangs—drove deep into Germany.

The German Luftwaffe, stung by the deluge of bombs, fought short, heated battles with individual sections of the great attacking fleet. Some contingents did not sight a single Nazi fighter.

The German fighters however had little hope of disrupting the operations of the more than 500 heavy bombers.

Rail Center Bombed

Meanwhile American Marauder medium bombers and R.A.F. Bostons and Mitchells attacked the French railroad center of Creil for the third time in a week and also two Nazi airfields.

The R.A.F. lost 33 planes in its attack on Frankfurt, 11 more than in the last 1,000-plane raid, on Saturday when Frankfurt also was the main target, but seven less than on the first of the 1,000-plane attacks, which was against Stuttgart on March 15.

Frankfurt was hit shortly before 11 p. m. with a half-hour blow. An hour later a follow-up force of the swift R.A.F. Mosquitos saw huge columns of smoke and fire which could be seen as far as 200 miles away.

American Marauders attacked the Belgian railway center of Haine-St. Pierre, 10 miles northeast of Mons, under an escort of Spitfires and Thunderbolts during the afternoon.

Large formations of Allied planes continued to cross the Dover strait until dusk and a later announcement said Typhoon fighter bombers and R.A.F. and Allied Mitchells and Bostons attacked military objectives in northern France.

An announcement said nearly 200 Marauder and Mitchell medium and Boston light bombers bombed Creil without loss as well as German-held airfields at Beauvais-Tille and Beaumont-Le Roger. Creil is 25 miles north of Paris.

These planes swept over their targets in five waves in weather so clear the crews could see nearly 50 miles but in all that territory only a single enemy aircraft, a Junkers 88, was spotted. Two Canadian Spitfires destroyed that German plane.

U. S. Raiders Hit 5 German Areas

HILL

DAY

London, March 23 (AP)—Targets in five areas of Germany were bombed in widespread operations today by strong forces of Flying Fortresses and Liberators striking hard in the wake of a 3,360-ton bath of fire and explosives heaped upon the city of Frankfurt last night by the RAF.

Twenty-seven bombers and six fighters were missing from today's operation, involving probably 500 heavy bombers and nearly 1,000 fighting planes. The United States force, which failed yesterday to draw the German air force into battle by an attack on Berlin, struck today at the Nazis' home air bases, among other targets. A United States Strategic Air Force headquarters communique indicated that the strategy worked in part, with some bomber formations encountering sharp opposition, but with others meeting almost no enemy fighters.

20 Nazis Downed

Twenty enemy fighters were shot down by United States fighters in the course of the thrust into Europe, in which Germany's biggest railroad yards at Hamm, a German air force station at Achmer in Oldenburg, a bomber base at Handorf, a war factory at Muenster, and industrial targets at the Messerschmitt production center of Brunswick were bombed.

The communique said all the targets except Brunswick were hit in good visual bombing weather. Brunswick was bombed by instrument.

It was the thirteenth operation this month against Germany by the American Air Force.

The American raiding force, which included more than 500 Fortresses and Liberators, bombed the Brunswick district, the aircraft park at Werl, 40 miles east of Essen; Achmer Air Force station in Oldenburg to the south and the German bombers base at Handorf, a United States Army Air Force announcement said.

The United States headquarters announcement said the Thunderbolts, Mustangs and Lightnings doing escort duty were in "very great strength."

Berlin Fires Still Burning

Fires still burned in Berlin from yesterday's attack, and Stockholm dispatches said telephone communication with the Nazi capital was still cut 24 hours after the attack. Mosquito bombers, making a foray over Berlin last night, said the fires were visible 200 miles away.

While the heavies were ranging over Germany in one of their most far-flung operations yet, American medium Marauders bombed the Creil railroad center in France for the third time in a week, and two airfields.

New German Tactic Encountered

In opposing the Fortresses and Liberators the German fighters adopted a new tactic, the first returning Mustang pilots reported, and concentrated their passes on a small part of the attacking formations.

As a result, other Mustang pilots said, "We went almost to Russia without being able to find anyone to fight."

Nazis Attack In Stacks

Other tactics of the Germans included adoption of the tight fortress-like formation, but that did not prevent their suffering heavy casualties.

"Thirty or forty German fighters, stacked four deep and six across, jumped us from out of a cloud—they were in perfect formation," said Sergt. George Waters, of Los Angeles, a ball turret gunner on the Fortress "Dinah Might."

Berlin Harassed Again

First reports of the daylight aerial invasion came from the Germans, who said in their broadcasts that bombers, presumably American Fortresses and Liberators, were folowing up their big attack on Berlin yesterday with blows at the western, central and northwestern Reich.

Berlin, attacked yesterday, was harassed again last night by Mosquitos, which also hit other objectives in western Germany.

Attacks on Berlin Costly to Reich, R.A.F. Reconnaissance Reveals

HILL

LONDON, March 23 — (AP) The submerging of Berlin under great loads of explosives and fire bombs has spread "administrative confusion throughout Germany and German Europe," an authoritative British analysis of damage in the Nazi capital said today.

Berlin is "in a dickens of a mess" an R.A.F. commentator summed up.

NIGHT

It has taken the R.A.F. a long time to get comprehensive reconnaissance photographs and intelligence on Berlin following the 15 great night raids from Nov. 18 to Feb. 15 in which nearly 27,000 short tons of explosives cascaded on the capital, but from Air ministry and other authoritative accounts these highlights of the picture now emerge:

Large numbers of workers have fled Berlin without official sanction.

Damage has made it increasingly difficult for the German army to maintain the tank strength of its armored divisions, has caused the army to suffer from lack of signal equipment, and produced bottlenecks in heavy electrical equipment.

Except for the southeast district, organized industrial activity in the great manufacturing center virtually ceased at the end of November and had not been resumed by the end of January.

"No doubt portions of Berlin industry started up again since January," said an R.A.F. commentator, "but meanwhile important production has been lost."

"There is still a good deal to be done in the way of material destruction," he added, clearly implying the intention of doing it.

Mopping up actually appears to be well under way, with the task entrusted to daylight pinpointing of targets by the United States strategic air forces.

The destruction of government offices has spread confusion throughout the Reich and was clearly foreshadowed on Jan. 10 in an Air ministry report which included Hitler's chancellery, the Foreign office, treasury, ministries of justice, food, agriculture, armaments and munitions and the army records office in the list of damaged or destroyed edifices.

The new reports, concentrating on industrial destruction, said at least 326 factories in Berlin have been destroyed or damaged in the battle of Berlin.

London, Friday, March 24 (AP). Nazi fire raiders dropped incendiaries on some sections of London early this morning in a short attack on the capital—causing the third alarm in three nights.

NIGHT

The Germans came last night on armed reconnaissance, apparently to survey results of the big attempt the night before to set fire to the capital.

Nazi Farmer Hurls Rock At Low Flying Fortress

BANGER

A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN BRITAIN, March 23—(AP) Flying home from Brunswick today on two engines, the Flying Fortress "Vera Mae" buzzed over Germany for two hours at less than 50 feet altitude stampeding cattle and making one farmer so angry he threw a rock.

"Farmers were jumping from their hay wagons and running for cover," said Tech. Sgt. Joseph J. Miskel, Sugar Notch, Pa., top-turret gunner.

DAY

"One hot headed kraut was so mad when his team of horses bolted that he grabbed a rock and threw it at us. We were flying so low that if his timing had been good it would have hit us."

The Fortress had its engines shot up by German fighters which also wrecked its hydraulic system and set a box of flares afire.

NAVY FLIERS USE AIR BASE IN BRITAIN

By JOHN A. MOROSO III

A U. S. NAVAL BASE SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, March 23—(AP) The United States Navy took over its first air base in the European theater of operations today, assuming full charge of an anti-submarine field which had been under control of the R.A.F.

The base was turned over to Comm. Thomas Durfee of Vineyard Haven, Mass., by Group Capt. Ernest C. Kidd.

Representing Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of U. S. Naval forces in Europe, Rear Admiral George B. Wilson of Norfolk, Va., said: "This base represents the unity of purpose and the ideals of our two great countries."

Since the U. S. Navy assumed charge of the general facilities at this large establishment last September American fliers have flown about 1,300 missions over the Bay of Biscay with a loss rate of less than one per cent and have credit for probable destruction of several U-boats.

NEW JAP UNIT ENTERS INDIA

Unheralded Second Invasion 60 Miles Over Border

New Delhi, India, March 23 (AP). Japanese forces driving from Burma into India up the Manipur river valley have pushed to a point 30 miles south of Imphal, key road center already threatened by another Japanese army moving westward through the jungles into India, it was announced today by Allied headquarters.

A communique disclosing the second invasion of India by Japanese within the last 48 hours said the Japs had slammed northward 80 miles from the Tiddim area.

Others 30 Miles To East

Yesterday a communique announced another Japanese force had crossed the upper Chindwin river near Thaungdut and had advanced to a point 30 miles east of Imphal.

[The Tokyo radio said tonight that Japanese troops now are "in complete control" of a 700-mile strip of Indian territory along the Burmese border.

[The Berlin raidio said Indian troops led by Subhas Chandra Bose, leader of the national Indian freedom movement, were fighting with the Japanese against Allied forces on the border.]

On Shores Of Lake

The latest Allied communique said the Japanese troops which had advanced northward from Tiddim region were standing on the west shore of Lake Logtak, 30 miles due south of Imphal.

All previous reports had this Japanese grouping safely confined within Burma. Yesterday's headquarters statement said Allied forces had been dispatched to "deal with an outflanking Japanese unit north of Tiddim."

There was no suggestion in yesterday's headquarters statement that the force had dashed 80 miles north to constitute the southern arm of a pincers movement threatening to spill from the hills onto the Imphal plain.

Vague On Foes' Progress

Allied reports were vague concerning the progress of the Japanese forces which were well into India after crossing the upper Chindwin river east of Imphal in the neighborhood of Thaungdut.

Allied headquarters continued to minimize the Japanese threat to Imphal. A statement said that a Japanese breakthrough into the rice paddy flatlands was unlikely unless the Japanese gather stronger forces than have been currently observed.

The paddy fields are suitable for use as airstrips with a minimum of engineering.

The Allied communique said heavy fighting was in progress as the Chinese 22nd division fought its way south against strong Japanese resistance in the upper Mogaung valley. It was virtually the only Allied advance reported in the theater.

New Jap Force Perils India Road City

New Delhi, March 23 (AP)—Japanese columns invading India now threaten Imphal, key road center in Manipur, from the south and east, it was disclosed today when Allied headquarters told of an enemy force which has driven more than 80 miles up the lower Manipur river valley from Tiddim in the Chin Hills area.

The statement said the column was 30 miles from Imphal on the west side of Logtak Lake south of the city.

This report of a second invasion of India within 24 hours by the Japanese ran counter to previous reports of activity in the Tiddim area, where earlier announcements indicated the enemy was confined within the Burma borders.

No Previous Indication

Yesterday's report said an Allied force had been dispatched to "deal with Japanese outflanking units north of Tiddim," but gave no hint that the enemy had slammed 80 miles into India from the south as well as from the east in the vicinity of Thaungdut on the upper Chindwin river.

The eastern Japanese invasion force was also reported about 30 miles away from Imphal.

A Japanese breakthrough onto the plain around Imphal from their present positions is dependent on gathering reinforcements larger than presently observed Japanese forces, Southeast Asia command spokesmen said.

Pressure Increased

The rice paddies of the Imphal plain would be readily adaptable for airstrips.

When and if the fighting breaks into the open plain, the Allied air superiority against the almost nonexistent or carefully husbanded Japanese air strength in this theater is expected to play a heavy role.

Japanese pressure appeared to be growing along the whole Burma front, although headquarters here said Allied troops were converging on the enemy invasion columns in India.

Japanese activity was especially noticeable to the south on the coastal plain below Maungdaw, in Arakan, and in the western foothills of the Mayu Mountain range, the communique said, with Allied bombers and fighters maintaining a ceaseless offensive against objectives in these areas, as well as positions in the Chindwin Valley, the Chin Hills and Kaladan.

Locked In Battle

In North Burma, Chinese forces were engaged in heavy fighting in the northern part of the Mogaung Valley after conquest of the Hukawng Valley, and were battling strong Japanese forces northeast of Shaduzup.

Meanwhile, Allied forces ousted enemy units from positions south and southwest of Buthedaung and improved their positions while repelling enemy attacks west of that town. To the northwest of Buthedaung isolated groups of enemy troops were being rounded up in the hills east of the Mayu range.

British bomber formations raided large supply dumps at Taungup. Enemy stores at Prome were bombed the night before last and flames were sighted 60 miles away.

"This Allied maneuver was aimed at disrupting Japanese area communications and at pushing ahead work on the new road from Ledo, in the extreme northeastern corner of India, through Burma to Chungking, China.

"The Japanese have, however, quickly taken all measures to wipe out these small units landed by air in the jungle of northern Burma."

Japanese "Take Measures"

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—A German broadcast of a Tokyo dispatch today declared the Japanese had taken quick measures to wipe out small American units landed by air in the jungle of northern Burma. The broadcast apparently was a reference to British and Indian air Commandos and American engineering units who recently established positions southeast of Myitkyina.

"Since the beginning of March Americans in northern Burma have landed small units by air in a trackless country of mountains and swamps," said the broadcast.

Heads Air Transport From India To China

New Delhi, March 23 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Thomas O. Hardin, an expert on freighting material to China over the Himalayan hump on one of the most treacherous skyways in the world, has been named commander of the India-China wing of the Air Transport Command.

The Texan, who received his general's star from Gen. Henry H. Arnold, Army Air Forces chief, on a recent home leave, succeeds Brig. Gen. Earl S. Hoag, of Miami, Fla., who is going home to a new assignment.

Hardin took command of the eastern sector of the wing under Hoag last October. Freight operations to China have now been pushed to a peak until they exceed the tonnage carried over the old Burma road.

British Sink Cruiser And Small Jap Carrier

London, Friday, March 24 (AP)—Summarizing submarine actions of the eastern fleet, a British naval affairs announcement said today a Japanese cruiser of the Kuma class, a 7,000-ton aircraft carrier, eight supply ships and several small naval craft have been sunk since the first of the year.

Another cruiser was torpedoed and one small and one large supply ship were damaged, the announcement said.

Jane's Fighting Ships lists Japanese Kuma class cruisers as displacing 5,100 tons and carrying 439 officers and men.

Foe On Solta 'Destroyed'

London, March 23 (AP) — The Yugoslav guerrilla leader, Marshal Tito, announced today that an enemy garrison on the Adriatic island of Solta had been destroyed by "Allied units supported by planes" —a possible reference to American and British commando forces reported by Berlin to be operating along the Dalmatian coast.

The Berlin radio announced on March 10 that 1,500 American and British commandos had landed on the Adriatic island of Lissa and that other raids on the Dalmatian coast and near-by islands could be expected.

Today's German communique said that "on the Adriatic coast enemy thrusts were repelled."

Tito's broadcast communique also said that Partisan forces had taken a heavy toll of German troops in fierce fighting in the Bijeljina - Tuzla - Brcko sector 75 miles west of Belgrade, where the Germans were throwing tanks, armored cars and artillery into the day and night battles.

R. A. F. Raids Shipping Off Coast of Norway

London, March 23 (A. P.).—Beaufighters of the Royal Air Force attacked two small enemy ships off Norway and left one afire, the Air Ministry announced today, and one Beaufighter is missing.

The Berlin radio earlier declared that three British torpedo-carrying planes were shot down in an attack on a German convoy near Stadlandet.

Bengal Famine Deaths Estimated At 688,846

London, March 23 (AP)—Deaths from all recorded causes in the Indian province of Bengal last year totaled 1,873,749—688,846 over the average for the previous five years—and this increase "roughly represented the number of deaths due to starvation and malnutrition" and like causes in the Bengal famine, Commons was told today.

Dutch Nazi Health Director Dies

London, March 23 (AP)—Dr. Fritz Otto Bruining, 51, Dutch Nazi director general heading the public health section of the Department of Social Affairs in occupied Holland, has died in Amsterdam, the official Netherlands news agency Aneta said today.

Gen. Paul L. Williams Given New Command

London, March 23 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Paul L. Williams, 49-year-old veteran of the North African and Sicilian campaigns, is now chief of the Ninth Troop Carrier Command, Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, chief of the United States 9th Air Force announced today.

General Williams, of Los Angeles, Cal., came to Britain from the Mediterranean where he organized the movement of troops by air across the North African desert and to the beachheads and mountain salients in Sicily.

A pilot in the first World War, he aided Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, chief of the United States Strategic Air Forces, early in 1942 in activating the first American air units to fly against the enemy from Britain.

De Valera Paper Takes AP Man To Task

London, March 23 (AP)—The Irish Press, Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's Dublin newspaper, today attacked an Associated Press account of what occurred when David Gray, the American Minister, presented the note in which the United States asked for the closing of Axis missions in Eire on the grounds of security.

In an editorial the paper took strong exception to a dispatch sent from Belfast, Northern Ireland, by Correspondent Roger D. Greene on March 20 after an eight-day stay in Dublin during which he saw Gray several times.

De Valera Pictured As Angry

The dispatch said it had been learned that when the American note was presented, de Valera gave way to expressions of anger, thumped the table and shouted: "This is an ultimatum."

Gray, it continued, replied:

"If you will read the note again you will find there is no 'or else' clause and no time limit. It is not an ultimatum. It is only a sincere effort by the United States Government to safeguard the lives of thousands of American soldiers from the very real danger of Axis espionage agents in Eire."

Version Declared Distorted

After quoting this passage The Irish Press said:

"We do not know how to take this obviously distorted description. Recently Gray had occasion to deny statements attributed to him by a representative of the New York Times. These statements were also supposed to have been made in an interview at which only de Valera and Gray were present.

"In that case the New York Times representative purported to be merely paraphrasing what Gray said at this private talk. Gray contradicted this story as soon as it was brought to his notice.

"In the present case the Associated Press representative goes further. With apparent self-assurance he quotes what he claims to have been the exact words of Gray. If they were in fact the words that Gray used, then this American could only have learned of them from either de Valera or Gray.

Gray Protest Forecast

"We learned that de Valera did not recently see any Associated Press representative, and the hostile description of him in the alleged account of the interview emphasizes this. The only deduction which ordinary people will make unless this story is publicly contradicted is that Gray told the press man what purported to have passed in an interview with the head of our Government.

"It is not possible to believe any such thing, and we are certain that the American Minister will protest strongly against this attribution to him of so grave a breach of confidence and etiquette."

No Such Interview, Says Gray

Gray, in a letter to The Irish Press tonight, said:

"Your representative called me on the telephone yesterday evening, March 22, and read to me the extract from an article purporting to have been written by Roger Greene, of the Associated Press. He asked me what comment I wished to make. I replied I had given no statement or interview to any press representative with reference to the matter in question, and I was not interested in speculating as to why and upon what information Greene had written his article."

[Greene, traveling on assignment, was not immediately available for comment on his dispatch, the accuracy of which the Associated Press has no reason to doubt.]

Gray, reached by telephone, said

he must stand on the statement given to The Irish Press, and that he had granted no interview and given no formal statement to any press representative.

London Paper's Article

The London Daily Express diplomatic correspondent on March 11, nine days before Greene's story was published, reported "de Valera made no attempt to hide his bitterness in the negotiations with America. . . . He insisted when the United States note was handed to him on February 25 that it was an ultimatum which would drive a horse and cart through his neutrality. Assurances were brushed aside. His reaction was swift and based on the "ultimatum" assumption.

"The Eireann army was put on the alert that day. Bridges were mined. Airfields were taken over and strategic points guarded. Local defense volunteers were mobilized and issued with small arms."

The Express correspondent did not disclose the source of his information.

Flood Of Alarmist Rumors

It was recalled that a few days after the American note was presented to de Valera on February 21, Eire was filled with alarmist rumors. There were reports circulated here that Eire troops had been alerted. It was also recalled that the Eire note, released by the Irish legation in Washington March 11, referring to the United States assurances that no military action was contemplated against the Irish, said:

"The Irish Government wish to express appreciation of this assurance. They were indeed surprised that so grave a note (as that asking for closure of Axis missions) should have been addressed to them."

It has been known for some time that de Valera and Gray had some pointed verbal exchanges in the past due to Eire's attitude toward the Allies and the Axis, and Gray often has made frank and forthright comment on this subject.

Opposition Raises Question

As a sequel to the editorial in The Irish Press, Dr. T. F. O'Higgins, leader of the chief opposition party, gave notice he would raise the matter on the adjournment of the Dail. O'Higgins said he desired to discover if the editorial was approved by the Irish censor because, he said, it appeared to give offense to the Minister of a friendly country and to be provocative to a friendly country.

Late tonight Defense Minister Frank Aiken, replying to O'Higgins' question, said he had not passed for publication The Irish Press article attacking Greene's story.

He added he felt strongly that the only person The Irish Press article could give offense to was the "special correspondent of the news agency which circulated this and other untrue reports about the Government and the people of this country. Publication of this story without repudiation could only help to bedevil relations between the people of Ireland and the people of America, to which the Government had every right to be grateful."

Aiken declared, "It is recognized by honest observers that censorship had refused to allow Eire to be drafted into a propaganda war against either side."

He said he hoped "American and English news agencies would put an end to unfair and untruthful propaganda against the Irish Government and the Irish people."

The Newspaper World, British journalistic trade publication, in the March 25 issue, distributed tonight, said The Irish Press on March 18 had made an attack on British and American news agencies "over their alleged attitude in reporting world reaction to the American note presented to de Valera."

British Paper's Allegations

Pointing out that The Irish Press was de Valera's newspaper, the Newspaper World said the agencies named were Reuters, the Associated Press and the United Press, and added that The Irish Press "stated that it asked the three news agencies named to send it not only unfavorable comment but also favorable comment" on the Irish stand and then made the following allegations:

"'They sent us no favorable comment. Then we learned that references friendly to the Irish reply had in fact been made and published in other neutral countries and that in America itself comments appeared which showed an understanding of our position. An agency which we notified of this first pleaded that these comments were now out of date, but when pressed further began belatedly to report a little of what we had asked for, leaving us, however, to get the bulk of friendly comment from other sources.'"

Bias By Agencies Implied

The Irish Press was further quoted as saying the implications were that the agencies "have suppressed what was said in our support and have put into circulation the meanest falsehoods against us."

The Associated Press in London has received no request from The Irish Press directly or through any medium for any comment on the Irish stand.

The Daily Mirror's Hilde Marchant, who spent some time in Dublin, reported in a story under a Belfast date of March 21 that "de Valera immediately lost his temper and started thumping his table when he read the note handed him by Gray, the United States Minister.

"He described it is an ultimatum, but Gray calmly pointed out it was not. De Valera thought it meant military action and said it would involve guerrilla warfare—a type which is going on in Europe today. All that week end truck loads of soldiers passed through Dublin to take stations in the north."

Churchill May Reveal Aims

London, March 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill will address the nation Sunday—his first broadcast since his winter illness—amid a rising clamor on both sides of the Atlantic for clarification of the Allied war aims.

The speech, scheduled for 9 P. M. (4 P. M., E.W.T.), is awaited here as a possible key to the position which Britain may take on the multiple problems expected to come up for discussion at the forthcoming conferences in London between United States Under Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and the British Foreign Office.

Talk Of Another Conference

There has been speculation abroad that these conferences might be followed by another meeting between Churchill and President Roosevelt.

Growing demands in the House of Commons and the United States for a detailed statement of Allied war and post-war plans, as well as for clarification of what revisions—if any—can be expected in the Atlantic Charter, have suggested the additional possibility that Churchill and Roosevelt may seek another meeting with Premier Stalin.

The lone political hand which Russia has been playing lately in connection with Italian, French, Yugoslav and Polish affairs has raised many questions in both Britain and America concerning the solidarity of the "Big Three" powers.

It has been an open secret in London for some time that the European Advisory Commission set up after the Moscow conference of foreign ministers is not getting the desired results in settling post-war problems and that some new form of collaboration is desirable.

Churchill hinted at this in Commons yesterday as members pressed for an open debate on the Atlantic Charter.

Name British to Labor Talk Here

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—George Tomlinson, Member of Parliament, and Sir Frederick William Legget, Deputy Secretary of the Labor Ministry, were named today as the British Government's delegates to the international labor conference at Philadelphia. Sir John Forbes Watson, director of the British Employers' Confederation, was announced as the employers' delegate and Joseph Hallsworth, general secretary of the National Union of Distributive and Allied Workers, as the workers' delegate.

More British Miners Strike

London, March 23 (AP)—The number of strikers in the South Yorkshire coal fields mounted to more than 30,000 tonight with 19 pits closed and work partially stopped in five others. Owners and union leaders continued discussion of a Government wage proposal.

British Trial Opens War On Raising 'Spirits' of Dead

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, March 23—The trial of one man and three women charged with accepting money for raising the spirits of the dead opened in historic Old Bailey today as the British Government invoked the Witchcraft Act of 1736 to halt commercial spiritualism that might be aimed at relatives of soldiers lost in battle.

Prosecutor John Maude said that a British naval officer, Lieut. Stanley Worth, attended the seances after being promised that spirits would be produced from the ectoplasm of Mrs. Helen Duncan, a medium, who is on trial together with Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, Mrs. Francis Brown and Ernest Homer, a druggist.

The climax to the series of seances came, Mr. Maude revealed, when a police officer in attendance saw a white substance behind a curtain. The police officer seized the figure while Worth switched on a flashlight. The figure was revealed to be Mrs. Duncan, clad from the neck down in a white sheet.

I. R. A. Chief, 2 Others End Hunger Strike

Belfast, Northern Ireland, March 23 (AP)—Hugh Mcateer, chief of the outlawed Irish Republican army, and two other I. R. A. men ended their hunger strike in its 30th day today at a hospital where they were taken from prison when their condition became serious.

Mcateer, serving a 15-year sentence on a treason charge, began his strike when his request to be classified as a political prisoner was refused. The status of a political prisoner would entitle him to additional privileges.

Amity Party In England

Nottingham, England, March 23 (AP)—Amid all the red-robed ceremony this ancient city could supply, 48 GIs from 48 States drank toasts, ate luxurious food and rubbed shoulders with generals today in celebration of Anglo-American-British friendship.

The town arranged the luncheon as a show of hospitality to United States troops in this vicinity.

Lord Mayor Frederick Mitchell, in a red robe adorned with gold buttons, welcomed each soldier at the top of a white marble staircase in the council house.

Private James Jackson, of Frostburg, represented Maryland, and Private John Austin, of Salisbury, Md., represented North Carolina, his former home.

James S. Bills, of Ogden, Utah, stole the show. Chosen by fellow-enlisted men to make a routine speech of thanks energetic GI Bills brought down the house with this:

"We are here to beat the damned Hun and I know to this end we are unanimous."

Air Unit Practices Invasion Maneuvers

A U. S. Bomber Base, England, March 23 (AP)—Units of the U. S. Ninth Air Force are being put through a series of rigid exercises designed to prepare this tactical arm to move rapidly from British bases to conquered territory after the invasion of western Europe gets under way.

As a part of these maneuvers hundreds of men and planes, plus vast quantities of equipment were transferred yesterday from one Marauder base to another.

The entire operation was staged on only two hours notice and went off without a hitch and with only two minor injuries, said Major Russell B. Fontaine, of Wauwatosa, Wis., who planned and directed the convoy movements.

The fields involved were about 20 miles apart.

Nazi Factory Bombed, 2,000 Reported Killed

Stockholm, March 23 (AP)—A Swedish traveler returned from Germany said today a Nazi ammunition factory at Gablenberg, a district of Stuttgart, was blown up in the last Allied attack on the capital of Wurttemberg March 15-16.

When he left the city March 19, he said, unverified reports were circulating that 2,000 workers died in the blast. An airplane factory near by also was destroyed.

NAZIS STAND FIRM AS CASSINO FIGHT ENTERS EIGHTH DAY

Allies Repulse Two Attacks Against Castle Hill Position.

ENEMY SHELLS BRIDGES

American Bombers Blast Rail Yards in Northern Italy.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 23.—(AP) The latest phase of the bitter struggle for Cassino, Nazi stronghold defending the Roman valleys, raged through its eighth day today with battle-weary New Zealand troops still fighting at the town's southern edge and other Allied forces clinging stubbornly to several hard-won heights west of the town.

No important change of position had been reported since Tuesday, when German parachute troops were disclosed to have recaptured the wreckage of the Continental hotel. Some of the most desperate fighting swirled about the ruins of the hotel and several nearby buildings, five Nazi tanks having been destroyed in that locality.

Two Attacks Repulsed

The enemy threw two strong counterattacks against Castle hill, an intermediate peak only a few hundred yards from Cassino's western edge, yesterday, but each time was thrown back with heavy losses. French artillery repulsed two other Nazi stabs near Monte Castellone, three miles northwest of Cassino.

German artillery and mortars emplaced in the hills maintained a heavy fire on Allied positions and tried hard to destroy bridges that Fifth army engineers had thrown across the Rapido river east of town.

Despite all Allied efforts of the past two months to break through into the Liri valley—and these have included five fierce attacks on the ground and the greatest tactical air assault in history—the Germans still hold the Cassino gateway firmly.

The town's natural defenses permit the Nazis to hold it with a comparatively small but determined force. While they have been bringing up fresh soldiers—some could be seen moving up a road in the distance today—there is no information here to support rear area reports of great German reinforcements in Cassino.

Rail Yards Bombed

American heavy bombers with fighter escort blasted railroad yards at three key points in northeastern Italy yesterday — Verona, Bologna and Rimini — through which German armies on the Italian fronts are being supplied, and last night R.A.F. Liberators and Wellingtons smashed rail yards at Padua with 4,000-pound block-busters.

German planes attacked Allied shipping off the Anzio beachhead, but it was announced that they caused no damage. Enemy artillery pumped hundreds of shells into the beachhead, one falling in a hospital area and killing five patients and hospital personnel.

A count today showed that of 40 German planes which raided front areas yesterday 12 were shot down by anti-aircraft fire, five by Allied fighters and another five probably destroyed. Four Allied craft were lost.

NEW JAP UNIT ENTERS INDIA

Unheralded Second Invasion 60 Miles Over Border

GRUMICH

New Delhi, India, March 23 (AP). Japanese forces driving from Burma into India up the Manipur river valley have pushed to a point 30 miles south of Imphal, key road center already threatened by another Japanese army moving westward through the jungles into India, it was announced today by Allied headquarters.

A communique disclosing the second invasion of India by Japanese within the last 48 hours said the Japs had slammed northward 80 miles from the Tiddim area.

Others 30 Miles To East

Yesterday a communique announced another Japanese force had crossed the upper Chindwin river near Thaungdut and had advanced to a point 30 miles east of Imphal.

[The Tokyo radio said tonight that Japanese troops now are "in complete control" of a 700-mile strip of Indian territory along the Burmese border.

[The Berlin raidio said Indian troops led by Subhas Chandra Bose, leader of the national Indian freedom movement, were fighting with the Japanese against Allied forces on the border.]

On Shores Of Lake

The latest Allied communique said the Japanese troops which had advanced northward from Tiddim region were standing on the west shore of Lake Logtak, 30 miles due south of Imphal.

All previous reports had this Japanese grouping safely confined within Burma. Yesterday's headquarters statement said Allied forces had been dispatched to "deal with an outflanking Japanese unit north of Tiddim."

There was no suggestion in yesterday's headquarters statement that the force had dashed 80 miles north to constitute the southern arm of a pincers movement threatening to spill from the hills onto the Imphal plain.

Vague On Foes' Progress

Allied reports were vague concerning the progress of the Japanese forces which were well into India after crossing the upper Chindwin river east of Imphal in the neighborhood of Thaungdut.

Allied headquarters continued to minimize the Japanese threat to Imphal. A statement said that a Japanese breakthrough into the rice paddy flatlands was unlikely unless the Japanese gather stronger forces than have been currently observed.

The paddy fields are suitable for use as airstrips with a minimum of engineering.

The Allied communique said heavy fighting was in progress as the Chinese 22nd division fought its way south against strong Japanese resistance in the upper Mogaung valley. It was virtually the only Allied advance reported in the theater.

New Jap Force Perils India Road City

GRUMICH

MAR 24 1944

New Delhi, March 23 (AP)—Japanese columns invading India now threaten Imphal, key road center in Manipur, from the south and east, it was disclosed today when Allied headquarters told of an enemy force which has driven more than 80 miles up the lower Manipur river valley from Tiddim in the Chin Hills area.

DAY

The statement said the column was 30 miles from Imphal on the west side of Logtak Lake south of the city.

This report of a second invasion of India within 24 hours by the Japanese ran counter to previous reports of activity in the Tiddim area, where earlier announcements indicated the enemy was confined within the Burma borders.

No Previous Indication

Yesterday's report said an Allied force had been dispatched to "deal with Japanese outflanking units north of Tiddim," but gave no hint that the enemy had slammed 80 miles into India from the south as well as from the east in the vicinity of Thaungdut on the upper Chindwin river.

The eastern Japanese invasion force was also reported about 30 miles away from Imphal.

A Japanese breakthrough onto the plain around Imphal from their present positions is dependent on gathering reinforcements larger than presently observed Japanese forces, Southeast Asia command spokesmen said.

Pressure Increased

The rice paddies of the Imphal plain would be readily adaptable for airstrips.

When and if the fighting breaks into the open plain, the Allied air superiority against the almost nonexistent or carefully husbanded Japanese air strength in this theater is expected to play a heavy role.

Japanese pressure appeared to be growing along the whole Burma front, although headquarters here said Allied troops were converging on the enemy invasion columns in India.

Japanese activity was especially noticeable to the south on the coastal plain below Maungdaw, in Arakan, and in the western foothills of the Mayu Mountain range, the communique said, with Allied bombers and fighters maintaining a ceaseless offensive against objectives in these areas, as well as positions in the Chindwin Valley, the Chin Hills and Kaladan.

Locked In Battle

In North Burma, Chinese forces were engaged in heavy fighting in the northern part of the Mogaung Valley after conquest of the Hukawng Valley, and were battling strong Japanese forces northeast of Shaduzup.

Meanwhile, Allied forces ousted enemy units from positions south and southwest of Buthedaung and improved their positions while repelling enemy attacks west of that town. To the northwest of Buthedaung isolated groups of enemy troops were being rounded up in the hills east of the Mayu range.

British bomber formations raided large supply dumps at Taungup. Enemy stores at Prome were bombed the night before last and flames were sighted 60 miles away.

Japanese "Take Measures"

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—A German broadcast of a Tokyo dispatch today declared the Japanese had taken quick measures to wipe out small American units landed by air in the jungle of northern Burma. The broadcast apparently was a reference to British and Indian air Commandos and American engineering units who recently established positions southeast of Myitkyina.

"Since the beginning of March Americans in northern Burma have landed small units by air in a trackless country of mountains and swamps," said the broadcast.

This Allied maneuver was aimed at disrupting Japanese area communications and at pushing ahead work on the new road from Ledo, in the extreme northeastern corner of India, through Burma to Chungking, China.

"The Japanese have, however, quickly taken all measures to wipe out these small units landed by air in the jungle of northern Burma."

Heads Air Transport From India To China

MAR 24 1944

New Delhi, March 23 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Thomas O. Hardin, an expert on freighting material to China over the Himalayan hump on one of the most treacherous skyways in the world, has been named commander of the India-China wing of the Air Transport Command.

The Texan, who received his general's star from Gen. Henry H. Arnold, Army Air Forces chief, on a recent home leave, succeeds Brig. Gen. Earl S. Hoag, of Miami, Fla., who is going home to a new assignment.

DAY

Hardin took command of the eastern sector of the wing under Hoag last October. Freight operations to China have now been pushed to a peak until they exceed the tonnage carried over the old Burma road.

British Sink Cruiser And Small Jap Carrier

London, Friday, March 24 (AP)—Summarizing submarine actions of the eastern fleet, a British naval affairs announcement said today a Japanese cruiser of the Kuma class, a 7,000-ton aircraft carrier, eight supply ships and several small naval craft have been sunk since the first of the year.

Another cruiser was torpedoed and one small and one large supply ship were damaged, the announcement said.

NIGHT

Jane's Fighting Ships lists Japanese Kuma class cruisers as displacing 5,100 tons and carrying 439 officers and men.

Foe On Solta 'Destroyed'

London, March 23 (AP) — The Yugoslav guerrilla leader, Marshal Tito, announced today that an enemy garrison on the Adriatic island of Solta had been destroyed by "Allied units supported by planes"—a possible reference to American and British commando forces reported by Berlin to be operating along the Dalmatian coast.

The Berlin radio announced on March 10 that 1,500 American and British commandos had landed on the Adriatic island of Lissa and that other raids on the Dalmatian coast and near-by islands could be expected.

Today's German communique said that "on the Adriatic coast enemy thrusts were repelled."

Tito's broadcast communique also said that Partisan forces had taken a heavy toll of German troops in fierce fighting in the Bijeljina - Tuzla - Brcko sector 75 miles west of Belgrade, where the Germans were throwing tanks, armored cars and artillery into the day and night battles.

R. A. F. Raids Shipping Off Coast of Norway

London, March 23 (A. P.)—Beaufighters of the Royal Air Force attacked two small enemy ships off Norway and left one afire, the Air Ministry announced today, and one Beaufighter is missing.

The Berlin radio earlier declared that three British torpedo-carrying planes were shot down in an attack on a German convoy near Stadlandet.

Bengal Famine Deaths Estimated At 688,846

London, March 23 (AP)—Deaths from all recorded causes in the Indian province of Bengal last year totaled 1,873,749—688,846 over the average for the previous five years—and this increase "roughly represented the number of deaths due to starvation and malnutrition" and like causes in the Bengal famine, Commons was told today.

Dutch Nazi Health Director Dies

London, March 23 (AP)—Dr. Fritz Otto Bruining, 51, Dutch Nazi director general heading the public health section of the Department of Social Affairs in occupied Holland, has died in Amsterdam, the official Netherlands news agency Aneta said today.

Gen. Paul L. Williams Given New Command

London, March 23 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Paul L. Williams, 49-year-old veteran of the North African and Sicilian campaigns, is now chief of the Ninth Troop Carrier Command, Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, chief of the United States 9th Air Force announced today.

General Williams, of Los Angeles, Cal., came to Britain from the Mediterranean where he organized the movement of troops by air across the North African desert and to the beachheads and mountain salients in Sicily.

A pilot in the first World War, he aided Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, chief of the United States Strategic Air Forces, early in 1942 in activating the first American air units to fly against the enemy from Britain.

De Valera Paper Takes AP Man To Task

London, March 23 (AP)—The Irish Press, Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's Dublin newspaper, today attacked an Associated Press account of what occurred when David Gray, the American Minister, presented the note in which the United States asked for the closing of Axis missions in Eire on the grounds of security.

In an editorial the paper took strong exception to a dispatch sent from Belfast, Northern Ireland, by Correspondent Roger D. Greene on March 20 after an eight-day stay in Dublin during which he saw Gray several times.

De Valera Pictured As Angry

The dispatch said it had been learned that when the American note was presented, de Valera gave way to expressions of anger, thumped the table and shouted: "This is an ultimatum."

Gray, it continued, replied:

"If you will read the note again you will find there is no 'or else' clause and no time limit. It is not an ultimatum. It is only a sincere effort by the United States Government to safeguard the lives of thousands of American soldiers from the very real danger of Axis espionage agents in Eire."

Version Declared Distorted

After quoting this passage The Irish Press said:

"We do not know how to take this obviously distorted description. Recently Gray had occasion to deny statements attributed to him by a representative of the New York Times. These statements were also supposed to have been made in an interview at which only de Valera and Gray were present.

"In that case the New York Times representative purported to be merely paraphrasing what Gray said at this private talk. Gray contradicted this story as soon as it was brought to his notice.

"In the present case the Associated Press representative goes further. With apparent self-assurance he quotes what he claims to have been the exact words of Gray. If they were in fact the words that Gray used, then this American could only have learned of them from either de Valera or Gray.

Gray Protest Forecast

"We learned that de Valera did not recently see any Associated Press representative, and the hostile description of him in the alleged account of the interview emphasizes this. The only deduction which ordinary people will make unless this story is publicly contradicted is that Gray told the press man what purported to have passed in an interview with the head of our Government.

"It is not possible to believe any such thing, and we are certain that the American Minister will protest strongly against this attribution to him of so grave a breach of confidence and etiquette."

No Such Interview, Says Gray

Gray, in a letter to The Irish Press tonight, said:

"Your representative called me on the telephone yesterday evening, March 22, and read to me the extract from an article purporting to have been written by Roger Greene, of the Associated Press. He asked me what comment I wished to make. I replied I had given no statement or interview to any press representative with reference to the matter in question, and I was not interested in speculating as to why and upon what information Greene had written his article."

[Greene, traveling on assignment, was not immediately available for comment on his dispatch, the accuracy of which the Associated Press has no reason to doubt.]

Gray, reached by telephone, said

doggedly flung back German attacks yesterday on their Cassino positions while in the air war Allied bombers struck sharply at enemy supply lines in northern Italy, Allied headquarters announced today.

In the southern section of Cassino, New Zealanders still were engaging the enemy at close quarters. Allied artillery knocked out a German tank emplaced in one wrecked building, raising to five the total destroyed in the week of fighting for the town.

More Prisoners Taken

Westward along the lower slopes of Monastery Hill Allied forces kept up their attacks along a north-south axis. The Germans counter-attacked against Hill 193, a key height just northwest of the town early yesterday, but were thrown back, leaving 30 prisoners in Allied hands.

The Germans also lunged forward in two strong attacks in a new sector—near Monte Castellone, three miles northwest of Cassino, but French troops broke up their formations.

Rail Targets Hit

In the air American Flying Fortresses and Liberators hit railines at Verona and Bologna, on the route south from the Brenner Pass, as well as Rimini, important junction point on the Adriatic midway between Venice and Ancona. Padua, west of Venice, was attacked by night-flying RAF Liberators and Wellingtons.

Medium and light bombers also joined in the railway attacks with blows against bridges at Poggibonsi and Arezzo, south of Florence, and Popoli, in front of the Eighth Army line.

Allied Ships Attacked

Nazi aircraft attacked Allied shipping off the Anzio beachhead but it was announced that they caused no damage.

In the heavy bomber mission against Verona, a formation of 20 enemy planes, including rocket-firing ships, attempted to intercept, but escorting Lightnings beat them off and shot down two.

The British bombers dumped 4,000-pound blockbusters on Padua and battered the rail yards there the crews reported.

Padua Raid Devastating.

Last night Liberator and Wellington bombers of the Royal Air Force lugged 4,000-pound blockbusters to Padua and battered the railway yards there with one of the most devastating attacks of the Italian campaign, the crews reported today. Flames visible ninety-five miles away were left by the attack and one entire block of administration buildings near the airfield was ablaze. It was the third major assault in recent weeks on Padua, a junction of lines to Milan, Trieste and the Brenner Pass route through Bologna. The Wellingtons have delivered two of the night attacks and American Fortresses one.

Airmen said that one blockbuster tore squarely into the center of the yards and that a large number of explosions, apparently in cars laden with ammunition, occurred when the freight cars were tossed around like toys. They described the target area as "one sea of fire."

Yesterday American Flying Fortresses and Liberators hit Verona and Bologna, on the route south from the Brenner Pass, as well as Rimini, an important junction point on the Adriatic, midway between Venice and Ancona. In the course of the attack on Verona, twenty enemy planes, including rocket-firing ships, attempted to intercept, but escorting Lightnings beat them off and shot down two. Returning flyers said that railway crossings and freight yards were smothered by bombs.

Medium and light bombers also joined in the railway attacks with blows against bridges at Poggibonsi and Arezzo, south of Florence, and aganst Popoli, in front of the Eighth Army at the Adriatic end of the Allied line across Italy. Marauders destroyed two bridges north of Poggibonsi and a headquarters spokesman said that this interrupted the last unimpeded railroad from the north to Rome.

Seven enemy aircraft were destroyed during the day, five of them falling to Spitfires in sweeps over the Anzio and Cassino sectors.

FLORENCE RAID REPORTED

LONDON, March 23—(AP) The Rome radio said that Florence was bombed today.

VESUVIUS SHOWS SIGNS OF ABATING

Pompeii, March 23 (A. P.)—Mount Vesuvius continued to spew volcanic ash and cinders over the surrounding area today, and although the rain of ashes was less intense in Pompeii further reports indicated that crop damage was greater than at first surmised.

The eruption's climax was expected today by authorities who pointed out that Vesuvius's rampages usually last five or six days. The present eruption started Saturday.

Many inhabitants of the area have fled afoot, wrapping children in blankets and holding wash tubs over their own heads as protection against the showers of cinders and hot ashes.

NAPLES' PATRON SAINT ASKED TO GUARD CITY

NAPLES, March 23—(AP) Alessio Cardinal Ascolesi of Naples today ordered three days of prayers to ask protection of Saint Januarius, patron of Neopolitan people, from the dangers of Vesuvius, now erupting for the sixth straight day.

The main streams of lava which have forked into ten branches, have crushed San Sebastian and wrecked parts of other towns. The flow now has slowed to a crawl.

From the crater poured an avalanche of lava dust which formed black clouds blotting out the sun. It was so thick that aircraft could not fly through without danger of choking their engines.

The coastal road, an important military highway which was threatened by the flow toward Torre Del Greco, now is believed safe.

Right To Vote Given To French Women

Algiers, March 23 (AP)—The right to vote was extended to French women for the first time in history today when the Consultative Assembly adopted a suffrage article of the proposed provisional government.

Another proposal lowering the voting age from 21 to 18 was defeated.

Vaccine For Middle East

Cairo, March 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt has ordered Brig. Gen. Leon Fox, field director of the United States Typhus Commission, to make available as much typhus vaccine as necessary to Middle East countries, it was announced today. Since last June, 1,800,000 c.c.'s of vaccine have been shipped to this area, a statement said.

Refugee Death Ring Alleged

Madrid, March 23 (AP)—Paris dispatches said today that an investigation of the deaths of from 9 to 30 persons in a villa in a Paris suburb had disclosed a ring organized to prey on wealthy Parisians attempting to flee to Allied territory.

Four men have been arrested, the dispatches said, one of them identified as the head of an underground "travel agency" whose main business was robbing its wealthy clients.

The dispatches said that 14 bodies had been discovered in the villa and that police records revealed that a number of unidentified bodies had been found buried near the villa in 1942 and 1943.

There was no official confirmation of reports in Paris last night that a doctor described as the owner of the villa has been arrested.

9 JAP VESSELS DESTROYED IN WEWAK RAID

Fifth Air Force Bombers Knock Out Gun Positions And Planes

Second Jap force within 48 hours drives 60 miles into India from Burma.....Page 3

Southwest Pacific Headquarters, Friday, March 24 (AP)—Fifth Army Air Force bombers and fighters have pressed their attacks on Japanese gun positions, shipping, grounded planes and buildings in the Wewak base area.

The attacks Wednesday were centered on Muschu and other islands off Wewak, where the bulk of the enemy's shipping was found. Besides destroying two freighters of 1,000 and 1,500 tons, the airmen smashed seven smaller vessels and 23 barges, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said.

Destroy Gun Positions

Liberator and Mitchell bombers, Boston attack planes and every type of fighter swept the coast from Aitape, 90 miles eastward, to Wewak with 200 tons of bombs.

Eight heavy gun positions were destroyed, a number of parked planes were destroyed and numerous buildings demolished.

The enemy put up no aerial interception against the assaults, but anti-aircraft fire was met and one of the Allied planes was missing.

Solomons-based torpedo and dive bombers of the 13th Air Force visited Rabaul, dropping 36 tons of bombs on Vunakanau airdrome and anti-aircraft defenses.

Six months ago, following the capture of Lae and Salamaua, the Australians struck northward up the Markham river valley in the direction of Madang.

Slowed By Terrain

After they crossed the divide to the headwaters of the Ramu river, almost impenetrable terrain slowed their progress. Thick undergrowth was intensified by the steep foothill spurs of the Finisterre mountains.

Against the enemy's mountain guns the Aussies used 25-pounders, which had been dismantled and parachuted from planes of the United States troop carrier command.

Just before the close of 1943 the Australians captured a ridge north of Dumpu which had been stalling their advance.

Moved Toward Coast

From there they moved toward the coast, into the upper Mintjim Valley, and a week ago were near Daumoina, about 35 airline miles south of Madang. Patrols thrown out in that area followed the Kabenau river to the coast of Astrolable Bay, seven miles southeast of Bogadjim.

Americans who had landed January 2 at Saidor, on the coast below Madang, pressed northward meanwhile. Units of this force made contact with the Australian patrols just below Bogadjim, which is connected by a modern highway with Madang.

Madang is one of the few remaining Japanese bases on the north coast of New Guinea, all of which are under constant aerial pounding. In the latest reported raid 160 tons of explosives fell on Wewak causing large fires and explosions.

Across the Bismarck Sea, American forces in the St. Matthias Islands strengthened their positions. There had been no Japanese counteraction to Monday's surprise landing.

Tells How Marines Took Emirau

SPENCER

With the Marines on Emirau Island, March 20 (delayed) (A. P.).—Battle-wise Marines, cheerfully whistling "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning," landed on sprawling Emirau Island at two points this morning and in less than four hours secured new bases only 580 miles from Truk. It was one of the most perfectly executed amphibious operations ever staged in the South Pacific and resistance was so weak that many doubted that the Japanese ever fired a shot in the island's defense.

However, firing really was observed, as the first landing craft started ashore. It lasted just two minutes.

The job of transferring this strong force of veteran Marines with their supporting light tanks, heavy weapons, bull-dozers and supplies from ship to shore was completed by nightfall. The naval flotilla then retired without so much as sighting an enemy ship or plane.

Planes Skylark Overhead.

After an undetected night-time approach, the convoy began discharging the small landing boats at dawn, while destroyers moved inshore to begin a bombardment if necessary. But the island remained silent.

As the first wave formed, aircraft skylarked overhead and a ponderous Liberator bomber wheeled through the sky to photograph the invasion. A protective screen of cruisers could be seen on the horizon to intercept any enemy surface forces that might attempt to interfere.

Shortly after 8 A. M., the commander of the Marines under Brig.-Gen. Alfred Noble told the waiting troops: "Natives on the beach are in plain sight. 'H' hour will be 8:30."

Armed amphibious tractors, known more familiarly as alligators and buffaloes, jockeyed for position and at the designated moment surged forward with their loads of Marines. The guide boat evens up the line and it all looks like a perfectly matched relay race. The only missing element is the starter's gun—and there's been no gunfire so far.

On First Boat Ashore.

The first wave hit the two beaches simultaneously. One landed at Eulolou Harbor, at the eastern end of the island, and the other took its position between Tasagina and Eleoa villages, about a mile west.

The prows of the amphibious craft rose up as the tractor treads gripped the reef within fifty feet of the shore, and then dipped down again as the reef was cleared. They swept through clear water and drove into a shelter of mangrove trees.

Still there was no gunfire. Marines leaped out and took shelter in the dense foliage.

No sooner had the first wave hit than Lieut.-Col. Charles Banks of Norton, N. Y., commander of the first unit, ordered the first boat to make an immediate landing. The Marines were ashore at 8:35 A. M. just as the second wave was on its way in.

At 8:45, the rattle of machine-gun fire was heard from Elomusao Island which forms the eastern shore of Eulolu Harbor. At first it looked as if the Marine patrol that landed on Elomusao had flushed up some resistance. A destroyer sent a few salvos ashore. That was all.

These Marines are veterans of the first Makin Island raid, of Guadalcanal, New Georgia, Bougainville and other Solomon actions. The Silver Star, the Navy

Cross or the Distinguished Service Medal could be worn by virtually every officer and most of the men.

'No Japoni.'

Natives encountered repeated in Pidgin English: "No Japoni. They altogether go Kavieng, Mussau." Mussau is the biggest in the St. Matthias group and is clearly recognizable fifteen miles to the northwest.

Col. Banks, former executive officer of Col. James Roosevelt's Fourth Raiders at Makin, lost no time in moving afield. Sending one patrol to the right to establish contact with the other landing force, he moved with the other patrol toward Tasagina village, which they found abandoned. First Lieut. Franklin Lee Bennett of Detroit, former pro football star with the Detroit Lions, and Second Lieut. Max Belko, University of Southern California star, searched through five or six grass huts and found no evidence of the enemy.

Within four hours after the landing, the Marines had traveled the length of the island and were in control of the main road which the Japanese would need if they attempted a counter-landing.

At the command post, the commanding officer sat on a log and, between the flow of orders and the jingle of field telephones, told the correspondents: "It was a beautiful operation. The landing phase was the best I've ever seen. There may be minor resistance at Elomusao, but we're not positive. At any rate, we had only one man wounded and one of the Japanese islands is missing."

Marine Phone Man Gets Japs' Number

Bougainville, March 23 (AP)—Marines of the communications section were asking if anyone here had seen Kelly after they hit the beach with the invasion forces.

Pfc. Thomas E. Kelly, former Farmington (Minn.) telephone employe, was supposed to be manning a field telephone from the beach to the assault force, but they couldn't find him anywhere.

Meanwhile, a combat team was enjoying the service of a "guest" marine who helped clean out a pillbox, killed a brace of Japs, and then carried a vital message to a mortar battery.

Close scrutiny showed the "guest" of the combat team was communications' missing phone man.

Explained Kelly to his commanding officer: "We couldn't use the phone right away. I didn't have anything to do, so I took off with the combat team."

INFANTRY STILL TOPS

Bougainville, Solomon Islands, March 23 (A. P.).—It still fell to the queen of the Army—the infantry—to clean out the Japs from outposts they had gained on the American's Hill 260 after dislodging efforts by flame throwers, bazookas, grenades and incendiaries had failed.

However, these methods softened by the stubborn Japanese by the time veteran American Infantry Division troops moved in and rooted the enemy out, killing forty-eight against negligible American casualties.

The Japs had gained the heights of the Hill 260 outposts several days ago, but most of them had been thrown out in early counter-attacks. A few well-entrenched Nipponese defied all eviction efforts until today.

PONAPE BLASTED IN ELEVENTH RAID

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, March 23—(AP) Army and Navy bombers chalked up their eleventh raid on Ponape and the tenth against Kusaie for March with still not a single loss in a series of strikes against the eastern Caroline island guardians of Truk, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

A total of 70 tons of explosives was dropped on the two vulnerable Japanese bases in the Carolines and four enemy-held atolls in the Marshall islands.

Large fires were started in warehouses and barracks in the latest assaults carried out Tuesday. Kusaie and Ponape guard the eastern approaches to Truk.

Army, Navy and Marine fliers, who hit the Marshall islands, reported that an ammunition dump was blown up on one atoll and fires and explosions were observed on others.

Text Of Announcement

The text of the announcement: "Liberator bombers of the Seventh Army Air Force and Liberator search planes of Fleet Air Wing 2 bombed Ponape and Kusaie on March 21. Large fires were started among warehouses and barracks.

"Ventura search planes and Hellcat fighters of Fleet Air Wing 2, Liberator and Mitchell bombers of the Seventh Army Air Force, and Dauntless dive bombers and Corsair fighters of the Fourth Marine Aircraft Wing bombed four enemy-held atolls in the Marshalls. An ammunition dump was observed to explode on one atoll and fires and explosions were seen on others.

"Seventy tons of bombs were dropped in all these operations. All of our planes returned."

U.S. BOMBERS BLAST OUTPOSTS OF TRUK

Washington, March 23 (A. P.).—American bombers, carrying out their twelfth attack on Ponape and Kusaie, which guard the eastern approach to the big Japanese base at Truk started large fires in warehouses and barracks, the Navy announced today. At the same time other bombing flights on Tuesday continued their regular pounding of enemy-held atolls in the Marshall Islands, setting afire an ammunition dump and causing other fires and explosions.

All planes returned from the raids during which seventy tons of bombs were dropped on the enemy, it was added.

JAPS FEARED NAVY IN EARHART SEARCH

Marshall Islands, March 5 (Delayed (A. P.).—While the U. S. Aircraft Carrier Lexington and battleship Colorado conducted a widespread search in July, 1937, for Amelia Earhart Putnam and her navigator, Fred Noonan, the Jap Government said: "There is no need for American planes to search the Marshall Islands. We will search them."

This was disclosed today by the executive officer of a carrier who aided in the original search.

Interest in the American flyers' fate was renewed by a report relating that an English-speaking, mission-educated native named Elieu, 30 years old, told Lieut. Eugene F. Bogan of 325 East 72d street, New York City, civil affairs officer on the staff of an atoll command, that a Jap trader named Ajima told him of an American woman flyer who came down between Jaluit and Ailinglapalap atolls and was picked up by a Jap fishing boat. According to Ajima's account, she was taken back to Japan.

Relations between Japan and American then were friendly, although the Japs allowed no foreigners to visit the Marshalls. The officer said the Lexington's search extended to within 350 miles of the place where the islander talked to the Jap trader.

Paramushiro Isle Valuable Only In War

By Judson Bailey

New York, March 23 (AP)—The finger of an eventual Allied smash in the Pacific is pointing at Paramushiro, one of Japan's Kurile Islands that extend northwestward from Japan toward Alaska.

A year ago President Roosevelt observed that "there are many roads which lead right to Tokyo."

The inference was that the Allies would travel all of them. They already are driving along three. Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been pushing slowly up from the southwest for a year and a half and now a thrust through the Central Pacific is gaining headway under Admiral Chester W. Nimitz and Mountbatten is sending his feelers through Burma.

Next Road For Yanks

This leaves the northern route, sometimes called the "short-cut route," as the next road for the Americans. And just as engineers survey and blast a highway for troops, airmen and sailors in the Arctic are probing this potential path into the heart of the Japanese Empire.

With ever-recurring frequency big bombers of both the army and navy have been hammering at Paramushiro, the next step along this road to Tokyo. These raids started last July 19 and since then have been fairly numerous and in growing strength, and the navy's guns have been there, too.

Dangerous Water

Paramushiro is one of more than 30 volcanic formations which form the Kuriles. It is a rocky, fog-bound piece of land, 55 miles long and 12 miles wide, where no Americans would want to tarry.

Its waters are dangerous to navigation, its land is rough and peaks rise abruptly from the sea to more than a mile in height. Even the Japanese have never lived there the year around during peacetime, coming only in the summers to fish.

But it has enough flat plateaus to furnish airfields, and in Allied hands it would be a dagger pressed close against the heart of Japan.

Paramushiro is 765 miles from Attu. It is about 1,200 from Tokyo. But it is less than 700 from the large and populous island of Hokkaido, the northern unit in Japan's "mainland islands." Strategically, therefore, it is of tremendous importance.

Potential Value

American bombers based there could wreak great havoc on Japanese military and industrial centers, harassing the home front and interrupting the flow of supplies to Japanese troops.

The Japanese know that this is one of the easiest air routes into their homeland. Two decades ago the first flight ever made from America to Japan went this way, three United States Army planes hopping from Alaska to Paramushiro to Japan. It was a good-will mission then, but the next journey will be a mission of a different sort.

Japs Explain Lack Of Subs' Activity

New York, March 23 (AP)—Japanese submarines have been too busy supplying front-line Pacific bases to carry out their real function of attacking and sinking enemy warships," the Tokyo radio told the Japanese people in a broadcast reported to the OWI.

A submarine commander on supply duty was quoted:

"Truly if we had more ammunition and planes, transportation by surface ships could be accomplished under the protection of planes. Then the submarines could carry out their real function of attacking and sinking enemy warships."

Truk, Jap Sea Fortress, Composed Of 245 Islands

New York, March 23 (AP)—Truk, Japan's mysterious "Pearl Harbor," is perhaps the most valued Allied objective in the Pacific.

A group of 245 volcanic islands in the Carolines archipelago, some of them 10 to 15 miles in circumference, Truk has been described as the mightiest of the "island fortresses" guarding the approaches to Tokyo. Some naval men called it "impregnable," and it was believed at one time that American forces would avoid assaulting it directly.

Surrounded By Reef

The islands are surrounded by a great circular reef of coral, forming a lagoon 40 miles in diameter, with an anchorage large enough to accommodate the entire Japanese navy. At only five points can the guardian reef be passed.

Japan seized Truk from the Germans soon after the outbreak of World War I, and later took over the group under League of Nations mandate. What the Japanese did to fortify the natural defenses they kept highly secret, even to the extent of barring foreigners for almost a decade before Pearl Harbor.

It was known, however, that they have developed numerous airfields, and some of the islands—as much as 1,358 feet above sea level—were believed to offer ideal positions for gun batteries overlooking the sea.

Truk's geographical position is its most important feature. It is 800 miles north of Rabaul, 1,100 miles west of the Marshalls, 2,100 miles south of Tokyo and approximately the same distance east of Manila.

It stands on almost a straight line from the Marshalls to the Philippines. Its capture or neutralization by the Allies would clear the road to Bataan and would enable almost a killing blow to be struck at Japan's supply lines to her possessions in the south.

Paraguay Crisis Held Resolved

Montevideo, March 23 (AP)—Paraguayan sources here suggested today that a crisis in the Cabinet of President Higinio Morinigo, which resulted in the resignation of three Ministers two days ago, may have been precipitated by disagreement over the Government's recent action in recognizing the Farrell regime in Argentina.

It was pointed out here that two of those who resigned—Foreign Minister Luis Argana and Education Minister Sigfredo Gross Brown—were generally recognized as strongly sympathetic toward the United Nations.

Recognition Withheld

(The United States and most of the other American republics, as well as Britain, have withheld recognition from the Farrell regime.)

The crisis appeared today to have been resolved with the appointment of Cotor Horacio Chiriani, former president of the Supreme Court, as Foreign Minister and Dr. Juan Dario Quiroz as Education Minister.

Minister of Finance Rogelio Espiniza, who resigned with Argana and Brown, will continue in his post until April 1, when the new fiscal year begins.

ARGENTINA COMBINES ALL AVIATION UNITS

BUENOS AIRES, March 3.—(AP) Argentina incorporated army and civil aviation today in a new independent military air force under the direct supervision of the Minister of War.

Under the new program, Argentine aviation will be commanded by Col. Bartolome DeLacolina, reporting directly to the Minister of War, Col. Juan Peron. The naval air force will not be included in the new command.

General Staff To Plan Peace Is Proposed

NEW YORK, March 23—(AP) A general staff for the organization of peace, working in close contact with the President, "long before the defeat of the enemy," is proposed by William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to Russia and to France, in the current issue of Life magazine.

Mr. Bullitt, a veteran of the last peace conference, writes that "there was no winner in the tragedy of Versailles. The whole of mankind was the loser."

Period of Flux

"At the end of each great war comes a period when the world is in flux and may be molded by the leaders of the victorious powers into a better or a worse form," Mr. Bullitt says in his conclusions. "The moment of great opportunity passes quickly, and the world congeals in the new mold fixed by the peace settlements.

"The political, economic, military and moral march toward wise terms of peace must begin long before the defeat of the enemy. Unwise terms of peace—even terms desired b your Allies—must be excluded by binding international agreements while our Allies are dependent on us for their preservation. We must use our power while we have it. Wilson did not use his power while he had it."

Suggesting a staff for the organization of peace as "no less necessary than a general staff for the organization of war," Mr. Bullitt says:

"By our Constitution, the Senate has coordinate power with the President in the matter of treaties. A close coordination of thought, intention and will between the President will not negotiate treaties which the Senate will reject and the Senate will not reject treaties negotiated by the President."

Morality Is Problem

Mr. Bullitt sees the problem of international morality underlying all problems of peace.

"We as a nation cannot resign from this earth. We cannot escape the consequences of unwise settlements in Asia and Europe which will produce new wars. We shall be involved in those wars."

The problem of peace in Europe, Mr. Bullitt points out, is, "as it was in Wilson's day—the central problem of world peace." It is so difficult, he adds, that "in weariness we are tempted to try to wash our hands of the problem."

"We cannot wash our hands of it. If we try to do so we shall suffer physical consequences in war; and we shall suffer moral consequences. We cannot escape history. Pontius Pilate washed his hands, and the world has never forgiven him."

HULL STARTS NEW CAMPAIGN

Plans Another Speech In Defense Of Foreign Policy

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Cordell Hull has picked up a challenge flung by critics of Administration foreign policy and begun a campaign in support of his work as Secretary of State which may prove to be one of the dramatic personal undertakings of this political war year.

The Secretary served notice at a press conference today that in a forthcoming speech, the time of which is to be announced later, he will give the country specific instances in which the 17 basic points of his foreign policy apply to current world problems as well as set up ideals for future international security.

To Meet Republicans

Tomorrow the Secretary will meet with 24 Republican Representatives who are regarded as supporters of a policy of international cooperation but want to know what the Roosevelt Administration has done to implement such statements of principal and ideals as the Atlantic Charter and the Moscow declaration.

Yesterday Hull talked with members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committe. That was less than 24 hours after he had met critics who claim that the Government lacks a foreign policy with a 17-point summary of basic principles enunciated in his speeches during the last two years.

Asked About Criticism

Today at his press conference the Secretary was asked both about the public reaction, much of it critical, to this foreign policy summary, and about the way in which the policy relates to current diplomatic questions, such as the Russo-Polish dispute, Russian recognition of the Badoglio Italian Government, French National Committee recognition and Finnish peace.

He replied that he was glad somebody was waking up to the principles which he has been uttering for two years without anybody paying much attention. In his meeting with the Senators yesterday, Hull said, he undertook to discuss American relations with every country in the world and to bring the Senators up to date on the policies applying in each situation.

The Secretary was then asked to discuss specific instances at the press conference and replied that the reporters must be trying to take the bloom off his coming radio speech.

Hull Still Hopes For Finnish Peace

MAR 24 1944

Washington, March 23 (AP)—A lingering hope that Finland will get out of the war forestalled tonight a complete break between the United States and that northern fighting partner of Germany.

Secretary Hull told a news conference the American Government still hopes Finland may finally work away from Germany, adding that, so far as he knew, Russian-Finnish armistice negotiations have not been terminated.

A diplomatic break between this Government and Finland is regarded as inevitable if the peace negotiations collapse completely. The Finnish Government was notified days ago that the United States is reconsidering relations with that country.

The United States has retained its diplomatic friendship with Finland in spite of the latter's military cooperation with Germany because leaders in this country thought the friendship would be an aid in getting Finland out of the war.

Japs Use Terror Plan At Home

By James D. White

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Premier General Tojo, striving to wring more war production out of the Japanese home front, is treating his own people as slaves and potential deserters.

Measures which resemble strikingly those imposed upon conquered Chinese and Koreans are being perfected to make Japanese factory hands work better and produce more—"even one more plane."

While a certain amount of this treatment always has been the lot of Japanese subjects, the new measures, just announced by the Tokyo radio in a domestic broadcast reported by the Office of War Information, appear much more openly drastic than anything the Japanese have known.

"Work-Rank" System Described

They consist of two features—imposing a system of military rank upon workers giving superior officers the power of punishment over those under them, and an intensification of the favorite Japanese police system of collective responsibility for individual behavior.

The broadcast said the "work-rank" system for Japanese industry was "just like the ranks for soldiers" and was part of a "labor-strengthening program" to obtain "on-the-spot responsibility."

Firm Hold Demanded

All factory personnel, from the lowest worker to the boss himself, it said, have been made subject to "strict and severe" punishment for failure to live up to their "responsibility."

"Commanders of each organization must have a firm hold on their subordinate workers," the broadcast pointed out.

The system will be applied first to "model factories," the Tokyo radio said, and then extended through Japanese industry.

With it will go an intensification of the collective responsibility principle which the Japanese employ widely throughout occupied Asia to control conquered peoples.

This means simply that if one person in any group fails to live up to Japanese military regulations, the whole group is punished. Spying and talebearing are encouraged.

This is the Japanese perversion of the ancient Chinese "Pao Chia" system which was used for centuries to encourage local self-government in a huge country where communications were too slow to support an intricate central administration.

14-DAY LOSSES PUT AT 6,000

Stimson Reveals U. S. Over-All Casualties Now 168,292

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson revealed today the American battle casualties increased more than 6,000 in two weeks despite the comparative quiet on the various fronts.

Secretary Stimson said United States Army casualties in all theaters, from Pearl Harbor to March 7 of this year, totaled 126,193. The latest navy reports lists 42,099 for the three sea services, the navy, marines and Coast Guard — an army-navy total of 168,292.

This figure compares with the over-all total of 162,282 dead, wounded, missing and prisoners reported on March 9.

Loss In Italy 2,287 More

Army casualties, with two weeks in Italy, increased, 2,287 to 39,058, of which 5,749 were killed. While there was, during this period, heavy fighting at Cassino, American forces apparently were not involved to any great extent.

New Zealand and Indian troops have done much of the fighting there.

Stimson's report on the over-all casualty figures today listed 21,737 killed, 50,363 wounded, 26,747 missing and 27,346 prisoners.

The navy casualties were made up of 17,887 killed, 10,754 wounded, 9,036 missing and 4,422 prisoners.

Tells Of Transport Disaster

Secretary Stimson also disclosed that the Allied gunfire which shot down 23 American transport planes during the invasion of Sicily was the result of "one of those terrible hazards that must be taken in any bold, complicated modern maneuver."

"However, I wish to emphatically scotch here and now," he said, any report that the shooting down of the transports—with the loss of 410 lives—could be traced to a lack of coordination among land, sea and air services.

Services Unified

Withont identifying the dispatch, he said a foreign correspondent who reported the air forces operated separately during the invasion did "a complete disservice to a splendid air force."

The transports were brought down by our own gunfire as they roared in over surface guns at almost the same time German aircraft unloaded bombs among our shipping.

Stimson said the pilots of the transports "were carrying their human cargo under orders laid down for them by a completely unified high command."

Stimson Discusses Plane Loss

MAR 24 1944

Says Transports Shot Down in Sicily Were Not Under Separate Command.

Washington, March 23 (A. P.).—Secretary of War Stimson said today that the pilots of twenty-three American transport planes shot down by friendly gunfire during the invasion of Sicily were operating under a "completely unified high command."

A reporter raised the question of command at the secretary's press conference by citing an overseas dispatch which said that the Army and Navy were under joint command during the Sicilian invasion, while the Air Force operated separately. Neither the questioner nor Mr. Stimson identified the dispatch which indicated that the loss of the planes with 410 personnel may have been due to lack of co-ordination.

"The statement that the Air Forces operated separately in the Sicilian landing operation or in any other joint operation in this war is untrue," Mr. Stimson said, "and is a complete disservice to the fine men of the Army Air Forces.

"The blame, if we must highlight censure for every unfortunate circumstance in war, most certainly does not lie with the pilots of those transport planes who were carrying their human cargo under orders layed down for them by a completely unified high command."

Points to Difficulties.

"The loss of the planes in the case you mention," he continued, "resulted from a combination of circumstances that may occur in spite of the best-layed and most meticulous planning. I know of no more complicated operation in war than an amphibious operation at night involving not only sea and ground personnel, but airborne troops as well.

"In this operation, the orders for air support and Air Force transport of ground troops were integrated in the general plan of operations just as closely as those for the ground and sea units. This plan necessarily involved the hazards inherent to flying at night in unfavorable weather over thousands of our own Army and Navy water craft which were abnormally alert to repel hostile attack from the air while they were in that vulnerable position—we sometimes call their attitude being 'trigger conscious.'

German Planes Overhead.

"On this occasion these inevitable hazards were also complicated by the fact that some bombs were dropped among our shipping from German planes which apparently purely by accident passed over at almost the same time as our own planes; thus the fact that our planes were subjected to fire from friendly sources was one of those terrible hazards that must be taken in any bold, complicated modern maneuver such as we had off the coast of Sicily.

"It should be apparent in what I say that a complete explanation of the circumstances cannot be given without also giving the enemy a blue print of the operation, &c.; however, I wish emphatically to scotch here and now the misstatement of that correspondent who did such a complete disservice to a splendid Air Force."

STIMSON CLOSES PATTON INCIDENT

Washington, March 23 (A. P.).—Secretary of War Stimson said emphatically today that he considered "the Patton incident" closed. Asked at a press conference if Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr. had been relieved of command of the United States Seventh Army in Italy (now headed by Major-Gen. Alexander M. Patch) because of his slapping of an American soldier in a hospital during the Sicilian campaign, Secretary Stimson said:

"No, he has not. He has been assigned to the command of another army." Another reporter then asked: "Do you consider the Patton incident closed?"

"I do," Secretary Stimson replied. The identity of Gen. Patton's new command has not yet been disclosed.

Roosevelt Urges Army Day As Spur To War Production

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Proclaiming April 6 as Army Day, to honor the nation's soldiers who have been "welded by the fire of battle into a mighty army of liberation," President Roosevelt today asked the nation's civilians to "reconsecrate" themselves to producing the arms and equipment needed to sustain the army until final victory.

The text of the proclamation follows:

"Whereas, America's valiant soldiers have been welded by the fire of battle into a mighty army of liberation; and

"Whereas, The men and women of the American army, of different races and creeds but one in their love of freedom and their devotion to the goals for which the United Nations are striving, must face during the coming year a burning test of their courage, their resourcefulness and their physical prowess; and

"Whereas, The Congress, by Senate Concurrent Resolution 5, 75th Congress, agreed to by the House of Representatives March 16, 1937, has recognized April 6 of each year as Army Day and has requested that the President issue a proclamation annually with respect to that day;

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim Thursday, April 6, 1944, as Army Day, and do invite the Governors of the various States to issue proclamations calling for the appropriate observance of that day.

"And I urge the civilians of the nation to reconsecrate themselves on that day to the task of producing in fullest measure and with the greatest possible speed the weapons and ammunition and the materials and supplies required to equip our army and to sustain it unto final victory.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed."

Deferment Program Mapped for Industry

Army-Navy-WPB Draw Up Plan But WMC Offers Objection.

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP) Whether any substantial number of men under 26 in railroading, coal mining, lumbering, and other essential non-munitions industries will keep their occupational draft deferments hung in the balance tonight.

The Army, Navy and War Production board, it was learned, have tentatively agreed to set up machinery under which they would recommend deferments for young technical men in a highly-select list of industries, all producing military supplies for invasion purposes.

Plan Meets Opposition

But this plan, which leaves out of consideration young men in industries not related to the invasion program, was reported to have run into objections from Selective Service and the War Manpower commission.

Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey objected, it was learned, on the ground that when he is supplied a list of industries he wants it to be complete. He wants recommendations for deferments to be handed to his state draft directors under a single unified plan, and believes confusion would result from having recommendations come from several different agencies.

Manpower officials, who also favor unified machinery, were understood to be concerned about some of the vital industries omitted, such as transportation, and to be proceeding to query all claimant agencies such as the Office of Defense Transportation and the Coal Mines administration, on what their minimum deferment needs are for men under 26.

But whether the Army will go along on including those industries in their deferment recommendations or will insist on concentrating on the few urgent munitions programs was problematical.

Agree on "Tough Policy"

The Army, the Navy and the War Production board had agreed apparently on a "tough policy" limiting deferments for skilled personnel in a highly select group of industries.

While the list is subject to change, the industries now on it are landing craft, synthetic rubber and 100-octane gasoline plants, tires and tubes together with plants making tire cord, fabric and molds, certain submarine plants, and plants making a secret weapon.

A letter informing manufacturers of this decision and advising those in the select industries how to go about seeking deferment for employes has been drafted by Charles E. Wilson, chairman of the production executive committee, a group made up of representatives of the War Production board, the Army and Navy. It has been held up, however, pending a final review by all parties concerned.

The industries chosen for WPB-Army-Navy support of deferment for key workers do not include some such as certain steel plants which have protested vigorously that their war production will be seriously injured if they must give up men under 26 to the armed services.

Two branches of the aviation industry, transport and engine manufacture, also have protested that more than a fourth of their technical workers are under 27 years of age.

In a report to Mr. Wilson and Army and Navy air chiefs, James P. Murray, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, said 27.4 per cent of the engineers in the aircraft engine industry were under 27.

Reject Pleas of Industry

Despite the cries from industry, the WPB-Army-Navy committee decided needs of the armed services for younger men were so great that deferment for men under 26 should be recommended only for key men in plants whose "end product is insufficient to supply immediate war objectives."

In these plants, Mr. Wilson's letter said, recommendations for deferment will be limited "to specific individuals engaged in work in those plants and programs requiring extreme and specialized skill or knowledge or a high educational or specified qualification; and then only when the individual worker is irreplaceable from other less urgent work with the plant or by recruitment."

Manufacturers who have individual employes falling into this category will fill out a deferment application and send it to the nearest representative of the WPB or the armed services. If the WPB or armed service representative agrees that deferment should be granted, he will so notify the state director of Selective Service.

Under recent orders from Selective Service headquarters, future occupational deferment for men under 26 is forbidden except when approved by the state draft director or unless employment is in an industry which national headquarters may except from this policy.

HOUSE WRITES BAN ON DRAFT THREATS IN AAA FUND BILL

MAR 24 1944

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP) Aroused by charges that farmers have been compelled to sign up with the Triple A or risk losing their gas rations and draft deferments, the House late today wrote a ban on such practices into the Agriculture department appropriation bill.

On a vote of 93 to 65, it tentatively approved an amendment denying salary payments to any person who demands that a farmer join the Agriculture Adjustment administration "as a condition of draft deferment or for the granting of a priority certificate for any rationed article or commodity."

Representative Tarver (D-Ga.) pleaded to no avail that the House refrain from adopting such an amendment until a committee could study the complaints. He urged the House not to act on "the basis of two or three letters and post cards."

The charges have been made by Representative Harness (R-Ind.), who told an Agriculture sub-committee today of a letter he received from a farmer in Marion, Ind. The farmer said he was told by his draft board he had to show a certificate of AAA membership or be placed in 1-A subject to immediate induction.

"Selective Service and the Triple A said they do not countenance nor condone this," Mr. Harness said, "but nevertheless they are doing it and we're going to stop it."

A group of Ohio farmers, joined in a "protest association," also testified before the sub-committee against the policies of the AAA—an adjunct of the Agriculture department which handles farm and marketing problems.

Today's vote in the House found Republicans present lining up virtually solidly for the ban. It was a teller vote and is subject to a rollcall later.

Representatives Brown (R-Ohio), Smith (R-Ohio), Michener (R-Mich.) and others said they had received complaints from farmers.

The action on the Harness amendment delayed until tomorrow final action of the annual agriculture bill, carrying $567,996,779 for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Army Chaplains Suffer Heavy War Casualties

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 23—Only the air forces and the infantry have suffered a larger proportion of casualties among their officers than the Chaplain Corps, the Army reported today.

From the start of the war to the end of last year, nineteen chaplains were killed in battle, nineteen wounded, thirty-three were taken prisoners, one was missing in action, and thirty-one died of accidents or illness.

Eighty-five chaplains have received a total of three Distinguished Service Crosses, three Croix de Guerre, twenty-six Silver Stars, fifteen Legion of Merit, thirty-nine Purple Hearts and four Soldiers Medals, or ninety decorations in all.

At the end of the year there were 6,998 chaplains, 4,255 in the United States and 2,743 overseas.

Gold Star for Admiral Thebaut

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP).—The Navy announced today award of a Gold Star in lieu of a second Legion of Merit to Rear Admiral Leo N. Thebaut, fifty-four years old, for exceptional service in the Italian amphibious assault last September. Admiral Thebaut born in Madison, N. J., now o Bryn Mawr, Pa., was then a captain and commanding officer o the U. S. S. Boise, which supported Allied assault troops making landings on the west coast of Italy.

LABOR PROTESTS ARMY NEWS POLICY

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP) The Army has refused a labor delegation's request that it assume the responsibility "of correcting misconceptions the troops might have derived" from reports of labor troubles.

This was announced by the War department today in a statement which said:

"The War department cannot take it upon itself to police all American publications or to withhold from soldiers publications which they want to read."

Secretary Stimson was asked at his press conference what steps the Army had taken as the result of a recent conference between a C.I.O.-A.F.L. delegation and Undersecretary of War Patterson on the distribution of labor news to soldiers.

The department's policy, he replied, was to give soldiers an accurate and impartial account of all news, and "competent students of newspaper technique, including the editors of the C.I.O. News and the American Federation of Labor clip sheet, have examined the material distributed to Army publications by the Army news service and have commended it for telling the news honestly and objectively."

House Group Seeks Curb On Lend-Lease Settlement

MAR 24 1944

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP)—Backed by the Foreign Affairs committee, a move started in the House today to give Congress watchdog power over the President in final settlement of Lend-Lease contracts.

This authority was written into the bill extending President Roosevelt's Lend-Lease program for another year beyond June 30. The revised bill was ordered reported for action by the entire House. The committee conceded that it may be the fuse for a pointed argument and so a vote probably will not be sought until after the Easter vacation.

The amendment is phrased this way:

That extension of Lend-Lease is not to be construed to give the President any authority to "assume" obligations on the part of the United States without established constitutional procedure, in other words congressional review.

Explains Proposal

Representative Wadsworth (R-NY), who sponsored the change, explained in a statement that it assures "a proper and workable relationship" between the Congress and the White House in any final settlement of a Lend-Lease contract.

"If any obligation on the part of the United States is incurred," he said, "with respect to post-war policies in the final Lend-Lease settlements, it can only be done in accordance with our established constitutional procedure and with the appropriate action by the Congress which is required by such procedure."

That appropriate action could be review by the Senate, which passes on all treaties, or by either House if a two-thirds majority decided it wanted to enter the picture.

Suggests Curb on Lend-Lease

Meantime, Representative Philbin (D-Mass) suggested in the House that the United States withhold further Lend-Lease aid "to nations that are engaged in invading the territorial integrity and violating the political independence of the small weak nations of Europe."

Without naming Soviet Russia specifically, he referred to "Communistic riots and demonstrations, promoted by radicals" which he said were occurring in smaller European nations within the widening Soviet sphere.

"These nations are being, or, we have every good reason to believe, will be, communized and their population rendered subject to Marxian dictatorship of the proletariat," he told the House.

The United States, he said, should not allow Lend-Lease supplies to be used to "enslave free nations."

5TH WAR LOAN AIM IS $16,000,000,000

Washington, March 23 (A. P.). A $16,000,000,000 goal has been fixed for the Fifth War Loan, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau disclosed today, "because we need it for the war and because we've been assured that we can get it."

The Secretary said at a news conference that he wanted to correct an impression that the goal would be $14,000,000,000, the same as the Fourth War Loan, which brought in $16,730,000,000.

Saying that he had been smoked out by the published reports, Mr. Morgenthau added that a full announcement as to the date and type of securities would be made next week. The drive generally is expected to open early in June.

20 STATES AGAINST FEDERAL BALLOTS

Washington, March 23 (A. P.).—The expressed sentiment of the States toward the pending service men's vote bill swung slightly against Federal ballots today when the White House heard from the last of the forty-eight Governors polled. Gov. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina informed Mr. Roosevelt that the Palmetto State does not recognize the short-form Federal ballots provided in the bill and that nothing will be done to authorize their use by July 15.

The final score in the president's canvass stood: Twenty States have not and probably will not approve the Federal ballots; nineteen States authorize such a voting system or expect to do so; nine State governors are non-committal.

Mr. Roosevelt asked the governors' plans, to help him decide if he would approve or veto this bill, which puts primary emphasis upon the use of State absentee ballots, with the Federal ballots as a last resort. Meanwhile, White House aids said that 856 telegrams had been received from individuals on the subject, all bu t four of whom recommended a veto.

inequities and injustice."

WLB Chief William H. Davis told the Senate Banking committee emphatically, however, that this measuring rod for allowable wage increases would have to be discarded if Congress abolishes consumer food subsidies.

"We couldn't hold present wage scales," he said.

The committee is considering extension of the price and wage stabilization act, now scheduled to expire June 30. Foes of subsidies have talked of writing a ban on them into the measure.

The little steel formula is under attack by labor unions. Originated by the board it has been incorporated into an executive order by President Roosevelt and the board has no authority to change it. The board could, however, recommend a change and Mr. Davis told the Senate committee that if he becomes convinced the formula causes injustices to workers, "I'm going to say so."

Mr. Davis appeared before the committee in behalf of the Administration's position that the stabilization act should be continued without any change in the provisions dealing with wages.

He said any attempt to limit the "take home" earnings of workers, an idea which has been discussed, might prove "disastrous to the war effort."

It would amount, he declared, to "imposing maximum hours of work, precluding promotions and upgradings, restricting productivity under incentive systems, and preventing the shift of workers into industries."

Wage controls now apply only to hourly or basic rates of pay and Mr. Davis acknowledged that most workers are taking home fatter pay envelopes because of overtime pay.

But the WLB stabilization program, he said, has kept basic hourly wage rates substantially unchanged since October, 1942.

Australia to Vote on Freedoms

CANBERRA, Australia, March 23 (AP)—The Australian Senate today passed a bill authorizing a national referendum to decide whether the Australian Constitution should be widened by the addition of fourteen new powers, including President Roosevelt's "four freedoms."

KAISER PLANS MORE SHIPS

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP) In a major move to cushion the impact on industry and labor of converting from war to peace production, Henry J. Kaiser today announced plans to build 30 coastwise cargo ships for the Dutch East Indies government for war and peace-time use among the south Pacific islands.

'Bomb Jap Volcanoes'

Hamilton, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—The present eruption of Mount Vesuvius prompted today a renewal of the suggestion by a Colgate University geology professor that Japanese volcanoes be bombed as a total war measure.

"Whether the tremendous pounding the earth has received through bombing in the vicinity of Mount Vesuvius has had anything to do with the present eruption is highly problematical, but well within realms of possibility," Dr. Harold O. Whitnall asserted.

"Often balance between embedded rock and uprising pressure is on such hair-trigger basis that any unusual shock might cause eruption."

vention tomorrow.

That word came from National Committeeman F. Harold Dubord of Waterville as delegates to the state meeting heard their new national chairman, Robert E. Hannegan, predict the Democrats would win in November "because the world requires it and destiny wills it."

If the resolution is carried—and experienced observers foresaw little if any, opposition—the Democrats would in effect repeat their action of four years ago. Maine has 10 votes in the national convention.

Delegates greeted with cheers, at tonight's pre-convention rally in Lewiston city hall, recommendations both by Dubord and former Gov. Louis J. Brann that the national convention delegates be pledged to a fourth term.

Brann declared that he assumed that no one would question that such a resolution should be enacted, that such action was "the duty" not only of the Maine convention but all the Democratic state conventions.

"I can as easily conceive of the removal of Winston Churchill as prime minister of Great Britain as the defeat of Franklin Delano Roosevelt November next," Brann declared.

HIDDEN PLANT WRECKED BY CHANCE BOMB HIT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 23—(AP) On a bomb run it is possible to win praise for a miss. This was the report of Tech. Sgt. Joseph Donato of 520 Winthrop avenue, New Haven, Conn., who is awaiting reassignment at the Army Air forces redistribution station.

"Our bombs missed the rail yard near Caserta," Donato said, "but they hit something we didn't know was there and was much more important. It was a hidden sulphur plant, and raised a column of smoke 14,000 feet high."

The Nazi railyard was also demolished by the blast, which Donato said destroyed the camouflaged chemical plant and did ten times the intended damage.

20 Men Missing In River Crossing

With the Second Army on Maneuvers in Tennessee, March 23 (AP)—Approximately 20 men are missing following the capsizing of an army raft during an attempted river crossing last night, Second Army officials announced tonight.

Two men, believed to have been an officer and enlisted man, either swam or waded to shore after the raft capsized, the officials said.

Efforts are being made by the army to locate the missing men, army officials said, and names will be made public as soon as they are known.

WILLKIE ASSAILS G.O.P. OPPONENTS OF WAR POLICIES

KENOSHA, Wis., March 23—(AP) Wendell L. Willkie asserted today the reason the Republican party failed in 1940 was its opposition to greater American participation in the war effort at that time.

"The reason I was not elected President in 1940 was because I had to lug the load of members of my party opposing selective service, transfer of 50 destroyers to Great Britain, more and more aid to Britain," the candidate for the nomination this year told a luncheon audience.

And the Republican party "won't prevail in 1944 if it pursues a similar course," he said, adding:

"I want you to remember that on this day, March 23, 1944, in Kenosha, Wis., Wendell Willkie said that if the Republican party adopts a platform and nominates a candidate concerning whose record in the minds of the people, there is the slightest doubt on these great issues the Republican party is certain to be defeated in 1944."

Says FDR Followed Him

Willkie contended that in 1940 he preached that it was apparent the United States must give more aid to Britain. "It was said I merely agreed with Franklin Roosevelt, when the fact is Franklin Roosevelt spoke out later and agreed with me," he declared.

He said the Selective Service act introduced by Rep. James Wadsworth (R-N.Y.) was discussed with him first, he approved of it and "thereafter the President came out in favor of it after Republicans initiated it. Similarly, Willkie said, he was consulted and approved of the destroyer transfer and "thereafter Franklin Roosevelt approved and we gave them the destroyers."

Willkie said he spoke from one end of the country to the other in 1940 for Lend-Lease because "it took no foresight to see that if, Britain, that bastion of freedom, fell thousands of Americans would die unnecessarily.

"Traduced" by Party

"I did it," he said, "because I wanted to keep the Republican party an effective unit of government. But I was opposed by 80 per cent of my own party — traduced, maligned by the opposition press, whispered about.

"Yet where is the Republican today who will say the United States should not have given aid to Britain, who will not say that at least some of us had the foresight and courage to advocate it?"

The candidate, suffering again from a cold and hoarseness, lashed out at those "who keep silent on vital issues," saying "I almost despise those who keep silent, who think it is smart and clever, politically, to dodge and hedge, trying to gather to them all elements and groups."

He also took another crack at the administration, saying that it has been in power so long that "it is only natural that in its position of exaltation over the ordinary citizens it begins to disregard the necessity of going to the people to discuss things with them."

He attributed this "staggering burden" to asserted mismanagement of domestic and foreign affairs by "the dynasty in Washington" and appealed for a return to "sane constitutional government through election of men of ability —not political parasites."

The Texas Democrat spoke at a rally of Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats backing Republican E. K. Clark against Democrat William G. Stigler in next Tuesday's Second district congressional election.

The campaign, watched nationally as a barometer of 1944 political sentiment, will be climaxed Monday with the appearance of Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, the Senate majority leader, who will talk here for Stigler.

"What America needs most today," O'Daniel asserted, "is a thorough housecleaning in Washington—a housecleaning from cellar to attic.

"I am not seriously concerned whether or not the next president of the United States is a Democrat or a Republican; I am not seriously concerned whether the Republicans or Democrats control the next House of Representatives or the Senate.

"But I am vitally concerned as to whether or not the next President and members of the next Congress will be men who believe in the Constitution of the United States."

O'Daniel described the Roosevelt administration as "a well organized gang of professional politicians."

O'DANIEL DEMANDS VOTERS TURN OUT NEW DEAL 'GANG'

MUSKOGEE, Okla., March 23—(AP) Senator W. Lee O'Daniel, of Texas, in a speech attacking New Dealers "from the President on down," declared tonight the taxpayers were being smothered under a public debt that would reach $10,000 a family before the war ends.

U. S. IS PRODUCING MORE THAN HALF OF WORLD'S OIL

DALLAS, March 23.—(AP) The United States contains only one-third of the indicated oil reserves of the earth, but it is producing two-thirds of the world's output, G. C. Gester, Standard Oil company of California, San Francisco, declared in an address before the American Association of Petroleum Geologists today.

The United States has twenty billion barrels of oil reserves compared with forty billion for the rest of the world, according to conservative estimates based on available information, Mr. Gester said.

"Up to Jan. 1, 1944, the United States has produced about twenty-eight billion barrels of crude oil, contrasted with fifteen billion barrels for the rest of the world," Mr. Gester said.

"We may not be actually killing the goose that lays the golden eggs but we certainly are pulling out its feathers and have been doing it for years.

"The age of oil is with us and it has not yet reached its majority. Hundreds of new uses for oil are being found. Synthetic rubber is only one of more than 300 by-products of modern oil cracking processes.

"The present global war is a war of wheels and wings. The uses and appliances of petroleum and its products are so vast and important that their influence will be universal.

"The sixty billion barrels of indicated reserves for the world might be increased greatly by the drilling of a million wildcat wells scattered over the face of the earth."

Replying to a question, Mr. Gester said that the oil still in the ground might be as much as 300 billion barrels.

CHANGE PREDICTED IN U. S. EDUCATION AFTER WAR ENDS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—(AP) In a prophecy of changed trends in post-war education, President Robert G. Sproul of the University of California asserted tonight that "so-called progressive education has run its course."

"In the approaching post-war period," he told a dinner audience in observance of the 76th anniversary of the state university's charter, "the long-time interests of the race bid fair to be given a measure of protection against the devastation of rampant adolescents and sub-adolescents.

"Already, at the University of California, the limitations of the free elective system have for some time been recognized, and, in principle, have been abandoned. Hereafter, the disciplined mind, which is the major objective of education, will be sought less and less through the undisciplined curriculum."

He said the reaction would be from a 50-year trend in which "higher education swung over almost completely to the free elective system, and primary and secondary education transferred control of the school in large part from the teachers to the pupils."

He described it as a system under which "helpless victims suffered all manner of educational dyspepsia and malnutrition."

Dr. Sproul predicted that the needs of returned war veterans and adult education would require changed curriculums and procedure, but said, "I do not believe these modifications will be revolutionary."

"We have been far too much concerned with the 'success' of our students," he continued, "and far too little with their duties as citizens. x x x Too many of them, under such a system, have forged no deep emotional ties to the welfare of their country. The war has changed all that for the immediate present.

"It has given American higher education opportunity that should be made historic. Catastrophe lies ahead unless we seize that opportunity, and return to fundamentals, to the disciplined education of our students, first as citizens and second as vocational specialists."

JAPAN'S MERCHANT FLEET, VITAL TO THE SUPPLY OF HER SCATTERED, DILUTED PACIFIC GARRISONS, ARE UNDERSCORING GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S "CUT THEM OFF AND LET THEM STARVE" STRATEGY OF HOW TO FIGHT JAPAN.

SINCE THE FIRST OF THE YEAR 227 JAPANESE CARGO SHIPS HAVE BEEN SUNK IN THE CENTRAL AND SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, ASIDE FROM NEARLY 600 BARGES, MANY OF THEM LOADED WITH TROOPS AND SUPPLIES. THESE SHIPS WERE LINKS IN LIFELINES TO WIDE-FLUNG DEFENSE OUTPOSTS.

PARTICULARLY OFF THE NORTHWEST COAST OF NEW GUINEA HAVE JAPAN'S SEALANES COME INCREASINGLY UNDER ALLIED BOMBSIGHTS. LAST WEEKEND AN ENTIRE FIVE-SHIP ENEMY CONVOY WAS SUNK BETWEEN HOLLANDIA AND WEWAK, AND GENERAL MACARTHUR ANNOUNCED TODAY THAT ALLIED BOMBERS SANK A JAPANESE DESTROYER AND TWO SMALL MERCHANTMEN IN THAT SAME GENERAL AREA.

UNDER MACARTHUR'S STRATEGY OF BY-PASSING CERTAIN ENEMY STRONGPOINTS TO CUT OFF THEIR SUPPLY LINES, UNCOUNTED THOUSANDS OF NIPPONESE TROOPS ARE LEFT STARVING OR FACING STARVATION IN THE SOLOMONS, ON NEW BRITAIN AND NEW IRELAND.

MAR 24 1944

THE SAME MAY BE IN STORE FOR NEW GUINEA.

THE LATEST BISMARCK ARCHIPELAGO LANDINGS IN THE ST.MATTHIAS ISLANDS, INVADED MONDAY, WERE SECURELY IN HAND TODAY AS MARINES FROM SOLOMONS BASES CLEANED UP THE SLIGHT OPPOSITION FOUND ON EMIRAU ISLAND AND NEIGHBORING ELOMUSAO. THIS COMPLETED A CIRCLE OF ALLIED HOLDINGS AROUND THE BISMARCK SEA, TRAPPING NIPPONESE TROOPS AT RABAUL AND KAVIENG.

RABAUL, THE NEW BRITAIN BASE WHICH MACARTHUR HAS TERMED ISOLATED IN VIEW OF THE LATEST LANDINGS, WAS POUNDED WITH 133 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES MONDAY. SUPPLY AREAS AND ANTI-AIRCRAFT POSITIONS WERE PRIME TARGETS.

TO THE WEST OVER NORTHEASTERN NEW GUINEA, WHERE ALLIED BOMBERS HAVE UNLOADED BETTER THAN 1,600 TONS OF BOMBS IN LITTLE MORE THAN A WEEK, WEWAK WAS PLASTERED WITH 160 TONS WHICH CAUSED CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE TO SUPPLY DUMPS AND BARGES IN THE HARBOR. THE ENTIRE AREA WAS LEFT UNDER A PALL OF SMOKE WHICH ROSE 4,000 FEET.

THE LATEST ENEMY DESTROYER SUNK WAS SPOTTED BY A LIBERATOR 22 MILES EAST OF TADJI IN THE AITAPE AREA OF NEW GUINEA MONDAY NIGHT. A 1,000-POUND BOMB BADLY CRIPPLED THE SHIP, AND THE NEXT MORNING THE LIBERATOR FINISHED IT OFF WITH 2,000 POUNDS OF EXPLOSIVES.

IN THE PAINFULLY SLOW GROUND CAMPAIGN ON NEW GUINEA, AN AUSTRALIAN PATROL FOLLOWING THE KABENAU RIVER MADE CONTACT WITH AN AMERICAN FORCE MOVING UP THE SHORELINE FROM SAIDOR. THEY JOINED IN A DRIVE ON BOGADJIM, MAIN DEFENSE OUTPOST FOR JAPAN'S BIG BASE OF MADANG. THIS COMBINED FORCE, WHICH REPORTED SMALL SKIRMISHES WITH THE ENEMY, IS NOW ABOUT EVEN MILES SOUTH OF BOGADJIM.

Ukraine Army Breaks Through Defenses to Dniester River.

TARNOPOL RAILWAY CUT

NIGHT

Red Forces Advance Within 60 Miles of Czecho-Slovakia.

LONDON, Saturday, March 25.—(AP) Russia's First Ukraine army broke through to the Dniester river at the Balkan gateway city of Zaleshchiki yesterday, killing 20,000 Germans and capturing 3,500 in a four-day offensive which put the Red army within five miles of the former Rumanian province of Bucovina and 60 miles from old Czechoslovakia, a Moscow communique announced last night.

The 62-mile flanking smash below Tarnopol threatened to trap thousands of battered German troops to the east, part of the 50 German divisions of more than 500,000 men already threatened with encirclement in the Odessa area of southern Russia.

Cut Tarnopol Railroad

Other Soviet units cut the Lwow-Tarnopol railway northwest of Tarnopol, fought their way into Proskurov, 62 miles east of Tarnopol, severed another German escape railway from lower Russia into Bessarabia, and toppled the German Bug river stronghold of Voznesensk above Odessa, the Soviet command announced.

Whole enemy garrisons were wiped out in the new smash to the Dniester at captured Zaleshchiki, said a midnight Russian bulletin recorded by the Soviet monitor. German troops also abandoned great piles of equipment, it said.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's troops were declared to have overrun 400 towns and villages in reaching the river in the southeastern corner of old Poland, and the thrust placed Soviet troops just 26 miles north of Czernowitz, big Rumanian rail junction controlling lines into Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and southern Rumania.

The 23,500 casualties inflicted on the enemy boosted to nearly 250,000 the German dead and captured in the Ukraine offensive, on the basis of Moscow announcements.

Rail Junction Seized

Premier-Marshal Stalin announced the break-through to the Dniester at Zaleshchiki, and also the capture en route of the "operationally important" rail junction of Chortkov, 22 miles to the north, and Gusyatin rail station 17 miles east of Chorvv. An order of the day, recorded by the Soviet monitor, recorded the gains.

The daily communique later announced that Soviet troops striking northwest of besieged Tarnopol had crossed the Sereth river and cut the railway to Lwow at a point only 60 miles from that big Axis communications city in southern Poland.

That stroke snapped the principal German feeder route into Tarnopol, made the capture of Tarnopol an early possibility, and further opened the way for three-way drive on Lwow.

The Russians also broke into the outskirts of Proskurov, 62 miles east of Tarnopol on the trunk railway to Odessa.

Voznesensk, German Bug river stronghold 80 miles north of Odessa in southern Russia, also fell to Russian assault troops, said the communique.

5 Miles from Bucovina

At Zaleshchiki the Russians were only five miles from northern Bucovina, 60 miles from old Czechoslovakia in the Carpathian mountains, and just 20 miles from the Czernowitz-Lwow railway.

The cutting of that railway would split Axis forces in Poland from the demoralized Rumanian-German legions in Bessarabia, already reported fighting with their backs to the Prut river in an area 70 miles southeast of Czernowitz.

East of Zaleshchiki, thousands of Germans appeared to be facing early annihilation or capture. In a 3,500-square mile corner of the southwestern Ukraine between Mogilev Podolski and between the Dniester and the Odessa-Proskurov railway, these retreating Germans were almost completely pocketed.

Even if the Germans escape into Bucovina—the scene of the disastrous Polish government and army flight before the German invaders of 1939—they are likely to find their rail escape routes snapped north and south of Czernowitz.

In the new break-through to the Dniester the Russian communique listed this captured booty: Three hundred German tanks and big "Ferdinand" self-propelled guns; 120 armored cars and armored troop carriers; more than 500 guns; 490 mortars; 760 machine guns; 5,000 trucks; eight railway trains containing tanks and other materials and 30 various stores.

Besides the Soviet threat to the Germans in the area east of Zaleshchiki, the Russians also were making huge strides in their drive to loop a great noose around the Germans in the Odessa salient far to the southeast.

Reds Reach Byeltsi

The communique announced that the Russians had broken into the outskirts of Byeltsi (Balti), important Bessarabian rail junction 100 miles southeast of Cernauti. This doomed another German escape route from southern Russia, the Slobodzeya-Rybnitsa-Byeltsi line, leaving the major Nazi rail route, the Odessa-Tiraspol-Jassy line, only 27 miles beyond the advancing Russians.

These Soviet troops, wheeling southward toward the Danube estuary, the Ploesti oil fields, and the Rumanian capital of Bucharest, were units of the Second Ukraine Army under Marshal Ivan S. Konev.

Nazis Flee In Confusion

If the Russians can reach the Odessa-Jassy line the Germans in the area between the Black Sea and the lower Bug river far to the east then will have only one inadequate land escape route into Rumania, from Odessa to the Dniester estuary, thence by ferry across to Akkerman.

Boris Polevoy, correspondent for the Moscow newspaper Pravda, wired from Bessarabia that the Germans and Rumanians there were fleeing in wild confusion, throwing away their rifles and machine guns.

"They grab onto anything they can, to carts and even tails of horses," the dispatch said. "Some more lucky ones fled on oxen."

East of the Bessarabian battle the Russian Third Ukraine Army which took Voznesensk now was ready to smash across the lower Bug river and cave in the top of the German Odessa salient.

Nikolaev, Black Sea port at the mouth of the Bug, 50 miles southeast of Voznesensk, also was under steady pressure by Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's forces, last reported within five miles of the city.

[A BBC broadcast quoted "unofficial reports" that the Russians had broken into the outskirts of Nikolaev.]

20,000 NAZIS DIE IN RUSSIAN DRIVE IN TARNOPOL ZONE

Voznesensk and Chortkov Captured and Railroad to Lwow Is Cut.

DAY

London, March 24 (A. P.).—Twenty thousand Germans have been killed in the Russian offensive in the Tarnopol and Proskurov area and the railway between Tarnopol and Lwow has been cut, Moscow declared tonight. In a broadcast communique the Russians also announced the capture of Voznesensk, fifty miles northwest of Nikolaev, thus opening up another big section of the route to the Black Sea.

Earlier tonight Premier Stalin announced that in a wide advance below Tarnopol the Red Army captured Chortkov, forty miles south of that grimly contested center, and Zaleshchigi, twenty-five miles north of the Prut River.

Stalin said troops of the first Ukrainian front had advanced thirty-seven to sixty-two miles in a four-day offensive after beating off all German counter-attacks in the Tarnopol-Proskurov sector.

More than 400 other populated places were liberated, he said, in addition to Chortkov and Zaleshchigi, which is on the Dniester River sixty-two miles below Tarnopol.

25 Miles from Czernowitz.

Twenty-five miles south of Zaleshchigi is Czernowitz on the Prut, which Russia considers the border of Rumania. Another Russian column, seventy miles to the southeast of Czernowitz, is within fifteen miles of the Prut and its soldiers were able to see the river today, Moscow dispatches said.

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's second Ukrainian Army was reported increasing the pace of its advance toward the Prut, now that firmer and higher ground is underfoot.

[Between Tarnopol and Proskurov, where the Russians announced a thirty-five-mile breakthrough, the German communique said the "grim defensive fighting against superior Soviet combat groups continues." The Germans asserted that they had repulsed other Russians northwest of Kovel, thirty-three miles from the Curzon line in old Poland.]

Boris Polevoy, war correspondent in Bessarabia, wired Pravda that the Germans and Rumanians were fleeing in wild confusion, abandoning rifles and machine-guns.

Welcomed by Peasants.

"They grab onto anything they can, to carts and even tails of horses," the dispatch said, "some more lucky ones fled on oxen." Polevoy said that the peasants of Bessarabia were meeting the advancing Red Army in colorful processions, bearing church banners and traditional offerings of bread and salt.

With Konev's swift advance through northeast Bessarabia against Rumanian units, their German commanders appeared unable to hold them together for a determined, concerted stand, field dispatches said.

Reds Sight Prut, Only 15 Miles Beyond

CASSIDY

MAR 25 1944

Moscow, March 24 (A. P.)—Russian troops drew within sight of the Prut river from heights 15 miles away today and continued their advance in Bessarabia through the first foothills of the Carpathian mountains.

The Prut is the boundary of Rumania proper. The Dniester, which was the pre-war boundary, has been breached on a wide front. Five miles beyond the Prut is an important north-south railroad which is the key to northeastern Rumania.

Tempo Of Drive Increased

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukrainian army was reported increasing the pace of its advance toward the Prut, now that firmer and higher ground is underfoot.

(Between Tarnopol and Proskurov where the Russians announced a 35-mile breakthrough, the German communique said "grim defensive fighting against superior Soviet combat groups continues."

DAY

(The Germans asserted they had repulsed other Russians northwest of Kovel, 33 miles from the Curzon line in Old Poland. The Red Army also was reported attacking southeast of Vitebsk in White Russia "with strong forces" and on two sides of the isolated Crimea.)

Headlong Flight Reported

Boris Polevoy, war correspondent in Bessarabia, wired Pravda that the Germans and Rumanians were fleeing in wild confusion, abandoning rifles and machine-guns.

"They grab onto anything they can, to carts and even tails of horses," the dispatch said. "Some more lucky ones fled on oxen." Polevoy said the peasants of Bessarabia were meeting the advancing Red army in colorful processions, bearing church banners and tradional offerings of bread and salt.

The Nazis apparently were feeling the strong pressure of the Russian columns toward Czernowitz, important rail and highway city at the foot of the Carpathians, approximately 90 miles due west of Mogilev-Podolski. They were reported struggling desperately to throw up defense lines around the city as the Soviet drive developed in intensity from the north and the east. Czernowitz is regarded by Soviet military experts as the key to the Rumanian province of Bocovina.

Drive Toward Lwow

Further north Marshal Zhukov's 3-day-old drive, which has liberated 200 populated points in a 35-mile advance, took his forces into the heart of the communications area controlling Lwow's connections with the lower Ukraine, the Russians said.

Zhukov's advance guards, pounding down the railway south of Tarnopol, captured and passed the town of Kopchintse, 35 miles away, dispatches from the front said, and today they were reported less than 70 miles from the Prut river boundary line of Rumania and slightly less than that distance from the Czechoslovakian frontier.

Big Gap In Nazi Defense Line

Zhukov's offensive, announced in a midnight communique after it had been underway for three days, slashed a 25-to-40-mile-deep gap in the strongly fortified German defense chain in front of the Carpathians, field dispatches said.

At the same time Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Third Ukrainian army was reported battling enemy troops in the outskirts of Vozenensk on the Bug river, 50 miles north of Nikolaev and 80 miles northeast of Odessa. Nikolaev was more closely threatened, front line dispatches said, by a Russian thrust through the town of Konstantinovka, 10 miles to the north, and by other Red army troops pressing the port's defenses 15 miles to the southeast.

Kiev Province Report

Moscow, Saturday, March 25 (AP). Sergei Dvornikov, chairman of the Kiev province Soviet, announced today that preliminary investigations revealed the Germans "literally swept from the face of the earth" 82 villages and 43,000 collective farms. They also took 100,000 tons of grain and 200,000 head of cattle.

NIGHT

LONDON, Saturday, March 25 — (AP) "Aircraft of the R.A.F. bomber command were over Germany in strength during the night, with Berlin as the main objective," an authoritative British source announced today hard on the heels of the American daylight attacks which pounded Frankfurt and Schweinfurt and the French airfields of Nancy and St. Dizier as the air war against German Europe raged without pause.

The German radio declared the night raid on Berlin was on a large scale.

Entire City Blanketed

High explosives and fire bombs blanketed all Berlin, the Germans said.

The Germans, who had offered little opposition to the daylight attacks, made it a "battle of the capitals" Friday night with the longest, most determined raid of the week on London.

It was their fourth consecutive night raid, and several waves of bombers caused casualties and damage with high explosive and incendiary bombs. A well-known building, a famous old church, and a publishing house were among London structures hit, along with many residences. The Germans also struck in southeast England and East Anglia.

The raiders destroyed another large church in London. Dwellings in the neighborhood were gutted. In the nearby area high explosives buried a number of residents in the wreckage of their homes.

The attack, however, was not as severe as that of March 13.

From two German raiders, which fell within a mile of each other, six Nazi airmen bailed out.

U. S. Planes in Action

About 250 American bombers and approximately the same number of fighters, including R.A.F. Mustangs, took part in each of the two daylight missions—a total of 1,000 planes—significantly demonstrating the Allies' growing command of the air. The raids were made at a cost of three bombers and five fighters although two of the targets Frankfurt and Schweinfurt, are vital industrial centers heavily defended in the past.

The escort destroyed two Nazi aircraft on the ground and shot down a third as it was taking off.

The Americans could not shoot any great numbers out of the air because, as a headquarters communique observed tonight, "few German interceptors challenged either the fighters or the bombers."

The mission was the 19th in March for the Eighth Air force, topping the record of 18 operations for a month, established in February.

Fortresses Hit Frankfurt

Flying Fortresses struck 400 miles to Frankfurt and 475 to Schweinfurt, marking the 14th time in March that American heavies had bombed German soil and providing a striking contrast to the days when the Eighth Air force had to pay heavily to penetrate that deeply.

Liberators were given the job of smashing the Nazi airfields in France, both long distances from British bases. Nancy is 175 miles due east of Paris and St. Dizier 60 miles west of Nancy on the Marne river.

These fields were the fourth and fifth major German air force installations attacked by the American heavies in the last 24 hours in the campaign to smash German planes on the ground if they refuse to take the air and fight.

The weather permitted visual bombing of the fighter bases but over Frankfurt and Schweinfurt there were clouds which necessitated use of the overcast bombing technique.

The American daylight offensive followed a double night blow struck by the R.A.F. at objectives around the industrial metropolis of Lyon in southern France and the railroad center of Laon in northern France.

The R.A.F.'s Mosquitos also made another of their stinging attacks on the Rhineland rail and water communications center of Dortmund. Two British planes were lost.

The night raids brought the total of Allied planes over Germany and occupied territory in 36 hours to 5,000 or 6,000, and their bomb load to approximately 7,000 tons.

Forts Pounding Reich Third Day In Row

MAR 25 1944

London, March 24 (AP)—American heavy bombers drove into Germany for the third straight day today, bombing military targets in western Germany, a United States communique announced, following strong RAF night blows in France.

While Flying Fortresses smashed into Germany to the accompaniment of the German broadcast warning service, "Achtung! (attention) Achtung! strong enemy bomber formations flying over western Germany," Liberators bomber airfields in northeastern France.

These attacks raised to 19—a new high record—the number of attacks in a single month. Fourteen of the attacks in March were directed against targets in Germany. The previous high for operational missions was 18 in February.

No Opposition Today

First American fighter and bomber groups back from today's raids reported no enemy opposition.

They said they flew over a thick overcast through which the Germans threw a barrage of anti-aircraft fire. A number of flyers reported they saw the fiery trail of ground rockets but said "they didn't bother us."

7,000 Tons In 36 Hours

As on yesterday, when a six-prong assault was made on railroad yards, aircraft stations and other objectives in western Germany, the heavy bombers today were escorted by strong formations of Lightning, Thunderbolt and Mustang fighters.

RAF heavies, bombing objectives around the industrial city of Lyon, in southern France, and the railroad yards of Laon, 80 miles northeast of Paris, last night brought the total Allied air forces over Germany and occupied territory in 36 hours to between 5,000 and 6,000 planes, it was estimated.

Bomb tonnage for that period was boosted to around 7,000.

The Vichy radio, describing last night's RAF raid on Lyon, said "numerous delayed-action bombs were dropped, destroying 50 houses" in one district.

Aside from being a manufacturing center, Lyon is a junction for seven main railroad lines. The city has important metal factories, an inland harbor with 24 miles of docks, and three airfields.

Partial Damage Listed

The United States Air Forces announced that 61 enemy aircraft were knocked down in yesterday's blasting of six targets in Germany. Thirty-nine of these were accounted for by the Fortresses and Liberators and 22 by the Thunderbolt, Lightning and Mustang escort.

Twenty-seven United States heavy bombers and six fighters were lost.

American headquarters said an incomplete assessment of the damage done included:

HANDORF AIRFIELD—Two out of five hangers hit and left burning. Barracks hit. Heavy concentration of bombs on landing field.

HAMM RAILROAD YARDS—Direct hits on railroad bridge, hits on main line into city. Industrial damage on river front.

MUENSTER—Damage in densely built-up part of city.

In addition the Brunswick district, the aircraft park at Werl and the air force station at Achmer were hit.

The absence of any German aerial battle reports accompanying their "Achtung" warnings indicated that the German fighter defense may not have taken to the air to give combat as it did in some sectors yesterday.

Railroads Attacked

The RAF's assault on the Laon yards, 45 miles south of the Pas-de-Calais, the 90-mile deep French department which the Allies have been bombing heavily for the last seven months, was a part of the coordinated day and night campaign against the network of French and Belgian railroads leading to the invasion coast.

Eleven raids this month have been directed at this network, including two yesterday by American Marauders against Creil, 20 miles north of Paris, which they have visited three times in a week, and Haine-St. Pierre, near Charleroi in Belgium, 80 miles northeast of Laon.

BOMBER GUNNERS SEE LITTLE ACTION

NIGHT

A U. S. FLYING FORTRESS BASE IN ENGLAND, Saturday, March 25—(AP) Thanks to the overwhelming fighter escort, which is growing in size daily, there are many gunners riding American heavy bombers over Europe who have not had to fire a single shot in the last five or six raids.

Only a few months ago it wasn't unusual to see a Fortress go out carrying 5,000 rounds of ammunition and come back empty. Now the convoy planes are doing most of the battle and what the bomber crews call a "rough" day from enemy fighters is becoming the exception instead of the rule.

"I don't think there will ever be another battle like we had over Schweinfurt and Brunswick," said Sgt. Marvin J. Durham, 22, of Chicago, a veteran Flying Fortress gunner who has been through some of the toughest raids but hasn't shot his gun once on the last five trips.

"Our group was lucky but on the whole the raids today don't even resemble the ones we started without fighter escort," he said, summarizing the remarks of many gunners.

"The fighter cover we have been getting is perfect and is making our jobs a lot easier," said Sgt. George Thomas, 21, of Pittsburgh, top turret gunner who has flown six straight without firing his guns once.

Sgt. Frank J. Bagdon, 26, of Baltimore, top turret gunner, made three trips this week.

"The only enemy planes I've seen were far off in the distance outside a fighter screen," he said. "I thought I was getting a break because the first mission was a short hop to France but the next two to Germany were no tougher."

Sgt. Robert W. Fegan of Buffalo, N. Y., a gunner who is back on combat after recovering from wounds suffered in air battle last fall said:

"I've got in only one burst at one Messerschmidt-109 in five missions and then four P-38s zoomed right down out of the clouds and took him right off my hands."

Fortress Group Makes 100 Attacks On Foe

London, March 24 (AP)—A fortress group commanded by Col. Chester P. Gilger, of Darrouzett, Texas, which led the first American formation over Berlin March 4, rounded out 100 attacks on German objectives yesterday.

One of the group's tailgunners, Sergt. Donald W. Crossley, of Wellsburg, W. Va., has shot down 12 planes for a European theater of operations record. The group started operations in the spring of 1943.

LONDON, March 24 (AP)—A group of Marauders commanded by Col. Wilson Wood, 25-year-old Texan of Chico, became the first in the European theatre to complete 100 raids. The group took part in the blasting of the Creli rail yards north of Paris yesterday. It dropped more than 5,000 tons of bombs in 251 days.

"Our hundredth mission was our most successful," commented Capt. Maurice Druhl of Oregon City, Ore.

R.A.F. TRANSPORT PILOT IS KILLED IN BRAZIL

LONDON, March 24—(AP) Gene Hamilton Rowe, 23-year-old American captain in the R.A.F. transport command, was killed recently after holding a disabled plane on its course while his two companions parachuted to safety over Brazil, it was disclosed tonight.

Before attempting to bail out himself, Rowe, whose home was at Nashville, Tenn., radioed an SOS and released a carrier pigeon with a note giving the plane's position. Rowe apparently was struck by the tail of the spinning aircraft when he jumped, and his 'chute never opened.

DAY

Rowe's companions were Flying Officer F. B. Clark, of Hudson Heights, Quebec, and Flying Officer J. G. Doherty of Cornwall, Ontario, the radio operator. They parachuted onto a desolate island at the mouth of the Amazon and were rescued four days later by a small U. S. blimp.

Rowe's body was recovered later by a ground party.

Churchill Tells A. E. F. 'Chutists They'll 'Soon' Be in the Fray

Makes Two-Day Inspection of American Invasion Forces, Assures Troops They Can Face Fight 'With Utmost Confidence and Resolution'

By The Associated Press

AN AMERICAN ARMY BASE, England, March 25—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, completing a two-day inspection of American invasion forces, declared today that these are "most anxious and inspiring weeks, when all thoughts are turned to striking a great blow which may bring peace and freedom nearer to the men of all the United Nations and indeed to all the world."

The Prime Minister told the American troops they could face the coming struggle "with feelings of utmost confidence and resolution."

Churchill watched hundreds of parachutists in a mass leap at an American air-borne base yesterday and pronounced the air-borne troops "the most modern expression of war."

"Soon," he told the parachute troops who gathered around him on his surprise visit, unannounced until today for security reasons, "you will have the opportunity of testifying to your belief in all those great phrases embodied in the American Constitution."

Churchill spoke from a jeep, bare-headed, with General Dwight D. Eisenhower close by, along with Lieutenant General Omar N. Bradley, senior commander of American ground forces in the United Kingdom, and Major General Lewis B. Brereton, commander of the United States 9th Air Force.

From a grandstand the Prime Minister and the generals watched splendidly executed parachute leaps. Many scores of aircraft swept down, and as they reached the saluting base a number of parachutists tumbled out.

Almost before the men from the first planes touched the ground another wave came over and then another until the air was filled with green, blue, crimson, white and yellow shapes, which, as they sank to the ground, carpeted it as though with great bright flowers.

The Prime Minister, in his speech to the paratroopers yesterday, said:

"It is with feelings of emotion and of profound encouragement that I have the honor to review you here today. In these weeks which are passing so swiftly I see gathered here on English soil these soldiers of our great American ally preparing themselves to strike a blow for a cause which is greater cause than either of our two countries have ever fought for in bygone days.

"It is a world cause because, though no one can tell how the future of the world will shape itself, we are determined that dark tyrannies which have overcrowded our lives and drawn our people from their homes shall be broken and battered down and that an example shall be made of the guilty which will prevent such tyrannies being erected again upon masses of people.

"You have a great part to play. You are specially trained. You are the most modern expression of war. Soon you will have the opportunity of testifying your faith in all those inspiring phrases of the American Constitution and of striking a blow which, however it may leave the world, will, as we are determined, make it a better and broader world for all.

"You have come across the ocean. Here you are on this little island wrapped in northern mist. I cannot give you any guaranty about the weather, but I can assure you that you are greeted with warm hearts on every side.

"Our troops, British and American, at this moment are shedding their blood side by side in Italy, at Cassino or in the Anzio bridgehead, fighting hard and losing heavily in the struggle, and now here this comradeship in arms is repeated and I am confident that not only will the enemy feel the shock of our joint exertions but that there will be left behind a core of good feeling and mutual understanding and unity which will in itself be of priceless advantage to the good will which has united us now for so many years.

"I thank God that you are here, and from the bottom of my heart I wish you all good fortune and success."

The text of the Prime Minister's talk at the American base today:

"I have been passing two very happy and memorable days with my friend Supreme Commander Eisenhower, and meeting many of your leading commanders who are here in these most anxious and inspiring weeks when all thoughts are turned to striking the great blow which may bring peace and freedom nearer to men of all the United Nations and indeed to all the world.

"It has been a source of great interest to me, having been a soldier when young myself and having followed military matters for many years, to see how splendidly the United States forces are equipped and the splendid character of the officers and men and martial bearing and the handiness with which they use all the powerful weapons of which they are possessed.

"Here you are far from your homes. Great oceans lie between you and the land you love.

"Now you brace yourself for a struggle which I am bound to say you can approach with feelings of utmost confidence and resolution. Be assured deeds will be done by British and American forces which long will be celebrated in the history of warlike and valiant men fighting for right and freedom."

It was a brilliant operation with each aircraft dropping its load while flying at an incredible speed. As the prime minister watched he rose from his chair and stood with his unlighted cigar clenched in his teeth, smiling grimly.

While inspecting equipment, Mr. Churchill viewed a medical unit of a doctor and 15 men who are to jump with the first air assault troops on the invasion.

Prime Minister Is Confident Of Victory

DAY

London, March 23 (Delayed—AP)—Prime Minister Churchill paid a surprise visit to American air-borne troops in the English countryside today and, in a voice of deep feeling, told them they "soon will have the opportunity of landing upon the soil of Nazi-occupied Europe."

In company with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, senior commander of American ground forces in the United Kingdom, and Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the United States Ninth Air Force, the Prime Minister witnessed the colorful spectacle of many hundreds of American skytroops leaping from swift-rolling waves of planes on to the green English fields a few hundred yards from the reviewing stand.

"Modern Expression Of War"

"You have a great part to play," Churchill told them. "You are specially trained. You are the most modern expression of war."

"It is with feelings of profound encouragement that I have the honor to review you here today. In these weeks which are passing so swiftly I see gathered here on English soil these soldiers, specially trained, of our great American ally preparing themselves to strike a blow for a greater cause than either of our two countries have ever fought for in bygone days," Churchill continued as the masses of eager, battle-helmeted paratroopers gathered around him.

Determined To End Tyranny

"It is a world cause because, though no one can tell how the future of the world will shape itself, we are determined that the dark tyrannies which have overclouded our lives and drawn our people from their homes shall be broken and battered down, and that an example shall be made of the guilty which will prevent such tyrannies from being erected again upon the masses of the people."

It was Churchill's first inspection visit to an all-American unit and the Prime Minister, in a jovial mood and showing the keenest interest in all the complicated paraphernalia of the American airborne equipment, paused repeatedly to talk with the men from overseas. Needless to say, the Americans showed even keener interest in the chubby, bowler-hatted man who brought England forward from the black days of Dunkirk to the threshold of victory.

Of that victory he expressed high confidence.

Wishes All Good Luck

"I thank God you are here," he said, "and from the bottom of my heart I wish you all good fortune and success."

Striding along the close-cropped hayfield with amazing vigor for his 69 years, Churchill climbed up the steep ramp of a giant glider troop-carrier and gingerly lifted his feet high as he stepped over the ugly snout of a machine gun manned by a determined-looking American doughboy along his route of inspection.

A Yank's Reply

To Paratrooper Laddie Valek, of Cleveland, Ohio, who stepped forward with a full pack, Churchill inquired:

"How much do you weigh?"

Valek, who weighs about 135 pounds, drove out his chest.

"Three hundred pounds, sir," he said.

The Prime Minister lifted a skeptical eyebrow, grinned and passed on.

Eisenhower, with one of his four silver stars hidden under the collar of his short field coat, drew Churchill's attention to a display of American field rations, and picking up a candy bar remarked that they ough to steal one—that they looked good.

Watch Them Bail Out

"They all look good—everything," the Prime Minister said.

Both Churchill and Eisenhower stood up in the reviewing stand, draped with red, white and blue parachutes, as fleets of sky troop carriers thundered low over the horizon and tumbled out their cargoes of heavily armed men, swaying and drifting down under their multi-colored 'chutes.

Obviously impressed, Churchill took a firmer clench on his long, black cigar and turned to Eisenhower with a nod of resolute confidence on the role to be played by America's sky soldiers in the storming of Hitler's Europe.

Text Of Remarks

Following is the text of Mr. Churchill's remarks today during the review:

It is with feelings of emotion and of profound encouragement that I have the honor to review you here today. In these weeks which are passing so swiftly I see gathered here on English soil these soldiers of our great American ally, preparing themselves to strike a blow for a cause which is a greater cause than either of our two countries have ever fought for in bygone days. It is a world cause because, though no one can tell how the future of the world will shape itself, we are determined that dark tyrannies which have overcrowded our lives and drawn our people from their homes shall be broken and battered down and that an example shall be made of the guilty which will prevent such tyrannies being erected again upon masses of people.

Chance To Strike Blow

You have a great part to play. You are specially trained. You are the most modern expression of war. Soon you will have the opportunity of testifying your faith in all those inspiring phrases of the American Constitution and of striking a blow which, however it may leave the world, will be, as we are determined to make it, a better and broader world for all.

You have come across the ocean. Here you are on this little island wrapped in northern mist. I cannot give you any guarantee about the weather, but I can assure you that you are greeted with warm hearts on every side.

Forecasts Good Will

Our troops, British and American, at this moment are shedding their blood side by side in Italy at Cassino or in the Anzio bridgehead, fighting hard and losing heavily in the struggle, and now here this comradeship in arms is repeated and I am confident that not only will the enemy feel the shock of our joint exertions, but that there will be left behind a core of good feeling and mutual understanding and unity which will in itself be of pricless advantage to the goodwill which has united us now for so many years.

I thank God that you are here, and from the bottom of my heart I wish you all good fortune and success.

MONTGOMERY SEES FULL YEAR OF WAR

SID FEDER

LONDON, March 24.—(AP) Returning from a tour among the forces he will lead in the invasion of the continent, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery forecast today that the war probably would last another year or more.

Gen. Montgomery, commander of the British invasion forces, described them as the best army Britain ever had.

NIGHT

"We are preparing to take part in the biggest tug-of-war the world has ever seen," he said, "and if any should let go of the rope then we lose the match.

"How long will the pull last? No one can say for certain; it may last a year, it may take longer. But it will be a magnificent party, and we shall win. It will be a proper job for proper men."

The general, who was delivering an address opening London's "Salute to the Soldier Week," called on the home front to back up the army to the fullest, and suggested that Britain adopt a battle cry: "Let God arise and let His enemies be scattered."

Gen. Montgomery asserted that "the promised land is not now so far off," but he warned the nation that it must not again let its forces go to war inadequately equipped.

"It must forever redound to our shame," he said, "that we sent our soldiers into this most modern war with weapons and equipment that were quite inadequate. We have only ourselves to blame for the disasters that early overtook us in the field."

Tito's Forces Kill 500

London, March 24 (AP)—The Yugoslav Partisans of Marshal Tito killed 500 enemy troops in bitter fighting the last few days in eastern Bosnia, a broadcast communique said today. It added that Partisans routed several hundred Germans and Chetniks near Trebinje, in Hercegovina, and destroyed three railway stations in Slovenia.

AGNEW

London, March 24 (AP)—The European war may last a year or longer, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery declared today in an address saluting the British ground forces he will lead in the forthcoming invasion and calling for full cooperation on the home front.

"We are preparing to take part in the biggest tug-of-war the world has ever seen, and if anyone should let go of the rope, then we lose the match," said Montgomery, who won fame as the commander of the British Eighth Army.

DAY

Confident Of Victory

"How long will the pull last? No one can say for certain. It may last a year, it may take longer. But it will be a magnificent party and we shall win. It will be a proper job for proper men."

Later in an address at the Mansion House in London opening salute-to-the-soldier week, Montgomery declared emphatically:

"The promised land is not so far off now. If necessary, we have got to hazard all and give our lives that others may enjoy it."

Men In Good Trim

Just returned from a tour of his troops, Montgomery said he believes they will prove the best army Britain ever had.

Emphasizing the need for supplying Allied soldiers with the best possible arms, he declared:

"It must forever redound to our shame that we sent our soldiers into this most modern war with weapons and equipment that were inadequate. We have only ourselves to blame for the disasters that early overtook us in the field. Surely we must not let this happen again, nor will we."

Salute-to-the-Soldier Week is being staged as part of a campaign designed to raise £150,000,000 (about $600,000,000) in London alone in the sale of war bonds.

PACT IS DRAFTED FOR BRITISH MINES

KASISCHKE

LONDON, March 24—(AP) British mine owners' representatives and miner's leaders announced today that they had agreed to stabilize coal field wages until Dec. 31, 1947, and to eliminate anomolies of the Porter award which led to the recent strike of 100,000 Welsh miners and the current walkout of more than 50,000 in South Yorkshire.

Yorkshire miners' leaders said they expected the pact to bring a quick end to the wildcat walkout there which has spread to 28 pits.

The agreement provides an extra 2 cents per shift for skilled workers and incentives to increase production by piece workers. The Porter award has set the national minimum miners' wage at $20 a week but provoked disagreement because it failed to differentiate between skilled and unskilled workers.

NIGHT

The Porter award minimum remains unchanged under the new agreement, which simplifies and consolidates the system under which most miners are paid.

At present, miners receive a basic rate, plus certain percentages and bonuses related to production. Under the new system the percentages and bonuses will be incorporated in the basic rate.

To become operative the new agreement must be ratified by the miners and the owners, but it is expected to prove acceptable to both. Because of the length of its term — nearly four years — the agreement also is expected to lessen the possibility of strikes during the remainder of the war and the transitional period.

British Coal Strike Spreads To 28 Pits

London, March 24 (AP)—The south Yorkshire coal field strike spread today to 28 pits and involved 40,000 miners in a walkout which seemed unlikely to be settled at least until the first of next week.

Mine owners' and strikers' representatives are to meet Monday to discuss the recent Government wage rate awards—the same awards which led to the week-long strike early this month in South Wales and Monmouths

Air Chief's Daughter To Wed U. S. Officer

London, March 24 (A. P.).—The engagement of WAAF Flight Officer Jacqueline Leigh-Mallory, daughter of Air Chief Marshal Trafford Leigh-Mallory, Allied Air Commander-in-Chief on the western front, and Flight Officer W. E. Doherty, U. S. A. A. F., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Doherty of Hammondsport, N. Y., was announced here today.

Ruth Hertz to Wed New York Sergeant

London, March 24 (A. P.).—The engagement of Miss Ruth Hertz, daughter of Dr. J. H. Hertz, who as chief rabbi is the spiritual leader of Jews throughout the British Empire, and Sergt. Theodore Simon Hecht, U. S. A. A. F., of West 77th street, New York city, was announced here today.

Finns' Welfare Minister Visits Stockholm

Stockholm, March 24 (A. P.).—Finland's Welfare Minister, Aleksi Aaltonen, arrived in Stockholm today for the announced purpose of arranging for evacuation of Finnish children to Sweden.

His arrival prompted some speculation in the Swedish press that Mr. Aaltonen might be exploring new avenues for negotiating peace with Soviet Russia but there was no evidence to support such a theory.

Reich 'Imports' Million Workers In 4 Months

Bern, March 25 (AP—Delayed). At least 1,000,000 Italian men and women have been taken through the Brenner Pass during the past four and one half months to man machines in the German armament industry, says Avanti, underground Italian newspaper.

The move from Nazi-occupied Italy to the Reich's war plants under fire from Allied bombs apparently is continuing in Milan, Turin and other industrial areas, impelled—judging from announcements in the neo-Fascist press itself—by the lack of food and work in Italy.

Family Care Promised

Stampa, of Turin, for example, endeavoring to persuade others to follow the example of workmen already in Germany, assured them "your families will absolutely be cared for."

The German practice of stripping Italian factories of their machinery and raw materials presumably is another factor compelling Italian workmen to get in line. There are indications that the Germans are abandoning their plans to use Italian factories in favor of removing able-bodied workers to Germany.

Reasons for the change in plans include consideration of possible military developments, not excluding, according to some observers, an eventual German withdrawal beyond the Alps. Other more immediate reasons are the difficulty of transport through the Brenner Pass.

One of the motives of the recent strike wave in Italy, which threatens again to break out, said a Chiasso dispatch to the Basler Nachrichten, was the transport of a contingent of several thousand workers to Germany.

Fleeing Frenchmen Reported Robbed

Madrid, March 24 (AP)—Dispatches from France today said Paris police had information that between 50 and 60 persons who had sought to flee from German-held France had been slain and robbed of their valuables in a villa on the fashionable Rue Lesueur.

Paris police were quoted in the dispatches as saying the victims were charged 50,000 francs with the promise their flight would be facilitated. The dispatches further said the persons were told to appear at the villa with their valuables and to write their relatives they were leaving on a long voyage.

At the villa, the dispatches related, they were killed "by means of injections" and their valuables confiscated.

Nazis Tempt French Workers

MADRID, March 24 (AP).—French workers being recruited for Germany are now offered the "inducement" that if they are killed by allied bombs their heirs will not have to pay inheritance taxes. A decree to that effect was published in Vichy papers reaching here today.

Beds in French Rail Depots

MADRID, March 24 (AP).—Due to frequent sudden cancellation of trains "for military reasons," sleeping facilities for travelers are being established in all French railway stations, according to French newspapers arriving in Madrid today.

3 Vichy Policemen Killed

MADRID, March 24 (AP).—French papers received here today reported that three "terrorists" killed three Vichy police in a three-hour gun battle in the heart of Nice, the fight ending only when one of the "terrorists" was killed and the others wounded.

GERMANS BOLSTER CASSINO DEFENSES

New Artillery, Aerial Support Thrown Into Italian Battle.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 24—(AP) The Germans have thrown powerful new artillery and aerial support into their defense of Cassino, their ground troops are resisting as desperately as ever in the ruins of the mountain-locked stronghold, and it becomes plain that last week's terrific air assault did little to help Allied forces break through into the Roman valleys.

Enemy artillery fire from north of the town has mounted steadily in recent days, and between 40 and 50 Nazi planes swept low yesterday to shoot up Allied traffic on Highway Six behind the lines.

New Zealand troops wormed forward in the ruins at the southern edge of Cassino and an Allied spokesman reported they made "some little progress." German parachute troops clung to wreckage of the Continental and Des Roses hotels and other buildings.

Allied heavy bombers attacked railroad targets at Padua, west of Venice, again last night following a daylight raid by American medium Marauders on the Campo di Marte freight yards in the Florence area. Smoke rose to 9,000 feet over Florence and photographs showed great damage to warehouses and tracks there. No Allied planes were lost during the day.

German artillery fire against Allied positions in the Anzio beachhead also mounted in volume. A Nazi raid on the western side of the beachhead was repulsed and two members of an enemy working party were captured. Allied guns knocked out a German gun position on the right flank.

March 24 (AP)—Allied chances of breaking through into the Liri valley appeared as remote today as at any time since the start of the struggle over two months ago. The Allies, though, have learned many lessons at Cassino which may prove of value in the forthcoming invasion of western Europe.

One is that air attacks, though effective against cities and industrial establishments in the rear, are of little value against fortifications manned by determined soldiers. Above all, it has shown that the walls of Hitler's Europe still are strong and intact and that the German army still is capable of a most desperate defense.

New York, Saturday, March 25 (AP)—The London radio, quoting a report from the Fifth Army front at Cassino, said early today that "German paratroops had seized a belt of ruined houses on the western outskirts after street fighting."

Allies Rip Italian Railway Lines

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 24 (AP)—Two new bomber blows against enemy supply lines in northern Italy—at Florence and Padua—were announced by Allied headquarters today as heavy fighting continued in Cassino with no material change in the situation.

American Marauders, out in force yesterday, blasted the Campo di Marte freight yard, largest in the Florence area and the only one not hit in the war's first attack on that city March 11. Reconnaissance showed great destruction to warehouses and tracks.

Rail Bridges Attacked

Heavy bombers attacked railroad targets again last night at Padua, important junction point west of Venice.

In conjunction with the Florence attack, another Marauder formation hit a railroad bridge at Pontassieve and Kittyhawks attacked another on the east coast line at Falconara Marittimi, above Ancona.

Inside Cassino, New Zealand troops still beat against German strong points with the support of tanks and a heavy screen of artillery and mortar fire. The Nazi defenders were supported by both air attacks and increased artillery fire.

Allies Gain Slightly

Meanwhile, the New Zealanders again wormed forward and attacked the Germans on the western edge of the town. A spokesman said "some little progress was made and it is believed the enemy suffered severe casualties."

There has been little enemy activity north of the town since failure of their counter-attack early Wednesday on Castel Hill.

At Anzio an increase in the volume of enemy shelling against Allied rear areas on the beachhead was reported. A German raid against the left flank of the beachhead perimeter was repulsed.

Coastal Spitfires shot up 15 small sailing vessels in Yugoslav waters, destroyed a Siebel ferry and damaged an E-boat. No Allied planes were lost during the day.

Florence and Padua Hit.

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 24 (A. P.).—Two new bomber blows against enemy supply lines in northern Italy—at Florence and Padua—were announced by Allied headquarters today.

American Marauders, out in force yesterday, blasted the Campo di Marte freight yard, largest in the Florence area and the only one not hit in the war's first attack on that city on March 11. Reconnaissance showed great destruction to warehouses and tracks. Smoke rose 9,000 feet.

Heavy bombers attacked railroad targets last night at Padua, important junction point west of Venice. It was the second consecutive night raid against communications there.

Cassino By-Pass

Washington, March 24 (AP)—The question of why Cassino cannot be by-passed has been raised.

One explanation comes from Brig. Gen. William H. Wilbur, infantry officer back from the Cassino front for medical treatment. Wilbur agreed it is possible for infantry to penetrate the high and rocky mountains flanking the ruins of the Italian town.

They would have little chance of being supplied or supported by artillery fire, however, he said, because of the obstacles imposed in moving food, ammunition and artillery through and over the mountains and ridges, heavily fortified by the Germans.

Polish Leader In Italy

London, March 24 (AP)—A Polish telegraph dispatch from Polish army headquarters in Italy said Gen. Kazimierz Soshkowski, commander in chief of Poland's armed forces, accompanied by several high Polish officers, arrived there today to inspect the Polish corps at the front.

De Valera Appeals To All to Spare Rome

DUBLIN, March 24 (AP).—Prime Minister Eamon De Valera has appealed to the principal belligerent governments to spare Rome by agreement through appropriate intermediaries, it was announced tonight.

"Future generations will forget the military considerations which may now seem to dictate occupation or possession of Rome, but, should the city be destroyed, the fact of its destruction will be remembered forever," he said.

Gen. Sir Henry Wilson Returns To Algiers

Cairo, March 24 (AP)—General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, Allied commander in the Mediterranean, returned today to Algiers after consulting Middle East service and civilian chiefs and representatives of Allied governments in Cairo.

The subjects were understood to concern the changing Balkan situation and the allocation of zones of responsibility for relief administrations when the peninsula is liberated. The general visited King Farouk of Egypt.

RUMANIA FALL IS CONFIRMED

Possible Peace Moves Stalled By German Occupation

London, March 24 (AP)—The Rumanian legation at Ankara, Turkey, announced today that it had confirmed the German occupation of Rumania, and diplomatic quarters in London agreed that Hitler's Balkan grab had forestalled any effective peace move by the Nazis' satellite nations.

The possibility that the Allies have been quick to stir up as much trouble for Hitler as possible in the Balkans was seen in Berlin radio reports that parachutists in British uniforms had been dropped into Rumania and that a Rumanian Jewish ring dealing with them had been caught.

There were numerous indications that the Nazi maneuver has not ended with the occupation of Hungary and Rumania. Turkish advices reported that German reinforcements had been rushed to all points on the Rumanian and Bulgarian coasts of the Black Sea in an apparent German move to prepare a stand against the Russian army.

Billeting Prepared

The Moscow radio broadcast a Tass dispatch from Istanbul which quoted "trustworthy sources" in the Turkish city as reporting that "German billeting officials recently arrived in Bulgaria with the task of preparing billets for six German divisions."

By one unconfirmed estimate current in Ankara, the Nazis have drawn off 25 divisions from their central reserve in Germany in order to carry out the occupations.

There were indications, too, of governmental disintegration under the impact of the occupations. Hungarian diplomats in Stockholm, Madrid and Bern refused to recognize the new puppet regime in Hungary.

In Ankara there was said to be a strong possibility that the Rumanian legation in Turkey, or at least many Rumanian officials, would refuse to continue to function after the occupation.

clique in the Rumanian army and it is greatly respected throughout the country. A Rumanian source said such a move in the army might also have the assistance of Juliu Maniu, elder statesman who, although a liberal, has retained important positions under the Antonescu government because of his tremendous personal following.

It was reported that Maniu had a long talk with young King Mihai yesterday and gave the King a written memorandum on what he thought Rumania should do.

connection with the report that the Germans had begun seizing over all facilities in Rumania yesterday failed to produce either confirmation or a denial. Telephone communication between Turkey and Bucharest, the Rumanian capital, was suspended.

No information had yet reached Turkey to indicate the Germans were marching into Bulgaria in force, although a flood of reports earlier in the week had said Nazi military authorities were assuming control of communications and railways in Sofia and elsewhere in Bulgaria.

Bulgaria Believed Next

The expectations in Ankara, however, were that Bulgaria would follow Rumania in the step-by-step reoccupation of the entire eastern Balkans believed to have been laid down by Hitler in order to make a determined bid to halt the Russians in western Bessarabia and along the Black Sea coast. The program began Monday with Hungary, now under a puppet government.

An Axis source in Ankara said Hungary's deposed Premier, Nicholas Kallay, had applied for sanctuary in Turkey. This source indicated there was small chance the Germans would allow Kallay out of their jurisdiction because of the possibility that he might start a free Hungarian movement.

Turks' 1941 Anxiety Rekindled By Nazi Forces In Balkans

London, March 24 (AP)—Turkish advices reported today that German reinforcements had been rushed to all points on the Rumanian and Bulgarian coasts of the Black Sea and indicated a possible beginning of full-scale occupation of all Rumania as part of Hitler's preparations for a last-ditch stand against the advancing Russian armies.

Turkey herself was said to be casting an anxious eye over the extensive German troop movements throughout southeastern Europe.

Nazi Commanders

An Istanbul dispatch said it had been learned reliably there that the Germans were in full control of every Rumanian and Bulgarian city on the Black Sea, with all local troops under the command of Nazi officers. The German were said to be using every available boat and barge on the Danube to move troops and material.

By one unconfirmed estimate current in Ankara, the Nazis have drawn off 25 divisions from their central reserve in Germany in order to occupy Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria.

Fears Reawakened

The widening flood of Nazi forces in the Danubian basin and the Balkans reawakened Turkey's 1941 anxieties—fears that were produced by Germany's move into Rumania and Bulgaria preparatory to the Greek and Yugoslav campaigns.

The Turks, following their established principle of taking precautions against every possible contingency, were said to be reexamining the possibility that the Germans might invade Turkish Thrace—the bridgehead into the Balkans and the European route to the Dardanelles.

TURKEY AWAITS RUMANIAN GROUP

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 24.—(AP) A Rumanian "commercial delegation," headed by Paul Sterian, secretary general of the Rumanian Foreign office, is due to reach here Saturday from Bucharest.

The announced purpose of the visit is to reach a commercial agreement with Turkey but, in view of the turbulent Balkan situation, unusual importance is attached to the mission. It is unlikely that routine commercial problems would be handled by top Rumanian diplomats.

Rumanian sources in Istanbul meanwhile said they expected pro-Allied elements in the Rumanian army might break away from the Nazis and offer resistance to the German occupying forces in Rumania.

People in Europe Asked To Save Jews from Nazis

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP) President Roosevelt, saying hundreds of thousands of Jews face death as a result of Hitler's grasp of the Balkans, called on the peoples of those countries and the Germans themselves today to hide intended victims from the Nazi executioners.

The chief executive also asked in a statement that "the free peoples of Europe and Asia temporarily open their frontiers to all victims of oppression."

"We shall find havens of refuge for them, and we shall find the means for their maintenance and support until the tyrant is driven from their homelands and they may return," he said.

Mr. Roosevelt, his voice heavy with the cold which kept him to his living quarters earlier this week, read the statement to his press-radio conference. He said the American Inter-Departmental Committee on Refugees has had considerable success in actually getting people out of Nazi-dominated areas.

Summary of Foreign Policy

He indicated that he considered the first paragraph of his statement to be a summary of American foreign policy, commenting after he read it that it should answer people who have been going around asking bellhops whether this country has a foreign policy. The paragraph reads:

"The United Nations are fighting to make a world in which tyranny and aggression cannot exist; a world based upon freedom, equality and justice; a world in which all persons regardless of race, color or creed may live in peace, honor and dignity."

Mr. Roosevelt's appeal to the Germans and the Balkan peoples asked that they record the evidence against Nazis guilty of acts of savagery and promised that those having a part in such acts—leaders, subordinates and functionaries—will all be punished.

Promises Punishment

"All who knowingly take part in the deportation of Jews to the death in Poland or Norwegians and French to their death in Germany are equally guilty with the executioner," he said. "All who share the guilt shall share the punishment.

"Hitler is committing these crimes against humanity in the name of the German people. I ask every German and every man everywhere under Nazi domination to show the world by his action that in his heart he does not share these insane criminal desires. Let him hide these pursued victims, help them to get over their borders, and do what he can to save them from the Nazi hangman. I ask him also to keep watch and to record the evidence that will one day be used to convict the guilty."

Prompted by the President's appeal for free countries of Europe and Asia to open their borders to refugees, a reporter asked if the United States planned to do the same. Mr. Roosevelt said we are already taking care of all we can get out. There are a good many now in North Africa, he added, but not enough to come to this country.

In another foreign policy development, Mr. Roosevelt issued a statement reaffirming America's pledge to drive the Japanese from the Philippines and grant freedom to the island people. The occasion was the 10th anniversary of the Philippine Independence act.

Text of Roosevelt's Pledge

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP).—The complete text of President Roosevelt's statement today promising help to rescue the "victims of brutality" of the Nazis and Japanese follows:

The United Nations are fighting to make a world in which tyranny and aggression can not exist; a world based upon freedom, equality and justice; a world in which all persons, regardless of race, color or creed, may live in peace, honor and dignity.

In the mean time, in most of Europe and in parts of Asia, the systematic torture and murder of civilians—men, women and children—by the Nazis and the Japanese continue unabated. In areas subjugated by the aggressors innocent Poles, Czechs, Norwegians, Dutch, Danes, French, Greeks, Russians, Chinese, Filipinos—and many others—are being starved or frozen to death or murdered in cold blood in a campaign of savagery.

The slaughters of Warsaw, Lidice ,Kharkov and Nanking—the brutal torture and murder by the Japanese, not only of civilians but of our own gallant American soldiers and flyers—these are startling examples of what goes on day by day, year in and year out, wherever the Nazis and Japs are in military control—free to follow their barbaric purpose.

In one of the blackest crimes of all history—begun by the Nazis in the day of peace and multiplied by them a hundred times in time of war—the wholesale systematic murder of the Jews of Europe goes on unabated every hour. As a result of the events of the last few days, hundreds of thousands of Jews, who while living under persecution have at least found a haven from death in Hungary and the Balkans, are now threatened with annihilation as Hitler's forces descend more heavily upon these lands. That these innocent people, who have already survived a decade of Hitler's fury, should perish on the very eve of triumph over the barbarism which their persecution symbolizes, would be a major tragedy.

It is, therefore, fitting that we should again proclaim our determination that none who participate in these acts of savagery shall go unpunished. The United Nations have made it clear that they will pursue the guilty and deliver them up in order that justice be done. That warning applies not only to the leaders but also to their functionaries and subordinates in Germany and in the satellite countries. All who knowingly take part in the deportation of Jews to their death in Poland or Norwegians and French to their death in Germany are equally guilty with the executioner. All who share the guilt shall share the punishment.

Hitler is committing these crimes against humanity in the name of the German people. I ask every German and every man everywhere under Nazi domination to show the world by his action that in his heart he does not share these insane criminal desires. Let him hide these pursued victims, help them to get over their borders, and do what he can to save them from the Nazi hangman. I ask him also to keep watch and to record the evidence that will one day be used to convict the guilty.

In the mean time, and until the victory that is now assured is won, the United States will persevere in its efforts to rescue the victims of brutality of the Nazis and the Japs. In so far as the necessity of military operations permit, this government will use all means at its command to aid the escape of all intended victims of the Nazi and Jap executioner—regardless of face or religion or color. We call upon the free peoples of Europe and Asia temporarily to open their frontiers to all victims of oppression. We shall find havens of refuge for them, and we shall find the means for their maintenance and support until the tyrant is driven from their homelands and they may return.

In the name of justice and humanity let all freedom-loving people rally to this righteous undertaking.

HUNGARY URGED TO RESIST NAZIS

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP) The United States today called on Hungary to fight rather than submit tamely to the "Nazi whip"—and implied that if she does she will get better treatment at the peace table.

Secretary of State Hull issued a statement calling for "firm resistance" against German forces occupying the Axis satellite nation. The statement was obviously designed to stir a wave of sabotage and guerrilla fighting and thus hamper Hitler's desperate attempt to strengthen his military position in southeastern Europe.

The American action carried with it an implicit promise that Hungarian resistance would earn the respect and friendship of the United Nations which thus in victory would look more favorably on the status of Hungary despite its voluntary alliance with Hitler up to the moment of occupation.

Almost simultaneously with Secretary Hull's statement came word from Ankara that the Rumanian embassy there had confirmed reports of German occupation of Rumania. It appeared that Bulgaria was next.

The rapid spread of German military strength through the Balkans threw a new complexion on Turkey's relationships with the Allies since Turkey has a common border with Bulgaria in the extreme southeastern tip of Europe. Obviously the advice and implied promise made by Secretary Hull to Hungary applied likewise to the Rumanian and Bulgarian situation.

The question raised in diplomatic circles here was whether the effect of the German occupation of the Balkans would be to weaken or strengthen Turkey's resolve to keep out of the war. Some experts contended that Turkey would still do everything possible to stay neutral.

Jewish Problem Noted By Hungarian Radio

London, March 24 (AP)—While President Roosevelt was appealing for mercy for refugees the Hungarian Quisling Government today stoked the purge fires.

"The Jewish question," the Budapest radio said, "is one of the urgent matters, confronting the Government now. Jews in influential positions stood with their mouths agape when they saw German troops marching in. They realize they will be eliminated."

Neutral reports to London said Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler's purge squads were moving in the wake eastward of the spreading German army pressing the round-up of the anti-Nazis and minorities.

JAPS DRIVEN FROM ROAD

Plane-Supplied British Push Foe Back Below Imphal

New Delhi, March 24 (AP) — Japanese troops invading India have been torn loose from three positions covering the Tiddim-Imphal road, which they had cut in a surprise thrust across the Burma border from the south aimed at capturing the Allied communications base of Imphal, it was announced today.

British troops opposing this threat to their flank were being supplied from the air by planes, but this was termed normal procedure and there was no indication they had been cut off from ground communication or were running short. At last report, this Japanese column was within 30 miles of Imphal along a road that skirts the western side of Lake Loktak.

A second Japanese force that earlier had driven into India near Tamu, 45 miles southeast of Imphal, was repulsed when it tried to reach the Ramu-Palel road. This force was said to be within 38 miles of Imphal.

Picture Obscured

The general picture of the fighting was obscured somewhat by the jungle jigsaw, but the Allied defensive plan appeared to call for holding the two main roads to Imphal from Tamu and Tiddim, which lead into a hillock-dotted plain that would provide the potential airfields for the invading Japanese.

Loss of Imphal would threaten Allied control of all Assam, as well as all river, rail and air communications supporting United Nations operations in China and Burma. Officials here were confident, however, that Allied forces available in the threatened area were superior to the Japanese both in the ground and in the air.

The new enemy column pushing up the Manipur river valley south of Imphal had established road blocks at several points, which the British were countering with the defensive "box system" they earlier used with success in Arakan. Heavy fighting was reported in progress north of Tuznan, which is 17 miles north of Tiddim in Burma.

Third Force Gathering

In addition to the two Japanese expeditions into India along main roads, a third force of unestimated size was believed gathering in the dense jungle to strike from northeast of Imphal. This column, however, would face the toughest kind of going and would have to move its supplies by mule team.

Allied officers declared that such Japanese maneuvers as those now under way could not win any part of India, and said the invaders eventually would have to fight a full-scale battle or withdraw into Burma.

Chinese Silent

[An Associated Press dispatch from Chungking said Chinese official quarters kept silent on the Japanese invasion of India, but that there was no mistaking the shock created there. The Chungking newspaper Ta Kung Pao contended that if the Allies had struck aggressive and powerful blows at the Japanese in the Far East and the Pacific "there would be no time for Tojo to take any interest in India."]

Imphal, apparently the primary goal of the Japanese invasion, is the capital of Hanipur state. It is 40 miles west of the Burma border and about 60 miles north of the border.

Delayed dispatches reported that the Japanese had lost between 600 and 700 killed in less than a week of the offensive, suffering their heaviest casualties in the Chin hills south of Imphal.

ENEMY TROOPS OUTNUMBERED

Allies Also Have Air Superiority —Chungking Calls Invasion a Disturbing Factor

New Delhi, March 24 (A. P.). —Air-supplied troops of the British Fourteenth Army, fighting off a three-pronged Japanese offensive into India, have dislodged the enemy from three road blocks south of Imphal, it was announced today.

A fourth position farther north was being attacked by British troops, a communique from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters said.

Aiming their surprise offensive from the jungles of the Chin Hills and Kabaw Valley, the Japanese cut the road between Imphal, the capital of Manipur in India, and Tiddim, a British area of operations in Burma to the south.

[Some of the enemy positions were within thirty miles of Imphal along the road that skirts the western side of the swamps of Lake Loktak to the south, New Delhi dispatches said yesterday. Imphal is forty miles west of the Burma border and about sixty miles north of the border.]

Second Force Repulsed.

A second Japanese force pushing up past Tamu on the border, forty-five miles southeast of Imphal, toward the Tamu-Palel road had been repulsed, an authoritative account said. The closest approach of an enemy patrol to Imphal from this direction was about thirty-eight miles. Palel is twenty-four miles southeast of Imphal.

The third Japanese force, of a size not yet estimated because of its dense jungle cover, was gathering in the Somra hill tract, to the northeast of Imphal. One enemy detachment in the Kabaw Valley southeast of Tamu was ambushed and some of its tanks destroyed.

The defensive plan appeared to call for holding the two main roads, the one up the Manipur Valley from Tiddim and the other from Tamu, leading into the hillock-dotted plain which would provide plenty of air strips for Japanese aircraft.

Call Allied Force Superior.

Allied headquarters described the Allied forces in the area as superior to the Japanese, to say nothing of the lopsided numbers of planes favoring the Allies.

The defensive position was bulwarked by the opinion of Allied strategists that maneuver alone could not win any part of India. The authoritative opinion, therefore, was that the Japanese would have to fight a full scale battle or withdraw into increasingly hostile Burma.

Delayed dispatches reported that the Japanese had lost 600 to 700 in killed in less than a week of the offensive while losses of the British 14th Army were described as much lighter.

The heaviest enemy casualties were in the Chin hills to the south of Imphal where the dead were estimated at 500.

Hard fighting developed north of Tunzan, 17 miles north of Tiddim in the Manipur Valley, when British troops from the Tiddim area moved north to meet a threat to their flank from an enemy unit which cut the Tiddim-Imphal road.

Supplied By Planes

Supplies were dropped by plane to the British troops when the road was cut by road blocks established by Japanese at a number of points. This was the normal procedure, it was explained, and did not mean the troops were running short.

The British were countering the road blocks with the defensive box system which they used in the fighting in Arakan to the south earlier this month.

Political Significance Of Invasion Noted

Chungking, March 24 (AP)—Maj. Gen. C. C. Tseng, Chinese Army spokesman, said today that the Japanese invasion of India was a "disturbing factor," but had more political than military significance.

(A Singapore dispatch, broadcast by the German radio, said Subhas Chandra Bose, leader of Japan's puppet Indian national government, had appointed Azad Chandra Chattfji "civil governor of liberated Indian territories." The broadcast said the appointment of Chattfji, Finance Minister in Bose's government, was dated March 20, the day Japanese troops crossed the Burma border into India.)

The spokesman said the Japanese strength was limited, but should not be belittled, as their position in India might assume greater importance if they were able to bring up reinforcements.

"That's a matter of strategy," he replied when asked why Chinese troops in Yunnan province did not launch a drive in coordination with Allied forces in northern Burma.

Japs Massing Troops

Chungking, March 24 (AP)—Heavy Japanese troop movements to South China, possibly presaging large-scale military operations in the southern area, were reported today by an army spokesman, Maj. Gen. C. C. Tseng.

General Tseng said the Japanese closed the Tientsin-Pukow railroad to all but military traffic on February 26.

Troop Trains Sighted

Eight or nine trains daily, loaded with troops, are rolling southward, General Tseng said. Reports indicate the Japanese are disposing the troops as reinforcements in the areas near the Chinese-held sectors of the Canton-Hankow and Peiping-Hankow railroads. Chinese army headquarters believe the enemy may be mounting an offensive to clear these rail lines.

The troops shifted southward had heavy winter equipment, and probably came from Manchuria, General Tseng said. The Japanese have also conscripted 15,000 Chinese for labor service, and recently commandeered 1,200 horses.

Japs, Seeing Defeat, Wed Chinese Girls

Chungking, March 24 (A. P.). —A Chinese who arrived from Shanghai said that many Japanese civilians, foreseeing defeat, are marrying Chinese girls and registering property in their wives' names.

Meningitis Epidemic Strikes Hangchow

Chungking, March 24 (AP)—Chinese dispatches said today that a meningitis epidemic is claiming hundreds of lives daily in Japanese-held Hangchow, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai.

Rabaul Heavily Raided Despite Bad Weather

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Saturday, March 25 (AP)—American bombers, despite bad weather, carried their offensive against enemy bases at Rabaul, New Britain; Wewak, New Guinea, and other scattered Bismarck Sea points Wednesday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

Once again the Japanese failed to send up aerial opposition, confining their defense exclusively to anti-aircraft fire, which failed to stop a single bomber.

The heaviest attack was aimed at Vunakanau, Lakunai and Tobera airdromes at Rabaul. Solomons-based heavy, medium and dive bombers dropped a total of 160 tons of explosives on these fields in a two-day assault ending Wednesday afternoon. Heavy destruction of gun positions and runways was reported.

Cargo Ship Sunk

A 500-ton enemy cargo ship was sunk in the raid on Wewak. Kavieng, the Japanese base on New Ireland, which was pounded by American warship fire last Monday, was hammered from the air, and other Allied bombers struck at installations at Hansa Bay and along the Madang coast of New Guinea.

Light bombers struck at the enemy on Bougainville Island in the Solomons, principally near Laruma and Reini rivers, in the vicinity of the Allied beachhead at Empress Augusta Bay. Thirty tons of explosives hit those two points.

On the New Guinea coast the heaviest assault was at Hansa Bay, southeast of Wewak, where 160 tons of bombs silenced gun positions and started large fires and explosions. Many small barges were damaged in a 40-ton raid on Dagua and Kairiru Island, west of Wewak.

The continuous aerial attacks on Wewak, prime plane and supply center, have resulted in great damage, including the destruction of 44 anti-aircraft guns [illegible] March 11 and heavy losses [illegible] on enemy gun crews, [illegible]ur's communique said.

Japs Still Pounded On Bougainville

Guadalcanal, Solomon Islands, March 24 (AP)—Artillery, planes and destroyers continued to bombard Japanese positions at Bougainville by day and night and the constant attrition has knocked the wind out of the enemy's last gap offensive.

A spokesman for Admiral William F. Halsey reported yesterday morning ended the third consecutive day enemy shells fell within the bay perimeter of the Allied beachhead at Empress Augusta Bay.

Patrol activity continue, to be heavy and at least 56 Japanese were killed during the day.

84 Tons Of Bombs Dropped

Solomons-based bomber, dropped 84 tons of bombs on the runways at Vunakanau and Lakunai. Persisting in their attempts to keep at least Vunakanau airdrome in operation, enemy work corps reportedly filled bomb craters on the field, only to have 13th Air Force Liberators and navy and marine dive and torpedo bombers blast 72 more pits in the concrete and coral strips.

In an afternoon sweep, 28 fighters swooped low over the field to kill an undisclosed number of Japanese. Mitchell medium bombers plastered Lakunai with at least 100 hits across the runway and revetment areas. One Airacobra out of the large fighter cover was lost.

3 Take Jap Pillbox, Pick Off 70 Foes

Bougainville, March 24 (AP)—A Sergeant and two privates, members of the American division, are credited with killing more than 70 Japanese in four days of the Bougainville battle.

Streaking through enemy fire, Sergt. Irvine Drum, of Oakland, Cal., and Privates John C. Burtain, Paris, Ill., and John W. Calvard, Tallassee, Ala., captured a pillbox behind a fallen tree.

The Japanese had a trail leading past the log and for three days attempted to use it to bring up supplies and reinforcements.

"As the Japs came by the log," Calvard said, "we'd pick them off with rifle fire. Drum would order mortar fire at the same time."

81 Jap Bodies Found

Drum said "they must have been dazed by the concussion of the artillery fire our guns laid in on their side of the hill. They just kept walking by our position for three days."

Later the bodies of 81 Japanese were found.

Burtain and Calvard estimated that they each accounted for 20 to 30 enemies and Drum's mortar fire accounted for the rest. The figure was confirmed in a signed statement of commendation from their company commander, First Lieut. Fred A. Kaps, of Chicago.

Jap Version Broadcast

New York, March 24 (AP)—Following is the text of a Japanese communique broadcast today by the Tokyo radio and recorded here by the Associated Press:

"Our units on Bougainville Island started heavy attacks the first part of March against approximately one and a half divisions of enemy forces holding strong semi-permanent positions near Torokina and succeeded in capturing part of the enemy positions.

"Fierce attacks presently are being continued in the face of the enemy's air and artillery bombardments."

London, March 24 (A. P.).—A Japanese communique, as broadcast today by Berlin, said that Japanese troops in a heavy attack had occupied part of the American positions on Bougainville Island in the Pacific. It said one and one-half American divisions were under enemy assault.

Yanks Return To Zone Of Fire To Save Buddy

Bougainville, Solomon Islands, March 21 (AP—Delayed)—A platoon under command of First Lieutenant Sanford E. Riamond, Lansing, Mich., was dispatched to bring in the bodies of Americans which had lain in no man's land since the last Japanese attack was repulsed three days earlier.

Only a few hundred yards beyond its own lines the platoon was caught in heavy enemy fire and pinned to the ground. Six men were killed and 11 more wounded.

Forced to retire, Diamond's men inched their way back to their lines, bringing in all their dead and all but one of their wounded—Pfc.

Three of the stowaways stood on the quarter deck of this ship before stern-faced Lieut. Paul Greenwood, of Philadelphia. "Why," he demanded, "did you stow away?"

"My outfit was going into action, sir," answered Private Harlen Barkowski, of Fellsmere, Fla.

"And we couldn't see staying behind," added Pfc. James Breen, of Clarksburg, Va.

"Besides," expanded Pfc. Clayton Alverson, of Dallas, Texas, "we can't get fun back where there ain't none."

Lieutenant Greenwood smiled, and added:

"You men were just released from the hospital. That's why you were left behind. Remind me to punish you some day."

2,200 Tons Of Bombs Hit Wewak This Month

Southwest Pacific Headquarters, March 24 (AP)—More than 2,000 tons of bombs concentrated so far this month on the Wewak sector of New Guinea have done this much damage: Wiped out Japanese air resistance; sunk thousands of tons of supply ships, and blew up fuel and ammunition dumps, gun positions and supply stores.

The weight of bombs passed the 2,000-ton mark for March on the strength of a 200-ton blow dealt Wednesday and reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Eighteenth Air Blow

It was the 18th air punch dealt the Wewak sector over a period of 22 days covered by the reports. The consecutive series opened March 11. After the first five, during which more than 80 enemy planes were shot out of action, Wewak's four airdromes ceased to offer interception.

Allied conquest of the Admiralty Islands, 225 miles east of Wewak, has severed Japan's supply route from Truk to New Guinea and left Wewak as the base upon which the Japanese at Bogia, Alexishafen and Madang must rely completely for whatever supplies can be slipped in by sea from the general direction of the Philippines.

Convoys Attacked

Significantly, convoys have been spotted and successfully attacked recently off Aitape, 90 miles northwest of Wewak, and near Hollandia, 250 miles away.

Wednesday's raiders—Liberators, Mitchells, Bostons and escorting fighters — found shipping near islands lying off Wewak, and sank a 1,000-ton freighter, a 1,500-ton freighter, seven lugger-type vessels and 23 barges.

Reports today also told of a bombing of Rabaul on Tuesday.

Major Foster Gets Air Medal in Pacific

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, March 13 (By Mail) (A. P.).—The Air Medal was awarded today to Major John G. Foster, 2635 Sedgwick avenue, New York city, for participating in 100 hours of operational flight missions.

The air medal also was presented to Second Lieut. Theodore A. Faber Jr. of 411 Hickory avenue, Paramus, N. J., for participation in sustained operational flight missions.

The medals were awarded by Lieut.-Gen. George C. Kenney, commanding Allied air forces in this area.

London, March 24 (A. P.).—The British Admiralty announced today that submarines of the eastern fleet have sunk a Japanese cruiser of the Kuma class, a 7,000-ton aircraft carrier, eight supply ships and several small naval craft since the first of the year.

A second cruiser was torpedoed, and a small supply ship and one large supply ship were damaged, the announcement said.

Curtin Is Given Backing Before Trip

Canberra, Australia, March 24 (AP)—Premier John Curtin said his farewells to Parliament today before leaving for conferences in London and Washington and won the assurance from the opposition party that it will do nothing to cut short his trip.

He told Parliament that he would put the Australian viewpoint strongly before British and American leaders and said he hoped to influence ultimate decisions of strategy and collaboration.

"There's no answer to nine-tenths of the problems we're concerned about," he said. "We cannot see ahead five years. But we can lay down a course that will lead us to decisions in five years. The best we can do is put ourselves on the right road."

ANT ISLAND ATOLL BOMBED BY YANKS

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, March 24.—(AP) Ant island atoll, a group of 15 islets about 10 miles southwest of Ponape in the Caroline islands, was bombed for the first time Tuesday by a Navy search plane, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Ponape, oft-bombed Japanese-held atoll, is one of the guardians to the eastern approach to Truk, Japan's important central Pacific naval and supply base.

There were no details of the strike at Ant island, reputedly inhabited by the descendants of a shipwrecked American Negro sailor. The coral atoll has a lagoon six miles long.

Daily pounding of enemy bases in the eastern Marshalls continued, Admiral Nimitz reported, with raids Wednesday on four unidentified positions. Thirty tons of bombs were dropped, causing a large fire on one atoll. Ground installations were hit on another. All planes returned.

PROTEST IS FILED BY LONGSHOREMEN

HONOLULU, March 24 — (AP) The International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's union (C.I.O.) protested today to Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., military governor of Hawaii, that five of its organizers had been expelled from the island of Maui by Maj. John D. Hagon, provost marshal.

The protest, filed by Frederick Kamahoahoa, secretary of the local union, said Major Hagon told the five men "they must immediately return to Oahu and report to their Selective Service boards as a change would probably be effected in their draft classification."

Kamahoahoa asserted that the men were conducting "legitimate legal activities" as union representatves.

"It is obvious that Major Hagon has no authority to issue any such ukases to civilian workers," the union official added.

No comment came from the office of the military governor.

Buenos Aires Closes Cable Office 24 Hours

Buenos Aires, March 24 (AP)—The Argentine Postoffice Department today ordered the Buenos Aires office of the All-America Cable Company closed for 24 hours and imposed a fine of 1,000 pesos for delivering three uncensored cables to the United Press before the agency's facilities for news distribution were shut down by the Government.

The order said the three cables, dispatched from Lima, Peru, March 8, lacked Government authorization and contained expressions "contrary to the tranquillity of the country and its good relations with other countries on the American continent."

Another order imposed a 1,000-peso fine on Pan American Airways for transmitting private messages through its radio station at Buenos Aires airport.

Escape Of Graf Spee's Men Laid To Embassy

Buenos Aires, March 24 (AP)—Federal police announced today they had uncovered proof that the Germany Embassy aided the escape to Germany of some of the interned crew of the pocket-battleship Graf Spee and had financed the clandestine shipment of strategic war supplies and precious metals on neutral ships.

A Government communique said that a continued investigation of Axis espionage in Argentina had resulted in a series of new arrests as well as proof of the part German news agencies had played in aiding the spy ring.

Police also announced they had seized an airplane, two yachts and a launch used by espionage groups.

ARMY CHIEFS [illegible]CK ARGENTINE REI[illegible]ORM

Montevideo, March 24 (A. P.).—Steady pressure is being brought to bear on the revolutionary government of President Edelmiro Farrell in Argentina to force the army's retreat to barracks, and a general return to free elections and constitutional government, travelers from Buenos Aires said today.

The movement is led by fifteen Argentine generals, who requested a return to Democratic government in the course of a courtesy visit paid to Farrell on Wednesday, and the President is considering the request, these informants said. The generals were reported to be headed by Arturo Rawson, one of the leaders of the June, 1943, revolution who served as President for forty-eight hours and then resigned when he was unable to force an immediate break with the Axis.

Pressure has also been brought by La Nacion, the Buenos Aires newaspaper which has been increasingly outspoken in its demand for an end to military government.

CARACAS CONTRACT TO U. S.

Two American Firms Will Build Waterworks for Government

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 24 (AP)—Two United States concerns received a contract of approximately $9,000,000 by the Venezuelan Government today for construction of a waterworks in Caracas.

The firms, Johnson, Drake & Piper, Inc., and S. J. Groves & Sons Company, both of Minneapolis and New York, had entered a combined bid.

According to Robert Bayard, vice president of Johnson, Drake & Piper, it was thought to be the largest single contract ever let by the Venezuelan Government.

The choice was made from among proposals of twelve large United States firms and Venezuelan organizations.

Mrs. Roosevelt in Ecuador

Reaches Salinas After Addressing Soldiers in Canal Zone

SALINAS, Ecuador, March 24 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived here today from the Panama Canal Zone.

Addresses Troops at Balboa

BALBOA, C. Z., March 24 (AP).—Mrs. Roosevelt told 500 Puerto Rican soldiers here last night that they, with other troops serving in the Panama Canal Zone, deserved the highest praise for their work in guarding that vital lifeline for the United Nations.

Making the Panama Canal secure against attack has enabled the United States to speed men and supplies to the active theaters of the war, Mrs. Roosevelt told the troops, and constitutes an essential weapon that has helped "to change the tide of the war."

Mexican Unions Stripped Of All Rail Control

By Lawrence Steinitz

Mexico City, March 24 (AP)—Cracking down with a speed and severity which took even Senators by surprise, President Avila Camacho has ousted the unions from the last vestiges of their control of the Goverment-owned railroad system.

The most surprising feature of the step to untangle the rail network was an order for the general manager of the system to set aside any union contract provisions which "slow up, impede or impair" operation.

This was as unexpected here as would be New Deal repeal of the Wagner Act.

Started By Cardenas

President Cardenas, predecessor of Avila Camacho, turned the railroads over to workers to manage. Union heads appointed the board of directors, which appointed the general manager.

This experiment did not decrease bickering between employes and the bosses, and did bring on a string of wrecks which killed more than 50 passengers in the first year of worker operation.

One of Avila Camacho's first acts was to resume control, giving union appointees only three places on the seven-man board. The rest were appointed by the Government. However, no disciplinary action was to be taken without approval of the union representatives.

System Heavily Strained

The war, cutting off ocean shipping and overloading rail lines with materials for the United States, put a heavy strain on the Mexican system. The United States came to the rescue, sending a technical commission to advise on rehabilitation and offering almost unlimited credits, of which $4,000,000 has been used.

This helped, but did not solve the problem.

The manager ordered mechanics from Mexico City roundhouses to go to Acambaro to repair locomotives. They refused, citing a contract clause forbidding employes to be sent more than 35 miles away.

Refused Two Shifts

The management ordered two shifts installed at Acambaro and the employes refused. They didn't want to work overtime and under their contract extra help could not be hired.

What was apparently the last straw was an inter-union fight which the president solved temporarily by naming a compromise executive committee of the union. The trainmen and boilermakers, however, objected to the compromise, withdrew from the union, and then struck because their union dues were still being deducted from salaries. After three daily three-hour strikes, the president acted.

The board of directors of the railways was abolished and a nine-man advisory board substituted. Labor has two members on this, but commerce also has two. The manager was given full power to hire without regard for union membership, and to discipline workers.

NAZIS ON AALAND ISLES, FINNISH POSSESSIONS

NEW YORK, March 24—(AP) The British radio said tonight that accoring to reliable reports reaching London German troops have landed on the Aaland islands in the Baltic sea midway between Finland and Sweden.

"Hitherto Finland has permitted no foreign troops on the islands," said the broadcast which was recorded by CBS.

The London radio said the islands are of "great strategic importance since they control the Gulf of Bothnia and the sea approaches to Stockholm."

Jap Comics For Morale

New York, March 24 (AP)—The "propaganda and enlightenment power" of Japanese comic strips will be "utilized in bolstering the fighting spirit," a Tokyo broadcast said today .

The Tojo Government will set up a "greater East Asia comic strip study society" for this purpose. "With its formation, a large drive to crush and bring the enemy, the United States and Britain, to their knees will commence," said the broadcast as reported by United States Government monitors.

Former Jap Official Dies

New York, March 24 (AP)—Tomokazu Hori, for two years the Japanese Foreign Office spokesman, is dead in Tokyo, a Berlin broadcast heard by United States monitors said today.

Hori, frequently quoted in Tokyo dispatches, became spokesman in November, 1941, after serving as consul at Los Angeles, Nanking and Shanghai. Another spokesman was named last November.

11 MORE JAPANESE SHIPS SENT DOWN

Total Of 503 Craft Now Sunk By U. S. Subs In Pacific

Washington, March 24 (AP)—The American submarine fleet in Japanese waters has sunk 11 more enemy vessels, the Navy Department announced today.

Only three days ago Secretary of the Navy Knox told of 15 other Nipponese craft going to the bottom after attacks by American submersibles.

Coupled with the growing efficiency and size of the United States submarine fleet, however, have been increased losses of American underwater craft.

The submarines, planes and surface ships of the navy have sunk, probably sunk or damaged at least 2,062 enemy ships of all types, including some warships.

Freighters Hard Hit

Of that total, 653 Japanese vessels have been accounted by submarines alone, including 503 definitely sunk, 36 probables and 114 damaged. Official reports now record only definite sinkings.

The American submarines are taking their heaviest toll in enemy freighters and tankers.

The bag of 15 ships announced today included two tankers, five freighters, three transports and one converted minelayer.

Thus far 23 American submarines have been lost since the war started, all but three of them presumably in action against the Japanese.

Hull's Post-war Plan for Reich Fails to Win Approval of Allies

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP) Secretary of State Hull has drawn a blueprint of what he thinks Germany's status should be after the war, but so far has been unable to get Britain or Russia to approve it, Republican members of Congress reported today.

A group of Republican legislators, avowed backers of the Administration's post-war collaboration idea, foreign relief and Lend-Lease, called on Secretary Hull today to demand a flat statement on U. S. war and peace aims. After two and one half hours, they emerged with such reactions as these:

Representative Auchincloss (R-NJ): "I can't honestly say that I know any more about our foreign policy than I did before the meeting."

Representative Poulson (R-Calif): "I have more confidence in the secretary."

Representative Luce (R-Conn): "Silence is still the settled policy of our State department."

Secretary Hull said the conference was cordial.

It went into a discussion of a half dozen phases of international problems. Although many of the congressmen came away still declaring the public should have more complete information on foreign affairs, they summarized what they learned in these five points:

1—On the future of Germany—Secretary Hull has a plan just as specific as the Teheran conference developed about Japan, but he hasn't been able to get British and Russian approval for it. The plan was ruled out of discussion at the Moscow conference, the Russians saying they primarily were interested in when the second front would be opened, and in plans for prosecuting the war to a finish. British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden described it as good in some respects; Russia's Litvinoff said it was "pretty good" but neither would pursue the subject.

2—Poland—Britain and Russia "are not speaking to each other" about the Polish border; the U. S. State department is trying to be the peacemaker.

3—Finland—The State department feels that the Russian proposal on the Finnish border is fair and on that basis, we are exerting pressure to get Finland out of the war.

4—Italy—There is no call for concern about Russia's recognition of the Badoglio government.

5—The Balkans—The U. S. wants to liberate the peoples, then permit them to choose their own government.

5,000,000 MEN OVERSEAS BY JULY 1

Washington, March 24 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt saying the United States will have 5,000,000 men overseas by July 1, indicated today that he considered this a good reason in itself for sending more agricultural machinery abroad.

He mentioned this figure in a discussion at his press-radio conference of farm machinery exports. He said less than 2 per cent of the available American supply of farm machinery has been exported under lend-lease and noted that Britain, Australia and New Zealand are supplying large quantities of food to American troops under reverse lend-lease.

Mr. Roosevelt first disclosed the plans to have 5,000,000 men overseas by mid-year in his address last Christmas Eve.

Senate Votes 3½ Billions for Veterans' Aid

Measure Provides Loans, Unemployment Benefits and Job-Placement Help

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP).—The Senate passed unanimously late today a $3,500,000,000 "G-I Bill of Rights" measures providing virtually every suggested aid to veterans of this war except adjusted compensation (bonus) payments. The rollcall vote was 49 to 0 for passage of the measure.

The bill, which now goes to the House, carries an estimated $3,000,000,000 in benefits plus a flat $500,000,000 authorization for construction of new hospital facilities. It provides for government-paid education of from one to four years (based on length of service) for men and women, plus:

1. Unemployment compensation of $15 a week for a maximum of fifty-two weeks out of a twenty-four-month period.

2. Loans up to $1,000 for the purchase of farms, homes or businesses.

3. A veterans' job-placement service.

4. Designation of the Veterans' Administration to adminster all of its provisions under a status as a war agency.

Roosevelt To Act Next Week On Soldier Vote

Washington, March 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt indicated today he would act sometime next week on the soldier vote bill now awaiting his signature or veto.

He was asked at a news conference when he would have "a message" on the soldier vote and he replied he had been talking about that this morning, and doubted it would be until the middle of the week.

Mindful that a message would signify a veto, a reporter inquired about that and the President told him to call it a statement and be on the safe side.

The White House polled the Governors of the 48 States on whether they were prepared to certify the use of a Federal ballot if the bill became law. Twenty Governors said their States had not approved the Federal ballots and probably would not; 19 States either had approved or indicated they would and nine Governors were noncommittal.

Lieut. Forbes Decorated

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP).—The Navy announced today decoration of five officers who commanded vessels in a task group of L. S. T.'s and destroyers which kept on their course to land troops, supplies and equipment on Vella La Vella Island in the south Pacific New Georgia group despite repeated Japanese dive-bombing attacks. Among those decorated was Lieutenant Alexander C. Forbes, thirty-four years old, of 1186 Lexington Avenue, New York.

FCC CHIEF DENIES NAVY WAS MISLED

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP) Communications Commission Chairman James L. Fly vigorously denied today that FCC's Radio Intelligence division led a U. S. naval task force into unsafe waters off Alaska.

Testifying before a House committee investigating the FCC, Mr Fly made his statement in answer to a promise Wednesday by Representative Miller (R-—) that he would produce two sailors to substantiate a story that the Japanese trapped a task force "because of bungling" by FCC.

"No such incident ever occurred," Mr. Fly asserted. "The Radio Intelligence division never at any time in its history suggested the movement of any ship or fleet or anything of the sort."

"All we do is furnish the Army or the Navy bearings on radio transmission we pick up at some particular moment," he insisted.

"and they do all the figuring and make the decisions."

Representative Magnuson (D-Wash.) inquired, "Then you mean it is completely up to the Navy to determine what to do about information you give them and you couldn't possibly have misled a task force?" Mr. Fly nodded in agreement and added:

"To this date the Navy department has continued to rely on (FCC) Radio Intelligence for extensive services."

The FCC chief said he wished Mr. Miller were present at today's hearing, but "apparently he is avoiding me."

"When I walked in he walked out yesterday," Mr. Fly asserted. "Now he isn't here today and I have no chance to answer him directly on the charges which he has broadcast to the nation."

CUTBACKS NECESSARY, SAYS GEN. SOMERVELL

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP) Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, commanding Army service forces, said today production shifts are necessary to meet new situations in war, in a statement accompanying a War department summary of its procedures in cutting back war goods production.

"The department compiled the summary to meet numerous requests from industry and labor arising out of shifts within recent weeks in munitions requirements.

Gen. Somervell said that "it is vitally important that we make these changes if lives are not to be unduly sacrificed and the taxpayers' money is not to be spent for munitions which have become obsolete or semi-obsolete due to changes in operational demand, enemy tactics, terrain or climatic conditions."

Labor Assails War Officials

Washington, March 24 (AP)—The AFL and CIO accused the War Department today of "evasions and half-truths" in its statement on the labor organizations' representations concerning strike news and other labor news sent to troops abroad.

"The American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations strongly resent the implication in the War Department statement that labor asked the army to 'police all American publications or to withhold from soldiers publications which they want to read,'" a joint CIO-AFL statement said.

"No such request was made, directly or indirectly. On the contrary we asked only that servicemen be kept more fully and accurately informed than at present."

War Department's Stand

The War Department announced yesterday that it was unable to agree with AFL-CIO views that it should take on "responsibility of correcting misconceptions the troops might have derived from other sources" about labor happenings here at home.

"The War Department," it said, "cannot take upon itself to police all American publications or withhold from soldiers publications which they want to read."

An AFL-CIO delegation, calling on Under Secretary of War Robert Patterson March 7, had advised him they believed anti-labor propaganda was being fed to men overseas from a variety of sources and asked cooperation in combatting it.

Calls It Responsible

Today's AFL-CIO statement said this group told Patterson the War Department owed a responsibility to give the "full truth" to troops.

"We recommended several ways in which this responsibility could be effectively carried out," the statement continued. "One way would be for the army to state the facts on war production officially to the servicemen in a manner similar to the recent Truman report. Another way would be to permit labor organizations to make their own publications more widely accessible to the soldiers, a privilege now severely curtailed by army regulations."

FARM MACHINERY SHIPPED ABROAD HELPS FEED ARMY

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP) Machinery exported under Lend-Lease has been less than two per cent of the American supply, President Roosevelt said today, and emphasized that those exports are helping feed the American army overseas, soon to rise to 5,000,000 men.

Mr. Roosevelt replied indirectly at his press-radio conference to complaints, in Congress and elsewhere, that farm machinery is being shipped abroad when American farmers are unable to get all they want.

At the capital, meantime, an investigation of the farm machinery situation was asked by Senator Clark (D-Mo.). He introduced a resolution proposing that the Agriculture committee review present and prospective production of farm machinery, and "secure facts" as to what amount supply of farm machinery has been sent to areas outside the United States and what plans have been adopted for future foreign distribution.

The President read a letter from Foreign Economic Administrator Leo T. Crowley citing the two per cent figure. Mr. Crowley, Mr. Roosevelt announced, has resigned as alien property custodian in order to give all his time to his other two big government jobs, Foreign Economic administrator and chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

The President disclosed several weeks ago that Mr. Crowley wanted to quit as alien property custodian, but that he had asked him to stay on a while. James E. Markham, of Lowell, Mass., who has been deputy custodian for two years, was appointed to succeed Mr. Crowley.

M'NUTT REVEALS 'RATION' PROGRAM ON DEFERMENTS

All Registrants Under 26 Years to Be Reviewed Regardless of Status.

OLDER MEN UNCHANGED

Will Remain in Present Classifications Until Full Lists Are Checked.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP) Selective Service tonight intensified its drive for able-bodied young men in a series of sharp new instructions to draft boards, while government agencies agreed on a plan to save a few "indispensable" youths for vital war industry.

30. 24- 14077

Aimed directly at speedier induction of men 25 and younger for combat service, the orders from Major General Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, will leave registrants 26 and over untouched until the younger men have been cleaned up.

To "Ration" Deferments

Gen. Hershey's action came quickly after Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower commission announced that a new committee headed by himself would "ration" deferments among the chosen key industries, and gave other agencies just three days to submit figures on the number of men proposed by them for deferment.

The Hershey orders provided "interim" machinery to prevent the drafting of essential young men until Mr. McNutt's machinery is functioning, and in addition told the local boards:

1. To pay no heed to the expiration date of present deferments of men under 26, but to proceed with the review of their deferments and reclassify them as 1-A or otherwise as rapidly as the review is carried out.

2. To let men 26 and older stay in their present classifications until the boards have gone through the lists of all men under 26 in class 3-A as well as those deferred in industry and agriculture.

3. To order up for pre-induction physical examination all men under 26 who hold occupational deferments and who have not been physically examined within the last 90 days.

4. To use their discretion in reclassifying as 2-A or 2-B (occupational deferments) those men under 26 who are found unfit for military service or fit only for limited military service, if such registrants are contributing to "war production or war supporting activities."

The last instruction, which is expected to diminish the number of 4-F classifications handed out, will meet the complaints of many industries who argue that as fast as their "essential" men obtain 4-F classification, they leave the war industry and hunt up better-paid jobs of other kinds which are open to them because of their draft-exempt status.

Under the new action, a draft board may make such a worker 2-A or 2-B which will make him subject to WMC regulations restricting job transfers.

Mr. McNutt had created the supreme new committee to ration out occupational deferments, for men under 26, and secured agreement of the Army and Navy that deferments should be considered for key men in railroading, logging, coal mining and other war-supporting industries.

The Army had held out for deferments only in a group of industries producing "must" munitions—chiefly those needed for an invasion of Europe.

MAR 25 1944

Procedure Set Up

Almost immediately after Mr. McNutt announced the new supercommittee, Gen. Hershey notified his state directors of the arrangement, and at the same time set up an interim procedure to be followed while Mr. McNutt's committee is organizing its permanent program.

Under the interim procedure, effective immediately, authorized representatives of the appropriate government agencies, may endorse deferment requests of employers in the industries in which the agencies are concerned. These endorsed requests will be sent straight to state draft directors at present.

The state directors do not have to accept the endorsements.

Selective Service orders to all men under 26 with occupational deferments, except farm deferments, to report for pre-induction physicals unless they have been physically examined within the last 90 days does not mean these men necessarily are being put in 1-A immediately.

Gen. Hershey told the state directors such registrants may be retained in 2-A or 2-B even after the examination and the action "is designed to accelerate the processing for induction of those who will become available for military service and to provide the director and employers with information regarding those who are not acceptable for military service."

To Review Those Under 26

All occupational deferments had previously been ordered reviewed in conformance with President Roosevelt's recommendation Feb. 26. But today Gen. Hershey instructed local boards to review and reconsider the classifications of registrants under 26 before proceeding to reconsider older registrants. This applies to classes 3-A, the rapidly dwindling class for dependency; Class 2-A, 2-B, 2-C and 3-C, which include among them all occupational deferments, including agriculture.

The provision regarding expiration dates of deferments does not mean sudden cancellation of all occupational stays but does mean that whenever a local board reaches a deferred man under 26 in its review, except in agriculture, it may reclassify him at once regardless of how much longer his deferment would have run.

Mr. McNutt's action as War Manpower chairman, in setting up the super-committee was believed to provide a solution for the manpower crisis precipitated by the Army's sweeping demand for virtually all-able bodied men under 26.

Three Days for Reply

Mr. McNutt allowed just three days for government agencies to say how many youths in each industry they want deferred as essential and irreplaceable.

The government agency in charge of each industry will present to the committee by March 27 a list of the "must" industries under its jurisdiction, and a proposed budget of deferments for each. The War Production board will thus act as sponsor for munitions industries, the Office of Defense Transportation for railroads and shipping, etc.

With all these claims before it, the new committee will decide whether the industries named actually are "must" activities, will fix a total maximum number of deferments to be granted, and will whittle down the demands of each agency to match the maximum thus fixed.

Each of the agencies concerned will have membership on the new body. Thus WPB will participate in the decision on ODT's deferments, and vice versa.

In addition to the agencies regularly entitled to membership on the full WMC panel, the new committee will include the Office of the Rubber Director, who will act in behalf of the synthetic rubber and tire producers, the Solid Fuels administration, which will act for coal mining, and the ODT.

Mr. McNutt indicated the committee would scrutinize closely each request for deferments. "We are asking what particular activities are so vital that they cannot let their men go into the Army," he stated. "There will be very few of them."

The committee will transmit lists of the approved activities and individual plants to the national headquarters of Selective Service, which in turn will pass on the recommendations to state directors who are authorized to grant deferments in the case of men whose induction would mean a loss of essential war production.

STABILIZATION BILL BACKED BY NELSON

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP) Two of the Administration's top men—War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson and Federal Reserve Chairman Marriner S. Eccles—urged Congress today to keep the country under stabilization controls beyond the war's end.

Mr. Nelson declared, however, that the need has passed for a national service act, recommended some time ago by President Roosevelt to authorize the drafting of civilian labor for essential industries. He did say a limited service law would help the manpower situation.

Mr. Eccles told the Senate Banking committee Congress should keep the stabilization program alive two years after the end of the war "to maintain the public faith and the value of the dollar." The committee is considering legislation to extend the price control act a year beyond June 30.

A sudden release of pent-up spending as soon as hostilities end "might well be fatal" to the nation's economy, he said.

STEEL-WORKERS ASK WAGE BOOST, POST-WAR JOBS

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP) The C.I.O. United Steel Workers set out today to blaze a new trail in labor economics with demands for a 17-cent hourly wage increase regardless of government wage ceilings, a guaranteed post-war 40-hour week or annual wage, a joint fund for steel workers returning from the armed services and nearly a dozen other concessions.

Philip Murray, president of the steel workers, spearheaded his union's case before a War Labor board panel.

He denounced the Little Steel wage formula for what he termed "obvious, practical unworkability," contended that corporations and the farmers have been guaranteed minimum incomes, and shot barbs at "the fat boys" of the steel industry for their "audacity" in trying to keep the steel workers' wage case from the War Labor board.

Mr. Murray spoke for two hours and ten minutes to the six-man panel, lawyers for 94 steel companies, and his union policy committee of nearly 100. The companies will begin their presentation April 11.

"You," said the union chief, turning to the industry spokesmen, "have got to do a little more constructive thinking about giving people in the United States of America jobs after this war is over than you have ever done in all your lives. The present situation and the situation which may develop after the war, create conditions that challenge your ingenuity.

"It is your responsibility. x x x And you cannot laugh at a worker's demands that you give to him a guaranteed income in order that he may live and may have sustenance for both his wife and his family. x x x

"You are no longer little corporations whose interests are centered in the payment of dividends to stockholders. You have a greater public interest, and that is the interests that run directly to all of the people employed by you, to provide full employment for them."

LOWELL MELLETT QUITS POSITION AS ROOSEVELT'S AIDE

MAR 25 1944

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP) Lowell Mellett, gray-haired veteran behind the New Deal scenes, quit his $10,000-year job as administrative assistant to President Roosevelt today to become a newspaper columnist.

The resignation was announced at a news conference by the President who told reporters he was sorry to see Mellett leave the Administration family. The President used the occasion to praise publishers who print views contrary to their own.

Mellett, a newspaperman with years of Washington background, went to work for the government in 1937 and headed a trio of war-born alphabet agencies — the National Emergency Council, Office of Government Reports, and the Motion Picture bureau of the Office of War Information.

His expressed views and his actions frequently brought congressional wrath down on him. The outcry from Capitol Hill reached its peak a few years ago when he got out plans to erect a gray, weather-board structure on Pennsylvania avenue as a Washingt n information center for war emergency visitors.

Critics denounced the $500,000 structure as "Mellett's madhouse" but he went ahead with it, and it's still doing business—finding homes for newcomers, addresses for visitors, etc.

Mellett became an administrative assistant to the President in 1940.

In his letter of resignation he told Mr. Roosevelt, "aside from my urge to resume writing, I honestly believe I can be as useful doing that as I would be if I remained in more obvious public service. x x x

"In full understanding of my views and in full disagreement with many of them, The (Washington) Star is prepared to publish what I may write. Conversations I've had indicate there may be other publishers disposed to do the same thing."

In accepting the resignation — "even though you may be responsible for my having to eat some of the things I've said in the past about columnists and publishers"—the President said:

"I'm much impressed by what you tell me concerning the readiness of The Washington Star, and perhaps other newspapers, to publish points of view contrary to their own. In these times, when it is more than normally necessary to achieve the fullest understanding of vital public issues, no greater service could be performed by the publishers, in my opinion."

Senate Votes Curb on TVA After Clash with Wallace

MAR 25 1944

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP) In a hot-tempered session in which senators angrily denounced Vice President Wallace's use of the words "parliamentary trickery," the Senate voted today to strip the Administration's Tennessee Valley Authority of its financial autonomy and make it come to Congress for funds.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), author of the restrictive legislation, denounced the Vice President's remarks as "damnable" at one point and at another Senator Clark (D-Mo) charged the Vice President with "brazenly" disregarding the Senate's parliamentary rules.

Vote Is 39 to 26

The Senate voted 39 to 26 to incorporate in the $8,577,933,978 independent offices appropriations bill an amendment denying TVA, public power agency, the right to use its power and fertilizer receipts to finance its operations.

Under the proposal, upon which the house has yet to act, TVA's receipts would have to be paid into the general fund of the Treasury, and its spending would be limited strictly to such money as Congress appropriated.

Majority Leader Barkley (Ky) contended that the agency would be "crippled" if unable to use its receipts to meet operating emergencies "like any other utility."

Previously bitter debate centered around McKellar's charges that TVA Chairman David E. Lilienthal played Tennessee politics—accusations flatly denied by Lilienthal. But this fight was overshadowed by that touched off today by a parliamentary point of order.

The Senate voted 46 to 17 to force Wallace to submit for its decision the question of the "germaneness" of the McKellar amendment.

Wallace previously had refused to do so on the ground that it amounted to "a parliamentary trick" to prevent a vote on another point of order: That the amendment involved legislation which had no place in an appropriations bill.

"I denounce the statement of the chair that I've undertaken to trick the chair," McKellar shouted furiously. "I think it's damnable for any one to say that. I don't resort to tricks. It should be withdrawn."

Asserting that he meant no reflection on McKellar, Wallace said he was "happy to do so." However, he insisted on ruling the amendment improperly offered.

Senator Clark (D-Mo) jumped up to demand that the Senate overrule Wallace, asserting the question at issue was "whether the Vice President can openly, flagrantly and brazenly disregard the rules of the Senate in ruling that an amendment is not germane."

After forcing the Vice President to submit the question, the Senate subsequently by voice vote overruled his decision. Subsequently Wallace overruled the second point of order on the ground that the Senate already had settled the issue by its previous vote.

DEWEY CONTENDS NEWS SUPPRESSED

He Charges Administration Obscures War News, 'Diplomatic Commitments.'

NEW YORK, March 24. — (AP) Gov. Thomas E. Dewey accused the national administration tonight of fostering "a deliberate and dangerous policy" of suppressing news and said the people knew "far too little about our own foreign policies and practically nothing about our diplomatic commitments."

Dewey, mentioned as a possible Republican presidential candidate despite his oft-repeated statement that he will not seek the nomination, criticized the administration's handling of news in an address opening the annual exhibition of the Press Photographers Association of New York. His address was broadcast over an NBC national hookup.

After declaring that the American people were the best informed because of a free press, Dewey said there had been "increasing signs of late that our newspapers are being denied the right to print all the news."

"Only now do we learn, because it leaked out, of the shooting down of 23 transport planes and the killing of 410 American paratroopers in Sicily, eight months ago," he said. "Even after a presidential broadcast, we still know precisely nothing of what really happened at the much-heralded conference in Teheran.

Sees "Evidences of Disunity"

"We only know of the disquieting evidences of disunity which have since occurred in the Pravda attacks on the British and the Vatican, followed by the startling repercussions, brought out by the President's announcement of the three-way division of the Italian fleet.

"The events of which I speak have not been suppressed to keep information from the enemy so much as to keep them from our own people. One such incident might be charged to blunder; two such incidents begin to lay the unpleasant suspicion of administration policy.

"When we find the State department requesting the British censor to suppress political news sent to American papers by American correspondents abroad, it begins to amount to a deliberate and dangerous policy of suppression of the news at home.

"Despite millions of dollars spent on war information service, we are constantly being surprised. Often we learn of important events through the pronouncements of foreign statesmen or by reading dispatches cabled back to this country from foreign papers. After making all due allowances for wartime conditions, it still remains that we know far too little about our own foreign policies and practically nothing about our diplomatic commitments."

Says Press Has Cooperated

Dewey said the press had cooperated unanimously in voluntary censorship, but added "it is time we had light as we fight for freedom."

He said a lasting peace could not be successful without "the aid of an alert, courageous and unfettered press" and declared there had been "studied efforts in recent months to make people believe that Congress will obstruct the building a lasting peace."

"That is not true," he said. "That is a part of a continuing effort to discredit the Congress of the United States."

Hoover Sees Finland As Collaboration Test

New York, March 24 (AP)—Herbert Hoover declared tonight that since the United States, Russia and Britain "have agreed to collaborate in building self-government and freedom in the world," the handling of the problem of Finland "will be a profound indication of the future of collaboration."

"It would seem that we could use our good offices to secure some way out of the impasse for Finland," the former President said in a statement.

Hoover declared that Finland had been a symbol of the struggle for freedom for 300 years.

War Role Regretted

"Americans, the friends of Finland," he contended, "profoundly regretted her entrance into the war on the side of Germany. As ill-advised as her action was, the purpose of the Finnish people was not to spread Nazism but to preserve the liberty and democracy of the Finnish people. . . . But despite all that has happened, we cannot class her with the other allies of Germany.

"In the long view, there can be no lasting peace in the world unless such peoples as the Finns are to have their independence and lands restored. Nor are the American people likely to accept any peace which does not extend the independence of nations, much less diminish them."

WILLKIE CAUTIONS PARTY ON ITS ROLE

Warns Against Capitalizing On Wartime Complaints

Beloit, Wis., March 24 (AP)—Predicting invasion of the European continent before the fall election, Wendell L. Willkie said today that with that vast military operation in prospect "there could be no more fatal mistake than for the opposition (Republican) party to seek to build strength on the people's transitory wartime complaints and discontents."

He said that in his judgment the invasion was necessary and unless there was an internal collapse in Germany "the casualty lists will be heart-breakingly long, will deeply move the people and profoundly affect their thinking."

Role Seen As Difficult

"I can't tell you about the possibility of collapse in Germany and no one else can," the candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination told a luncheon.

"The role of the opposition party in wartime is an extremely difficult one," he said. "The profound dislocations and required sacrifices frequently cause momentary complaints and discontent. There is always the danger that the opposition party will seek to capitalize on these discontents."

Deserved Defeat, He Says

Malcontents who sought to replace Abraham Lincoln in 1864, he recalled, "got the overwhelming defeat they always so richly deserved."

Now, with the invasion impending, Willkie asked whether "we are going to seek to build the Republican party by capitalizing on some cheap discontents, or will we say that our desire is to make the contribution greater, the effort more effective?

Sounds Warning

"Will we stand and lead?" he demanded. "There in that choice lies our defeat or victory in 1944."

Recalling that in the first World War "the Republican leadership in Congress always outvoted the President in strengthening the nation's preparations for doing more and more, not less, in the war," Willkie shouted.

"If we accept leadership in 1944 that represents evasion, seeks to capitalize on discontent, is anything but being ahead of the Administration in preparations for winning the war, the Republican party will suffer defeat as the malcontents were defeated in 1864—more tragic than that, we will deserve to be defeated."

New Fortress '3,500th Headache For Hitler'

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 24 (AP)—What United Air Lines calls the "3,500th headache for Hitler," a shiny new Flying Fortress rolled from the company's bomber modification plant here today.

Ceremonies marking completion of modifications on the 3,500th plane through the $2,000,000 plant were participated in by Col. Frank W. Cawthon, acting district supervisor, mid-Western procurement district of the army air forces material command; W. A. Patterson, United's president; Gov. Lester C. Hunt of Wyoming, and Mrs. Ira C. Eaker, wife of Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commanding officer of Allied air forces in the Mediterranean theater of war.

The new Flying Fortress was covered with signatures of United's men and women workers. The center has been in operation 26 months.

GI Homecoming Sign— Algiers Girl's Letter

Council Bluffs, Iowa, March 24 (AP)—Clyde McLaughlin had advance notice that his son, John, an army sergeant, was on his way home from Italy after an absence of two years.

Last week a letter for John arrived from a French girl in Algiers.

"If girls are writing him here that means he's on his way home," his father said.

Last night John called from a New York port with the news he would be seeing his father soon.

Report All East Asia Must Learn Japanese

San Francisco, March 24 (AP)—The Japanese intend to force their language upon the peoples of all East Asia, a Tokyo radio broadcast picked up by the Netherlands News Agency at Melbourne, Australia, indicated today.

The agency quoted Yasuzo Ouka, director of state affairs in Japan's Greater East Asia Ministry, as having said, "we cannot hope to have spiritual cohesion and unity if the language of each of various peoples is different. What forms the bond is a common language. That language must be Japanese."

IN THEIR MOST RECENT NIGHT FORAY INTO OCCUPIED TERRITORY, A PLUNGE INTO FRANCE MONDAY NIGHT, THE RAF BOMBERS SET FIRE TO AN EXPLOSIVES PLANT AT ANGOULEME, 60 MILES NORTHEAST OF BORDEAUX, RETURNI WITHOUT LOSS.

NAZI FIRE RAIDERS SCATTERED INCENDIARIES IN SOME SECTIONS OF LONDON BEFORE DAWN IN THEIR ATTACK IN AS MANY NIGHTS ON THE BRITISH CAPITAL. SOME DAMAGE AND A SMALL NUMBER OF CASUALTIES WERE ANNOUNCED.

A FINAL ASSESSMENT OF COMPREHENSIVE BRITISH RECONNAISSANCE PHOTOGRAPH AND INTELLIGENCE REPORTS OBTAINED AFTER THE RAF UNLOADED NEARLY 26,000 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES ON BERLIN IN 15 HEAVY RAIDS FROM NOV. 18 TO FEB. 15 WAS SAID LAST NIGHT TO HAVE DISCLOSED "ADMINISTRATIVE CONFUSION THROUGHOUT GERMANY AND GERMAN EUROPE."

AN AUTHORITATIVE BRITISH ANALYSIS SAID THE RAF RAIDERS HAD BROUGHT AN END TO VIRTUALLY ALL INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY IN BERLIN, EXCEPT FOR THE SOUTHEAST DISTRICT, BY THE END OF JANUARY.

"NO DOUBT PORTIONS OF BERLIN INDUSTRY HAVE STARTED UP AGAIN SINCE JANUARY," AN RAF COMMENTATOR SAID, "BUT MEANWHILE IMPORTANT PRODUCTION HAS BEEN LOST."

MAR 25 1944

HE ADDED THAT "THERE IS STILL A GOOD DEAL TO BE DONE IN THE WAY OF MATERIAL DESTRUCTION" -- A CLEAR INDICATION THAT THE AMERICAN PINPOINT RAIDS ON BERLIN ARE DESIGNED TO MOP UP THE TARGETS THAT RAF BOMBS MISSED.

THE BRITISH SURVEY SAID THAT AT LEAST 326 FACTORIES IN BERLIN HAVE BEEN DESTROYED OR DAMAGED, FIVE OF THEM ON HITLER'S TOP-MOST PRIORITY LIST.

THE DAMAGE HAS MADE IT INCREASINGLY DIFFICULT FOR THE GERMAN ARMY TO MAINTAIN THE TANK STRENGTH OF ITS ARMORED DIVISIONS, HAS CAUSED THE ARMY TO SUFFER FROM LACK OF SIGNAL EQUIPMENT, AND HAS PRODUCED BOTTLENECKS IN HEAVY ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT, THE SURVEY ADDED.

"IT WAS HIGHLY OVERCAST," SAID ACE THUNDERBOLT GROUP COMMANDER COL.HUBERT ZEMKE OF MISSOULA, MONT. "WE COULDN'T SEE A THING."

BOMBER GROUPS BACK FROM GERMANY SAID THEY FLEW OVER A THICK OVERCAST THROUGH WHICH THE GERMANS THREW A BARRAGE OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE. A NUMBER OF FLIERS SAID THEY SAW THE FIERY TRAIL OF GROUND ROCKERS BUT SAID "THEY DIDN'T BOTHER US."

"CLOUDS WERE STRETCHED ON ALL SIDES AS FAR AS WE COULD SEE," RECOUNTED FORTRESS RADIO-GUNNER SGT.ROY MILLER, OF CHARLESTON, ILL.

"THERE WERE NO ENEMY FIGHTERS IN THE SKY--ALL WE COULD SEE WERE OUR OWN," SAID GUNNER SGT.ALLEN BLAKE, OF 202 W. RIVER DRIVE, DEFIANCE, O.

"THE MOST EXCITING THING I SAW TODAY WERE ROCKETS FIRED FROM THE GROUND AND LEAVING LONG TRAILS OF SMOKE BEHIND THEM," ADDED BOMBARDIER LT.ADAM WRIGHT, OF 1319 28TH ST., OGDEN, UTAH.

"WE COULD SEE WE WOULD BE UNABLE TO BOMB VISUALLY AS THERE WAS AN UNDERCAST ALL THE WAY IN," SAID PILOT CAPT.BEN SATTERLEE, OF 824 47TH ST., SACRAMENTO, CALIF. "OUR LEADERS SHOWED GREAT INITIATIVE IN IMMEDIATELY RESORTING TO OVERCAST BOMBING TECHNIQUE AND IT GAVE US AMPLE TIME TO MAKE A BOMBING RUN."

ONE LIBERATOR CARRYING GROUP LEADER MAJ. ROBERT SEARS, OF ATLANTA, GA., HAD A CLOSE CALL OVER FRANCE WHEN FLAK SET TWO INCENDIARIES AFIRE IN THE BOMB BAY.

MAR 25 1944

THE BLAZING INCENDIARIES FILLED HALF THE SHIP WITH SMOKE AND FLAMES.

"THE QUICK THINKING OF THE PILOT (LT.MILTON STOKES, OF 605 GRANDVIEW AVE., CLAIRTON, PA.) SAVED US," SEARS SAID. "THE SECOND HE REALIZED THAT BOMBS WERE BURNING HE PULLED THE EMERGENCY RELEASE AND DUMPED THE LOAD OVER OPEN COUNTRY. I BELIEVE THE AIRPLANE WOULD HAVE BLOWN UP IN ANOTHER MINUTE."

THE "UNEVENTFUL" DAY ALSO WAS AN UNEVENTFUL ONE FOR ESCORT FIGHTER PILOT LT.DONALD GERBER, OF 4204 SOUTHEAST HOLGATE, PORTLAND, ORE. HIS ENGINES CUT OUT OVER THE CHANNEL AND HE HAD TO BAIL OUT, BUT AN AIR-SEA RESCUE SQUAD PICKED HIM UP.

CLEARER WEATHER OVER FRANCE ENABLED LIBERATOR BOMBARDIERS TO DO VISUAL BOMBING.

"ALL OUR BOMBS HIT AN AIRFIELD," REPORTED NAVIGATOR LT.VICTOR MIKKO, OF 116 CLEVELAND ST., NEGAUNEE, MICH.

Although no reliable reports give substantiation it is generally conceded the Antonescu government probably will go ~~soon~~ as soon as the German occupation forces have the country under control. One source said it was evident the Germans wish to install ~~as rapidly as possibl~~ a ~~Pro~~-Nazi government in all the Balkans. The talk of an armistice commissio from Rumania ~~believed~~ was believed to have left ~~Intermediary~~ the Germans suspisious of Antonescu. His removal would leave no one in power t receive or act on the missions report.

Observers close to the Hungarian situation also predict underground opposition to the Quisling regime is likely to burst forth in several parts of the country at any time.

There are large anti-German elements in Hungary who are convinced Regent Admiral Nicholas Horthy sold his country down the tiver. The fact that a majority of the members of the capitulation government came from the official government party was taken as demonstration that the German action received full cooperation from Hungarian leaders despite the fact the occupation destroyed the last semblance of Hungarian independence.

Although no postive reports have yet been received it is believed Bulgaria is slated for a similar engulfing by the Germans.

MADRID, MARCH 24-(AP)-THE GERMANS ~~XXXXXXXXXX~~ HAVE DISCOVERED THAT THEY LED WITH THEIR CHINS WHEN THEY OCCUPIED HUNGARY OVERNIGHT, ~~XX~~ DESPITE WARNINGS FROM THE HUNGARIAN REGENT, ADMIRAL NICHOLAS HORTHY, HUNGARIAN SOURCES HERE DECLARED TONIGHT.

MAR 25 1944

~~XXXXXXXXXX~~ THE GERMANS, THESE SOURCES SAY, HAVE FOUND THEIR CAREFULLY-LAID PLANS FOR LOOTING HUNGARY'S FOOD STORES AND USING HER TRANSPORT SYSTEM BLOCKED BY EQUALLY-CAREFUL SABOTAGE.

ADMIRAL HORTHY IS REPORTED TO HAVE WARNED ~~XXX~~ ADOLF HITLER THAT HUNGARIANS WERE AWARE OF GERMAN PLANS AND HAD MADE THEIR OWN PLANS ACCORDINGLY. HE THEREFORE ADVISED HITLER THAT OCCUPATION BY INFILTRATION WOULD BE BETTER THAN ONE FELL SWOOP, BUT HITLER IGNORED HIM.

THESE HUNGARIAN SOURCES, WHO AT LEAST UP TILL LAST WEEK END WERE PROFESSING TO BE PRO-GERMAN, SAID THAT THE GERMANS NOW FOR THE FIRST TIME WERE BEING BALKED BY A PEOPLE WHO KNEW FROM EXPERIENCE HOW THE NAZIS OPERATE AND JUST HOW TO COMBAT THEM.

SINCE SUNDAY, THEY SAID, THE GERMANS HAVE CONFRONTED NO MASS STRIKES WHICH THEY COULD SOLVE BY MASS EXECUTIONS, BUT A HUNGARIAN SYSTEM CALLED "THE STRIKE OF THE INVISIBLE MAN."

FOR EXAMPLE, ALL RAILROAD MEN IN ONE SECTION REPORTED FOR MONDAY, WORK, EXCEPT FOR THE SWITCH TOWER MAN, WHOSE ABSENCE LED TO COMPLETE CHAOS.

ON TUESDAY EVERYBODY WAS ON THE JOB, EXCEPT A TWO SWITCH-ENGINE OPERATORS ~~XXXXXXXXXX~~ WHOSE ABANDONED LOCOMOTIVES WERE FOUND ONLY WHEN A GERMAN TROOP TRAIN PLOWED INTO THEM ON A BLIND CURVE.

ON WEDNESDAY THE TRAFFIC CONTROL CHIEF WAS MISSING; AND ON THURSDAY ~~XXX~~ THE GERMANS DISCOVERED THAT A TRAINLOAD OF MATERIAL URGENTLY NEEDED IN CROATIA HAD SOMEHOW ~~XXXXXXXXXX~~ GOTTEN INTO BAVARIA EN ROUTE FOR THE RHINELAND WITH PAPERS ISSUED BY THE MISSING TRAFFIC MAN.

MAR 25 1944

SIMILAR TACTICS ARE SAID TO BE IN USE IN ALL FIELDS---EVEN IN THE DIPLOMATIC SERVICE.

THE HUNGARIAN MINISTER TO MADRID, FRANCISCO DE ~~XXX~~ AMBRO, TOLD FRIENDS ONLY LAST NIGHT THAT HE ~~XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX~~ WAS RESIGNING, AS DID THE MINISTER TO SWEDEN. IT WAS LEARNED TODAY THAT AMBRO WAS ONLY ONE OF NUMEROUS HUNGARIAN DIPLOMATS WHO HAD MADE THEIR ARRANGEMENTS LONG BEFORE HITLER ACTED.

ACCORDING TO REPORTS REACHING MADRID, ADMIRAL HORTHY READILY AGREED TO THE GERMAN "REINFORCEMENT" OF THE HUNGARIAN ARMY AS NECESSARY TO HALT THE RUSSIANS, BUT FAVORED INFILTRATION AND STUBBORNLY REFUSED HITLER'S RAGING DEMAND THAT HE NAME BELA IMREDY PREMIER.

MAR 25 1944

FOR SOME REASON, HITLER FINALLY AGREED TO A COMPROMISE ~~XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX~~ AFTER A THREAT OF IMPRISONMENT FAILED TO BUDGE HORTHY. WHEN HORTHY RETURNED TO BUDAPEST FROM THE CONFERENCE NEAR VIENNA, HOWEVER, HE WAS REPORTED ~~XXXXXXXXXX~~ TO BE SO ILL THAT HE HAS SPENT MOST OF THE WEEK IN BED.

FURTHER REPORTS SAID THAT MOST OF THE BUDAPEST HAD BEEN REPLACED BY GERMAN GESTAPO AGENTS WHO HAD BEEN THERE FOR MORE THAN A YEAR PREPARING FOR THAT CONTINGENCY. THE HUNGARIAN REGIME OUTWITTED THEM TO A DEGREE, HOWEVER, ISSUING PASSPORTS TO A LARGE NUMBERS OF JEWISH REFUGEES, MOSTLY GERMAN JEWS, WHO FLED THE COUNTRY WHILE THE GESTAPO MEN WERE AWAITING INSTRUCTIONS TO TAKE CHARGE.

TSENG SAID THE JAPANESE STRENGTH WAS LIMITED BY THE FIGHTING MIGHT ASSUME GREATER IMPORTANCE IF THE JAPANESE WERE ABLE TO BRING UP REINFORCEMENTS. HE ADMITTED THE INVASION OF INDIA WAS "A DISTURBING FACTOR."

ALTHOUGH OTHER OFFICIAL QUARTERS REMAINED SILENT ON THE INDIAN SITUATION, THE JAPANESE PENETRATION INTO MANIPUR CREATED A SHOCK HERE AND WAS REGARDED AS SUPPLYING JAPANESE PROPAGANDA GUNS WITH THE BEST AMMUNITION THEY HAVE HAD IN MANY MONTHS.

GENERALLY IT WAS FELT THAT THE SITUATION COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED IF THE ALLIES HAD FOLLOWED DIFFERENT STRATEGY.

THE NEWSPAPER TA KING PAO DECLARED THAT IF A SECOND FRONT HAD BEEN OPENED AND EVERYWHERE IN THE FAR EAST AND PACIFIC POWERFUL AGRESSIVE BLOWS WERE BEING STRUCK AT THE JAPANESE "THERE WOULD BE NO TIME FOR TOJO TO TAKE ANY INTEREST IN INDIA."

THE NEWSPAPER EXHORTED THE ALLIES TO ACCELERATE THE DRIVE ON ROME; TO OPEN THE SECOND FRONT AS SOON AS POSSIBLE; TO STRENGTHEN THEIR ATTACKS IN THE PACIFIC; TO ENLARGE THE SCALE OF THEIR OPERATIONS IN BURMA, AND TO ATTACK SINGAPORE FROM THE SEA.

THE CHINA TIMES ALSO URGED THE ALLIES TO INTENSIFY THEIR OPERATIONS IN BURMA AND REVIVED THE RECURRENT CLAMOR HERE FOR OPENING A LAND ROUTE TO CHINA.

Bucovina Campaign May Split Entire German Eastern Front.

PROSKUROV CAPTURED

Reds Advance 30 Miles South of Tarnopol, By-Passing Enemy Stronghold

LONDON, Sunday, March 26. — (AP) The Red army plunged to within eight miles of Rumania's eastern border yesterday and erected a 50-mile invasion bridgehead on the Dniester river just across from Czernowitz, Rumania's northern capital in Bucovina and key to the Balkans, Moscow announced today.

NIGHT

Hurling the Germans back toward the Carpathian mountains, the Russians were only 18 miles from strategic Czernowitz, and 17 miles from Hitler's rail backbone —the Bucharest-Lwow railway running through that city. The loss of the line would split the German eastern front.

Proskurov Falls

The Russians also toppled the west Ukraine stronghold of Proskurov, breaking into the city from east and west, and fought their way into the outskirts of the Black sea port of Nikolaev, Moscow said.

Many Germans routed from Proskurov later gave themselves up while thousands scattered into the woods to hide, the late bulletin said.

Other impressive successes scored by the Russians on a front extending from old Poland southeast to the Black sea included a 20-mile gain south of by-passed Tarnopol in Poland, the severing of the Byeltsi-Iasi railway in central Bessarabia as Soviet troops streamed southward toward the Danube, and the overrunning of a Nazi rail escape route in the Slozodzeya sector 110 miles northwest of Odessa, the communique said.

Great Booty Seized

Thousands of Germans were killed in the capture of Proskurov, 62 miles east of Tarnopol, and "enormous quantities" of guns, tanks, trucks and other equipment seized as the retreating Germans even abandoned their light equipment in their flight toward the Dniester—and possible entrapment.

The Russians now control almost 160 miles of the river. Soviet units fanning out along the Dniester between Mogilev Podolski and Kamenets Podolsk were attempting to bag the Germans falling back from Proskurov.

(Radio France at Algiers quoted Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, as having declared that the German army "perhaps" would abandon Bessarabia, establish a Carpathian mountain defense line, and try to plug the 130-mile gap between the mountains and the Black sea with German and satellite troops to defend the Rumanian Ploesti oil regions "at all costs."

The broadcast was reported by the U. S. Foreign Broadcast Intelligence service).

A Russian smash across the Dniester toward Czernowitz (Cernauti) was expected shortly.

Seventy miles southeast of Czernowitz, Rumania's third largest city, other Soviet units attacking westward in Bessarabia on a 65-mile front captured Zagaikany, only eight miles from the Prut river, boundary of Rumania proper. They also were only 60 miles east of Czernowitz with the announced capture of Korystovtsy.

Rail Junction Outflanked

Wheeling southward toward the Danube, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukraine army also outflanked the besieged railway junction of Byeltsi (Balti) with the capture of Reutsel, eight miles to the southwest, putting the Red army only 38 miles north of Iasi (Jassy), big Rumanian rail hub just beyond the Prut.

To the east Russian forces attacking southward along the Lwow-Odessa railway cut the Pervomaisk-Byeltsi escape railway with the capture of Slobodzeya and Ksendzovka and began fighting their way into the outskirts of the big city of Balta, a few miles east of the railway, 110 miles northwest of Odessa, and 75 miles from the main German escape route, the Odessa-Tiraspol line which extends into Rumania to imperilled Iasi.

Fighting their way into the outskirts of Kamenets Podolsk, in the southwestern corner of the Ukraine, the Russians moved quickly to try to trap thousands of beaten German troops retreating down the railway and highway from fallen Proskurov, 65 miles to the northeast.

The Germans above the Dniester were squeezed into a fast-narrowing 2,000-square miles area just above the river, and Russian troops which took Mogilev Podolski a week ago were moving westward on both banks of the Dniester to complete the intended trap.

The Two Russian forces advancing to meet each other on the north bank of the Dniester and thus close the trap were reported only 40 miles apart.

German Salient Caves In

The fall of Proskurov to Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First Ukraine army caved in the top of the German salient above the Dniester. Premier-Marshal Stalin, announcing the victory in an order of the day, ordered 12 salvoes from 124 guns. Then the regular communique told of the capture of Derazhnya, 22 miles southeast of Proskurov, another station on the Odessa-Lwow railway, as the Russians swept on southward toward the Dniester.

Far to the southeast Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Third Ukraine army captured three heavily fortified strongpoints just outside Nikolaev, at the mouth of the Bug river, and also seized Kulbakhino and Vodopoi rail stations, the latter just three kilometers (1.8 miles) outside the major German stronghold.

Nikolaev, on the vulnerable east bank of the Bug, is the last German position on that side of the long river in southern Russia. It's fall appeared to be imminent now that it is surrounded on three land sides. The Germans also face the danger of being trapped by Russian troops crossing the river above Nikolaev in a drive toward Odessa, main Black sea port 75 miles southwest of Nikolaev.

The German High command reported that Soviet troops already had established small bridgeheads on the west bank of the Bug above Nikolaev, and were clinging to them despite German attempts to wipe them out.

Fifty German divisions, more than 500,000 men, were being beaten back toward the Dniester River and the Black Sea on the long front, with the Russian break-through into pre-war Rumania threatening their entrapment.

A total of nearly 250 localities were overrun by the Russians during the day, the broadcast bulletin said.

Aside from the eastward movement along the Dniester from Zaleshchiki, Dniester river town occupied on Friday, the 1st Ukraine Army also attacked westward from the captured north-south railway between Tarnopol and Zaleshchiki in the southeast corner of Old Poland. Among the towns seized was Buchach, a district center only twenty-eight miles east of the Bucharest-Lwow railway. Buchach's fall represented a twenty-mile advance from Chortkov, seized on Friday.

Thus the Germans were being hurled back steadily into the inhospitable Carpathian Mountains, and the Russians were within sixty miles of Nazi-occupied Hungary, which took over the eastern tip of former Czecho-Slovakia.

A dispatch to "The Moscow News" quoted Russian liaison officers at the front as saying that the Germans were abandoning whole trainloads of tanks and trucks in their retreat. The roads also were littered with abandoned heavy Nazi material, they said.

Loss of the Bucharest-Lwow line in northern pre-war Rumania would compel the hard-pressed Germans, described by Moscow as retreating so fast that they even leave bridges intact, to fall back upon the railways and highways of lower Rumania, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary for the defense of Rumania.

The Germans held only a narrow corridor between the upper Dniester and the Prut Rivers, with the railway to Lwow running through it, and it appeared that the Russians soon would seize it. Their capture of Zaleshchiki is twenty miles from the Cernauti-Lwow railway, and Moscow dispatches reported that the Russian forces, advancing despite heavy mud and stiff German resistance, had moved on another half dozen miles toward the strategic line.

The Soviet forces also aimed at Cernauti itself, a big communications center regarded as the key to the Russian province of Bucovina and the natural gateway into Rumania from the north.

All Russian dispatches from the front stressed the ever-present deep, clinging mud.

The Moscow radio broadcast a report that the Nazi Gestapo chief, Heinrich Himmler, had gone to Kishinev, capital of the Rumanian province of Bessarabia and relatively near the battle front, to steady the Nazi rule in the face of the Soviet threat to Rumania.

que said that other Russian forces were fighting in the suburbs of Kamenets Podolsk, terminal of the only railway line into the Germans' pocket north of the Dniester, in a drive that narrowed the pocket's mouth to about fifty miles, and captured Vodopoi, only a mile and a half southeast of the great Black Sea port of Nikolaev.

Proskurov and Tarnopol formed the right and left anchors of the German line in the central Ukraine through which Marshal Zhukov drove a sixty-mile long wedge almost to the border of Bucovina to the south. Proskurov had held out stubbornly for weeks against the Russian drive.

Stalin described the stronghold as a large railway junction and powerful strong point of the German defenses. Street fighting had been reported raging in the outskirts last night. The city's fall apparently meant the imminent capture of Tarnopol.

Push for Carpathians.

Moscow, March 25 (A. P.).—Striking in its white-hot hour of victory, the Russian Army was today reported to be exploiting its broad break-through in the Tarnopol area, at the southeast corner of Poland, into a full-scale offensive to drive the Germans back past Czernowitz (Cernauti) to the Carpathian barrier.

The mighty forward smash between Tarnopol and Proskurov was gaining momentum over a rising slopeland where the Russians already were within sight of the mountain range that cuts like a sickle through Rumania. They had cut the Tarnopol-Lwow railway and knifed closer to the Lwow-Czernowitz trunk line. On the other hand, the capture of Byeltsi, traffic control point for northern Moldavia, appeared to be a matter of hours, front-line dispatches said.

[The Berlin radio said today that the battle in the Tarnopol-Proskurov area is raging with unabated fury, and that the Russians are hurling all available forces into the attack.]

Danube Would Be Next.

Byeltsi's fall would give the Russians virtual control of a 200-mile long stretch of the eastern bank of the Dniester. Marshal Zhukov's Red Army forces would then be in a position to go smashing down upon Galatz and the Danube valley on the exposed side of the mountain barrier. Kishinev, the capital of Moldavia, lies sixty miles south of this developing offensive in the path of any drive in this direction.

Following the great advances of Marshal Konev's Second Ukrainian Army through the rolling hills of wheat and the vineyard country of the Moldavian Republic, his advanced units were pushing along the high road from captured Sekureni to Czernowitz, while other units, six miles to the south, advanced rapidly along the road from Oknitsa to Trinka, dispatches said.

The Red Star said that Zhukov's Army cut the German front to pieces in its sixty-two-mile, four-day advance, but that separated enemy groups were offering stiff resistance.

Proskurov and Tarnopol, other dispatches added, appeared about to follow the fate of the Bug River town of Voznesensk and fall to quick storming assaults by Zhukov's shock troops. The Russians are battling in the streets of Proskurov while German communications out of beleaguered Tarnopol are reported to have been all but wiped out.

The big Dniester River city of Kamanets Podolsk, between Proskurov and Czernowitz, likewise is in the path of the Russian steam roller and the whole German-Rumanian position in the extreme south appears to be rapidly collapsing, dispatches said.

Units of Gen. Malinovsky's Army were said to be pushing into the suburbs of Nikolaev, the great Black Sea port on the southeastern end of the front while battering away at the stiffening resistance of German troops holding the southern sector of the Odessa-Lwow railway.

Reds Take Proskurov by Storm; Push to Within 12 Miles of Prut

Russians Also Capture Town Mile and a Half From Great Black Sea Naval Base of Nikolaev.

London, March 25 (A. P.).—Russian forces scoring new victories along the lower front have captured Proskurov, stubbornly held German fortress in the Middle Ukraine, and with the capture of Yedintsy, below Mogilev Podolski, have driven to within twelve miles of the River Prut, Moscow announced tonight.

Premier Stalin announced the fall of Proskurov in a special order of the day.

Russians Quote Churchill

MOSCOW, March 25 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill's speech to American invasion forces in Great Britain during a two-day inspection was reported prominently by the Soviet press and radio today, with particular attention devoted to intimation that the invasion of western Europe soon would get under way.

RUMANIAN ENVOYS DUE IN ISTANBUL

London, March 25 (A. P.).—The expected arrival of a Rumanian delegation in Turkey on a mystery mission was reported today in an Istanbul dispatch as other advices indicated that Hitler was meeting widespread opposition in his military occupation of Balkan states.

Writing from Istanbul, William B. King, Associated Press correspondent, said that the Rumanians, headed by Paul Sterian, Secretary-General of the Rumanian foreign office, was due there today from Bucharest.

"The announced purpose of the visit is to reach a commercial agreement with Turkey," Mr. King said, "but in view of the turbulent Balkan situation unusual importance is attached to the mission. It is unlikely that routine commercial problems would be handled by top Rumanian diplomats."

A dispatch from Madrid, meanwhile, said that the Hungarian legation there had announced Hungarian Ministers in four of Europe's neutral capitals—Madrid, Berne, Stockholm and Lisbon — had taken the position of not recognizing the puppet government set up in Budapest by Hitler for the Hungarian Ministers, an action tantamount to resigning their posts.

Although the German armed forces now appear in full control of both Hungary and Rumania, there still has been no fully satisfactory word on what is occurring in Bulgaria, the third Balkan state said to be slated for military occupation.

Rumanians in Turkey said they expected pro-Allied elements in the Rumanian Army might offer resistance to the German troops.

An Associated Press dispatch from Madrid quoted Hungarian sources there as saying that carefully laid sabotage had blocked Hitler's plans for looting Hungary's food stores and using her transport system.

A mobilization of all inspectors, commanders and youths undergoing pre-military training has been ordered by the Rumanian General Staff, the Bucharest radio said today. The broadcast, recorded by United States Government monitors, said the youths would assemble at their training centers "to carry out orders of extreme urgency."

RAF HAMMERS BERLIN WITH 2,800-TON LOAD

73 British Bombers Lost In Night Blows At Nazi Cities

London, Sunday, March 26 (AP)—Royal Air Force heavy bombers, making a prompt follow-up to their massive raid on Berlin Friday night, roared across the English Channel last night to strike again at continental targets.

London, March 25 (AP) — RAF bombers, nearly 1,000 strong, beating through the fiercest defense the Germans yet have thrown about their capital, laced Berlin with fires and ruin from more than 2,800 tons of explosives last night, and punched lightly at other Nazi cities at a cost of 73 big planes.

It was the heaviest loss ever sustained over Berlin—presumably most of the bombers fell in airway battles to or over the city—but the assault [illegible] 15,000 tons the weight [illegible] hurled on the city since last November 18.

Equals February Mark

Last night's bombweight on Berlin equalled the record mark poured down on it by the RAF February 15.

The RAF bomber command sent out more than 1,000 planes in the night parade with some hitting at the Baltic Sea port of Kiel and other objectives. The Germans said Leipzig and Weimar also were hit and that 112 planes were downed.

United States Marauders covered by Thunderbolt fighters slashed at the rail city of Hirson in northern France today. Hirson, near the Belgian border, is a junction of lines leading to several French port cities.

3 Marauders Missing

The Marauders fought through a barrage of flak and swarms of German fighters to Hirson, where the rail yards are a key link on the supply routes from Paris to western Germany and the North Sea.

Three Marauders are missing from the mission as a result of what the flyers described as the most intensive fighter opposition they had met in several weeks.

Four German planes were shot down by the Thunderbolt pilots while several others were drowned by the Marauder gunners who said the Nazis came down at them out of the sun at a steep angle.

Signs Of Night Operations

An indication that new operations against Germany were under way tonight came from the German radio which broadcast that "several nuisance planes are over northwest Germany and are heading toward central Germany."

hTe Berlin blow was the climax of one of the most terrific 60-hour bombing periods of the war, leaving four of Germany's great war centers burning tonight.

In the 60 hours up to dawn today at least 10,000 tons of bombs have been unloaded on Germany and occupied territory by Allied planes.

Longest Attack On London

As the British bombers were hammering Berlin, the Germans were retaliating with the longest attack on London in more than a year, sending about 100 planes through to rain down fire and explosive bombs. Damage was heavy, and the German communique claimed there was a "carpet of fires."

A Nazi broadcast said the British air fleets were engaged in battle continuously over the Reich and that they "suffered one of their heaviest defeats in the battle of Berlin.

"The stream of enemy bombers reached the German capital from a northwesterly direction," it added. "For almost one hour they were the target of German night fighters which had taken off in large numbers."

Pilot Remarks On Defenses

One Lancaster pilot declared the Germans "put everything they had" into their defense. "The flak was heavier than I've ever known it, and it seemed they must have used every searchlight they could lay their hands on. There was one belt which appeared to stretch over 20 miles, and I saw our bombers twisting and turning to get out of the beams.

"But once again the defenses failed to stop us. When we got over the city very fierce fires were burning around the target, indicators which we could see quite plainly through the drifting clouds. We could still see the glow 200 miles away."

One flying officer saw three tremendous explosions over the capital, and declared "one of them was really something. Tongues of orange and red flame shot up to over 2,000 feet."

NAZIS LASH BACK AT LONDON

100 Enemy Planes Strike City a Vicious Blow—Cause Severe Damage.

London, March 25 (A. P.).—The major part of 1,000 R. A. F. bombers fought through one of the bitterest night sky battles of the war last night and dumped 2,800 tons of bombs on Berlin.

Seventy-three British bombers were shot down over Berlin and other targets by large forces of German night fighters which the Berlin radio said started attacking the R. A. F. armada as it crossed Helgoland, in the North Sea, and fought it all the way to the capital.

Germany claimed 102 bombers were shot down in the fight which culminated in an hour-long battle over the capital as formation after formation roared over,

Kiel Is Also Blasted.

The British Air Ministry's report said that Kiel also had been hit by the night raiders "along with other objectives in western Germany." A German broadcast said Leipzig and Weimar also had been hit, but the Air Ministry did not name these as targets.

American Marauder bombers attacked the rail center of Hirson in northern France today supported by American Thunderbolt fighters, it was announced.

Last night's bomb load equaled the record load loosed over Berlin in the R. A. F. raid of February 15, but fell short of the all-time mark of 3,360 tons dumped on Frankfurt Wednesday.

Meanwhile about 100 German bombers broke through London's aerial barrage to blast at the British capital's business properties, dwellings and churches with tons of incendiaries in the longest raid in twelve months. Eleven were shot down.

The loss of seventy-three bombers was the R. A. F.'s highest in its sixteen major assaults on Berlin, but fell six short of the record seventy-nine lost in the R. A. F.'s blow at Leipzig on January 19.

Little Opposition Met.

About 500 bombers and 500 fighters, including R. A. F. Mustangs, took part in yesterday's daylight raids and encountered little oppostiion, although two of the targets, Frankfurt and Schweinfurt, had been heavily defended in the past. The raids cost three bombers and five fighters. The fighters destroyed two Nazi aircraft on the ground and a third as it was taking off.

In regard to the Nazi raid on London, one of the damaged churches was known throughout the world as a Mecca for sightseers. The vicar said the tower was burned out and the nave was set afire, but the altar was undamaged. He said that a wedding would be held in the church later today.

One of the raiders crashed on a house, killing three persons.

Witnesses Describe Raid.

Stockholm, March 25 (A. P.).—"They were the biggest fires ever seen in Berlin," plane passengers arriving in Malmoe from the German capital today said of last night's R. A. F. raid. They said that virtually every section of Berlin, except the northern district, had been deluged by an avalanche of high explosives and incendiaries.

DAY

Temporary quarters of the Swedish Legation, set up in the Rauchstrasse after the former quarters were bombed out in a previous raid, were burned to the ground in last night's attack, they said.

One passenger described the latest destruction as "colossal," particularly in the central sector.

PEP TALK DUE BY CHURCHILL

J. F. KING

Broadcast Today Expected To Prepare For Invasion

London, March 25 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill is expected to deliver a pre-invasion fight talk in his address Sunday over a British-American radio hookup to prepare the British and American people for the forthcoming assault and to dispel any doubt regarding the basic unity of the United Nations.

The broadcast is scheduled for 9 P. M. London time, which is 4 P. M. Eastern War Time.

[The speech will be carried on all networks in the United States.]

The British Broadcasting Company said Churchill would broadcast whether or not London was subjected to an air raid during the speech, pointing out that British stations do not go off the air during raids.

NIGHT

Saves News For Parliament

Churchill seldom uses the radio to break news—usually reserving that for appearances before Parliament—and it seems logical to expect that his broadcast will be a pep talk to reassure the American people of Britain's determination to fight with all her resources to the final defeat of Japan if Germany collapses first.

The broadcast comes directly after Churchill's tour of United States Army camps in Britain, at an hour of increased fighting in Burma and when the Balkans are wavering and Finland is wanting peace as the Red army rolls back the German invaders.

At Height Of Loan Drive

The talk coincides also with the height of Britain's fourth great war loan drive, but there is every indication that with the American radio hookup the Prime Minister will talk on the over-all world picture rather than limit his remarks to the home front.

There has been some London editorial speculation that the Atlantic Charter, a subject of heightened discussion in both the United States and Britain recently, might also be mentioned by Churchill. He told Parliament this week that the charter still embodies the principal Allied war aims but further talks about it might be necessary as the war progresses.

CHURCHILL MAY TALK ON INVASION

LONG

London, March 25 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Churchill's British-American hook-up broadcast tomorrow night is expected here to steel the two nations for the sacrifices of the forthcoming invasion march on Berlin—more of the blood and sweat he so grimly predicted nearly four years ago, but this time bright with the confidence of victory.

The dramatic panorama of the past fateful week for Germany affords a background for this first home broadcast by the Premier since a year ago, providing material for a whole new picture of the strengthened Allied position as the hour of climax nears.

Mr. Churchill probably will take the fullest advantage of developments in the Balkans to emphasize the collapse of the last Nazi pretense of a benevolent new order and unified European defense. Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania doubtlessly are awaiting the news of Mr. Churchill's words for the faintest clues of their future fate.

Others will be listening as tensely—Finland for a hint of the next move after her rejection of the Soviet armistice terms, and neutral Eire for a suggestion of the extent of her isolation from the rest of the world.

American Says Churchill Is 'A Pretty Good Shot'

On Visit to Base, British Chief Tried Several Weapons

AT AN AMERICAN ARMY BASE IN ENGLAND, March 25 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill is "a pretty good shot but required a little instruction in American weapons," Lieutenant Harry Volk, of Cleveland, said today in describing the sixty-nine-year-old statesman's visit to this base on Thursday.

DAY

The Prime Minister came here only to watch, but the smell of gunpowder proved too strong and he soon seized a carbine and started blazing away. Then he tried out a tommy gun and pistol and wanted to try a bazooka but was dissuaded when told he would have to put on a gas mask to protect himself from a back flash.

He arrived to inspect this American armored unit in a command car with General Dwight D. Eisenhower and Lieutenant General Omar N. Bradley, smiling broadly as controlled mines exploded on all sides of the rocking car.

While they were driving through the base General Eisenhower spotted a nine-ton crane with the word "Eisenhower" painted on its side. Amused and pleased, he went over to the two men who had named the crane, Sergeant Ralph H. Nickerson, of East Baton Rouge, La., and Corporal Jack Manley, of Concord, Ga.

"I want you to take good care of this for me," the general said. "Don't let anything happen to it."

SEES WAR ON NAZIS IN ITS THIRD PHASE

DAY

London, March 25 (A. P.).—Europe will be invaded from the west when Hitler's war machine has been sufficiently reduced to enable the Allies to close for the kill, Capt. Harold H. Balfour, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Air, declared in an address at Ramsgate today. Likening the air assault on Germany to the task of a picador in a bullfight preparing for the matador's kill, Capt. Balfour said:

"We are now in the third phase of the war—the phase of attrition, the wearing down of the war power, actual and potential, of the enemy until the point is reached when our combined Allied air strength and the combined strength of our land forces will enable us to close for the kill, which will be the fourth and final phase.

"When will that fourth phase take place? The answer is when the enemy's war power has been sufficiently reduced to enable us to close for the last cut. We know the hour is approaching."

Symbolic Emblem For Invasion Unit

NIGHT

London, March 25 (AP)—A new shoulder sleeve emblem issued today for military personnel attached to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's invasion headquarters is full of symbolism, starting with a shield-shaped black background representing the darkness of Nazi oppression.

There is a crusader's sword across the shield, with "red flames of avenging justice leaping from its hilt," an announcement from supreme headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Forces said.

Above the sword is a rainbow made up of all the colors of the United Nations' flags and symbolic of hope. A field of blue over the rainbow represents the coming "peace and tranquillity for the enslaved people of Europe."

AIDE DEFENDS MIHAILOVIC

O'DONNELL

Says 30,000 Chetniks Are Set To Help Allied Invasion

MAR 28 1944

London, March 25 (AP)—Major Voislav Lukatchevic, one of the commanders in the Yugoslav Army, said in an interview today that Gen. Draja Mihailovic has 30,000 troops armed and ready in the mountains of Serbia to strike at a signal from the Allies to clear a path for invasion.

NIGHT

The statement coincided with announcement by the Yogoslav Government-in-exile that Mihailovic's Chetniks recently had pressed an offensive to "the very gates" of Belgrade. "These troops have only limited ammunition and equipment," said the major, who is in London to seek Allied aid for Mihailovic. "That is why they haven't been fighting. We figure it is better to make one big offensive than waste our bullets in smaller actions. We are ready to clear any given area for an Allied invasion landing on short notice."

Gave Tito Main Support

Both Britain and the United States have been giving their main support in Yugoslavia to the men of Marshal Tito, Mihailovic's rival, on the ground they were doing most of the fighting against the Germans.

Lukatchevic said Mihailovic also had 150,000 more men organized who could be sent into action if equipped.

Mihailovic's latest offensive carried to the coast of Montenegro about the time that the Allies struck in Italy, the major said, but the Yugoslav army flank was attacked, he asserted, from the north by forces of Marshal Tito (Josip Broz).

Hits Tito Achievements

Lukatchevic minimized the achievements of Tito's forces and claimed that the Partisan leader had fewer than 10,000 soldiers. He contended that many towns which Tito claimed to have captured never existed. Some reports have estimated Tito's forces at 250,000 or more.

The major said he left Serbia a month ago with two members of an American military mission who now are in Washington.

Asked whether the welding of Tito's and Mihailovic's units was possible, the major replied yes, but said it would "be difficult."

In Cairo the Yugoslav Government-in-exile said the Germans were arresting and deporting thousands of persons in Belgrade after an attack by Mihailovic's forces "at the very gates" of that city, and that the Nazis had sent 7,000 men against the Yugoslavs below Belgrade.

Tito's Partisans Halt Nazi Drive In Bosnia

London, March 25 (AP)—A communique broadcast tonight from Tito's Yugoslav Partisan headquarters said a German advance in the Bjelina sector of Bosnia north of Sarajevo had been stopped and a counterattack by units of the 16th and 37th Partisan divisions now was in progress.

DAY

In Slavonia, the communique said, Partisans are attacking German troops moving toward Hungary, causing them heavy losses.

A train on the Bosanski-Novi railway has been blown up, it was added, while more than 250 Germans have been killed in several battles in scattered points in the mountains.

248 Germans Reported Killed By Guerrillas

London, March 25 (AP)—The killing of 248 German soldiers in widespread guerrilla activities, especially in the Wilno district, was reported today by the Polish Telegraph Agency which quoted the underground radio.

More than 200 German soldiers were killed in a machine-gun battle close by Srodborow near Warsaw when the guerrillas wrecked a train, it was said. Not far from Wilno 34 SS troopers were slain in an ambush, and 14 more killed in a bloody clash at Lida, where a Todt workers' barracks was burned. A German garrison surrendered at Rudomino, the agency said, and the railroad line between Rozarek and Zoludek put out of commission.

NIGHT

Berlin Gives Report

LONDON, March 25 (AP).—A Berlin broadcast asserted today that U-boats have sunk ten ships totaling 46,000 tons, and five destroyers and escort vessels of Allied convoys in the Mediterranean and North Atlantic. The German report, which was without confirmation from Allied sources, did not say when the reported sinkings occurred.

DAY

British Seaman Keeps Warship's Guns Silent

London, March 25 (AP)—Able Seaman Malcolm White made fleet history by silencing the guns of H. M. S. York, flagship of the home fleet.

The ship was in battle line preparing for a practice shoot, with the guns ready to fire, when White was stricken with appendicitis.

The surgeon, Lieut. Com. William Wilson, realized that an operation was necessary and that he could not operate with the guns blasting.

NIGHT

Admiral Sir Bruce Fraser agreed to abandon the target practice. White is recovering.

BRITAIN CURTAILS AIR MAIL SERVICE

LONDON, March 25—(AP) Civil air mail service between Britain and more than a dozen countries in and near continental Europe has been suspended for operational reasons, the postmaster general announced tonight.

The reason was the same given last week for a ban on civilian movements in the 700-mile strip of the British coast facing occupied France, the Netherlands and Belgium.

NIGHT

Both civil and military air mail was suspended to Gibraltar. Other places affected included Portugal, Spain, the Azores, Switzerland, Cape Verde Islands, Madeira, Canary Islands, French and Spanish Morocco, Tangiers, Algeria, Tunisia and Corsica.

Air mail service to prisoners of war and internees in Europe also was suspended except to Sweden.

London Church Bombing Fails to Bar Wedding

But Organist Plays Softly, Lest More of Building Collapse

LONDON, March 25 (AP).—In a famous London church, bombed in last night's German raid, the organist played softly for a wedding today lest vibration cause further collapse of the edifice.

The main aisle could not be used because ten feet of it was burned out. Several pews were merely piles of charred wreckage. Debris hung from a hole in the roof. The public was barred from the wedding because the building was unsafe.

Neither Flight Lieutenant Dudley Hewitt nor his bride, Jennifer N. Hatton, knew of the bombing until greeted by firemen at the church.

"Life must go on," said the clergyman who officiated.

60,000 British Miners Expected Back On Jobs

London, March 25 (AP)—J. A. Hall, president of the Yorkshire Mine Workers' Association, said today he expected all the 60,000 miners out in the Yorkshire coal fields to be back at work Monday. Another 25,000 are away from the pits in the Doncaster area.

Hall, in a letter to local branches, called for resumption of work under the wage agreement reached yesterday by representatives of the mine owners and the miners' leaders which provides a wage differential for skilled workers.

Winant Lauds Seamen

CARDIFF, Wales, March 25 (AP).—American Ambassador John G. Winant, paying tribute to merchant-marine sailors of all Allied nations, declared today they would play a vital part in the forthcoming "greatest water-borne invasion in history."

Theirs will be work necessary "to establish and maintain our bridegheads and support our advancing columns," he said in a speech at the opening of a Merchant Navy Club, one of three similar gifts from American labor for the use of sea workers.

Italians Kill 32 Nazi Policemen In Rome Riots

New York, March 25 (AP)—The Bern radio reported tonight that 32 German policemen were killed and a large number injured in Rome Thursday when they were assaulted by Italian patriots.

The broadcast, recorded by CBS, said that for every slain German the Nazi authorities have decreed that 10 hostages will be shot.

Says Sweden Declined To Help Evacuate Jews

Stockholm, March 25 (AP)—Sweden has refused an American Government's request that some Swedish shipping be used to evacuate Jewish refugees from Rumanian Black Sea ports to Palestine, it was learned today on reliable authority.

The proposal was made through the Swedish Minister in Washington. It was understood to have been turned down on the grounds that Sweden has no shipping available.

NEWSPAPERMAN DIES

MADRID, March 25 — (AP) A Paris dispatch to the Spanish press announced today the death of Edmond Renoir, 95, dean of French newspapermen and a brother of the celebrated painter Auguste Renoir. He was one of the founders of the Paris Press association.

NAZIS IN CASSINO REPULSE ATTACKS

New Zealanders Pinned Down by Veteran German Troops.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 25—(AP) New Zealand troops attempting to drive westward through Cassino were pinned down in their southern section of the rubbled town today by highly-trained German parachute troops ordered to hold their positions at all costs.

(Berlin and Rome radios broadcast reports that Allied forces have launched strong attacks against the Nazi troops in the western and northern sectors of Cassino. The broadcasts, which were unconfirmed from Allied sources, were recorded by NBC).

Situation Unchanged

The New Zealanders and the parachutists were fighting stubbornly and throwing tons of shells at one another, but without effecting much change in the general situation, Allied headquarters announced.

The Germans, however, managed to move three more tanks into the lobby of the Continental hotel, and a bitter fight between tanks and artillery also raged around the Hotel Des Roses.

Artillery fire which shook the mountainous battle area also reached to positions in the rear as the Allies sought to prevent the Germans from strengthening their hold on the Verdun-like Cassino sector. But the Germans, commanded by Lt. Gen. Richard Heindrich to hold at all costs, were believed to have the advantage of ancient tunnels honeycombing Abbey hill through which they were reinforcing their front line defenders.

At the Anzio bridgehead the Germans tried to penetrate Allied defense positions with tanks and were believed to have lost two near Carroceto and five others west of Cisterna. The Germans kept up a rain of shells on the beachhead and there also were clashes between patrols.

Allied headquarters announced heavy bombers struck at the rail yards at Rimini and Ancona in the north yesterday while mediums hit a number of places including Leghorn.

The Allied liberators ran into at least 16 dog fights in the north and the Germans also flew at least 85 sorties over the beachhead. The operations cost the Germans at least 19 planes while 11 Allied aircraft failed to return.

NAZIS REINFORCE CASSINO TROOPS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 25 (A. P.).—Tough German parachutists, ordered to cling to Cassino at all costs and throw the Allies out if possible, are holding the New Zealand troops in tight confines in the southern part of the town.

The Germans have been able to get three more tanks into the lobby of the Continental Hotel and apparently again reinforced their troops through secret tunnels, it was disclosed.

Allied big guns supported tanks in the slugging match with German armor in the vicinity of both the Continental Hotel and the Hotel des Roses. Both sides maintained an almost continual shellfire, harassing the rear areas as well as the battle-front. The measure of our difficulties at Cassino was indicated by the fact that the Indian troops on Hill 202 and Hangman's Hill were still being supplied by air, although they fought their way to these hilltops a week ago.

On the other hand, a British destroyer on Thursday shelled the German strongpoints on the beachhead perimeter.

Allied heavy bombers attacked the rail yards at Rimini and Ancona yesterday while medium bombers struck at the port of Leghorn and rail facilities at Orvieto, Sulmona and Fano, Allied Headquarters announced. Eleven Allied planes failed to return from the day's operations as against the twenty German craft destroyed over the Cassino area.

Argentine Cardinal Sends Appeals to Roosevelt and Churchill

BUENOS AIRES, March 25 (AP).—Luis Cardinal Copello, Primate of Argentina, has sent a message to President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill asking that Rome be spared from destruction.

The Cardinal's secretary said messages had been directed by cable to the "heads of belligerent nations asking that Rome not be converted into a battlefield," but declined to say whether this meant a message had been sent to Adolf Hitler. An acknowledgment of receipt of the message by President Roosevelt had been received, he added.

French Prisoners Liberated

De Gaulle Soldiers Invade Isle off Elba to Free Forty-one

LONDON, March 25 (AP).—A party of General de Gaulle's French soldiers landed on the Island of Pianoso, a few miles southwest of Elba, off the Italian coast, the night of March 18, and liberated forty-one prisoners, the Berlin radio said today.

The broadcast said six boatloads of soldiers, approaching the island at dusk, landed in a remote part of the island, penetrated to the island prison, freed the prisoners and fled with them back to Corsica.

NAZIS BEGIN TO RAZE FAMOUS CASINO AT NICE

MADRID, March 25 — (AP) The Germans have begun the destruction of the famous Casino of Nice known to thousands of American tourists who visited the French Riviera before the war, a Vichy dispatch to the Spanish press said today.

The dispatch said the plan to demolish the large building on the Avenue de la Victoire was announced nearly a year ago but the actual dismantling was delayed until now for various reasons.

VESUVIUS DEATHS INCREASED TO 26

Roofs Collapse Under Ashes. New Signs Of Action Seen

Naples, March 25 (AP)—Roofs collapsing under the weight of dust and ashes from Mount Vesuvius have killed 21 persons, Allied Military Government officials announced today, bringing the total number of deaths in the current eruption to 26.

The crater began hurling off greater smoke and ashes this afternoon, after a 12-hour lull, and Professor Imbro, director of the Royal Italian Observatory on Vesuvius, told AMC officials that he could "only say that Mount Vesuvius is still abnormal."

Declines To Speculate

The lava flows had ceased almost entirely, but Imbro declined to speculate when all danger from the present eruption would end. The eruption has caused damage unofficially estimated at from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Reports to AMG officials told of 12 persons killed in Nocerna, province of Salerno, and nine at Pagani, in the same province. Two children had been killed when an underground cistern, overheated by lava, exploded. Three other persons were killed by falling brimstone at Terzigno, reports to the Naples provincial AMG commissioner, Lieut. Col. James L. Kincaid, said.

Roofs Of 15 Houses Fall

The roofs of 15 houses in the region of San Giuseppe Vesuviano, east of Vesuvius, including the village of Terzigno, fell in under the burden of a four-inch blanket of ashes, a United States army officer said.

Allied authorities were recruiting Italian workers to clear the ashes from roofs and streets, and were rushing in food for live stock as well as inhabitants in the devastated area because fields and pastures were under a thick cover of the ashes and dust. United States army engineers were clearing highways with bulldozers.

Death Toll Rises to 26 In Eruption of Vesuvius

Volcano Starts to Throw Off More Ashes After Lull

NAPLES, March 25 (AP).—Twenty-one persons have been killed by collapse of roofs under the weight of dust and ashes from Mt. Vesuvius, bringing the death toll in the eruption of the volcano to twenty-six, Allied military government officials said today.

Bodies of twelve persons were recovered at Nocerra, Province of Salerno, and nine other persons were reported killed at Pagani, in the same province.

Vesuvius began throwing off a larger volume of smoke and ashes this afternoon after twelve hours of comparative quiet. Near-by residents began brushing the ash off their roofs and large piles of it collected in the streets of villages.

Three persons were killed in the village of Terzigno, on the volcano's eastern slope, last night.

The lava flow from the volcano has almost stopped.

Pistol Toting Means Death In Palestine

Jerusalem, March 25 (AP)—British authorities today reinvoked the death sentence for discharging firearms at persons and throwing or depositing bombs after nine police officials were killed Thursday by explosions which wrecked or damaged police headquarters in Jerusalem, Jaffa, Tel Aviv and Haifa.

Six of the nine police officials killed were British. Several others were wounded. Under the Palestine defense order, death sentences also were reintroduced for carrying firearms, ammunition or bombs, interfering with or damaging transport services or water, electrical or telephone services.

U. S. FORCE PRODS JAP BURMA FLANK

Merrill's Unit Pushes On After Capture Of Shaduzup

New Delhi, March 25 (AP)—The battle for north Burma grew more intensive today as American and Chinese forces which captured Shaduzup bit again into the east flank of Japanese forces now cut off in the Mogaung valley.

Touch-and-go fighting continued in the main Japanese offensive across the border toward Imphal, India, where in the first tank clash the Japanese lost five machines.

Taken By Merrill's Unit

Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's American Marauders won Shaduzup and continued their attack as the Chinese 38th Division rolled steadily into the Mogaung valley. The next objective of both of these forces was probably Kamaing. The prospects of a major battle in the Myitkyina area appeared certain.

Announcement of the latest gains was made in a southeast Asia command communique.

Merrill's force, with the Chinese, took Shaduzup, 45 miles northwest of Mogaung on the Myitkyina-Mandalay railway, by a swift "end-run" maneuver which cut around the Japanese east flank.

Expect To Trap Japs

These forces expected to trap an undetermined number of Japanese being pressed down the Mogaung valley in artillery duels and hand-to-hand fighting by the main Chinese force from Jambu Bum, the dividing line between the Hukawng and Mogaung valleys.

Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's communique announced engagements in progress on both sides of the Tamu-Imphal road, with the Japanese making some progress southeast of Imphal, where their patrols previously were reported 38 miles from that British base. Allied resistance was increasing.

Stiff Fight In Hills

Stiff fighting was reported on the northeastern approach, where some Japanese units made further progress in the Sombra hill tracts near Ukhrul, while one was forced to withdraw.

To the south, where the last reports put the Japanese attackers 30 miles from Imphal, British troops pressed further attacks against Japanese road blocks across the road leading to Tiddim, and one was wiped out. Yesterday's communique reported three of these road blocks eliminated.

Another new development in the campaign was the announcement that two days ago heavy bombers had made their first low-level assault on a section of the "Burma-Siam" railway. This was the first disclosure that the Japanese have linked Burma and Thailand with a rail line.

Sought Supply Route

Previously there had been reports that the Japanese had been working feverishly to build a railroad across Thailand in order to tie South China seaports by an internal route with Burma. This would enable them to supply the Burma front without risking their shipping on the route around Singapore.

A communique from Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters said American and Chinese forces were making slow but steady progress down the Mogaung valley against pockets of resistance. The fighting was described as heavy and fluid. Hand-to-hand combat and sustained artillery fire had been going on for five days.

Allied troops were reported pushing ahead on Myitkyina, southward from captured Sumprabum, with British Commando forces of Gurkha and Kachin levies chasing the Japanese who had fired and abandoned Maihtonghka, 13 miles south of Sumprabum.

Take Hill In Arakan Area

In the Arakan sector above Akyab, the British announced they had taken an important hill position to the north of the Maungdaw-Buthedaung road.

The heavy bomber assaults on the "Burma-Siam" railway, the communique said, destroyed two bridges and a locomotive, probably destroyed five bridges and damaged two more. One train was derailed and another damaged.

RAF fighters yesterday destroyed 25 river craft.

Third Cut In Line Hinted

While the two-pronged Allied offensive pushed southward on Mykitkyina from Sumprabum and the Hukawng valley, it was likely that a third air-borne force had cut Myitkyina's railway communications with Mandalay to the south.

Mountbatten's communique on Thursday mentioned air support for ground forces in the Mawlu and Indaw areas. Both places are on the railway. The air-borne troop operations have been mentioned in the communiques but once, however, since it was announced a week ago that the Allies had established air strips southeast of Myitkyina, 150 miles behind the Japanese lines.

Stilwell Takes Town in Burma

Captures Shaduzup—Japs Meet Increasing Resistance in India Offensive.

New Delhi, March 25 (A. P.)—The Allies in North Burma have captured Shaduzup and cut off the retreat of Japs being pushed southward down the Mogaung Valley, but touch-and-go fighting continues in the main Jap offensive across the border toward Imphal, India, the Southeast Asia Command announced today.

Brig.-Gen. Frank Merrill's all-American Marauders, together with units of the Chinese 38th Division, took Shaduzup, forty-five miles northwest of Mogaung on the Myitkyina-Mandalay railway, by a swift "end run" maneuver which cut around the Jap east flank. These forces expected to trap a number of Japs being pressed down the Mogaung Valley.

Allies Defend News Releases On India Battles

In Reply to Press, They Call Them No More 'Obscure' Than the Fighting Itself

NEW DELHI, India, March 25 (AP).—An editorial in "The Hindustan Times" asserting that Southeast Asia Command communiques have failed to give a progressive picture of the Japanese penetration into India prompted a spokesman to declare today that "the communiques are no more obscure than the military situation itself."

The spokesman emphasized that difficulties were encountered in fighting the enemy because of the almost impenetrable jungle covering the battle region—an area about 180 miles long and eighty miles wide. Authoritative accounts say troops may pass a whole day in cutting 500 yards ahead, fighting the jungle alone.

The Japanese are in stronger force in the Imphal offensive than the estimated 10,500 troops they are reported to have in the smaller Arakan area. They are reported to be carrying eight days' supplies, after which they will either starve or be forced to loot for subsistence, particularly northeast of Imphal, where their numbers in the jungle cannot be estimated.

Tells of Air Supply Job

WITH AMERICAN - CHINESE FORCES IN NORTHERN BURMA, March 18 (Delayed) (AP).—Brigadier General William Old, of Uvalde, Tex., whose twin-engined Douglas cargo planes are supplying Allied troops on all Burma fronts, said today: "We made 3,500 trips to Burma last month with almost everything imaginable in the way of supplies. This month we hope to break that record."

Old's combined American-British supply operation probably is the largest of its kind in the world. Day and night planes are loaded to the limit to bring whatever is needed in the drive against the Japanese. Many pilots make three or four round trips daily.

At first, planes could not land in Burma. They dropped supplies with or without parachutes from altitudes ranging from tree-top level to 2,000 feet, and then returned non-stop to their bases in India. Frequently their errands took them behind the enemy lines, which meant that they were subjected to ground fire as well as all the customary hazards.

Supplies still are dropped from the air at some points, but many planes now land regularly at new airfields built by Americans under the direction of Major Perley Lewis, of Phoenix, Ariz.

The airfields also are being used by hospital planes which remove American and Chinese wounded in less than an hour from Burmese bases to completely equipped hospitals in India.

Rheumatic Donkey A Burma Weather Vane

Washington, March 25 (AP)—A rheumatic donkey, a Burmese pagoda and a merry-go-round with squirt-gun attachments today achieved the honors due them from grateful American flyers.

The donkey came into his own as a result of a critical scarcity of weather-observing equipment at a front-line station, the official service journal, Air Force, recounted today.

Every time it was blowing up to rain, this GI donkey got the miseries and brayed a doleful protest. It didn't take Lieut. Col. F. A. Kleuver long to catch on and he dropped his hunt for the missing anemometers and thermographs.

Pagoda Bags A Zero

The Burmese pagoda knocked down a Jap Zero, with a little help from Capt. Sydney Newcomb. The American officer was hightailing over the jungle with a Zero on his tail when the pagoda loomed up. Newcomb saw it, withheld his zoom to the last split second, and the pagoda and Jap became inextricably intermixed.

The supply of Japanese planes not being what it once was over Guadalcanal, ingenious airmen devised a whirligig model-plane propelling device incorporating a fixed turret from which they get their target practice. Their armament is a formidable appearing water-squirt gun operated by compressed air.

Chinese Express Concern

CHUNGKING, March 25 (AP).—Although Chinese Army circles have discounted any idea that the Japanese penetration of Manipur is a prelude to a large-scale invasion of India, very genuine undercurrents of concern are apparent among the Chinese.

They feel that the Japanese are making a bona-fide bid to sever the only operating lifeline to China, and that it would be a mistake to underestimate the danger.

Widespread uneasiness manifested itself in an immediate slump in the black-market value of the Indian rupee, for which there formerly was a big and insistent demand.

U. S. Destroyers Shell Smal Admiralty Isle

Southwest Pacific Headquarters, Sunday, March 26 (AP)—American destroyers have shelled Pityilu Island in the Admiralties, on the northern fringe of Seadler harbor, which United States soldiers took under their control when they captured Lorengau, on Manus Island, March 18.

A spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported the shelling, apparently in continuation of the efforts of American land and sea forces to reduce all remaining Japanese defenses in the island group.

Restricted By Weather

The Americans now control Los Negros Island and the eastern shore of Manus Island, after their offensive which ended March 18 with the capture of Lorengau.

Bad weather restricted aerial operations around the Bismarck Sea area, but some bombers succeeded in hitting enemy supply points at Rabaul, New Britain; Kavieng, New Ireland, Buka and Kahili on Bougainville island in the Solomons, and at Alexishafen, near Madang, on the northeastern New Guinea coast.

BLAST RABAUL WITH 160 TONS

Allied Planes Also Smash at Wewak Again.

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, March 25 (A. P.).—Air blows reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur pushed above 7,000 tons the weight of bombs plastering targets in the South and Southwest Pacific, as listed in March communiques.

He announced a 160-ton strike made Tuesday and Wednesday against Rabaul, boosting the March reports for that bomb-paralyzed New Britain fortress above 2,500 tons.

Gen. MacArthur also reported a 160-ton bombing by the Fifth Air Force of the Hansa Bay area, on the northeast New Guinea coast midway between Madang and Wewak. March reports have listed 773 tons dropped on that sector.

Fifth Air Force bombers poured forty tons of bombs on barges and installations at Wewak. Gen. MacArthur announced that since a concentrated weight of bombs began hitting Wewak March 11 forty-four Japanese anti-aircraft guns have been destroyed.

Emirau Japs Cut Off.

Advance Allied Headquarters, South Pacific, March 25 (A. P.).—Not until two days after the Marines landed and conquered Emirau Island northwest of New Ireland Monday did the Japanese send a plane out to see what happened, and then it didn't drop a bomb, Admiral William F. Halsey's headquarters said today.

"Our domination of the sea lanes south of Truk leaves this large body of veteran Jap troops (in the Bismarck Archipelago) without means of support and virtual eradication of Japanese air power in this area leaves the enemy open to one continuous, relentless air and sea offensive," Admiral Halsey's spokesman said.

Action on the Allied Empress Augusta beachhead on Bougainville remained quiet, limited mainly to patrol activity. Twenty-nine more Japanese were killed and sixteen abandoned pillboxes outside the Allied lines were taken.

5 U. S. Negroes Convicted In Australia Rape Case

4 Soldiers and Seaman Are Sentenced to Death

TOWNSVILLE, Australia, March 26 (Sunday) (AP).—Five American Negroes have been convicted and sentenced to death by an Army court martial for raping a white American Red Cross woman on the outskirts of this northeastern Australian city a month ago.

Testimony presented was to this effect: the woman, seeking a ride, was picked up by a truck driven by one Negro and carrying the other four. They drove out of town, where the woman was raped by all ve. Later, she reported to authorities. The Negroes were identified and apprehended. The court-martial sentences are subject to review.

Four of the Negroes are American soldiers, the fifth a merchant seaman.

Three British Women Become WAC Officers

Southwest Pacific Allied Headquarters, Sunday, March 26 (AP)—Three women British subjects, all employed by Americans at General MacArthur's headquarters, have been commissioned officers in the American WAC.

They are Beryl Stephenson, secretary to Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney; Elaine Bessemer-Clarke, GHQ receptionist, and Miss L. E. Mowat, a general officer's secretary.

Miss Bessemer-Clarke, daughter of Sir Norman Brooks, is a captain, the other two first lieutenants.

ARMY LIBERATORS RAID WAKE AGAIN

U. S. Flyers Also Strike At Carolines And Marshalls

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, March 25 (AP)—Wake Island was pounded by United States Seventh Air Force Liberators in the second bombing raid this month, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Oil storage tanks and barracks areas were hit. A total of 115 tons of bombs were unloaded in a series of attacks ranging from Wake, through four Marshall Island atolls to Ponape and Ant Island in the Carolines.

Intense Anti-Aircraft Fire

Liberator crews reported they encountered intense anti-aircraft fire over Wake. But Nimitz reported that all planes returned from each of the central Pacific operations.

Ponape, 440 miles from Truk, was hit both Wednesday and Thursday by Seventh Air Force Mitchells which must have flown from the new airfields in the Marshalls. It was the second strike at near-by Ant Island.

Targets in the Marshalls were hit by army Liberators, Mitchells, marine Dauntless dive bombers and Corsair fighters.

WAKE ISLAND HIT BY U. S. FLYERS

MAR 26 1944

Washington, March 25 (A. P.).—American airmen, flying through heavy anti-aircraft fire, bombed Wake Island Thursday, hitting fuel storage tanks and barracks. It was the sixteenth time Wake has been hit from the air since it was captured by the Japs early in the war.

The raid was announced by the Navy today in a Pacific Fleet press statement which told also of bombing attacks against Ponape and Ant islands in the Carolines and four enemy-held atolls in the Marshall Islands.

All of our planes returned safe from the raids in which 115 tons of bombs were hurled at the Jap installations.

Cable Company Fined By Argentina

Buenos Aires, March 25 (A. P.).—The Argentine Post Office Department yesterday ordered the Buenos Aires office of the All-America Cable Company closed for twenty-four hours and imposed a fine of 1,000 pesos for delivering three uncensored cables to the United Press before the agency's facilities for news distribution were shut down by the Government. All-America is a subsidiary of the International Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Another order imposed a 1,000-peso fine on Pan American Airways for transmitting private messages through its radio station at Buenos Aires Airport.

Buenos Aires were that March 8 three cables from Lima, Peru, were mistakenly forwarded by the local office of Allamerica Cables in Buenos Aires to the censorship official in the office of the United Press, to which the messages were addressed, instead of having received the prior approval of the censorship official in the cable office.

"Thus an essential inter-American communications link serving a number of the American republics, including the United States, has been interrupted," the State Department said, "on the ground of an apparently trivial violation of the Argentine censorship regulations."

The statement added, "this action would appear to indicate a complete failure to appreciate the importance to the citizens of the republics concerned, including Argentina as well as their governments of the services performed by these communication facilities."

CUBA AIDS U. S. AT A SACRIFICE

Takes Loss On Gin And Rum To Help Rubber Program

Havana, March 25 (AP)—By diverting large quantities of cane to the manufacture of industrial alcohol, Cuba has come to the aid of the United States rubber program.

This is the outstanding result of the biggest sugar season in years.

It was estimated in the trade that the United States had an immediate shortage of more than 40,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol.

Leads World In Export Sugar

Cuba sacrificed a neat profit from sales of gin and rum to provide enough molasses and alcohol to more than meet the emergency.

Nevertheless, it is estimated that about $335,000,000 will be poured into Cuba this year for its sugar, alcohol, molasses and beverages.

In world sugar affairs, Cuba's voice is heard clearly and with authority. It ships more sugar products than any other nation. In normal times India and Russia produce more, but consume it all.

What Cuba Will Sell U. S.

To give you an idea, here's roughly what Cuba will sell to the United States this season:

Almost 4,000,000 tons of sugar.

About 800,000 tons of processed cane juice for manufacture of alcohol.

A maximum of 20,500,000 gallons of alcohol manufactured here.

About 14,300,000 proof gallons of alcohol for drinking purposes.

Mrs. Roosevelt Made a 'Hopper'

HEADQUARTERS CARIBBEAN DEFENSE COMMAND, March 25 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was initiated into the Super Royal Order of Hyperterrestrial Hoppers by Lieutenant General George H. Brett yesterday as her military transport plane passed over the equator off the Ecuadorean coast. The order is limited to persons who have crossed the equator in a military aircraft.

In a broadcast picked up today by the Associated Press, the Berlin radio said that an SOS had been picked up from the Swedish steamship Halleren reporting that she had been under attack by British bombers in the Adriatic Sea. The ship, Berlin added, was in the service of the International Red Cross.

A Stockholm announcement of March 6, 1942, said that the Halleren had been chartered by the Swedish Red Cross to carry supplies from Turkey to Athens for relief of the Greeks under a safe conduct guaranty from the belligerents.

Danish Editor Shot Fatally

New York, March 25 (AP)—The controlled Danish home radio today said 57-year-old Sigurd Thompson, editor of the Copenhagen newspaper Social Demokraten, died last night of bullet wounds suffered when he was shot in the stomach while on his way home from his office Thursday night.

U. S. Critical Of Argentina's Suspension Of Cable Company

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The State Department charged today that Argentina's action in suspending operations of Allamerica Cables, Inc., in Buenos Aires for 24 hours "would appear to indicate a complete failure" to appreciate the importance of the communication facilities.

The department said that on the ground of "apparently trivial violation of the Argentine censorship regulations" all operations of the company were suspended for the 24-hour period expiring tonight at midnight and a fine of 1,000 pesos imposed on the company.

U. S. WARSHIPS SINK NAZI SUB

Destroyers Battle U-Boat In Mediterranean

Washington, March 25 (AP)—Destruction of a German submarine by American destroyers in a twilight battle lasting more than an hour in the Mediterranean was announced by the navy tonight.

The submarine fought back with its deck guns after the destroyer, which made the first attack, threw its searchlight on the surfaced U-boat.

Put Guns Out Of Action

But the destroyer opened fire with its main batteries and put the submarine's guns out of action. Another destroyer joined in the attack with its guns and depth charges until smoke from the shells began to obscure the target.

"The gunfire was so effective," the navy said, "that the submarine was in dire difficulty and the destroyers abandoned their plan to ram it."

An hour and twenty minutes after the engagement started the submarine went down stern first still held in the beams of the American ship's searchlights. One of the two destroyers credited with the sinking sent nearly 100 rounds of large ammunition into the combat.

Others Join Search

Several aircraft and a third destroyer, the navy said, had joined earlier in the search for the U-boat, and just after it went down, a British warship arrived at the scene.

The commanding officers of the two destroyers credited with the kill were Commander Henry R. Wier, 36, Westwood, Mass., and Commander Russell C. Williams, Jr., 35, Norfolk. The skipper of the third destroyer which aided in the initial search was Commander Hepburn A. Pearce, 36, Holbrook, Mass.

U. S. SHIP SUNK IN EAST

Washington, March 25 (A. P.).—The Navy announced today that a medium-sized United States merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine late in January in the Arabian Sea. All members of the crew were rescued and survivors have been landed at Boston.

2 RAF, 3 WAAF Officers Thought Dead In Crash

Washington, March 25 (AP)—A British Embassy attache announced today that two Royal Air Force wing commanders and three WAAF officers are missing and believed killed, after they failed to complete a Charleston, S. C.-Miami, Fla., airplane flight Friday.

A member of the Embassy staff said that Wing Commander H. G. Gaubert, together with another wing commander and the three WAAF officers took off from Charleston yesterday afternoon.

When they failed to complete the flight, London was officially notified, he said, that they were "missing and believed killed."

The other four occupants of the plane were not further identified.

Gaubert, air attache to Colombia, was holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Hull to Invite Congress Aid On Peace Plan

MAR 26 1944

Will Ask Committees to Help Frame Outline of a World Organization

Parleys Will Begin After Easter Recess

14 Mid-West Republicans in House Ask Hull 'What Are We Fighting For?'

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25.—State Department work on an international peace organization has progressed to such a point that Secretary of State Cordell Hull has asked Congressional committees to be prepared to sit in soon on conferences to draw up a working plan.

Mr. Hull's decision to consult legislators on the structure of the organization, formation of which was pledged at the Moscow conference, was disclosed by Tom Connally, Democrat, of Texas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Senator Connally told a reporter Mr. Hull suggested the appointment of a consulting subcommittee. It will be named after Congress returns from a contemplated Easter recess.

While Senator Connally said he was not advised of details, reports were current that the preliminary plan contemplates formation of an international organization somewhat similar to the League of Nations but with more power to prevent aggression.

What Agreement Provided

The Moscow agreement, signed by representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China, called for establishment "at the earliest practical date" of a general organization "based on the principle of the sovereign equality of all peace-loving states." The agreement promised participation by large and small nations.

There has been some criticism in Congress of the outward failure of the signatory nations to hurry creation of such an organization, and Senator Joseph H. Ball, Republican, of Minnesota, said he was highly encouraged by word that the State Department has made sufficient progress to be ready soon for Congressional consultations on the proposal. Senator Ball said he was informed that preliminary conversations have been held with Great Britain.

Meanwhile, a heated complaint from Secretary Hull that "garbled and inaccurate" accounts were released of his talk with twenty-four Republican Congressmen capped the backfire of what started out as a gesture on both sides toward closer understanding on foreign policy.

Most of the legislators came away from their conference with Mr. Hull yesterday dissatisfied with the results, although reaction varied. Their chief complaint was that he did not tell them in definite terms some of the things they wanted to know.

Hull Authorizes Quotation

What they told reporters Mr. Hull did say in the supposedly confidential conference so annoyed the Secretary, however, that he authorized this direct quotation:

"As is usual when a few people get to talking about an off-the-record discussion, second-hand accounts are garbled and inaccurate in important respects, as in this case."

Representative Alvin E. O'Konski, Republican, of Wisconsin, one of those who participated in yesterday's conference, said the news stories he saw were "very specific and accurate. Actually the Secretary told us very little."

The State Department would not say which points in the reports differed from what Mr. Hull actually said.

The Congressmen, who passed two and one-half hours with Mr. Hull, said they had been told that Britain and Russia are at odds over the Polish border and that both countries' foreign ministers refused at the Moscow conference to discuss Mr. Hull's plans for a defeated Germany.

The Republicans said their aim in seeing Mr. Hull was to find out what progress has been made in implementing the Atlantic Charter, what post-war treatment is in store for Germany and why the American people can't get more details of diplomatic projects.

Hull Says He's Misunderstood

He Complains That Accounts of His Talk With Republicans Were Inaccurate.

Washington, March 25 (A. P.).—Secretary of State Hull complained today that "garbled and inaccurate" accounts were released of his confidential conference with first-term Republican Congressmen yesterday on American foreign policy.

"As is usual when a few people get to talking about an off-the-record discussion, second-hand accounts are garbled and inaccurate in important respects, as in this case," Mr. Hull said.

Twenty-four Republicans spent over two hours with Mr. Hull yesterday discussing American foreign policy, relations with Russia, plans for conquered Germany and the specific problems of Poland and Finland.

Later, it was reported that Mr. Hull told them he had taken to Moscow a plan for the treatment of Germany after her defeat but that Anthony Eden, British Foreign Minister, and Maxim Litvinov, Soviet Foreign Vice-Commissar, were not prepared to discuss them.

Pot Is Boiling.

The administration's foreign policy—or lack of one, as some critics put it—is boiling up as a political issue and there is evidence that Republicans were applying a bellows to the fire under the kettle.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), who heads the Republican Post-war Advisory Committee on Foreign Policy, told a reporter it was becoming increasingly apparent to him that the people of the country are uneasy about future American relations with the rest of the world.

"Whether anybody likes it or not," Senator Vandenberg said, "this is going to be a prime issue in the campaign. People want to know where this Government is heading in its foreign relations and they certainly don't know

Hull Names Delegates To London Conference

Washington, March 25 (AP)—Secretary Hull named a five-member American delegation tonight to attend the conference of Allied ministers of education in London.

The conference will consider restoration of intellectual and educational resources destroyed by the Axis, the State Department announcement said.

Representative Fulbright (D., Ark.) will head the delegation. Fulbright, a former Rhodes scholar, was president of the University of Arkansas before his election to Congress.

Other members of the delegation are Archibald Macleish, Librarian of Congress; John W. Studebaker, of Des Moines, Iowa, United States Commissioner of Education; Grayson N. Keefauver, dean of the school of education at Stanford University and consultant to the Department of State, and Ralph E. Turner, assistant chief of the State Department's division of science, education and art.

Fulbright said the delegates will leave for London in an army bomber next week. They will return to this country about May 10.

VICTORY SEEN FOR GI BILL

Benefits Measure Likely To Pass House This Week

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The American Legion's "GI Bill of Rights," providing broad benefits for millions of veterans of World War II, should be on the President's desk before the House starts its Easter recess March 30, Representative Allen (D., La.), a ranking member of the House Veterans' Legislation Committee, predicted today.

The Senate passed similar legislation yesterday, 49 to 0.

Allen said an executive committee session would be held Monday and he anticipated the measure would be hurried immediately to the House floor for consideration.

Makes Wide Provision

Sponsored by the Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the legislation provides for veterans of this war hospitalization, education and vocational training, loans for homes, farms and businesses, employment service and unemployment benefits.

The cost is estimated at between $3,500,000,000 and $4,000,000,000. Authorization is given for construction of additional hospitalization facilities up to $500,000,000.

Usually legislation must go to the floor through the House Rules Committee. But it can be considered if a two thirds majority of the House votes to suspend the rules for the purpose.

Allen said he had heard no opposition to the bill in the House and expressed the opinion that "it will go right through."

Women's Group To Aid Army's Personnel Unit

Washington, March 25 (AP)—A national organization of women to help the army's personnel division in advising soldiers and their folks at home on such personal problems as where to get financial aid or legal advice was announced today by the War Department.

The Women's Advisory Committee, a volunteer organization, is headed by Mrs. Brehon Somervell, wife of the Commanding General of the Army Services Forces. Its membership includes Mrs. Robert P. Patterson, wife of the Under Secretary of War, Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Chief of Staff, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Mrs. Henry H. Arnold and wives of other high army officers as well as women representing the Red Cross.

No 'Basket' Type Cases Among Wounded Troops

1,194 Men Had Had Amputations, None More Than Two

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—The Army divulged through Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Republican, of Massachusetts, today that 1,194 American soldiers have had arms or legs amputated thus far in the war.

The information was given by Mrs. Rogers to squelch "ugly rumors" about fantastic numbers of amputations and "basket" cases—those with both legs and both arms off—which she said were becoming current.

Brigadier General Fred W. Rankin, chief consultant in surgery, wrote a letter to Representative Rogers which she placed in "The Congressional Record," concerning the rumors and giving the latest figures on the amputations.

The 1,194 patients who had major amputations included sixty-eight who lost two limbs. There was "not a single triple amputation nor was there a single quadruple, or so-called 'basket type' of case," the general said.

China Gets Third Liberty Ship

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—The War Shipping Administration today announced the transfer of another Liberty ship to the government of China, the third to be so allocated. While the Chinese government will manage the vessel and furnish the crew, it will charter the ship to the W. S. A. for operation for the benefit of the United Nations.

ALL IN 1-A GO AT ONCE

Reclassification Order Will Mean Brief Delay for 3-A Group.

WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP) Speeded-up draft machinery pushed men 25 and under closer to Army service tonight, but it meant no lessening of the induction pace for eligibles beyond that age.

Local boards were directed to review younger men first, but draft officials said men over 25 who have any sort of occupational deferments will move right along on the Selective Service assembly line when that deferment expires.

Some to Get Deferments

Some of them undoubtedly will be given new deferments, especially those in agriculture where irreplaceable men are protected by law. But all will be considered anew when their present deferments expire.

Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt today gave government agencies until March 29 to assemble information on the deferment needs of the industries under their jurisdiction to set in motion the call-up of young workers. The requests will be considered by representatives of the War Production board, Army, Navy, Selective Service, Office of Defense Transportation and other claimant agencies for manpower.

Mr. McNutt told the agencies the new program, intends to send to the armed forces "all the able-bodied men in this age group (22 through 25) and to limit deferments only to those who are irreplaceable."

A fight appeared to be brewing over drafting of young coal miners. Informed officials estimated there are at least 40,000 miners under 26, about 25,000 of them in the 22-25 age group, and said Secretary Ickes will take the position that very few can be withdrawn without hampering war production and railroading because of coal shortages.

Should Secretary Ickes insist on deferments for 40,000 young men or even 25,000, it's likely there will be protests from other agencies which believe no men under 26 be deferred except highly-skilled technicians and other key men, the officials said.

"I have confidence that the resourcefulness and ingenuity of American industry will measure up to this new challenge," War Production Board Chairman Donald Nelson said meanwhile in a letter to Representative Fulbright (D-Ark.).

A number of highly essential industries having a high proportion of men in the 18-26 class will be particularly hard hit, Mr. Nelson added, including radio, radar, high octane gas and rubber production units.

Talk of the possibilities of a limited national service act to assure replacements for young men called away from industry was heard around Congress after Mr. Nelson's testimony that such legislation would help the manpower situation. However, some members of the House Military committee who favor a national service act expressed doubt that the committee will approve such a bill on the basis of present evidence.

The fact that Mr. McNutt's new manpower-rationing committee was formed to deal only with the 22-25 group virtually wiped out the chance of youths 18 through 21, who are not farm workers, to keep their occupational deferments. State draft directors have authority to indorse key men 18 to 21, but such indorsements not having the sanction of the new interagency committee are certain to be rare.

Selective Service's new job is to send up an estimated 240,000 men now holding job deferments (2-A, 2-B, 2-C, and 3-C). This must be done if the armed forces are to reach their goal of 11,300,000 by July 1.

Men already in 1-A will not be affected by the new regulations even if over 25 years old. The draft officials explained that the new rules "have nothing at all to do with the order of inductions." Men over 26 who are still in 3-A (mostly prewar fathers) will sit on the sidelines until their draft board completes the review of younger men—probably in 30 days.

Yesterday's order provided immediate physical examinations for men under 26 who have non-agricultural job deferments, and told draft boards they may defer for essential jobs men under 26 who have been found unfit for service (4-F) or fit for limited service only (1-A-L)—that is if they are in essential work.

Officials said the provision will help to protect physically-defective men in war production or war-supporting activities by giving them 2-A or 2-B ratings for example, a 4-F or limited service prospect, even if in a key position, can be called up for reexamination at any time, but if he held a job deferment his employer could appeal.

Under the arrangement, however, a draft board may classify as 2-A or 2-B a worker physically unfit for military service, and thus make him subject to WMC regulations restricting job transfers among men with those ratings.

3 Who "Buzzed" New York Held

New York, March 25 (AP)—Three navy ferry command pilots have been arrested for stunting in Wildcat fighter planes over New York yesterday, flying under East river bridges and "buzzing" Manhattan skyscrapers, Third Naval District headquarters announced today.

The men were identified as Ensign Robert W. Elshire, 20, of Omaha, Neb.; Ensign Donald L. Watrous, 22, of Pueblo, Col., and Ensign Norman D. Satterthwaite, 22, of Tacoma, Wash.

All three have been confined to the limits of the United States Naval Air Facility, Mercer Field, Trenton, N. J., and are awaiting disciplinary action, the navy said.

NBC monitors tonight heard Radio Tokyo tell of the appearance of three American Marauder planes over New York. "The planes were immediately shot down by anti-aircraft fire," the Japanese broadcaster declared.

Ithaca, N. Y., March 25 (A. P.).—Ten Turkish army officers, all graduates of Roberts College at Istanbul, became engineering students today at Cornell University. They were guests at a dinner of welcome last night at which Resat Saribas, Turkish army lieutenant who has been here fourteen months, was host.

BARKLEY HAILS LEADERSHIP

Talk Taken To Mean He Would Back Fourth Term

Charleston, W. Va., March 25 (AP). Alben W. Barkley, Senate majority leader, in a somewhat cryptic statement, which his hearers took to mean he would stand behind President Roosevelt in a fourth-term drive, declared tonight that "it is unnecessary to emphasize the need for continuity of leadership in the war and in the peace that is to follow."

Barkley, whose recent break and reconciliation with President Roosevelt after veto of Congress' tax bill was a political sensation of the year, spoke at a Jefferson dinner sponsored by West Virginia Democrats.

Doesn't Elaborate

Senator Barkley did not elaborate on the point, but his hearers construed the statement as an inferential declaration that should Mr. Roosevelt stand for reelection to a fourth term, Barkley would be found in his camp.

Barkley noted there had been occasional differences of opinion between executive and legislative branches on domestic issues, but "on the whole, the President received the cordial suport of Congress."

He appraised the preparation for war and total mobilization, saying:

"The effort had to be guided by somebody and the Democratic party was in a position of responsibility because the people chose that it should be that way.

Praises Leadership Of F. D. R.

"They made that decision in spite of a tradition that was a century and a half old (third term) and they made it because we were in the shadow of the very conflict that precipitated Pearl Harbor.

"The President has utilized all the forces and elements in this country in mobolizing the great momentum of the American effort and Congress has supported him in that effort to a greater extent than was ever true before."

Barkley, making one of his first public appearances since his dramatic speech on the Senate floor in opposition to Mr. Roosevelt's veto of the tax measure, frequently found occasion to praise the leadership of his chief in reviewing the asserted accomplishments of his party in the past decade.

International Picture

On the international picture, Barkley said that "everybody recognizes that the momentum of the war is all one way."

"There will be temporary reverses and tragic events in various parts of the world before it is over," he continued. "But ultimate victory is certain and it is certain because of the unimpeachable record of those who are responsible for the war effort at home, and the conduct of the war abroad."

Marine Ex-Corporal, 17, Enlists for Naval Duty

Joined Corps at 14, Served Nine Months in Pacific

COLUMBUS, S. C., March 25 (AP).—After serving for nineteen months in the marines, where he believes he "was the youngest corporal in the corps," Earl Edward Griffin, seventeen, of Paxville, S. C., has enlisted in the Navy.

With his mother's consent, Griffin enlisted in the marines in 1941 at the age of fourteen. And after ten months of training at Parris Island he served nine months in the southwest Pacific, until an older brother revealed his age.

"After fighting with the leathernecks I'm anxious to serve in the Navy—the outfit that gets them here," said the youthful veteran.

Griffin said his brother was here at home and when it looked as if he would be called into service "he wanted me back to take care of our mother," who has since died.

"I was recalled from overseas and discharged at Mare Island, Calif.," said Griffin, who left yesterday for the naval training station at Bainbridge, Md.

AIR TRAGEDY IS EXPLAINED

Sailor Defends Gunners Who Shot Down Own Planes

MAR 26 1944

Memphis, Tenn., March 25 (AP)—A wounded Memphis sailor disclosed today he was one of the navy gunners who shot down 23 United States transport planes last July at Gela, Sicily, and he declared: "No one can blame the navy gunners, for we were just a watch tick from death that night."

The sailor, Gordon B. Manley, boatswain's mate, second class, later was wounded at Salerno and now is in a Philadelphia hospital. Manley, declaring "no one seems to explain just what happened" that night, wrote an account of the episode to the Press-Scimitar's Columnist Eldon Roark "in defense of the naval gunners."

Firing All Day

Part of his letter follows:

"We had invaded the night before and our big guns had been hitting them (the enemy) all day knocking out tanks, shore batteries, railroads, railroad guns, troops and trucks. I am speaking now of the warship I was on. I heard later that our big guns alone put over 26 tons of projectiles over that day. So they were apparently out to get our ship.

"We had several air attacks through the day. Some time during the afternoon, 35 German bombers came after us. They got one of our cargo ships about 3 P. M. The burning ship exploded, making a mountain of smoke that spread slowly all over the bay, turning day into night. About 7 P. M. my gunnery officer passed word around telling us that there would be 200 of our transport planes over about 10 P. M.

Then German Planes Came

"About 20 minutes before our planes came over, the German bombers came in. The ship was still burning. Our destroyers had tried to sink it and made things worse as the oil spread all over the water, burning, making it look as if the whole sea were burning; and, as I say, there was a solid blanket of smoke over most of that part of the coast.

"When the Germans came in, guided by the fire, they dropped the sky full of flares until they spotted us. Then, boy, that is where things really began to happen. I knew there must really be a war on then. Anyway, bombs were dropping like hail this time, knocking some of the boys off their feet when they burst.

Then U. S. Planes Arrived

"Right in the middle of all of this our planes came over, the first we knew they were there.

"My eyes were every place at once. I would glance at the water every second or so, watching for E boats, as this is the time they come and do their dirty work. During one of those glances I spied a plane that looked as large as the Columbia tower (in Memphis) about 30 feet above the water headed right into the side of our ship. All of us that saw it opened up on it. When we shot him down he was less than 100 feet from the ship.

"There were no paratroops on that one and all of the crew of 10 were saved. Our boats picked up many of the troops that bailed out.

"Now, Eldon, I think I know as much about what happened that night as anyone there as I really had a ringside seat, and that is just exactly how the whole thing happened. No one can blame the navy gunners, for we were just a watch tick from death that night, and were shooting to live to shoot another day.

"Boy I am on a Quad A. A. gun. We were shooting so fast that night that there were rings of fire coming out of the barrels.

It Was The Smoke

"I made it my business when I got back to Africa to talk to some of the pilots and I talked to several of them. They all seemed to agree that it was the smoke. Some said they had seen the fire from the burning ship and thought it was that famous fire on the side of the hill at Gela. All of them thought the smoke was a large cloud bank. Most of them went around it. They are the ones who lived to fly another day.

"I also talked with quite a few of the paratroops that went over that night, but, fellow, I sure can't write here what they said about it. In fact, I did not let them know I was there. They put a few questions at me. I told them I was on shore duty at Algiers. They did not blame the navy; they blamed the ones that sent them over us."

5 SENTENCED AS NAZI SPIES

Terms Ranging From 5 To 20 Years Given In Detroit

Detroit, March 25 (AP)—Three women and two men who confessed they conspired to violate the Wartime Espionage Act were sentenced in United States District Court today to prison terms ranging from five to 20 years.

Grace Buchanan-Dineen, 34-year-old Canadian-born cosmopolie described by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as leader of a group that sought to furnish Nazi Germany with information concerning America's industrial war effort, was sentenced to 12 years imprisonment.

Others sentenced: Mrs. Theresa Behrens, 20 years; Mrs. Emma Elise Leonhardt, five years; her husband, Carl J. W. Leonhardt, and Walter J. Abt, 10 years each.

Fainted On Hearing Sentence

Mrs. Behrens, who engaged in a long argument with Judge Edward J. Moinet, fainted as he pronounced her sentence.

Judge Moinet declared Mrs. Behrens "the heart and soul of the espionage conspiracy in Detroit."

"The record of the court shows," he told her, "that you promoted the conspiracy to a great extent. Fortunately, there is no evidence that information as to our defense plants or troop or ship movements did reach the enemy. Yet the record shows that overt acts were committed to this end. . . . The court is of the opinion that you were one of the most prominent members of this conspiracy."

Still To Be Sentenced

Yet to be sentenced is Mrs. Marianne von Moltke, wife of a suspended German-language instructor at Wayne University, Detroit. According to the District Attorney's office she has volunteered additional information and an investigation is still underway.

Of the two members indicted by the grand jury here last autumn, Dr. Frederick William Thomas, Detroit obstetrician, was convicted and was sentenced a fortnight ago to 16 years' imprisonment. Charges against Bertrand Stuart Hoffman, former merchant seaman, were dismissed on the ground that he was mentally incompetent. He subsequently was declared sane by a Probate Court sanity commission and has been released from custody.

Could Have Been Executed

Under the Wartime Espionage Act each of the defendants could have been sentenced to death. In arguing with Judge Moinet before he sentenced her Mrs. Behrens maintained that when she pleaded guilty she had not admitted spying activities. She said she had merely admitted knowing the others arrested with her.

Mrs. Behrens was German-American secretary of the international center of the Y. W. C. A. in Detroit.

According to the FBI, Miss Buchanan-Dineen cooperated with Federal agents after her activities were discovered. She was a Government witness before the grand jury.

WILLKIE DEPICTS G.O.P. AS REFUGE FROM NEW DEAL

MAR 26 1944

WAUKESHA, Wis., March 25—(AP) Wendell L. Willkie tonight depicted the Republican party as a political resting place next fall for "millions of tired New Dealers," providing the G.O.P. pursues "the right course."

"The right course," he said, "would be neither the paternalistic, regimented society of the present administration nor the other extreme of narrow nationalism and economic toryism. Rather, it would embrace encouragement of individual initiative, economic liberalism and broad international cooperation to maintain peace once it comes."

The American people, he asserted, are "magnificently organized and fairly well united in war but they are afraid of the peace," of what will happen after the war, having "lost their self-confidence after living so long under a paternalistic government which adopted a policy of solving their problems for them through detailed regulations, mulitiple directives and deficit spending," instead of helping them find their own solutions.

Willkie said "there are literally millions of tired New Dealers in the United States and the Republican party can have them for the asking if it pursues the right policies."

Willkie, campaigning for 24 Wisconsin delegates to support him for the Republican presidential nomination, in 30 speeches in eight days in 16 cities frequently has asked for support of independent voters and dissident Democrats.

Another favorite theme he dwelt on again tonight, presumably aimed at his undeclared opponent for the nomination, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, was the policy of silence on the part of the Republican party and its leadership. This assumes, Willkie said, that the party would attract to it all kinds of diverse thinking.

But if the party were successful under those conditions — avoiding discussion of issue, keeping its platform general—it would "fly into a thousand pieces as soon as it took office," he declared, because the self-centered, subservient, divergent groups would begin to disagree and party strength quickly would be dissipated.

On the other hand, he said, if the Republican party went in with a positive program it would draw all those forces strongly behind it, would become cohesive and would convert people, the party and the party organization to adopting that viewpoint.

Talks on Farm Problems

Earlier Willkie talked over great farm problems in simple farmer's language at a little movie theater in Evansville.

Then he roamed through this small town like a neighbor, with a crowd of townsfolk at his heels to look in on an annual community auction of farm machinery and livestock.

Many times in his Wisconsin campaign which began last Saturday he has described himself as a farm boy "from the mud flats of Indiana," and he appeared to be having a great time.

In his address at the theater, Willkie said that he favored neither the "complete regimentation of the farmer practiced by the present administration," nor the "abandonment of the farmer wholly to the law of supply and demand."

"Everything in my political philosophy is against regimentation," he said, "but we can't turn to the other extreme because of the danger after the war of farm prices spiraling downward."

Willkie proposed a course between the extremes based on:

Loans by the government to protect against the downward spiral: permitting farmers to enter cooperative market agreements; having the Federal government do everything it can to stimulate markets for farmers; encouraging free individual enterprise; maintaining a high wage level; Federal laboratory development of new uses for farm products such as in synthetic rubber; development of more nutritive human foods; international agreement for peace to stimulate world trade.

"I don't think that is in agreement with Mr. Roosevelt," he said, "but if Mr. Roosevelt wants to agree with me, it is perfectly all right with me."

"THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT", SAID THE ECONOMIST, " HAS BEEN QUICK TO DENY THAT THE PRINCIPLE OF SUCH RESTRICTIONS IS BEING ABANDONED . THAT APPARENTLY IS MORE THAN COULD BE TOLERATED BY A CONGRESS THAT IS ASTONISHINGLY QUICK TO BELIEVE THE WORST OF ITS ALLIES."

MOSCOW MARCH 25-(AP)-THE RUSSIAN "POPULATED PLACES", SO OFTEN MENTIONED IN SOVIET COMMUNIQUES, ARE THE BLOOD-CELLS OF RUSSIA -- . THE THOUSANDS OF COMMUNITIES STRUNG OUT OVER THIS VAST COUNTRY.

(GILMORE)

"NASELIONY PUNKI" IS WHAT THEY ARE CALLED IN RUSSIAN.

IF YOU WANT TO GET DOWN TO FINE DISTINCTIONS, POPULATED PLACES INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING:

MAR 26 1944

1/ "SELO", MEANING A BIG VILLAGE WITH A CHURCH. THE POPULATION CAN BE AS HIGH AS 5,000.

2. "DEREVNIA" , MEANING A LITTLE VILLAGE, USUALLY WITHOUT A CHURCH AND NUMBERING UP TO 1,000 PERSONS.

3. SETTLEMENTS BUILT AROUND RAILWAY STOPS OR AROUND FACTORY OR GRAIN STORAGE OR TRACTOR REPAIR STATIONS.

IT TAKES AIRPLANE FLIGHTS TO BRING HOME TO ONE HOW MANY POPULATED PLACES RUSSIA HAS. I HAVE FLOWN OVER THEM FOR HOURS ON END, FROM THE FAR NORTH TO THE CASPIAN SEA AND FROM MOSCOW TO THE PACIFIC.

YOU OFTEN WONDER WHAT MAKES PEOPLE SETTLE DOWN IN THEM WHEN THERE SOMETIMES SEEMS TO BE NOTHING AROUND TO ATTRACT HUMANS.

THE RUSSIANS ARE A GREGARIOUS PEOPLE. THEY DONOT LIKE TO BE ALONE. THIS WAS BROUGHT ABOUT IN ANCIENT DAYS WHEN THEY WERE RAIDED FROM THE NORTH BY THE VARIAGS, FROM THE EAST BY THE MONGOLS AND FROM THE SOUTH BY THE TURKS. THE GREAT STEPPES AND THE ALMOST INPENETRABLE FORESTS FULL OF HUNGRY WOLVES WERE STILL MORE REASON FOR MAN TO LIVE NEAR HIS FELLOW MAN.

THUS, THERE ARE THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS OF ANCIENT LITTLE PLACES IN THE VASTNESS OF RUSSIA, ALL CONTRIBUTING TO IN ONE WAY OR ANOTHER THE GROWING SOVIET STATE.

OFTEN THEY DON'T SHOW UP ON THE MAPS, BU T THE PEOPLE WHO RUN THIS NATION WILL TELL YOU THAT THEIR BIG CITIES WOULD NOT EXIST WITHOUT THOSE LITTLE POPULATED PLACES. KK456AEW

CASSINO LEGEND HAS IT THAT THE CONTINENTAL HOTEL AND CASTLE HILL ARE CENTERS OF TUNNEL SYSTEMS SAID TO HAVE BEEN BUILT THROUGH THE HILLS AND UNDER THE TOWN IN A 16TH CENTURY SEARCH FOR BURIED TREASURE. IT IS BELIEVED THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN USING THIS TUNNEL SYSTEM TO GOOD EFFECT IN THE BATTLE FOR CASSINO, WHICH NOW HAS BEEN UNDER WAY NEARLY THREE MONTHS.

ALLIED HEAVY GUNS HAVE BEEN SEARCHING OUT FORMING UP POINTS BEING USED BY THE GERMANS IN THEIR DEFENSE, INCLUDING THE COLOSSEUM AND NEARBY AMPHITHEATER JUST AT THE BASE OF THE DUKE'S CASTLE, ALSO KNOWN AS THE BARON'S CASTLE, ACROSS THE HIGHWAY FROM THEM.

AIR OPERATIONS YESTERDAY INCLUDED THE BOMBING OF THE YUGOSLAV HARBORS OF SIBENIK AND SPLIT BY A SMALL FORMATION OF FORTRESSES. XX

BY LYNN HEINZERLING

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, MARCH 25-(AP)-VERY FEW HOTELS IN THE WORLD HAVE ENDURED THE VIOLENT DAYS AND NIGHTS WHICH HAVE FALLEN UPON CASSINO'S CONTINENTAL HOTEL, WHICH NOW HAS THREE FRESH GERMAN TANKS IN ITS LOBBY AND A NEW CONTINGENT OF SNIPERS IN ITS WINDOWS OVERLOOKIN HIGHWAY SIX AND THE FORBIDDING SIDES OF MONASTERY HILL.

MAR 26 1944

THE HOTEL PROBABLY HAS THE WORST COMMERCIAL SITUATION IMAGINABLE --ON THE HIGH ROAD TO ROME BETWEEN THE GERMAN AND ALLIED ARMIES. ONLY ITS STURDY, STONE CONSTRUCTION AND THE FACT THAT IT IS SOMEWHAT PROTECTED IN THE LEE OF MONASTERY HILL HAS SAVED IT FROM BEING REDUCED LIKE MOST OTHER BUILDINGS IN CASSINO TO DUST AND RUBBLE.

SOMEHOW THE HUNDREDS OF BOMBS DROPPED ON CASSINO MARCH 15 LEFT FOUR WALLS OF THE CONTINENTAL STILL STANDING ALTHOUGH THEY SHOWED THE EFFECTS OF A GREAT CONCENTRATION OF EXPLOSIVES. THE BUILDING DID NOT BECOME IMPORTANT UNTIL SEVERAL DAYS AFTER THE NEW ZEALANDERS LAUNCHED AN ATTACK. THEN THE GERMANS OPENED UP SUDDENLY THROUGH THE FRONT WINDOWS OF THE LOBBY WITH THE HEAVY GUNS OF TWO TANKS WHICH HAD BEEN RUN INSIDE.

SNIPERS DRIFTED BEFORE ITS WINDOWS BRIEFLY TO FIRE ON THE NEW ZEALANDERS WITH DEVASTATING EFFECT. ONE SNIPER, EITHER IN THE HOTEL OR THE IMMEDIATE VICINITY, WAS REPORTED BY THE NEW ZEALANDERS TO HAVE HIT 30 MEN.

AT CASSINO FOR THE BOMARDMENT AND THE FIGHTING WHICH FOLLOWED, I SAW THE HOTEL BECOME DREADFULLY IMPORTANT. IT WAS THE CENTER OF A FORTRESS-LIKE AREA WHICH STOOD ATHWART HIGHWAY SIX AT A POINT WHERE IT COMES UP TO THE BOTTOM OF MONASTERY HILL FROM THE EAST THEN TURNS SHARPLY SOUTH TO SWING AROUND THE HILL.

IT IS EXTREMELY IMPORTANT BECAUSE IN ITS SOMEWHAT WITHDRAW POSITION IT PERMITS THE GERMANS TO SWEEP THE ENTIRE ROAD ANGLE WITH

THEIR GUNS.

THE ONLY OTHER POSITION IN THE IMMEDIATE AREA OF THE TOWN THAT IS IN A COMPARABLE POSITION IS CASTLE HILL WHICH ACTUALLY IS A PART OF THE TOWN ALTHOUGH THE CASTLE ON ITS CREST SEEMS TO BE ISOLATED SOME 600 FEET ABOVE THE MAIN PART OF CASSINO. THE HILL DOMINATES ALMOST EVERY PART OF THE COMMUNITY AND IT IS IN ALLIED HANDS.

MAR 26 1944

THE FIGHTING FOR THE HOTEL NEVER REACHED THE STAGE WHERE THE GERMAI AND NEW ZEALANDERS WERE IN THE BUILDING TOGETHER. WHILE GERMAN TANK: WERE STILL IN THE LOBBY NEW ZEALAND TANKS DID MANAGE TO PUSH WITHIN 30 YARDS OF THE HOTEL. THE TWO ENEMY TANKS WERE EVENTUALLY PUT OUT OF BUSINESS AND THE NEW ZEALANDERS SAID THE GERMANS RAISED A WHITE FLAG. A FAIRLY LARGE NUMBER FROM THE HOTEL VICINITY THEN SURRENDERE AND LATER THAT NIGHT MARCHED DOWN HIGHWAY SIX INTO ALLIED LINES.

BUT THE NEW ZEALANDERS DID NOT HOLD THE UPPER HAND FOR LONG AND THE GERMANS WORKED THEIR WAY BACK INTO THE BUILDING AND, AS NOW DISCLOSED, MOVED THREE MORE TANKS INTO THE LOBBY TO REPLACE THE TWO DESTROYED.

THE CONTINENTAL NO LONGER LOOKS MUCH LIKE A HOTEL. ITS WALLS ARE BATTERED AND TORN BY SHELLFIRE AND, AS THE NEW ZEALANDERS SAY, THE HOSTELRY HAS "HAD IT."

THE GERMANS BACK UP THEIR DEFENSE OF THE HOTEL FROM CAVES IN THE SIDE OF MONASTERY HILL AND BURIED DUGOUTS ALL ALONG HIGHWAY SIX AS IT RUNS OUT OF TOWN.

WELL ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF THE TOWN THEY ARE DUG INTO THE COLISEUM AND AMPHITHEATER ON THE WEST SIDE OF THE ROAD AND THE DUKE'S PALACE ON THE EAST SIDE. WHILE THESE BUILDINGS HAVE BEEN SUBJECTED TO HEAV GUNFIRE THEY ARE STILL IN USE AND ARE STILL FORMIDABLE BARRIERS ALON THE ROAD TO ROME.

CAIRO, MARCH 25-(AP)-THE GERMANS HAVE CARRIED OUT THOUSANDS OF ARRESTS AND DEPORTATIONS IN BELGRADE, FOLLOWING AN ATTACK BY GEN. DRAJA MIHAILOVIC'S CHETNIK FORCES "AT THE VERY GATES" OF THE CITY, A COMMUNIQUE FROM THE YUGOSLAV ROYAL GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE ANNOUNCED TODAY.

ASSERTING THAT RESISTANCE AGAINST THE GERMANS AND PRO-NAZIS IN TERRITORY OCCUPIED BY MIHAILOVIC'S FORCES HAS BEEN INTENSIFIED DURING THE PAST FEW WEEKS, THE BULLETIN ADDED THE GERMANS HAD SENT A FORCE OF 7,000 MEN AGAINST MIHAILOVIC'S FORCES SOUTH OF BELGRADE.

IT SAID THE BITTER FIGHTING IN THIS SECTOR BEGAN WITH AN ATTACK HEADED BY THE KING'S MOUNTAIN GUARD BATTALION ON ENEMY TROOPS CONCENTRATED IN BELGRADE'S SUBURBS, AND THAT THERE HAVE BEEN CONTINUOUS CLASHES THROUGHOUT SERBIA AND MONTENEGRO BETWEEN MIHAILOVIC UNITS AND "ENEMY ASSAULT DETACHMENTS."

Second Red Army Poised on Dniester for Smash Into Bucovina.

MAR 26 1944

LONDON, Monday, March 26—(AP) The Red army yesterday reached the Prut river frontier of Rumania, where Adolf Hitler confidently launched his 1941 invasion of southern Russia, after a historic 800-mile march from Stalingrad across the Russian steppes where hundreds of thousands of Germans perished, and dispatches early today said Soviet artillerymen already were shelling Rumanian soil.

The battle for the Balkans had begun.

Premier-Marshal Stalin in an order of the day announced the Red army conquest of part of "our state frontier" in the shadow of the Carpathian mountains, and last night Moscow vibrated with the roar of 24 salvos from 324 guns in celebration.

Konev Leads Victory Drive

To Marshal Ivan S. Konev and his Second Ukraine army fell the coveted honor of being the first troops to fulfill Stalin's order, and the oath of every Red army man—"Rid Russia of the German invader."

Konev's troops emerged onto the bank of the cataract-ridden Prut on a 53-mile front exactly a week after they had forced the Dniester river, 60 miles to the east. They had cut off one German escape route from lower Russia, and now were declared threatening to slash the major flight corridor for Field Marshal Gen. Fritz Erich von Mannstein's battered forces.

Thousands of Rumanians were reported streaming into the interior of the country. (The BBC quoted a German home broadcast as saying that 100,000 German civilians of the "eastern territories" had returned to Germany "of their own free will, preferring to engage in war work inside Germany." The BBC broadcast was recorded by NBC.)

Captured German officers were described as demoralized. A Pravda dispatch said one group of officers and men surrendered to a Russian tank commander, saying: "Germany has lost the war, but we want to live."

Battle In Tarnopol Streets

In old Poland other Russian forces had surrounded Tarnopol, and early today were wiping up its garrison, capturing street after street, said a midnight Moscow communique. The bastion already had been by-passed by other units.

Kamenets Podolsk, in the southwestern corner of the Ukraine near the Dniester river, also was declared encircled, with the Red army fighting in its streets against a garrison trying to keep open an escape path for German troops from Proskurov.

Germans Tell Of New Drive

German broadcasts also told of a new Russian offensive by 100,000 troops in the Mogilev sector of White Russia.

The First Ukraine Army under Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov swept through more than 100 villages yesterday, Moscow said. Zhukov's troops also command a 50-mile-wide invasion bridgehead on the middle Dniester just across from Czernowitz, capital of Bucovina, a former north Rumanian province.

In Bessarabia many German and Rumanian troops, unable to escape across the Prut, were annihilated, the bulletin said, and hundreds taken prisoner.

Take Bessarabian Towns

Besides reaching the river, the Russians also captured the Bessarabian towns of Byeltsi, Faleshti, Glodyany and Bolotina. The latter is 28 miles west of Byeltsi near the Prut, and Glodyany is 15 miles west of Byeltsi, while Faleshti is only 28 miles northeast of Jassy, rail junction on the line leading down to Odessa.

20 Miles From Jassy

Balti (Byeltsi), Bessarabian rail city, was captured by the Soviet troops surging toward the Carpathians in the west and toward the Danube estuary in the south, Stalin announced.

That victory closed one German escape avenue from lower Russia, and the Russians were reported within twenty miles of Jassy (Iasi), through which runs the main Nazi escape railway from Odessa.

Moscow dispatches said that on the basis of Russian announcements the Germans and their Balkan satellites had suffered approximately 13,000,000 casualties, dead, wounded and disabled, since they attacked Russia, June 22, 1941, nearly three years ago.

Attainment of the Prut, which the Germans and Rumanians crossed a day after the start of the war against Russia, was expected to cause profound repercussions, military and diplomatic, and economic, throughout Rumania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

Five miles across the Prut lies a rail network connecting with the vital Bucharest - Cernauti - Lwow railway, Hitler's last north-south communications artery east of the Carpathians. The Russians wheeling southward toward the gap between the mountains and the Black Sea were reported within 200 miles of the Ploesti oil regions and 230 miles from Bucharest, Rumanian capital.

Stalin's order of the day, addressed to Marshal Ivan S. Konev, commander of the 2d Ukraine Army, said in part:

"Troops of the 2d Ukrainian Front, continuing their resolute offensive, several days ago forced the River Dniester along a sector 175 kilometers, (108.7 miles) long, and having captured the town and important railway junction of Balti, and developing their offensive, have reached our state frontier, the River Prut, on a front 85 kilometers (52.8 miles) long."

The power of the troops led by the ex-lumberjack Marshal Konev, was revealed in Stalin's citation of five Soviet generals commanding the mud-slogging infantrymen, three tank commanders, including Marshal Pavel A. Rotmistrov, and the commanders of various air, artillery and sapper groups.

The Russians now hold nearly a third of Bessarabia, between the Dniester and Prut Rivers. The territory was held by Rumania after the World War until its cession to Russia in 1940.

A Russian crossing of the Prut was expected soon, since the river is narrower than the spanned Dniester.

"Red Star," army newspaper, anticipating the newest advance to the Prut, commented: "For the Red Army there are no boundaries: her boundaries are victory, Berlin and a straitjacket for the mad German Valkyrie."

Besides seizing Balti the Russians also announced the capture of the district centers of Faleshti, only twenty-eight miles northeast of Jassy; Bolotina, twenty-eight miles west of Balti near the Prut, and Glinzhany, twelve miles southwest of Balti and only seventeen miles north of the Odessa-Tiraspol-Jassy railroad.

Jassy, menaced by the onrushing Soviet troops, recently was reported to be Nazi headquarters in Rumania, and captured Balti is one of Bessarabia's most important industrial towns.

Turkish advices said the Germans were speeding heavy armored reinforcements through Hungary and Rumania in an effort to halt the Soviet threat of a break-through into the Danube gap between Focsani and the Black Sea.

In the Tarnopol area of old Poland the Russians swept around that besieged city to take Kozlov, ten miles west of Tarnopol.

The seizure of Kozlov put the Russians within eighteen miles of the Cernauti-Lwow railway and sixty-five miles southeast of Lwow, big German communications center for the Balkans. This is the same trunk line already menaced by Soviet troops farther south in the Buchach area and along the Dniester opposite Cernauti.

To the east Soviet units driving the defeated Germans down toward encircled Kamenets Podolsk along the highway and railway from Proskurov captured Mikhalpol, fifteen miles southeast of Proskurov. They also took Savintsy, astride the Nazi escape routes, thirty-eight miles northeast of Kamenets Podolsk, and other vilages in an action that narrowed the Nazi retreat zone above the Dniester to about 1,800 square miles.

Although Moscow did not mention Nikolaev, Black Sea port where the Russians now are fighting in the outskirts, the Vichy radio quoted a Berlin military spokesman as saying, "German troops at Nikolaev are falling back on Odessa," seventy-five miles to the southwest. "Stiff German resistance on the lower Bug facilitates the withdrawal," the broadcast continued. "German forces intend to make a stand here until troops from the Nikolaev area have completed their disengagement."

60,000 Square Miles to Go

LONDON, March 27, (Monday) (AP).—The Red Army now has recovered all but about 60,000 square miles of pre-1939 Russian territory which the Germans once held. Including Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and parts of Poland and Rumania which the Russians now claim as their own, the Soviet troops still have about 200,000 square miles of territory to reconquer.

Joyous Crowds Hail Victory in Moscow Streets

Mightiest Salvo of Year Is Fired in Tribute to Red Army, at the Prut

GILMORE NIGHT

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 26.—Twenty-four salvos from 324 guns roared into the cold, snow-swept sky over Moscow tonight in celebration of the Red Army's drive to the Prut River border of Rumania. The Moscow radio gave the news of Marshal Ivan Konev's new advance through northern Bessarabia to the people a few minutes ago and thousands of jubilant Moscovites are in the streets. Green, white, red and purple rockets burst above the city.

The salute to the victory was the largest Premier Marshal Josef V. Stalin has ordered this winter.

Konev, commander of the 2d Ukraine Army and one of Premier Stalin's personal favorites, won the distinction of being the first leader of troops to reach the frontier.

His fifty-three-mile front on the Prut looking into Rumania gave him a strong place from which to launch an invasion with captured Balti (Byeltsi), Bessarabian communications center, behind him.

Shortly before 9 o'clock an announcer on the radio told of the capture of Balti, and with a rising voice which finally was vibrating through the streets of every Soviet city, in factories, army camps and aboard Soviet ships, declared that the Russians had reached the border from which Adolf Hitler launched his ill-fated invasion.

CAMPAIGN SLOW IN ITALY

U. S. Air Force in Britain Now Outnumbers R.A.F., Churchill Reveals.

LONG NIGHT

LONDON, March 26.—(AP) Confidently predicting certain and total Allied victory over the Axis, Prime Minister Winston Churchill tonight declared, "The guts of the German army have been largely worn out by Russian valor and generalship," while Britain and America may win sooner than had been expected over the Japanese, who are "showing signs of great weakness."

In a 47-minute radio address which he likened to a Mosquito plane reconnaissance of the world at war, Mr. Churchill made these major points:

The Russian advance from Stalingrad—"a distance of 900 miles accomplished in a single year — constitutes the greatest cause of Hitler's undoing;"

U. S. Air Force Largest

The American Air Force in Britain alone now is greater than the vastly enlarged R.A.F., and either force by itself is almost as numerous and much more powerful than the entire German air force, being able to send 1,000 bombers against Germany every time the enemy sends 100 against Britain;

The U-boat menace is the greatest danger the Allies have overcome;

The Italian campaign has gone slower than hoped, but it will be won, and meanwhile 25 German divisions and a large German air force are being held in Italy when they are needed elsewhere;

Attrition of Japanese shipping and air forces is obvious and the Japanese indicate weakness;

There still will be an interval between the collapse of Hitler and the downfall of Japan, but not so long as he believed a year ago;

The Allies have attained individual fighting superiority over the Japanese in the Burma jungles, and a powerful British battle fleet is in the Indian ocean to catch the Japanese navy if it declines to fight the Americans and turns westward;

Battle Rages in Burma

The hard fighting in Burma "is not by any means decided yet," but in every combat Japanese dead outnumbered Allied casualties three or four to one;

Results in the Aegean and Eastern Mediterranean have been disappointing but are outweighed by the panicky plight of the Axis satellites and the activities of the Yugoslav and Greek guerrillas;

The British isles may be the object of "new forms of attack from the enemy," but "Britain can take it."

Victory is sure, but only "a rash man" would prophesy when or how.

The address to America, Britain and the empire was Mr. Churchill's first such broadcast since March 21, 1943.

Discusses Domestic Problem

In its later sections he dwelt at some length on domestic British post-war problems such as housing, education, and health, but returned to the war in concluding that "When the signal is given, the whole circle of avenging nations will hurl themselves upon the foe and batter the life out of the cruelest tyranny which has ever sought to bar the progress of mankind."

Just back from a rigorous field inspection of the American army in Britain, Mr. Churchill made only guarded references to the projected invasion of western Europe.

After noting the large German forces tied up in Italy "while other even more important events which might require their presence are impending elsewhere," he warned that the Allies' "hour of greatest effort is coming" and frankly stated that "to deceive and baffle the enemy there will be many false alarms, feints and dress rehearsals."

Of the British and American war effort he said, "It would be quite natural if our Soviet friends and Allies did not appreciate the complications and difficulties which attend all sea crossing amphibious is the word—operation on a large scale."

The Russians are a land people, he noted, and their tasks and those of the Americans and British are different, but in a strongly-worded tribute to the Russians he declared:

"Since I spoke to you last, not only have the Hun invaders been driven from land they had ravaged, but the guts of the German army have been largely torn out by Russian valor and generalship."

Reviewing the African and Mediterranean campaigns, Mr. Churchill said much still remained to be done in the Balkans and in the eastern Mediterranean.

Progress Is Continual

"There is no doubt," he stated, "that good news has outweighed the bad and that the progress of the United Nations towards their goal has been solid, continual and is growing quicker."

Disavowing any intention of making "some extraordinary pronouncement" or of telling "exactly how all the problems of mankind in war and in peace are going to be solved," Mr. Churchill said his purpose was to "talk with you about how we are getting on and to thank you for all the kindness with which you have treated me in spite of my many shortcomings."

It is possible that the war in the Pacific will progress more rapidly than had been expected, Mr. Churchill said, and the Japanese are showing signs of gravely weakening.

He praised American victories in the Pacific and said, "We have accepted their leadership in the Pacific."

In Burma, he said, there is "hard fighting which is not by any means decided yet."

He promised a report to Parliament later on the Burma-India situation.

Of the global war he asserted optimistically:

"The long and terrible march which the rescuing powers are making is being accomplished stage by stage, and we can now say not only with hope but with reason that we shall reach the end of our journey in good order and that the tragedy which threatened the whole world and might have put out all its lights and left our children and descendants in darkness and bondage, perhaps for a century—that tragedy will not come to pass."

CHURCHILL SAYS FEINTS AND FALSE ALARMS WILL PRECEDE REAL INVASION

Predicts Victory But Warns 'Hour Of Greatest Effort Is Coming'; Reveals Mighty British Fleet Awaits Japs In Indian Waters

MAR 27 1944 NIGHT

London, March 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill warned second-front-conscious listeners throughout the world tonight that the Allies' "hour of greatest effort is coming" and frankly stated that "to deceive and baffle the enemy there will be many false alarms, feints and dress rehearsals."

Turning to the war in the Far East, the Prime Minister, in a 47-minute radio address in which he reiterated his confidence of a total Allied victory, disclosed that a mighty British fleet is waiting in Indian waters to catch the Japanese navy in the event it declines to fight the Americans and turns westward.

The speech—Churchill likened it to a Mosquito-plane reconnaissance of the world at war—made these other major points:

"The guts of the German army have been largely torn out by Russian valor and generalship," while Britain and America may win sooner than had been expected over the Japanese, who are "showing signs of great weakness."

Cause Of Hitler's Undoing

The Russian advance from Stalingrad—"a distance of 900 miles accomplished in a single year—constitutes the greatest cause of Hitler's undoing."

The American air force in Britain alone now is greater than the vastly enlarged RAF, and either force by itself is almost as numerous and much more powerful than the entire German air force.

The U-boat menace is the greatest danger the Allies have overcome.

The Italian campaign has gone slower than hoped, but it will be won and, meanwhile, 25 German divisions and a large German air force are being held in Italy when they are needed elsewhere.

There still will be an interval between the collapse of Hitler and the downfall of Japan, but not so long as he believed a year ago.

Allies Superior In Burma

The Allies have attained individual fighting superiority over the Japanese in the Burma jungles, but hard fighting there "is not by any means decided yet."

The British Isles may be the object of "new forms of attack from the enemy," but "Britain can take it."

Victory is sure, but only "a rash man" would prophesy when or how.

"When the signal is given the whole circle of avenging nations will hurl themselves upon the foe and batter the life out of the cruelest tyranny which has ever sought to bar the progress of mankind."

NAZIS SEE 'APPEASEMENT'

Say Churchill Speech Was Meant to Placate British

NDGMT

LONDON, March 26 (AP)—A German radio commentator declared Prime Minister Churchill's address was one of "appeasement for the British public" in comment broadcast shortly after Mr. Churchill went off the air tonight.

A DNB program recorded by The Associated Press gave liberal excerpts, and then the commentator said Mr. Churchill had ignored the invasion—"which some correspondents said was to be the principal reason for the address."

"This speech is interpreted as belonging to the chapter headed 'Appeasement for Own Public,'" the commentator said, "rather than to the chapter of 'War of Nerves.'"

Churchill Pledge of Aid in Pacific War Acclaimed by Congressional Leaders

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's reassertion of British determination to see the Pacific war through to the end brought a quick response tonight from Congressional leaders in Washington.

"His remarks about the Pacific are most encouraging," said Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming, a member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

"It is an assurance which we Americans appreciate greatly," added Senator Warren R. Austin, Republican, of Vermont, who serves on both the Military Affairs and Senate Foreign Relations Committees.

Senator Walter F. George, Democrat, of Georgia, termed Mr. Churchill's address "a sort of British fireside chat," and added:

"He still left open the question as to whether it won't be some time between the fall of Hitler and the conclusion of the war in the Pacific."

To Senator O'Mahoney the most striking aspect of the Prime Minister's radio address was his emphasis "on the importance of achieving victory before we begin to give way to discussions about policies and programs that must follow the end of the war."

"It was," continued Senator O'Mahoney, "a reassertion of a fundamental democratic policy: victory first above all else. Until that is achieved all other discussions may well be full of pitfalls."

Speaking as a Far-West Congressman, Representative Warren G. Magnuson, Democrat, of Washington, member of the House Naval Affairs Committee, said Mr. Churchill's assurances on the war against Japan "were most heartening, especially to those of us from the Pacific Coast." He cautioned the public, however, against over-optimistic hopes for a quick victory in the East.

Representative James W. Fulbright, Democrat, of Arkansas, who expressed the same reaction, was "especially pleased" by the British determination against the Japanese.

Churchill's Review of War and Post-War Plans for Britain

Following is the text of Prime Minister Churchill's radio address yesterday as monitored by the British Information Service, 30 Rockefeller Plaza:

I hope you will not imagine that I am going to try to make you some extraordinary pronouncement tonight and tell you exactly how all the problems of mankind in war and peace are going to be solved. I only thought you would like me to have a short talk with you about how we are getting on, and to thank you for all the kindness with which you have treated me in spite of my many shortcomings.

It is a year almost to a day since I spoke to you on the broadcast here at home. This has been a time of disappointments as well as successes, but there is no doubt that the good news has far outweighed the bad, and that the progress of the United Nations towards their goal has been solid, continual and growing quicker. The long and terrible march which the rescuing powers are making is being accomplished stage by stage, and we can now say not only with hope, but with reason, that we shall reach the end of our journey in good order, and that the tragedy which thrreatened the whole world and might have put out all its lights and left our children and descendents in darkness and bondage, perhaps for centuries—that tragedy will not come to pass. He is a rash man who tries to prophesy when, how or under what conditions victory will come. But come it will. That, at least, is sure. It is also certain that unity of aims and action and singleness of purpose among us all—Britons at home, Allies abroad—will make it come the sooner.

A year ago the 8th Army, which had marched 1,500 miles across the desert from Alamein, was in battle for the Mareth line, and the 1st British Army and the American Army were beating their way forward through Tunisia. We were all confident of victory, but we did not know that in less than two months the enemy would be driven with heavy slaughter from the African continent, leaving at one stroke 335,000 prisoners and dead in our hands. Since then the successful campaign in Sicily brought about the fall of Mussolini and the heartfelt repudiation by the Italian people of the Fascist creed.

Mussolini, indeed, escaped to eat the bread of affliction at Hitler's table, to shoot his son-in-law, and to help the Germans wreak vengeance upon the Italian masses whom he had professed to love and over whom he had ruled for more than twenty years. This fate and judgment, more terrible than death, and overtaken the vainglorious dictator who stabbed France in the back and thought that his crime had gained him the empire of the Mediterranean.

Corsica and Sardinia

The conquest of Sicily and Naples brought in their train the surrender of Sardinia and the liberation of Corsica — islands which had been expected to require for themselves a serious expedition and a hard campaign.

We now hold one-third of the mainland of Italy. Our progress has not been as rapid or decisive as we had hoped, but I do not doubt that we shall be victors, both at the Anzio bridgehead and on the main front to the southward, and that Rome will be rescued.

Meanwhile, we have swept out of the struggle sixty-six Italian divisions, and we are holding in Italy, for the most part in close action, nearly twenty-five divisions and a noteworthy part of the German air force, all of whom can bleed and burn in the land of their former ally while other even more important events which might require their presence are impending elsewhere.

We have been disappointed in the Aegean Sea and its many islands which we have not yet succeeded in dominating. But these setbacks in the eastern Mediterranean are offset, and more than offset, by the panic and frenzy which prevail in Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria; by the continued activities of the Greek guerrillas and, above all, by the heroic struggles of the Partisans of Yugoslavia under the leadership of Marshal Tito.

In the Near and Middle East we have certainly struggled a long way forward from those autumn days of 1940 when we stood all alone, when Mussolini was invading Egypt, when we were driven out of British Somaliland, when all Ethiopia was in Italian chains and when we wondered whether we could defend the Suez Canal, the Nile Valley, the Sudan and British East Africa. There is much still to be done in the Balkans and the eastern Mediterranean, but here again I do not doubt that the task will be finished in a workmanlike manner.

U-Boat Peril Ended

We who dwell in the British Isles must celebrate with joy and thankfulness our deliverance from the mortal U-boat peril—which deliverance lighted the year which has ended.

When I look back upon the fifty-five months of this hard and obstinate war, which makes ever more exacting demands upon our life springs of energy and contrivance, I still rate highest among the dangers we have overcome the U-boat attack upon our shipping, without which we cannot live, or even receive the help which our Dominions and our grand, generous American ally have sent us.

But there are other deliverances which we should never forget. There was the sea-mining peril which loomed so large in 1939 and which has been mastered by superior science and ingenuity, and by the often forgotten, but almost unsurpassed devotion to duty of our minesweeper crews and the thousand ships they work and man, that we may eat and live and thus fight for the good cause.

We have been delivered from the horrors of an invasion at a time when we were almost unarmed. We have endured without swerving or failing the utmost fury which Hitler could cast upon us from the air, and now the tables are turned, and those who sought to destroy their enemies by the most fearful form of warfare are themselves reeling and writhing under the prodigious blows of British and American air power.

We had ourselves a large air force in this island this time last year; we have a larger one today. But besides all that, our American allies have now definitely overtaken and outnumbered us in the mighty air force they have established here. The combination in true brotherhood of these two air forces, either of which is nearly as large in numbers, and in power much greater, than the whole air force of Germany, aided as it will be by another Allied air force in Italy almost as large, which is now established there—these together will produce results in these coming months which I shall not attempt to measure in advance, but which will certainly be of enormous advantage to the cause of the Allies.

Not only have the British and Americans this great preponderance in numbers, which enables them to send out 1,000 bombers as often as the enemy is able to send out 100 against us, but also, by sharing all our secrets with one another, we have won the leadership in the marvels of radar, both for attack and defense.

Amphibious Difficulties

Surveying these famous and massive events—by land, sea and air—in the war waged by the two western allies—Britain and the United States—against Hitlerism—we are entitled—nay bound—to be encouraged, to be thankful, and to resolve to do better than we have ever done before. It would be quite natural if our Soviet friends and allies did not appreciate the complications and difficulties which attend all sea crossings—amphibious is the word—operations on a larger scale. They are the people of the great land spaces, and when foes threaten the sacred soil of Russia, it is by land they march out to meet and attack them. Now our tasks are different. But the British and American people are filled with genuine admiration for the military triumphs of the Russian Army. I have paid repeated tributes to their splendid deeds, and now I must tell you that the advance of their armies from Stalingrad to the Dniester river, with vanguards reaching out toward the Prut—a distance of 900 miles accomplished in a single year — constitutes the greatest cause of Hitler's undoing.

Since I spoke to you last, not only have the Hun invaders been driven from the land they had ravaged, but the guts of the Germany Army have been largely torn out by Russian valor and generalship. The peoples of all the Russias have been fortunate in finding in their surpeme ordeal of agony a warrior leader, Marshal Stalin, whose authority enables him to combine and control the movements of armies numbered by many millions upon a front of nearly 2,000 miles, and to impart a unity and a concept to the war direction in the east which has been very good for Soviet Russia, and very good for all her allies.

When a moment ago I spoke of the improvements for the Allied cause which are taking place in Hungary and in the satellites, in the Balkans, I was reserving the acknowledgment that the victorious advance of the Soviet Army had been the main cause of Hitler's approaching downfall in those regions. I have now dealt with the progress of the war against Hitlerite Germany, but I must also speak of the other gigantic war which is proceeding against the equally barbarous and brutal Japanese.

This war is waged in vast preponderance by the fleets, air forces and armies of the United States. We have accepted their leadership in the Indian theater. We are proud of the contribution made by Australia and New Zealand against Japan. The debt which the British Empire and Commonwealth of Nations owes to the United States for the fact that their operations against the Japanese shielded Australia and New Zealand from Japanese aggression and from mortal peril during a period when the mother country was at full stretch in the struggle against Germany and Italy, that debt is one that will never be forgotten in any land where the Union Jack is flown.

Remarkable success has attended the work of the American Navy and of the American, Australian and New Zealand troops. The progress in New Guinea is constant. The American victories in the Pacific, and in particular their latest conquest and liberation of the Marshall Islands, constitute superb examples of the combination of naval, air and military force. It is possible that the war in the Pacific may progress more rapidly than was formerly thought possible. The Japanese are showing signs of growing weakness. The attrition of their shipping—especially oil tankers—and of their air forces, on all of which President Roosevelt dwelt with sure foresight a year ago, has become not merely evident but obvious.

Dare Not Risk Fleet

The Japanese have not felt strong enough to risk their fleet in a general engagement for the sake of their outer defense line. In this they have been prudent, considering the immense expansion of the United States' naval power since the Japanese treacherous assault on Pearl Harbor. What fools the Japanese ruling caste were to bring against themselves the mighty latent war energies of the great Republic, all for the sake of carrying out a base and squalid embuscade.

The British Empire and Commonwealth of Nations have pledged themselves to fight side by side with the United States against Japan no matter what it costs or how long it lasts. Actually, we have suffered from the Japanese injuries ever greater than those which have roused the armed wrath of the American Union. In our theatre of war, in Burma and the Bay of Bengal, we shall strive our utmost to aid the Americans in their contacts with China, and to add to our own. The more we can fight and engage the Japanese, and especially wear down their air power, the greater a diversion we make for the Pacific theater and the more help we give the operations of the United States.

In Burma those plans which were prepared last August at Quebec are now being put into practice. Young men are at the helm. Admiral Mountbatten has infused a spirit of energy and confidence into the heavy forces gathered to recover Burma, and by that means to defend the frontiers of India and re-open the road to China. Our airborne operations enable us to attack the Japanese in the rear. They for their part have also got behind our front by infiltration at various places, and fierce fighting is going on at many points. It is too soon to proclaim results in this vast area of mountain and jungle, but in nearly every combat we are able to count three or four times more Japanese dead—and that is what matters—than we have ourselves suffered in killed, wounded and missing.

Individual fighting superiority in the jungle has definitely passed to the British and Indian soldiers as compared with the Japanese. Farther to the north, an American column of experienced jungle fighters and a considerable Chinese Army under General Stilwell, of the United States Service, are progressing with equal mastery.

Later on I shall make to you or to Parliament a further report on all this hard fighting which, mind you, is not by any means decided yet. Meanwhile, we have placed a powerful battle fleet under Admiral Somerville in Indian waters in order to face the main part of the Japanese fleet, should it turn restless after having declined battle against the Americans.

When I spoke a year ago, I drew attention to the possibility that there would be a long interval between the collapse of Hitler and the downfall of Japan. I still think there will be an interval, but I do not consider it will necessarily be as long an interval as I thought a year ago. But be it long or be it short, we shall go through with our American brothers with our utmost strength to the very end.

I have now tried to carry you —as if in a Mosquito aircraft on reconnoitering duty—over the world-wide expanse of this sterile and ferocious war, and I trust you have gained not only some glimpse of particular scenes but also have a feeling of the relative size and urgency of the various things that are going on.

"Quite a Lot" Going On

There are, as you see, quite a lot of things going on. Still, I remember that when I spoke to you on March 21 of last year, I gave up the main part of what I said to what we are planning to do to make our island a better place for all its people after the war was over, whenever that should be. I told you there would have to be a general election and a new House of Commons, and that if I were still thought fit to be any further use, I should put to the country a four-year-plan to cover the transition period between war and peace, and to bring the soldiers and sailors and airmen back to a land where there would be food and work and homes for all. I dwelt on how wrong it would be to make promises which could not be fulfilled, and for one set of politicians to try to outbid another in visionary scheming and dreaming. But I mentioned five or six large fields in which practical action would have to be taken. Let me remind you of them: reform on a great scale of the education of the people; a nation-wide uplifting of their physical health.

I spoke of the encouragement of agriculture and food production and the vigorous revival of healthy village life. I dwelt upon the importance of a national compulsory insurance scheme for all classes, for all purposes, from the cradle to the grave, and of a sound scheme of demobilization which would not delay the rebuilding of industry, and not seem unfair to the fighting men.

I spoke about the maintenance of full employment, and about the rebuilding of our cities and the housing of the people, and I made a few tentative suggestions about economic and financial policy—and what one may call the importance of making both ends meet.

All this was to happen after the war was over. No promises were to be made beforehand, but every preparation that was possible without impeding the war effort, including legislative preparation, was to be set on foot.

Now, my friends, as your unfailing kindness encourages me to call you—I am a man who has no unsatisfied ambitions—except to beat the enemy and help you in any way I think right—and therefore I hope you will not suppose that in what I am going to say to you I am looking for votes or trying to glorify this party or that. But I do feel I may draw your attention to the fact that several of these large measures, which a year ago I told you might be accomplished after the war was over, have already been shaped and framed and presented to Parliament and the public.

For instance, you have the greatest scheme of improved education that has ever been attempted by a responsible government. This will soon be on the statute book. It involves a heavy cost upon the state, but I do not think we can maintain our position in the post-war world unless we are an exceptionally well educated people and unless we can handle easily and with comprehension the problems and inventions of the new scientific age.

National Health Service

Then there is the very far-reaching policy of a National Health Service, which has already been laid before Parliament in outline, and has received a considerable measure of acceptance. Before this session is out we shall lay before you our proposals about the extensions of national insurance, upon which a vast amount of patient work has been done.

So here you have—or will have very shortly—three of the important measures which I thought would be put off till after the war, already fashioned and proclaimed at a time when no one can tell when the war will end. And all this has been done without relaxing the war effort or causing any party strife to mar the national unity.

But there are several other large problems upon which ministers and their assistants have toiled and wrought, which are far advanced. And, indeed, if this process continues, and the war goes on long enough, the greater part of my four-year plan of a year ago may well be perfected and largely in operation before we reach the general election, and give the people the chance to say what they think about it.

Now I must say that one might have expected that his majesty's government would receive many compliments upon the remarkable progress we have made not only with the war but with the preparations for social and domestic welfare at the armistice or peace. Last October I thought the time had come to ask the King to appoint Lord Woolton to be Minister of Reconstruction with a seat in the war Cabinet. His was a record which rightly commanded respect. However, there is a large number of respectable and even eminent people who are not at all burdened with responsibility, who have a lot of leisure on their hands, and who feel most sincerely that the best work they can do at this present time of hard effort and anxiety is to belabor the government with criticism and condemn them as unprofitable servants because they are not, in the midst of this deadly struggle, ready at any moment to produce foolproof solutions for the whole future of the world, as between nation and nation, as between victors and vanquished, as between man and man, as between capital and labor, as between the state and the individual—and so forth and so on.

The direst language is used, and this national government which has led the nation and the empire and, as I hold, a large part of the world out of mortal danger, through the dark valleys into which they had wandered, largely through their own folly, back onto the broad uplands where the stars of peace and freedom shine is reviled as a set of dawdlers and muddlers, unable to frame a policy, take a decision or make a plan and act upon it. I know you around your firesides will not forget that this administration, formed in the hour of disaster by the leaders of the Conservative, Labor and Liberal parties banded together in good faith and good will, have brought the British Isles and the British Commonwealth and Empire out of the jaws of death, back from the mouth of hell while all the world wondered. I know you will not forget that.

Housing Policy

There are two subjects of domestic policy mentioned last year on which we have not yet produced an account of our course of action. The first is housing. We set before ourselves as a prime responsibility the provision of homes for all who need them, with priority for our service men as and when they come home from the war. Let me first of all lay down this absolute rule: nothing can or must be done in housing or rehousing which, by weakening or clogging the war effort, prolongs the war. Neither labor nor material can be diverted in any way which hampers the vast operations which are in progress or impending. Subject to that, there are three ways in which the business of housing and rehousing the people should be attacked. Let me tell you about them.

Now, I do not take the view myself that we were a nation of slum dwellers before the war. Nearly 5,000,000 new approved houses or dwellings were built out of about 11,000,000 in this small island between the two wars, and the British people as a whole were better housed than almost any people on the Continent of Europe, or, I would add, in many parts of the United States of America.

But now about 1,000,000 homes have been destroyed or grievously damaged by the fire of the enemy. This offers a magnificent opportunity for rebuilding and replanning, and while we are at it we had better make a clean sweep of all those areas of which our civilization should be ashamed.

However, I have given my word that, so far as it may lie in my power, the soldiers when they return from the war and those who have been bombed out and made to double up with other families shall be restored to homes of their own at the earliest possible moment. The first attack must evidently be made upon houses which are damaged but which can be reconditioned into proper dwellings. This must go forward during the war, and we hope to have broken the back of it during this year. It is a war measure, for our allies are here among us in vast numbers, and we must do our best for them.

The second attack on the housing problem will be made by what I call the prefabricated or emergency housing. On this the Minister of Works, Lord Portal, is working wonders. I hope we may make up to half a million of these, and for this purpose not only plans, but actual preparations are being made during the war on a nation-wide scale. Factories are being assigned, the necessary set-up is being made ready, materials are being ear marked as far as possible, the most convenient sites will be chosen—the whole business is to be treated as a military evolution, handled by the government with private industry harnessed to its service. And I have every hope and a firm resolve that several hundred thousand of our young men will be able to marry several hundred thousand of our young women and make their own four-year plan.

Emergency Houses

Now what about these emergency houses? I've seen the full-sized model myself, and steps are being taken to make sure that a good number of housewives have a chance of expressing their views about it. These houses will make a heavy demand upon the steel industry and will absorb in a great measure its overflow and expansion for war purposes. They are, in my opinion, far superior to the ordinary cottage as it exists today, Not only have they excellent baths, gas or electric kitchenettes and refrigerators, but their walls carry fitted furniture—chests of drawers, hanging cupboards and tables, which today it would cost £80 (about $320) to buy. Moreover, for the rest of the furniture, standard articles will be provided and mass produced, so that no heavy capital charge will fall upon the young couples, or others who may become tenants of the houses. Owing to the methods of mass production which will be used, I am assured that these houses, including the worth £80 of fitted furniture, will be available at a very moderate rent.

All these emergency houses will be publicly owned, and it will not rest with an individual tenant to keep them in being after they have served their purpose of tidying over the return of the fighting men, and after permanent dwellings are available.

As much thought has been and will be put into this plan as was put into the invasion of Africa, though I readily admit that it does not bear comparison in scale with the kind of things we are working at now. The swift production of these houses is the only way—these temporary houses—is the only way in which the immediate needs of our people can be met, in the four and five years that follow the war.

In addition to this, and to the reconditioning of the damaged dwellings, we have the program of permanent rebuilding which the Minister of Health, Mr. Willink, has recently outlined, and by which we shall have 200,000 or 300,000 permanent houses built or building by the end of the first two years after the defeat of Germany. For these 200,000 sites are already owned by the local authorities.

Side by side with this comes the question of the employment of the building trade. We do not want a frantic splurge of building, to be followed by a sharp contraction of the trade. I have a sympathy with the building trade and with the bricklayers. They are apt to be the first to be taken for the wars, and in time of peace they all know as they work at their job that when it is finished they may have to look for another. If we are to secure the best results, it will be necessary that our twelve-year plan for the building trade, on which Mr. Bevin and Lord Portal have spent so much time, is a plan which will guarantee steady employment for long periods, and increased reward for increased efforts or superior skill; it will be necessary to see that that plan is carried out.

Cites 1941 Statement

Then we are told by the busy wiseacres: "How can you build houses without the land to put them on? When are you going to tell us your plans for this?" But we have already declared in 1941 that all land needed for public purposes shall be taken at prices based on the standards of values of March 31, 1939. This was a formidable decision of state policy which selected property and land for a special restrictive imposition. Whereas stocks and shares and many classes of real property have gone up in value during the war, and when agricultural land, on account of the new proposals and new prospects open to farmers, has also risen in value, the state has the power, which it will on no account surrender, to claim all land needed bona fide for war industry or for public purposes at values fixed before war-time conditions supervened.

There are certain hard cases which will best be adjusted by parliamentary debate, but in the main you may be sure that ample land will be forthcoming, when and where it is needed, for all the houses, temporary or permanent, required to house our people far better than they have ever been housed before. Nobody need be deterred from planning for the future by the fear that they may not be able to obtain the necessary land.

Legislation to enable the local authorities to secure any land required for the reconstruction of our towns has been promised, and will be presented to Parliament this session.

"Some Comfortable People"

There are some comfortable people, of course, who want to put off everything until they have planned, and got agreed to in every feature, a White Paper or a blueprint, for the regeneration of the world, before, of course, asking the electors how they feel about it. These people would rather postpone building homes for the returning troops until we had planned out every acre in the country to make sure the landscape is not spoiled. In time of war we have to face immediate needs and stern realities, and it surely is better to do that than to do nothing whilst preparing to do everything. Here is my difficulty—I put it frankly before you. I cannot take anything that will hinder the war, and no one—except the very clever ones—can tell when the war will end, or whether it will end suddenly or peter out. Therefore there must be an emergency plan, and that is what the ministers concerned have been working at for some time past. But in spite of this, and of all I've said, I cannot guarantee that everything will be perfect, or that if the end of the war came suddenly, as it might do, there will not be an interval when things will be pretty rough; but it will not be a long interval, and it will be child's play compared to what we have already gone through. Nor need we be frightened about the scale of this task. It looks to me a small one—this housing—compared to some of those we have handled, and are handling now. The value of the land involved is between one-twentieth and one-thirtieth of the cost of the houses to be built upon it. And our population itself is unhappily about to enter upon a period of decline—numerical decline—which can only be checked by the most robust treatment of housing and of all its ancillaries.

There is one question on which I should like to dwell tonight, but for a reason which I shall mention later. I only intend to utter a passing reassurance. I mean demobilization. Now I know as much about this as most people, because I was Secretary of State for War and Air at the time of the great demobilization after the last war, when in about six months we brought home from abroad, released from military service and restored to their families, nearly 3,000,000 men. Great plans had been prepared before the armistice by the planners to bring home all the key men first, and any soldier who could get a telegram from some one at home saying that he was wanted for a key job had priority over the man who had borne the burden and heat of the war. The troops did not think this was fair, and by the time I went to the War Office a convulsion of indiscipline shook the whole of our splendid army which had endured unmoved all danger, slaughter and privation. I persuaded the Cabinet to reverse this foolish and inequitable plan and to substitute the simple rule, first out, first home, with the result that discipline was immediately restored and the process of demobilization went forward in a smooth and orderly fashion.

Cites Bevin's Plan

Now my friend, Mr. Bevin, the Minister of Labor for whose deep sagacity and knowledge of the wage-earning masses I have high admiration—Mr. Bevin has devised a very much less crude, but equally fair and healthy scheme, in which I have the greatest confidence—in which all concerned may have the greatest confidence. Why am I not going to tell you all about it tonight? Or why will Mr. Bevin not tell you about it in the near future? This is no time to talk about demobilization.

The hour of our greatest effort and action is approaching. We march with valiant allies who count on us as we count on them. The flashing eyes of all our soldiers, sailors and airmen must be fixed upon the enemy on their front. The only homeward road for all of us lies through the arch of victory. The magnificent armies of the United States are here, or are pouring in. Our own troops, the best trained and best equipped we have ever had, stand at their side, in equal numbers and in true comradeship. Leaders are appointed in whom we all have faith. We shall require from our own people here, from Parliament, from the press, from all classes, the same cool, strong nerves, the same toughness of fiber, which stood us in good stead in those days when we were all alone under the German blitz. And here I must warn you that in order to deceive and baffle the enemy as well as to exercise the forces, there will be many false alarms, many feints and many dress rehearsals. We may also ourselves be the object of new forms of attack from the enemy. Britain can take it. She has never flinched or failed, and when the signal is given the whole circle of avenging nations will hurl themselves upon the foe, and batter out the life of the cruelest tyrrany which has ever sought to bar the progress of mankind.

Vast Tonnage in Week's Attacks

LONDON, March 26 (AP)—From information made public today by the United States Strategic Air Forces, it is estimated that about 8,500 sorties by American war planes, operating from British bases, were made last week. They dropped more than 8,000 tons of bombs.

Of this volume 1,500 tons were hurled at Berlin on Wednesday, perhaps a heavier load on Frankfort in two attacks Monday and Tuesday, and the rest divided among various targets.

The RAF is estimated to have sent 3,500 planes aloft—mostly for heavy bombing—and dropped almost 8,960 tons in fewer, more concentrated attacks. It unloaded a record 3,360 tons on Frankfort Wednesday night and another 2,800 tons on Berlin Friday night.

American planes based in Britain and Italy shot down 140 German planes, against losses of 123—eighty-one bombers and forty-two fighters—during the week.

London, March 26 (AP)—More than 250 wounded soldiers were killed when the Germans bombed an Allied hospital ship at Salerno, Italy, recently, the Rev. Colin R. Montgomery, brother General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, said today.

"A bomb fell in the operating theater where the doctors were doing a big operation," he said in an address at Cheshire. "They were all killed with most of the nursing staff."

NIGHT

2 Flyers Agree To Save Fortress Or Die Trying

NIGHT

A United States Bomber Base, England, March 26 (AP)—High over Nazi-occupied Europe in a plane from which the rest of the crew had bailed out, the pilot and copilot of a Flying Fortress shook hands and agreed to bring their bullet-riddled ship home or die trying.

Then, with knees locked and braced against the steering control column, they landed the plane Four Freedoms near a coastal RAF station, coming through the ordeal without a scratch.

The men were: Lieut. John J. Pesch, of Maspeth, N. Y., pilot, and Lieut Joyce C. Amley, of Superior, Wis., copilot.

BRITAIN MOBILIZES YACHTSMEN'S NAVY

MAR 27 1944

LONDON, March 26 — (AP) The motley yachtmen's navy which saved the day for Britain at Dunkerque in 1940 has been called upon to hold itself in readiness during the next six months—presumably for some role in the invasion.

The Admiralty asked sailors of river and tidewater craft including yachtsmen and others acquainted with motor and steam boats, to put their services at the disposal of the royal Navy for tours of duty up to a maximum of four weeks in this period.

It was the fourth in a series of quick preparatory measures.

First came the travel ban between the island of Britain and Ireland in a move to safeguard against alleged Axis agents in Eire; on March 20 the British military "for operational reasons" declared 700 miles of England's coast line a protected area, limiting civilian movements beginning April 1, and last night it was announced that civil air mail services between Britain and more than a dozen countries in and near continental Europe had been suspended also "for operational reasons."

Portugal was one of the countries affected, and an announcement in the Lisbon press said the cutting off of mail communications was a serious matter "unless it is a question of immediate military developments of a second front."

No British planes left Lisbon for England today, and none was believed expected today, a dispatch form Portugal said. Officials here, however, said they knew of no reason other than bad weather for any complete stoppage of traffic between the countries.

DAY

PRINCESS ELIZABETH WILL TOUR BRITAIN

DAY

LONDON, Monday, March 27—(AP) Princess Elizabeth will visit several parts of the country in the next 12 months to bring her into closer contact with the people she will some day rule as queen.

The princess will be 18 on April 21 and her mother and father are determined that she be a "people's queen"—one who knows her countrymen from personal contact.

As a forerunner of the tours she is scheduled to make from now on she visited invasion troops with the King and Queen a few days ago.

Princess Elizabeth is registered under the national service act but will not enter any of the women's services since preparation for her future responsibilities is considered the most important activity she can undertake.

60,000 End British Coal Strike

LONDON, March 26 (AP).—Sixty thousand striking Yorkshire coal miners ratified today an agreement reached yesterday between the Fuel Ministry and mine owners. The men will return to the pits tomorrow. Twenty-five thousand miners still are away from pits in the Doncaster area.

Plan For Occupation Of Germany Reached

London, March 26 (AP)—The Sunday Observer said today that a short-term plan for Allied occupation of Germany after the war was tentatively agreed on by Prime Minister Churchill, Premier Stalin and President Roosevelt at Teheran.

The publication said United States forces would occupy Bavaria, Saxony and Wuertenberg. The British would occupy western and northern Germany up to the Oder as well as part of central Germany. The western boundary of the Russian occupation zone would run roughly along the right angle formed by the Danube and the prolongation of the lower reaches of the Oder river southward.

Berlin itself, the newspaper said, would be occupied by the forces of all three powers.

HITLER SPEEDS BALKAN FORCE

NIGHT

Nazi Armor Reported Sent To Rumania, Hungary

MAR 27 1944

London, March 26 (AP)—Hitler was reported rushing armored reinforcements through Hungary and Rumania today in an effort to save at least the oil fields of Ploesti.

It was a race for position, hampered by guerrilla blows along the system of communications into Germany.

Nazi Reserves Pour In

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 25 (Delayed) (AP)—The Germans were reported rushing heavy armored reinforcements through Hungary and Rumania today in what appeared here to be preparation for a major stand against the Soviet southern armies standing at the threshold of the Balkans.

DAY

2 Borders Reported Closed

The Moscow radio, in a broadcast directed to Hungary on Sunday, quoted advices from Istanbul as saying that German military authorities had closed the Hungarian-Rumanian and Rumanian-Yugoslav frontiers.

Earlier the Soviet radio, in a Finnish broadcast, quoted reports from Geneva as saying that the Nazis had liquidated the Hungarian General Staff and placed the Hungarian Army under the command of a "special German general staff."

Tito Attacks Near Hungary; Captures Island

Hvar Taken by Partisans With Allied Aid as Nazis Drain Yugoslav Garrison

NIGHT

LONDON, March 26 (AP).—A Yugoslav Army of Liberation communique announced tonight that the Partisans of Marshal Tito (Josip Broz) had attacked the Germans twenty-five miles from the boundary of Hungary and, with Allied aid, captured the strategic Adriatic island of Hvar.

The war bulletin, broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio, indicated that the Germans were moving troops out of Yugoslavia to reinforce their garrisons in Hungary, which the Nazis took over last week.

Declaring that running battles were going on in Slavonia along the German communication lines into Hungary, the communique said that near Daruvar, twenty-five miles south of the Hungarian-Yugoslav border, the Partisans fell on a German division and killed and wounded about 150 men.

Units of Tito's 26th Division "with the aid of Allied air forces and navy and a detachment of commandos captured the island of Hvar," the communique added. Hvar, just off the Dalmatian coast, extends into the Adriatic Sea for forty miles and is twenty-five miles south of the important port of Split. More than 100 German officers and men and Italian Fascists were declared to have been taken prisoner there.

The Berlin radio announced on March 10 that 1,500 American and British commandos had landed on the island of Lissa and that other raids on near-by islands could be expected.

Tito's forces also were said to be continuing their campaign to tear up German-controlled rail lines throughout the country. The communique said that on the Zagreb-Belgrade line traffic was stopped for seventy-eight hours.

chuted was My Eva.

Her engines afire from bullet-punctured oil lines, her ailerons control cables cut by rockets and 20-millimeter shells, My Eva's wing began to tip dangerously and nine parachutes blossomed out from under her. One parachute did not open, and when the flyers found the tail gunner's body about two hours later they discovered the rip cord had not been pulled.

Native patriots who had recognized the plane's markings reached the Americans quickly and excitedly asked if "the Allied invasion" had begun.

"Every time we were introduced to a new group of our Allies they hugged and kissed us," said a sergeant gunner. "Seeing how brave these people are, and the conditions they're fighting under, I think that, compared to them, we don't know what war is."

The contribution of Americana was in return for a special dinner given to the Americans from the patriots' scanty supplies.

"It was about the only way we could return the pleasure we got from their songs," said a waist gunner who started them singing "The St. Louis Blues."

"One or two of them spoke some English, and they all picked up the verses in a hurry."

An international dice game got under way when the navigator carved two wooden cubes with a borrowed knife.

He was the big winner and cleaned his mates, but when the game ended he gave the pot to the patriot soldiers.

Airmen Teach Balkan Patriots To Shoot Dice

Fortress Crew Bails Out, Soon Has Natives Singing 'The St. Louis Blues'

DE LUCE DAY

AN AMERICAN MEDITERRANEAN AIR BASE, March 26 (AP).—Patriot forces deep in the enemy-occupied Balkans are shooting dice and singing "The St. Louis Blues," bits of Americana contributed by crewmen of a Flying Fortress who parachuted into their midst.

Names of the nine flyers who are now back at their base cannot be disclosed because of the unusual circumstances of their stay within enemy territory, but the bomber from which they para-

NAZIS USE TANKS IN CASSINO FIGHT

MAR 27 1944

Hot Allied Artillery Drives Armored Units Back to Hotel Area.

HEINZERLING

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 26.—(AP) Reinforced Nazi troops in Cassino, showing a more offensive spirit, have staged a brief tank sortie, it was disclosed today, as the fighting in the dead town became a slugging match with neither side making progress.

Strengthening their hold on the Continental hotel fortress the Germans sent two tanks rumbling out into the open in front of that strongpoint to lay a smokescreen, but hot Allied artillery fire drove them back.

The Germans have used tanks throughout the stale-mater struggle but had dug them into cellars and [illegible]ed buildings. Their employment yesterday marked a new feature in the Cassino battle.

Today's communique described the fighting as still heavy, but it was less intense than during the last 10 days when New Zealand troops following up a tremendous Allied aerial barrage, launched their Allied aerial barrage, their offensive to drive the enemy from the southwest edge of town. The Germans still are firmly entrenched there.

A new burst of activity indicated the enemy was regrouping his forces on the southern approaches to the town near the Ducal palace, across Highway Six from the Coliseum where German tanks previously have been drawn up for battle.

The rest of the front was relatively quiet, with the Germans laying harassing artillery fire on roads and on the beachhead area.

A light Nazi attack was repulsed on the right flank of the beachhead, and two German patrols were driven off near the center. The enemy shelling was especially heavy near Padiglione.

The British destroyer Urchin blasted at Nazi strongpoints near the beachhead Friday night, and the destroyer Grenville engaged a German E-boat, finally sinking it by ramming.

German planes hit at the Anzio-Nettuno port area, with ground gunners bagging two and perhaps three planes.

3 Nazi Planes Downed

The Luftwaffe lost three planes Friday in a sharp attack against Mount Trocchio, a peak across the Rapido valley from Cassino, which United States troops took weeks ago. The Germans apparently believed it was being used as an observation post overlooking the valley and town.

German mortars in the ducal palace-coliseum area threw heavy fire on Allied forces in the railroad station area to the south, and there was considerable harassing fire north of Cassino. Fifth Army guns replying apparently exploded a German ammunition dump southwest of Cassino.

A party of litter bearers reached Hangman's Hill, just under the peak of Monastery hill, yesterday and brought down a number of wounded men under cover of a Red Cross flag. Indian troops on the hill have been isolated for a week, supplied mostly by parachute, and this was the first evacuation of wounded.

Allied planes, flying 600 sorties with loss of one aircraft, attacked port installations at Leghorn and a railroad bridge at Rignano, ten miles west of Florence on the main route to Rome, with good coverage reported at both places.

VESUVIUS' ERUPTION ENTERS NINTH DAY

NAPLES, March 26 (AP) A veering wind spread volcanic ash from Mt. Vesuvius over a new area in the direction of Torre del Greco on the southern side today as smoke continued to pour from the volcano which has been erupting violently for nine days.

No further casualties were reported since 26 persons were listed as killed during the last week, mostly from the collapse of roofs burdened by rocks, ashes and dust.

With the fields and roads covered with the black dust, Allied authorities still were coping with the problem of feeding the villagers and livestock, and of clearing blocked highways.

Navy Nurses Reach Africa

Algiers, March 26 (AP)—The first contingent of navy nurses assigned to the Mediterranean theater has arrived at a hospital in North Africa, the navy announced today. All of the group of 25, the majority of whom are specialists, applied for overseas duty, Chief Nurse Lieut. Clyde Pennington of Live Oak, Fla., said.

Lehman Arrives in Cairo

CAIRO, Egypt, March 26 (AP) — Herbert Lehman, chairman of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, arrived here today from Algiers for conferences on organization of the UNRRA's Balkan activities. His left knee, broken in a fall, still was in a plaster cast.

BROADER PLAN MAPPED FOR GOVERNING GREECE

CAIRO, March 26—(AP) Negotiations at a mountain hideout in Greece have resulted in the formation of a five-man political committee under Col. E. E. Bakirdzis for the promotion of a broader national coalition Greek government, Cairo was informed today.

A Greek statement did not identify the organization involved but it was assumed the movement was sponsored by the EAM, the largest Greek guerrilla group which has some 30,000 followers.

It was recalled that the exiled Greek government declared recently that a discussion on broadening the government was conditional upon the reconciliation of Greek guerrilla groups. Now that this reconciliation has been effected "the government intends broadening should take place in collaboration with all political parties in the country and is making every effort with this end in view," said a government statement.

EGYPT'S FLIERS READY

To Patrol Coast, Releasing RAF Men for Other Tasks

A DESERT FIGHTER STATION, in Egypt, March 26 (AP) — Young Egyptian Air Force pilots are undergoing last-minute operational training before they begin flying their own new-type fighters on coastal patrol within Egyptian territorial waters.

The patrol flights will not constitute a breach of Egypt's nonbelligerency, but they will aid the Allied cause by releasing Royal Air Force squadrons for more active operations.

The new air force is wholly Egyptian. Cannon-firing Hurricanes flown by the squadron soon to be ready for operations are the property of the Egyptian Air Force.

RAF experts, headed by Squadron Leader N. P. W. Hancock, who won his Distinguished Flying Cross during the siege of Malta, are working alongside the Egyptians, giving final instructions in flying and mechanical technique.

According to British pilots living at the same station, the squadron can boast fine fliers.

CURFEW IN JERUSALEM

JERUSALEM, March 26—(AP) A strict curfew gave Jerusalem and Tel Aviv a quiet week-end after the recent bombings and shootings which killed nine policemen, six of them British, as authorities pressed a roundup of terrorists and a wide search for illegally held arms.

COLONIES' RETURN URGED

Chinese Army Wants Britain to Yield Hong Kong, Kowloon

CHUNGKING, China, March 26 (AP)—A definite understanding on the post-war restoration of the British crown colonies of Hong Kong and Kowloon, the mainland territory opposite it, to China, is being urged by the newspaper Sao Tang Pao, the organ of the Chinese Army.

China does not ask for pity or gifts from Britain, but rather "a true recognition of Chinese culture and the real significance of China's war against Japan," the newspaper said. It added that the only obstacle to improved relations between the two nations was the restoration of British holdings in China. Both Hong Kong and Kowloon are now held by the Japanese.

The editorial concluded by quoting from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's book, "China's Destiny":

"I am certain that Britain would not desire to harm relations between the two countries just for the sake of a small piece of land."

CHINESE OFFENSIVE IN SALWEEN AREA IS URGED IN PRESS

KUNMING, China, March 26—(AP) Calls for a Chinese offensive, especially on the Salween front in the southwest, are appearing in the Chinese newspapers, one declaring that conditions are excellent for a drive into upper Burma to meet Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's expeditionary force.

This comment coincides with expressions of mounting concern among some foreigners over China's strategy on the Salween front where it is authoritatively stated that the Chinese expeditionary force has massed sufficient strength to break the Japanese land blockade.

Less than three months of fighting weather remain, however, before the rainy monsoon season begins.

The correspondent of The Ninkou Daily News, commenting on the progress of the Stilwell campaign to open a way for the Ledo road from India said the Burma campaign had entered a new stage and that the task ahead was the "restoration of China's international land line and the routing of the enemy who has been threatening China's back door."

But as matters now stand it seems that an order to move across the Salween would only come out of dire military necessity or strong importunities from abroad.

The Chinese High command is supposed to be waiting for a major and decisive action elsewhere in Burma, preferably an ambitious operation by Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's southeast Asia command against lower Burma.

Washington and London reports of American and British differences over Mountbatten's strategy have been widely circulated by the Central News, official press agency of the Chungking government, and these in turn have inspired unusually forthright discussion among informed foreigners of China's own position.

If the overland supply route into China could be opened before the next monsoon season, it is said, the added supplies might be sufficient to enable the Chinese to recapture a seaport this winter and thus shorten the war in China by a considerable time.

To reopen a seaport probably would require American or British naval support.

Restricted To Guerrillas

Urging the Chinese to start striking the Japanese in a big way the Yunnan Daily News declared operations at present were restricted to guerrilla activities "which, however, are not sufficient to meet the present requirements."

The somewhat contrary view is expressed in an article by Gen. Wang Cheh-ming, former dean of the Chinese Military College and now vice-commander in chief of the Kunming garrison forces, in the army newspaper Sao Tang Pao.

Urging the Allies to make a big landing in southern Burma, presumably in an attack on the main port of Rangoon, General Wang declared the Japanese had concentrated practically all their forces in northern Burma.

COMMANDO UNITS HIT JAPS IN BURMA

British Force Drives Within 32 Miles of Main Enemy Base.

NEW DELHI, March 26—(AP) The battle for northern Burma expanded into the strategic aspects of a major campaign today as the southeast Asia command announced a British Commando force had slashed within 32 miles of Myitkyina, main Japanese base above the Burma road.

But bloody fighting was in progress inside the Indian jungle where the Allies struggled to blunt three Japanese invasion spearheads pointed at Imphal, main Allied base on the plain of Manipur.

The Commandos, tough and wily Gurkha and Kachin (north Burmese) levies, have driven 33 miles south of Sumprabum, a communique announced. This force, a menace to the whole Japanese military system in that area just west of the Chinese border, had advanced 20 miles from the position in which it was reported only yesterday.

Allied aviation was in the thick of the fight. The communique said fighters of the tactical air force intercepted enemy fighters over the Aniskan air field in Central Burma and though outnumbered more than three to one shot down at least seven enemy fighters. Two more enemy aircraft were destroyed on the ground.

Hurricanes were carrying out daily joint attacks against Japanese communications over the Chindwin River country and into Manipur. One section reported the destruction or damage of two dozen trucks, two gun carriers and twelve to fifteen carts.

Some of the stiffest fighting of the jungle campaign is in the area of Ukhrul, thirty-two miles northeast of Imphal and about fifteen miles inside the Indian border, where British troops were heavily engaged with one of three Japanese invasion columns.

The Japanese made one unsuccessful attack on British positions in this area, then tried it again on the night of March 24. "Fighting continues in the area and heavy casualties have been inflicted on the enemy," said the communiqué from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters. Here the Japanese were trying to burst from the worst jungle of the whole frontier, the Somra hills, into the India plain.

Road Blocks Cleaned Out

Pitting their jungle fighting methods successfully against the invading Japanese, the British are steadily cleaning out road blocks on the other approaches to the Imphal plain, where the Japanese were using elephant transport. This area was heavily reinforced in anticipation of a big battle.

Headquarters announced that in the southern Chin Hills Allied troops made a successful raid on a Japanese camp in the Haka area, while further along the Tiddim-Imphal road a hill feature commanding a strongly held Japanese position was taken and held against a counter-attack. Four of these road blocks previously had been wiped out.

In the fight for Mogaung Valley the main body of the Chinese Thirty-eighth Division, driving down from the Hukawng Valley, had pressed to within five miles of Shaduzup, forty-five miles northwest of Mogaung, which previously had been taken by a flanking movement of Chinese and Merrill's Marauders, an all-American force. Encircled Japanese were being cut up.

It appeared certain that a major battle for Myitkyina is near, with two Allied forces converging on the town, one via Sumprabum from Fort Hertz, the other via Shaduzup, Kamaing and Mogaung below Myitkyina on the Mandalay railroad.

Other Allied troops have been flown in to positions south of Myitkyina.

On the Arakan front Allied troops supported by tanks made progress on the coastal plain toward Akyab.

Maj. Gen. Orde Charles Wingate is in command of the Allied force that flew and marched into the Japanese rear in Burma three weeks ago, it was disclosed today. The leader of last year's "Wingate expedition" behind the Japanese lines, said at his headquarters that the "first stage of the airborne operation was completely successful; everything we set out to do has been done."

He paid tribute to the "faith and enthusiasm" of Col. Philip G. Cochran, leader of the American airborne command which, "joined to my own intimate knowledge of the problems, gave me confidence to overcome all obstacles."

"The Japanese are hardly a first-class military power," he said. "They are years behind us technically, though brave enough. Before you can kill Japs you must have a sound strategic plan, but a very small force, used imaginatively, will defeat them."

WINGATE COMMANDS ALLIED FORCE IN BURMA

DAY BONI

NEW DELHI, March 26—(AP) Major Gen. Orde Charles Wingate is in command of an Allied force which flew and marched into the Japanese rear in Burma three weeks ago, it was disclosed today.

The leader of last year's sensational "Wingate expedition" behind the Japanese lines, declared at his headquarters that the "first stage of the airborne operation was completely successful. Everything we set out to do has been done."

Wingate also disclosed that his forces' operations have been reinforced by a British column which made on overland penetration into Burma "through mountains where no troops nor patrols have ever been previously because the track was too steep and the undergrowth too thick."

U. S. Fliers Ambush Foe Returning on Burma Raid

DAY

By The Associated Press.

NEW DELHI, India, March 26—There was a definite connection between two apparently separate items issued today from different headquarters.

From General Headquarters, India, came an announcement that a small force of Japanese aircraft caused a small number of military and civilian casualties, but no damage, in a raid on the Cox's Bazaar area, about sixty miles below Chittagong, India, yesterday morning.

Southeast Asia headquarters said that at a Japanese air base in Burma our fighters downed seven enemy aircraft, destroyed two on the ground, damaged three more.

The Japanese were able to make their raid on the Cox's Bazaar area without interception. But a force of American-flown fighters was dispatched to wait for the raiders over their home field. Although outnumbered there, they caught the Japanese returning and made their expedition a costly one.

KURILES RAIDED BY U. S. BOMBERS

DAY ERICKSON

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, March 26—(AP) Eleventh Army Air force Liberators renewed their aerial pounding of the north Pacific Kurile islands Saturday with a predawn strike at Paramushiro and nearby Onnekotan island, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

In the central Pacific Caroline islands, a four-motored Coronado flying boat of Fleet Airwing Two caught and sank two small cargo vessels near Ponape Friday.

Polishing off small ships—usually the target for dive or skip bombing—is an exceptional feat with a plane as big and as hard to maneuver as a Coronado.

The raid on Paramushiro was the sixth attack on that rocky, fog-bound island this month. The strike at Onnekotan was the first ever made by an American plane against that island.

Onnekotan is a twenty-nine-mile-long volcanic island, twenty-nine miles southwest of Paramushiro. Foxes roam its scrub-covered slopes. Seals abound on the rocks offshore. Before the war small settlements existed at Blackiston and Nemo Bays, which offer anchorage for ships.

A search plane of Fleet Air Wing 4, bombed Shumushu, northernmost of the Kuriles. One American plane was lost in the raids.

In the Caroline Islands, in the Central Pacific, a four-motored Coronado flying boat of Fleet Air Wing 2 sank two small cargo vessels near Ponape Friday.

Mitchells of the 7th Air Force bombed the airstrip and adjacent buildings at Ponape on Friday in the fourteenth attack there this month. On the same day Army Navy and Marine Corps planes bombed and attacked three cut-off enemy positions in the Marshall Islands. All planes returned from the Central Pacific operations, Admiral Nimitz said.

U. S. Destroyers Shell St. Matthias Group Isle

DAVIS

Guadalcanal, Monday, March 27 (AP)—United States destroyers have shelled Eloaue, a tiny islet in the St. Matthias group off the south coast of Mussau and twenty miles from newly acquired Emirau Island, Admiral William Halsey's headquarters announced today.

A naval spokesman said dense vegetation obscured results of the bombardment. There has been no further word from Emirau, occupied a week ago by a strong force of marines.

300 JAPS KILLED ON BOUGAINVILLE

MAR 27 1944

Yanks Throw Back New Suicide Attack By 2,000 Foe

SPENCER NIGHT

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Monday, March 27 (AP). Two thousand Japanese hurled themselves against the American perimeter at Torokina on Bougainville Island last Thursday in another suicide offensive, but were thrown back after heavy fighting which left 300 Nipponese dead.

On the northern side of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's widespread battle area, cavalry troops which are mopping up the Admiralty Islands occupied the islets of Amo and Ndrove on the southeast coast of Manus Island without opposition on Friday.

Only 4 Yanks Killed

The Torokina fighting was bitter and bloody, but our losses were only 4 dead, 47 wounded and 1 missing.

Abandoning previous tactics of attacking at night, the Japanese threw themselves against our wire pillbox defenses in the afternoon. American forces hurled them back in a counterattack which restored the perimeter to its original position by 1 P. M. the next day.

American light bombers meantime attacked enemy supply areas and other targets along the perimeter, and naval units lent support with a barrage of shells which scored on Japanese shore batteries.

Jap Artillery Opens Up

Japanese artillery threw 70 shells into the American positions before launching their attacks on the northern section of the perimeter, and in the first rush apparently gained a few minor objectives. After the Japanese dug in for the night, their attack checked, the Americans moved forward in assault of their own and restored the lines.

While details from the battlefield were fragmentary, other attacks in the northern sector have been made over a narrow front of approximately 100 yards because of cliffs and hills which prevent widespread movement.

Previous Attack Recalled

It was only March 18 that MacArthur announced that the previous Japanese offensive against the American beachhead, which began March 8, "has completely broken down" with more than 1,100 dead Japanese counted.

Cut off from supplies and without hope of rescue, the Japanese are refusing to surrender and are breaking their heads against our lines which they were unable to pierce.

Occupation of the two small Admiralty Islands was undertaken purely in connection with the mopping-up action in progress in sections of Manus and Los Negros islands. There is no indication that the Japanese ever used the tiny islands, for they had no defenses there.

General MacArthur announced also that construction was being pressed without interference in the St. Matthias group, invaded March 20.

Allied bombers returned to rake New Guinea's Japanese-occupied north-northeast coast, pouring 207 tons of bombs on Wewak and the Boram airdrome there. Parked planes, buildings and supply areas were the prime targets.

Bombers also returned to shattered Rabaul on New Britain, smashing ten gun positions and starting big fires, and attacked Babo off Dutch New Guinea, Hansa Bay on New Guinea and Kavieng on New Ireland.

DIES, WINCHELL DEBATE ON AIR

MAR 27 1944

Commentator Is 'Being Used,' Representative Declares

Washington, March 26 (AP)—Representative Dies (D.,Texas), replying to statements about him and his Congressional committee by Walter Winchell, asserted tonight that the radio commentator is "being used" by what he called "one of the most sinister forces this nation ever faced."

He promised to expose that force which he identified as "a highly organized and well-financed enterprise to destroy by vilification the character of any public man who gets in the way of the objective of the groups who manage and finance this offensive."

Follows Winchell On Air

Dies, chairman of the Committee on Un-American Activities, spoke over the Blue Network immediately following Winchell's regular Sunday-night broadcast. The time was furnished by Winchell's sponsor, the Andrew Jergens Company.

Winchell, in what he called "a newspaperman's personal declaration of independence," had just specifically readopted every statement he ever made about Dies and challenged the Congressman to call him before the Committee on Un-American Activities, to take his complaints into court, or to waive Congressional immunity so Winchell himself could go to court.

Reception-Room Exchange

They spoke from separate studios at Station WMAL here, but met in the reception room after the broadcasts and exchanged acid remarks.

Winchell at that time reiterated his request to be subpoenaed, saying he had been waiting for the summons in Washington since Tuesday and would like to have it before he leaves town tomorrow afternoon.

"All in good time," replied Dies.

"Let's get together and tell some more lies about each other," Winchell jibed.

"I'd have to go some to get even," the Texan answered as he shouldered his way out of the crowd of spectators.

New Charges Forbidden

Winchell told his radio audience he had been specifically forbidden by his sponsors to make any new charges against Dies or any other Congressman in tonight's broadcast, or "until Mr. Dies has had a chance to answer what already has been said."

In his regular spot-news report and forecasts, preceding his formal discussion of his controversy with Dies, Winchell predicted that "several members of Congress tomorrow or Tuesday will introduce a resolution condemning alleged unauthorized use of the power of subpoena by the Special Committee on Un-American activities.

Senator Truman Backs Present War Leadership

MAR 27 1944

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP) Chairman Truman (D-Mo.) of the Senate War Investigating committee, declared today the country's "wise and experienced" war leadership must be "continued until the job at hand is completed"—and brought a prompt cry of "politics" from Republicans on the committee.

Senator Truman said in a press statement that the nation should give President Roosevelt, as commander-in-chief, "prayerful understanding and vigorous support" in the "hardest test we have yet to face"—the prospective invasion of Europe. The Republicans declared his views are "at variance" with the committee's conclusions.

Government Needs Support

"Because this is a political year," the Truman statement said, "there may be some unthinking partisans who might seek to capitalize upon the inevitable losses that may attend (war developments). The government will need the support and confidence of all citizens in the tasks that lie ahead of us. Our commander-in-chief will require the prayerful understanding and vigorous support in the momentous decisions that are his.

"I think the country realizes that we have wise and experienced leadership," the statement continued. "And I am further convinced that this leadership will be continued until the job at hand is completed. No one can divide us in this supreme effort. No patriot will attempt it."

The statement, mailed to newsmen by the office of the secretary of the Senate and circulated in the Capitol, prompted an immediate reply by Senators Brewster (R-Me.), Burton (R-Ohio) and Ball (R-Minn.) that while Senator Truman had a right to state his "political position" he did not speak for the War Investigating committee.

"The reports of the committee constitute the only statement of the committee's considered and impartial judgment of the caliber of leadership and administration displayed in the various phases of the war effort which have been scrutinized by the committee over the past three years," the trio said in a joint statement, adding:

"The findings of fact, conclusions and recommendations in these reports, all agreed to unanimously by committee members, are strongly at variance with those expressed by Senator Truman in his statement."

Senator Truman, who has been mentioned as a possible Democratic vice presidential candidate was en route to Seattle, Wash., for a subcommittee hearing on shipping when his statement was released.

He told reporters recently he plans a series of political speeches, such as those in Florida and at Milwaukee last week, but added he would make it clear he was speaking on such occasions as an individual and not a committee chairman.

Vichy Threatens To Hit Back For Purge Trials

New York, March 26 (AP)—The Vichy Government has threatened to take reprisals if Algiers tribunals order the execution of Frenchmen who, "under Marshal Petain's orders," opposed the Allied landings in North Africa, the Nazi-controlled Paris radio said today.

The overseas broadcast said the threat had been made in statements by Ambassador Fernand de Brinon, Vichy liaison official with the German administration in Paris, and Philippe Henriot, Vichy Secretary of State for Propaganda.

Pope Pius Makes New Rome Appeal

New York, March 26 (AP)—Pope Pius XII has addressed a new appeal to the Allies and Germans in Italy, "expressing his hope that Rome will be considered as an open city," the Bern radio reported today in a broadcast heard by CBS.

Monsignor Sheen Comments

New York, March 26 (AP)—The bombing of Rome would be in defiance of the Pope and repudiation of the only moral unarmed voice in the world," the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen asserted today.

"If Rome is destroyed, we will destroy ourselves, not because we topple bricks and stone, but because under the pretext of showing the shepherd the wolves, we will have become wolves ourselves, and while fighting for morality, we will have bombed out the island that is its center and its home."

COLUMBIA STUDENT MISSING

NEW YORK, March 26—(AP) Miss Valsa Matthai, 22, only daughter of John Matthai, prominent Indian industrialist, has been missing from her residence at the International House here since last Monday, the police said today. She is a student at Columbia university.

Bias On Irish Question Charged To U. S. Press

New Haven, Conn., March 26 (AP). Francis P. Matthews, of Omaha, Neb., supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, charged today that Eire's refusal to oust diplomats of the Axis powers was receiving "prejudicial, biased and unfair treatment . . . in the American press."

Matthews, speaking at a communion breakfast here, did not question the right of the United States to ask Eire to remove German and Japanese representatives from the country, but he asserted:

"The principles of the Atlantic Charter, if they mean anything, should be observed, and their observance would seem to exclude the maligning of a neutral nation for insisting upon the democratic right of maintaining its neutrality, especially when that neutrality, as is well known, has been most benevolent so far as the United Nations are concerned."

SEES U. S. BEST FOR NEGRO

British Interpreter Warns on Japanese Racial Talk

PHILADELPHIA, March 26 (AP) —"There is no future for the Negro in any country better than in this one," Lieut. Donald G. Harper, 49-year-old Negro interpreter for the British maritime service, who has lived in six countries and speaks eleven languages, including Japanese, said here today.

Lieutenant Harper, who is visiting his sister here while convalescing from war wounds, was born in London. He has lived in England, Germany, Japan, South Africa and Malta and is a graduate of the University of Berlin. He has been torpedoed six times and was machine gunned by a German flier while floating on a lifebelt.

"Any Negro who feels that the Japs feel a racial kinship to him is laboring under a terrifically false impression," he said. "The Japs feel as superior to the Negro as any bigoted white American."

Navy Widens Negro Openings

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26 (AP) —Comdr. E. H. Downes told a Twelfth Naval District symposium today that the Navy planned "a substantial increase" in the number of negroes assigned for special preparation at the naval training school at Hampton, Va., which he commands. Commander Downes, here to study with district commanders the more effective use of negro personnel, said the Navy would draw from its enlisted ranks for the commissioning of negro ensigns. "All ratings open to white personnel are open equally to colored personnel with advancement in rate dependent on ability to meet the standard Navy tests," Commander Downes said.

LUCKY TRANSPORT SURVIVES BATTLES

MAR 27 1944

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26—(AP) The Navy today told the story of the "lucky" Liggett, one of its amphibious force transports which has survived two years of south Pacific war without losing a man, and predicted that "if she ever steams into Tokyo bay the chances are she won't even get scratched."

The Liggett, the old Pan America of the Munson line, commanded by Coast Guard Capt. Roderick S. Patch, of Alameda, Calif., carried command personnel, troops and supplies in the Guadalcanal and Bougainville invasions and weathered everything Japanese air and surface craft threw at her.

In the initial Guadalcanal invasion Japanese bombs fell so close that the Liggett's crew said "another coat of paint would mean a hit." Following up a Yank invasion on a tiny unidentified island, the Liggett, loaded with ammunition and higher octane gasoline, eluded aerial bombardment although one near hit buckled her bow plates.

The Liggett survived the battle of Tassafaronga in which the cruisers Quincy, Astoria and Vincennes were sunk off Savo island. She carried on proudly as transport flagship in the Bougainville invasion to write "a bright chapter in Coast Guard history," the Navy said. Her landing boats were strafed at Empress Augusta bay and she escaped enemy bombing when Army and Navy fighters drove off Japanese attackers.

The coxswains of the Liggett's launches and landing barges have suffered bullet wounds but lived to continue their ship's exploits.

"She's just lucky," they say.

PLANTED FLAG IN ALGIERS

New York Corporal Braved Air and Land Attack by Foe

FORT DEVENS, Mass., March 26 (AP)—Despite snipers' bullets and attacking enemy planes overhead, Corp. Hyman I. Shakin of 2690 University Avenue, New York, planted the first United States flag in the city of Algiers at the start of the North African invasion.

Corporal Shakin, now recuperating from battle wounds at Lovell General Hospital, was attached to the Ninth Infantry Division. His unit was assigned to capture Radio Algiers, whose station was a short distance from the waterfront. A company cook, he volunteered to land with the first wave.

"Each company had a flag and the man with our flag was standing near me when enemy planes attacked," Corporal Shakin said. "I don't know why I did it but I took the flag from him. When we landed there was plenty of sniping, but I planted the flag right in front of the Bank of Algiers."

Corporal Shakin was wounded in the battle for Hill 609, when four Messerschmitts first bombed and then strafed his unit.

LONDON- YARBOROUGH-Add XXX disengagement

A PRAVDA DISPATCH DECLARED RUSSIAN TROOPS HAD BROKEN INTO KAMENETS-PODOLSK NORTHEAST OF CZERNOWITZ (CERNAUTI) AND STARTED STREET
FIGHTING IN THAT IMPORTANT TOWN.

BESIDES HOLDING A 50-MILE FRONT ON THE DNIESTER AND A GOOD BRIDGE-HEAD ACROSS IT, THE RUSSIANS NOW WERE IN POSITION TO PULL A CORD ON THE SACK FORMED BY KAMENETS-PODOLSK, MOGILEV-PODOLSKI AND PROSKUROV AND SNARE GERMAN FORCES ABOVE THE RIVER.

ALTHOUGH IT WAS NOT KNOWN HERE HOW MANY GERMANS MIGHT THUS BE TRAPPED, THEIR STRENGTH PRESUMABLY WAS LARGE.

MOSCOW DISPATCHES SAID REMNANTS OF DEFEATED GERMAN REGIMENTS WERE FLEEING FOR A BRIDGE ACROSS THE DNIESTER RIVER AT KAMENETS-PODOLSK, FACING A MARCH FROM KHOTIN ON THE BESSARABIAN SIDE TO CZERNOWITZ. THE NAZIS ABANDONED TONS OF EQUIPMENT, AND MANY WERE SAID TO BE FLEEING WITHOUT THEIR GUNS.

GERMAN OFFICERS WHO USUALLY ARE ARROGANT AND DEFIANT WERE DESCRIBED AS DEMORALIZED BY THIS HUGE DEFEAT, AND A PRAVDA DISPATCH SAID A GROUP OF OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS HAD SURRENDERED TO A TANK COMMANDER, SAYING
"GERMANY HAS LOST THE WAR, BUT WE WANT TO LIVE."

THE GERMAN SUNDAY COMMUNIQUE DECLARED "OUR TROOPS ARE ENGAGED IN HEAVY DEFENSIVE BATTLES ON THE ENTIRE FRONT BETWEEN PERVOMAISK AND EAST OF BRODY." THIS REPRESENTED A FRONT BEGINNING ABOUT 100 MILES ABOVE THE BLACK SEA AND EXTENDING INTO SOUTHEASTERN POLAND. EVEN BELOW PERVOMAISK, 100 MILES NORTHWEST OF THREATENED NIKOLAEV, THE RUSSIANS WERE MAKING REPEATED STABS IN AN EFFORT TO CROSS THE BUG, THE GERMANS SAID.

MAR 27 1944

THE GERMANS ALSO DECLARED THE SOVIETS HAD OPENED A NEW TANK-SUPPORTED ATTACK WITH SEVERAL INFANTRY DIVISIONS ON THE CENTRAL SECTOR NORTH OF THE PRIPET MARSHES BETWEEN THE DNIEPER RIVER AND CHAUSY, APPARENTLY STRIKING AGAINST MOGILEV. THE SOVIETS WERE BEATEN BACK, THE BULLETIN SAID, AND THEIR PENETRATIONS WIPED OUT. XM147PEW

RUMANIA HAD CEDED BESSARABIA, EAST OF THE PRUT TO THE DNIESTER RIVER, TO RUSSIA THE YEAR BEFORE.

"TROOPS OF THE SECOND UKRAINIAN FRONT, CONTINUING THEIR RESOLUTE OFFENSIVE, SEVERAL DAYS AGO FORCED THE RIVER DNIESTER ALONG A SECTOR 175 KILOMETERS (109 MILES) LONG, AND HAVING CAPTURED THE TOWN AND IMPORTANT RAILWAY JUNCTION OF BYELTSI AND DEVELOPING THEIR OFFENSIVE, HAVE REACHED OUR STATE FRONTIER, THE RIVER PRUT, ON A FRONT 85 KILOMETERS (53 MILES LONG," SAID THE ORDER OF THE DAY AS RECORDED BY THE SOVIET MONITOR FROM A MOSCOW BROADCAST. CHURCHILL HIGHLIGHTS

LONDON, MARCH 26-(AP)-SOME HIGHLIGHT QUOTATIONS FROM PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S RADIO ADDRESS TONIGHT:

HE IS A RASH MAN WHO TRIES TO PROPHESY WHEN OR HOW OR UNDER WHAT CONDITIONS VICTORY WILL COME. BUT COME IT WILL--THAT, AT LEAST, IS SURE.

MUSSOLINI, INDEED, ESCAPED TO EAT THE BREAD OF AFFLICTION AT HITLER'S TABLE, TO SHOOT HIS SON-IN-LAW AND HELP THE GERMANS WREAK VENGEANCE AMONG THE ITALIAN MASSES WHOM HE HAD PROFESSED TO LOVE AND OVER WHOM HE HAD RULED FOR MORE THAN 20 YEARS.

THIS FATE AND JUDGMENT MORE TERRIBLE THAN DEATH HAS OVERTAKEN THE VAINGLORIOUS DICTATOR WHO STABBED FRANCE IN THE BACK AND THOUGHT HIS CRIME HAD GAINED HIM EMPIRE OF THE MEDITERRANEAN.

WE HAVE SWEPT OUT OF THE STRUGGLE 66 ITALIAN DIVISIONS AND WE ARE HOLDING IN ITALY, FOR THE MOST PART IN CLOSE ACTION, NEARLY 25 GERMAN DIVISIONS AND A NOTEWORTHY PART OF THE GERMAN AIR FORCE, MORE OF WHOM CAN BLEED AND BURN IN THE LAND OF THEIR FORMER ALLY WHILE OTHER

AND EVEN MORE IMPORTANT EVENTS WHICH MIGHT REQUIRE THEIR PRESENCE ARE IMPENDING ELSEWHERE.

WHEN I LOOK BACK ON THE 55 MONTHS OF THIS HARD AND OBSTINATE WAR... I STILL RATE HIGHEST AMONG THE DANGERS WE HAVE OVERCOME THE U-BOAT ATTACKS UPON OUR SHIPPING.

WE HAD OURSELVES A LARGE AIRFORCE IN THIS ISLAND THIS TIME LAST YEAR. WE HAVE A LARGER ONE TODAY, BUT BESIDES ALL THAT, OUR AMERICAN ALLY HAS NOW DEFINITELY OVERTAKEN AND OUTNUMBERED US IN THE MIGHTY AIRFORCE THEY HAVE ESTABLISHED HERE. EITHER...IS NEARLY AS LARGE IN NUMBERS, AND IN POWER MUCH GREATER THAN THE WHOLE AIR FORCE OF GERMANY.

THE (RUSSIAN) ADVANCE...FROM STALINGRAD TO THE DNIESTER RIVER WITH VANGUARDS REACHING OUT TOWARDS THE PRUT--A DISTANCE OF 900 MILES ACCOMPLISHED IN A SINGLE YEAR--CONSTITUTES THE GREATEST CAUSE OF HITLER'S UNDOING.

SINCE I SPOKE TO YOU LAST, NOT ONLY HAVE THE HUN INVADERS BEEN DRIVEN FROM LAND THEY HAVE RAVAGED, BUT THE GUTS OF THE GERMAN ARMY HAVE BEEN LARGELY TORN OUT BY RUSSIAN VALOR AND GENERALSHIP.

THE DEBT WHICH THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH OF NATIONS OWES TO THE UNITED STATES FOR THE FACT THAT THEIR OPERATIONS AGAINST THE JAPANESE SHIELDED AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND FROM JAPANESE AGGRESSION AND FROM MORTAL PERIL DURING THE PERIOD WHEN THE MOTHER COUNTRY WAS AT FULL STRETCH IN THE STRUGGLE AGAINST GERMANY AND ITALY: THAT DEBT IS ONE

WHICH WILL NEVER BE FORGOTTEN IN ANY LAND WHERE THE UNION JACK IS FLOWN.

REMARKABLE SUCCESS HAS ATTENDED THE WORK OF THE AMERICAN NAVY AND THE AMERICAN, AUSTRALIAN AND NEW ZEALAND TROOPS.

IT IS POSSIBLE THAT THE WAR IN THE PACIFIC MAY PROGRESS MORE RAPIDLY THAN WAS FORMERLY THOUGHT POSSIBLE. THE JAPANESE ARE SHOWING SIGNS OF GREAT WEAKNESS.

WHAT FOOLS THE JAPANESE RULING CASTE WERE TO BRING AGAINST THEMSELVES THE MIGHT AND LATENT WAR ENERGY OF THE GREAT REPUBLIC ALL FOR THE SAKE OF CARRYING OUT A BASE AND SQUALID AMBUSCADE.

THE BRITISH EMPIRE AND COMMONWEALTH OF NATIONS HAVE PLEDGED THEMSELVES TO FIGHT SIDE BY SIDE WITH THE UNITED STATES AGAINST JAPAN NO MATTER WHAT IT COSTS OR HOW LONG IT LASTS. ACTUALLY, WE HAVE SUFFERED FROM THE JAPANESE INJURIES EVEN GREATER THAN THOSE WHICH HAVE ROUSED THE ARMED WRATH OF THE AMERICAN UNION.

IN BURMA THOSE PLANS WHICH WERE PREPARED LAST AUGUST AT QUEBEC ARE NOW BEING PUT INTO PRACTICE. X X X INDIVIDUAL FIGHTING SUPERIORITY IN THE JUNGLE HAS DEFINITELY PASSED TO THE BRITISH AND INDIAN SOLDIERS AS COMPARED WITH THE JAPANESE.

WE HAVE PLACED A POWERFUL BATTLEFLEET UNDER ADMIRAL SOMERVILLE IN INDIAN WATERS IN ORDER TO FACE THE MAIN PART OF THE JAPANESE FLEET SHOULD IT TURN WESTWARDS AFTER HAVING DECLINED BATTLE AGAINST THE AMERICANS.

MAR 27 1944

WHEN I SPOKE A YEAR AGO I DREW ATTENTION TO THE POSSIBILITY THAT THERE WOULD BE A PROLONGED INTERVAL BETWEEN THE COLLAPSE OF HITLER AND THE DOWNFALL OF JAPAN. I STILL THINK THERE WILL BE AN INTERVAL, BUT I DO NOT CONSIDER IT WILL BE AS LONG AN INTERVAL AS I THOUGHT A YEAR AGO.

THE HOUR OF GREATEST EFFORT IS COMING. X X X HERE I MUST WARN YOU THAT TO DECEIVE AND BAFFLE THE ENEMY THERE WILL BE MANY FALSE ALARMS, FEINTS AND DRESS REHEARSALS. WE MAY BE THE OBJECT OF NEW FORMS OF ATTACK. BRITAIN CAN TAKE IT; SHE HAS NEVER FLINCHED.

WHEN THE SIGNAL IS GIVEN, THE WHOLE CIRCLE OF AVENGING NATIONS WILL HURL THEMSELVES ON THE FOE AND BATTER OUT THE LIFE OF THE WORST TYRANNY WHICH HAS EVER SOUGHT TO HALT THE PROGRESS OF MANKIND.

BY ERNEST AGNEW

LONDON, MARCH 26--(AP)--PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL TONIGHT USED THE RINGING SCORN OF WHICH HE IS SO ABLE A MASTER AGAINST THOSE ARMCHAIR CRITICS WHO, HE SAID, "BELABOR THE GOVERNMENT WITH CRITICISM AND CONDEMN THEM AS UNPROFITABLE SERVANTS."

THERE WAS UNMISTAKABLE HEAT IN THAT SECTION OF HIS RADIO ADDRESS IN WHICH HE DEFENDED THE COALITION GOVERNMENT WHICH "BROUGHT THE BRITISH ISLES AND THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH AND EMPIRE OUT OF THE JAWS OF DEATH, BACK FROM THE MOUTH OF HELL, WHILE ALL THE WORLD WONDERED."

MANY LISTENERS WONDERED WHY CHURCHILL, USUALLY SO CONFIDENTLY DISDAINFUL OF CRITICS, FELT CALLED UPON TO MAKE A DEFENSE OR UNDERLINE THE MANIFOLD ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF HIS GOVERNMENT.

IN MAKING A LONG COMMENTARY ON WHAT THE GOVERNMENT HAS DONE AND PLANS FOR AFTER THE WAR, HE LAUDED TWO MINISTERS, LORD WOOLTON, FORMER MINISTER OF FOOD, NOW MINISTER FOR RECONSTRUCTION, AND ERNEST BEVIN, LABOR MINISTER.

CHURCHILL MAY HAVE FELT THE DEFENSE OF HIS GOVERNMENT WAS NEEDED BECAUSE OF DEFEATS IN TWO RECENT PARLIAMENTARY BY-ELECTIONS AND TWO VOTES IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS IN WHICH THE GOVERNMENT NARROWLY ESCAPED DEFEAT, AND ALSO BECAUSE OF THE RISING CRITICISM AGAINST WHAT

SOME BRITISH PAPERS AND PARLIAMENT MEMBERS CALL THE FAILURE OF THE CABINET TO IMPLEMENT PLANS FOR BETTER POST-WAR SOCIAL CONDITIONS.

EVEN BEFORE SUCH CRITICISM BECAME LOUD, THERE WERE REPORTS THAT CHURCHILL WAS PLANNING TO RESHUFFLE THE CABINET IN SEARCH OF MEN BETTER SUITED FOR CERTAIN POSTS.

LATEST REPORTS SAID ANTHONY EDEN MIGHT LEAVE THE FOREIGN OFFICE AND LORD BEAVERBROOK MIGHT GET SOME JOB OTHER THAN HIS PRESENT ONE OF LORD PRIVY SEAL. EDEN IS REPORTED DISSATISFIED BECAUSE FOREIGN POLICY-MAKING HAS BEEN TAKEN OUT OF HIS HANDS BY CHURCHILL, AND BEAVERBROOK IS REPORTED UNHAPPY AT HAVING NO DEFINITE RESPONSIBILITIES.

IF EDEN SHOULD RETIRE AS FOREIGN SECRETARY, ONE OF THE MOST LIKELY CHOICES AS A SUCCESSOR IS BELIEVED TO BE LORD CRANBORNE, NOW LEADER OF THE HOUSE OF LORDS AND DOMINIONS SECRETARY.

MAR 27 1944

OTHERS MENTIONED IN POSSIBLE CABINET SHIFTS INCLUDE EMMANUEL SHINWELL AS MINISTER OF FUEL AND POWER TO SUCCEED MAJ. GWILYAM LLOYD GEORGE OR IN A SENIOR POST IN CHARGE OF SHIPPING, AND ROBERT HUDSON AS MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE.

SEVERAL JUNIOR MINISTERS ALSO MIGHT BE EXPECTED TO GET PROMOTIONS IF THE CABINET SHOULD BE SHAKEN UP. BY1044PEW

LONDON, MARCH 26-(AP)-IN DISCUSSING BRITISH DOMESTIC PROBLEMS IN HIS RADIO ADDRESS TONIGHT, PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL DECLARED THAT A FOUR-YEAR PLAN OF EDUCATION, PUBLIC HEALTH IMPROVEMENTS AND NATIONAL INSURANCE WHICH HE PROPOSED A YEAR AGO AS A POST-WAR PROGRAM ALREADY HAD BEEN WELL STARTED WITHOUT RELAXING THE WAR EFFORT.

"IF THIS PROCESS CONTINUES AND THE WAR GOES ON LONG ENOUGH, A GREATER PART OF MY FOUR-YEAR PLAN MAY VERY WELL BE PERFECTED AND LARGELY IN OPERATION BEFORE WE REACH A GENERAL ELECTION AND GIVE THE PEOPLE A CHANCE TO SAY WHAT THEY THINK ABOUT IT," HE DECLARED.

HE SAID THE EDUCATION PROGRAM WAS "THE GREATEST SCHEME FOR IMPROVED EDUCATION THAT HAS EVER BEEN ATTEMPTED BY A RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT," THAT IT SOON WOULD BE ON THE STATUTE BOOKS, AND WHILE ITS COST WAS HEAVY, IT WAS AN ESSENTIAL TO MAINTAINING BRITAIN'S PLACE IN THE POST-WAR WORLD.

THE HEALTH SERVICE PROGRAM ALREADY HAS BEEN PLACED BEFORE PARLIAMENT IN OUTLINE, HE SAID, WHILE "A VAST AMOUNT OF PATIENT WORK" HAS BEEN DONE ON INSURANCE.

MAR 27 1944

ONE MILLION BRITISH HOMES HAVE BEEN DESTROYED OR DAMAGED BY THE ENEMY, THE PRIME MINISTER NOTED, AND "THIS OFFERS AN OPPORTUNITY FOR REBUILDING OR REPLANNING, AND WE HAD BETTER MAKE A CLEAN SWEEP OF THE AREAS OF WHICH WE SHOULD BE ASHAMED."

REPAIR OF DAMAGED HOUSES MUST GO FORWARD NOW, HE SAID, BECAUSE THIS IS A WAR MEASURE.

FOR THE IMMEDIATE POST-WAR PERIOD, PREFABRICATED EMERGENCY HOUSES MUST BE THE ANSWER, THE PRIME MINISTER DECLARED, AND "I HOPE WE MAKE UP A HALF-MILLION OF THEM."

FACTORIES ALREADY ARE BEING ASSIGNED, MATERIALS EARMARKED AND SITES CHOSEN, BECAUSE "I HAVE EVERY HOPE AND FIRM RESOLVE THAT SEVERAL HUNDRED THOUSAND OF OUR YOUNG MEN WILL BE ABLE TO MARRY SEVERAL HUNDRED THOUSAND OF OUR YOUNG WOMEN AND MAKE THEIR OWN FOUR-YEAR PLAN."

LONDON, MONDAY, MARCH 27-(AP)-FORMATIONS OF RAF HEAVY BOMBERS HAMMERED TARGETS IN GERMANY AND OCCUPIED TERRITORY LAST NIGHT, (HERCHER) THE BRITISH ANNOUNCED TODAY, IN THE WAKE OF A SERIES OF HEAVY DAYLIGHT RAIDS ON FRANCE AND THE NETHERLANDS BY A GREAT FLEET OF APPROXIMATELY 1,700 AMERICAN PLANES.

MAR 27 1944

THE SPECIFIC OBJECTIVES OF THE OVERNIGHT BRITISH RAIDS WERE NOT IMMEDIATELY ANNOUNCED.

HEAVY BOMBERS, MEDIUM BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS PARTICIPATED IN THE WIDESPREAD AMERICAN RAIDS YESTERDAY, DURING WHICH TARGETS ALONG THE INVASION COAST WERE BATTERED AND AIRDROMES WITHIN SIGHT OF PARIS WERE STRAFED BY THUNDERBOLTS ALMOST UNOPPOSED BY THE NAZI AIR FORCE.

STRONG FORCES OF FLYING FORTRESSES AND LIBERATORS, --BETWEEN 500 AND 750 OF THEM--POUNDED THE PAS-DE-CALAIS STRETCH OF COAST, 20 MILES ACROSS THE CHANNEL, WITH THUNDEROUS BARRAGES WHICH SHOOK WINDOWS IN BRITAIN, AND BOMBED MILITARY INSTALLATIONS IN THE CHERBOURG AREA 200 MILES TO THE SOUTH IN THE WIDESPREAD INVASION COAST ATTACKS.

AT THE NORTHERN END OF THE COASTAL ATTACK, AMERICAN MARAUDERS BIT SAVAGELY INTO THE IJMUIDEN DOCKS OF HOLLAND WITH THEIR BOMB SALVOS.

THE THUNDERBOLTS, ATTACKING WITHIN SIGHT OF THE EIFFEL TOWER, SHOT UP FLAK TOWERS, GROUNDED AIRCRAFT AND BUILDINGS AT CHARTRES CHATEAUDUN AND ST.ANDRE DE L'EURE.

THESE SIZZLING OPERATIONS, THE 20TH MAJOR BLOW BY THE AMERICAN AIRFORCES, COST FIVE BOMBERS AND ONE FIGHTER, A U.S. COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED.

THE HARD-HITTING DAY MISSIONS TREAD CLOSELY ON A RAF HEAVY BOMBER STRIKE OF MEDIUM SIZE AGAINST AULNOYE, AN IMPORTANT FRENCH RAILWAY JUNCTION ON THE BELGIAN BORDER, AGAINST LYON IN SOUTHEASTERN FRANCE, AND ANOTHER MOSQUITO FORAY AGAINST BERLIN SATURDAY NIGHT.

TODAY'S RAIDS BY THE AMERICANS WERE THE LATEST IN A SEVEN-DAY PERIOD IN WHICH AT LEAST 12,000 SORTIES HAD BEEN FLOWN AGAINST NAZI TARGETS IN EUROPE AND IN WHICH AT LEAST 16,000 U.S. TONS OF BOMBS HAD POURED OUT ON THE GERMANS BY THE ALLIES.

"NEITHER BOMBERS OR P-47 THUNDERBOLTS OF THE EIGHTH AND NINTH AIR FORCES WHICH PROVIDED ESCORT SAW ANY ENEMY FIGHTERS, ALTHOUGH THEY FLEW THROUGH SOME FLAK," THE U.S. HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCEMENT SAID.

THE GERMANS NEW RADIO STATION LOCATED IN FRANKFURT WHICH GIVES WARNINGS ON THE APPROACH OF ALLIED PLANES, BROADCAST AT 9 P.M. TONIGHT THAT "NUISANCE RAIDERS WERE APPROACHING WESTERN GERMANY"--AN INDICATION THAT THE ALLIED AERIAL OFFENSIVE WAS CONTINUING.

MAR 27 1944

THE FRANKFURT RADIO LATER WARNED OF ENEMY FORMATIONS OVER WESTERN GERMANY WITH SINGLE PLANES OVER CENTRAL GERMANY AND SOME OVER FRANKFURT ITSELF. THE SERIES OF ANNOUNCEMENTS POINTED TO EXTENSIVE BUT NOT UNUSUALLY LARGE NIGHT RAF OPERATIONS.

IN ADDITION TO OTHER OF THE DAY'S OPERATIONS, A SMALL FORCE OF RAF AND RCAF MOSQUITOS ATTACKED MILITARY OBJECTIVES IN NORTHERN FRANCE.

FROM INFORMATION MADE PUBLIC BY THE U.S. STRATEGIC AIR FORCE, IT IS ESTIMATED THAT ABOUT 8,500 AMERICAN WARPLANES, OPERATING FROM BRITISH BASES, HAD BEEN IN COMBAT DURING THE PAST WEEK, DROPPING MORE THAN 8,000 TONS OF BOMBS.

OF THIS TONNAGE, 1,500 TONS WERE HURLED AT BERLIN ON WEDNESDAY.

30.24-14127

PERHAPS A HEAVIER LOAD ON FRANKFURT IN TWO ATTACKS, AND THE REST DIVIDED AMONG VARIOUS TARGETS.

MAR 27 1944

THE RAF IS ESTIMATED TO HAVE SENT 3,500 PLANES ALOFT--MOSTLY FOR HEAVY BOMBING--AND DROPPED ALMOST 8,960 TONS IN FEWER, MORE CONCENTRATED RAIDS. IT UNLOADED A RECORD 3,360 TONS ON FRANKFURT WEDNESDAY NIGHT AND ANOTHER 2,800 TONS ON BERLIN FRIDAY NIGHT.

IN A SUMMARY OF THE "ALMOST CONTINUOUS ASSAULT ON FORTRESS EUROPE" DURING THE WEEK ENDED SATURDAY, THE U.S. AIRFORCE SAID MORE THAN 6,000 INDIVIDUAL FLIGHTS WERE MADE AGAINST THE GERMAN WAR MACHINE IN GERMANY, AUSTRIA, ITALY AND THE BALKANS BY BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS OF THE EIGHTH, NINTH AND 15TH AIR FORCES.

THE REPORT FOR THE FIRST TIME PUBLICLY DISTINGUISHED BETWEEN "MASSED ATTACKS" BY BOMBER DIVISIONS (FROM 432 PLANES UPWARD) AND SMALLER OPERATIONS BY WHAT THE U.S. AIR FORCE CALLED "FLYING TASK FORCES."

IT WAS ANNOUNCED THAT RECONNAISSANCE DISCLOSED VERY HEAVY DAMAGE HAD BEEN INFLICTED ON A LARGE GRINDING WHEEL FACTORY IN FRANKFURT, WHICH WAS A MAJOR SOURCE FOR GERMANY'S INDUSTRY. ABOUT 45 PER CENT OF THE BUILDING AREA WAS DAMAGED STRUCTURALLY AND AN ADDITIONAL 20 PER CENT WAS DAMAGED EXTERNALLY BY FIRE IN TWO ATTACKS MADE THROUGH CLOUDS.

MAR 27 1944

IN ONE FRANKFURT PLANT MANUFACTURING AIRCRAFT AND MOTOR TRANSPORT PARTS, 19 OF 24 BUILDINGS WERE DESTROYED OR SEVERELY DAMAGED WHILE IN ANOTHER SIMILAR PLANT 13 OF 24 BUILDINGS WERE SMASHED.

BOTH ITALIAN AND BRITISH-BASED AMERICAN PLANES DESTROYED 140 GERMAN PLANES AND DAMAGED MANY MORE IN THE AIR, AND DAMAGED OR DESTROYED OTHERS ON THE GROUND. THE LOSSES WERE 81 BOMBERS AND 42 FIGHTERS.

IT WAS THE 65TH ALLIED AERIAL BLOW AT THE PAS-DE-CALAIS AREA IN 113 DAYS.

MAR 27 1944

SIMULTANEOUSLY, FORMATIONS OF AMERICAN MARAUDER BOMBERS, BRITISH MEDIUM MITCHELLS AND LIGHTER BOSTONS, AND SPITFIRE FIGHTERS RAINED EXPLOSIVES ON THE DUTCH PORT OF IJMUIDEN.

IN ALL, PROBABLY MORE THAN 2,400 TONS OF BOMBS WERE LOOSED UPON HITLER'S COASTAL DEFENSES DURING THE DAY.

THE SMASHING DAYLIGHT OFFENSIVE WAS PRESSED CLOSE UPON A MEDIUM-SIZED RAF ATTACK LAST NIGHT ON AULNOYE, AN IMPORTANT FRENCH RAILWAY JUNCTION ON THE BELGIAN BORDER, ON LYON IN SOUTHEASTERN FRANCE AND ANOTHER MOSQUITO RAID ON BERLIN--WHICH WAS HIT BY 2,800 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES BY THE RAF'S HEAVIES ON THE NIGHT BEFORE.

IN CONTRAST TO THE FRIDAY NIGHT ATTACK ON BERLIN AND OTHER TARGETS IN WHICH THE RAF LOST 73 BOMBERS TO GERMAN FIGHTERS AND ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE, ONLY ONE BRITISH PLANE FAILED TO RETURN FROM THE NIGHT ASSAULTS.

THREE GIANT EXPLOSIONS OCCURRED DURING THE ATTACK ON AULNOYE AND FIRES WHICH SPREAD THROUGH THE TOWN, ON ONE OF THE MAIN RAIL LINES BETWEEN FRANCE AND GERMANY, WERE VISIBLE 100 MILES AWAY. A GREAT BEACON OF SMOKE STILL BILLOWED OVER THE SECTOR TODAY.

THE BLOW WAS ANOTHER IN THE COORDINATED ALLIED ASSAULTS ON RAIL FEEDERS TO THE GERMANS' ATLANTIC WALL IN WHICH A DOZEN KEY JUNCTIONS HAVE BEEN SMASHED IN AS MANY RAIDS THIS MONTH.

TARGETS ASSIGNED TO THE LIBERATORS AND FORTRESSES IN THE DAYLIGHT SWEEP REQUIRED PRECISION BOMBING AND THE EIGHTH AIRFORCE HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCEMENT SAID THAT "GOOD WEATHER PERMITTED VISUAL BOMBING OF PRECISION TARGETS." AN APPARENT ABSENCE OF GERMAN FIGHTER OPPOSITION

ENABLED THE AMERICANS TO ACCOMPLISH THEIR PIN-POINT HITS.

A RELATIVELY SMALL FORCE OF THUNDERBOLTS--PROBABLY LESS THAN 200--ACCOMPANIED THE AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBERS.

MAR 27 1944

THE FORMATIONS OF ALLIED CRAFT INVOLVED IN THE DAYLIGHT OPERATIONS WERE SO GREAT THAT EVEN EAST ANGLIAN RESIDENTS LONG ACCUSTOMED TO THE PARADE OF ALLIED MIGHT LEFT THEIR SUNDAY DINNERS TO WATCH THE BOMBERS STREAM THROUGH SUMMERY SKIES OVER THE CHANNEL.

RECONNAISSANCE FOLLOWING THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH POWER BLOWS AT FRANKFURT LAST WEEK SHOWED ALMOST THE WHOLE COMMERCIAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE PARTS OF THE CITY PRACTICALLY DESTROYED. FIRES STILL BURNED WHEN THE RECONNAISSANCE WAS MADE SATURDAY AFTERNOON. THE RAF POURED THE GREATEST WEIGHT OF BOMBS OF THE WAR--OVER 3,000 LONG TONS--ON FRANKFURT WEDNESDAY NIGHT AND HUNDREDS OF AMERICAN BOMBERS HIT THE CITY FRIDAY.

ALL THE FORTRESSES BRIEFED FOR THE CHERBOURG JOB TODAY RETURNED SAFELY WITH ENTHUSIASTIC STORIES OF THE EFFECTIVENESS OF THEIR BOMBING.

"SMOKE POURED UP AFTER THE BOMBING" AT PAS-DE-CALAIS, SAID SGT. CHARLES A.SCHRAG, 20, NAVARRE, OHIO, A BALL TURRET GUNNER, WHO TOLD OF SIMILAR SUCCESS IN THAT OPERATION. "WHITE PUFFS OF SMOKE BILLOWED IN REGULAR RELAYS."

SGT.ROBERT H.GROEBNER, 20, NEW ULM, MINN., A WAIST GUNNER, SAID SMOKE COVERED THE ENTIRE BOMBING AREA.

"OUR BOMBS WERE DIRECTLY ON THE TARGET," SAID LT.FORREST E. FLAGLER, 27, EL RENO, OKLA., LEAD BOMBARDIER IN ONE OF THE GROUPS GOING TO CHERBOURG. "WE GOT A LOT OF BEAUTIFUL HITS."

LT.ALEXA DARBUT, 23, 1235 KAGE ST., PITTSBURGH,PA., ANOTHER FORTRESS BOMBARDIER, SAID "WE HIT OUR TARGET AND IT LOOKED LIKE WE KNOCKED IT TO PIECES. BOMBS KICKED UP BIG CLOUDS OF DUST AND SMOKE ROSE SEVERAL THOUSAND FEET."

"THERE WERE MANY TARGETS TODAY AND SMOKE AND FLAME WAS SHOOTING UP ALL OVER THE AREA," SAID SGT.WILLIAM M.LINDGREM, 21, 3580 WEST 111TH ST. INGLEWOOD,CALIF. "ONE INSTALLATION IN PARTICULAR WAS LEFT A MASS OF FLAMES."

LONDON, MARCH 26-(AP)-THE LARGEST FLEET OF U.S. MEDIUM BOMBERS EVER TO FLY FROM BRITAIN--ALMOST 350 NINTH AIR FORCE MARAUDERS--DROPPED MORE THAN 600 TONS OF BOMBS TODAY ON THE NAZI E-BOAT NESTS AT IJMUIDEN, A DUTCH PORT OCCUPYING A STRATEGIC POSITION ON THE EASTERN APPROACHES TO THE DOVER STRAIT.

FOLLOWING RAF AND DUTCH MITCHELLS AND BOSTONS OF THE SECOND TACTICAL AIR FORCE WHICH ATTACKED IJMUIDEN EARLY IN THE AFTERNOON, FOUR SEPARATE FORMATIONS OF MARAUDERS MOVED IN FROM THE NORTH SEA AT 15-MINUTE INTERVALS AND BLASTED THE HIDEOUTS FOR THE GERMAN MOTOR TORPEDO BOATS WHICH HAVE THREATENED ALLIED SHIPPING OFF THE SOUTHEAST COAST OF ENGLAND.

THE MARAUDERS SETTLED AN OLD SCORE WHEN THEY POUNDED THE U-BOAT PENS WITH MORE THAN 700 (CORRECT) TONS OF BOMBS AT A COST OF BUT A SINGLE PLANE.

THEY DID IT FOR THE BOYS WHO FELL THERE 10 MONTHS AGO.

TEN MARAUDERS WENT OVER THE LITTLE DUTCH TOWN AT LOW LEVEL MAY 27, 1943, IN THE MARAUDERS' SECOND OPERATION IN THE EUROPEAN WAR THEATER. NOT A SINGLE SHIP RETURNED.

AS THEIR FORCES GREW AND THEY HAMMERED THE NAZIS FROM MEDIUM ALTITUDES, THE MARAUDER CREWS EAGERLY AWAITED THE CHANCE TO AVENGE THAT LICKING.

MORE THAN 2,000 MEN FLEW ON THE RECORD RAID TODAY, STORMING OUT OF BRIGHT SKIES THROUGH A BITTER BARRAGE OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE TO BLAST THE TARGET, SQUARING ACCOUNTS WITH INTEREST.

LEADING THE FLEET WAS LT. COL. G.C.CELIO OF NEVADA CITY, CALIF., WHO FLEW A MARAUDER ON THE FIRST ETO MISSION, ALSO AGAINST IJMUIDEN HE AGREED WITH LT. BENJAMIN R. TILMAN OF TAMPA, FLA., BOMBARDIER-NAVIGATOR, THAT "REVENGE IS SWEET."

LONDON - LONG - ADD XXX GERMANY

LONDON--INSERT AFTER SECOND GRAF BALKANS X X X INTO GERMANY.

AN ALLIED POLITICAL OFFENSIVE TO BRING BULGARIA INTO THE ALLIED CAMP AND UNDERMINE A LIKELY BASE FOR THE GERMANS IN THE DANUBE-CARPATHIAN DEFENSE LINE IS REGARDED AS A STRONG POSSIBILITY.

SEVERAL FACTORS COULD CONTRIBUTE TO THE SUCCESS OF SUCH A CAMPAIGN--ONE OF WHICH IS THAT SOVIET RUSSIA PROBABLY WOULD TAKE THE LEADING ROLE, PERHAPS WITH BRITISH AND AMERICAN GUARANTEES OF BULGARIA'S POST-

WAR INDEPENDENCE. MOSCOW AND SOFIA STILL MAINTAIN DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS.

MAR 27 1944

A HINT OF SUCH A POLITICAL OFFENSIVE MAY BE DRAWN FROM PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S SPEECH. HE PRAISED THE WORK OF MARSHAL TITO'S PARTISANS; SAID "THERE IS MUCH TO BE DONE IN THE BALKANS AND I DO NOT DOUBT THAT THEY WILL BE DONE IN A WORKMANLIKE STYLE." THAT THE TIME IS RIPE FOR ACTION THERE MIGHT BE INTERPRETED FROM CHURCHILL'S STATEMENT THAT "PANIC AND FRENZY" EXIST NOW IN BULGARIA, RUMANIA AND HUNGARY.

WITH THE RED ARMY ALREADY POISED AT THE PRUT RIVER BORDER OF RUMANIA AND WITHIN SIGHT OF THE CARPATHIAN BARRIER, IT OBVIOUSLY WAS BUT A MATTER OF DAYS UNTIL THE GERMANS COULD BE CUT OFF FROM ALL COMMUNICATION AND SUPPLY LINES TO THE PRUT AND DANUBE BASIN BATTLEFIELDS EXCEPT THROUGH THE PASSES OF THE CARPATHIAN RANGE, WHICH TWISTS LIKE A PORTENTIOUS QUESTION MARK THROUGH HUNGARY AND RUMANIA TO BULGARIA.

THE DRIVE TO THE PRUT IS ALREADY DOOMING THE GERMAN STAND AT THE BLACK SEA PORTS OF NIKOLAEV AND ODESSA AND THE QUESTION NOW IS HOW MUCH OF EASTERN RUMANIA HITLER WILL BE ABLE TO SAVE--EVEN WITHOUT AN EVER-POSSIBLE DIVERTING INVASION BY THE ALLIES FROM THE SOUTH.

REPORTS HEARD IN ISTANBUL, TURKEY, THAT GERMAN ARMOR WAS POURING THROUGH THE RUMANIAN AND HUNGARIAN SLAVE STATES WERE TAKEN THERE TO INDICATE A MASSIVE NEW GERMAN OFFENSIVE IN THE SOUTHEASTERN CAULDRON WHERE HITLER'S IRON WALL HAS MELTED UNDER THE HEAT OF THE SOVIET ONSLAUGHT.

LONDON SOURCES, HOWEVER, WERE MUCH MORE INCLINED TO REGARD THE ENTIRE MOVEMENT AS DICTATED BY THE DESPERATE NECESSITIES OF DEFENSE, FORCED UPON THE GERMAN ARMY BY THE SUCCESSFUL DEVELOPMENT OF ALLIED STRATEGY AGREED ON AT THE TEHERAN CONFERENCE TO SPREAD GERMANY'S FIGHTING POWER THIN AT THE HOUR OF IMMINENT TRIAL.

MAR 27 1944

THE WHOLE MILITARY POSITION SUGGESTS THAT THE AREAS OF NORTHEASTERN RUMANIA FROM THE PRUT TO THE CARPATHIANS AND SOUTH TO THE DANUBE ARE AS GOOD AS LOST TO THE GERMANS. AND THE LACK OF ANY MOUNTAIN BARRIER FROM THE MOUTH OF THE DANUBE WESTWARD TO BUCHAREST AND PLOESTI SHOW CLEARLY ENOUGH WHY HITLER WOULD NEED ARMORED DIVISIONS FOR ANY SUCCESSFUL DEFENSE SHORT OF THE DANUBIAN IRON GATE TO BELGRADE.

A RUSSIAN ADVANCE ON INTO THE DANUBE DELTA COUNTRIES WOULD POSE A PONDEROUS NEW POLITICAL PROBLEM FOR HITLER: HOW TO HOLD BULGARIA.

MEANWHILE, THE INCREASING DESPERATENESS OF HIS POSITION IS BRINGING OUT CONSTANTLY MOUNTING INTERFERENCE FROM GUERRILLA GROUPS.

MOSCOW AND LONDON BROADCASTS RECORDED BY THE U.S. FOREIGN BROADCAST INTELLIGENCE SERVICE QUOTED ISTANBUL REPORTS THAT GERMANY HAD CLOSED BOTH THE HUNGARIAN-RUMANIAN AND RUMANIAN-YUGOSLAV BORDERS, AND AN EARLIER RUSSIAN BROADCAST QUOTED GENEVA REPORTS THAT THE GERMANS HAD "LIQUIDATED" THE HUNGARIAN GENERAL STAFF AND PLACED THE HUNGARIAN ARMY UNDER COMMAND OF A SPECIAL GERMAN GENERAL STAFF.

Reds 2½ Miles From Cernauti, Rumania, In Smash Across Dniester Into Bukovina; Allied Army Papers Call Cassino Failure

CRUSHING ATTACK CUTS DEFENSE LINE OF NAZIS IN EAST

YARBROUGH

Kaments-Podolsk Falls to Three-Sided Assault by Red Troops.

PRUT CROSSING LOOMS

Russians Fan Out Along East Bank of Stream in Bessarabia.

MAR 28 1944

LONDON, Tuesday, March 28. — (AP) The Red army crossed the Dniester river into pre-war Rumanian Bucovina yesterday, wiped out a regiment of Hungarian troops, and rolled 23 miles southward to capture Sadagura, just across the upper Prut river from the capital at Czernowitz, a Moscow bulletin announced today.

The Russians were within two and one-half miles of Czernowitz, Moscow dispatches said, and the swift smash by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First Ukraine army effectively split the German defense line east of the Carpathian mountains based on the Bucharest-Czernowitz-Lwow railroad, and put the Russians within 28 miles of Rumania's northern frontier.

Foe May Be Trapped

Kamenets-Podolsk, 40 miles to the northeast, also fell to a three-sided Russian attack, and these two blows above and below the Dniester strengthened Soviet chances of trapping large enemy forces in the Kamenets-Podolsk area.

NOV

To the southeast in Bessarabia, where a crossing of the Prut river into eastern Rumania appeared to be imminent, the Russian Second Ukraine army struck 33 miles southwest of Byeltsi, taken Sunday, to capture Skulyany. The latter point on the east bank of the Prut is just 11 miles northeast of Iasi (Jassy), big west bank Rumanian rail junction where lines radiate southeastward to Odessa on the Black sea, and southward to the Danube, the Ploesti oil fields and Bucharest, Rumanian capital.

Tanks Wipe Out Nazis

One hard-hitting Soviet tank unit broke into a Bessarabian village so quickly that 1,000 German and Rumanian troops, caught loading wagons for a further retreat, were wiped out, said the midnight communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Far to the southeast the Third Ukraine army of Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky fought its way deeper into the outskirts of the Black sea port of Nikolaev, killing hundreds of the enemy. The Germans were putting up stiff resistance there, Moscow said, despite the steady slashing of their ultimate escape routes into Rumania.

Russian troops attacking on the rim of the pocket north and east of Kamenets-Podolsk were inflicting terrific casualties on the enemy, Moscow said. In the capture of one rail town, Yarmolintsky, the bulletin said the Soviet troops killed 5,000 Germans and destroyed 100 tanks.

Premier-Marshal Stalin announced the capture of Kamenets-Podolsk last night in an order of the day. The German garrison was "completely wiped out," the communique said.

That stroke blocked the main Nazi escape route from a sack being thrown around large numbers of Germans retreating in a 1,400-square mile area northeast and east of Kamenets-Podolsk.

Brichany, 50 miles east of Czernowitz, also was declared captured by another wing of Red army forces rolling along the south bank of the Dniester in northern Bessarabia toward Bucovina.

Czernowitz In Peril

Russian investment of Czernowitz, Rumania's third largest city, was imminent as the Red army poured men and machines across the Dniester at Zaleshchiki, left bank town seized several days ago. Zaleshchiki is 11 miles north of captured Zastavna.

Spreading out into the southeastern corner of old Poland on both sides of the Dniester, the communique said the Soviet troops—now within 55 miles of former Czecho-Slovakia—had seized Gorodenka, on the south side of the Dniester 11 miles west of Zaleshchiki; as well as Korapets and Monasterzhiska, 22 and 32 miles northwest of Gorodenka on the northern side of the Dniester.

The Russian columns which seized these towns were threatening to cut the Czernowitz-Lwow railway on both sides of the river. Monasterzhiska lies 18 miles from the railway and 70 miles southeast of Lwow, big German communications key to the Balkans.

To the northeast other Soviet forces were hammering at the thinning ranks of the surrounded German defenders of Tarnopol on the trunk line 70 miles east of Lwow. The Russians announced on Sunday that Tarnopol was surrounded and street fighting going on.

Far to the east in lower Russia another Russian army overran 31 localities on a 60-mile front between besieged Balta in the west and captured Pervomaisk on the Bug river in the east. Thes troops gained from three to 1 miles during the day. Among th localities seized south of the Bu river was Konetspol, four mile southwest of Pervomaisk and 10 miles north of Odessa.

228 Localities Taken

The First Ukraine Army, which achieved the crossing into Bucovina, captured a total of 91 of the 228 localities taken during the day.

To the northeast other Soviet forces were hammering at the thinning ranks of the surrounded German defenders of Tarnopol on the trunk line 70 miles east of Lwow. The Russians announced on Sunday that Tarnopol was surrounded and street fighting going on.

The German high command insisted its line was holding everywhere along the front, reporting particularly "heavy defensive battles" below Proskurov.

Again the Berlin communique indicated a great new Russian offensive on the central front, asserting 3,500 Red army men had been killed and 39 tanks destroyed in unsuccessful blows between the Dnieper river and Chausy. Presumably, the Russians were driving at Mogilev.

MAR 28 1944

Take Towns Along Bug

In lower Russia another Russian army overran 31 localities on a 60-mile front between besieged Balta in the west and captured Pervomaisk, on the Bug river in the east. These troops gained from three to ten miles during the day. Among the localities seized south of the Bug river was Konetspol, four miles southwest of Pervomaisk and 100 miles north of Odessa.

In the last six days a sizable German-held pocket on the east bank of the southern Bug river about 50 miles northwest of Nikolaev has disappeared without any announcement from Moscow about the "liquidation" of the Nazi forces pressed steadily back against the river.

RUSSIAN GAIN SHATTERS GATE TO CZERNOWITZ

TARNOPOL DISA SURROUNDED

Stalin's Armies Race to Clear Nazis From Last Foot of Southern Russia.

London, March 27 (A. P.).—Capture of Kamenets Podolsk, encircled German stronghold near the Dniester River northeast of Czernowitz, was announced by Premier Marshal Stalin today in an order of the day.

Fall of the city, a rail and highway junction forty miles from Czernowitz (Cermanti), further imperils the withdrawal of German troops falling back after the loss of Proskurov. It lies eight miles from the Dniester.

A Soviet ring already had been forged about the city, which was toppled by a "vigorous blow with tank formations and infantry," Stalin declared.

Soviet Guns Shell Rumania.

To the southeast, other Red Army troops were poised along the Prut River for a strike into Rumania. The river border of Rumania and Russia, where the Germans launched the southern wing of their invasion nearly three years ago, was reached Sunday.

Russian big guns already are laying down a barrage on Rumanian territory, Moscow dispatches said today, and Soviet infantrymmen were expected to surge soon across the narrow Prut which they reached on a fifty-three-mile front yesterday, only a week after they spanned the broader Dniester, now sixty miles behind them.

As twenty-four volleys from 324 guns thundered in Moscow last night and green, white, yellow, red and purple rockets burst above the city in celebration of the drive to the enemy's border, the army newspaper Red Star, confidently anticipating a continuation of the offensive asserted: "For the Red Army there are no boundaries; her boundaries are victory, Berlin, and a straight jacket for the mad German Valkyrie."

MAR 28 1944

Escape Routes Closed to Foe.

Premier Marshal Stalin, who announced the conquest of part of "our state frontier," also reported the capture of the Bessarabian rail city of Byeltsi, a victory which closed another German avenue of retreat from lower Russia. Other Soviet forces were within twenty miles of Iasi (Jassy), through which runs the major Nazi escape railway from the Black Sea port of Odessa.

The surge to the Prut was regarded in London as already dooming a German stand at Odessa and besieged Nikolaev. Turkish reports that Hitler was rushing masses of armored reinforcements through Hungary and Rumania suggested that he probably would make a stand in Rumania in an attempt at least to save the Ploesti oil fields. The Russians were within 200 miles of the region and 250 miles from Bucharest, Rumanian capital.

[The Rumanian Minister to Stockholm, in a declaration to the Swedish paper Dagens Nyheter, has stated that no German occupation in the real sense of the word has taken place in Rumania, BBC reported today. The Germans entered into Rumania with the consent of Marshal Antonescu's Government, the Minister said, adding that the arrival of German troops there is the consequence of military events. CBS recorded the broadcast.]

In old Poland, where some Russian units are within thirty-five miles of the 1941 Bug River frontier between Germany and Russia, the Red Army surrounded Tarnopol, bitterly defended for weeks, and was wiping out the garrison, capturing street after street. Other Russian forces bypassed the city in their drive toward Lwow, big Nazi communications center.

[German military circles in Berlin expect a big new Russian offensive aimed directly at Warsaw, the Nazi controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau reported today. German reports told of large masses of Red Army troops being assembled east of Kovel, 170 miles southeast of Warsaw. The Germans recently have told of fighting inside Kovel.]

Marshal Konev Hero of Day.

German broadcasts asserted that the Russians had thrown 100,000 men into a new drive along the Mogilev sector of White Russia, but the report had no Soviet confirmation.

The honor of reaching the Prut and of those being the first forces to fulfill Stalin's order and the oath of every Red Army man—"Rid Russia of the German invader"—fell to ex-lumberjack Marshal Ivan S. Konev and his Second Ukraine Army.

The Russians, in their epic military comeback since the Nazis hammered at Stalingrad and swept so close to Moscow that its people could hear the boom of big guns and see the flashes of exploding shells, have recovered all except about 60,000 square miles of pre-1939 Russian territory. Since Stalingrad they have marched back 800 miles.

Poles Ordered To Aid Russians

New York, March 27 (AP)—The Polish Telegraphic Agency said today that Polish underground leaders, acting on instructions from the Polish Government in London, have ordered all their underground army commanders to establish contact with the Red army and coordinate military operations against the Germans.

The Moscow radio was quoted as broadcasting that the commander of the Polish underground forces in Rovno had already presented itself to Soviet army headquarters to offer Polish collaboration. The Polish agency said the other Polish military leaders had been ordered to take the same action.

The official Polish resistance radio, SWIT, had broadcast the instructions to G. Poland. Saying the Moscow Communist party newspaper Pravda had demanded to know what the attitude of the Polish underground army would be to the advancing Russians, SWIT stated that the Poles were now awaiting the Russian response to the Polish action.

Expect Drive at Warsaw

STOCKHOLM, March 27 (AP).—German military circles at Berlin expect a big new Russian offensive aimed directly at Warsaw, the Nazi-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau reported today. German reports told of masses of Red Army troops being assembled east of Kovel, which is 170 miles southeast of Warsaw. The Germans recently have told of fighting inside Kovel.

Red Subs Hit Foe Fleeing Crimea

New York, March 27 (AP)—Russian submarines attacked a Rumanian Black Sea convoy evacuating troops from the Crimea Thursday night and practically an entire Rumanian division was lost, the British radio declared today.

The broadcast, which gave no source for its information, was recorded by CBS.

Hungary Purge To Be Speeded

London March 27 (AP)—The Budapest radio forecast a speeding of the purge of German-occupied Hungary's Jews and anti-Nazis today. A broadcast announced that the nation's Quisling Council of Ministers would meet tomorrow to promulgate decrees to bring about "radical changes in Hungary's home and foreign policy."

The broadcast said the new measures were "expected to bring about a liquidation of the destructive elements which recently have become bold in attempts to undermine the home front and Hungary's alliances." "Anti-Jewish measures will be included," it added.

Heads of Hungarian civil administrations, including the Mayor of Budapest, have offered their resignations to the new national regime established when the Germans went into Hungary last week, the Swiss radio said.

KALLAY FINDS REFUGE IN TURKISH LEGATION

ISTANBUL, March 27 — (AP) Premier Nicholas Kallay of Hungary has taken refuge in the Turkish legation at Budapest since the German invasion of that Axis nation, it was reported here tonight.

Suspension of official functions here was announced by the Hungarian consul general, Dezsov Ukvary. He said "events of the last few days deprived Hungary of her political freedom."

Hungarian Press Curbed

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 27 (AP) — The German-dominated Hungarian Government has appointed a new press chief, with wide powers over the country's newspapers, and two large Budapest papers already have been banned, the Berlin correspondent of Aftonbladet said today.

He said Germans reaching Berlin from Budapest had told him there had been several demonstrations against Jews and that arrests of Jews in high positions were underway in the nation occupied by the Nazis last week.

Magyars Flee Into Tito's Area, Report

Madrid, March 27 (AP)—Several thousand troops of the Hungarian army have followed their officers into territory controlled by Marshal Tito (Josip Broz) of the Yugoslav Army of Liberation, Balkan reports reaching Madrid through diplomatic channels said today.

HVAR ISLE SEIZED BY TITO'S FORCES

London, March 27 (A. P.).—A communique from the headquarters of Marshal Tito (Josip Broz) announced last night that the Yugoslav Partisans, aided "by "Allied air forces and Navy and a detachment of Commandos" had captured the Adriatic island of Hvar, twenty-five miles south of the port of Split.

The broadcast bulletin, which gave no details on the Allied forces involved, also said that Tito's forces were engaged in running battles with German forces in Slavonia along the enemy communication lines into Hungary, a report indicating the Nazis were shifting troops into that occupied country.

Fifth Army's Failure At Cassino Conceded

Eleven-Day Allied Offensive Unsuccessful, U. S. And Canadian Service Papers Admit

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 27 (AP)—The Allied attempt to wrest Cassino by infantry attack and air assault from its German defenders appeared tonight to have been temporarily suspended after failure of an 11-day offensive—a failure conceded by newspapers of both the United States and Canadian soldiers.

These newspapers, the Stars and Stripes and the Maple Leaf, also gave expression to the Allied determination to profit from the bitter experience and eventually capture the key town on the road to Rome.

It was announced that massed Allied artillery has begun a systematic bombardment to blast Nazi parachue troops from the ruins of the Continental Hotel and the Hotel Des Roses.

Ground Action Not Mentioned

Complete absence of mention of ground activity in the Allied communique appeared to indicate that New Zealand troops who fought their way into the last quarter of Cassino had for the moment abandoned the effort to drive the Germans from their remaining strongholds.

"The Germans still stand straddling the central road to Rome," Stars and Stripes said, "but they live on borrowed time. The Allies have learned many lessons in the battle for Cassino, lessons which will count wherever Germans are fought. The British and Americans who invade Europe from the west will profit by those who have gone before them in the mountains of Italy.

"When Allied soldiers start again on the road to Rome their way will have been made easier by the hard learned knowledge gained in the fighting at Cassino."

Canadian Viewpoint

The Maple Leaf, the Canadian soldiers' publication, said: "The Allied attack combination of bombs from the air, shells from artillery and punch from the infantry has failed.

"The Allies have been beaten at Cassino, but there is no reason to believe that theirs is a final failure.

"The formula is learned the hard way.

"The next time the forces who know they are fighting for freedom hit Cassino, it will stay hit."

[Monday's broadcast German communique said: "An American commando force" of two officers and 13 men had landed near the naval base of La Spezia, 200 miles above Rome, but had been wiped out. There was no Allied confirmation of the report.]

Nazi Mortars Attacked

In addition to shelling Nazi troops and tanks entrenched in the wreckage of the two Cassino hotels in the ducal palace and ancient amphitheater south of the ruined town, Allied gunners also plastered batteries of enemy six-barreled mortars to the southwest and apparently blew up an ammunition dump. German artillery laid down terriffic return fire.

The Nazis now have three tanks banging away from the lobby of the Continental Hotel, and Allied guns were particularly probing for these troublesome mobile forts. It was disclosed that New Zealand troops at one time last week virtually had the Continental surrounded but never succeeded in completely dislodging the Nazis from its ruins.

Action on the Anzio beachhead again was limited to small patrol actions. Two German raids near Carroceto were dispersed and sharp casualties inflicted on the enemy.

American heavy bombers attacked Fiume, important Italian Adriatic port, the Maniago airdrome, 50 miles northeast of Venice, and rail yards at Rimini, on the Adriatic coast. Last night RAF Wellingtons and Liberators pounded the Vicenza rail yards 40 miles west of Venice. American medium and fighter-bombers attacked other widespread rail targets and bridges north of Rome. Seven German planes were destroyed, and five Allied craft were missing.

CASSINO ATTACK FAILS, SAYS ARMY NEWSPAPER

NAPLES, March 27—(AP) The American army newspaper Stars and Stripes declared today that the "latest major assault on Cassino and Monastery hill so far has been a failure, it became clear this week-end."

"Despite the most determined and valorous fighting on the part of Allied infantrymen and tankers, the Germans have been able to hold up and today their grip on this key fortress of the Gustav line is nearly as strong as ever," the newspaper said.

New Zealand and other Allied troops have been unable to make any sufficient gains while the Germans "not only have reinforced their units but have been able to infiltrate the Allied lines and improve their positions," the soldiers' paper added, and the Allies have learned many lessons at Cassino "from which the British and Americans who invade Europe from the west will profit."

Cassino Hotels Are Shelled

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 27 (AP)—The Allied assault on Cassino, temporarily stalled short of its objective, had changed today into an artillery duel in which a superior mass of Allied guns was seeking to knock out the German positions remaining in the town's southwest corner.

An announcement said Allied artillery had begun a systematic campaign to destroy both the Continental Hotel and the Hotel des Roses, which the Germans have converted into fortresses.

Explosion Set Off

A large explosion occurred when artillery engaged a cluster of German six-barreled mortars, possibly indicating that an ammunition dump was hit. The only other ground activity at Cassino was by patrols.

The center of infantry activity shifted to the Anzio beachhead, where Allied forces drove back two small raiding parties which probed the center of the line. Losses were inflicted on the enemy. German guns shelled the left flank of the beachhead line.

Port, Rail Targets Hit

In the air, American and British heavy, medium and fighter-bombers attacked scattered port, railroad and airfield targets in northern Italy yesterday. Seven enemy planes were shot down and five Allied planes were lost.

At Cassino, at the same time Allied guns turned on the enemy hotel fortresses, the Germans trained their artillery on Castle Hill, Alied strong point west of the town.

Snow Blocks Roads

The inactivity of ground troops made it plain that the third Allied attack to drive the Germans from Cassino, the key to the road to Rome, had been unsuccessful.

In the mountains north of Cassino snow blocked many roads and cold weather on the Adriatic front of the Eighth Army brought almost complete cessation of enemy activity.

American heavy bombers pounded Fiume, Italian-Yugoslav border area port; the Maniago airdrome, 50 miles northeast of Venice, and the key railroad yards of Rimini, of the Adriatic coast. RAF Wellingtons and Liberators bombed the Vicenza railroad yards, 40 miles west of Venice, last night.

Five Fighters Bagged

The American bombers and their Thunderbolt - Lightning escort fought off 50 German fighters, bringing down five.

Marauders raided viaducts west of Arezzo on the double-tracked Rome-Florence railroad, Mitchells bombed another railroad bridge at Perugia, 80 miles north of Rome, and Thunderbolts attacked two more north and northwest to the capital.

Airacobras bombed the harbor of Castiglioncello, 10 miles south of Leghorn, and the near-by Cecina railroad bridge, and Spitfires attacked a German camp at Durazzo in Albania.

Liri Dam Bombed

Last night Mosquitos blasted railroad lines at Orvieto and Follonica, while Warhawks bombed a dam across the Liri river in the Fontana area.

Meanwhile, dispatches from Cassino reported German forces regrouping in the Ducal palace coliseum area half a mile south of the town, possibly for a new thrust against Allied positions.

From these strongholds, astride Highway 6 where it bends sharply westward around Monastery Hill, German mortars were said yesterday to be throwing heavy fire on Allied forces in the railroad station 1,000 yards to the east.

Tanks Driven To Cover

Yesterday's communique said the Germans had sent two tanks rumbling into the open from the Continental Hotel to lay a smoke screen, but Allied artillery fire was said to have driven them again to cover.

Under the cover of a Red Cross flag, litter bearers brought wounded Saturday from Hangman's Hill, where isolated Allied troops have been supplied by parachute for a week.

Yank Commando Raid Above Rome Foiled, Nazis Say

London, March 27 (AP)—The German high command declared today that "an American commando force" had landed northwest of the naval base of La Spezia on the Gulf of Genoa, 200 miles above Rome, but had been wiped out.

The formation consisted of two officers and 13 men, Berlin said in its broadcast communique.

There was no Allied confirmation of the report.

Today's communique was broadcast more than an hour later than usual. There was no explanation.

NAZIS SLAY 550 ROMANS

Badoglio's Son Reported Among 300 Shot In Coliseum

Allied Headquarters, Naples March 27 (AP)—At least 550 citizens of Rome have been killed, with 300 of them shot in the ruins of Rome's ancient Coliseum by the Germans in retaliation for the killing of 24 Gestapo officers and 14 Fascist militiamen last Thursday, a report published in the British Eighth Army News said today.

Among the hostages massacred in the Coliseum, the report said, were Mario Badoglio, son the Italian Premier Pietro Badoglio; Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, Italian Premier in the first World War, and Count Theon de Revel, former Minister of Finance.

Badoglio Hopeful

The office of Premier Badoglio said the Premier had not been able to confirm the report of the shootings and a close friend said the marshal was hopeful that it was a "wild rumor."

The Gestapo officers and the Fascist militiamen were reported killed when bombs were thrown into a Gestapo detachment celebrating the 25th anniversary of Fascism las Thursday. Italian patriots also were said to have fired on the celebrators.

prisal for the slaying of 32 Nazi troopers during the celebration of the 25th anniversary of Fascism on March 23, a Swiss Telegraphic Agency dispatch from the Italian capital said today.

A son of Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio was among those slain, a Chiasso dispatch to the Swiss newspaper La Suisse declared. Other border reports said Theon de Revel, a former Italian Finance Minister, and Marshal Pietro Caviglia, and several Senators were among those seized by the Nazis and Fascists.

Nazis Reported Slain On March

The Nazis reportedly were slain as they marched down Via Rasella. A German communique, it was said, blamed "Communists" for the attack and announced that the Nazis were determined to bring such actions to an end by shooting ten hostages for every German killed.

The Nazi-controlled Rome radio said 100 Partisans were killed in a battle with Black Shirts in the Piedmont Valley, where the Patriots were attempting to carry the fight into Turin.

Other reports said a Florence military court had condemned seven youths to death for failing to respond to a call to arms and that a similar tribunal at Forli had imposed the death penalty on five "deserters." There were reports of widespread clashes throughout northern Italy.

Vatican Protest Reported

A Bern dispatch to the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet said the Vatican had "energetically protested" to German occupation authorities in Rome against the execution of hostages.

The dispatch, reported to the OWI, said the Vatican had warned that the shooting of hostages "only increases unrest and the occupation forces' difficulties." The dispatch added that it was believed the protest was without influence.

300 Massacred, Naples Hears

Naples, March 27 (AP)—Reports were heard here today that the Germans had massacred 300 Italians in Rome, including Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, Italian Premier in World War I, and Mario Badoglio, son of Premier Pietro Badoglio, but Premier Badoglio said he had no confirmation.

Orlando, who became Premier of Italy in 1917, was one of the "Big Four" of the Versailles peace conference.

Italy Plebiscite Plan Dropped

Naples, March 27 (AP)—Plans for a plebescite in southern Italy on the issue of King Vittorio Emanuele's abdication and replacement of Premier Badoglio's Government have been suspended by the six leading political parties opposed to the present regime.

Lack of funds and personnel with which to print and circulate petitions calling for the King's abdication and formation of a "truly democratic government" were given by party leaders as the reason for abandonment of the project.

Russ Move Cited

A deeper significance, however, was seen in the decision in Allied quarters, where the feeling was expressed that opposition to the Badoglio Government had been dampened by Russia's recent action in according its diplomatic recognition.

This feeling persisted in spite of continued avowals of Italian Communist opposition to both the King and Badoglio.

The Communist paper l'Unita said the Badoglio regime "is not a government" and asserted that "Italy needs one immediately, because the lack of Government is . . . worse than having a bad government."

Togliatti Awaited

Allied officials awaited the expected arrival of Palmiro Togliatti, head of the Italian Communist party, who has been a member of the Comintern in Moscow under the pseudonym of Ercoli. L'Unita said he was en route from Algiers.

Togliatti presumably will bring with him knowledge of Premier Stalin's attitude toward the Badoglio government. It was considered unlikely here that he would enter Italy openly if he were hostile to the existing regime, although Badoglio's opponents have been permitted to express themselves freely.

Meetings Licensed

Not only do Allied authorities grant permits for mass meetings but they have licensed 27 weekly, biweekly and triweekly political publications ranging from the Communist paper on the extreme left to the Christian Democrat organ on the right.

It is through these mouthpieces that the Allies are letting the Italians voice their opinions, and it is through them that Allied authorities are gauging political feeling.

Vesuvius Calms Down, Rehabilitation Starts

Naples, March 27 (AP)—Vesuvius spouted fresh clouds of smoke laden with volcanic ash today, but most of the cinders fell harmlessly into the Mediterranean.

With the lava flow at a standstill, Allied authorities busied themselves on rehabilitation work following the ten-day eruption which took 26 lives, mostly as the result of roofs collapsing under the weight of ashes and rock.

Water was turned on again in evacuated towns that escaped damage, thousands of candles were provided for villages whose electric supply was disrupted and experts investigated the possibility of planting new crops in the ash-coated fields.

Pope To Take Part In Holy Week Rites

London, March 27 (AP) — The Rome radio today said Pope Pius XII would participate in Holy Thursday and Good Friday services in the Sistine Chapel, but that the observances would be "local in character."

DE GAULLE ASSAILS ALLIES' PROGRAM

Urges Ignoring Of Post-Invasion Plans For France

Algiers, March 27 (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle told the French consulative assembly today to ignore foreign plans for the post-invasion regime in France, asserting France "doesn't need a lesson from anyone."

De Gaulle thus indirectly, but nonetheless sharply, told the other Allies to keep hands off the French Government when the continent is invaded. His remarks came while London and Washington were considering the degree of recognition to be given the French Committee of National Liberation in ruling continental France.

Still Liberty's Champion

De Gaulle, head of the Committee of Liberation, told the assemblymen to consider only the nation's will in framing a provisional government, since "France, which gave liberty to the world, is still its champion and doesn't need to listen to what is said outside her frontiers regarding her own destiny.

"As for the provisional government of the republic, which since June 1940, has not ceased to be a resolute champion of democracy, and at the same time of this war, it doesn't need any lesson from anyone except from the French nation it directs."

After de Gaulle's address, the Assembly passed, 62 to 6, a plan for provisional administration of liberated France and convocation of a constitutional convention. The plan must be approved by the national committee before it takes the force of law.

Would Reinstall Councils

The present program would reinstall pre-war departmental municipal councils, then conduct district elections for new councils and provisional assembly representation as soon as possible after an area is liberated.

Communist amendments, which would have continued the present assembly in power until most of the nation is freed, were defeated, 38 to 32.

The vote followed intervention by de Gaulle, who said the national committee favored immediate district elections as guaranteeing democracy in post-war France, but wished to delay convocation of a new constitutional assembly until the return of prisoners and deportees.

The constitutional assembly would construct a fourth republic succeeding the provisional regime, which would take over from the present committee as soon as practicable.

NINE AIRFIELDS IN FRANCE HIT BY U. S. FLYERS

Tours Freight Yards Also Bombed; Fighters Bag 38 Nazi Planes

London, Tuesday, March 28 (AP)—Strong forces of German bombers struck England and Wales during the night. London itself escaped attack.

West England bore the brunt of the assault. Considerable damage was reported in one town as the raiders dumped incendiaries and high explosives. Three German planes were declared shot down.

London, March 27 (AP)—Ten task forces of American Flying Fortresses and Liberators—an armada of from 750 to 1,000 heavy bombers—swept almost unopposed through France today to blow up nine German airdromes and the freight yards at Tours while their fighter escorts alone destroyed 38 Nazi planes.

The German air force generally refused to join combat with the American air fleet totaling perhaps 2,000 planes, and most of the enemy aircraft destroyed by the American Thunderbolts, Lightnings and Mustangs were shot up on the ground.

Six of the bombers and 15 fighters failed to return from this daylight mission, the 21st of this month, executed while Essen, the seat of the Krupp arms works, burned after a night attack by the RAF in which 2,240 tons of bombs were dropped.

Results Satisfactory

"The bombing was visual against all targets, at least two of them used primarily as long-range bomber bases, and satisfactory results are reported," said a United States army communique.

Bases attacked, in addition to Tours, were Chartres, 40 miles southwest of Paris; La Rochelle, St. Jean, Dangely, Pau, Biarritz, Cazaux, Bordeaux and Monte de Marsan, all in the Bay of Biscay coastal region, it was announced.

Lightnings, Mustangs and Thunderbolts made up the escort and support for this blow at the aerial backbone of the Atlantic Wall.

"The Luftwaffe refused to come up in strength to defend its stations," the communique said, "but the AAF escort destroyed 38, one group shooting up 23 on the ground. One formation reported as many as 15 enemy interceptors pressing an attack, but generally the opposition was weak."

"Like Stunt Flyers"

Lieut. C. M. Davis, 24, of Kansas City, Kan., a returning pilot, said: "We were attacked by between 8 and 15 enemy fighters. They dove at us from all angles, coming in like stunt flyers. My gunners kept up a steady barrage. And they must have knocked a couple of Germans down."

Sergt. Harvey E. Watts, 26, of Arlington, Va., a tail gunner, gave this description of the death of a Focke Wulf 190: "He came slashing in at our tail with all guns going. I got him in my sight and gave him a long burst, catching him in the engines. He went down spinning and in flames."

The fighters came home with the biggest bag since they began seeking out the German air force on the ground.

Flew 1,200 Miles Round Trip

Some of the bombers, briefed for targets almost on the Spanish border, made a round trip of approximately 1,200 miles. The Tours airfield is a training base and repair depot with storage facilities for Heinkel 177's and various single-engined fighters.

The Chartres airdrome, 40 miles southwest of Paris, was last hit by Flying Fortresses on March 2. It is a final training base for fighters. The Bordeau and Cazaux fields are large bomber bases from which long-range German bombers harass shipping on the Bay of Biscay and possibly raid Britain.

[A dispatch from the Spanish border town of Irun said that 80 bombers attacked the Biarritz airdrome and railway station, stopping rail communication with Spain.]

[The same dispatch said an American bomber crashed in flames near Plencia in Bilbao province, but the 10 crew members parachuted to safety and were taken to Bilbao and turned over to the United States consulate.]

Paris Area Reported Raided

The Paris radio claimed the Paris region was raided in strength and stated that parts of the suburbs of Tours were "literally saturated with bombs." The broadcast added that 14 persons were killed

320 Italians Reported Shot In Nazi Reprisal

On the Swiss-Italian Frontier, March 27 (AP)—The Germans have shot 320 Italian hostages in Rome and arrested thousands more in rein the Bordeaux region and 76 were killed in an attack on an unidentified town in the lower Pyrenees.

Marauder mediums also dashed across the Channel under an umbrella of Czech and Belgian-piloted Spitfires to give the military objectives in the Pas de Calais area another pasting. None of the Marauders was lost, and they met no Nazi fighters.

The Ruhr valley, whose chimneys have been smoking peacefully as Allied air armadas flew across it for missions deeper in the Reich, was attacked again last night when more than 750 of the RAF's heavy bombers dumped most of their heavy loads through the clouds on Essen.

Hannover and the Belgian railway town of Courtrai also were attacked in the night's operations, which cost nine aircraft.

Ruhr Area Watched

The Ruhr was so thoroughly blasted last spring and summer that the Allied air forces were able to mark it off the books temporarily. But the Nazis' attempt to rebuild heavy industry there was watched carefully and obviously reconstruction had reached a point to be blown apart again.

The British Air Ministry, terming the Essen raid a saturation attack, declared ground defenses were surprised and weak but grew stronger as the attack progressed. Fighter packs from Berlin arrived too late.

"'Happy Valley' certainly was not its old self last night," one veteran pilot remarked.

Photographs taken during an attack by a record number of almost 350 Mauraders on Ijmuiden, Holland, yesterday showed a number of 1,000-pound bombs exploded on E-boat pens.

ican headquarters indicated that more than 500 big bombers and perhaps 700 or more fighters engaged in his mission, which was the twenty-first American attack of the month, three over the record set in February.

At one airdrome a ground haze was encountered, but it was not thick enough to prevent the bombardiers from watching their high explosives and fire bombs rake the installations. The Fortresses weaved through coastal flak but the only German fighters seen were on the ground. For the first time in many missions the upper air was comparatively warm.

At the same time smaller RAF forces hammered the German rubber center of Hannover, 125 miles to the northeast, and pounded railway targets at Courtrai in Belgium.

Other unspecified targets in western Germany also were attacked and mines were laid in enemy waters. In all operations nine planes were lost.

Last Bombed In July

Clouds made full observation of the results of the attack on Essen impossible, the Air Ministry said, but it was apparent that the RAF had dealt another concentrated blow at the city in an effort to wipe out the results of reconstruction work which the Germans have been carrying on.

Essen was last raided in force by the RAF the night of [illegible] 25, 1943, when more than 2,000 [illegible]s of armament, but after the July 25 raid Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair declared that "Essen, and with it Krupp's, has been shattered."

He called the results of the previous seven assaults on Essen "catastrophic," but warned that the Germans probably would try to repair the damage and that the RAF might have to return to check attempts at reconstruction.

Much Is Repaired

The great summer assaults were estimated to have damaged nearly two-thirds of the Krupp Works, knocking out at least six months of production. But the Germans were believed to have repaired about one fifth of the area of some 10,000,000 square feet of floor space that had been damaged.

Hannover is the site of rubber goods and synthetic rubber plants, and important railyards, workshops, locomotive, tank and aircraft parts factories. The most important rail center between Germany and the low countries, United States bombers have hit it repeatedly.

Last night's was the third successive night assault in force by RAF heavy bombers.

Invasion Coast Hit

The attack was a follow-up to the Saturday night heavy bomber assault on Aulnoye, a French railway junction on the Belgian border, and Lyon, in southeastern France. Mosquitos gave Berlin a light going over the same night.

American heavy and medium bombers and fighters, massing in the skies in numbers estimated to total possibly 1,700, beat a rapid tattoo throughout yesterday on targets near the coasts of France and the Netherlands, and in one foray Thunderbolts shot up airdromes within sight of Paris without opposition.

Flying Fortresses and Liberators loosed bombs on the Pas-de-Calais area and bombed military installations in the Cherbourg area, 200 miles to the south. American Marauders hit the Ijmuiden docks of Holland.

The American operations cost five bombers and one fighter.

1200 Planes Are Believed Participating in Daylight Raid—R. A. F. in All-out Blow on Krupp Works at Essen.

DAY

London, March 27 (A. P.).—Strong forces of American Liberators and Flying Fortresses blasted at Nazi airdromes in southwest and central France today, following up a night assault by British bombers on Essen, home of the Krupp Works, with 2,240 American tons of explosive.

Declaring that a very strong escort of fighters, including Lightnings, Thunderbolts and Mustangs, accompanied the American bombers into France, American explosives were unloaded on the city as the culmination of a series of terrific massed assaults.

RADAR HELPS REICH RAIDERS

Secret Unveiled As Result Of Churchill's Speech

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, March 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill spoke right out about radar yesterday, and sent a nervous twinge through army and navy security officers who are always jumpy where military secrets are concerned.

But, as a result of the Prime Minister's radio address, it can be revealed today that the highly secret military weapon which played a vital role in winning the defensive battle of Britain three years ago is on the offensive now. It rides with Allied air forces in their day and night assaults upon Europe.

For reasons of military security, radar has been under the tightest wraps of secrecy since news of its magic powers leaked out two years ago.

Churchill Breaks Silence

But Mr. Churchill broke the cloak of silence.

How vital a role radar is playing on the offensive cannot yet be told but the fact that the instrument is in the fight now can be published as a result of the Prime Minister's speech.

It can be reported, too, that the American scientists who did most to develop this instrument—who fought for ten years from 1922 for basic acceptance of their idea—are still without formal recognition from the American Government, although the navy undertook almost a year ago to initiate procedures for honoring them.

Officers Unrecognized

Similarly, naval officers who backed the experiments have gone without recognition, although had it not been for the technical progress of radar in this country many naval fights in the Pacific and air combats elsewhere might not have turned out so victoriously.

The line in Mr. Churchill's speech which gave security officers here the jitters, came when he said British and American air superiority was brought about not only by advantage in numbers but also:

"By sharing all our secrets with one another we have won the leadership in the marvels of radar both for attack and defense."

Throughout the war radar has furnished an exciting thread of mystery, through the day-to-day fabric of news. In 1939-1941 when radar was warning Britain's defenders of approaching German raiders none except the scientists and military knew of its existence. It was at Pearl Harbor, where it spotted Japanese planes far away, but the American command there never got the word.

Its Existence Admitted

In early 1942 the navy and army decided to issue a statement admitting radar's existence. At the last moment the decision was rescinded. Finally in 1943 radar was made public to a limited extent.

The names of the scientists who developed it in this country were published and the Associated Press, with navy cooperation, developed the first complete story of the weapons. Thereupon the army and navy consorship closed in again.

The ban was so tight that for a long time the services themselves could not distribute copies of the Associated Press series which were made into a public document through publication by the Senate. Recently the security ban was relaxed a little. A few days ago selective service listed "air-borne radar" as one of their deferrable categories.

But nobody had gone to the limit of Prime Minister Churchill in identifying radar as one of the reasons why the Allier air forces are winning triumph after triumph over the Luftwaffe in Euro[illegible]

Mustangs Used As Fighter-Bombers

DAY

London, March 27 (AP) — United States Ninth Air Force Mustangs—the world's fastest planes—were used as fighter-bombers in a swift blow at the rail center of Creil, in France, yesterday, it was announced today.

This was the first official disclosure of Mustangs operating as fighter-bombers in the European theater, although Allied air units in the Mediterranean have had them in operation for some time.

The fact that these fighters with a speed of more than 425 miles per hour, previously used chiefly as long-range escorts, now had been transformed into fighter-bombers by replacing reserve fuel tanks under the wing with bombs, indicates they probably will play an important part in opening the western front. They can double in low-level bombing and strafing in addition to regular fighter chores.

Heavy Flak Takes Toll Of Fort Crews

A United States Bomber Base in England, March 27 (AP)—Only one bomber was lost from this outfit in yesterday's attack on the Pas de Calais area of France, but several Flying Fortresses came back trailing red flares to signal that they had wounded men aboard.

German ground guns had made it a bitter day. As the Fortresses came in, one after another dropped red flares.

DAY

One of the first to land had an engine shot away and was cut and seared by flak. As it landed, its undercarriage failed. Medical men and white-suited fire crewmen rushed to the ship, and two wounded men stepped out. One, the copilot, calmly began to explain what had happened. Blood was streaming from his head.

Pilot Lieutenant R. D. Tripp, of Herington, Kan., and Waist Gunner Sergeant Charles Williams, Jacksonville, Texas., were unhurt.

"We were bouncing around in there," Williams said slowly, "but I guess you wouldn't say it was so very rough at that."

Another Fortress landed with a wounded gunner, and medical men gave him a transfusion and rushed him to the hospital. It was just an incident, not mentained in the communique.

Radio Operator Blown Out Of Flying Fortress

An American Bomber Base in England, March 27 (AP)—A radio operator literally was blasted out of a Flying Fortress during a recent raid on Berlin when a terrific explosion blew a hole in the ship's belly big enough to accommodate a jeep, but the big plane struggled 600 miles back to base.

A United States headquarters announcement today said the plane was all but blown in two and that the entire floor of the radio compartment was blown away.

Names of the crew members were not announced. The radio operator was listed as missing in action but it was not stated whether there were any other casualties.

'Grab A Brace,' Major 22, Tells Dad, A Captain

A United States Eighth Air Force Bomber Base, England, March 27 (AP)—Newly promoted to major, Andrew K. Lutcj, 22, of Trenton, N. J., a Flying Fortress navigator, cabled his father, a Marine Corps captain: "When you read this, grab a brace for a half hour."

Brace means to stand at an exaggerated position of attention.

Lutcj's father is a veteran of Guadalcanal who is now stationed at Cherry Point, N. C.

Major Mahurin Raises Nazi-Plane Bag To 21

DAY

London, March 27 (AP)—Major Walker M. Mahurin, of Fort Wayne, Ind., second highest ranking American fighter ace in the European war theater, brought his bag of German planes to 21 in today's sky battles over Europe.

Mahurin shared in the destruction of a Dornier 217 with two other Thunderbolt pilots and is now one behind the leading ace, Capt. Robert S. Johnson, of Lawton, Okla.

BERLIN STILL AFIRE

STOCKHOLM

BERLIN, March 27 (A. P.).—Berlin was still burning on the third day after last Friday night's 2,800-ton raid by the Royal Air Force, Swedish plane passengers from Berlin declared today. One reported that a grain elevator near the Anhalter station is still burning for the fourth straight week following a direct hit.

A passenger who went to Berlin a week ago said it was almost impossible to recognize the Templehof airdrome. Two administration buildings have been demolished and planes must take off from an improvi[illegible]airdrom, he said.

CHURCHILL HINTS HE HOPES TO STAY AS POST-WAR CHIEF

SINGLETON

LONDON, March 27—(AP) Prime Minister Churchill's frank bid to fireside folk for support of his policies held strong implications tonight that he hopes to guide Britain's destiny beyond the day of victory and deep into the difficult task of reconstruction.

Aside from the review of the war, the greater part of the 69-year-old prime minister's Sunday speech was devoted to a defense of his administration and to his program.

As captain of the government's coalition team, he left little room for speculation on possible changes in the lineup; on the contrary, the whole tenor of the pep talk indicated that he was counting on the present group, with himself at the head, to plan the peace as well as to coordinate the war effort.

"I know you around your fireside," he said significantly, "will not forget that this administration, formed in the hour of disaster by leaders of the Conservative, Labor and Liberty parties, banded together in good faith and good will, have brought the British isles and the British commonwealth and empire out of the jaws of death and back from the mouth of hell while all the world wondered. I know you will not forget that."

Nor did his speech offer any support to persistent rumors that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was to be involved in a series of cabinet changes.

30.24 — 14141

The appeal to the fireside folk for support, together with the length of time devoted to answering critics, was unusual in that Britain's wartime leader apparently found it necessary.

There was a shaft aimed, too, at those demanding a more concrete foreign policy and a blueprint in greater detail for the post war period, and at those asking for 'fool-proof solutions."

Mr. Churchill's words were interpreted in some quarters as reflecting the belief that the time is not ripe for settling post war boundary lines.

SAY CHURCHILL WILL SHAKE UP HIS CABINET

Latest Reports Assert Eden May Leave Foreign Office in Dissatisfaction.

RISING CRITICISM IS NOTED

Prime Minister's Address Held Disappointing — Avoided Diplomatic Topics.

London, March 27 (A. P.).—Rising criticism of the Churchill Government was coupled with reports today that the Prime Minister is planning to reshuffle his Cabinet.

The latest reports said Anthony Eden might leave the Foreign Office and that Lord Beaverbrook might be shifted to some post other than his present one of Lord Privy Seal.

Mr. Eden, these reports said, is dissatisfied because foreign policy making has been taken over largely by Mr. Churchill. Should he retire his most likely successor, it was believed, would be Lord Cranborne, Dominions Secretary and leader in the House of Lords.

An answer to criticisms of his Government at home occupied a large section of the Sunday speech of the Prime Minister, who usually scorns to notice his critics. Defending the coalition Government, Mr. Churchill said it had "brought the British Isles and the British Commonwealth and Empire out of the paws of death, back from the mouth of hell."

MAR 28 1944

Talk Not Up to Par.

Restrained approval, lacking in the enthusiasm of the early war years, was expressed today by most London newspapers for the Prime Minister's address last night in which he confidently predicted victory and praised the Russian westward advance as "the greatest cause of Hitler's undoing."

Generally speaking, there seemed some disappointment among the average listeners who had been expecting another call to valor on the eve of the events foreshadowed by Mr. Churchill's warning that "the hour of greatest effort is approaching."

In his forty-seven-minute broadcast address, his first for a year, the Prime Minister did not touch upon problems of diplomacy confronting the Allied nations, as had been expected in some quarters, but reviewed the war's progress in all theaters, strongly defending his administration, and in general terms outlined postwar economic plans for Britain.

Skirts Mention of Invasion.

He spoke only guardedly of the forthcoming invasion of Europe, but in one obvious reference declared:

"I must warn you that to deceive and baffle the enemy there will be many false alarms, feints and dress rehearsals. When the signal is given the whole circle of avenging nations will hurl themselves on the foe."

Announcing that American air power in Britain now exceeds that of the expanded R. A. F., he predicted that the two forces together in future months would produce results "which will certainly be of enormous advantage to the cause of the Allies."

In the Pacific, he said, it is possible that progress may be more rapid than was formerly thought possible because the Japs are showing signs of weakness under blows from the United States Navy.

High Praise for Russia.

Turning to Russia with words of personal praise for Marshal Stalin, the Prime Minister declared:

"Not only have the Hun invaders been driven from the land they have ravaged, but the guts of the German Army have been largely torn out by Russian valor and generalship."

The Allied campaign in Italy, he said, has not been as rapid or decisive as had been hoped, but he added that he had no doubt that Rome would be rescued despite nearly twenty-five German divisions now in Italy.

Although Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express declared that the Prime Minister's "story of achievments in every direction was impressive—and none more than the record of home front preparations," the Laborite Daily Herald and the Daily Mail expressed dissatisfaction, particularly with the latter part.

Lashes Out at Critics.

In that part, the Prime Minister said progress had been made in shaping such post-war projects as housing, education, national health, national insurance and demobilization of the armed forces, adding that "one might have expected" the Government would have been commended.

"However," he declared, "there is a large number of respectable and even eminent people who feel quite sincerely that the best work they can do is to belabor the Government with criticism and condemn them as unprofitable servants because they are not, in the midst of this deadly struggle, ready at any moment to produce foolproof solutions for the whole future world.

rator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, and Prof. R. D. Whitehorn, retiring moderator of the Free Church Federal Council, the statement proposed an eight-point program for the post-war rehabilitation of Europe.

Primary responsibility for carrying out the program, the statement said, should rest with the United States, Russia and Great Britain, "who alone at the moment of victory have the necessary resources and power."

Listed were these points:

1. Adoption of immediate relief measures on the largest scale to feed starving populations, fight disease, promote health.

2. Adoption of measures not merely to prevent chaos but restore a rule of law.

Full Employment Urged

3. Common action to restore institutions of every kind in which Europe's cultural and social traditions are embodied.

4. Recognition by the European governments of basic human liberties.

5. Framing of far-reaching social and economic policies to secure full employment and social security for Europeans.

Security Sought

6. Developments of common agencies in social and political spheres to give effect to these purposes.

7. Maintenance of a system of European security which will allow European peoples to develop free from fear of recurring war.

8. Treatment of Germany so as to remove the menace of future aggression and secure full atonement for the suffering she has caused but "not to lend ourselves in a mood of vengefulness to breaches of basic human rights or to punitive measures against the entire German people which will be repudiated as unjust by later generations."

Bar Vengeful Peace, Church Leaders Urge

MAR 28 1944

London, March 27 (AP)—Germany must be rendered incapable of future aggression and must be made to atone for the suffering she has inflicted, but the Allies should guard against a vengeful peace which may be "repudiated as unjust by later generations," three of Britain's church leaders declared in a joint statement yesterday.

Daily Mail Criticizes British Foreign Policy

London, Tuesday, March 28 (AP)—A Daily Mail editorial characterized Britain's foreign policy today as one of expediency varying from day to day and called for an authoritative definition of the policy.

At present the policy "seems to be based on the need for treading delicately between the United States and the U.S.S.R.," the newspaper said adding:

"At one moment, as in the case of Poland, we seem to follow the Russian bent; at another, as in the case of Eire, the American. . . . Where do we really stand about eastern Europe, North Africa, Italy, the Pacific, the Atlantic Charter, the Four Freedoms and the new and better league?"

Report Rommel Makes Breda Headquarters

London, March 27 (A. P.).—Aneta, Netherlands news agency, said today that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, German anti-invasion chief, has established headquarters in Breda, occupied Netherlands city near the mouth of the Rhine and some twenty-eight miles southeast of Rotterdam.

Friend Thinks Eden Missed Opportunity

London, March 27 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told this one in a speech at a House of Commons press gallery luncheon:

"I was reproached by a friend of mine who asked: 'Is it true that you were opposite Hitler in the line in the last war?' I said: 'Yes, I understood I was from what Hitler told me.'

"So, he said: 'Well, you ought to be taken from this room and shot.' I asked 'Why?' and he replied:

" 'You missed him, didn't you?' "

Crowds In London Tie Up Transportation

London, March 27 (AP)—London's curtailed transportation facilities were swamped yesterday when the greatest crowd which has jammed the capital since the coronation of King George VI poured into the city for the opening of Salute-the-Soldier Week.

Thousands of out-of-towners were stranded as bus and train services proved inadequate and many spent the night trying to sleep on newspapers spread on the floors of subway stations.

Many women fainted after standing for hours in bus and subway queues.

Nazi General Dies in Russia

MADRID, March 27 (AP).—Major General Hermann Crux, chief of an S. S. (Elite Guard) brigade and commander of Nazi state police, has been killed on the eastern front, according to German newspapers received here today.

Biarritz Depot Hit

IRUN, Spain, March 27 (AP).—Frenchmen who reached the Spanishh frontier after the American heavy raid on Biarritz today said that the La Negresse Station, where a southern trunk line from the Mediterranean joins a northbound line to Bordeaux and Paris, was almost destroyed by the attack.

One of the eye-witnesses, who arrived at the frontier in official cars, reported that eighty planes participated in the attack and said the German military airdrome outside the city was "heavily hit."

An American four - engined bomber, apparently damaged in the raid, crashed in flames in Bilbao Province tonight, but the ten crew members parachuted to safety. They were taken to Bilbao and turned over to the American Consulate.

Biarritz, a former resort city, now is one of the key German fortresses at the southern end of the Nazi's Atlantic Wall.

JAPS IN NEW INDIA THREAT

Fourth Invasion Column Drives North Of Imphal

New Delhi, March 27 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Americans and Chinese, using grenades and bayonets to wipe out Japanese suicide squads, were closing in on an encircled force in the Mogaung valley of northern Burma today, as a new threat to Allied lifelines developed from the enemy's tank-supported invasion of India.

A fourth Japanese spearhead, striking from the cover of the Somra tracts, densest jungle of the border area, was moving steadily toward Kohima, 60 miles north of Imphal, a communique from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's southeast Asia headquarters announced. Across the Naga hills from Kohima lies the Bengal-Assam railway in the Brahamaputra valley.

Jap Tanks Knocked Out

Three other Japanese spearheads striking at Imphal in the Manipur valley apparently had come to a dead end.

The communique said a Japanese roadblock across the route from Tiddim on the southern approach to Imphal had been eliminated and several Japanese tanks were knocked out in the battle.

No major action was reported on the southeastern approach from Tamu, while in the Ukhrul area, 32 miles northeast of Imphal, the Japanese were being contained after severe fighting in which they lost heavily.

On the Arakan front, 300 miles to the south, British troops continued to move ahead slowly in a highly confused situation around the tunnels on the Buthedaung-Maungdaw road 50 miles north of Akyab.

Force River Crossing

General Stilwell's forces were now 10 road miles deep in the Mogaung valley and only about four miles north of Shaduzup, after forcing a crossing of the Hkawnglaw Hka (river.) The enemy was compressed between the river and Shaduzup, which Chinese and American Marauders of Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill already held.

This force was now about 60 road miles from Mogaung and 90 from Myitkyina, chief Japanese base north of the Burma road.

Flanking Columns Advance

Two flanking columns continued to make progress southward toward Myitkyina. One column 25 miles northwest of Shaduzup, advanced from Tasu Bum out of the Taro valley and occupied Tangkiau Ga. East of the Mogaung valley, Indian and Kachin (Burmese) forces moved southward from Sumprabum and occupied Tingpai, 57 miles northeast of Myitkyina. Advance patrols, however, were reported only 44 miles from Myitkyina yesterday.

Behind the Japanese at Myitkyina was a strong force of British and Gurkha air commandos who were declared by Maj. Gen. Orde Wingate to have "established road and rail blocks 200 miles behind the Japanese lines." This force even had its own airfields.

Japs Press Forward Toward Kohima, India

MAR 28 1944

GRUMICH

DAY

New Delhi, March 27 (AP)—Japanese pressing forward in their invasion of India have made some progress in the general direction of Kohima, 30 miles inside the border and some 60 miles north of Imphal, a southeast Asia communique reported today.

Across the Naga Hills from Kohima lies the Bengal-Assam railway, vital artery for Allied forces in the north.

But Japanese pressure in the Ukhrul area, 32 miles north of Imphal, "is being contained," the communique said, adding that severe fighting had taken place. This was an indication that one of the three Japanese invasion spearheads had been stopped as Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's commanders marshaled strength to meet the general offensive aimed at cutting the Allies' Assam supply lines.

Japs Using Tanks

The communique disclosed that Japanese tanks had been encountered on the Tiddim-Imphal road, another invasion route, and several of them destroyed. In this area, too, there was heavy fighting and Allied forces, "inflicting very heavy casualties," took a hill feature and routed the Japanese from their position on the road.

In the Mogaung Valley, American trained and equipped Chinese forces continued to advance against stiffly resisting Japanese forces cut off when Shaduzup was captured by Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's Marauders in an "end run" around Japanese lines. This drive is one of two Allied thrusts against Myitkyina, main Japanese base in North Burma and terminus of the railroad from Mandalay.

Allied Spearheads Drive On

The other Allied spearhead driving toward Myitkiana from Sumprabum made further progress and occupied the village of Tingpai.

Heavy and medium bombers, fighter-bombers, dive bombers and fighters operated widely in support of the Allied ground forces. Heavies concentrated on Japanese troop concentrations and other objectives on the Imphal-Tiddim road.

British Commandos, including jungle-seasoned Gurkhas and Kachins, have slashed to within 32 miles of Myitkyina in a strong drive upon that main Japanese base above the Burma road, it was announced yesterday as stiff fighting continued inside the Indian border where Japanese columns are advancing on Imphal.

The Commando force, in an advance of 20 miles from positions in which it was reported Saturday, has thrust 33 miles south of Sumphrabum, and is steadily increasing its threat to the whole Japanese military system in the area just west of the Chinese border. Another Allied force was striking for Myitkyina by way of Shaduzup, Kamaing and Mogaung. Still other Allied troops have been flown to positions south of Myitkyina.

The stiffest fighting inside the Indian border was raging in the thick jungles of the Ukhrul area, 32 miles northeast of Imphal and about 15 miles inside Indian territory. Allied planes also were hammering at the advancing Japanese columns, some of which were using elephant transport.

General Wingate In Command

Meanwhile it was disclosed that Maj. Gen. Orde Charles Wingate, leader of last year's sensational "Wingate expedition" behind the Japanese lines, is in command of the Allied force which flew and marched into the Japanese rear in Burma three weeks ago.

"My plan was to go where the enemy was not," the young British general said yesterday. "There is now a strong British and Gurkha force some 200 miles inside enemy territory. Everything we set out to do has been done."

(A dispatch from Kunming, China, said yesterday that calls for a Chinese offensive, especially on the Salween front in the southwest, are appearing in Chinese newspapers, one of which declared that conditions were excellent for a drive into upper Burma to meet Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's expeditionary force.)

U. S. Bombers Strike In Indo-China, Burma

DAY

Chungking, March 27 (AP)—American Mitchells and Liberators again attacked Japanese railway installations in northern Indo-China and along the Burma road, in Burma, Saturday, a United States communique announced today.

The Mitchells, attacking at three points north of Vinh, in Indo-China, destroyed strings of cars and buildings, while the Liberators scored many hits on a fuel dump and a motor pool at Mangshih in the raid into Burma.

Mitchell bombers of the Fourteenth United States Air Force yesterday attacked shipping and harbor installations at Bakli Bay, on Hainan Island, off French Indo-China, and reports indicated that a 1,200-ton and a 1,000-ton enemy vessel were sunk, with damage to the mole and hits on railway tracks, it was also stated.

RABAUL BLASTED IN HEAVY AIR RAID

145 Buildings in Supply Areas Smashed by Bombers in Two Days.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Tuesday, March 28—(AP) Bombers from Allied bases in the Solomon islands, concentrating their attention on buildings in a new phase of ahe air campaigns to smash the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, damaged or destroyed 145 structures of all types and sizes in raids Friday and Saturday.

A spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said the buildings hit by Mitchell medium bombers, Dauntless divebombers and Avenger torpedo planes were distributed among Rabaul's supply areas and consisted mainly of warehouses, shops and barracks.

River Dam Smashed

While the bombers were pouring more than 70 tons of explosives and incendiaries on these targets, two Ventura medium bombers destroyed a small Japanese-built dam across a stream at the head of Massava bay, west of Rabaul.

The raiders concentrated their attention on supply areas and repair facilities, instead of the airdromes in recent weeks against the badly battered base.

Dismounted troopers of the First Cavalry division cleaning up in the Admiralty islands, the enemy's northern Bismarck sea stronghold which the Americans invaded Feb. 29, pushed southward from Lorengau, Japanese headquarters town on Manus island captured March 18.

Destroyers Shell Village

The troopers received strong support from air and naval forces. American destroyers wiped out the village of Lenkau on Rambutyo island, southeast of Manus. These warships have played an important part in the conquest of the Admiralty group, darting among the islands to blast enemy gun positions and eradicate defense positions within range of their five-inch guns.

Fifth Army Air force bombers hammered Wewak, the enemy base on the New Guinea coast, smashing airdromes, supply dumps and harbor shipping with 175 tons of explosives.

MAR 28 1944

This last remaining big Japanese base in the Bismarck sea area has been an almost daily target of the Fifth A.A.F. since early in March. The latest raid heavily damaged a 1,000-ton enemy cargo ship and seven barges.

American forces at Empress Augusta Bay, on the southwestern coast of Bougainville Island, have restored their lines after a deep penetration by fanatical Japanese who lost more than 300 men in a renewed effort to crack the American defenses.

The latest attack, sixth of a series, raised the known enemy dead on that front since March 8 to 3,300, with one estimate of 6,000. American losses have been light.

Yanks Beat Off Bougainville Attack

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, March 27 (AP)—Japanese troops in the Solomon Islands, isolated by Allied Bismarck Sea successes and abandoned by their high command, spent at least 300 more lives in another unsuccessful attempt to break American defenses at Empress Augusta Bay on Bougainville Island.

DAY

An assault on American barbed wire and pillboxes in the Torokina sector of the beachhead perimeter Thursday, reported in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today, resulted in a temporary penetration, but the defenders pushed the Japanese back and restored their lines less than 24 hours later.

U. S. Casualties Light

As in the enemy's previous offensive from March 8 to 18, in which he lost more than 1,100 dead, the American casualties in the Thursday thrust were remarkably low—four dead, 47 wounded and one missing—compared with the 300 Japanese dead abandoned within American lines.

In the Admiralty Islands, American dismounted cavalrymen continued mopping up Japanese who scattered after the fall of Lorengau, on Manus Island, nine days ago, and on Friday occupied without opposition the islets of Amo and Ndrova, off the southeast coast of Manus. American destroyers, aiding the mop-up process, poured broadsides onto Pityilu Island, northwest of Lorengau, and on the northern fringe of Seadler Harbor, leveling all buildings there and sinking three harbor craft, the communique said.

Rabaul, New Britain, most-bombed spot in the South Pacific, shook under 82 tons of bombs planted on airdromes and supply areas Friday by Allied bombers from Solomons bases.

Bougainville Japs Well Supplied

DAY

Hill 129, Bougainville, Solomons Islands, March 24 (AP—Delayed). Japanese on this island are not starving, nor are they ill-clothed, poorly equipped or running out of ammunition.

Every enemy soldier killed—310—in the suicidal pre-dawn attack on Hill 129's command post this morning showed evidence of excellent physical condition. All were well clothed.

Nearly everyone was well armed. One United States soldier said a high percentage seemed to have machine guns.

Carry Gas Masks

All carried new gas masks and each had a shovel for foxhole digging.

The 310 killed in the sixth Japanese attempt to puncture the Augusta Bay perimeter raised the counted dead to more than 3,300 and to an estimated 6,000 since the offensive started March 8.

Brig. Gen. Charles F. Craig, assistant commander of the 37th Division, estimated that two reinforced companies totaling 400 troops made up the attacking force. They swept forward to surround the command post on this hill and occupied a forward first-aid station before they were halted.

The enemy penetration was the deepest since Americans landed at Empress Augusta Bay November 1, but the attack today wilted under the fire and steel of flamethrowers, tanks, machine guns and grenades.

General Craig estimated that more than 200 Japanese were killed before noon.

Sgt. McGurn, of 'Yank,' Wounded in Solomons

Herald Tribune Reporter Hit While Covering Battle

BOUGAINVILLE, Solomon Islands, March 24 (delayed) (AP).—Sergeant Barrett McGurn, correspondent for "Yank," was wounded Wednesday while witnessing an action near Bloody Hill 260 on the Empress Augusta American perimeter.

Sergeant McGurn, formerly with the New York Herald Tribune, was in a front-line trench when an enemy mortar exploded fifteen feet away. He was hit by fragments. At the field hospital his wounds were reported to be superficial.

Rabaul 'Chute Trick Fails

Advanced Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, March 27 (AP)—The bomb-plagued defenders of Rabaul have resorted to a variation of barrage-balloon tactics to stave off incessant waves of Mitchell mediums and fighter bombers.

Returning pilots reported the Japanese threw about 20 small white parachutes, supporting entangling wires, into the air. The chutes presumably were fired from the ground—inasmuch as the enemy has no aircraft to get them up there.

DAY

The new trick proved ineffective.

NINE JAP PLANES DOWNED BY YANKS BOMBING PONAPE

MAR 28 1944

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP) Nine of fifteen Japanese Zero planes which sought to intercept Army bombers, and Marine fighters attacking Ponape Sunday were shot down, the Navy reported tonight. Three other Zeros were probably hit.

Despite intense anti-aircraft fire, medium bombers of the 7th Army Air force, and Marine fighters of the 4th Aircraft Wing, bombed and strafed the town of Ponape and military installations.

Navy planes strafed a small vessel near Ujelang and bombed Kusaie island and Pingelap atoll.

In other actions yesterday, Army, Navy and Marine planes raided three enemy positions in the Marshall islands.

Text of the Navy announcement:

"Mitchell medium bombers of the 7th Army Air force, accompanied by Corsair fighters of the 4th Marine Aircraft Wing, bombed Ponape on March 26 (west longitude date.) Nine of 15 intercepting Zeros were shot down by our fighters, and three were probably shot down.

The town of Ponape and military installations were bombed and strafed. Anti-aircraft fire was intense.

"Coronado search planes of Fleet Airwing 2 strafed a small vessel near Ujelang, and bombed Kusai island and Pingelap atoll.

"On the same day 7th Army Air force Mitchell bombers, Fleet Airwing 2 search planes and 4th Marine Aircraft wing Dauntless bombers and Corsair fighters raided three enemy positions in the Marshall islands."

PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, March 27 — (AP) Four out of 15 intercepting Japanese Zeros were shot down by American air raiders Saturday as the latter bombed and strafed Ponape island, in the Carolines, a communique from Admiral Chester Nimitz' headquarters announced today.

ERICKSON

A fifth Zero probably was shot down. None of the American raiders were lost.

NIGHT

Corsair fighters escorted Mitchell bombers on the Ponape raid, the first announced fighter protection in that area. Likewise it was the first reported interception by the Japanese over Ponape. The raiders were greeted by intense Japanese anti-aircraft fire. Pilots of the Fourth Marine Aircraft wing roared into the barrage and strafed Ponape runways.

In the strike Sunday, the town of Ponape and military installations were bombed and strafed. Anti-aircraft fire was intense. Nimitz' press release made no mention of American plane losses.

Strafe Small Ship

A small ship was strafed by Fleet Air Wing Two Coronado search planes near Ujelang, a small atoll about 125 miles south of Eniwetok atoll in the Marshall Islands. Ujelang also was hit in the Saturday raids.

The Coronados also bombed Kussaie Island and Pingelap atoll in the Carolines, during Sunday's operations, which included attacks by army, navy and Marine Corps bombers and fighters on three Japanese positions in the Marshalls.

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, March 27 (A. P.).—Liberators of the Eleventh Army Air Force have bombed a new target in the Kuriles to the north of Japan, hitting twenty-five-mile-long Onnekotan Island before dawn on Saturday after bombing near by Paramushiro for the sixth time this month. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said one American plane was lost in the operation, which included also the bombing of Shumushu Island, northernmost of the Kurile chain, by a Ventura search plane of Fleet Air Wing Four.

Bishops Ask Sparing of Rome

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 27 (AP).—All Catholic bishops of Australia joined today in a statement protesting the destruction of historic cities and civilian life in war, especially from the air, and calling on the belligerents not to make a battleground of Rome. The statement was addressed to Lord Gowrie, Governor General of Australia; the Prime Ministers of the British Dominions and leaders in the United States, Russia, Germany and Japan.

MRS. ROOSEVELT NEAR END OF TOUR

At Havana After Visit To South Atlantic Bases

Havana, March 27 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived here today, nearing the end of a tour of United States bases in the Caribbean and South America.

Talks In Galapagos

Balboa, C. Z., March 27 (AP)—An army dispatch, datelined "United States Army and Navy base, Galapagos Islands, Ecuador," announced today that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, spent a day and a half at the island outpost.

The dispatch said she left for home Sunday after appearing on the stage of a packed army theater where she addressed the men.

"You men constitute our first line of defense. If you were to fail it would be possible for the enemy to pass our patrols and strike the Panama Canal," she was quoted as telling them.

The Galapagos are about 750 miles off the west coast of South America.

At the Navy Dispensary Mrs. Roosevelt talked with John Mazuchelli of 107 66th street, West New York, N. J., a Merchant Marine man whose appendix was kept frozen for six hours while a crash boat from Gapapagos hunted in the darkness for the vessel he was aboard. He is now recovering.

Canada to Pay Coal Subsidy

HULL REPLIES TO GOV. DEWEY

Calls Him 100 P. C. Wrong About Censorship.

MAR 28 1944

Washington, March 27 (A. P.).—Secrteary of State Hull said today that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was "100 per cent wrong in the accuracy of his statement" made in a New York speech last Friday that the State Department had requested British censors to suppress political news in dispatches for American newspapers.

Mr. Hull was asked to comment on Gov. Dewey's statement before the Press Photographers Association that "when we find the State Department requesting the British censor to suppress political news sent to American papers by American correspondents abroad, it begins to amount to a deliberate and dangerous suppression of news at home." Mr. Hull replied:

"Gov. Dewey is 100 per cent wrong in the accuracy of his statement. All my life I have not only talked about a free press, I have fought for it.

Quotes Own Words.

"When these rumors of political censorship in England started in November, 1942, I wrote Byron Price and cabled Ambassador Winant to tell Mr. Eden my conviction that 'fundamentally the long range interests of international friendship are best served by permitting the people of any country to know what people in friendly countries are thinking and saying about them, however unpleasant some of those opinions may be.'

"Both Mr. Price and Mr. Eden expressed full agreement.

"These rumors cropped up again while I was in Florida last month and Mr. Stettinius made unequivocably clear that this is still our policy. His statement was published widely at the time.

"I was glad to see a press dispatch from London yesterday stating that the British Government fully understands and shares our opposition to political censorship and our conviction that plain speaking is more healthful than suppression."

Connally Defends Policies

WASHINGTON March 27 (AP).—Senator Tom Connally Democrat, of Texas, lashed back at mounting Republican criticism today with a vocal defense of the Administration's foreign policies and an attask on the "isolationist" opposition they said would pave the way for World War III.

Disclosing that he planned a Senate speech soon on the matter, Senator Connally, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, took to task critics who say the State Department has no definite foreign policy and is operating on a day-to-day basis.

"Of course we have a foreign policy and it has been well defined by the objectives laid down by Secretary of State Hull and others," Senator Connally declared in an interview. "But the first thing we have to do is win the war. Diplomacy must be subordinated to that right now. That doesn't mean that we are not planning for the future."

Meanwhile, the disclosure that State Department work on an American version of the international organization subscribed to by the United States, Russia, Great Britain and China at Moscow was progressing sufficiently to warrant a look at the picture by Congress soon was called encouraging by some Republicans.

Senator Connally said a bi-partisan subcommittee probably would be appointed to counsel with State Department experts on the form of the proposed organization.

DEFERMENT STUDY FOR MEN UP TO 37 MAY BE ORDERED

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP) A Selective Service spokesman said today he believes the new government committee established to pass on draft deferments for men under 26 should eventually take over the task of reviewing all job deferments for men 37 and under.

Col. Francis V. Keesling, legislative liaison officer, told reporters there is no immediate plan to add men, 26, 27 and 28 years old to the group for which non-agricultural job deferments are being denied generally.

Officials of some agencies have been saying privately they understood this step would be taken when draft boards have passed on all under-26 registrants.

Army Wants Younger Men

Draft officials said today the Army is so intent on getting men under 26 that it would prefer not to go up to 29 if enough younger men can be found to reach the armed forces' goal of 11,300,000 by July 1.

Col. Keesling said "something must be done right now" on two manpower problems—labor turnover and finding replacements for drafted men.

There must be some control, he declared, over 4-F's, non-fathers over 37, and men already discharged. He said, however, he believed the control could be achieved without legislation.

Representative Luce (R-Conn.) introduced legislation which would draft between 50,000 and 200,000 men in those categories for necessary civilian work.

Meantime men 26 and over, especially those in 1-A, were in some sections of the country not entirely clear on whether their induction is likely to be postponed because of new regulations designed to speed the younger group to war.

Selective Service officials, reiterating that the new order does not affect men already in 1-A or whose job deferments expire—even if 26 or over—acknowledged that this depends partly on the situation at local draft boards. For example, an induction station has the capacity of giving physical examinations to only a certain number of men daily, and if the men under 26 called up en masse under the new order for preinduction physicals exceeds this capacity, the local boards may sidetrack older men in 1-A until the rush subsides.

PRODUCTION FALL FEARED BY NELSON AS MEN JOIN ARMY

MAR 28 1944

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP) The sweeping transfer of young men from factories to the fighting fronts will create "a more and more critical problem" in keeping arms production up to war needs, Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production board declared today.

He announced a drop of almost one per cent in munitions output in February, a trend running counter to the slight over-all gain scheduled for this year.

The only major upturn was in aircraft, which showed a four per cent increase in the weight of planes delivered, a sizeable gain in heavy bombers, a 15 per cent jump in transports and a 14 per cent gain in medium bombers.

"Throughout February, manpower still remained a limiting factor on the output of many munitions items," Mr. Nelson's monthly production report said.

The labor shortage, he disclosed, was felt most sharply in February in the production of so-called "critical components" like small-horsepower engines, bearings and castings where a shortage holds back landing craft, combat vehicles, army trucks, and many other weapons.

The report was Mr. Nelson's first public warning of production slumps expected as a result of the recent decision to use men under 26 for fighters instead of as workers.

Supreme Court Rules Draftees Cannot Be Inducted Against Will

MAR 28 1944

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—The Supreme Court ruled today that a selective service registrant cannot be forcibly inducted into the Army against his will, but if he refuses to submit to induction, he violates the selective service act "as clearly as one who refuses to report" to the Army.

The eight-to-one decision reversed a ruling by the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals that Arthur Goodwyn Billings, former University of Texas instructor, was inducted into the Army after the Army oath—which he refused to take—had been read to him. Justice Roberts dissented.

The court's opinion by Justice Douglas said, in line with previous court rulings, that unless a registrant reports at the induction station he may not challenge the legality of his selective service classification in the court.

"But we can hardly say that he must report to the military in order to exhaust his administrative remedies and then say that if he does so report he may be forcibly inducted against his will."

A draft registrant, the court ruled, becomes actually inducted under provisions of the selective service act when, "in obedience to the order of his board and after the Army has found him acceptable for service, he undergoes whatever ceremony or requirements of admission the War Department has prescribed."

Until induction occurs, the court said, the registrant is subject to civil jurisdiction under the selective service act, and not to military authority.

Justice Department counsel in arguing the case before the Supreme Court insisted induction occurs at the moment a man passes the final physical examination.

MAR 28 1944

Billings notified his draft board in Ottawa County, Kan., that he never would serve in the Army. He was classified 1-A, denied reclassification as a conscientious objecter, reported to Fort Leavenworth for physical examination, was classified 1-B limited service. He then refused to take the induction oath. It was read to him and he was placed in the guardhouse on a charge of refusal to submit to fingerprinting during the induction process.

The Federal District Court for Kansas and the Circuit Court refused his plea for release from military custody so that he could turn himself over to civil authorities "for arrest and imprisonment for refusal to report for induction."

In other actions today the court:

Refused to review a decision which denied a writ of habeas corpus to a Jehovah's Witness who was taken into custody after failing to comply with his draft-board order to report for induction.

Agreed to review the constitutionality of Army orders for the evacuation of Japanese from the west coast. The orders were challenged by Fred Toyosaburo Korematsu, a United States citizen, who was removed from his home in San Leandro, Calif.

Denied to George Sylvester Viereck, alleged pro-German propagandist, a review of his conviction on charges that he did not list all foreign principals for whom he worked. He was sentenced to one to five years' imprisonment last July.

IMMIGRATION OF INDIANS FAVORED BY MRS. LUCE

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP) Declaring America should show "it is not entirely blind to the effort and sacrifices of the people of India," Representative Luce (R.-Conn.) today urged passage of legislation to permit immigration of native British Indians into the United States on a regular quota basis.

Mrs. Luce said that under terms of a bill (HR 4479) she has introduced the number admitted would not be more than 75 eastern hemisphere Indians yearly.

She asserted India has contributed to the Allies the largest single volunteer army in the world, with more than 2,000,000 such volunteers enrolled.

Would Train Teachers From Europe For Peace

Washington, March 27 (AP)—Men and women from occupied European countries may be brought to the United States and Great Britain for training as teachers in post-war educational rehabilitation, Representative Fulbright (D., Ark.) said today.

"Most of the educational groups in Europe have been destroyed by the Nazis," said Fulbright, recently designated by Secretary of State Hull as head of a five-man delegation to confer in London with Allied Ministers of Education.

Many university professors and schoolteachers in Europe and their students have been eliminated by the Nazis, often being the first on the execution lists, Fulbright said.

Washington, March 27 (AP)—The Chinese Embassy today said Gen. Shang Chen, head of China's National Military Council and one of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's most trusted aides, was expected to leave Chungking in the near future to head the Chinese military mission at Washington.

General Shang's arrival here is expected to signalize closer military relations between the United States and China as joint military operations expand against the Japanese.

Posthumous Award For Marine Private

The Order of the Purple Heart and the Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal previously were awarded to Private Wantuck, who died defending a Marine beachhead on New Georgia Island on July 17, 1943.

U. S. Navy Observes Its 150th Birthday

Washington, March 27 (AP)—One hundred and fifty years ago today President Washington approved the establishment of the first fleet of the United States Navy—six ships and 2,024 men. Today, that fleet has grown to nearly 1,000 combat ships and almost 3,000,000 men.

The navy, in recognizing the anniversary today, pointed out that two vessels from the original fleet—the Constitution and the Constellation—still are on the lists as relics.

New Limousine Okayed For Admiral H. R. Stark

Washington, March 27 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee today approved the purchase of a new limousine for Admiral Harold R. Stark, but turned thumbs down on similar purchases for Secretary Knox and two other admirals.

Senator Russell (D., Ga.), a member of the committee, said the Senators felt that Knox and Admirals Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, and C. W. Nimitz, commanding the Pacific fleet, could make their present seven-passenger cars do another year.

288,000 Veterans Seen In Hospitals By 1970

Washington, March 27 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' Administration, estimated today hospitalization of war veterans will reach a peak of 288,000 by 1970.

He said hospital cases are coming in now at the rate of 1,000 to 1,400 a month.

SPEED VOTE IN HOUSE ON G. I. BILL IS URGED

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP) Speedy congressional action on the "G.I. bill of rights" to assist war veterans was urged today by Representative Philbin (D.-Mass.) in a House speech.

Mr. Philbin said he hoped to introduce an amendment to the Senate-passed measure which would provide for establishment of rest homes and smaller isolated units "for the solicitous care of mental and nervous cases." He declared "such cases will embrace well over half of all our casualties."

Mr. Philbin said, however, that if it appeared the amendment would delay passage of the bill he would "seek other means of effectuating my objectives."

Price Control Act Upheld By Supreme Court, 6 to 3

MAR 28 1944

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP) Price fixing and rent control regulations affecting virtually every person in the nation were upheld today by the Supreme court.

At the same time, the court ruled that iron ore miners are entitled to pay for the time they spend traveling in the mines from the mine opening to their working places and back again. This decision may eventually have a bearing on the United Mine Workers' demands for similar pay for the nation's half million coal miners.

Under the recent settlement of the coal mine dispute, miners are getting pay for travel time when their week exceeds 40 hours. The United Mine Workers quoted Crampton Harris, Birmingham, Ala., attorney representing the iron ore workers, as saying that in his opinion today's decision "will apply as the law of the land governing the work week in coal mines."

Move to Curb Powers

The decisions on price and rent control came at a time when a move is underway in Congress to limit the price administrator's authority.

In a 6 to 3 opinion affirming the conviction of two Boston meat dealers, accused of violating price regulations, the court declared that the price control act constitutes a valid congressional exercise of legislative power and that Congress has set forth its objectives, prescribed methods for reaching the objectives and laid down standards for the price administrators.

The same considerations involving price regulations apply equally to rent controls, the court ruled in an 8 to 1 decision reversing a Georgia Federal district court that held the rent controls unconstitutional.

"The standards prescribed by the act," Chief Justice Stone's opinion declared "x x x are sufficiently definite and precise to enable Congress, the courts and the public to ascertain whether the administrator, in fixing the designated prices, has conformed to those standards."

These standards are not an unauthorized delegation of legislative power, the court said, adding that the authority to fix prices to prevent inflation is no broader than the authority to take possession and operate telegraph lines in the interests of national defense. Congressional directives that the prices fixed shall be fair and equitable, the court declared, confer no greater scope for administrative determination, than the power to regulate chain broadcasting in the public interest, convenience or necessity.

House Thrown Into Uproar In Hot Debate on Winchell

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP) A near free-for-all threw the House into an uproar today as Representative Hoffman (R.-Mich.) renewed his biting attacks on the radio broadcaster Walter Winchell, declaring "The truth just isn't in Winchell."

In the ensuing battle, members yelled at each other, the galleries demonstrated in violation of the rules and the speaker's gavel pounded furiously.

Winchell Happy

Winchell, who has been engaged for weeks in a controversy with Representatives Dies (D.-Tex.), Hoffman, Rankin (D.-Miss.) and others, commented to reporters:

"I'm enjoying this. Life had begun to get a bit stale—I thought maybe I had, too. But not now. Specially in connection with today's House row: I seem to be keeping quite a lot of people busy. A little better than 400 to 1 isn't it?"

Hoffman asked in a resolution that the Justice department investigate two women he said were formerly employed by Winchell's radio sponsor. He named Miss Elfrieda Margaret Siddell, or Margaret F. Seidel, as one, declaring quiry should be made to determine garet F. Seidel, as one, declaring if she ever was "intended or confined by Federal authorities" as an enemy alien. The other, he said, was Hedwig Engemann and he wanted to know if she had ever been convicted or pleaded guilty to any charge.

"When I get the information I will pass it along to Winchell," said Hoffman, "and Winchell then may talk about that."

Previously Hoffman had identified Miss Siddell as secretary to Andrew Jergens of the Andrew Jergens company, and Miss Engemann as a maid in his home.

Hoffman also asked that the House act favorably on his resolution amending the code of the armed forces to make the Navy code conform to that of the Army in one respect. The change would require Navy officers to avoid speaking disrespectfully of any member of Congress—"in other words, to act like a gentleman."

Holds Officer's Status

Winchell, without drawing pay or wearing a uniform, still is listed as a Navy lieutenant commander, Hoffman said. He should be deprived of that listing or silenced about Congress, he said.

All this happened while the House ostensibly was considering a bill affecting the income tax status of Federal employes who, because of their jobs, live in a state away from their regularly maintained home.

Chairman Sabath (D.-Ill.) interjected that the running commentary about Winchell was hindering the procedure not only today but almost every other day.

"Just as long as he stabs patriotic citizens in the back, I'll expose him as a peddler of falsehood," Hoffman shot back. He declared further that if Sabath wants to defend Winchell, he may.

Sabath protested that wasn't his point at all. He said he'd like to see "every commentator and everyone be required to tell the truth."

"You (Sabath) could end all this if you would bring the gentleman here and compel him to tell the truth about these charges he makes," said Hoffman. "He's getting close to the penitentiary line."

As that point, Sabath strolled over to speak in a whisper to Representative Eberharter (D.-Pa.) and

Hoffman, still holding the floor, shouted that Sabath "apparently needs some help."

Eberharter flushed angrily and after a sharp, bitter exchange declared that he told Sabath only to keep quiet and "let the gentleman finish his tirade."

MAR 28 1944

Shout at Each Other

All three then shouted back and forth at each other, other members stood up, acting Speaker McCormack (D.-Mass.) pounded the gavel, several people in the gallery applauded.

Hoffman slid away from the microphone, allowing that he would "yield the rest of my time to the speaker." When Sabath said Eberharter never told him to "keep still", Hoffman rushed back to the mike to declare:

"Well, I'll take the word of the gentleman from Pennsylvania as to what he told you."

Sabath demanded that Hoffman's words be expunged from the record. Minority Leader Martin of Massachusetts leaped to his feet to assert that Sabath's request had come too late. McCormack broke the tension when he said:

"The chair hopes that clarifies the atmosphere," and the House roared with laughter.

Allied Plans for Battle Of Pacific Reported Made

Troops Will Be Sent From Europe After Nazi Defeat

BOSTON, March 27 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson, special assistant to the Secretary of the Navy, declared tonight that as soon as Germany's defeat is imminent the British and Americans "have definite plans for implementing the transfer of Allied fighting power from the European to the Pacific theaters."

In an address prepared for a meeting of the Beacon Society of Boston, a civic group, Mr. Stevenson said: "When that transfer begins to take effect it will be the signal for full speed ahead in the Pacific, and you will hear more from your mighty Navy."

"As you know," he added, "a vast landing-craft production program is under way. It will cost more than $5,000,000,000. One out of every four dollars the Navy will expend during the next ten months will go into that program. Upon its successful completion depends in great measure the success of forthcoming operations, for this year, as never before, the Navy's mission will be a match for its fighting strength."

Capt. Frank Crosby Dies In The Pacific

Boston, March 27 (AP)—Word has been received of the death "somewhere in the Pacific" of Capt. Frank Crosby, 59, one of the most widely known sea captains along the Eastern seaboard of the United States and Canada.

Vice-President William K. Irving of Eastern Steamship Lines said that he had learned of the skipper's death in a letter from one of Crosby's shipmates.

Crosby died at sea, aboard the vessel he commanded for the army transport service, two hours after he was stricken suddenly March 3. His body was taken to Honolulu.

Soon after the outbreak of the present war, he sailed the cruising liner St. John from New York to Europe to evacuate 600 stranded American citizens.

NAZIS FIGHT WELL, SAYS R.A.F. ACE

BOSTON, March 27—(AP) Top scoring Royal Air force pilot of 1943, Wing Commander Raymond H. Harries, DSO, DFC, declared today that members of the German Air force were "determined fighters" and that they continued to be dangerous foes.

The commander, who has taken part in 300 operational flights and is one of only 15 of an original group of 300 pilots who trained together still alive, said at a press conference: "I wouldn't say Germany was weakening in the air. The Germans won't come up all the time, but they are determined fighters when they do."

He added, however, that he was definitely pleased with the present European situation. "We're completely outnumbering the Germans now," he asserted. "In France, Belgium and Holland we have complete mastery of the air, so much so that the Germans won't come up and fight."

"I'm extremely lucky," he said. "I've never been shot down, never bailed out and never had an accident. It's entirely a matter of luck whether or not enemy flak gets you."

Harries said he considered the new American P-51 Mustang, which he has flown, one of the finest planes today and the Focke-Wulfe the Germans' best plane.

Harries expects to return to England in two weeks.

"I want to be there for the gravy, if there's any to be had," he declared, "and after that there's always the Pacific."

Harries planned to spend the next five days in Boston and then go to New York where he will spend the remainder of his leave before returning to Britain.

Yank Medical Care Held Best

Jacksonville, Fla., March 27 (AP). Surgeons who saw front-line service in some of this war's bloodiest battles reported in an interview here today that the United States is giving its fighting men as good or better medical attention than those of any other nation get.

Navy Captain Don S. Knowlton, who commanded the marines' First Division field hospital in the invasion of Guadalcanal, said: "I never saw a man that was neglected. They received prompt, adequate, kind and intelligent treatment. Our surgeons are doing a superb job.

Japs Do Little For Men

"It was our opinion that the Japanese made very little provision for care of the wounded. We found no Japanese medical officers. They may have been there, but we couldn't find them."

Major Bordman Bosworth, of New York, who took mobile army surgical teams into the combat zones during the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns, said American care of the wounded was on a par with treatment by any other army in that theater.

"We captured a German field hospital at Bizerte, and they had excellent equipment," he declared.

Many Lives Saved, He Says

Major Bosworth warned, however, that civilians must expect to see more maimed war veterans on the streets after this war than after the last because many soldiers' lives have been saved after crippling wounds which would have been fatal in France during 1917-18.

Major Bosworth reported that many lives had been saved by giving blood plasma, then "massive transfusions" of whole blood to wounded men. Blood banks, with donors from among supply services in the rear coming up to the front lines to offer their blood, were set up right in the combat zones.

Many Unaware They Have It

"Malaria may simulate almost any disease you can think of," he declared, and urged civilian physicians to bear it in mind when examining and treating war veteran patients.

He explained that the action of atabrine and quinine given to servicemen to prevent malaria tends to suppress the disease which is injected into their bodies by mosquito bites and that "thousands of soldiers may be walking around with it without knowing it."

"Even after they come home, if they retain good health it may never break out," he said. But if their bodies become weakened by appendicitis, peptic ulcer, acute abdominal conditions, pneumonia or other ailments the malaria germs may become active.

Might Confuse Some Doctors

Doctors, particularly those who never have seen a case of malaria because it did not occur in their field of practice, might then be confused or misled by malaria's characteristic chills and fever in addition to the symptoms of conditions they suspect, he explained.

Major Bosworth said there was little likelihood that returning malaria-infected veterans would spread the disease into a great nation-wide epidemic because the particular type of mosquito which carries the germ does not range all over the United States, although it may become prevalent in some areas where it once was wiped out.

WILLKIE CONTENDS WAR AIMS CLOUDED

MILWAUKEE, March 27—(AP) Wendell L. Willkie declared today in the climactic speech of his Wisconsin campaign for the Republican presidential nomination that "one of the tragedies of this war is that we have lost our sense of direction" at home and abroad.

Willkie said that in previous wars Presidents "had certain declared objectives which they pursued consistently without regard to expediencies of the moment." He cited Abraham Lincoln's determination to preserve the union and free the slaves, and the "mangificent moral spectacle" of Woodrow Wilson fighting for his 14 points and League of Nations."

"The whole military and political attitude of the government moved consistently in fighting with all the nation's being for the purposes declared" he said.

Sees Aims "Violated"

Early in this war, he continued, the President and other Allied leaders laid down broad general principles, the Atlantic Charter and the United Nations theory and "recently Secretary of State Hull restated the general objectives, but at each successive step we have violated the very principles we have announced as principles for which we fight."

Failure to pursue announced purposes, he asserted," lessens the nation's enthusiasm for the war, causes loss of prestige around the world and taxes the moral fervor out of war."

As illustrations Willkie listed "the Polish boundary question, the Vichy policy, the Yugoslav policy, the policy toward Italian fascists."

"Lack of direction and purpose reflects itself on the domestic scene," Willkie said, adding:

"In view of some government policies, lack of defining a labor policy, from various public statements, one would think there was an irrepressible, inevitable conflict between labor and other elements of our society. I refute that doctrine completely."

MAR 28 1944

become arrogant' there seemed little doubt he was referring to John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers.

Willkie also advised labor to "develop more sense of responsibility in relationships with other elements of the social economy" and said there should be "a movement in labor toward democratization of labor itself."

Malaria As Post-War Menace

Jacksonville, Fla., March 27 (AP). Members of the American College of Surgeons were told here today that malaria, a disease heretofore confined almost exclusively to the Southern States, may become a major problem of medical practice all over the nation after the war.

Major Boardman M. Bosworth, of Bronxville, N. Y., who was with the Army Medical Corps during the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns, predicted that "a tremendous number of men will be coming back" from tropical and subtropical combat zones with malaria germs in their blood to confuse physicians trying to diagnose their future illnesses.

"We are bogging down internationally," he said, "and at home we are failing to establish and maintain the purposes for which we have declared we are fighting. Either failure is reflected in the other."

The candidate addressed a large portion of his remarks to labor matters in this, the state's largest industrial center. In so doing he paid high tribute to "sincere labor leaders" and to the "magnificent story in this war of the tremendous contribution by millions of war workers" but he also swung lustily at some labor leaders.

When he said "labor must take out of its leadership those who have

Barkley Asks Oklahoma to Back Roosevelt

Moore, Republican, Agrees Administration Is Issue in House Election Today

MUSKOGEE, Okla., March 27 (AP).—Two United States Senators, Alben W. Barkley, Democrat, of Kentucky, Senate majority leader, and E. H. Moore, Oklahoma Republican, asserted tonight the Democratic national administration is the issue in tomorrow's special Congress election in the 2d Oklahoma District.

"You will render a verdict upon the conduct of your government by those whom you have trusted to manage it both in peace and war," Senator Barkley said in a statewide radio broadcast.

"In this election there is at least a preliminary trial and test of the New Deal and Roosevelt policies of government," Senator Moore said in an address broadcast from Okmulgee over a state hookup.

Almost overshadowed by the national political issues raised by both parties were the nominees, W. G. Stigler, Democrat, and E. O. Clark, Republican, candidates for the seat vacated by the resignation of Jack A. Nichols, a Democrat.

Senator Barkley, who came here at the invitation of party leaders, urged selection of a Congressman who would co-operate with the Administration.

Outlines Legislation

He lauded leadership of President Roosevelt and outlined major legislation of the last eleven years which he described as "the greatest constructive program ever inaugurated or carried into effect by any administration in the history of this country."

Senator Barkley condemned "political critics of what they describe scornfully as the New Deal." They are, he asserted, "hurling anathemas against the whole program but none of them has the courage or good faith to tell the people whose votes they seek which of these great legislative remedies they would undo if given the power."

Senator Barkley made no mention of his recent specatcular collision with President Roosevelt over tax legislation, but he said earlier in an interview at Oklahoma City that their occasional disagreements had not affected his support of the Administration or belief in its program.

"Mr. Clark stands for repudiation of the New Deal," Senator Moore said. "William G. Stigler, the Democrat candidate, is a New Dealer.

"A New Dealer acts without any regard for the people and their government. He acts to keep himself in power. He doesn't have to think. The thinking is done for him by the Washington dynasty. He becomes the 'rubber-stamp' kind of statesman.

Asks Preservation of Liberty

"I beg of you voters to rise in your independence and as Americans make your voice cry out in all its power against the further desecration of our liberties by the New Deal."

Senator Moore described Senator Barkley as "a messenger for the White House, not a leader in the Senate."

"To millions of us in America today, New Dealism is an atrocious and repugnant word. It is so atrocious and repugnant that the candidate for the fourth term is seeking to escape its odium. He is seeking to substitute another name." . . .

The 2d District includes eight eastern Oklahoma agricultural, mining and industrial counties. It has gone Republican only once, in 1920.

Bricker in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 27 (AP).—Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio, seeking the Republican nomination for President, said tonight Senator Alben W. Barkley's participation in Oklahoma's 2d District Congressional election campaign indicated the national administration was "greatly worried."

"And I think they should be," he added at a rally for state Republican leaders.

"I cannot understand how Senator Barkley can come into Oklahoma demanding unqualified support of the New Deal in view of his recent repudiation of the President's veto of the revenue measure."

Governor Bricker declared the time has come to "take the policy-making power of government out of the hands of the arrogant New Deal and return it to the hands of the elected representatives of the people."

Polish Merchant Fleet To Get 5 U.S.-Built Ships

Vessels Will Be Chartered for Duration of War

NEW ORLEANS, March 27 (AP).—Wladyslaw Talmont, chief of the maritime department of the Polish Consulate General in New York, said here today that the Polish merchant fleet is to be augmented by five American-built cargo ships, one of which is being constructed here.

Mr. Talmont added that the ships will be manned entirely by Polish crews and will carry war cargoes for the United Nations.

He said that the Avondale Marine Waye, Inc., here is building one of the five cargo ships which will be chartered to Poland for the duration. Another, already built by Ingalls at Decatur, Ala., is the first ocean-going vessel ever built on the Tennessee River.

BUG RIVER CROSSED

Red Forces Merge, Begin Sweep Across Flat Steppes.

LONDON, Wednesday, March 29 —(AP) The Red army yesterday crushed the German garrison of Nikolaev, former Soviet Black sea fleet base at the mouth of the Bug, and in a surprise night crossing 60 miles upstream joined other Russian forces striking swiftly southward across the flat steppes on a 175-mile front toward Odessa,

NIGHT

...s miles away, Moscow announced today.

In Rumania, other Red army units were assaulting the key rail city of Iasi, the Berlin radio said, but Moscow has not confirmed this report. If true, it would be the first Soviet smash into Axis territory.

Kovel Encircled

Another German broadcast late last night indicated Russian troops had encircled Kovel in the east-central part of old Poland, saying Nazi troops there were being supplied by air. Kovel is 170 miles from Warsaw and 35 miles from the 1939 German-Russian demarcation line on the Polish Bug river.

Premier-Marshal Stalin announced the fall of Nikolaev, which the Germans had held for two and one-half years, and a midnight bulletin told of the night crossing of the Bug, the capture of Domanevka, 77 miles north of Odessa, and 40 other localities on the opposite side of the river.

The Russian threat to Odessa was especially acute, Moscow said, because in Bessarabia far to the west Soviet units were within eight miles of the Odessa-Tiraspol-Iasi railroad—the last main German supply or escape artery.

Nazis Mowed Down

Nikolaev, which sticks out on a spit of land into the Bug river and therefore is surrounded by water on three sides, fell after several days of fierce fighting in which the remnants of the German garrison were hurled into the Bug river to drown or be mowed down by machinegun fire, Moscow said.

The Germans had been ordered to hold it "at all costs," and to take it the Russians had to storm through a formidable mass of trenches, barbed-wire and minefields laid out on the eastern side of the city, the bulletin said. After that was done there were 24 hours of intense street fighting before the Germans were wiped out or surrendered.

"Infantry and tank men were supported by the vigorous operations of naval and marine detachments which had landed on the southern outskirts of Nikolaev," the bulletin said.

The Russians were declared to have seized 176 towns and villages in six sectors during the day.

In the southeastern part of old Poland the Russians drove to within 40 miles of Czechoslovakia with the capture of Gvozdets, a district center of the Stanislav region only 11 miles northeast of Kolomea on the Czernowitz-lwow railway. That represented a 10-mile advance from Gorodenka, captured Monday.

Gvozdets is 40 miles northwest of Czernowitz, Bucovina capital in whose outskirts the Russians were reported fighting, and the Soviet tropos were smashing toward the Tatar pass leading over the Carpathian mountains into Czechoslovakia.

Trap Being Closed

to the Russians, said the bulletin recorded by the Soviet monitor.

In the new crossing of the Bug river from 10 to 15 miles northwest of Voznesesnk the Stalingrad veterans of Gen. Rodion Malinovsky's Third Ukraine army, which also took Nikolaev, joined up with other units moving southward on Odessa along a 100-mile front extending from the lower Bug in the east to the Dniester river in the west.

The Germans still hold 9,000 square miles of lower Russia in this area above Odessa, but there are few natural barriers now confronting the Russians. On the west near the Dniester the Russians captured Slobodka, a junction on the Pervomaisk-Byeltsi line leading into Rumania, and the Odessa-Lwow railway, and moved on to take Voronkov, 113 miles northwest of Odessa.

Along the center of the enrushing Russian front the bulletin said the Russians seized Yasinovo, 20 miles southeast of besieged Balta; Lukanovka, 21 miles southwest of Pervomaisk; and Kamenny Most, 10 miles south of Pervomaisk.

Reds Use Superior Force

German military commentators in broadcasts stressed the numerical superiority of the Red avalanche descending on Odessa, but gave no indication that the Germans intended to evacuate the big port.

Striking south and east of Byeltsi, captured Bessarabian rail city 40 miles northeast of menaced Iasi, the Russians took Koshen, 20 miles south of Byeltsi and only eight miles from the Odessa-Tiraspoliasi railway—the last major German escape route from lower Russia.

Along the center of the onrush-were Chutuleshty, 21 miles southeast of Byeltsi, and the rail station of Tsira, 25 miles east of Byeltsi.

In the Czernowitz area the Soviet troops were spreading out on both sides of the city, the bulletin announcing capture of Kotsman, 13 miles to the northeast, and Okna, 20 miles to the northeast.

Steadily closing the pocket around Kamenets-Podolsk above the Dniester the Russians were declared to have seized Sokolets, 23 miles to the east, and Lysets, 22 miles northeast of Kamenets-Podolsk, where the German garrison was wiped out to the last man.

Much Booty Seized

The Soviet midnight bulletin announced the Russians in the fighting for Kamenets-Pdolsk had routed the headquarters of the 16th Nazi tank divsion, capturing 2,000 officers and men, 50 guns, 4,000 trucks, 250 motorcycles, and other equipment.

North of that city, in the Yarmolintsy sector, a regiment of perhaps 3,000 German infantrymen were declared wiped out and 21 tanks, 10 armored cars, 400 trucks and other booty taken.

Two hundred Hungarian officers and men "surrendered without putting up resistance" in the stroke which took Gvozdets in former Poland, Moscow said, and large milcars were abandoned by the Germans who fled from Slobodka itary supplies and railway freight above Odessa.

The fall of Czernowitz, 115 miles northwest of Iasi, was regarded as imminent, as was the capture of besieged Tarnopol, German defense keystone in old Poland which has seen bitter street fighting for several days.

Reports of panic among the Axis satellite nations were bolstered by imploring the Balkan peoples to German and Rumanian broadcasts stop "the Bolshevik Hordes." Dr. Hans Frank, Nazi governor general of suffering Poland, even asked for the "loyal collaboration" of the restless millions inside that conquered country, telling them their "only hope is a German victory over Bolshevism."

But the front correspondent of the Moscow newspaper Izvestia declared: "The German command cannot halt our troops," and in significant conclusion said that Soviet artillery already could be heard in the strategic Rumanian city of Iasi.

Peasants in Bessarabia, he said were welcoming these Red army troops, under Marshal Ivan S. Konev, even aiding them by loading ammunition onto their cows from trucks stalled by mud, and thus hauling it to the expanding front.

Big Black Sea Naval Base Falls Under Fierce Attack

Russians Hammer to Gates of Czernowitz—Berlin Reports Red Forces Cross Prut and Try to Storm Iasi.

MAR 29 1944

London, March 28 (A. P.).—The Russians today captured the great Black Sea naval base of Nikolaev, Marshal Stalin announced tonight, and thus tore loose the eastern corner stone of an area more than 150 miles broad in which many Germans are stranded in their reat back toward Odessa and the Balkans.

MAY

The city was taken by storm after stubborn fighting, Premier Stalin declared in an Order of the Day, addressed to Gen. Rodinn Y. Malinovsky. Stalin ordered the event commemorated by twenty salvos from 224 Moscow guns—a salute reserved for major victories.

The fall of Nikolaev, at the mouth of the river Bug, left Odessa the only first-class Ukrainian seaport in the hands of the Germans. Stalin described Nikolaev as a large industrial center, important railway junction and powerful strong point of German defenses.

The Berlin radio a little earlier indicated that the Russians had crossed the river Prut into Rumania proper, asserting that Russian troops had attempted to storm the town of Iasi, ten miles inside the eastern border of Rumania.

The broadcast gave no details of the attack, but said it had failed.

Nazis Believed Fleeing To Jassy

MAR 29 1944

Moscow, March 28 (AP)—Russian troops inside Bucovina appeared today to be strangling the communications of Cernauti (Czernowitz) from positions in that provincial capital's outskirts, while Red artillery along 80 miles of the Prut river poured salvo after salvo into enemy ranks.

DAY

There was no positive indication that the Russians had crossed the Prut, which divides Bessarabia and Rumania proper. Nor was there any report of answering fire from German and Rumanian guns, indicating the foe was in flight toward Jassy, headquarters of Marshal von Mannstein's retreating army of the south. The Russians were ten miles from Jassy on the Prut at Skulyany.

Fighting In Nikolaev

Street fighting was reported in Nikolaev, Black Sea port on the Bug estuary, 215 miles to the east of Jassy. Nikolaev was reported ripe for imminent capture.

Forty miles northeast of Cernauti the capture of the strong Dnieper river base of Kamenets Podolsk and the town of Bozovitsy was swiftly fashioning a death pocket around Germans in a 1,400-square-mile salient to the northeast. Main escape routes were snapped; the Germans could retreat only through a muddy corridor being closed from the north by the First Ukrainian Army and from the south by the Second Ukrainian Army.

"Guns Heard In Jassy"

Izvestia said the ominous thunder of Russian artillery already was audible in Jossof and that "the German command cannot halt our troops."

Red Star declared in a dispatch from the Prut that Marshal Ivan Konev's Second Ukrainian Army tanks and tommy-gunners were driving Germans and Rumanians to death in the narrow stream.

Cernauti has a population of 110,000 and was the third largest city of pre-war Rumania.

Capture of Sadagura, just across the upper Prut from Cernauti, climaxed a 23-mile drive into Bucovina from the Dniester river by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First Ukrainian Army, in which an entire regiment of Hungarian troops was annihilated, a Russian communique announced.

Crossing Of Prut Seen

Skulyany was stormed by troops of Marshal Konev's army, the bulletin said. The two operations placed the Soviet armies along the north bank of the upper Prut for a distance of 80 miles, and it appeared that a crossing of the river into Rumania proper was imminent.

Zhukov's invasion of Bucovina was preceded by a new crossing of the Dniester, and front dispatches said this thrust apparently had effectively split the German defense line east of the Carpathian Mountains—a defense based on the Bucharest-Cernauti-Lwow railroad. The drive brought the Red army vanguards to within 28 miles of Rumania's northern frontier, thus increasing Russian pressure on that sorely beset Axis satellite.

Koropets Taken

In the drive on Cernauti, Zhukov's forces fanned westward to capture Koropets, the communique said. This placed the Russians close to the foothills of the Carpathians and broadened the threat to the left flank of the enemy's Prut river line.

Other Zhukov troops were hammering at the German defenders of encircled Tarnopol on the trunk line 70 miles east of Lwow and 83 miles northwest of Cernauti. Here the Nazi garrison was still holding out, but its situation appeared to be hopeless.

SIEGE STATE GRIPS PLOESTI

Nazis Proclaim Emergency In Oil Area As Reds Near

London, March 28 (AP)—A state of siege has been proclaimed in the Ploesti oil field area of Rumania, the Soviet news agency Tass said tonight, and with terror heightening throughout the Balkans at the steady advance of the Red army, Rumanian police were ordered to shoot anyone who failed to stop when challenged.

The Russians were reported storming Iasi, 170 miles northeast of Ploesti.

The Germans are taking extraordinary precautions to guard the Ploesti fields, from which they have been draining about 3,000,000 tons of oil yearly, and have replaced all Rumanian technical personnel with German scientists, Tass said.

Oil Stores Removed

In addition, the Soviet agency said the Nazis have ordered the removal of all oil stored at the fields and sent additional SS battalions to guard the area.

Meantime, a dispatch from Zurich, Switzerland, said there had been hundreds of suicides in Budapest following German occupation of Hungary and that the Nazis are conducting a pogrom in the capital.

At the same time advices reaching here said the puppet government in Nazi-controlled Hungary had dissolved the Social Democratic and Peasant parties.

Mutiny Reported

A Tass dispatch from Stockholm said the Third Rumanian Army Corps had mutinied after receiving orders dispatching it to the front. The dispatch added there had been numerous armed clashes between Rumanian and German soldiers.

The Soviet communique broadcast from Moscow said more than 200 Hungarian officers and men surrendered to Russian forces in the region around Gvozdets "without putting up resistance."

Two Parties Suppressed

The Budapest radio said Andor Jaross, Interior Minister, had decreed the end of both Hungarian parties.

[The Moscow radio reported large numbers of Rumanian officials were fleeing Bessarabia before the Red army advance.]

The Daily Mail said in an Istanbul dispatch that Premier Stalin had told Bulgaria Russia would consider it an "unfriendly act" if the Germans were permitted to use the country in the battle of Rumania.

The dispatch said Bulgaria's reply was not learned, but that there were unconfirmed reports the Bulgarian Regency Council had agreed to German demands to send troops

Quislings Organized

New York, March 28 (AP)—The Polish Telegraph Agency said today in a dispatch from London that the Germans have organized a "White Russian Central Council" of quislings in an effort to incorporate White Russia into the German war effort.

DAY

The agency also declared that the Nazis had for the first time conscripted a White Russian unit into the German army.

The head of the quisling council, according to the German occupation press, the agency said, is Prof. Radoslaw Ostrowski and the group's headquarters is in Minsk Llitewski.

30 ENEMY PLANES RUINED BY ATTACK ON FRENCH BASES

HERCHER

German Pilots Refuse to Battle Escorted Force of Bombers.

MAR 29 1944

TWO BIG RAIDERS LOST

Only Light Anti-Aircraft Fire Challenges Fortresses, Liberators.

NIGHT

LONDON, March 28—(AP) Striking in a campaign of mounting intensity against basis from which tensity against bases from which the Luftwaffe defends Europe, 250 explosives and incendiaries on four airfields in northern France today.

Heavily-escorted formations of Flying Fortresses slapped at Chartres, 40 miles southwest of Paris; Chateaudin, 30 miles farther southwest; Reims, 80 miles northeast, and Dipon, 160 miles southeast of Paris.

Nazis Avoid Battle

As yesterday, when nine French airdromes were attacked by between 750 and 1,000 big bombers, the German air force seemed to be sulking on the ground, leaving the defense to thinly-scattered batteries of anti-aircraft guns. One pilot in the flight to Reims said he didn't see a single enemy pursuit.

"Unable to bring the Luftwaffe to battle," said the U. S. communique announcing today's raids, the American escort fighters, "attacekd enemy planes on the ground, destroying 30, including many bombers, and damaging more than a score."

The forces of both bombers and fighters involved today were described as medium in the announcement, which said two bombers and three fighters were missing.

Thus in two days the Eighth Air force has splintered 12 key enemy airdromes and destroyed at least 72 Nazi craft on the ground at an expenditure of eight bombers and 13 fighters.

As an indication of the Luftwaffe's declining strength, on March 18 when the Eighth Air force destroyed 82 planes in the air during raids upon Augsburg, Friedrichshafen and other targets, the Nazis knocked down 43 U. S. bombers and 10 fighters.

22nd Major Raid

It was the 22nd major American operation of the month.

In a two-day campaign which has taken the four-engined planes almost to the Spanish border, an estimated 3,000 tons of bombs has been dropped by 1,000 to 1,500 heavy bombers. Today's bombers were covered by an equal number of Thunderbolt and Mustang fighters, anxious to repeat their feat of yesterday of wrecking 38 enemy planes.

One Mustang group claimed destruction of 23 enemy planes aground and damage to 28 others.

From at least some of the bases hit by these attacks came the force of 100 or 200 German bombers last night for spirited bombing and reconnaissance over Birtain's southern coastal region. That effort cost the Nazis at least 11 ships.

Medium Mitchells and lighter Boston bombers of the Second British Air force operated against military objectives in northern France today, and Thunderbolt fighter-bombers too roared out to sear that area. Czech Spitfires escorted the British aircraft, while the Americans had their own umbrella of Thunderbolt fighters.

The daylight raids followed a night Mosquito foray into the Ruhr, conducted without loss.

Fortrese crewmen who returned from Chartres—hit for the third time this month and second successive day—and Chateaudun expressed amazement at the lack of opposition in the Paris area, which had been wildly defended by the Luftwaffe last fall.

No Enemy Fighters Seen

Not one enemy fighter was seen, on a day so clear that they could see for 40 miles, they said.

Chartres and Chateaudun are both large operational fighter bases covering flying routes into southern Germany. The deluge of bombs left the fields covered with wreckage. Burning planes and buildings sent up pillars of smoke.

A communique giving the final tally for Monday's operations said 42 German planes were accounted for, four by bomber gunners, and six U. S. bombers and 10 fighters had been lost.

In the attack on Dijon, used by the Germans as a night-fighter and long-range bombing base as well as a training center, each unit of Fortresses was assigned to one section of the field, and together they raked it thoroughly with bombs.

With only flak interfering with the new series of bombardments, the Vichy radio warned ARP personnel to "remain in a constant state of alert in the western and southern danger zones of France due to the scale and frequency of the Anglo-American raids and the likelihood of even more intense enemy action in the immediate future."

Yanks Again Rip Nazi Airfields In France

HERCHER

MAR 29 1944

London, March 28 (AP)—Between 250 and 500 United States heavy bombers struck at German airfields in France again today.

The bombers attacked installations at Chartres, Chateaudun, Reims and Dijon in a follow-up to yesterday's blows at nine German air bases and the Tours freight yards by 750 to 1,000 bombers.

British Bomb Ruhr

Earlier, the British Air Ministry announced that Mosquitos spread new destruction last night through the Ruhr valley, where the RAF's heavy bomber fleet had dealt a devastating blow to the German armament industry 24 hours earlier by raining 2,240 tons of bombs upon Essen.

DAY

It was the Mosquitos' 20th night foray this month against previously battered industrial centers in a campaign intended to discourage reconstruction operations.

The Air Ministry said all planes returned from the overnight raids.

In the American attack on the Nazi airdromes yesterday fighter planes which escorted the bombers were credited officially with destroying 38 Nazi planes, most of them on the ground, since few German aircraft rose to intercept the attackers.

Four other fighters fell to bomber gunners, for a day's total of 42. Six American bombers and 10 fighters were missing, a supplemental communique said today. Five fighters previously listed as lost were found to be safe.

Visual Bombing

The objectives of the bombers, flying the 21st mission of the month, included Chartres, 40 miles southwest of Paris; La Rochelle, St. Jean d'Angelv. Pau. Biarritz, Cazaux, Bordeaux and Mont de Marsan, all in the Bay of Biscay area, as well at Tours.

"The bombing was visual against all targets, at least two of them being used primarily as long-range bomber bases, and satisfactory results were reported," said a United States communique.

An Associated Press dispatch from the Spanish border town of Irun quoted Frenchmen who reached the frontier as saying that the station at Biarritz, where the great southern line from the Mediterranean joins the northbound line to Bordeaux and Paris, was almost destroyed.

Airfield "Heavily Hit"

One traveler said that 80 planes took part in the attack and that the German military airdrome outside the city also was "heavily hit."

Last night German raiders struck at England and Wales, with west England bearing the brunt of the attack. Bombs also fell in south and southeast England. London was not bombed, but one section had an alert. At least eight of the raiders were reported destroyed.

The heaviest barrage in two years was thrown up by a southwest England town over which the German planes crossed and recrossed. A Berlin broadcast said that Bristol was the principal target.

Falling Shell Kills Eight

One anti-aircraft shell crashed through the roof of a building in Wales, killing eight persons and injuring 16 others seriously.

The German radio played up the assaults as a great victory, declaring that "British defenses in southwest England were completely overwhelmed by the German aircraft and suffered their heaviest setback."

It was the twenty - second major operation conducted by the Eighth American Air Force so far this month. Also it was the second day in a row that Chartres — one of the final training bases for Nazi fighter pilots —had been hit. Yesterday a force of between 750 and 1,000 American heavy bombers battered nine German air bases in France as well as the freight yards at Tours.

All of today's targets are in northern France. Chartres is forty miles southwest of Paris, Chateaudun seventy miles southwest, Rheims eighty miles northeast and Dijon about 160 miles southeast of the capital. There was a possibility that some of these were the fields from which the Germans launched last night's foray against the south coast of England.

An Associated Press dispatch from the Spanish border town of Irun quoted Frenchmen who had reached the frontier as saying that the station at Biarritz, where the Great Southern from the Mediterranean joins the northbound line to Bordeaux and Paris, was almost destroyed. One of the travelers said that eighty planes took part in this attack and that the German military airdrome outside the city also was heavily hit.

The Irun dispatch added that one American four-engined bomber crashed in flames near Bilbao, Spain, last night, but that the crew parachuted safely to earth.

"Knockout Dropper," Fortress, To Be Retired

A United States Fortress Base in England, March 28 (AP)—The Flying Fortress, Knockout Dropper, which yesterday became the first United States heavy bomber in the European theater of operations to complete 75 missions, will be retired from combat and returned to the United States, it was announced today.

"Knockout Dropper" also was the first American heavy bomber to finish 50 missions in this theater. She beat "Hell's Angels" to this mark November 16, 1943. "Hell's Angels," with 48 missions to her credit, left here in January to tour the United States.

N. J. Chinese Pilot Downs Nazi

LONDON, March 28 (AP).—Lieutenant Frank S. Fong, Chinese-American Thunderbolt pilot, of Newark, N. J., shot down a Focke-Wulf 190 in this week's air battles over Europe. It was his first opportunity to fire his guns in seven missions.

NAZIS LAUNCH AIR SPY RAID

Planes Said To Be Trying To Spot Invasion Activity

London, March 28 (AP)—The Germans, who are reinforcing their western front and warning their people of imminent attack, made an extensive and strong air raid against southern England last night which apparently was aimed at Allied invasion preparations.

The Germans' evident purpose was to find out how much supplies and personnel the Allies have concentrated in southern England for a possible invasion takeoff and to do as much damage as possible to the invasion setup.

Raid One Of Heaviest

It was one of the heaviest aerial attacks in two years outside London.

The Germans announced that their target was Bristol, one of England's prime ports and harbors. The British acknowledged only that considerable damage was done to a coast town.

The attacking force was composed of between 100 and 200 planes, and it stirred strong coastal anti-aircraft batteries into one of their biggest barrages. At least 11 German planes were shot down. British casualties included at least nine persons killed by defective anti-aircraft shells in south England and Wales.

Many Flares Dropped

The British defense searchlights were outshone in brilliance by a rain of German flares, apparently dropped to enable the Germans to take pictures of the Allied invasion establishment.

There has been plenty to pique German curiosity about southern England, where in recent months sizable segments of the civilian population have been evacuated to make room for the military. Only a few days ago a ten-mile strip extending all along the southern coast and halfway up the east coast was designated as a military banned area. On Sunday a call went out for the auxiliary naval service of yachtsmen.

"Hour Is Approaching"

All these developments, coincident with tactical-type bombing of railroad centers and air bases in France, combined to focus German attention on Churchill's words of Sunday that "the hour . . . is approaching," and that there are to be "feints and rehearsals to deceive and baffle the enemy."

It may be an indication that the Germans, with D-day approaching, are swinging away from London raids in favor of hitting targets more directly connected with invasion possibilities. Certainly half-hour attacks through London's fierce defenses leave little damage evident the next morning, while in the smaller target areas similar numbers of planes might land relatively heavier blows.

The Berlin radio said Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had inspected defensive positions on the Dutch coast which were hit Sunday by hundreds of Allied medium bombers attacking an E-boat nest at Ijmuiden. Rommel's headquarters are at Breda, the Netherlands.

At the same time, the Berlin broadcast said, Field Marshal Hugo Sperrle, commander of the German air force in the west, had inspected aerial installations on the Channel coast and decorated some airmen.

German People Warned

Adolf Hitler's newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, warned the German people that the Allies probably would launch an invasion with "overwhelming superiority" in men and material "in the not-too-distant future," the German radio said in a broadcast.

Nazis Warn Of Invasion

Stockholm, March 28 (AP)—The German press sought with fresh vigor today to prepare the people for the western invasion which it said could be expected any time now.

A front-page article in the Berliner Nachtausgabe said "final steps" were being prepared in England and "the coming weeks will make England the scene of enormous military operations."

The newspaper declared it imperative for the English and the Americans to hurry up the invasion" in order not to miss the bus."

Attacks In France Cited

As evidence of the imminence of the attack Nachtausgabe cited yesterday's intense Allied air attacks along the French invasion coast. It also said a force of Luftwaffe bombers much larger than usual raided Bristol last night.

(A message received at the London office of the French Committee of National Liberation said the Germans were evacuating the civilian populations of Dunkirk and Calais.

(The message said inhabitants were allowed to take only a small amount of luggage and as soon as civilians left, occupying troops removed furniture and household effects, loading it aboard trucks, which carried big signs "Gifts of the French people for bombed-out Germany.")

Hitler's Paper Warns

Today's issue of Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Boebachter, said the English and Americans must invade, otherwise the war might end with Stalin the sole conqueror of Europe.

"The western powers will hit the Continent with all they have and will not give up even if at the beginning there are some setbacks," the paper said.

Tied up with the invasion comment was an undertone of deep apprehension over events in the east. A dispatch by the German-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau quoted a German front correspondent's description of the retreat in southern Russia as "terrible for our troops."

Battle Of Invasion Jitters Beginning

By John M. Hightower

Washington, March 28 (AP)—The invasion jitters are just beginning.

From here on there will be "false alarms, feints and dress rehearsals" by the Anglo-American high command and phony reports and rumors put out by the Germans. This will continue until the smartest deceptionists on both sides of the English Channel have exhausted their bags of tricks in the greatest battle of nerves, preceding the greatest amphibious assault in history.

Seen As Warning

The quoted words are from Prime Minister Churchill's Sunday broadcast. His brief reference to the forthcoming attempts to deceive the enemy about exactly where and when the blow or blows will fall was interpreted here today as a warning to the Allied world to get ready for some strange maneuvers.

Surprise is one of the deadliest weapons in the Allied arsenal of attack, and the Germans are believed to be working along similar lines. They need deception primarily to arouse the underground forces of Europe prematurely and thus expose them to betrayal. The Allies are counting on these forces to strike at exactly the right moment to wreck enemy communications, tie up enemy occupation and reserve forces, blow up supply centers and otherwise create confusion in the German rear.

Working Feverishly

The Germans meanwhile are reported working feverishly — impressing French, Dutch, Belgian and other dominated people into service to help them—to strengthen their already powerful "Atlantic Wall" defenses. Dutch reports made available here from underground sources are especially detailed in such activities.

These say the Germans already have flooded some of the Dutch coastal lowlands, which the industrious Hollanders spent five centuries draining, and are ready to blow out all the dikes if necessary. They add that the Germans are particularly concerned about Dutch territory because once penetrated it leads quickly into the industrial heart of western Germany.

Rommel In Holland

Another Dutch report, credited by the news agency Aneta to an underground newspaper, is that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, the German commander, has established headquarters at Breda, in western Holland, and converted the historic town into a fortress. Another underground newspaper says the enemy has invented a type of work called "special services' under which people are routed out in the middle of the night and forced to dig trenches and erect barricades.

The flow of such information to Dutch diplomats here suggests that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Allied invasion chief, probably is receiving highly informative data on the state and disposition of German preparations from underground sources all over western Europe. It was to prevent the enemy from obtaining similar intelligence about Allied plans that the United States recently asked Ireland to oust Axis diplomats.

ARMY REVEALS GOAL OF AAF

Says Bombers Aim To Wipe Out Invasion's Air Opposition

Washington, March 28 (AP)—Elimination of enemy air opposition to the Allied invasion forces in western Europe has been the main objective of the bomber offensive against Germany since last July 1, the army said today.

The campaign now has reached such a point, the report said, that the Nazis must decide whether to defend their factories or hoard their planes to meet the invasion.

In an analysis of the bomber strategy, the army made it clear that continuing operations against aircraft factories are necessary because of the "tremendous recuperative powers" of German industry.

Production Mounted

At the beginning of 1943, the army reported, Germany set out to treble fighter production. By July 1 production was up 50 per cent. and the AAF and RAF—which up to then had devoted their principal attention to the submarine industry—began a systematic campaign against aircraft factories.

By September 1, the bomber offensive had cut monthly production of single-engine German fighters to approximately three fourths of the July 1 level. In all of 1943, the army reported, the bomber attacks prevented production of an estimated 2,500 fighter planes.

"New plants which were constantly thrown into operation provided replacement capacity, not expanded capacity," said the report.

Scale Increased

Early this year the scale of the bomber attacks was increased enormously and as of March 1 the monthly production of single-engine fighters had been cut two thirds below the January 1, 1944, level, twin-engine fighter capacity slightly more, and bomber capacity by one third, the review said.

"That does not mean, however," the army explained, "that German combat aircraft production had been permanently reduced to that extent."

When a plant is bombed out, the army explained, topflight German production men rush in to determine whether it is better to rebuild there or move equipment and personnel.

Production May Be Lost

Production may be lost only for the time necessary to move the workers as a second or third shift into another factory.

Assuming for purposes of illustration that only three production units—an assembly plant fed by component building factories—exist for a certain type of plane, the report concluded that serious impairment would result only when the third had been knocked out.

And even that would be only temporary, it was pointed out, with the first and second plants being rebuilt or others being erected.

But progress has been such, the report asserted, that:

"If Germany attempts to frustrate attacks on its fighter industry by throwing a fighter screen against AAF and RAF heavy bombers and their escorts it may suffer a rate of attrition beyond its capacity for replacement.

"If it determines to conserve fighter strength by reducing Luftwaffe opposition to the bomber offensive, it will be at the expense of exposing to more effective aerial attack those strategic target systems whose destruction will directly affect German military strength."

17,400 Sorties By AAF Hit Reich In 3 Weeks

Washington, March 28 (AP)—Reviewing the European aerial offensive, the army reported today that between February 20 and March 9 this year the AAF flew 7,044 heavy bomber sorties against Germany, escorted by 10,356 fighter sorties, dropping 17,256 tons of bombs.

Bombers and fighters destroyed a total of 1,023 enemy fighters in the air during this period, and lost 414 heavy bombers and 121 fighters.

The personnel losses of the AAF totaled 4,261 men, but on the basis of past experience, at least half of these are believed to be alive as prisoners.

2,000 Nazi Planes Bagged In 8 Weeks

London, Wednesday, March 29 (AP)—British-based American air forces have destroyed more than 2,100 German planes in the last eight weeks, and since February 1 have blasted Germany and occupied territory with more than 37,000 tons of bombs, Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle said last night.

In a radio speech to the National Press Club in Washington, D. C., the commander of the Eighth Air Force in Britain said an "invading force" of 170,000 men of the Eighth and Ninth Air Forces delivered this pounding.

Summarizing blows against the Nazi aircraft industry, he declared "the goal of strategic bombing was, and still is, the destruction of Germany's vital war industries."

INVASION CHIEFS GIVE FLIERS LUCK

LONDON, March 28—(AP) Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and his "air invasion staff" apparently brought luck today to the Thunderbolt fighter-bombers of the Ninth U. S. Air force.

While making a tour of air bases Gen. Eisenhower, Air Chief Marshal Trafford L. Leigh-Mallory, Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, Brig. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada and Air Marshal Sir Arthur Coningham watched the fighter-bombers take off for a bombing operation in northern France.

Everyone of the planes returned safely.

The Allied supreme commander carefully inspected aircraft, armament, bombs, and trailers of one Ninth Air force fighter group which is geared to move to new bases within 24 hours.

The general climbed into a Lightning and fired some 200 rounds from the plane's 50-caliber machine-guns.

Gen. Eisenhower discussed the Pacific war with Lt. Col. James H. Howard, former "Flying Tiger" from St. Louis, who now commands the pioneer Mustang group in Britain.

Powers' Responsibility

"When it comes to deciding action which only certain states by their military power are in a position to effectively take, we cannot simply count heads," he continued. "Great powers have, and must have, special responsibilities in the field of security. This does not mean there will be a dictatorship of the great powers; every free nation will have a responsibility for peace and its own contribution to it."

The Foreign Secretary warned that permanent peace entailed "more than political and military security . . . but also economic and social well being, and in this respect, too, the United Nations are working out a practical policy."

Cooperation Stressed

He said the Moscow and Teheran conferences accepted that the "world community would be composed of a number of independent states. We have to find a way by which all these separate units, each with its own history and aspirations, can work together for purposes so indispensable to them all."

"These purposes," he said, "may be described as peace, freedom and welfare."

He pleaded for patience and perseverance in the job of "healing the scars of the German occupation."

Big 3 Must Have Main Peace Voice, Eden Says

All Nations Will Have Some Say, But Most Belongs To Moscow-Pact Signers, He Asserts

London, March 28 (AP)—Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary, predicted today that every state would have an opportunity to be heard in international discussions, but declared that "responsibility for the preservation of peace must fall in the first instance on Britain, the United States and Russia, and they must have a greater voice in deciding any action taken in the general interest."

In an address before the Free Church Federal Council, the Foreign Secretary said the "first problem is to secure and maintain cooperation of the great powers. This can only be done if we have some common purpose, some common set of principles."

Consultations Necessary

He stated that even after the principles had been agreed upon problems of their application would require "daily continuous consultation" between the Big Three.

"Every state must have the right to make its voice heard in discussions of means by which we are to arrive at our common ends," Eden said, adding:

"But let us admit that, although the states are equal in status, they are not equal in power and consequently, their duties must vary. Responsibility for the preservation of peace must fall in the first instance on the powers which signed the Moscow declaration and I hope also on France, when, as we all trust, without long delay she resumes her place among the great powers. . . .

DEMANDS SETTLED POLICY ON FRANCE

London, March 28 (A. P.).—The London News Chronicle declared editorially today that it would be grossly unfair to France to suggest that our political relations can be worked out from hand to mouth by the Allies' Commander in Chief. Noting a report that Gen. Eisenhower had already protested to the State Department at Washington that the political affairs of France are not his business, the paper said that political relations ought to be carefully thought out beforehand by the British and American governments.

"It would be a fatal error to expect Gen. Eisenhower to deal with the suspected Vichy elements. Here Britain and the United States must collaborate with the French National Committee. Any attempt to bypass the committee can only lay up unending trouble in the future."

The Daily Mail, in a column long editorial, characterized Britain's foreign policy as one of expediency varying from day to day and called for an authoritative definition of the policy.

At present the policy "seems to be based on the need for treading delicately between the United States and the U. S. S. R., the newspaper said, adding:

"At one moment, as in the case of Poland, we seem to follow the Russian bent; at another, as in the case of Eire, the American. . . . Where do we really stand about eastern Europe, North Africa, Italy, the Pacific, the Atlantic Charter, the four freedoms and the new and better league? . . . If the Government have a real policy the public should be given some inkling of what it is."

LIMITED TO EIRE

London, March 28 (A. P.).—Britain plans no request to Russia or any country other than Eire for the removal of Japanese Ministers, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today.

Replying to a question whether such action would be asked of Russia, Portugal, Spain, Turkey, Sweden or Switzerland, he said: "No, the considerations which apply in the case of Eire do not apply in the cases of the other countries mentioned."

Gen. Quesada Now Heads Ninth Fighter Command

London, March 28 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the Ninth Air Force, announced today that Brig. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, 39-year-old veteran of the North African and Italian campaigns, now heads the Ninth's Fighter Command.

Brereton disclosed that Quesada had been directing the operations of fighters and fighter-bombers of the Ninth since they flew their first missions from Britain late last year. His Mustangs and Thunderbolts are expected to play an important part in the opening of the western front.

Quesada was a relief pilot on the famous army plane "Question Mark" which set an endurance record of 6¼ days in 1929.

Berlin Denies British Escapees Doomed To Die

London, March 28 (AP)—British official quarters said today that the German Government had denied a report that five British prisoners of war, recaptured after their escape in Italy, had been sentenced to death.

The British Government had asked the Swiss Government to investigate the report, originally put out February 8 by the German DNB agency.

ADRIATIC ISLE OF RAB RETAKEN, NAZIS SAY

Tito's Communique Tells of Enemy Plan for Big Drive

LONDON, March 28 (AP)—The Germans have recaptured the island of Rab, off the Adriatic coast of Croatia, a communiqué broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio announced tonight.

The announcement also said the enemy was concentrating large forces in the area of Jablanica and Toplica for an offensive against the Partisans of Marshal Tito [Josip Broz], but disclosed snowstorms had curtailed fighting in eastern Bosnia.

The Partisans are attacking on the banks of the Drinjaca River and near Rogatica, the announcement said.

[The Brazzaville radio broadcast a Reuter dispatch saying 400 French prisoners of war who had escaped from Germany were fighting in Marshal Tito's army. The broadcast was recorded by the Columbia Broadcasting System.]

ROOSEVELT LAUDS YUGOSLAVS' FIGHT

London, March 28 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt expressed America's "admiration and friendship" for the Yugoslavs in a message to King Peter on the third anniversary of that nation's entry into war.

His message, dated March 27, and released today by the Yugoslav Government in Exile, said:

"Three years ago today the Yugoslav people rallied to begin their gallant struggle against the forces of oppression and tyranny, a struggle that has become an epic in the minds and hearts of Americans. In greeting your Majesty on this anniversary I extend to the embattled people of Yugoslavia an expression of America's admiration and friendship."

Anti-Jewish Measures Expected In Hungary

London, March 28 (AP)—German-occupied Hungary's puppet Council of Ministers will meet today to adopt anti-Jewish measures and promulgated other decrees designed to effect "radical changes in Hungary's home and foreign policy," the Budapest radio announced.

The broadcast asserted the new measures were expected to bring about a liquidation of the "destructive elements which recently have become bold in attempts to undermine the home front and Hungary's alliances."

A dispatch from Istanbul, meanwhile, said that Premier Nicholas Kallay of Hungary was reported to have taken refuge in the Turkish Legation at Budapest when the Germans marched in.

ACTOR TOM BROWN IN EUROPEAN WAR ZONE

LONDON, March 28 — (AP) Lt. Tom Brown, a Hollywood film actor until he joined the Army two years ago, now is in the European theater of operations.

"I can't say what I'm doing, but I can say I like it," the young Signal Corps officer stated as he headed back to his unit after a short leave in London.

"And say," he added, "can you tell me how to get hold of Jimmy Stewart? I would like to see him."

Brown referred to Maj. James Stewart, another former film actor, who now is piloting Liberators at a bomber base in England.

Churchill Government Suffers 1-Vote Setback

London, March 28 (AP)—The Government suffered a one-vote defeat today in Commons, its first such setback since Winston Churchill became Prime Minister in May, 1940, but there was no question of his resigning, since only a third of the House membership was recorded in the voting.

The reversal came on an amendment to the Government's education bill, with Commons voting, 117 to 116, after an angry debate, to make women teachers' pay equal to that of men.

Jerseyites Think First of Home.

London, March 28 (A. P.).—Radioman Second Class George R. Quinn, 16 Highland avenue, Kearny, N. Peace Talk—(With Reserve)

Stockholm, March 28 (AP)—The Free Danish news service said today that 30,000 German and foreign workmen recently staged a peace strike in Berlin, using the slogan, "End It by Easter."

(The story was unconfirmed by any other source and the Associated Press Bureau in Stockholm urged that it be treated with reserve.)

The story was written by a special correspondent, who claimed that he bribed his way into Germany without a passport or visa and spent some time in the capital.

Published in the principal Danish underground newspaper De Frie Danske, the story said that February produced a revolutionary change in the German home front.

Germans Attack Flanks Of Fifth Army At Cassino

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 28 (AP)—Showing mounting uneasiness about their flanks in the Cassino area, the Germans after a sharp but unsuccessful attack in the hills north of the stronghold are laying a steady artillery barrage on Allied positions to the south, it was announced today.

The Nazis, obviously puzzled as to where the Fifth Army might strike next in an effort to break the Italian deadlock, attacked yesterday along the road between the villages of Cairo and Terelle, some four miles from Cassino, but were thrown back by Allied artillery and infantry. An enemy patrol that maneuvered around to a point northeast of Cairo also was scattered.

Nazis Shell Whole Area

Preceding these two exploratory thrusts, German artillery and mortars shelled the entire area to discourage any concentration of Allied forces for a flanking move through the hills.

For the second day hundreds of Allied guns fired steadily at German strong points in the southwest corner of Cassino and along Highway No. 6 leading to Rome. The greatest weight of shells was thrown at the Hotels Continental and Des Roses, into whose ruins Nazi parachute troops have burrowed. Germany artillery replied in a night-long pounding of Allied positions south of Cassino.

Six Patrol Clashes Reported

Six different patrol clashes were reported on the Anzio beachhead, mainly in the Cisterna and Carroceto areas, and it was disclosed that three small German attacks of platoon strength were broken up Sunday afternoon.

The Allied heavy-bomber force was inactive, but lighter craft swarmed out in some 1,400 sorties against railway lines, bridges, airfields and other targets throughout central Italy. Three planes were lost and two German craft were destroyed of about 65 seen over the battle area.

Strong formations of Invader dive bombers and Boston light bombers blasted railway yards, warehouses and factories at Sette Bagni, on the northeastern outskirts of Rome.

Allies Beat Off Cassino Jab

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 28 (AP) — Allied artillery broke up a German attack north of Cassino and continued to hammer the two hotel "key-point" areas of the German defenses within the ruined town, headquarters announced today.

The Nazi attack was broken up on the road from Terelle, which lies about four miles northwest of Cassino. The Germans replied to the shelling of the Hotel Continental and Des Roses with a night-long bombardment of Allied positions south of the town.

Beachhead Jabs Crushed

Meanwhile it was disclosed that three small Germans attacks of platoon strength on the left side of the beachhead below Rome were beaten off Sunday afternoon and the Germans remained on the defensive. Six different patrol clashes were reported in the beachhead area.

Allied artillery, bearing the brunt of the battle on the Cassino front for the second straight day, "considerably battered" the hotels, a military spokesman said.

Allied planes, flying about 1,400 sorties, blasted at railway lines yesterday, striking targets in central Italy, swarming over the battle area, and lashing shipping.

Rail Bridge Bombed

Strong formations of Boston light bombers and Invader dive-bombers attacked railway yards, warehouses and factories at Sette Bagni, on the northeastern outskirts of Rome. Marauders, escorted by Spitfires, bombed a railroad bridge at Poggibonsi.

Mitchells bombed railway bridges at Masrsciano, 70 miles north of Rome, Perugia, 15 miles farther north, and Grosseto, 90 miles northwest of the capital. Baltimores hit at a railroad bridge 35 miles southwest of Ancona, and scored a direct hit on a power house near San Valentina.

Airacobras bombed highway and rail bridges at Monte Pescali and a railway bridge at Montalto di Castro, 50 miles northwest of Rome.

tion in Italy is secure but extremely difficult from a military viewpoint.

The Germans are fighting over internal lines of communication. In a single night they can move a division facing the beachhead south to face the main Fifth Army at Cassino, to beat off an attack there. Two nights later they can move it back, if necessary, to meet any beachhead thrust. And, conversely, the Allies must move troops from the beachhead to the Fifth Army, or in reverse, by the slow sea route. It would be extraordinary if a division could be moved from one of these fighting forces to another in a week.

Why Cassino Bombing Failed.

Clearing weather, however, may give the Air Forces a chance to batter a hole in the German defenses just as they did in April and May of last year in Tunisia.

The terrific bombing given Cassino fell short of expectations in two respects. In the first place a considerable number of Germans hidden in caves and tunnels escaped the bombing, came out of their hiding places after waves of infantry had passed and cut their lines of communication. And in the second place tanks moving up behind the Allied infantry found they had to stay on the only two roads available because the condition of the ground on either side was too bad to allow other movement. Bombs cratered the roads badly and these craters immediately filled with water, making it necessary for the engineers to fill in each crater before tanks and trucks could move.

Troops Withheld for Big Invasion.

By this time the advanced infantry had to be supplied by air and the Germans were so well established that they were able to block the advancing tanks, forcing the infantry to fight its way back.

While these were the causes for the immediate setback at Cassino, the fundamental reason for the slow progress is the same as it has been since the original Anzio landing failed to cause a German withdrawal on the Cassino front.

By nature, the Allied overall battle plan for the coming campaign in western Europe, now in the full tide of preparation, committed Italy to limited operations. Progress could be made in Italy by throwing in countless thousands of Allied troops and disregarding losses, but the Anglo-American Combined Staff decided the gains would not be worth the cost.

This leaves the field commanders in Italy the task of doing the job with the forces at hand. It had been hoped that definite Allied aerial superiority would be enough to tip the scale of battle in the Fifth Army's favor because the ground forces are about equal. But bad weather kept the bombers from exerting their full power.

Even the volcano Vesuvius took a hand in the picture—showering hot rocks on the surrounding area and forcing the abandonment of at least two key air fields because of damage to planes.

Cassino Drive Called a Failure And Beachhead Now a Liability

But Experts Say Allied Situation in Italy Is Less Serious Than It Looks and Will Be Put in Focus by New Operations.

By WES GALLAGHER.

London, March 28 (A. P.).—With military authorities conceding the failure of the latest Cassino offensive, the Allied beachhead south of Rome is regarded as virtually a liability under present conditions. Nevertheless the situation in Italy was today described as looking more serious than it really is—because it is the only active land front held by British and American troops in Europe.

As other and larger operations develop, it is expected, the Italian campaign will fall into its proper perspective, and give a clear picture why its operations have been limited. The ground situa-

New Non-Metallic Land Mine Used by Nazis on Italian Front

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP) A new product of Teutonic ingenuity, a small but deadly land mine which cannot be located by detection instruments, has appeared on the Italian front to impose one more problem for the American ground forces battling there.

Lt. Col. Alfred K. Du Moulin, back from observation duty with the 34th infantry, told of the mine in a report today to Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, commanding general of Army ground forces.

Known as the "wooden shoe mine," the anti-personnel device is made of plywood or plastic and is called "the worst curse" of all the enemy's weapons. Until the non-metallic mine appeared engineers and infantry moving out in the wake of retreating enemy forces could locate buried explosives with detectors actuated by a magnetic current.

The new mine, Du Moulin reports, "looks like an innocent bar of soap but has enough TNT in it to blow off a man's foot when stepped on."

A kettle-shaped, portable pillbox "is one of the most astonishing defenses the Germans have developed," the observer said. Although it is about five feet in diameter and six feet high, only the six-inch concrete dome and machine gun snout are visible when the pillbox is sunk into place. Camouflage makes it all but indistinguishable beyond ten yards. The pillbox is equipped with a bellows to cool the gun and the two-man crew is kept warm by a small stove.

"Our men can destroy it with Molotov cocktails (containers of gasoline which are ignited and tossed onto or into the target) after outflanking it," Du Moulin said, "but the hills are so studded with them that there always seems to be another one behind the pillbox just smashed."

The Nazis are adapting every feature of the rugged Italian terrain to defensive use, he declared.

"Our doughboys are glad when the Jerries mount an offensive—then they can see them," Du Moulin asserted.

question at a press-radio conference whether there was anything he would like to tell the American people about Cassino, particularly in view of criticism on the subject.

He said he could speak only off the record, and that he would have to reply off the record, also, to an inquiry as to what he thought of articles in American and Canadian service papers calling the Cassino campaign a failure.

On the Italian situation, a reporter noted that a columnist had said the President had written Prime Minister Churchill of Britain that Marshal Badoglio should be gotten rid of, and Mr. Roosevelt's only reply was that it sounds like a columnist.

Roosevelt Has Nothing To Say About Cassino

Washington, March 28 (AP) — President Roosevelt had nothing to say today about the battle for Cassino.

Churchill Declines Word On Italy

London, March 28 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill declined in Commons today to make a statement "at this time" on the Cassino and other Italian war fronts.

Edgar Granville, Independent member, asked:

"Do you consider it satisfactory that, despite your telegram (a request to Allied commanders last month to tighten censorship in the Mediterranean), critical reports continue to come in from war correspondents in Italy and at the same time no authoritative statement is made by the Government in the House of Commons on the progress of operations?"

"Perhaps," Churchill commented, "there may not be sufficient progress of operations for any statement to be made by the Government. I certainly have not concealed my disappointment that progress has not been quicker."

GIVES NEW VERSION OF FIRED-ON PLANES

London, March 28 (A. P.).—The best information available in London attributes the shooting down of twenty-three American transport planes by Allied ships during the Sicilian campaign to a series of unfortunate circumstances, some of which were probably unavoidable. The planes were fired on last July with a loss of 410 American lives.

Contrary to previous reports, the Air Forces were not operating separately. The Army, Navy and Air Forces were under the direct control of Gen. Eisenhower, all on an equal basis. The campaign was planned by a joint Army, Navy and Air Force mission, British and American, under Gen. Eisenhower. The planes were given a complicated course, regarded as the best from the standpoint of security, but high winds caused a dispersal of the transports, some of which flew over the ships in the Gela sector, others near by.

By a coincidence, Nazi planes bombed the ships while the Allied planes were near by, and in the resulting melee planes of both sides were shot down.

Officials say that the Allies are having to learn the art of amphibious warfare through experience. Many new and still secret procedures have been adopted since the Guadalcanal, Moroccan, Sicilian and Italian invasions.

U. S. Army Wedding In Italy

Naples, March 28 (AP)—Corporal Mary Jo Marlin, of Wheeling, W. Va., will become the bride Thursday, in the first war wedding of United States service personnel in Italy, of Lieut. Robert B. S. Spangler, of Baytown, Texas. Corporal Marlin has been in the WAC nine months. Spangler, a communications officer, has served in the army seven years.

NAZI GUNS KILL FIVE IN ARMY HOSPITAL

Naples, March 28 (A. P.).—Five soldiers were killed and eleven wounded on Sunday when some eighty German shells struck an American tent hospital area on the Allied beachhead south of Rome, it was learned today. The five soldiers all were patients. Three were killed in one tent and two in another.

The Stars and Stripes, American Army newspaper, said that the casualties brought to thirty-three the number of American hospital patients killed by shells and bombs on the beachhead, and that seventy-four have been wounded.

Lieut. Isabelle Huffman of Danville, Ill., night nurse in charge of the two tents, said: "The men were wonderful. They didn't make a sound, and there was no confusion. Nobody said a word until I asked for a flashlight. Somebody handed me one. The first thing I saw when I turned on the flashlight was two dying men on the ground, one at each side of my desk."

A dozen other tents were perforated by shell fragments. The hospital, with the Red Cross painted large on all the tents, is isolated from military objectives.

KING PLEDGES FREER ITALY

Vittorio Promises Representative Parliament After War

Naples, March 28 (AP)—King Vittorio Emmanuele has pledged himself to form a government with "a larger base" after the Allied capture of Rome, with an Italian parliament to be elected within four months after peace is established, it was disclosed today.

The King's personal program for the Government of Italy was made public by Vito Reale, Minister of the Interior, in a speech at a rally of the Italian Democracy party in Potenza last Sunday and reported for the first time.

The program was embodied in a letter which the King sent to Lieut. Gen. Frank N. M. MacFarlane, deputy president of the Allied Control Commission, last October 21.

Communist Leader Arrives

The announcement coincided with the arrival today of Palmiro Togliatti, head of the Italian Communist party and former secretary of the Communist International, from long exile in Moscow. Togliatti, also known as E. coli, immediately called a meeting of party leaders from various parts of the country for Thursday.

With the return of Togliatti, a lessening of left-wing opposition to the King and Premier Pietro Badoglio was forecast in Italian political quarters.

German propogandists have asserted that Togliatti already was in Italy clandestinely, and said he organized the strike of Italian workers earlier this month in northern Italy.

King's 7-Point Program

The King's seven-point program called for continuance of the present ministry until the Government returned to the capital. "Once Rome has been liberated from the Germans there shall be constituted a ministry with a larger base which shall include representatives of all parties, but no one in any way compromised by Fascism," it stated.

It said Parliament "shall freely and completely discuss institutions (such as the monarchy) and reforms," and "the Crown will faithfully follow the popular will as expressed by freely elected representatives of the nation." It asserted that the country, "after free consultation shall be arbiter of its own destiny."

Naples Fascists Being Purged

Naples, March 28 (AP)—A sweeping purge of suspected Fascists in Naples province began today with suspension of 690 Italians from posts in governmental and semi-governmental agencies and institutions.

All held high honors or offices conferred by the Fascist party, in cluding Vice-Prefect Frederico D'Aiuto, the provisional assistant attorney general, Attilio Inglese, and some school officials and bank employes.

29 Are Dismissed

Twenty-nine were dismissed outright and the others suspended pending public hearings before governmental purge commissions.

The suspensions were announced by provincial Prefect Enrico Cavalieri.

Some of those suspended indicated their defense will be that Fascist distinctions were conferred without their solicitation, and accepted in fear of losing their jobs.

Recruiting U.S. Foes Told

Algiers, March 28 (AP)—Accused of treason, Col. Pierre Cristofini admitted today he came to Tunisia in December, 1942, to recruit troops for service against United States forces.

Cristofini told a military tribunal he had dealt with high German officers and had recruited 400 Frenchmen, although only 130 enlisted after learning they might have to fight Frenchmen.

He is being tried in the series of hearings through which the French National Committee has announced a purge of suspected Vichy partisans.

A third Japanese column thrusting toward Imphal from the southeast appeared to have been halted just inside the India border. Today's communique said a Japanese attack was thrown back in that area and that Allied troops captured one position.

Take North Burma Village

American-trained Chinese troops in northern Burma stormed and captured the village of Hkawnglawyang in the Mogaung valley, and in the same vicinity American troops of Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell used bayonets and grenades to wipe out Japanese suicide squads between the Hkawnglaw Kha river and Shaduzup.

Allied operations progressed near the western coast on the Arakan front, today's communique said, with the Japanese suffering heavy casualties in abortive counterattacks between Maungdaw and Buthedaung.

Allied fighter pilots reported a "highly successful" attack on enemy positions southwest of Buthedaung and heavy bombers destroyed Japanese supply dumps in the Kamaing area.

In northern Burma, American-trained Chinese troops stormed and seized the village of Hkawnglawyang in the Mogaung valley, killing a number of Japanese. The Chinese are astride the upper Mogaung valley road in contact with the enemy south of Hkawnglawyang.

Stilwell Wipes Out Squads

In this same valley area, troops of Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell were wiping out Japanese suicide squads with bayonets and grenades after compressing the invaders between the Hkawnglaw Hka (river) and Shaduzup.

Near the western coast on the Arakan front, Allied operations went forward east of the Mayu range and in the west tunnel area between Maungdaw and Buthedaung, with the Japanese suffering "heavy casualties in abortive counterattacks," the communique said.

Allied heavy bombers blasted enemy supply dumps in the Kamaing area and lighter planes shot up the main street of Kamaing, 42 miles northwest of Myitkyina.

Fighter pilots reported a "highly successful" raid on enemy positions southwest of Buthedaung.

Dive bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters raided enemy communications in the Chin hills Sunday night, scoring three direct hits on the Hpaungzeik bridge and heavily damaging another bridge over the Manipue river. Other bridges were hit in north Burma.

Three daily news digests will be included in the ten-hour daily broadcasts, for which the first low-powered transmitters are being established. It is hoped to set up from six to ten local area broadcasts in India. A similar effort to supply radio entertainment for Americans in Egypt is under way.

Small Planes' Taxi Service Links Up Air-Borne Force

American Air Force Headquarters, India-Burma Border, March 24 (AP—Delayed)—An air taxi service over enemy territory from the Allied air invasion base inside Burma is being operated by Col. Philip G. Cochran's air commando flying sergeants, who pilot single-engined two-seater liaison planes.

Flying hundreds of miles daily to carry reinforcements, orders and plans and ammunitions and other war materials to British troops on the march, they land with their cargoes then return with wounded men to main bases, where larger transports carry them on to India.

Fly Dynamite To Spearhead

Once a British spearhead of assault troops reached an enemy railroad and needed dynamite and tools to wreck Japanese communications. The Commando flyers had the equipment there within two hours.

The sergeants are commanded by Major Andrew P. Rebori, Barrington, Ill.

Nearly everyone of th eAmerican sergeants already has rescued 50 injured or wounded British soldiers who otherwise would have been forced to remain behind in enemy territory when their column moved on.

Brave Mountain Storm

Two American flyers who braved a storm over the mountains yesetrday to carry vital information from Burma Allied Headquarters to moving British troops put their planes down in India last night, after having flown nearly 60 hours in the past week.

They were Sergeants Nicholas Kosko, Edwardsville, Va., and Fintan F. Maegerle, Tarrytown, N. Y. Kosko drove a truck and Maegerle was a policeman in civilian life.

Ordered to find a British column, land beside it, and deliver the pouch of papers to the commanding officer, they armed themselves to the teeth and took off at noon.

Fly Low Over Enemy

The sergeants flew low across enemy territory, reached the British within an hour, landed beside a paddy field, delivered the pouch and food and barbed wire to the troops, then took off with two injured British soldiers.

Returning later to their India base, Kosko and Maegerle told of the latest exploit of a fellow sergeant pilot, Willard Roy, of Pampa, Texas, "who landed beside a British column and was asked to take up two British soldiers on a special mission."

Hurl Grenades Under Bridge

"Roy said okay and the two soldiers with pockets full of hand grenades climbed in. Three minutes after take-off they dived on a bridge where seven Japs with a machinegun were hiding," Kosko said, adding:

"Passing a few yards over the bridge, the two British soldiers leaned out both sides of the plane and hurled grenades under the span."

They said the enemy apparently was knocked out because when Roy took off again with hospital cases he saw British troops on the bridge. The sergeants also have been doing odd jobs with bombs on their 85-mile-per-hour craft.

Allies Out To Level All Rabaul Facilities

Southwest Pacific Headquarters, March 28 (AP)—Rabaul, Japan's once-proud bastion on New Britain which is now isolated by American landings around the Bismarck Sea, is being steadily leveled by Allied bombs in a new phase of warfare aimed at the enemy's warehouses, shops and barracks.

More than 70 tons of explosives and incendiaries were poured on these targets Friday and Saturday, and 145 structures of all types and sizes were destroyed or damaged, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said today.

Fuel Dumps Hit

Mitchell medium bombers, Dauntless dive bombers and Avenger torpedo planes carried out the raids, hitting also fuel and ammunition storages, while Liberators and other Mitchells pounded the northeast New Guinea coast and destroyers shelled Japanese defenses in support of ground troops mopping up the Admiralty Islands.

The Wewak area of northeast New Guinea, last Japanese strongpoint in the Bismarck Sea sector, took another pasting. Its airdromes and supply dumps were hit, the waterfront smashed, gun positions silenced and large fires started.

nea coastal points, where the Allied planes already have dumped around 2,500 tons of bombs so far this month, greatly reducing Japanese air and supply operations.

In the latest raids, 74 tons blasted the Wewak installations and 84 tons smashed the enemy gun positions at Hansa bay. Rabaul, a daily target of Solomons-based planes, received 46 tons and other aircraft from the south Pacific hit Kavieng airdromes and defenses with 50 tons.

Strikes at the Japanese troop and gun positions around the Allied Torokina beachhead perimeter on Bougainville totaled 38 tons of bombs.

Other planes ranging to Kaimana in Dutch New Guinea set an enemy cargo ship afire.

Japs Near Ukhrul In India Advance

New Delhi, March 28 (AP)—Japanese forces pushing through the Somra hills inside the Indian border are pressing home determined attacks in the vicinity of Ukhrul, 32 miles northeast of Imphal, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters announced today.

To the south of Imphal, meanwhile, Allied troops were reported continuing operations to clear the Tiddim-Imphal road, along which the Japanese have been moving steadily northward since crossing the border from Burma several days ago.

Progress In Clearing Border Of India Called Satisfactory

New Delhi, March 28 (AP)—Efforts of British troops to clear Japanese invasion columns from the Tiddim-Imphal road south of the communications center of Imphal in India "continue satisfactorily," Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters announced today.

However, another Japanese force pushing into India through the Somra hills was making determined attacks in the vicinity of Ukhrul, 32 miles northeast of Imphal, with hard fighting in progress. Japanese pressure there was increasing, an Allied communique said.

U. S. Air Group Scores In First Major Combat

New Delhi, March 28 (AP)—It was an American Lightning squadron in its first major combat which destroyed nine Japanese planes over Ansiakan in Burma last Saturday although outnumbered more than three to one, headquarters of the Third Tactical Air Force's eastern air command disclosed today.

The squadron also accounted for five planes probably destroyed and three damaged in its battle with about 35 enemy planes. Two American pilots were missing. (Bare details of the battle were announced in the southeast Asia headquarters communique on Sunday.)

JAP BASES RAIDED BY ALLIED PLANES

Kavieng, Rabaul, Wewak Plastered With 292 Tons of Bombs.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Wednesday, March 29—(AP) Allied bombers dumped 292 tons of explosives in swings over enemy bases around the Bismarck sea areas, headquarters announced today.

The bombers hit Kavieng, New Ireland, Rabaul, New Britain, Japanese positions on Bougainville island in the Solomons, and the prime bases at Wewak and Hansa bay on the northeastern New Guinea coast.

Heaviest hit were the New Gui-

17 Days, Yank Lives Spent In Taking Jap Tree Post

By Charles H. McMurtry

Hill 260, Bougainville, Solomon Islands, March 25 (AP—Delayed). This is the story of a tree, probably the highest-priced tree in the world.

This tree was a banyan, rising 125 feet above the very edge of a cliff which drops 260 feet almost straight down to the Torokina river bed. It overlooked half-mile-wide Torokina valley—and Japanese positions on jungled hills across the river.

Japs Dug In

Americans built an observation post in the top of this tree.

On the night of March 9 Japanese crawled up the steep cliff, captured the tree and by dawn had dug in. They "tunneled like moles," said Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of the 37th Division. "It's funny,"—but the general didn't mean humorous—"our boys have been trying for 17 days to recapture that tree."

Several Americans were killed and others wounded in futile attempts to take it. It is only 20 yards from American lines.

Tree Finally Fell

"They tried everything," General Hodge continued. "Flame throwers had no effect. They tried mortars and bazookas. They finally sprayed the tree with gasoline and fired it. Japanese ammunition at the tree base exploded, but the Nips still were there.

"Then gasoline burned the inside of the tree and it fell.

"Actually the charred half shell of the tree trunk still stuck up 30 feet, affording a protective screen for enemy riflemen and machine gunners. The Japanese once had four machine guns there, but at least three were knocked out.

"One Nip remained," the general added. "He had a rifle. This morning a flame thrower got him. This afternoon we're blowing it up with bangalore torpedoes to make sure the Japs don't come back."

Lieut. Col. Dexter Lowery, of Tallahassee, Fla., took charge of one effort to seize the tree. He ordered bazookas fired at it, but the tarket was hard to hit. This morning he led a flame-throwing assault on the stubborn objective—which included the tunnels dug near the Japanese.

Flanking Movement Tried

Colonel Lowery's front line extends to within 20 yards of the tunnel mouth at the tree base. A week ago two platoons led by Lieut. Benton Hammond, of Meadville, Pa., and Second Lieutenant Richard L. Roy, of Mount Lake Park, Md., attempted a flanking movement. They surprised and killed 22 Japanese in pillboxes built into the cliff. The Americans had to withdraw, however, before reaching the tunnels. That try cost three lives and one wounded. A later similar move also failed.

Hill 260 is several hundred yards ahead of the United States defense perimeter on Bougainville. It is reached by a narrow, winding trail which in some places goes almost straight up the hillside. It is an important outpost guarding the Torokina defense perimeter.

Jap Advantage

If the Japanese had it they could set up guns to shell our front lines.

But the story of the tree is unfinished. Every Japanese in the tunnels beneath it had been killed or driven out, but some probably slipped back during the night.

No one knows how many lives that tree cost the Japanese. Through binoculars seven bodies are visible near it. Undoubtedly it is one of the war's highest priced small objectives.

5,000 Shells Foil Jap Attack

Hill 129, Bougainville, Solomon Islands, March 25 (Delayed) (AP)—Five thousand rounds of shells, fired into a rectangular Japanese area 2,000 by 2,800 yards, broke up an enemy attack aimed at this American command-post hill today.

Apparently another suicide attack was in the making.

Destroyers Fired Rounds

The attack appeared to be in strength, but it never got well started.

For two periods of 24 minutes each the defenders of this part of the Empress Augusta Bay perimeter fired 115 tons of shells into the area. Dive bombers and torpedo planes dropped ten tons of bombs and destroyers added hundreds of rounds of five-inchers to help break up the imminent attack, which followed within 24 hours an abortive penetration of the defense perimeter.

300 Japs Killed

Hill 129, guarding the important Piva airstrip, was virtually surrounded in yesterday's attack before the Americans broke it up. Three hundred Japanese were killed. In 17 days the Americans have thrown back four thrusts in this area.

Fifty more Japanese were killed today by mop-up squads. Lieut.-Col. Preston J. Hundley, of Aurora, Ill., said 348 Japanese bodies were buried in the last two da-

JAPS FAKE SURRENDER, KILL THREE AMERICANS

HILL 260 BOUGAINVILLE, Solomon Islands, March 26—(Delayed)—(AP) A story of Japanese faking surrender and then killing an American captain, sergeant and private with machine gun and mortar fire was told today by Second Lt. Richard L. Roy, 32, Mountain Lake Park, Md.

"We talked with the Japs for ten minutes," Roy said. "The captain asked them to throw up their hands and surrender. He and I were standing in the open on the cliff-side below their pillbox.

"Finally I motioned for them to come out. A Jap motioned for us to come in. Suddenly all the Japs dropped down in the pillbox and opened fire."

The captain, a staff sergeant and a private were killed. Roy said his platoon killed at least 22 Japanese in the ensuing action.

Nurses Reach Solomons

Tulagi, Solomon Islands, March 28 (AP)—White women have come back to the Solomons.

This word spread up and down the jungled islands with the news that 127 American navy nurses had arrived. For some of the fighting men here they were the first white women seen in 15 months or more. Since the British evacuated theirs in January, 1942, the only white women to visit were three USO entertainers. They stayed a week.

The GIs courteously took the arrivals in hand, taking them for boat and jeep rides to the island's points of interest. The nurses weren't long in tidying up five barracks and adding other feminine touches.

Marine Taunts Leave Him Coconutty

Solomon Islands, March 28 (AP)—Nature has an anti-personnel bomb that can drive you nuts in these islands—the coconut.

Falling from a 50-foot tree, as they often do in rain or wind, coconuts land with the impact of a well-hit golf ball. But surprisingly few American fighting men are hit by them.

Private Eugene K. Lampkin, an MP from Cincinnati, is an exasperated exception. He was directing military traffic on Bougainville. "Why don't you join a good outfit?" asked a passing truckload of marines.

Just as this retort landed, so did three coconuts, he reported, one hitting him smack on the head.

PONAPE RAIDERS DOWN 13 ZEROS

U. S. Fighters Over Base Twice With Bombers.

Pearl Harbor, March 28 (A. P.).—American fighter planes downed thirteen Jap Zeros in their first announced participation in the mounting aerial offensive against the enemy's Ponape Island base in the eastern Carolines.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz in two press releases yesterday told of the raids Saturday and Sunday, when Corsair fighters of the Fourth Marine Aircraft Wing accompanied Seventh Army Air Force Mitchell medium bombers.

As well as being the first announcement that fighters had helped attack the base 440 miles east of Truk, it also was the first mention of enemy interception. In the Saturday attack the Corsair pilots downed four out of fifteen Zeros and probably got one more. No United States planes were lost.

Corsairs Go Back Again.

Returning Sunday with the Mitchells, the Corsairs knocked down nine of another group of fifteen Zeros and three more probably were destroyed. Admiral Nimitz made no mention of American losses.

Ujelang Atoll, 125 miles south of Eniwetok, was hit Saturday by the same raiders that attacked Ponape. Coronado search planes of Fleet Airwing 2 visited the vicinity of Ujelang Sunday and strafed a small enemy vessel, then passed south to bomb Kusaie Island and Pingelap Atoll in the eastern Carolines. It was the eleventh raid so far this month on Kusaie and the third on Pingelap.

Jap-held atolls in the Marshalls were raided both days.

ARMY GIVES MEDALS TO SLAIN MEN'S KIN

Families of Japanese-Americans Honored in Honolulu

HONOLULU, March 28 (AP)—The United States Army has given Purple Heart medals to the Japanese-American families of fifty-eight soldiers who died in action in Italy—because, the Colonel said to each of his little audience, "Your boy was an American.

"Your soldier did not die grabbing lands and loot and vassals for the Reich or for the greater east Asia co-prosperity sphere. Your boy was an American, and he fought and died as lots of good Americans have always done when the cause of freedom is threatened."

The colonel and the sergeant made the speech—Col. Kendall J. Fielder, representing the commanding general of the Central Pacific, Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr., and Sgt. Howard K. Hiroki of Honolulu because he spoke Japanese, more familiar than English to some of the audience.

The recipients of the medals sat in the front rows during the speeches, then stood facing the audience to receive the medals. Gravely Colonel Fielder grasped each by the hand and gave each a medal.

A young widow, Mrs. Edith Y. Wasada, who seemed no older than a schoolgirl, made a quiet little speech of response. She said that all the relatives of the lost soldiers, despite their sorrow, were "happy to know that * * * they have helped to prove Americanism is not and never was a matter of race."

Captures 4 Jap Tires, Gets 'A' Card And Rolls

Wahiawa, Oahu, T. H., March 28 (AP)—An army major brought back four nearly new Japanese tires as souvenirs of the American invasion of the Marshall Islands—and they fit his car.

"Can I put them on and get an 'A' card?" he asked Ration Board Secretary William B. Rutherford, explaining he hadn't applied for a gasoline card previously because his tires were so bad.

"Why not, why [illegible]t?" replied Rutherford, fixing [illegible]he coupons.

Argentine Government Issues New Press Laws

Buenos Aires, March 28 (AP)—The Argentine Government issued a decree today regulating wages and working conditions on newspapers, and annulled a previous decree, never enforced, to impose severe restrictions on the press.

The decree, signed by President Edelmiro J. Farrell and the Cabinet, establishes distinct classes of journalists in a guild form, and fixes minimum wages beginning at 170 pesos ($42.50) a month for apprentices on second-class papers to 2,500 pesos ($625) monthly for editors of first-class newspapers.

It also decrees a 36-hour week, a minimum of ten days paid vacation, 30 to 60 day severance pay, and five per cent. raises every three years.

Farrell said the regulations were drawn up after conferences of newspapermen and proprietors.

Hull Protests News Leaks, Denies Seeking Censorship

WASHINGTON, March 28 — (AP) The State department disclosed today that it had protested to Britain against four news leaks in London, but reiterated its denial that it sought to have the British impose political censorship.

At the same time it appeared that the British similarly had complained to the United States about "premature" disclosures on important inter-governmental news. The State department said it was customary to register protests on either side whenever the other let important news leak prematurely out in violation of British-American secrecy agreements.

Dewey Charges Suppression

Today's disclosures stemmed from a recent charge by Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York that the State department had requested British censors to suppress political news sent to American newspapers by American correspondents abroad. Secretary of State Hull yesterday replied that Gov. Dewey was 100 per cent wrong.

Today, at Secretary Hull's press conference, Bertram D. Hulen, New York Times reporter called attention to a dispatch from London to his paper. This dispatch said Secretary Hull's denial yesterday raised the question of what he meant by political, adding that if the word was used synonymously for "diplomatic" the record "is not so clear."

"There have been repeated instances," the dispatch said, of objections from Washington to stories by American correspondents for American newspapers about diplomatic developments which had been passed in regular routine through British censorship."

Asked for comment on this, Secretary Hull stood by his denial of any desire for political censorship. There was no comment immediately from Gov. Dewey, but his secretary, Paul E. Lockwood, said in New York:

"It looks like the truth is coming out."

Subsequently, the State department issued a statement in which Secretary Hull said that the question of complaints about news leaks was entirely separate from the question of censorship.

"Any claim that the State department has requested the British censors to suppress political news is therefore entirely wrong," Secretary Hull said.

The four instances on which were registered with the British on the ground that the disclosures were premature follow:

1. October, 1943, disclosure in the British press of the impending arrival of Secretary Hull and his party in Moscow for the meeting of foreign ministers.

2. Also in October, disclosure from London of Premier Badoglio's declaration of war on Germany. Simultaneous government announcements had been agreed on for London, Moscow and Washington.

3. Also in October, disclosure of the signing of the third lend-lease protocol or agreement between the United States and Russia, and also the similar arrangement between Britain and Russia.

4. The Reuters (British News agency) story from Lisbon concerning the meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Cairo late last year.

OWI NEWS PROBE SIDETRACKED BY RULES COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP) The House Rules committee apparently sidetracked today a Republican effort to establish a bipartisan committee for scrutiny of news releases issued by the Office of War Information and other government agencies.

Committee sources indicated the proposal, by Representative Brown (R-Ohio), was headed for a pigeonhole, after OWI Director Elmer Davis emphatically denied that OWI maintains "Communists and fellow travelers" on its payrolls, or that OWI indulges in partisan political activity.

Questions Davis

Representative Halleck (R-Ind), Rules committee member and chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign committee, questioned Mr. Davis on the point whether information disseminated to service men and women on the soldier vote fight was "calculated to convince the soldiers that Congress didn't want them to vote." Mr. Davis said he did not believe that was the case, and offered to open OWI files to the committee.

Mr. Davis also informed the committee why George W. Healy, Jr., had been appointed assistant director of OWI to succeed Palmer Hoyt, Portland, Ore., newspaperman who left at the end of 1943 after six months with the agency to resume his job as publisher of the Portland Oregonian.

Mr. Davis said Mr. Hoyt, a Republican, had recommended Mr. Healy, a southern Democrat and vice president of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, after consultation with other top newspaper executives of the country.

Mr. Davis said he gave the committee this explanation to answer a statement by Representative Brown several weeks ago that Republican Hoyt had been succeeded by Democrat Healy in this election year.

Mr. Davis further declared that Mr. Hoyt had agreed to work with OWI for six months and at the end of that time left, much to the regret of Mr. Davis.

As to Mr. Brown's resolution, Mr.

Davis expressed concern that such a committee of inquiry "would keep us too busy for us to do any work. We would be on the hill all spring testifying."

BRITISH POLICY ON JEWS ASSAILED

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP) Senator Johnson (D.-Colo.) today termed the British White Paper limiting Jewish immigration into Palestine after Friday, March 31, "an ally of Hitler in his diabolical conspiracy for the extermination of the Jewish people of Europe."

He told the Senate the conclusion is "inescapable" that this has been the "effect" of the White Paper policy under which only a certain quota of Jewish refugees have been permitted to enter Palestine for the past five years.

Senator Johnson spoke after Senator Clark (D.-Mo.) declared that unless the United States intervenes "one of the most brutal policies in the history of civilization will go into effect in Palestine."

"Next Saturday will become one of the black days of the history of England," Senator Johnson asserted, unless the British government "rescinds its iniquitous White Paper."

Resolutions were introduced in both House and Senate several weeks ago, seeking to have Congress go on record as calling for free Jewish migration to the Palestine area and establishment of a Jewish commonwealth there, but the committees to which they were referred at both ends of the Capitol laid them aside on the basis of requests from the War department that action be deferred at this time for military reasons.

After next Saturday a total of not more than 23,000 additional Jews will be permitted to go to Palestine, this total including those who have been unable to get there previously because of transportation difficulties.

British Invitation Read To a Silent Senate

Washington, March 28 (A. P.).—The Senate heard in silence today the reading of an invitation to send a delegation of Senate and House members to visit London as guests of the British Parliament.

Congress Appoints Committee To Study Post-war Military Needs

MAR 29 1944

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP) A committee of 23 members of Congress was established with a $25,000 fund today to study the post-war military needs of the United States, now bristling with the greatest arsenal in history.

As the House adopted the plan, Representative Fish (R-NY) called for peacetime maintenance of the greatest navy and airforce in the world as a club over incipient aggressors.

He recommended that the committee look into the advisability of merging all the armed forces into one comprehensive department of national defense.

Mr. Fish spoke in behalf of the resolution introduced by Representative Wadsworth (R-NY). The group is to consist of seven members each from the Military and Naval Affairs committees and nine from the House at large with Representative Woodrum (D-Va) as chairman.

In the discussion preceding the unanimous voice vote for the study group, Chairman Sabath (D-Ill) of the Rules committee urged that it study disposal of surpluses.

"I'm not satisfied with the way surplus property is being disposed of," he cautioned. "The government is losing millions by reckless disposition of surplus property no longer needed by the War and Navy departments."

Mr. Fish digressed to the subject of the Atlantic Charter when Representative Mundt (R-SD) urged passage of his plan for a committee to study peace terms. The New Yorker said it wasn't feasible to take up what was the function of the executive department, then declared that it wouldn't do any good until "we find out Russia's and Great Britain's war and peace aims."

NAVY IS GIVEN FUNDS FOR BASES IN PACIFIC

MAR 29 1944

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP) Authority for the Navy to spend more than a billion dollars in developing "advance bases" in the Pacific was voted by the House today.

Without dissent, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill empowering the Navy to proceed with $1,644,473,020 in public works which includes $1,019,000,000 for the Pacific bases.

COAST GUARD AWARD

Washington, March 28.—The Coast Guard Shield of Honor was presented to the National Board of Fire Underwriters yesterday in recognition of its contribution to the task of protecting America's seaport and water front facilities.

The award was presented by Vice-Admiral Russell R. Waesche, commander of the Coast Guard, at the opening session of a three-day conference of Coast Guard Port Security Officers. W. E. Mallalieu, general manager, received the shield on behalf of the board.

In making the award, Admiral Waesche pointed out that the board's insurance inspection personnel and bureaus were placed at the disposal of the Coast Guard more than two years ago to assist in guarding ports, harbors, vessels and other water front facilities from fire and fire hazards.

Mrs. Roosevelt Returns

Visited U. S. Troops in Caribbean at President's Suggestion

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP).—President Roosevelt announced today that Mrs. Roosevelt had just returned from an extensive tour of South America, Central America and the Caribbean area.

He said she had had a very good trip and had visited a great many places where American troops were stationed, and apparently did a lot of good. The Chief Executive said Mrs. Roosevelt made the trip at his suggestion.

Glamour of U.S. Women Defended by Clare Luce

Replies to British M. P. Who Criticized Desire for Beauty

WASHINGTON, March 28 (UP).—Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, Congresswoman from Connecticut, paused today in the middle of a study of the man-power muddle to put in a good word for glamour and to answer a British Member of Parliament who complained that American women have too much sex appeal for the good of the war effort.

"The 17,000,000 American women in war industry is a good answer to charges that we pay more attention to glamour than to the war," Mrs. Luce said.

Dr. Edith Summerskill, Member of Parliament, wife, mother and practicing physician, recently flayed her American cousins for being too attractive.

"The English beauty has been a standard for ages," Mrs. Luce asserted. "The only reason she isn't paying attention to glamour right now is because she hasn't got the makings of it. The lipstick and silk stocking shortage would cramp any woman's glamour.

"American women can go right ahead with the war effort and glamour too. They have glamour, and what makes it, to spare."

A 'Memory Monday' Each Month Planned

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP).—The Senate passed today and sent to the House a bill setting aside the first Monday in each month as "Memory Monday" in commemoration of men and women who give their lives in the service of the nation in war. The legislation would call for displaying the flag at half-staff on all public buildings and military installations. Secretary of the Navy Knox, indorsing the proposal, expressed belief the observance of the day would bring home to the people the realities of the war."

WMC Leader Opposes National Service Law

MAR 29 1944

McNutt Sees No Need for Proposal But Roosevelt Differs.

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP) President Roosevelt indicated today that he still favors enactment of national service legislation although Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt told Congress there is no present need for it.

The Chief Executive declined direct comment at his press-radio conference on Mr. McNutt's statement but on the question of how best to use manpower, he declared there are a lot of people who are not aiding in the war, that it is a matter for soul searching and that if people won't search their own souls someone should do it for them.

Other Groups Left Out

Asked about a suggestion from Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey that 4-F's be drafted for work battalions, particularly for harvesting, Mr. Roosevelt said that left out a lot of other groups.

Help with harvests is needed, he added, from many others — high school boys and girls and even newspapermen. Everyone who possibly can should be helping to win the war, he said.

Asked directly how his views on national service jibed with Mr. McNutt's statement, the President said he would first have to read what the manpower chairman said because there might be some other sentences in it.

Opposing a national service law now, Mr. McNutt expressed the opinion there might be "real merit" in the idea of job controls over 4-F's.

Deferment to Be Curbed

In testimony before a House Military sub-committee, the chairman of the Manpower commission also said there was "every possibility," as a result of the Army's demand for younger men, that occupational deferments will be denied or seriously restricted later for "all men under 28 or even 30."

Mr. McNutt's emphasis on greater use of 4-F's—men deferred as unfit—and on the Army's demand that inductees be young was repeated in an address during the day by Gen. Hershey.

Gen. Hershey told a Providence, R. I., Rotary club meeting that he was ready to ask the armed services to induct into work battalions any 4-F registrants who are able to work but are not contributing "materially and substantially" to the war effort.

"The time has passed when any citizen of the United States can sit by and not give his full effort to winning this war," he said. Gen. Hershey said more than 3,500,000 men have been deferred as unfit for military service and declared there was "far too much evidence" that once the possibility of induction disappeared such registrants tended to stop working or to engage in activities of "little or no significance in the winning of the war."

PREDICTIONS ON PEACE IRRITATE WMC CHIEF

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP) Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt wishes American military leaders would stop predicting the war will be over soon.

He told the House Military committee today that every such prediction moves "many war workers to leave war jobs and seek a place in civilian production, and makes more difficult the task of recruiting workers from non-essential to essential activities."

Hershey Gives Views.

Providence, R. I., March 28 (A. P.).—Major-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, National Director of Selective Service, said here today that he believed the nation would have to dip into young men now classified as 4-F to meet the needs of the armed forces.

"There is where we will have to do a little mining," he said. "There are men in that classification, young men, who maybe can't fight, but they can do something else—they just must."

Gen. Hershey spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Rotarians.

He said that there were in the nation about a million and a half men under 26 classified in 4-F and deferred for physical, mental or moral reasons.

"I am going to insist that some of them be taken for service," he said, "and keep on insisting."

"We have seen something happen in the last four or five weeks that has never happened before. The Army has particularized—it wants young men.

"I don't know exactly why the Army is now demanding young men, but I believe it is because they want infantry replacements who are young."

The armed forces "have come to the conclusion they want men under 26," he said, and are willing to see a lessening in production in order to get them. Only in exceptional cases, Gen. Hershey said, will a man under 26 be deferred for occupational reasons, "and the country doesn't know yet what is meant by exceptional."

PRICE CONTROLS IN POSTWAR ERA HELD NECESSARY

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP) Price controls are necessary now to save the government as well as the people from spiraling prices and will be needed for some time after the war to facilitate reconversion and protect returning servicemen, Secretary of War Stimson said today.

Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) told him extension of the controls is "a matter of course" and the only changes in contemplation are such as may be needed to eliminate possible injustices."

"Having chosen greater emphasis on regulatory governmental control without substantially heavier taxes," Stimson told the Senate Banking committee, "I suggest that it would be highly unwise at this stage, at least, to remove or materially modify those controls and thus to run the risk of a price rise that might well be the beginning of the dread spiral of inflation."

The secretary testified in support of legislation to continue stabilization controls for a year beyond June 30.

Fears Spending Spree

He said removal of controls now might be interpreted by many people as a deliberate "invitation to start a spending spree" and all the gains from two war years of relatively stable prices might be swept away in "a price rise which will cause distress and consternation to all of our people, especially to those who are obliged to live on fixed incomes."

The government itself has benefited from controlled prices to such an extent, Stimson said, that its money is "actually purchasing more airplanes, tanks, guns and ammunition than were originally anticipated."

James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers Union, asked not only for extension of the stabilization and price control acts, but for a mandate to the Office of Price Administration to be "tough" in enforcement and for restoration of OPA power to order grade labeling and standards "as a protection against the hidden inflation of quality deterioration."

Patton, whose organization claims a membership of 350,000 small farmers, urged also that there be no "emasculating amendments" and specifically opposed any ban on food price subsidies.

WARREN PROPOSES POWER OF REVIEW

MAR 29 1944

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP) Chairman Vinson (D.-Ga.) indicated tonight the House Naval committee may broaden its war contract termination bill to provide for some review by the comptroller general when a final settlement is reached.

Vinson previously had taken the position that the general accounting office of the government should have only the duty of detecting fraud—and has contended that contract termination is a job for engineers and appraisers, not accountants.

Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren told the committee today, however, that "many millions of dollars" may be paid out by government agencies without a backstop by his office. Under existing law, checking by his office is "wholly insufficient to prevent or recover any erroneous or improper payments to contractors," he said.

As it stands now, Warren said he is "convinced" that the contracting agencies "will allow improper payments which may total many millions of dollars."

The House Military committee has reported a bill giving the comptroller general review authority but the group is widely split on the proposal.

Vinson said the Navy committee would work on Warren's suggestion and would complete its measure tomorrow.

ACTIVE OCD URGED UNTIL END OF WAR

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP) State and local defense council representatives from 12 Eastern seaboard states and the District of Columbia declared in a resolution today that activities of the Office of Civilian Defense should be continued for the duration.

The resolution was passed in reply to a suggestion by Mrs. George A. Wyeth of the New Hampshire State Council of Defense that OCD activities be curtailed or ended because, she said, state councils are able to work with federal agencies without the assistance of the OCD.

The conference, including representatives of defense councils from New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, was called for a discussion of activities concerned with salvage, bond selling, child care, housing and similar programs which have become dominant in the OCD setup since removal of emphasis on air defense.

ROOSEVELT GOES TO NAVY HOSPITAL

Has X-Rays Taken as Treatment Fails to Cure Bronchitis.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP) President Roosevelt went to the Naval hospital today for X-rays because of the persistence of a case of bronchitis which he has had now for three weeks.

Telling his press-radio conference about it, Mr. Roosevelt said he felt fine aside from the ailment which kept him coughing and wheezing even as he talked with the reporters.

MAR 29 1944

"You don't view yourself with alarm?" a reporter asked.

Laughing, the President said not at all. About one case of bronchitis out of 48,500 develops into pneumonia, he remarked, but he would not put that into the headlines.

Mr. Roosevelt kept to his living quarters in the White House most of last week because of a cold and the bronchial trouble. His secretariat reported that he ran no fever, however, and he held his regular Friday conferences with the cabinet and the press.

REPUBLICAN ASKS IF FDR WILL RUN

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP) Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan, who recently demanded that the Republicans reveal their presidential candidates, was called on today to disclose President Roosevelt's political plans.

Rep. Keefe (R.-Wis.) told the House that "those who worship at the shrine of Mr. Roosevelt have long ago proclaimed their support of his candidacy for a fourth term."

However, Keefe declared, "no word has come from the White House either that the President is or is not a candidate. I would like to ask Mr. Hannegan, who pretends to speak for the Democratic party, who his candidates for the presidency are."

Keefe said Hannegan was "taking up the cudgels" against Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York because he is "afraid that the people of America will demand" his nomination by the Republicans. If nominated, Keefe said, Dewey will accept and make a vigorous campaign.

Keefe charged that the "New Dealers" are opposing Dewey in favor of Wendell Willkie and he urged that they stay in their "own party and tell the people of America who the Democratic candidate is going to be."

"I have no criticism of the right of any man to seek the Republican nomination for the presidency," Keefe said.

"I do object, however, to New Dealers attempting to dictate who the Republican candidate for the presidency will be."

TACKS SPRINKLED ON BURMA ROAD

MIAMI, Fla., March 28.—(AP) Old 59, a B-25 Mitchell medium bomber, displayed her many flak wounds at the Army's 36th street air base today as she and her crew rested from 121 combat missions flown against the Japanese, one of them a tack attack against the Burma road.

Seven men and Salami, their flying Dachshund mascot, tumbled from the plane when it flew in from the sea yesterday and Capt. Robert R. Ebey, 22, of Stillwater, Okla., proudly told of old 59's history.

"She has never failed us or others who flew her," he said. "She never turned back because of mechanical trouble. She brought a dead co-pilot back once, but first she bombed the Japanese.

"The tacks we strewed along the Burma road were three-pronged affairs, big enough to puncture tires of military vehicles. We hit a long, level stretch, and as I held her steady, the rest of the crew poured hundreds of the tacks along the road. There must have been a lot of Jap cussin' in that area for some time."

The bomber was based first in India and later in China.

DEMOCRAT WINS BY 3,700 MARGIN IN OKLAHOMA RACE

Triumphs Over Vigorous Republican Challenge in Special Election.

NEW DEAL MEETS TEST

Roosevelt Administration Upheld in Battle Waged Solely on National Issues.

MAR 29 1944

MUSKOGEE, Okla., March 28—(AP) Democrats reasserted their grip on Oklahoma's traditionally Democratic Second district tonight, winning a special congressional electional election in the face of an aggressive Republican challenge. Both sides had proclaimed the Roosevelt Administration on trial.

The Vote

Unofficial returns from 312 of the district's 331 precincts:

Democrat W. G. Stigler 21,405.
Republican E. O. Clark 17,678.

The precincts still unreported are scattered in less populous areas of the district.

The result gave the party of Roosevelt its third triumph in 11 special congressional elections over the country since 1942, Republicans having won eight including three seats which, like that at issue here, were Democratic.

Mr. Stigler, former department commander of the American Legion, has served two four-year terms in the State Senate. He was president pro tem one term. For the past seven years he has been attorney for the Choctaw Indian nation. He has been a life-long resident of the town named for his family, Oklahoma pioneers.

Lost Also in 1942

Mr. Clark withheld comment as the vote piled steadily against him, saying he would await complete official figures. Mr. Clark, likewise the Republican nominee in 1942, lost by only 385 votes that year and unsuccessfully contested the outcome.

Senator Ed H. Moore (R-Okla), former Democrat elected in 1942 on an anti-New Deal platform, who led the campaign for Mr. Clark, declared late tonight:

"I wouldn't want to intepret the result. We were decisively beaten. The majority has spoken and we bow to that. That's all I can say about it.

"Both the Federal and State New Deal machines were in the district plugging every minute. The organization got the job done."

Republican leaders had said privately that they were not counting too heavily on winning this year, however, because they regarded Mr. Clark's successful 1942 opponent as less able than Mr. Stigler as a vote-getter. Their generally-expressed hope was that their party would continue to show the recent years in the district which has gone Republican only once, in 1920.

Despite the widespread interest—with national party leaders of both parties having proclaimed the balloting a test of New Deal policies in this normally-Democratic region—the vote was light. Rain kept many away from the polls.

Nearing the final vote tabulations, the indicated total was 40,000 (In 1942, when the Republicans polled their highest percentage margin in recent history, in this district, 49.5, the total was 42,917.

Party Leaders in Campaign

Both candidates had left predictions on the outcome to party leaders who wound up the campaign last night—Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky for the Democrats and Senator Moore for Mr. Clark. Both Senator Barkley and Senator Moore proclaimed as the sole issue the record of the Roosevelt Administration. Local issues, if any, were not even mentioned.

The view of the opposing campaign leaders was shared by politicians throughout the country who awaited the result for possible indication of how the political winds may blow come November.

Normally Democratic District

Although this eight-county eastern Oklahoma district is regularly Democratic, some anti-New Deal elements within the Democratic party were at work. And Republicans, though never victorious here save in 1920, have shown more strength in recent years.

The politicians had a big day conjecturing on the potentialities of the Oklahoma race:

1. Some speculated whether the result might influence President Roosevelt in coming decisions, if taken as a barometer.

2. Republican dopesters wondered if Governor Thomas E. Dewey might watch for any encouragement or otherwise in making up his mind whether to get actively into the campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination.

3. All agreed that the Democrats would attempt to make the most nationally of a victory they could contend was "ratification" of Roosevelt policies—with Republicans just as ready to make the most of a Republican win.

In ten previous special congressional elections over the country since 1942, Republicans had won eight.

South Portland, Maine, March 28 (AP)—Symbol of Belgian determination in that little nation's struggle against aggressor Germany, the S. S. Belgian Tenacity was launched today at the New England Shipbuilding Corporation yard.

The sponsor of the craft was Countess Straten-Ponthoz, wife of Count Robert van der Straten-Ponthoz, Belgian Ambassador to the United States. The ship was built under the United States Maritime Commission auspices for the Belgian Government.

RAYBURN EXPECTS FOURTH TERM BID

MAR 29 1944

LOS ANGELES, March 28—(AP) Speaker Sam Rayburn of the House of Representatives predicted today that President Roosevelt will be renominated by acclamation unless he declares he will not accept a fourth term nomination.

"I do not know of anyone who knows as much as he does about domestic affairs and certainly no one who knows as much about international affairs," he asserted.

When asked in a press conference if he thought the Democrats could win with a new candidate, the speaker replied:

"I think there are a lot of Democrats who know as much about domestic and international affairs as any Republican."

Rayburn, here for two California speeches in which he has said he will stress national unity, disclaimed any vice presidential aspirations, saying he was a candidate for re-election to Congress from the Fourth district of Texas, "which I have represented since 1912," and then added:

"No one ever runs for the vice presidency. It is handed on a golden platter."

FREEPORT FLYER ESCAPED GERMANS

Ellington Field, Tex., March 28.—Studying transition flying here is an Army Air Forces pilot, Lieut. Warren E. Graff of Freeport, L. I., who was shot down over Nazi-occupied territory while on an escort mission and spent almost three months on the continent without being captured.

Lieut. Graff has flown for both the Royal Canadian Air Forces and the American Air Forces in combat over Europe. He joined the Canadian forces in 1941 and served with them until 1942 when he was transferred to the American Army as a member of a fighter squadron flying P-40s and later P-47s.

Since most of the information gained by the officer during his stay in occupied Europe is of a highly confidential nature and of possible value to other flyers who are forced or shot down over Nazi-held countries, Lieut. Graff shies away from specific mention of dates or places. Since he attributes his escape to his ability to speak French, it is presumed that he came down in Belgium or France. After reaching England he was assigned to duties as an intelligence officer and came to the United States late in 1943. After transition training he will take a course in advanced navigation.

He has high praise for the work of the American Red Cross. "Sometimes," he says, "the boys get pretty lonesome in England. They head for some of the Red Cross clubs and find a bit of home, with American girls to talk and dance with."

The Lieutenant is also enthusi-

A U.S. BOMBER BASE IN BRITAIN, MARCH 28--(AP)--MUSTANGS BEARING THE WHITE STARS OF THE UNITED STATES AIR FORCE NOW RAISED THE SPIRITS OF MEN IN A FRENCH CONCENTRATION CAMP TODAY AS THEY ROARED BACK FROM AN ESCORT MISSION TO THE DIJON AIRFIELD SOUTHEAST OF PARIS.

MAR 29 1944

LT. RAYMOND S. MORRIS OF 5233 FIFTH AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA., SAID THE PRISONERS WAVED WILDLY AND APPEARED TO BE CHEERING AS HIS FIGHTER SHOT OVER THE BIG BARBED WIRE ENCLOSURE.

"WE COULD SEE GERMAN GUARDS POSTED AROUND THE AREA TRY TO HIT US WITH RIFLES AND PISTOLS," HE SAID. "THE MEN WERE WAVING AS WE WENT OVER AND MADE NO ATTEMPT TO HIDE.

SOME WERE IN UNDERSHIRTS AND IT DIDN'T EVEN LOOK AS IF ANY WERE IN MILITARY UNIFORMS."

MORRIS SAID THE CAMP WAS SITUATED JUST NORTH OF DIJON IN A WOODED AREA AND APPEARED TO BE SURROUNDED BY A DITCH.

RUSSIAN TROOPS SPREADING OUT BETWEEN THE UPPER DNIESTER AND PRUT RIVERS

NORTHWEST OF CZERNOWITZ WERE REPORTED CLOSE TO THE FORMER CZECHO-SLOVAKIAN FRONTIER, NOW MANNED BY GERMAN AND HUNGARIAN TROOPS, HEADING TOWARD THE 3,900-FOOT TATAR PASS, ANCIENT INVASION ROUTE THROUGH THE CARPATHIAN MOUNTAINS NEAR KOROSMEZO.

MAR 29 1944

ONE GERMAN BROADCAST SAID RUSSIAN INFANTRY UNITS HAD CROSSED THE PRUT IN THAT AREA IN AN ATTEMPT TO REACH KOLOMEA, 43 MILES NORTHWEST OF CZERNOWITZ AND ONLY 32 MILES FROM CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.

THESE SOVIET UNITS WERE "WIPED OUT IMMEDIATELY," SAID BERLIN.

FORTY MILES NORTHEAST OF CZERNOWITZ OTHER SOVIET TROOPS, ON THE VERGE OF CLOSING THE NECK OF A SACK THROWN AROUND LARGE GERMAN GROUPS IN THE AREA NORTH AND EAST OF KAMENETS-PODOLSK, CAPTURED MONDAY, WERE HAMMERING THE GERMANS MERCILESSLY.

IZVESTIA'S FRONT CORRESPONDENT IN THAT AREA JUST ABOVE THE DNIESTER RIVER THUS DESCRIBED ONE TYPICAL ACTION: "RUSSIAN TANKS ROLLED OVER GERMAN TRUCKS, CRUSHED CARTS, HORSES AND TROOPS. A FEW GERMANS MANAGED TO SCATTER INTO THE WOODS.

"IT IS DIFFICULT TO MAKE HEAD OR TAIL OF THE HORRIBLE ACCUMULATION OF TWISTED METAL AND BITS OF WOOD SPLASHED ALL OVER WITH BLOOD. THE GROUND IS LITTERED WITH HUNDREDS OF GERMAN DEAD. IN ONE PLACE I SAW A CASE OF GERMAN IRON CROSS DECORATIONS WHICH NEVER REACHED ITS DESTINATION. THE SKELETONS OF BURNED OUT GERMAN TANKS ARE EVERYWHERE."

PREMIER STALIN ORDERED 20 VOLLEYS FROM 224 OF MOSCOW'S GUNS TO CELEBRATE THE FALL OF NIKOLAEV, WHICH THE GERMANS CAPTURED AUG. 18, 1941. HE TERMED IT A "LARGE REGIONAL AND INDUSTRIAL CENTER, IMPORTANT RAILWAY JUNCTION, ONE OF THE LARGEST PORTS ON THE BLACK SEA AND A POWERFUL STRONGPOINT IN THE GERMAN DEFENSES AT THE MOUTH OF THE BUG."

NIKOLAEV, SITE OF SHIPBUILDING YARDS BEFORE THE WAR, WAS IMPORTANT IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE RUSSIAN NAVY. ARMORED SHIPS AND TORPEDO BOATS HAD BEEN BUILT IN ITS YARDS FOR NEARLY 75 YEARS, AND SOVIET AUTHORITIES HAD SAID IT CONTAINED EUROPE'S LARGEST GRAIN ELEVATOR TO HANDLE THE AGRICULTURAL WEALTH OF THE RICH UKRAINE. IT HAD A 1939 POPULATION OF 150,000.

LONDON, MARCH 28-(AP)-SECRETARY OF STATE CORDELL HULL'S STAND AGAINST THE CENSORSHIP OF POLITICAL NEWS FROM LONDON WAS COMMANDED EDITORIALLY TONIGHT BY THE EVENING NEWS, WHICH SAID IT WOULD BE DISASTROUS TO BUILD SOUNDPROOF WALLS BETWEEN THE ALLIES.

MAR 29 1944

"THE DANGER OF POLITICAL CENSORSHIP IS NOT ALTOGETHER ACADEMIC," THE NEWSPAPER'S EDITORIAL SAID. "THERE ALREADY HAVE BEEN HINTS OF IT IN THIS COUNTRY. MESSAGES TO THE DOMINIONS HAVE BEEN BLUE-PENCILLED ON POLITICAL GROUNDS--AS THOUGH THE PEOPLES OF THE DOMINION WERE SENSITIVE LITTLE CHILDREN.

"NOBODY IN THIS COUNTRY WANTS TO BE OFFENSIVE TO ANY OF OUR FRIENDS IN OTHER LANDS. BUT THAT DOES NOT MEAN WE SHOULD SEAL OUR LIPS OR HAVE THEM SEALED FOR US. IT THERE ARE DIFFERENCES OF OPINION X X X LET OUR VIEWS BE BROUGHT INTO THE CLEAN, HEALTHY DAYLIGHT FOR DISCUSSION BETWEEN EQUALS."

BRITAIN'S RULE IS THAT NEWS TELEGRAPHED ABROAD, IN ADDITION TO MATTERS INVOLVING SECURITY, IS LIABLE TO CENSORSHIP IF, IN THE OPINION OF THE CENSOR IS MAY, BY PREMATORE PUBLICITY, PREJUDICE ANY NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN THE ALLIED GOVERNMENTS OR BETWEEN AN ALLIED GOVERNMENT AND A NEUTRAL.

BRITAIN USES CENSORSHIP IN AN EFFORT TO PLUG LEAKS ON NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN THE ALLIES OR THE ALLIES AND NEUTRALS, IT WAS POINTED OUT.

TWO FOREIGN OFFICE ADVISORS RECENTLY WERE APPOINTED TO ASSIST THE CENSOR AS A RESULT OF A SERIES OF PROTESTS BY AMERICAN CORRESPONDENTS.

istanbul, turkey, march 28-(ap)-bulgaria, using in part forced labor, has made good progress in building a railway through the truma valley from sofia to salonika according to a jewish youth who has just reached turkey after serving for months in one construction gang. the line is expected to be finished in november.

there was no rail line previously over this important route. tremendous construction difficulties were overcomem , particularly over the kresna defile and rupel pass. in one stretch of the rocky kresna defile it was necessary to dig 12 tunnels in approximately that number of miles. most of the work was done by hand.

on the job, which is under control of the bulgarian state railways, at present are working 6,000 jews and 20,000 paid day laborers. many of the paid workers are turks of bulgarian citizenship.

the jews, mostly drawn from city occupations, are not paid, but are given food which consists mostly of bread and beans.

Russians Cross the Prut, Attack Cernauti, Seize Town 30 Miles From Czech Border; U. S. Troops Fight for Tito in Yugoslavia

CZECH PATRIOTS URGED TO REVOLT AGAINST GERMANS

Red Troops Battle Way Into Outskirts of Capital of Bucovina.

SMASH ELITE GUARDS

Germans So Hard Pressed They Fail to Destroy Prut River Bridge.

LONDON, Thursday, Mar. 30.—(AP) Russian troops stormed across the Prut river yesterday at two points—one of them a bridge the Germans neglected to destroy—and fought into the northern and western outskirts of Czernowitz (Cernauti), capital of Bucovina while upstream other units captured Kolomea, Prut river railway town in the Carpathian foothills only 30 miles from Czecho-Slovakia, Moscow announced.

NIGHT

Other Soviet gains were announced in Bessarabia and the southern Ukraine, notably the capture of Balta in the Ukraine north of Odessa and a steady, bloody tightening of the pocket in the Kamenets-Podolsk zone northeast of Czernowitz.

2,000 Dead in Streets

More than 2,000 German dead were counted in the streets of Balta alone, a communique said, and many of several hundred prisoners proved to be Nazi SS Elite Guards. Another 2,000 were declared slain in the area south of Yarmolintsi at the top of the Kamenets-Podolsk pocket.

In the twin drives into Czernowitz, the Russians said they thrust across the bridge at the same time tank and motorized forces farther west were forcing the river. Then both groups burst into the town, which sits on a bluff on the right (south) bank.

No explanation was given why the Germans did not blow up the bridge, but the implication was that they were too hard-pressed to do so.

Ask Czechoslovakia Revolt

Czechoslovak patriots were summoned in a Moscow broadcast to rise against the Germans.

"The Red army stands less than 50 kilometers from the Czechoslovak frontier," the broadcast said. "The Red army calls on you to fight. Form partisan groups. Destroy communications vital to the retreating Germans. Fight for liberty and victory."

The Prut crossing, reported by the Soviet communique, is a significant victory but does not, in the Russian view, place the Red army inside Rumania as yet, since it is in the portion of Bucovina ceded to Russia by the Rumanians in 1940.

Kolomea, 44 miles up the river from Czernowitz and on the left bank, was described by Marshal Stalin, who announced its fall, as "an important strongpoint in the German defenses at the foothills of the Carpathians." It once was Polish territory.

Both at Kolomea and Czernowitz, the Russians cut the Lwow-Bucharest railway. Capture of Kolomea represented an 11-mile gain.

For the third day since reaching Rumania's vulnerable borders, the Red army apparently refrained deliberately from crossing, and instead concentrated much strength on the task of dismantling the big German-held area north of Odessa.

The Russians steadily continued to clear the Germans away from the railway running southwest from Pervomisk to the Rumanian border town of Iasi, evidently seeking to prepare the line for their own use.

Odessa Almost Encircled

The German positions in the great semicircle around Odessa appeared to be collapsing as the Russian regiments rolled down on them from three main directions—from Balti (Baltshi), Balta, and Vozhesensk — in advances that swept through 150 more towns and villages.

Balta, captured today, is 115 miles northwest of Odessa.

Vozhesensk, to the southeast, is above captured Nikolaev, and Balti is far southwest, near the Prut.

In the battle for Czernowitz — 100,000 population—Red Army Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov was fighting to liberate his own constituency, which elected him a deputy to the Supreme Soviet from the Moldavian Soviet Republic in 1940. At that point, although it is on the right bank of the Prut, it is about 20 miles above where the river forms the border between Rumania and the Moldavian Soviet Republic.

The speed of Zhukov's crossing indicated that possibly something other than the mere problem of getting to the other side was holding back Gen. Ivan S. Konev, whose forces reached the river at the Rumanian border three days earlier.

Indications were the Russians might be holding off to give the Rumanians a final chance to invite them in as Allies.

In another striking success which carefully avoided infringement on the territory of Rumania proper the Russians captured Kolomea.

It was toppled "in a bold maneuver by tank formations and infantry" of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's first Ukrainian front, sweeping 11 miles southwestward in one day of battle.

Thirty miles beyond lies the famous Tatar pass into Czechoslovakia, in territory taken over by Hungary.

Madrid dispatches said German civilian refugees and officials were fleeing across the Carpathians into Hungary from Poland and northern Rumania to escape. The Germans were said to have taken over command of the Carpathians in Ruthenia, but the refugees clogging roads and rail lines were reported delaying Nazi military transport.

The Soviet newspaper Izvestia in Moscow urged Rumania, and Bulgaria also, to resist the Germans and join the "democratic countries," or else become battlegrounds.

Presumably a westward assault of the Red army troops across the Prut river into Rumania was being delayed pending Rumania's decision. Moscow mentioned no invasion into that nation, although a Berlin broadcast had mentioned fighting near Jassy on the western side of the Prut.

Develop Odessa Drive

Soviet armies, meanwhile, were rapidly developing the long-range siege of Odessa, and the opportunity to fall upon the Nazis being herded down the steppes toward the port after the fall of Nikolaev, 75 miles to the northeast.

There is no major anchor point on the plain between Nikolaev and Odessa, and the Germans now are in a "box" about 200 miles wide and 150 miles deep with Odessa as the center of the bottom.

Red Army Takes Town 30 Miles From Border—Driving on Odessa in Vast Arc.

DAY

London, March 29 (A. P.).—Moscow announced tonight that the Red Army has crossed the River Prut, the border of Rumania.

This was disclosed in a broadcast Soviet communique saying that the Russians were fighting in the suburbs of Czernovitz (Cernauti), the capital of Bucovina province. The communique also announced the capture of Balta. Marshal Stalin previously had issued an order of the day proclaiming the capture of Kolomea, thirty miles northeast of the Czecho-Slovakian border, in an eleven-mile advance.

Kolomea, in old Poland on the north bank of the Prut River, fell to a column of the First Ukrainian Army stabbing into the Carpathian foothills. The town fell in a bold maneuver by tank formations and infantry, Stalin said, describing it as an important strong point in the German defenses at the foothills of the Carpathians.

Madrid dispatches said German civilian refugees and officials were fleeing across the Carpathians into Hungary from Poland and northern Rumania to escape. The Germans were said to have taken over command of the Carpathians in Ruthenia, but the refugees clogging roads and rail lines were reported delaying Nazi military transport.

Meanwhile, to the southeast, other Red Army forces were driving across the south Russian steppes from fallen Nikolaev in a push upon the great Black Sea port of Odessa.

Vast Drive on Odessa.

The Russians were advancing on Odessa along a curving 175-mile front. Further west in Bessarabia, units of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukrainian Army were within eight miles of the Odessa-Tiraspol-Iasi Railroad—last principal escape artery from the port.

Spearheads of Gen. Malinovsky's forces which captured Nikolaev at the mouth of the Bug already were reported across the Bug estuary, driving along the coastal roads that lead to Odessa, seventy-five miles to the west. Other columns were plunging south from bridgeheads sixty to eighty miles upstream, where, the Russians said, Domanevka and forty other towns and villages fell to Soviet arms. Domanevka is seventy-seven miles north of Odessa.

The Second Ukrainian Army was busy on other sectors of the center however, driving south to take the towns of Tsyra and Koshen, not far from the lateral railway into Rumania. Other units operating to the north, Moscow said, captured Linkovtsy, 15 miles southeast of Kamenets-Podolsk.

Fierce Fight For Nikolaev

Capture of Nikolaev by a combined land and sea operation followed some of the fiercest fighting of the present offensive.

Today the Russians were smashing down through approximately 9,000 square miles of steppe country still held by the Germans in the area above Odessa, but there were few natural barriers to delay them.

The Berlin radio last night indicated that Red army troops had encircled Kovel, 170 miles from Warsaw.

Resistance Demanded

Moscow, March 29 (AP)—With the Red Army poised on the Rumanian border, the Soviet government organ Izvestia today called on Rumania and Bulgaria to join the "democratic countries" of the world and protect their sovereignty or face the alternative of German occupation and having their lands turned into gigantic battlegrounds.

The editorial, citing foreign press reports that Rumania possesses 15 divisions and Bulgaria 20, declared that both nations have forces strong enough to resist the Germans.

DAY

Thus it appeared the Soviet Union was giving Rumania a last chance to turn against the Germans before ordering an advance across the Prut. There still was no indication here that the Russians have launched operations into Rumania.

Jassy Report Unconfirmed

Today's German communique, broadcast from Berlin, gave no support to a Berlin radio announcement last night that Russian troops had sought to storm Jassy below the Prut river border of Rumania. The communique made no mention of actions below the Prut. Frequently Berlin propaganda broadcasts go beyond the high command's communiques, which are more guarded in tone.

PLOESTI PUT IN SIEGE STATE

Nazis Take Over Oil Fields —Reds Exert Pressure.

London, March 29 (A. P.).—The Soviet Tass news agency said last night that a state of seige had been proclaimed in the Ploesti oil fields of Rumania—170 miles from the advancing Red Army—and that the Nazis had ordered the removal of all oil stored in the area.

DAY

Rumanian police were ordered to shoot any person who failed to stop when challenged, Tass said, and the Germans have reinforced their SS (Elite Corps) battalions guarding the fields. Tass added that the Germans had replaced all Rumanian technical personnel with Germans.

Other reports said that the puppet regime in occupied Hungary had dissolved the Social Democratic and Peasant parties.

NAZI CIVILIANS FLEE TO WEST

'Carpetbaggers' From Ukraine And Poland Hamper Army

New York, March 29 (AP)—German troops totaling about two divisions (30,000 men) have been moved secretly into Bulgaria in the last two days "in view of possible internal complications," the Moscow radio said tonight, quoting a report from Istanbul.

Madrid, March 29 (AP)—Tens of thousands of German "carpetbaggers," civilians and officials who went East for easy plunder of occupied territories, are swarming back across the Carpathian Mountains into Hungary to escape the Red army.

Hungarian and Rumanian sources in Madrid told of this exodus today and of the problems it is creating for the German defense of the northeast Balkans.

The German army has taken command of the Carpathians, but German military transport is being delayed on highways and railroads by the panicky flight of Nazis who once reveled in soft Governmental jobs or did a roaringly profitable business as civilians requisitioning the wealth of the Ukraine and Poland.

Chaos Reported In Hungary

In Hungary itself, dissolution of all opposition parties by the new puppet Government gave the Germans in unexpected problem: Where to get the manpower to maintain the Hungarian civil Government.

Five concentration camps established by the Gestapo and operated under the name of the Hungarian police already are filled with some 20,000 Hungarians of almost all parties, reports here said.

Moreover, the police work has only begun, for the chaos in the Hungarian railway system caused by sabotage has showed the Germans they stepped into a wasp's nest of Hungarian national resentment.

Magyars Desert To Slavs

Diplomatic reports reaching Madrid also said desertions from Hungarian southern army garrisons to Tito's Yugoslav Partisan forces were increasing daily.

Notable among deserters from key posts in the army and civil government were said to be thousands of Hungarians who had been hand-picked in advance by the Germans to run the country but who "changed their minds" when the Germans actually took charge.

Those remaining were described as a handful with little or no experience for the big administrative jobs required of them.

Budapest Hotels Seized

The German military was said to have requisitioned all the big hotels in Budapest and to have closed the capital's eight big night clubs, including the famous and luxurious "Arizona." It seems that many German officers and officials used the occupation as an excuse for night-long sprees from which many failed to return.

In northern Hungary, the German army was busily fortifying the castles and hunting lodges of wealthy Hungarians, requisitioning peasants to speed the work.

Nazis Say Stalin Is Ill

Report Red Army Is Speeding Drive So Premier Can Relax

LISBON, March 29 (AP).—A Berlin dispatch by the German news agency D. N. B. said today that Premier Stalin is ill and "doctors fear he may have another collapse soon."

"Stalin apparently had a collapse and fainted while working late hours one night in February," the report said. "Doctors prescribed a long rest, so Stalin conferred with (Marshal Klementi) Voroshilov, telling him that he would appreciate the Russian Army's intensifying its advance because he would not consider a rest before the worst of his task is over."

Hungarian Newspapers Banned By The Nazis

Stockholm, Thursday, March 30 (AP) — Several Hungarian daily newspapers, including three of Budapest's largest—Pesti Hirlap, Nepszava and Magyar Nemzet—have been banned since the German occupation of Hungary, the Axis-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau reported today from Berlin.

The Nazi press had dcleared the Budapest papers spread defeatism and contained too many Jews on their staffs.

Bern, Switzerland, March 29 (AP)—The Swiss Parliament concluded today that diplomatic recognition of Soviet Russia was desirable but not practicable before the end of the war. The decision followed debate on a Socialist member's motion asking reestablishment of relations "at any price" before an armistice.

New Finn-Soviet Armistice Moves Reported Imminent

Stockholm, March 29 (AP)—A dramatic new turn in the Finnish-Russian armistice negotiations appeared imminent tonight. Reliable quarters said Juho K. Paasikivi, Finnish diplomat, was making a new contact with Soviet officials, perhaps in Moscow.

Despite an almost airtight censorship, the Associated Press received advices that Paasikivi, who made the first contact with the Russians February 16 in Stockholm, again had been enlisted as a peace emissary. A reliable report to Stockholm said Paasikivi might be in Moscow, where he was a former Minister to the U. S. S. R. from Finland.

Suggests Modified Terms

[A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said it was strongly rumored that the armistice contact had been resumed "with hope of modified interpretation of the Soviet terms." The British news agency said the modifications proposed included replacement of the word "internment" by the word "isolation" in reference to the German troops which Russia wishes eliminated from action on Finnish soil. Barter of Hangoe for Petsamo also was reported considered.]

According to reliable reports the Russians in addition to Paasikivi would like to see Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustav Mannerheim, the Finnish commander, and Reinhold Svento, ardent Socialist advocate of peace and a parliamentarian, in any Finnish delegation to Moscow.

Believed Holding In Reserve

In Finnish quarters acquainted with Mannerheim's views it is believed he is temporarily holding himself in reserve for the moment when all his authority may be required to call the Finnish army back from Karelia.

Although Premier Edwin Linkomies' Government informed Moscow two weeks ago that it could not accept the proposed six-point armistice terms, peace advocates in Finland remain active, and there have been more behind-the-scenes moves in Stockholm.

A Finnish Foreign Office spokesman said in Helsinki that he knew of no new peace development. It was noted, however, that the Moscow radio had ceased threats against the Finns, and Helsinki observers said that broadcasts from Britain and the United States still dealt with "positive comments" on the Finnish-Russian negotiations.

U. S. OUTFITS AID PARTISANS

Specially Trained Units With Tito's Forces In Dalmatia

London, March 29 (AP)— Crediting Moscow messages received in Ankara, the Ankara radio said today that Bulgaria has accepted closer collaboration with Germany. The radio added:

"This, if true, would mean a Bulgarian declaration of war on the Soviet Union."

It said all Rumanian newspapers today stressed the gravity of the war situation and appealed to the people for unity.

Bari, Italy, March 3 (AP—Delayed)—American combat troops specially trained for guerrilla warfare are operating with Yugoslav Partisans and British forces in the Dalmatian coastal zone, it can now be revealed.

Special American raider groups were first sent across the Adriatic several months ago.

Take Nazi Prisoners

In frequent brushes with German patrols, mixed British-American and Partisan detachments have taken scores of prisoners and inflicted considerable casualties. Their own losses are authoritatively described as extremely light.

A veteran of the first World War heads an American outfit whose Dalmatian operations are coordinated under a senior British officer in the field.

Important Commando-type missions have been completed successfully by the troops.

Admire Tito's Fatriots

The commander said:

"Having seen for ourselves, we have the highest admiration for the accomplishments of Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Patriots. They have helped us in every way possible. Our American soldiers have been under fire with both Yugoslavs and British troops, and there is complete understanding and confidence among the fighting men of all three nationalities. The mixed Allied forces along the Yugoslav coast are a very happy family.

"Close coordination between British and American operations in Yugoslavia follows the same principles already practiced in the Allied Mediterranean theater of war. Like the Anzio beachhead, where Yanks and Tommies fought shoulder to shoulder against encircling Germans, the Dalmatian coast is the scene of another Allied struggle in which it's a case of all for one and one for all.

Learn Each Other's Language

"The Americans are picking up the Slavic language rapidly and the Yugoslavs amaze us how quickly they learn to speak English. We hope to do quite a lot of damage to the common enemy in the future."

When the American combat contingent first set foot on Yugoslav soil the Patriots greeted them at a little port with a band and two hours of song and music.

The villagers temporarily ignored the blackout restrictions and virtually every house was lighted up in honor of the occasion. The American newcomers expressed surprise that virtually all the population carried arms, even the girls wearing grenades attached to their wide leather belts.

The Yugoslavs thanked them for American-packed food and other items which were among the Allied lines were reported delaying Nazi military transport.

The Soviet newspaper Izvestia in Moscow urged Rumania, and Bulgaria also, to resist the Germans and join the "democratic countries," or else become battlegrounds.

Presumably a westward assault of the Red army troops across the Prut river into Rumania was being delayed pending Rumania's decision. Moscow mentioned no invasion into that nation, although a Berlin broadcast had mentioned fighting near Jassy on the western side of the Prut.

COMMANDOS HELP PARTISAN FORCES

LONDON, March 29.—(AP) New Partisan attacks in eastern Bosnia were reported tonight by the free Yugoslav radio, which said that the attempt of German forces to take the offensive had bogged down after earlier successes.

Violent battles with troops of puppet premier Field Marshal Milan Nedic and the Chetniks of Gen. Draja Mihailovic in southern Serbia also were announced in the broadcast communique of Marshal Tito.

"The enemy lost 120 soldiers and three officers," the bulletin said.

During some phases of this fighting the Chetniks were reported assisted by the Bulgarian air force.

(Specially-trained American combat troops are fighting alongside the Partisans and British units in Dalmatian coastal area of Yugoslavia, carrying out commando-type guerrilla raids, a dispatch from Daniel de Duce, Associated Press correspondent at Bari, Italy, disclosed today.)

Heavy fighting is in progress along the Slovene coast and during one action an entire Italian company of 150 men surrendered to the Partisans, it was stated. The communique also announced the capture of 170 Germans, Poles and Italians in battles on Hvar Island, where 30 enemy soldiers and two officers were killed.

Nazis Retake Slav Island

London, March 29 (AP)—German troops have recaptured the island of Rab, off the Croatian coast, about 30 miles south of Fiume, a communique broadcast from the headquarters of Marshal Tito (Josip Broz) acknowledged last night.

The bulletin gave no details of the fighting for Rab, but declared that the Nazis were marshaling large forces in the vicinity of Jablanica—which is situated directly opposite the island on the Croatian shore—for an offensive against Yugoslav Partisan troops.

Snowstorms have been curtailing fighting in eastern Bosnia, the communique added.

Armored Train Wrecked

Today's bulletin from Tito said the island of Rab was taken "after pitched battles."

Violent fighting is in progress on the Slovene coast, and an entire Italian company of 150 men surrendered to the Partisans, the communique said. In the inland sectors of Slovenia more than 150 Germans were killed, and an armored train was wrecked between Ljubljana and Kocevje with 50 Nazis killed and much ammunition captured, it added.

A train was destroyed in Styria and a column of 40 German trucks also was raided with 40 of the enemy killed, the bulletin said. Elsewhere there was fighting on a smaller scale.

Meet Bombers, Routed by U. S. Planes.

LONDON, March 29—(AP) American Flying Fortresses bombed the Brunswick area of central Germany today, and Nazi fighters for the first time since March 23 rose to give serious battle over that vital aircraft factory area, only to be routed by escorting Eighth Air Forces fighters who shot down 39 of the Nazis.

NIGHT

MAR 30 1944

Simultaneously American Liberators bombed the Pas-de-Calais area of the French coast, meeting opposition only from moderate to heavy anti-aircraft fire. From all operations, nine American bombers and nine fighters failed to return, it was announced tonight.

It was the third consecutive day of American operations aimed primarily at the German air force, and the communique said it was the fifteenth attack on Germany and the 24th on all enemy targets in this record-breaking month of March.

Planes Destroyed on Ground

Besides the German planes shot out of the sky over Brunswick in a short, sharp battle, a number of others were listed as destroyed on the ground. German craft destroyed by bombers have not yet been tabulated.

The Germans always have defended the Brunswick area vigorously against repeated American attacks, one of the most recent Feb. 10, when 84 German fighters and 29 American bombers and eight fighters were lost there.

A D.N.B. night broadcast from Berlin warned Germans that R.A.F. nuisance raiders are over western Germany."

The Paris radio went off the air at 10 p.m.

Brunswick is one of the Reich's most important manufacturing and major communications centers. Located in the city are aircraft components and engine factories. It almost always is well defended by the Nazi air force but nevertheless it has been given a terrific pounding by both the R.A.F. and the R.A.F. and is on the verge of joining the list of Germany's "emasculated" cities.

The spirit shown by the German air force today, together with its success in downing 73 of the great force of more than 1,000 which concentrated on Berlin the night of March 24, proves the Nazi air force still has teeth even though it does not bite very often any more.

Wild Dogfight in Skies

The Nazi fighters planes swarmed up like an angry hive of bees. Single and twin-engined Nazi fighters met the bombers over occupied territory and harassed them to the target area, where a wild dogfight developed with the sky a mass of weaving and twisting planes.

On the way back from Brunswick some of the escort planes swooped below the overcast to shoot up a number of enemy aircraft found on he ground.

Some of the nine bombers reported missing may have been lost from the small force of Liberators which carried out the Pas-deCalais operation.

Indications were that about 250 bombers and slightly more escorting fighters were employed on each mission—a total of more than 1,000 planes.

Clouds Aid Bombers

The German radio located the scene of the attacks on central Germany as the vicinity of Muenster, Osnabrueck and Bielefeld and said swarms of defensive fighters struck the Fortress formations over northern occupied territory and over the Teutoburg forest. The Germans acknowledged that clouds gave the Fortresses cover.

With their gunbarrels still hot, the Americans said they fought bitter engagements with the Nazis over the target area and encountered moderate flak, but that 60-per cent cloud cover over the target required use of the overcast bombing technique.

Not for six days had the Germans made such an attempt to interfere with daylight operations. On March 23 some fighters rose to defend Muenster, Hamm and Brunswick, the escorting American fighters shooting down 20, while 27 American bombers were lost.

Since then the Eighth Air force had conducted four major operations virtually without air opposition and, at the comparatively small total cost of 16 bombers and 19 fighters while destroying 73 German planes, 53 of them on the ground.

The Liberators' attack on the Pas-de-Calais was the 68th pounding of that area in 106 days. Returning crews said extremely bad weather prevented them from observing results.

More than 200 American and German fighters took part in the deadly acrobatics over the Fortress targets in Germany, Mustangs and Thunderbolts, and Messerschmitts and Focke Wulfs twisted and dived at such close range that Fortress gunners refrained from shooting for fear of hitting their own escort.

The sky was filled with the streak of tracer bullets and flames and smoke from planes spinning down in defeat in the battle.

Bomber crewmen said the American fighters appeared outnumbered, but that they did their job—which was to keep the enemy away from the Fortresses.

Forts Shoot Way To Targets

BEALNEAR

London, March 29 (AP)—The German air force came up fighting today for the first time in six days to battle American Flying Fortresses which shot their way through to bomb central Germany while American Liberators pounded the Pas-de-Calais invasion coast area for the 68th time in 106 days.

The Fortresses roared home with guns still warm, and their crews told of bitter engagements over a German target where the flak was moderate and 60 per cent. cloud cover required overcast bombing technique.

Sky Battles Reported

News of hard-fought sky battles over Westphalia was broadcast by the Germans as the American air force pressed the campaign described officially as "aimed primarily against the Luftwaffe on the ground and in the air."

It was this month's 24th great assault by the United States bombers, a new monthly record in the offensive which Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle announced last night had destroyed more than 2,100 German planes in the last eight weeks. This toll was taken by American airmen flying from Britain alone.

Forts Escorted

Fighter escorts accompanied the Fortresses into central Germany.

The double-barreled strike against Germany and France followed a lashing of four airdromes in France yesterday by 250 to 500 American heavy bombers.

The German targets were not identified, but the preliminary announcement from United States headquarters said "today's attacks followed two days of bombings of Luftwaffe airfields in France where the Germans did not put up serious aerial defense." . . .

Berlin asserted that violent air combats were being fought over northwestern Germany by midday.

Ack-Ack Heavy, Nazis Say

"German anti-aircraft defenses from the outset of the intrusion were constantly harassing the enemy," one broadcast declared. "Several enemy aircraft were brought down shortly after the enemy had flown over the Reich frontier. Particularly violent air battles are reported from the region of the Teutoburg forest"—in the same sector of Westphalia as Muenster, Osnabrueck and Bielefeld.

Berlin first reported bombers over central Germany and said they were over northwest Germany on their flight outward.

St. Albans Pilot Flies Fort Home in Pieces

BANKER

MAR 30 1944

United States Bomber Base in Britain, March 29 (A. P.).—Seven airmen rode a Flying Fortress all but cut in half 300 miles back from Rheims, France, yesterday, then parachuted to safety before the bomber crashed with the bodies of the two waist gunners killed by anti-aircraft fire.

A direct hit when the plane named "Who Dat?" was over the target blew off thirty feet of the fuselage behind the radio room. Only four slender struts and the catwalk, two and a half feet wide, held the tail to the front of the ship.

From the ground it must have looked as if the Fort was flying in two pieces.

Took 5,000-foot Dives.

The pilot of the plane, Lieut. Daniel C. Henry of 191-35 116th avenue, St. Albans, L. I., brought the plane out of a 5,000-foot dive although the elevator and rudder control cables were shot away.

"Maybe the Lord was back there steering it," he said.

"Lieut. Henry treated her like a baby to get her back to England," related Technical Sergt. Sebastian Quaresma, 457 West 125th street, New York, top turret gunner.

"I don't know how the tail held on," said Lieut. Rudolph S. Jasiak of Ware, Mass., bombardier. "I thought it woud disappear any minute. And to think they used to call 'Who Dat?' a lemon nobody wanted to fly in."

'World's Luckiest Guy.'

The ball turret gunner, Staff Sergt. Kyle B. Wheatley, Kingsport, Tenn., considered himself the luckiest guy in the world to be alive today as his turret missed being knocked off by a matter of inches. He grabbed the only parachute left just as it was about to fall off the jagged edge of the fuselage.

Sergt. Quaresma spliced the rudder controls together and tried to climb back to the rail to find out what happened to the tail gunner but there wasn't enough of the ship left for him to hold on to.

Crew Bails Out.

Lieut. Henry and the co-pilot, Lieut. Robert W. Chrisler of Roseburg, Ore., and Richmond, Cal., cousin of Fritz Chrisler, Michigan football coach, circled the plane over their base until their five living companions bailed out. Then they headed it into the channel after jumping out at the coast.

"And all this when I'm worrying whether I'm a father or not," said the perspiring co-pilot, "My wife is in a San Francisco hospital expecting a baby."

The other two crewmen who landed safely are Lieut. Fred Beardsworth of New Bedford Mass., navigator, and Staff Sergt. Carl A. Mongrue of Luling, La., radio operator.

ISSUE FORCED BY CHURCHILL

LONG

Vote Of Confidence Expected To Give Decisive Majority

London, March 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill snatched up the challenge of a momentarily rebellious House of Commons today and demanded a vote of confidence, insisting that his full leadership be accepted or his Government replaced.

NIGHT

Churchill clearly held the upper hand and intended to use it to the fullest. The issue on which the vote is to be taken—an amendment providing equal pay for men and women teachers on which the House balloted, 117 to 116, against the Government last night—is far too minor a matter for upsetting a wartime Cabinet.

First Defeat In Four Years

But it was the first time in four years that the Government had been outvoted and the Prime Minister was quick to make it clear that he would brook no rebellion, whether the issue was domestic or on war conduct.

The vote of confidence is to be taken at the next sitting of the House. (British censorship prohibited disclosure of when this would be. It could be Thursday, but might be next week or even later.)

The House of Commons itself reflected a noticeable change today from the boisterous debate and vote of the night before to sober attention when the Prime Minister told them that "if the Government does not secure an adequate majority, it will entail the usual constitutional consequences." This means resignation and formation of a new Government.

The amendment providing equal pay for women teachers was written into an education bill over the Government's objections and was approved by the one-vote margin last night. Churchill announced the amendment now would be stricken out, and the vote of confidence taken on this act of deletion.

Conservative Group Gives In

The Conservative Reform Committee meeting tonight decided it could not vote against the Government on a confidence motion "on the eve of the second front." and it answered charges of inconsistency with the reply that "it's Churchill's fault" in putting them on the spot.

Thus the potential vote against the Government was dwindling to minute proportions. There were 350 or so Government supporters absent last night, and Churchill should get a resounding majority.

Some members who oppose Churchill on domestic issues saw themselves trapped by the Prime Minister's maneuver to a parliamentary test in which they will have no chance to express dissatisfaction with domestic policies without going the whole way and voting against the conduct of the war as well—which few seem ready to do.

Called "Sharp Practice"

Aneurin Bevan, Laborite, who asserted that "the Government is tricking the House," put it this way:

"If the Government wishes to have discussion on a vote of confidence it has endless opportunities available to it, but surely what amounts to a sharp practice is to try to get a vote of confidence by the House on a narrow issue on which the issues of a vote of confidence cannot be raised."

Churchill, probably the sternest-appearing person in the House, was cheered rousingly several times. When Bevan said that the Prime Minister had come into the House "in a spirit of braggadocio," there were some cries of "No! No!"

Bevan insisted that "the Government has seized this opportunity to bully the House into acquiescence into whatever it decided to do."

Some Cries Of "Rubbish"

Once, when Churchill declared that "it really is impossible to distinguish between a vote on a domestic policy and a vote on the general policy of the war in this country," there were some cries of "Rubbish."

In spite of Churchill's strong hand, the vote will be watched closely in view of steadily mounting evidence that Churchill is losing the solidarity of backing which was so apparent during the more critical days early in the war.

Like President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill has been opposed much more strongly on domestic policy than on war conduct.

"Three-Line Whip" Order

The Government, taking no chances, issued tonight a "three-line whip" order—a most urgent summons to members—to be present for the confidence-vote debate. This means that unless they are ill or have a similar unquestionable excuse, all members of Parliament must appear at the sitting.

A majority of London morn newspapers assailed the Prime ister's confidence-vote tactic manufactured crisis which one said was designed "to create a rubber-stamp Parliament."

Papers Criticize Action

"Was ever such a mountain made out of such a small mole hill?" questioned the Daily Mirror. "The Prime Minister's excuse is that there must be no doubt or question of the support which the Government enjoyed from the House of Commons. In other words, the Government can do no wrong and Commons must never dare raise its voice even on a question which has nothing to do with the war. At that rate Parliament might as well as go out of business altogether."

The Daily Mail called the move "in effect, the creation of a rubber-stamp Parliament—one made thoroughly subservient to the Government's will by the threat of resignation."

"Cannot Afford Distractions"

The Daily Herald said: "It seems Mr. Churchill has needlessly sensationalized a difference of opinion. . . ."

Churchill's defender, the Daily Express, approving the move, said: "It (the Government) cannot afford such distractions as are involved by defeats in Commons on issues which have nothing whatever to do with the war. Too many politicians are ready this year of the second front to proclaim their faith in the Prime Minister as a war leader and at the same time attack his efforts to meet needs of post-war."

Churchill Demands Vote Of Confidence

MAR 30 1944

AGNEW

London, March 29 (AP)—To the cheers of the House of Commons, Prime Minister Churchill today bluntly demanded its support all down the line for his government's program and called for a vote of confidence staking his war leadership on the single issue of an amendment to an education bill.

Taking up the challenge posed by a one-vote defeat last night, Churchill declined to distinguish between a domestic problem and the basic issue of the government's leadership.

At the next sitting of Commons, he said, an amendment providing for equal pay for men and women teachers—written in over the Government's objection—will be stricken out by the Government and "this act of deletion will be regarded as a vote of confidence in the present administration.

Usual Consequences

"If the Government does not secure an adequate majority (supporting deletion of the amendment) it will entail the usual constitutional consequences."

These are the resignation of the government and the formation of a new Cabinet. (British censorship does not permit correspondents to tell when Commons will meet next, but it may be tomorrow.)

To suggestions that the amendment in no way involved lack of confidence, Churchill declared:

"I cannot attempt to control the activities of members. I can merely offer them some suggestions as to the consequences which may attend their actions. Certainly we cannot go on to the present basis of a government which has been defeated, after the language used from this bench, and into the very great tasks that lie immediately in front of us."

Cheers And "Rubbish"

He was interrupted often by cheers and once—when he declared "it really is impossible to distinguish between a vote on domestic policy and a vote on the general policy of the war in this country"—by some cries of "rubbish."

When he stalked into Commons today Churchill turned immediately to the teacher-wage issue and declared:

"Events of yesterday require an alteration in Government business. It would not be possible for the Government to leave matters where they stood.

"There Must Be No Doubt"

"At this very serious time in the progress of the war there must be no doubt of the support which the Government enjoy from the House.

"Accordingly, we have decided as the first business of the next sitting day to resume the committee stage on the education bill, and to delete clause 82 as amended entirely from the bill."

This was the amendment providing equal pay for women and men teachers, a provision which the House as a committee approved 117 to 116.

"This act of deletion," Churchill declared, "will be regarded as a vote of confidence in the present administration."

First Defeat In Four Years

The setback yesterday, overriding the opposition of Education Minister Harold Butler, was the first defeat of Churchill's Government since it was formed four years ago.

Laborite Emanuel Shinwell, who led the bitter debate for equal pay for women teachers, sought again to keep the issue separate from the question of confidence.

He asked the Prime Minister "if he could find it possible to distinguish between a deliberate vote of the House on a domestic issue and any lack of confidence by the House in the Government on general issues?"

"I am afraid I cannot alter in any way the statement I have made," Churchill replied. "It really is impossible to distinguish between a vote on domestic policy and a vote on the general policy of the war in this country."

Churchill had conferred for hours with the War Cabinet about the Government's position.

It was reported that Butler had offered his resignation at the Cabinet meeting, but this later was denied with the explanation that he regarded the vote as a rebuke to the Government rather than to himself personally.

Wage Principle At Stake

The education minister had maintained that acceptance of the amendment—offered by Mrs. Cazalet Keir, a Conservative from Islington—would jeopardize the Government's wage principle.

Churchill was not present when the vote, which cut across party lines, was taken. Announcement of the outcome was cheered by some Labor members, but they were quickly stilled as Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden moved for adjournment.

Coming on the heels of Churchill's address to the nation last Sunday, the setback was the subject of widespread discussion in the London press.

"Can't Be Laughed Off"

"No Government could tamely accept such a rebuff as yesterday's defeat upon an important detail of the education bill," said the Daily Telegraph. "As those responsible for the defeat seemed to realize subsequently, such an event cannot be laughed off as a mere demonstration, or Parliamentary Government would become a farce."

The Daily Sketch, however, was the only London paper to use the word "crisis" in referring to the situation.

"If they (the Government) doubt whether they still have the confidence of Commons and the country they may put the matter to test, after which a general election and return to party politics would be possible," it said. "A crisis might be avoided if the Government undertook a prompt inquiry and a report to Commons."

"Startling Occurrence"

The Laborite Daily Herald said the defeat was "a startling occurrence but it does not betoken a crisis," while the Daily Express declared:

"There is no question here of a vote of confidence in the Government. But the vote is a grave disappointment to the men who carry vast responsibilities.

"It is a wretched thing for the Government to feel that an immense measure of reform can be endangered in this way."

Results Of Previous Votes

Previous votes of confidence in the Churchill Government resulted as follows:

May 13, 1940, on formation of the government, 381 to none; May 7, 1941 on the conduct of the Greek campaign, 447 to 3; January 29, 1942, on the Far East campaign, 464 to 1; July 2, 1942, on the Libyan campaign and general conduct of the war, 276 to 25; November 25, 1942, on equal compensation for men and women for war injuries, 229 to 95; February 9, 1942, catering bill, 283 to 116; February 19, 1943 on Government handling of the Beveridge plan, 335 to 119.

Nazis Flood Dutch Lowlands

Holland Reports Germans Have Cut Dikes to Meet Invasion Threat

London, March 29 (A. P.).—The Germans have started flooding lowlands in the Hollands, the Netherlands Information Bureau declared today, as part of a plan to combat the expected Allied invasion of western Europe.

Moreover, except for one or two small towns, the island group known as South Holland and Zeeland have been evacuated preparatory to flooding, the bureau said.

About 5 per cent of the Netherlands is flooded, one Dutch official estimated. He explained that the chief worry is that the enemy may destroy twenty pumping plants used to keep out sea water.

Inundation was reported to have started south of Helder in the province of North Holland, in which Amsterdam is located. The flooding was said to be under way also in Beemster Polder—a drained area of about 8,000 acres some thirteen miles north of Amsterdam.

Evacuation of the civilian population as a preliminary to flooding the area in the vicinity of Amsterdam has been carried out in strips about fifteen miles wide north and south of the city, the Information Bureau declared.

Door Shut Only Technically.

London, March 29 (A. P.).—The door to the land of their fathers remains unlatched for some 25,000 of the world's Jews as the March 31 technical deadline for Jewish immigration to Palestine approaches. Under the terms of a British White Paper, 75,000 Jewish immigrants were to have been admitted by the end of this month, but the Government decided last November that immigration might continue after this date because only about 50,000 Jews had entered because of the barriers erected by the war.

These difficulties—almost unobtainable transportation and closed frontiers in some cases—naturally will remain for the rest of the quota until the war ends.

Says French Canadians Were Landed In France

London, March 29 (AP)—A Vichy radio broadcast recorded by the Ministry of Information today quoted Philipp Henriot, Propaganda Minister in the Laval Cabinet, as saying French-Canadians had been dropped by parachute to reinforce guerrilla fighters in the hills of France.

Military circles in London refused comment.

Britain, Norway Make Post-War Pact

London, March 29 (AP)—Britain and the Norwegian Government have agreed on methods for Norway's return to normal after the war, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has been authorized to sign the compact, it was learned today.

It deals with the scope of military authority after the Germans are driven out and with the means through which civil authorities will take over. Russia is reported to have agreed tentatively to the plan.

EDEN DENIES U.S. DICTATES POLICY

London, March 29 (A. P.).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden denied in Commons today that Britain is being "dictated" to by the United States in foreign policy. The M. P.s cheered him.

Laborite Emanuel Shinwell asked the Foreign Secretary to make clear "that so far as Europe is concerned we could not allow our foreign policy to be wholly dictated by the United States."

"There is absolutely no suggestion of that," Mr. Eden replied vigorously. "None at all, and I would not like any suggestion of that kind to go out from this House. We work in absolute co-operation together, neither one being subordinate to the other."

Britons Resent Hull's News Leakage Charges

London, Thursday, March 30 (AP). British Government officials as well as journalists "hotly resent" news leakage charges by United States Secretary of State Hull and consider them "a slur upon their loyalty and discretion," the News-Chronicle said today.

Furthermore, declared the paper's diplomatic correspondent, E. P. Montgomery, ". . . there have been far more 'leakages' to the American press of information which the British Government had a right to consider 'vital' than there have been similar leakages appearing in the British press."

Britain To Withhold Text Of Allied Leaflets

London, March 29 (AP)—Minister of Information Brendan Bracken announced in Commons today that the texts of leaflets dropped on Germany would not be released for publication whenever they contained points directly connected with military operations.

He was answering a question whether he planned to release texts of leaflets dropped by the RAF, since the United States Office of War Information had released copies of those distributed by the United States Air Force. Bracken said the leaflets released to the American press had previously been published in Sweden.

Jeep Versatility

LONDON, March 29 (AP).—The jeep has now been adopted by the British for railway work. Equipped with flanged wheels, the jeep is able to speed along at forty-two miles an hour unhindered by badly aligned tracks or grade crossings, British Army announcement said.

Bevin Says Ship Strikers Seek to Coerce Britain

Calls Action Intolerable; Coal Tie-Up Spreads

LONDON, March 29 (AP).—With labor trouble spreading in Britain's coal and shipbuilding industries, Labor Minister Ernest Bevin said tonight the walkout of shipbuilders was an attempt to use the "strike weapon to coerce the government at a critical moment of the war."

"No government worthy of the name can tolerate action of this kind," he declared.

It was estimated that 56,000 coal miners in the Yorkshire fields were on strike—10,000 more than yesterday—while 2,500 other miners were out in Stirlingshire, Dumbartonshire and Lanarkshire. Most of the strikes were out because of a recent wage settlement depriving them of the privilege of taking home coal without paying for it.

About 20,000 shipyard workers are said to be on strike at Clydeside, 5,000 at Tyneside and 1,000 at Huddersfield. The strike started as a demand by engineering apprentices for exemption from the practice whereby boys are drafted into the coal mines the same as in the armed forces.

MINE STRIKE SPREADS

London, March 29 (A. P.).—About 50,000 miners were estimated to be on strike today in the Yorkshire coal fields, an increase of 10,000 over yesterday, and Scottish shipyards also were hampered by labor walkouts.

The miners are striking because the recent wage settlement deprived them of the privilege of taking home coal without paying for it.

A strike of engineering apprentices at the shipyards started as a demand for exemption from the practice whereby boys are drafted into the coal mines.

BLAME BRITISH LAW FOR ESTATE'S ABUSE

LONDON, March 29 — (AP) Weaknesses in the criminal law severely handicap the Church of England in trying to stamp out prostitution in church-owned property, a special committee of the London Diocesan Conference reported tonight.

Appointed to investigate conditions in Paddington Estates, the committee recommended a general review of laws on prostitution.

The committee denied that rents received by the church are "tainted money."

"If the commissioners received money from persons whom they knew to be brothel keepers, the money would be tainted x x x" the report said. "But the commissioners in fact receive money from lessees whose character is beyond reproach.

"The commissioners have no contact with or control over the sitting tenants."

The report continued:

"The truth is that the existence of immoral conditions on the estate depreciate the value greatly. It is to the financial interest of the commissioners as well as their moral duty to do all they can to stamp out the evil.

30.24 ——→ 14185

"If the commissioners did not genuinely try to put a stop to the evil, but tolerated it, if indeed there was any conscious slackening of effort on their part, they would be morally culpable. We are satisfied that is not the case."

The 600-acre Paddington estates are near Mayfair, London's fashionable West End.

Withdraw Allied Troops From Monastery Hill

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 29 — (AP) Indian and New Zealand troops have been withdrawn from the steep eastern face of Monastery Hill, and the bloody struggle to take that formidable height will have to be undertaken anew when the Allied drive for Cassino gains momentum again.

Wiry Indian Gurkhas who clung to their precarious perch on Hangman's hill 100 yards below the ruined Benedictine abbey for nearly two weeks came back down last night and they were followed by the tough New Zealanders who held Hill 202 farther down the slope.

The Gurkhas, in their eagerness to conquer the forbidding, fortress-like monastery hill which commands the valley for miles around, passed completely over two of their objectives in the night attack March 15 and landed on Hangman's Hill far ahead of schedule. They could be supplied there only by air.

This was a difficult operation, and some parachutes drifted away from the Gurkhas and into the hands of the Germans. Removal of wounded also was a dangerous operation, as any movement by day or night brought a hail of fire from the Nazis on the crest. Hangman's Hill — so called because a gallows once stood there — is 435 yards up the side of Monastery Hill, which is 519 yards high.

Both Hangman's Hill and Hill 202 are on the eastern side of Monastery Hill, both well in advance of present Allied positions. When the Gurkhas announced by field radio that they had reached Hangman's Hill in the inky blackness of the first night of the recent all-out attack, Allied officers at headquarters scarcely could credit their ears.

No Point In Holding

With Allied troops inside Cassino itself unable to go to the rescue, there was no point in holding the advanced positions any longer. While a strong diversionary fire was laid down by Allied artillery at another point last night, the Gurkhas and New Zealanders slipped back down the hill without loss and rejoined their comrades.

Allied troops still held Castle hill just west of Cassino, the Nazis having failed in numerous attempts to storm the height in the past ten days. It changed hands several times previously.

The battle for the ruins of Cassino continued, but withdrawal from the slopes of Monastery hill supplied a definite climax to the violent Allied assault which began two weeks ago today with the greatest tactical air attack in history and a two-hour artillery barrage that turned Cassino into rubble.

Feel Out Allied Posts

German parachute troops continued to feel out Allied positions amid the wreckage, and one Nazi patrol that ventured east of the Continental Hotel yesterday was quickly beaten back. Allied artillery blasted another enemy troop concentration as it was forming up near the ruined hostelry, which remains the center of Nazi strength in the town.

Allied shells also knocked out four German machine guns in the lower Garigliano valley, southwest of Minturno, and scattered an enemy formation three miles west of Cisterna, on the Anzio beachhead.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 29 — (AP) U. S. bombers, campaigning to smash German supply lines in northern Italy, rained explosives on rail lines in Bol-Zano, Milan, Turin and Ancona and also hammered at port facilities feeding the fighting fronts, it was announced today.

Liberators and Fortresses of the 15th Air Force ranged 300 miles north of Rome to hit Bolzano, Milan and Turin, while a small formation of Liberators hit railroad yards at Ancona, on the Adriatic, and medium and fighter bombers hammered at west coast ports.

It was the 18th consecutive day that Allied planes had struck at the German supply lines.

Liberators bombed railroad yards in Milan, through which passes traffic from Nazi-occupied Europe to the fifth army fronts, and left rolling stock, nearby industrial buildings and warehouses in flames. The heaviest concentration of bombs hit a bottleneck point in the yards.

The American fliers encountered neither anti-aircraft fire nor enemy opposition over Milan, which had been bombed a bare 12 hours before by R.A.F. bombers in their first attack in coordination with the American bomber fleets. Photographic interpreters had reported all rail lines from northern Italy to Rome and to the frontline areas had been temporarily blocked by attacks by Allied medium bombers.

Bolzano, key point on the rail line from Brenner pass, was bombed by other Liberators.

Cassino Units Locked In Big Artillery Duel

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 29 (AP)—Violent artillery and mortar duels thundered in and around Cassino, Nazi bastion where the Allied drive on Rome has been held up for weeks, headquarters said today.

At the same time Allied photographic interpreters reported that medium bombers had cut all the rail lines from northern Italy to the German front-line area.

Withdrawal of New Zealanders from Hill 202, on the slopes of Monastery Hill, also was disclosed.

Called Valueless

The strategic importance of Hill 202 was lost when the general offensive against Cassino failed to dislodge the Germans, it was explained.

This, plus the difficulties of removing the wounded and bringing supplies made continued retention of the high ground valueless, headquarter officers said.

Allied heavy guns laid down a barrage on German positions in the vicinity of the strongly defended Continental Hotel, smashing a German troop concentration forming up near the ruins of the hostelry. German multi-barrel guns, with tank artillery supporting, hammered at Hill 193.

Attack Broken Up

French troops also smashed another small assault on Hill 915, which they are holding.

In the Anzio area Allied artillery scattered a German infantry formation taking positions for an attack three miles west of Cisterna. Anti-aircraft batteries downed four out of 25 air raiders and Spitfire patrols destroyed three more. All of the Germans' bombs fell into the sea without hitting any ships.

Allied planes flew more than 1,500 sorties yesterday, shooting down a total of 13 enemy craft against a loss of 10. About 40 German planes were sighted over the battle area.

London, March 29 (AP)—The Paris radio said tonight that the Allies had landed "considerable" reinforcements at the Anzio beachhead in Italy, including heavy artillery and armor, for a new offensive.

Jean Paquis, the commentator, added that the offensive "is expected to be preceded by a powerful air assault."

Beachhead Honeymoon Spent Under Fire By Army Couple

Naples, March 29 (AP)—Honeymooning on a battlefield under enemy fire, a United States Army nurse and a Signal Corps lieutenant were secluded briefly today, after their wedding in a hospital tent Monday night.

This first beachhead wedding culminated a 19-month romance that began at Camp Pickett, Virginia, in August, 1942, when Lieut. Thomas G. Rose, Lancaster, Ohio, met Nurse Second Lieutenant Genevieve Clarke, Allison Park, Pennsylvania.

Met In Sicily

Rose went overseas first and the couple met again last August in Sicily where they applied for the necessary papers.

Then the Italian campaign began and they waited until permission finally came through to Anzio.

The ceremony was performed at a flower-banked altar in a sand bagged tent lighted by ten candles in a pair of homemade candelabra stained dark red with iodine.

Bride Wore Uniform

Capt. Carl J. Simon, Canton, Ohio, pumped out a wedding march on a little organ. Technical Sergeant Eugene Wentz, Pittsburgh, Pa., sang "I Love You Truly," because nobody there knew the words to "O Promise Me."

The bride, like all the others, wore her uniform. The ceremony was witnessed by 300 nurses, officers and GI's sitting on the edges of beds and on boxes. The best man was Major L. C. Grimes, of Portland, Ore.

After the wedding the bride cut a 25-pound wedding cake with a trench knife.

'Lili Marlene' Is Good Tune, Says Berlin

Naples, March 29 (AP)—Song Writer Irving Berlin heard the love song of a German sentry today and commented: "It sounds like a good tune."

The song, "Lili Marlene," was picked up by the Eighth Army in the desert, and now is sung frequently by Allied soldiers. The writer of "This Is the Army" heard "Lili Marlene" sung by Corporal Robert Cornthwaite, of Long Beach, Cal., who was so fascinated by the tune he learned the German words.

Vesuvius Subsiding, Italians Digging Out

Naples, March 29 (AP) — The spectacular phase of Vesuvius' latest eruption has ended and residents of communities at the base today were removing tons of volcanic ash from streets and roadways.

The slate-gray ash lies three to four feet deep in some places and occasional drifts piled up by the wind are as high as the rooftops.

All spring gardens in an area nine miles square east of the crater are buried, but some peasants already are turning the ground.

U. S. Nurses, Lost in Albania, Find 'America' Is Magic Word

Twelfth Air Force Headquarters, Italy, March 25 (Delayed) (A. P.).—They didn't look like three American girls who had been playing hide and seek for four months in German territory and had hoofed it across snow-covered Albanian mountain ranges to safety, but there they were—nurses' uniforms clean and neatly pressed, ties in place, just the right amount of lipstick.

"In some parts of Albania America is a magic word," Second Lieut. Helen Porter, 30 years old, brunet and pretty, of Hanksville, Utah, was saying. "That is how we won out."

Her two companions, Second Lieut. Aba Ann Maness, 32, of Paris, Tex., and Second Lieut. Wilma Dale Lytle, 32, of Butler, Ky., nodded their blonde heads in agreement.

Landed In Albania.

The three were the last of a group of thirteen nurses, fifteen enlisted men and two air officers to get back to Allied soil after losing their way in bad weather and landing deep in German-held Albania last November 8 while on a routine flight from Sicily to Italy. The others reached Italy by boat January 9.

Much of their strange saga will have to be kept under lock and key until the war is ended in order to prevent German reprisals against those who befriended them.

"We became separated from the others," said Lieut. Lytle. "We started out, walking, riding horseback. Once we were only a few minutes ahead of the Germans. We crossed a mountain range in a snowstorm, but it wasn't bad, really. The mental hardships were the worst—worrying what was going to happen to us."

Eventually the trio was forced into prolonged hiding.

They were befriended by a family which thinks Americans are the grandest people on earth. They played three-handed bridge, smoked Albanian cigarettes, ate rice, figs, spinach, mutton, chicken, turkey, water buffalo; drank vermouth and goat's milk for the better part of three months.

"I even gained weight," Lieut. Maness acknowledged.

"They wouldn't let us do anything to help," Lieut. Porter said. "All the time we were there I believe we washed the dishes only twice."

An Albanian messenger finally put Allied authorities in touch with them. Instructions were sent and the nurses followed them to the letter, walking all the way. When they reached a designated point they looked for a man who would answer their sign with the correct countersign.

The arrangements clicked perfectly and in a matter of only a few days they were back in Allied hands.

The three soon will be homeward bound on special leaves although they agree they just as soon would stay and go back to work.

They have an urgent mission in the United States besides a reunion with their families, however—spreading a little good will for the Albanian people.

"A lot of those people are putting all their hopes in America," Lieut. Porter said.

Marauder's Merit Rises

But Soldiers Still Run for Cover on Take Off of Planes

WITH THE A. E. F. IN SARDINIA, March 29 (delayed) (AP).—Marauders have made a terrific reputation over here despite the bad name they once had, but they are still hot planes on take offs and landings.

A service squadron has its bivouac area right at the end of one of the runways over here. Whenever a group is about ready to take off on a mission, a prearranged signal is sounded, and all the soldiers in the service squadron hop out of their tents and "go underground"—into fox holes and split trenches until the take offs are over. Just playing safe.

Anomaly Explained

Air Force Discipline Casual Because Officers Are So Young

WITH THE A. E. F. IN SARDINIA, March 20 (Delayed) (AP).—Many reasons are given to explain why discipline in the air force is more casual than in any other branch of the service, but you seldom hear one of the most likely causes.

The officers are generally younger than the enlisted men. This is due to the age restrictions set on pilots, bombardiers, navigators and so on. It often results in the enlisted men serving as advisers and counselors to the younger officers who command them.

Convict Frenchman of Treason

ALGIERS, March 29 (AP).—A special French military tribunal today convicted Lieutenant Colonel Pierre Cristofini of treason and sentenced him to death for his activities in Tunisia late in 1942 and early in 1943. Cristofini was charged with recruiting Frenchmen to serve with the German armies on the eastern front.

Germans Urged To Stop Being Nice To Prisoners

Madrid, March 29 (AP)—German newspapers appealed to the German people to stop being nice to Allied prisoners and French and Italian workers in the Reich.

"Although we have many times recalled that it is forbidden to speak to war prisoners," said the Hamburger Fremdenblatt, "still the Germans do it. Again we must remind them it is forbidden. Moreover, French and Italian workers must be considered as prisoners.

"This call is particularly addressed to German women and young girls," said the paper.

GUN INVENTOR DIES

MADRID, March 29 — (AP) A Vichy dispatch to the Spanish press announced today the death in Paris of Gen. Etienne de Ville, whom it identified as the inventor of the 75-millimeter gun.

Red Cross Relief Ship Is Reported Torpedoed

Istanbul, March 29 (AP)—The newspaper Yeni Sabah said today two Swedish ships flying the flag of the International Red Cross had been torpedoed while taking relief food to Greece.

[The dispatch neither disclosed when or where the torpedoing occurred nor stated the nationality of the attackers.]

The newspaper said the damaged ships were taken into port by the Germans and will be sent to Turkey for repairs.

STILWELL TROOPS TRAP ENEMY FORCE

Chinese Cut Mogaung Road Behind 1,000 Japanese

With American and Chinese Troops in the Mogaung Valley, Burma, March 28 (AP—Delayed). About 1,000 Japanese troops were trapped today by a unit of Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Chinese forces which swung through the foothills fringing the northeastern part of the Mogaung valley and cut the Mogaung road four miles south of Shaduzup.

The Japanese forces had been strongly resisting frontal assaults by the Chinese.

The strategy was similar to that which netted Brig. Gen. Frank D. Merrill's American Marauders and Chinese more than 2,000 dead Japanese in the Maingkwan-Walabum area during the week ended March 10.

Drawing Noose Tight

The Japanese now are caught in an egg-shaped sector north of Shaduzup. General Stilwell's forces are drawing the noose tight as quickly as possible, but some of the enemy may escape by cutting trails and filtering through the northwestern foothills.

The Chinese troops are anxious to bag as much artillery as possible, including the two 150-millimeter guns which have done more psychological than physical damage. The road is the only avenue of escape for heavy artillery and when trapped the Japanese usually shoot off all the shells and bury the artillery piece by piece.

In the operations such as the Chinese now have established at Laban south of Shaduzup the Chinese are fighting in the south as well as the north. But that does not worry Stilwell's troops who remember one of his pet expressions: "If they are behind you do not forget you are behind them too."

30 Jap Planes Downed

New Delhi, March 29 (AP)—Thirty Japanese planes have been knocked from the North Burma skies and six others probably destroyed in two days of furious aerial combat accompanying the enemy's four-pointed invasion of India from across the Burmese border, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters announced today.

Only three Allied craft were listed as missing [illegible] series of dog-fights when Allied fighters intercepted strong forces of Japanese fighters and bombers bent upon supporting their ground troops.

750 Sorties Flown

The Eastern Air Command flew 750 sorties in turning the enemy planes back short of their targets and in carrying out widespread attacks against Japanese positions, camps and communications in Burma.

A Japanese column pressing toward the Allied base of Imphal in India from the Ukhrul area 32 miles to the northeast was reported maintaining strong pressure despite "heavy casualties," and today's Allied communique said defending troops had "taken up new positions," presumably after a limited withdrawal.

Northern [illegible] Results

The Japanese force aiming at Imphal from the south, however, was reported to have been checked in "further successful operations" along the Tiddim-Imphal road in which valuable enemy equipment was captured.

Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell announced that his American and Chinese forces operating in northern Burma had killed 5,423 Japanese since they began their drive toward China last October 26.

Monday's spectacular air battle raged for many miles over northern Burma. The escorted Japanese bomber formations apparently were streaking toward the Chabau and Ledo areas of Upper Assam province when they were intercepted by scores of Allied fighters, including Mustangs and Warhawks.

One Of Biggest Air Battles

In the ensuing fight 11 enemy bombers and 13 fighters were sent crashing into the jungle and six others probably were destroyed. It was one of the biggest air battles yet fought in this theater. On the same day four more Japanese craft were shot down in other operations and on Tuesday Allied fighters destroyed two enemy planes over the Chin Hills south of Imphal.

Since March 1 the Japanese air force has lost 133 planes for sure over Burma, with 16 more probably destroyed and 41 damaged, an official tally showed today. Allied losses in the same period were 33 planes.

yesterday for a two-day bag of thirty, the communique said.

Japs Lost 133 Planes.

A recapitulation showed the Japanese had lost 133 planes, with sixteen more probably destroyed and forty-one damaged in the air and aground, against Allied losses of thirty-three ships between March 1 and March 28.

Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell announced that 5,423 Japanese troops had been killed in northern Burma since last October 26.

Admiral Mountbatten's communique also reported Japanese activity in the hilly jungle country fifty miles northwest of Imphal, but Allied troops drove the enemy back in the Chin Hills farther to the south on the Tiddim-Imphl Road.

Allied forces also held positions on the Tamu-Palel Road leading to Lake Loktak, but the Japanese are stubbornly resisting attempts to clear them from a small block on the upper part of the highway.

Gen. Stilwell's American-trained Chinese troops who stormed the village of Hkawnglawyang in the Upper Mogaung Valley early in the week were reported attacking Japanese positions south of the Khawnglaw River and east of the only motorable road in that area.

Allied air formations maintained a ceaseless offensive against enemy installations in all parts of Japanese-occupied Burma, blasting troop concentrations, land and river communications and military stores. Three Allied planes were missing from the extensive air operations, in which 750 sorties were flown.

Allies Smash Burma Air Thrust

Japs Lose 24 Planes in One of Theater's Greatest Aerial Battles.

New Delhi, March 29 (A. P.).—Allied fighter planes have smashed a big bomber thrust supporting the Japanese invasion of India, downing twenty-four planes, but enemy ground forces are pressing hard northeast of Imphal and our troops have taken up new positions, the Southeast Asia Command announced today.

The Japanese invasion column in the Ukhrul area thirty-two miles northeast of Imphal in India is maintaining pressure despite heavy casualties, the communique from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters said.

Allied fighters, including Warhawks and Mustangs, fought one of the greatest running battles in this theater over northern Burma Monday with the escorted Jap bombers, knocking down eleven bombers and thirteen fighters and probably bagging six others. The Japanese, aiming at the Chabau and Ledo areas of Upper Assam, turned back without dropping their bombs.

Four other Japanese aircraft trying to intercept Allied flights were destroy[illegible] same day, and two mor[illegible]nked down

'Taken For A God' Says Jackie Coogan In Burma

Air Commando Force Headquarters, Burma Border, March 26 (AP—Delayed)—Flight Officer Jackie Coogan, of the American Air Commandos, first glider pilot to land Allied troops behind the Japanese lines in Burma, came back to his base today to relate how he was "taken for a god" by native Burmese when they saw him alight on their paddy fields.

Coogan expressed his disappointment over missing an encounter with the enemy.

Helped Build Runway

The former film star, tired and dirty, spent four days in Japanese-occupied Burma on his mission, helping American engineers build a runway for transports which landed later with the main body of air-borne troops participating in the drive.

"If you think the natives were surprised when our gliders landed you should have seen them when we opened up the mouth of one and drove out a jeep," Coogan laughed. "Two of them must have thought I was a god because they followed me everywhere and that night even made me a bed out of banana leaves."

Carried Six Hand Grenades

Coogan, who carried six hand grenades just in case he might meet up with a few Japanese, was disappointed because he had no opportunity to use them. Climbing out of the transport which towed his glider back home, he said:

"I sure would like to hear from those British and Gurkha knive artists I took into Burma.

"They were so eager to get at the Japanese I almost got trampled in the rush when they ran out of the valley I put them down in. They're the toughest men I ever saw, and I would like to have gone with them when the column pushed toward its objective.

"When we got over the valley in the moonlight, I told the troops I was going in. I went in fast and I thought we would never quit rolling, so I jumped out with some flare pots to light the way for the other gliders a few minutes behind me.

"I ran and ran, setting out the lights as I went. Everytime I lit a lamp I thought the Japs would open fire. Then I heard the whistle of the other gliders approaching, so I got out of the way and returned to my ship. Meanwhile the British troops had vanished into the jungle looking for Japs, but the Gurkhas stood with their knives drawn waiting to rush the enemy.

"Soldiers Were Like Madmen"

"For the next few hours gliders kept coming down and groups of British and Indian soldiers ran with their bayonets fixed through the grass and down the valley into the jungle. They were like madmen dashing this way and that, looking for the Japanese. Later these men formed the spearhead in a column that left us to attack Japanese garrisons on the enemy's supply lines."

Coogan, who joined the air commandos in May, 1942, now is one of Col. Philip G. Cochran's glider pilots stationed at this base. Wandering off to his quarters for a shave and his first bath in four days, he repeated:

"I'd sure like to hear from those knife artists I took in there."

With American-Chinese Forces in Northern Burma, March 27 (Delayed) (A. P.).—A lone Japanese bomber strafed an American airport in the Hukawng Valley today in the first air action against Lieut.-Gen. Stilwell's American Chinese forces since the start of the Northern Burma offensive last October 27. The attack caused minor damage but no casualties.

PILOTS PLAY BOMBARDIER

Headquarters, American Commando Force on the India-Burma Border, March 26 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Air Commando transport pilots on "milk runs" into the Allied base in Burma don't want to take controls any more. Instead they try to find an excuse to go back in the plane to help the crew kick bombs out of the door when they pass over Jap installations.

The crews decided they might as well get in some time while carrying British troops and supplies into Burma. Lieut. James Richmond of Atchison, Kan., has an unconfirmed Jap hut to his credit.

Soldier Knows Japanese Now

WITH CHINESE TROOPS IN NORTHERN BURMA (Delayed) (AP).—Private First Class Gilbert Woodards, Negro from Elgin, Tex., stared at a prisoner fully ten minutes without saying a word. Then, turning to a small group of other Americans standing behind him, he explained, "I just wanted to be sure I'd know a Jap the next time I saw one."

CHINESE SHIP SINKS, FEAR 400 DROWNED

CHUNGKING, Thursday, March 30.—(AP) The steamship Minhui sank in the Yangtze river last Friday because of engine trouble and overloading, according to word reaching here today, and it was feared the majority of the 400 or more passengers drowned.

JAP LINER SUNK

Chungking, March 29 (A. P.).—The Chinese Central News Agency reported today that the Japanese liner Nanhai Maru struck a Chinese mine off the coast of China near Canton on March 19 and that most of the ship's 400 passengers were drowned.

Another Japanese ship laden with valuable merchandise was attacked and seized by guerrillas in the same area on March 14, the agency added, and a number of Japanese and puppet gendarmes taken prisoner.

Japanese Losses In Men 30 to 1 In Bougainville

Gen. Beightler Asserts He Can't See How Foe Will Last More Than 10 Days

ON BOUGAINVILLE, in the Solomons, March 28 (Delayed) (AP).—The commander of the 37th Division said today, "I can't conceive of the Japs lasting more than ten days longer on Bougainville."

"They're already impotent as a fighting force," added Major General Robert S. Beightler, of Columbus, Ohio.

"I think, conservatively, 5,000 have been killed by the 37th—half of that number inside our wire. His losses were at a ratio of thirty to one of ours.

"There also have been a great many wounded, but he throws them right back in—any one with two legs and one arm. A number of Jap bodies had fresh bandages.

30.24 —— 14187

It is a question whether he has got his belly full.

"However I think he'll strike again as soon as he has reorganized. He's determined and desperate. Loss of life means nothing to him but glory.

"He's badly hurt, however. His infantry has been reduced to 40 and his artillery to 25 per cent.

"The high point of his whole offensive came on Hill 700 about three weeks ago. That broke his back and reduced one of his strongest regiments to an impotent force."

General Beightler did not estimate the full Japanese strength on Bougainville, but Major General John R. Hodge, of Carbondale, Ill., said two days ago he believed the enemy still has 20,000 troops plus strong labor battalions.

Shot, Propped Up, Soldier Keeps Firing

Southwest Pacific Headquarters, Wednesday, March 29 (AP)—Seriously wounded in the legs after Japanese barges attacked his landing craft, Robert F. Winter nonetheless propped himself up and continued firing until the troops he was ferrying reached shore safely.

Then, finding himself a handicap to soldiers on a subsequent march into the jungle, the technician, fourth class, insisted he be left behind until aid could be sent.

Receives DSC

For this "display of bravery, fortitude and high devotion to duty," near Arawe, New Britain, last December 18, Winter received the Distinguished Service Cross today from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Winter, whose home is in Wilmette, Ill., is a member of the army's amphibious engineers. He was a gunner and signalman aboard a boat taking a reconnaissance patrol ashore when he was wounded.

"His accurate fire held off enemy barges long enough for the patrol to beach their craft, destroy equipment and remove supplies to shore," the citation said.

Insisted He Be Left Behind

"When the patrol started back through dense mangrove swamps toward Arawe, carrying Technician Winter on a stretcher, progress was very slow. With keen realization of the importance of information about enemy positions which a quick return of the patrol would make available to our forces and with great courage and unselfishness, Technician Winter insisted the patrol leave him behind for rescue at a later time.

"With a limited quantity of water, rations and medical supplies, he was concealed in a grove, from which he was not rescued until after a period of 13 days had passed."

BOMBERS HIT AT HOLLANDIA

Jap Base On Dutch New Guinea Target Of Liberators

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Thursday, March 30 (AP). Liberators of the Fifth Army Air Force flew hundreds of miles through squally skies to attack the seldom-troubled Japanese base of Hollandia on Dutch New Guinea early Tuesday morning, bombing through holes in the clouds.

Other units hit a half dozen other Japanese bases, once strongly defended, and were greeted only by weak anti-aircraft fire.

Bad weather failed to keep the Solomons air force from its daily visit to the Rabaul area of New Britain on Monday or Liberators from hitting Timor, where Penfoei airdrome installations were set afire in several places. No aerial interception was encountered anywhere. Lack of air opposition has become increasingly common.

Destruction At Rabaul

The bombing of Rabaul, carried out by medium and light bombers, scored on supply dumps at Vunapope, Tawui Point and Talili Bay, and the communique said "large explosions and extensive fires were observed." At least 39 buildings were destroyed.

Liberators and patrol bombers also hit Karkar Island off the northeast New Guinea coast above Madang and also coastal targets along the mainland.

Destroyers and gunboats shelled shore installations east of Empress Augusta Bay on Bougainville while light bombers caused heavy damage in a series of raids there. Five enemy barges were sunk or damaged.

FLYERS HIT JAPS IN WIDE ATTACKS

SPENCER

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, March 29 (A. P.).—American and Australian bombers attacked the Japs at more than a dozen points ranging for 1,500 miles from Dutch New Guinea to the northern Solomons, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

They dumped 292 tons of bombs on such targets as Bougainville, Rabaul on New Britain, Kavieng on New Ireland, and Wewak and Hansa Bay, New Guinea.

About the only deviation from a strictly air war was another shelling by American destroyers of Japs on Pityilu Island, in the Admiralty group, northwest across Seadler Harbor from the American base at Lorengau on Manus Island.

At Kaimana, on Dutch New Guinea to the north of the Kai Islands, Australian-manned Catalinas set a Jap merchantman afire Monday night.

On Bougainville only a few enemy artillery shells fell within the perimeter and ground activity was light. American patrols uncovered a large number of dead Japs outside the perimeter, victims of saturation bombardments by artillery last week.

Sgt. McGurn, of 'Yank,' Receives Purple Heart

Wounded by Japanese, He Is Decorated by Gen. Hodge

BOUGAINVILLE, March 25 (Delayed) (AP).—Sergeant Barrett McGurn, of 64 East End Avenue, New York, correspondent for "Yank," Army magazine, received the Purple Heart today from Major General John R. Hodge for a mortar wound suffered several days ago.

General Hodge, commander of the Americal Division, made the presentation at a hospital. [This infantry division, only Army unit officially designated by name rather than number, gets its name from America and Caledonia, having been activated in New Caledonia in 1942.]

Sergeant McGurn, formerly a reporter on the New York Herald Tribune, was sprayed by a mortar burst while he was interviewing soldiers who were firing into a Japanese position on Hill 270. Tiny fragments were removed from his nose, shoulder, chest and leg. His eyes were not touched.

Father Survives Son In Battle

MAR 30 1944

Washington, March 29 (AP)—The story of how a father and son fought side by side in the Pacific war against the Japanese until the boy was killed in action was related to Congress today by Representative Worley (D., Texas).

In a speech prepared for House delivery, Worley also released letters written by the parents, Sergeant and Mrs. Earl A. Brown, of Childress, Texas, after the death of their son, Pfc. Jack H. Brown.

The Texan said the son joined the marines in 1942 when he was 19 years of age and, shortly thereafter, the father, 44, an army veteran of five major battles in World War I, also enlisted and joined the boy.

Side By Side In Assault

The two went through boot camp together, were separated for a time, but were reunited and sent to the Southwest Pacific, where they plunged side by side into the assault on Namur Island on Kwajalein atoll, where the son was killed.

Mrs. Brown forwarded to Worley the following letter from her husband, dated February 23:

"Excuse the way I am writing but we don't have time and mail doesn't go out often. I will try to do better. I hope you are feeling better by now. I am. As I look back on it I think I have expected this all along.

Didn't Expect To Get Back

"Jack and I had the longest visit with each other the last week that we ever had. I will never be sorry I was with him at that time.

"He did not expect to get back and told me all of the things he wanted done. He had tried to get more insurance in November but never did get it. He wanted you and the girls to use that money to buy the nice things you wanted or needed.

"I miss him like hell but we will just have to keep our chins up. We have done that several times together but this time it will be alone for the present.

Have "So Many Days To Spend"

"I am sorry that I am not with you, it would help us both, but we have to take life as it comes. Yes, I have always figured we had so many days to spend on this earth, do as we will with them. I know of no other way I would rather die, or my son, than for his country. I have never been able to understand why young people die; I guess I am not supposed to.

"I have lived to see a good many things that looked bad at the time turn out for the best later. This one I will never be able to see.

In For Duration

"I had figured on trying to get out after this summer, but I will stay for the duration now. I hope and believe you will understand. This is the first time in my life to know what the word hate means.

"We have left the Marshalls and tell Sterling that I will try to see Dick before I get back. I love you and the girls more than ever, if that is possible. This I promise, I will be back. You can count on that.

"Love, Earl."

Navy Plane Drops First Bombs On Pakin Island

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, March 29 (AP)—A second group of islands around Ponape, eastern guardian of Truk in the Caroline Islands, has been attacked by a naval bomber, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, announced today.

The attack on Pakin Island, 18 miles northwest of Ponape, was made by a Coronado search plane of Fleet Air Wing Two on Monday, simultaneously with attacks on four unidentified enemy positions in the Marshall Islands by army, navy and marine aircraft.

First Attack On Pakin

It was the first attack on Pakin. Ant Island atoll, ten miles southwest of Ponape, was bombed twice last week. Ponape itself has been raided 16 times this month. The last attack was Sunday, when nine or 12 of 15 enemy interceptors were shot down.

Nimitz reported only weak anti-aircraft fire was encountered over the Marshalls by Marine Corps dive bombers and Corsairs, army Mitchell bombers and navy Venturas and Hellcats.

AMERICAN AIRMEN HIT PAKIN ISLAND

Washington, March 29 (A. P.). American airmen driving toward the big Japanese bases in the Caroline Islands dropped their bombs on Pakin Island, eighteen miles northwest of Ponape, on Monday.

The Navy reported this today in a Pacific fleet press announcement which told also of bombing attacks on four unidentified enemy-held atolls in the Marshall Islands group.

Pakin Island is part of the enemy eastern defenses for the principal base at Truk.

Argentine Slur At U. S. Envoy Is Reported

New York, March 29 (AP)—The New York Times and the Herald Tribune, in dispatches from Montevideo, said today that Gen. Luis C. Perlinger, Argentina's Minister of the Interior, had violently attacked United States Ambassador Norman Armour in an off-the-record discussion of the international situation with a group of Argentine newspapermen.

The dispatches to both newspapers said Perlinger did not mention Armour by name but that he made it obvious to whom he was referring.

War With Russia

The Interior Minister also was said to have assailed the war aims of the United States and Great Britain and to have predicted that all of the present belligerents would soon unite to fight Russia.

The New York Times said Argentine newspapermen who heard Perlinger described the interview this way:

"'Perlinger, who spoke with energy and severity, referred to the Argentine international situation. He affirmed that he was neither a Nazi nor a Fascist, but an Argentine, and said he was against all those foreigners who had the presumption to say that Argentina did not know where she was going.

"War Not Fought For Liberty"

"'We do not.

"'We know that this war is not being fought for liberty but for other things which we must later be prepared to accept. It is not possible, therefore, that we should continue smiling at the Ambassador of a certain country that refuses to maintain relations with us, who are masters of our house. That is not possible and I myself am the first to look with an angry face at that gentleman and all Argentines should do the same thing.'"

Invitation To Leave

The Herald Tribune's dispatch said General Perlinger's remarks were "considered an invitation to Armour to leave the country and follows the line laid down by Argentina's nationalist and pro-Nazi press, which suggested recently that Armour need not remain any longer if the United States did not desire to continue diplomatic relations with Argentina."

Washington recently instructed Armour to refrain from diplomatic activity with the present Argentine regime pending further study.

Armour Incurs Perlinger's Ire

Washington, March 29 (AP)—Diplomatic quarters here studied today news dispatches saying Gen. Luis C. Perlinger, Argentina's Minister of the Interior, sharply assailed American and British war aims in a recent off-the-record discussion with Argentine newspapermen. There was no comment at the State Department.

The dispatches to the New York Times and the Herald Tribune also said Perlinger was critical of American Ambassador Norman Armour although he did not call him by name. The report to the Herald Tribune added that Perlinger's remarks were "considered an invitation to Armour to leave the country."

Armour's Instructions

Armour is under instructions from the State Department to refrain from diplomatic activity with the present Argentine regime pending further study of circumstances under which Gen. Pedro Ramirez turned over the Presidency to Gen. Edelmiro Farrell.

The dispatches were filed from Montevideo. Both quoted Perlinger as predicting all the nations now at war soon will unite to fight Russia—a statement which the Herald Tribune termed "Adolf Hitler's old red herring."

The Times said Argentine newspapermen who heard Perlinger described the interview this way:

"'Perlinger, who spoke with energy and severity, referred to the Argentine international situation. He affirmed that he was neither a Nazi nor a Fascist but an Argentine and said he was against all those foreigners who had the presumption to say that Argentina did not know where she was going.

Reference To Ambassador

"'We know that this war is not being fought for liberty, but for other things which we must later be prepared to accept. It is not possible, therefore, that we should continue smiling at the Ambassador of a certain country that refuses to maintain relations with us who are masters of our house. That is not possible and I myself am the first to look with an angry face at that gentleman and all Argentines should do the same thing.'"

The Times said Perlinger was believed to be a "political and personal rival of War Minister Colonel Juan Peron, and observers predict that a showdown between them cannot long be deferred."

British To Ban Some Newspapers

New York, March 29 (AP)—The British radio, in a broadcast heard by CBS, said today that the British Government is planning to impose shortly a "temporary ban on the export of some newspapers to prevent the leakage of vital information."

"The ban will not apply to morning papers, but evening and provincial and London weeklies will not be sent abroad to countries other than the British Empire and the United States," the broadcast added. "The ban will not apply to papers sent to the services overseas."

Tokyo Reports Jap-Nazi Conference

New York, March 29 (AP)—The Tokyo radio said today that Japanese Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu had conferred with German Ambassador Heinrich Georg Stahmer yesterday on the "international situation." The broadcast was recorded by United States Government monitors.

EXILED POLES SEND APPEAL

Ciechanowski Brings Note From London To Roosevelt

Washington, March 29 (AP)—A message from the exiled Polish Government at London, presumably making a fresh appeal for American help in settling Russo-Polish political and territorial disputes, was presented to Secretary of State Hull today for delivery to President Roosevelt.

The letter was brought here by Ambassador Jan Ciechanowski, on his return from conferences with his Government. Ciechanowski called at Hull's office but declined subsequently to reveal the nature of the message.

New Crisis Approaches

His visit brought back into the diplomatic spotlight a situation already being driven toward a new crisis by Red armies approaching the border of Soviet-recognized Poland.

One of the main questions which the United States must take into consideration in connection with any Polish appeal is what the Russian Government may do about a Polish Government once Russian armies cross the border.

Courses Before Moscow

Out of several possible courses of action open to Moscow, two are considered most likely by authoritative observers here:

1. The Russians may let the "Peoples National Council," acting as a sort of provisional government, take over the administration of Poland. Formation of this council by the pro-Soviet section of the Polish underground was reported by Moscow sources several weeks ago.

2. Moscow may decide to govern Poland by military rule until most or all of the country is wrested from the Germans. The Russians may use as administrative officials Polish officers fighting in their own units with the Red army.

Two Other Possibilities

Two other possibilities are that the Russians might recognize the Polish Government at London and turn over liberated areas to its jurisdiction; or they might set up the Union of Polish Patriots, formed several months ago in Russia, as a provisional regime pending the formation of a real government.

The eventuality which American diplomats hope can be avoided is recognition by Russia of some Polish government other than the one at London. Such recognition would create a worse breach than now exists in the ranks of the United Nations because Britain and America recognize the exiled Government.

About the only change in circumstances, authorities here believe, which would persuade Moscow to recognize the Polish Government would be its reorganization along definitely pro-Russian lines—a development for which there is currently little hope.

CONGRESSWOMAN ASKS DELAY IN INVASION

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP) Declaring the invasion of Europe may cost a million lives, Representative Jessie Sumner (R-Ill.) demanded again today that Congress act to postpone the attack.

"Who cares whether Europe is ruled by Hitler or Stalin?" she asked in a House speech. "The differences between these two ambitious tyrants is not worth the life of a single American boy."

PRESIDENT SIGNS UNRRA WAR BILL

Washington, March 29 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt signed today the bill authorizing United States participation in activities of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to the extent of $1,350,000,000. Specific appropriation of the funds remains to be made by Congress.

The measure represents the affirmation of House and Senate to this nation's pledge to take part, with the other Allies, in helping to rebuild war-ruined areas and get distressed populations back on a self-sustaining basis.

A Senate attempt to write into the bill a provision that none of the funds to be appropriated could be used for any religious, educational or political programs in countries where relief is set up fell through with rejection of the amendment by a Senate-House conference committee.

Amendments written into the bill and accepted by both chambers provided:

That none of the benefits were to be extended to countries considered "within enemy territory and while occupied by the enemy."

No new obligation assumed by UNRRA shall be binding on the United States unless Congress approves.

The participation authority is to expire on June 30, 1946, unless renewed. The bill originally set two years after the war as the expiration date.

Would Bar Forever Men Who Quit

WASHINGTON, March 29. —(AP) Legislation was passed by the House today to make those who fled the United States to escape military service "men without a country."

The bill, sent to the Senate without dissent, expatriates such "evaders" and Chairman Sabath D-Ill) of the Rules committee said there are "many" of them.

The House Immigration committee reported that in the vicinity of El Paso, Texas, more than 800 "draft delinquents" crossed the border into Mexico to avoid induction.

Those and others who have done the same thing would be denied reentry into the U. S. forever.

23,000 TANKS SENT TO ALLIES BY U. S.

Washington, March 29 (A. P.).—About 23,000 tanks and almost 750,000 other military vehicles have been sent from the United States to our allies since passage of the lend-lease act three years ago.

Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, said that more than 21,000 of the tanks and almost 500,000 of the other vehicles were sent under lend-lease. The Allies, principally the British, paid cash for some 1,500 tanks and 250,000 trucks.

In addition, $1,150,000,000 worth of tank, truck and other military motor vehicle engines and parts was shipped or flown to the Allies, $660,000,000 under lend-lease, Mr. Crowley said.

United States tank production during this period totaled approximately 58,000, of which 35,000 were retained for American forces.

AIRFIELDS BUILT WITH LIVE CORAL

Washington, March 29 (A. P.).—Many of the airfields used by American bombing planes in the war against Japan are literally alive.

The Navy disclosed this today in an announcement that the Civil Engineer Corps has started the use of living coral organisms in building airfields because the minute marine animals possess a natural putty-like quality which provides hard topped runways.

Cash May Now Be Sent to Italy

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP).—Extension of facilities for Americans to send living-expense money to relatives and friends in Allied-controlled Italy was announced jointly tonight by the Treasury and War Departments. Heretofore limited to Sicily, such remittances now may be made to Sardinia and these mainland provinces: Cosenza, Reggio Calabria, Potenza, Foggia, Bari, Brindisi, Catanzaro, Mattera, Avallino, Taranto, Lecce, Naples, Salerno and Benevento.

Big Post-War Nav... And Army Is Aim...

MAR 30 1944

Washington, March 29 (AP)—"Big stick" advocates drew top spots today on a 23-man special House committee charged with the task of blueprinting a post-war military policy for the United States.

The makeup of the committee as announced by acting Speaker McCormack, of Massachusetts, made it almost certain that the group ultimately would recommend retention of a formidable peacetime army, navy and air force, built up probably through compulsory military training.

Heading it is Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, 57-year-old Virginia Democrat, whose first statement as chairman warned against repeating the "blunder" of dismantling the army and junking part of the navy after this war.

May Ranking Democrat

Ranking Democrat is Chairman Andrew J. May, of Kentucky, head of the House Military Committee, who long has urged that the United States "maintain always a big army and a big navy and let the world know we have them."

An ardent supporter of compulsory peacetime military training, May once said he believed Theodore Roosevelt was right "when he said the safest policy is to speak softly and carry a big stick."

Following May on the Democratic roster is Carl Vinson, of Georgia, head of the House Naval Committee. While not publicly committing himself to compulsory peacetime training, Vinson said he favored "a big navy and a big army so we never again will be caught unprepared."

Three Top Republicans

The three top-ranking Republicans, Andrews, of New York; Maas, of Minnesota, and Wadsworth, of New York, all said they favored compulsory peacetime training.

Wadsworth long has been outspoken on the subject and recently introduced legislation for a peacetime draft of teen-age youths for training as a reserve force. He is coauthor of the Selective Service and Training Act.

Maas asserted emphatically he was opposed to relinquishment of any naval strength after the war and insisted the army be kept large enough to make would-be aggressors think twice before starting trouble.

Should Keep Merchant Marine

"We should also retain our merchant marine under our own flag after the war," he added, "and should take steps to retain and acquire a ring of outer island defenses in both oceans to keep any enemy at a safe distance."

30.24 —— 14189

Other members of the committee are Representatives Bland and Drewry, of Virginia; Bulwinkle, North Carolina; Thomason, Texas; Snyder, Pennsylvania; Merritt, New York; Costello and Sheppard, California; Magnuson, Washington, and Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas, Democrats, and Allen, Illinois; Powers, New Jersey; Mott, Oregon; Short, Missouri; Arends, Illinois; Cole, New York, and Miller, Connecticut, Republicans.

LABOR BATTALIONS FOR 4-F'S URGED

Group Would Have to Work in Essential Industry or Be Inducted.

WASHINGTON, March 29—(AP) In two major manpower moves, Selective Service today scrapped its measuring rod for deferment of farm workers, deciding to leave individual cases to the judgment of local draft boards, and a House Military sub-committee agreed to draft legislation authorizing army labor battalions of 4-F's.

The Army and Navy joined in asking legislation under which 4-F's between the ages of 18 and 37 could be directed to go to work in essential industry at civilian pay or be inducted into labor battalions at army pay but without veterans' benefits.

The request was presented by Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Assistant Navy Secretary Ralph A. Bard who asked prompt action to cope with a "critical" manpower problem. Chairman Costello (D-Calif) of the House group promised that legislation in line with their views would be drafted during the forthcoming Easter recess.

A plan also was being discussed to require that a farm worker classified as 4-F, physically unfit for military service, continue in farm work unless given permission by his draft board to change occupations.

Senator Russell (D-Ga) said this would be considered by the Senate Agriculture committee.

Scrap Unit System

Russell and Senator Tydings (D-Md) announced Selective Service was scrapping its "unit system" for farm deferments after a conference with Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, and War Food Administrator Marvin Jones.

Farm state legislators have been disturbed since selective service recently raised from eight to 16 the minimum number of food units for deferment of a farm worker.

(This system assigns varying values to different kinds of farm production and forbids deferment of a worker who does not have 16 "production units." Care of one dairy cow, for instance, is one unit.)

At present there are 1,689,000 agricultural deferments with 900,000 held by non-fathers. Of the non-fathers, 563,000 are under age 26.

BUREAUCRACY HIT IN HOUSE

Domengeaux, Leaving Seat For Army, Scores Executives

Washington, March 29 (AP)—Representative Domengeaux (D., La.) quit his House seat today to go into the army as a private, with a parting denunciation of bureaucracy and what he termed Administration domination of the Government.

The 37-year-old bachelor also critcized "self-seeking demagogues," who he said were raising threats of trouble among Negroes in the South.

Urges Fast Action

Protesting "violent encroachment" of the Executive on the province of the Congress, Domengeaux told fellow-legislators unless they move fast to reclaim delegated authority, "the need for this body will vanish and we shall be transformed into that totalitarian state that we approach so rapidly even now."

"While we fight for freedom for all the world we permit bureaucrats to enslave us," he said.

Senate By-Passed, He Says

The Senate has been by-passed in international relations, he said, and our foreign affairs are "almost in a state of crisis" with Congress uninformed on executive agreements with our allies.

Both Republicans and Democrats joined in applause and words of commendation for the Louisianan's services in the House.

Representative Sabath (D., Ill.), presiding, turned over the gavel briefly to Domengeaux as a mark of respect.

To Leave Friday

The resignation is not effective until April 15, but Domengeaux said he had completed his legislative chores and would leave for Lafayette, La., Friday to report for induction in about two weeks.

His resignation cuts the Democratic force in the House back to 216, the number before that party won yesterday's special election in Oklahoma, with 210 Republicans and four minor party members.

CIO Political Action Group Attacked by Dies Committee

WASHINGTON, March 29—(AP) The Dies committee described the CIO Political Action committee today as a Communist-inspired organization aiming to "discredit Congress," and drew the retort from Labor Leader Sidney Hillman that the findings were based on "researches of a warped mind."

Hillman is chairman of the CIO group which avowedly is out to make organized labor's weight felt in next fall's election. Hillman as well as some other leaders in the organization have urged a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

In a 200-page report, the House Committee on un-American Activities, headed by Rep. Dies (D-Tex), asserted that the CIO group's activity added up to "a subversive Communist campaign to subvert the Congress of the United States to its totalitarian program."

Saying the Communists will throw their full support behind the CIO committee in the elections, the Dies report declared:

"Their political leader will be, in effect, Sidney Hillman instead of Earl Browder. They will attempt by stealth and subterfuge to do through the Political Action committee what they have failed to do functioning as a political party under their own name. x x x To gain political leadership over millions of voters."

"Shopworn Smears"

Hillman replied in a statement, issued in New York, that the Dies committee's charges were "the same shopworn smears which he (Dies) has been peddling to the American people for the past eight years in an effort to stir up national discord and disunity."

"His attack on the 5,500,000 men and women in the fighting ranks of the CIO is based on fear," Hillman added. "He fears the militant mobilization of the American working men and women for political action in this crucial year. He fears that their unity will drive Mr. Dies and others of his stripe from the American political scene."

The Dies report said it did not allege that Hillman is himself a Communist but declared there had been times "when Hillman deemed it expedient to collaborate with Communists for the attaining of this own political objectives."

It gave a list of CIO unions in which it said "Communist leadership is strongly entrenched" and declared that Hillman and Philip Murray, CIO president, "cannot deny the presence of well-known Communists in the ranks of the CIO Political Action committee."

The report said the House committee did not "challenge for one moment the right of organized labor to engage in political campaigns within the limits of the statutes governing such activity," but said in the present instance CIO members are being coerced into contributing to this "Hillman-Communist conspiracy" and called this "a piece of tyrannical taxation." It said the CIO committee expects to spend $2,000,000 on political activity.

GEN. UHLE ASKS ARMY ECONOMY

Atlanta, March 29 (A. P.).—Rigid Army economy—"economy involving small as well as large expenditures"—was urged today by the Fourth Service Command's Major-Gen. Frederick E. Uhl, with this admonition to post commanders:

"Remember that the taxpayer is an indispensable member of our team, and we must not let him down."

Addressing more than fifty unit commanders, the General said that ever since Pearl Harbor Congress had reflected "the feelings of the American people" and had been "in the mood to make unlimited funds available to carry on the war.

"That mood is still existent," he continued. "However, as time goes on and our people are called upon to tighten up their belts, their fervor will be tempered, and rightfully so, by the severely practical need for economy."

'BLIND' IN GOP GET LASHING

Willkie Says U. S. Won't Vote For "Leaders Of Hate"

MAR 30 1944

Eau Claire, Wis., March 29 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie charged today that "leaders of hate and negation" against the Roosevelt Administration are, nevertheless, "the very people who are causing the Administration to stay in power."

Speaking at Menomonie and Chippewa Falls on his Wisconsin tour in behalf of delegate candidates pledged to him in the State primary April 4, Willkie mentioned the Chicago Tribune and the "Hearst paper in Milwaukee" as illustrative of the elements he described.

Nine Tenths Support

The candidate asserted that, rather than support the Republican elements to which he referred, "nine tenths of the independent voters will vote for the present Administration."

Willkie said the Administration "is ready to fall to pieces" and "the people are anxious for new leadership" but when it comes to a choice of removing this Administration or following "these Republican elements of blind opposition, these people opposing me," the people will stay with the present Administration even though disillusioned.

"Even those who tell me they are going to vote for the Administration again also tell me they have lost faith in it," Willkie said.

"The only reason its removal is not a very simple thing, also automatic, is that this element in the Republican party is so blind in its opposition as to cause people to go along with the Administration."

IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS, MEANWHILE, SIR ARCHIBALT SINCLAIR, SECRETARY OF STATE FOR AIR, SAID THE GERMAN FIGHTER FORCE IN WESTERN EUROPE STILL IS FORMIDABLE, AND THAT UNDOUBTEDLY MANY HARD BATTLES LIE AHEAD.

THE COMMANDER OF THE U.S. EIGHTH AIR FORCE IN BRITAIN DECLARED THAT MORE THAN 37,000 TONS OF BOMBS WERE RAINED DOWN ON GERMANY AND OCCUPIED TERRITORY BY THE AMERICANS SINCE FEB.1 AND THAT 16 MAJOR AIRCRAFT OR PLANE PARTS FACTORIES HAD BEEN DESTROYED OR SEVERELY DAMAGED SINCE FEB.20.

THESE TERRIFIC BLOWS, DOOLITTLE SAID, WERE DELIVERED BY AN "INVADING FORCE" OF 170,000 MEN OF THE 8TH AND 9TH AIR FORCES WHO FOUGI SOME OF THE FIERCEST AIR BATTLES OF THE WAR AND "ARE PREPARED FOR EVEN GREATER ONES IF THEY COME."

THE BATTLES DID NOT COME YESTERDAY--THE SECOND STRAIGHT DAY THAT THE HEAVILY-ESCORTED HEAVY BOMBERS ENCOUNTERED VIRTUALLY NO OPPOSITION AS THEY SMASHED AT THE NESTS FROM WHICH THE GERMANS DEFEND EUROPE. BUT AGAIN THE FIGHTERS SOUGHT OUT THE NAZI PLANES ON THE GROUND, DESTROYING 30, INCLUDING MANY BOMBERS, AND DAMAGING MORE THAN A SCORE.

TWO AMERICAN BOMBERS AND THREE FIGHTERS FAILED TO RETURN FROM THE RAIDS, DIRECTED AGAINST CHARTRES, 40 MILES SOUTHWEST OF PARIS; CHATEAUDUN, 30 MILES FARTHER SOUTHWEST, REIMS, 80 MILES NORTHEAST AND DIJON, 160 MILES SOUTHEAST OF PARIS.

DOOLITTLE, WHO MADE HIS DISCLOSURES IN A SPEECH BROADCAST TO THE NATIONAL PRESS CLUB IN WASHINGTON, D.C., SAID THAT "THE GOAL OF STRATEGIC BOMBING WAS, AND STILL IS, THE DESTRUCTION OF GERMANY'S VITAL WAR INDUSTRIES."

"FOR 15 MONTHS GERMANY HAS TRIED DESPERATELY TO MEET THE THREAT OF ULTIMATE DISASTER WHICH LOOMED IF ALLIED STRATEGIC BOMBING WAS NOT STOPPED," HE DECLARED. "WELL IT HAS NOT STOPPED, AND IT WILL NOT BE STOPPED UNTIL GERMANY IS DEFEATED."

JUST AFTER THE FORTRESS "OLD GATEMOUTH" DROPPED ITS BOMBS ON THE TARGET, A SERIES OF FLAK BURSTS PUNCTURED A GASOLINE TANK, DISABLED ONE ENGINE, SET THE RIGHT WING AFIRE AND THREW THE PLANE INTO A STEEP DIVE.

"FLAMES WERE STREAMING ACROSS THE WING AND AS IT LOOKED HOPELESS, I GAVE ORDERS TO ABANDON SHIP," SAID THE PILOT, LT.WILLIAM A. YOUNG, 28, OF 509 MURRAY ST., FRANKFORT, KY.

ALL EXCEPT HATCH JUMPED AND HE WAS POISTED OVER THE ESCAPE DOOR IN THE NOSE WHEN YOUNG, WITH ONE HAND ON THE CONTROLS, REACHED OUT WITH THE OTHER AND GRABBED HIM BY THE SEAT OF THE PANTS.

THE RUSSIAN COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED TWO POSSIBLY SIGNIFICANT ACTIONS ON THE NORTHERN FRONT, FROM WHICH LITTLE HAS BEEN HEARD FOR MORE THAN A MONTH. ONE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID SOVIET PLANES ATTACKED GERMAN SHIPPING DETECTED IN THE GULF OF NARVA IN THE BALTIC SEA AND SANK SEVEN VESSELS, INCLUDING TWO PATROL SHIPS, THREE MINE-SWEEPERS AND TWO PATROL CUTTERS.

THE GERMANS ONE WEEK AGO SAID THE RUSSIANS WERE PREPARING A NEW BLOW AGAINST THE TOWN OF NARVA, IN OLD ESTONIA, WHICH THEY ALREADY HAVE ENCIRCLED.

THE OTHER RUSSIAN ANNOUNCEMENT WAS OF A RAID BY PLANES FROM THE LENINGRAD FRONT ON A GERMAN AIRDROME DEEP IN THE REAR, IN WHICH 22 NAZI PLANES WERE DECLARED DESTROYED ON THE GROUND AND THREE IN THE AIR.

(SECRETARY HULL SAID TUESDAY THERE HAD BEEN FOUR INSTANCES IN WHICH THE STATE DEPARTMENT REGISTERED FOUR COMPLAINTS TO BRITAIN ABOUT PREMATURE DISCLOSURES OF IMPORTANT INTER-GOVERNMENTAL NEWS. HIS STATEMENT DEVELOPED FROM A CONTROVERSY WITH GOVERNOR THOMAS E. DEWEY OF NEW YORK, WHO HAD CHARGED THE STATE DEPARTMENT WITH SEEKING TO HAVE BRITISH CENSORS SUPPRESS POLITICAL NEWS SENT TO AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS.)

MONTGOMERY NAMED "THREE SPECIFIC INSTANCES" IN WHICH HE SAID NEWS LEAKAGES OCCURRED IN THE UNITED STATES."

"1. IT WAS AGREED BETWEEN THE FOREIGN OFFICE AND THE STATE DEPARTMENT ABOUT THE END OF JANUARY THAT THERE SHOULD BE NO PUBLICITY WHATEVER ABOUT THE JOINT ANGLO-AMERICAN DECISION TO APPLY AN EMBARGO ON OIL SHIPMENTS TO SPAIN," HE WROTE. "WITHIN 24 HOURS OF THE DECISION BEING PUT INTO EFFECT, THE NEW YORK TIMES CARRIED THE FULL STORY FROM WASHINGTON.

MAR 30 1944

"2. IT HAD BEEN GENERALLY ASSUMED AFTER THE RECENT RUSSO-FINNISH PUBLIC STATEMENTS THAT NEGOTIATIONS FOR PEACE BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES HAD BROKEN DOWN. MR. HULL HIMSELF WAS THE CULPRIT IN REVEALING AT A PRESS CONFERENCE THAT THIS WAS NOT SO.

"3. THE MOST RECENT EXAMPLE CONCERNS THE PRESIDENT'S FORMULA DEFINING GEN. EISENHOWER'S ATTITUDE IN DEALING WITH CIVIL AFFAIRS IN FRANCE DURING AND AFTER LIBERATION. THIS FORMULA WAS PRESENTED IN A DRAFT FOR THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT'S CONSIDERATION TWO WEEKS AGO. LAST WEEK THE NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE GAVE THE DETAILS AND TERMS OF THE FORMULA."

THE WRITER CHARGED THAT THE FOUR LEAKAGES WHICH HULL PROTESTED AS OCCURRING FROM LONDON HAVE "IN EVERY INSTANCE BEEN TRACED TO SOURCES QUITE OUTSIDE BRITISH GOVERNMENT CONTROL, A FACT OF WHICH THE STATE DEPARTMENT WAS FULLY AWARE."

HE SAID THIS COULD BE PROVED IF THE STATE DEPARTMENT WERE PRESSED TO TELL WHERE AND BY WHOM THESE REPORTS FIRST WERE PUBLISHED, THE NATIONALITIES OF THE CORRESPONDENTS WHO TRANSMITTED THEM AND THE SOURCES OF THEIR INFORMATION.

(THE FOUR PROTESTS CITED BY HULL WERE DISCLOSURE IN THE BRITISH PRESS IN OCTOBER, 1943, OF THE ARRIVAL OF HULL AND HIS PARTY IN MOSCOW FOR THE CONFERENCE OF FOREIGN MINISTERS; DISCLOSURE IN LONDON, ALSO IN OCTOBER, OF THE DECLARATION OF WAR ON GERMANY BY PREMIER BADOGLIO'S ITALIAN GOVERNMENT; DISCLOSURE, ALSO IN OCTOBER, OF THE SIGNING OF THE THIRD LEND-LEASE AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND RUSSIA; AND THE DISCLOSURE BY REUTERS, BRITISH NEWS AGENCY, OF THE ROOSEVELT-CHURCHILL MEETING AT CAIRO LATE LAST YEAR.)

MONTGOMERY DECLARED THAT BRITISH OFFICIALS, BOUND BY CIVIL SERVICE RULES FROM REPLYING TO HULL, HAD BEEN PREVIOUSLY CHAFED "SINCE LONG BEFORE THE UNITED STATES ENTERED THE WAR" AND ADDED, "THEY HAVE BEEN PATIENT IN THE CAUSE OF ANGLO-AMERICAN UNITY UNDER CONSTANT GOVERNESSING FROM THE STATE DEPARTMENT ABOUT CRITICISM OF THE AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY AND ALLEGED LEAKAGES OF DIPLOMATIC AND POLITICAL INFORMATION IN LONDON."

MEANWHILE, THE AIM OF THE WHITE PAPER--FORGING A POLICY OF COMPROMISE TO ENABLE JEWS AND ARABS TO LIVE TOGETHER AS NEIGHBORS--WAS REGARDED AS OBVIOUSLY NOT ATTAINED AS EVIDENCED BY RECENT OUTBREAKS OF VIOLENCE.

THERE IS NO LACK OF APPRECIATION IN BRITISH QUARTERS OF THE FAILURE TO ATTAIN THE OBJECTIVE, BUT THE GOVERNMENT, UNWILLING TO RISK A RACIAL AND RELIGIOUS EXPLOSION NEAR THE EMPIRE'S VITAL EAST-WEST COMMUNICATIONS LINE, WILL LEAVE THE PROBLEMS OF PALESTINE TO A PEACE-TIME SOLUTION.

PALESTINE AT PRESENT IS POPULATED BY ABOUT 1,000,000 ARBAS AND 500,000 JEWS, A TWO-TO-ONE RATIO WHICH HAS CHANGED IN RECENT YEARS FROM THE OLD TEN-TO-ONE RATIO FAVORING THE ARABS. ROUGHLY 75 PER CENT OF THE JEWISH POPULATION IN PALESTINE IS CONCENTRATED IN THREE CITIES, TEL AVIV, HAIFA AND JERUSALEM.

LONDON, MARCH 29-(AP)-GREAT BRITAIN, THE UNITED STATES AND RUSSIA MUST SHARE THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE PRESERVATION OF THE COMING PEACE AND MUST HAVE THE PRINCIPAL VOICE "IN DECIDING ANY ACTION TAKEN IN THE GENERAL INTEREST", SAYS FOREIGN SECRETARY ANTHONY EDEN.

EVERY COUNTRY WILL HAVE AN OPPORTUNITY TO BE HEARD IN INTERNATIONAL DISCUSSIONS, HE TOLD THE FREE CHURCH FEDERAL COUNCIL YESTERDAY, BUT HE ASSERTED THAT THE FIRST PROBLEM "IS TO SECURE AND MAINTAIN COOPERATI OF THE GREAT POWERS", WHICH "CAN ONLY BE DONE IF WE HAVE SOME COMMON PURPOSE, SOME COMMON SET OF PRINCIPLES."

MAR 30 1944

EDEN ALSO PREDICTED THAT FRANCE WOULD SOON RESUME HER PLACE AMONG THE GREAT POWERS AND EVENTUALLY SHARE WITH THEM THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE PRESERVATION OF PEACE. HE PLEADED FOR PATIENCE AND PRESEVERANCE IN THE JOB OF "HEALING THE SCARS OF THE GERMAN OCCUPATION."

MAR 30 1944

BRACKEN REPLIED:

"I WOULD REMIND HIM THAT THE RAF ARE NOT DROPPING LEAFLETS OVER GERMANY TO RETURN PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT OR ANY OTHER CANDIDATE."

MOSCOW, MARCH 29-(AP)-AMERICAN SHERMAN TANKS ARE HELPING THE RUSSIANS DRIVE SWIFTLY THROUGH THE MUD OF BESSARABIA AND SOUTHWEST RUSSIA.

THE RUSSIANS' OWN T-34 TANKS, HOWEVER, ARE FAR MORE NUMEROUS. MANY RUSSIAN, AMERICAN AND BRITISH TANK EXPERTS CONSIDER THE T-34 THE BEST TANK EVER PRODUCED, ITS SIMPLICITY BEING ONE OF ITS GREATEST ADVANTAGES.

THE OFFICER SAID THE FIRST THING THE RUSSIANS DO WITH AMERICAN SHERMANS OR BRITISH TANKS IS TO REMOVE SUCH THINGS AS MAP CASES AND PORTABLE COOKERS.

"WE KNOW WHERE WE ARE GOING," HE SAID. "WHEN WE GET HUNGRY WE CAN MAKE A FIRE ON THE GROUND AND COOK IN A CAN. WE USE THE EXTRA SPACE FOR AMMUNITION."

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, MARCH 29-(AP)-MEDIUM AND FIGHTER-BOMBERS OF THE FIRST TACTICAL AIR FORCE HAVE CUT RAIL COMMUNICATIONS FROM NORTHERN ITALY TO THE GERMAN BATTLE LINES, DAMAGING OR KNOCKING OUT SEVERAL RAILROAD BRIDGES, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

THE 15TH AIR FORCE THREW ITS HEAVY BOMBERS INTO BATTERING NEW BLOWS LAST NIGHT AND YESTERDAY AT NAZI SUPPLY LINES IN NORTHEASTERN ITALY, ATTACKING RAILROAD YARDS AT MILAN, VERONA, AND MESTRE, JUST WEST OF VENICE.

THE SEVERING OF NAZI RAIL COMMUNICATIONS REPEATED THE JOB DONE BY MEDIUM AND HEAVY BOMBERS JUST BEFORE THE ANZIO LANDING JAN. 22. REPAIRING AND RECONSTRUCTION OF THE BRIDGES SOMETIMES TAKES WEEKS OF WORK.

THE BRIDGE AT MONTALTO DI CASTRO ON THE COASTAL LINE NORTH OF ROME WAS BELIEVED KNOCKED OUT BY INVADER PLANES, AND MISSION LEADER MAJ. HARRY E.DORRIS, HARRISBURG, ILL., SAID "WHEN WE ARRIVED WE COULD SEE SCAFFOLDS ERECTED OVER PARTS OF THE BRIDGE AND MEN WORKING ON THEM. THE MEN MIGHT HAVE ESCAPED FROM THE BOMBS, BUT THE BRIDGE GOT PLENTY OF HITS. I THINK WE KNOCKED IT OUT FOR THEM AGAIN."

THE 600-FOOT STEEL BRIDGE AT ORVIETO 55 MILES NORTH OF ROME ON THE MAIN LINE TO FLORENCE ALSO WAS BADLY DAMAGED, AS WERE SPANS AT FANO, CESANO, PERUGIA, AND NEAR RIGNANO.

RAF WELLINGTONS AND LIBERATORS BOMBED THE MILAN RAILROAD YARDS LAST NIGHT AFTER U.S. FLYING FORTRESSES HAD HIT VERONA'S MAIN YARDS BY DAYLIGHT AND LIBERATORS HAD BOMBED THE EASTERN YARDS AT VERONA, A JUNCTION OF THE BRENNER PASS LINE FROM GERMANY AND THE NORTH ITALIAN RAIL NETWORK. OTHER LIBERATORS BOMBED THE MESTRE YARDS.

MORE THAN 30 GERMAN PLANES ATTACKED THE FORTRESSES OVER VERONA, AND ESCORTING THUNDERBOLTS DOWNED FIVE.

LT. JOHN R.BOOTH, 544 WOODVILLE ST., TOLEDO, OHIO, BROUGHT DOWN TWO PLANES WITHOUT FIRING HIS GUNS WHEN HE TOOK ON SIX MESSERSCHMITTS.

"ONE ME-109 MADE A HEAD-ON PASS AT ME," HE SAID. "AS WE PASSED OUR PLANES COLLIDED WING TO WING. THE ENTIRE RIGHT WING FELL OFF THE ENEMY PLANE. HE TWISTED AND CRASHED INTO AN ME-109 COMING IN ON MY RIGHT. BOTH PLANES EXPLODED. FOUR AND A HALF FEET OF MY RIGHT WING WERE TORN OFF, BUT I STILL WAS ABLE TO OUTRUN TWO ME-109'S EVEN THOUGH I COULDN'T MANEUVER. I HAD TO BELLY IN AT MY BASE BECAUSE MY PLANE

HAD A TENDENCY TO FLY SIDEWAYS."

AMONG THE FIVE PLANES SHOT DOWN OVER VERONA, WERE VICTORIES CREDITED TO LT. COL. CHESTER L.SLUBER, 1131 WEST FRENCH PLACE, SAN ANTONIO, TEX.; LT. ALEXANDER O.JONES, COOPERSTOWN, N.Y.; AND LT. ARTHUR W.LARKIN, 1249 WEST GARFIELD BOULEVARD, CHICAGO, ILL.

(A GOVERNMENT WITH A LARGER BASE WAS PROPOSED MONTHS AGO IN NAPLES BUT POLITICAL LEADERS, SUCH AS PRE-FASCIST FOREIGN MINISTER COUNT CARLO SFORZA, REFUSED TO TAKE PART IN IT UNLESS THE KING, WHOM THEY REGARD AS TAINTED WITH FASCISM, ABDICATED.)

NEW DELHI MARCH 27-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE JAPANESE OFFENSIVE IN MANIPUR STATE IN INDIA IS PUTTING A NEW TYPE OF STRAIN ON THE ALLIED AIR FORCE WHICH ALREADY IS WORKING OVERTIME ON THE TRANSPORT SUPPLY PROBLEM.

THE LATEST JAPANESE THRUSTS, OF WHICH THE MOST THREATENING IS THE PROBE TOWARD THE MANIPUR ROAD ABOVE IMPHAL NEAR KOHIMA, HAVE CALLED INTO ACTION ALMOST ALL OF THIS SECTOR'S AVAILABLE DIVE BOMBERS AND FIGHTER-BOMBERS IN AN EFFORT TO STAVE OFF THE ENEMY'S ADVANCE.

IN ITSELF THIS IS A PROBLEM, SINCE THE JAPANESE ARE BEING FOUGHT IN A DENSELY-WOODED TERRAIN IN WHICH AERIAL TARGETS ARE DIFFICULT TO PINPOINT.

WITH THE ROAD-BLOCK WHICH THE JAPANESE HAVE THROWN ACROSS THE IMPHAL-TIDDIM ROAD TO THE SOUTH OF IMPHAL, TROOP CARRIER COMMAND TRANSPORT PLANES ARE NOW BEING CALLED UPON TO SUPPLY FIVE SEPARATE FORCES BY AIR, WHILE AT THE SAME TIME THE AIR TRANSPORT COMMAND IS MAINTAINING THE LIFE-SUSTAINING RUN OVER "THE HUMP" TO CHINA.

THE SOUTHERNMOST OF THE FORCES WHICH ARE DEPENDENT ON AIR SUPPLY ARE THE 14TH ARMY UNITS IN THE KALADAN VALLEY. NEXT IN THE NORTHWARD GEOGRAPHICAL PROGRESSION ARE THE FORCES IN THE TIDDIM SECTOR, WHICH BECAUSE OF THE JAPANESE ROADBLOCK ARE CUT OFF FROM THE NORMAL OVERLAND SUPPLY ROUTE.

FINSCHAFEN, NEW GUINEA, MARCH 26-(DELAYED)-(AP)-FUZZY WUZZY HISTORY WAS MADE TODAY WITH THE GREATEST SING-SING HELD BY NEW GUINEA'S BLACK NATIVES IN MANY CENTURIES. MAR 30 1944

THOUSANDS OF OCHRE-PAINTED, FEATHER-BEDECKED BLACK MEN FROM VILLAGES THROUGHOUT THE PAPAUN TERRITORY AND THE HUON PENINSULA GATHERED TO CELEBRATE THEIR RELEASE FROM JAPANESE THRALLDOM.

THEY DANCED THEMSELVES INTO A FRENZY AND THEN TOPPED OFF THE BIG DAY WITH A ROAST PORK FEAST AUGMENTED WITH AUSTRALIAN BULLY BEEF AND FLOUR. THE AUSTRALIAN FOOD WAS THERE BECAUSE THE HUNGRY JAPANESE HAD SWEPT THE JUNGLE PRACTICALLY FREE OF WILD HOGS. ONLY SEVEN FAT ONES COULD BE FOUND TO FEED THE NEARLY 3,000 NATIVES ON HAND FOR THE CELEBRATION.

ANGUA (AUSTRALIAN-NEW GUINEA ADMINISTRATION UNIT) STAGED THE CELEBRATION.

AN AUSTRALIAN OFFICER WITH MANY YEARS' EXPERIENCE IN THE TERRITORY, OPENED THE EVENT BY TELLING THE NATIVES IN PIDGIN ENGLISH: "JAPAN MAN HE COME NEVER NO MORE."

BOYS FROM RABAUL AND THE SEPIK RIVER OF NEW BRITAIN WRINKLED THEIR PAINTED FACES AND SHOOK THEIR FEATHERY HEADDRESSES WHEN TOLD THEY TOO WOULD SOON BE ABLE TO RETURN HOME.

AFTER THE SPEECH THE NATIVES SLOWLY BEGAN TO WRITHE AND TWIST TO THE BEAT OF JUNGLE DRUMS. THEY CHANTED NATIVE SONGS AND SOON THE JUNGLE ARENA WAS A SWIRLING MASS OF HUMAN COLOR.

BOYS WERE THERE FROM SANANANDA, LAE, BUNA, AND RAMU AND

MARKHAM VALLEYS. EACH GROUP CONCENTRATED ON ITS OWN DANCES AND PAID NO HEED TO THE DRUMS AND DANCES OF OTHERS. IT WAS A WILD SCENE, WITNESSED BY THOUSANDS OF AMERICAN AND AUSTRALIAN SOLDIERS.

EACH FUZZY WUZZY TRIED TO OUTDO THE OTHER IN DANCE AND SONG. THEIR COSTUMES RIOTOUSLY DEPICTED THEIR INTERESTS. ONE NATIVE WORE A HEADDRESS RESEMBLING A NEW GUINEA HAWK--EXCEPT THAT THE HAWK HAD A TWIN-RUDDER TAIL. THERE WERE OTHER HEADDRESSES BLAZING WITH MULTI-COLORED FEATHERS FROM TORPICAL BIRDS, SOME FOUR FEET HIGH. STILL OTHERS WORE FLOWERS IN THEIR FUZZY HAIR.

MAR 30 1944

AT THE HEIGHT OF THE FURIOUS DANCING AN AMERICAN NEGRO SOLDIER YELLED: "BOY, THEM BOYS IS REAL HEPCATS."

WHEN THE DANCES ENDED THE NATIVES LED SEVEN FAT PIGS INTO THE ARENA. FIRES WERE STARTED, THE PIGS SLAUGHTERED AND PUT INTO POTS WITH BULLY BEEF FOR THE FEAST.

THE NATIVES THEN TRUDGED TO THEIR MOUNTAIN VILLAGES, EACH CARRYING BACK THE WORD: "JAPAN MAN HE FINISH."

DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. SEVENTH ~~AIRFORCE~~ AIRFORCE BASE, MARSHALL ISLANDS, MARCH 23 -(DELAYED)-I FLEW OVER WAKE ISLAND IN A SEVENTH AAF LIBERATOR TODAY AND DURING THE EIGHT MINUTES OUR BOMBER WAS WITHIN THE RANGE OF JAPANESE ACK-ACK GUNS I REACHED THIS CONCLUSION:

WHAT THIS WAR NEEDS IS A HEAVY BOMBER YOU CAN PUT INTO REVERSE WHEN FLAK IS BREAKING AHEAD AND ON BOTH SIDES OF YOU.

VISIBILITY WAS EXCELLENT AND WE SIGHTED WAKE 40 MILES OUT. MY LAST TRIP OVER WAKE WAS ABOARD A NAVY TORPEDO BOMBER FLYING OFF A CARRIER DURING OUR TWO-DAY TASK FORCE ATTACK LAST OCTOBER. AT THAT TIME MOST OF THE ENEMY'S EQUIVALENT OF THREE AND FIVE-INCH ACK-ACK GUNS HAD BEEN KNOCKED OUT AND OUR MAIN OPPOSITION CAME FROM AUTOMATIC WEAPONS FIRED AT LOW ALTITUDE.

MAR 30 1944

TODAY AS WE CHURNED TOWARD WAKE IT WAS DIFFERENT. I HAD A FEELING WE WERE IN SLOW MOTION--THAT WE WERE SITTING DUCKS FOR THE JAP GUNNERS

WAKE LOOKED DEAD, QUIET AND INACTIVE UNTIL WE HIT THEIR GUN RANGE. THERE WASN'T A SIGN OF ENEMY AIRCRAFT ON THE AIRFIELD NOR OF SHIPPING AT THE BEACH. WHILE I LOOKED, MEDIUM AND HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS BURST INTO ACTION.

FROM OUR ALTITUDE IT LOOKED LIKE A SHOWER OF SPARKS FROM A CIGARETTE LIGHTER AS AN IMPATIENT SMOKER TRIES TO IGNITE A DRY WICK.

THE COMMAND PILOT, MAJ. E.C.EDDY, 26, FARGO, N.D., STARTED EVASIVE ACTION AND WE WENT INTO THE BOMB RUN. THE RIGHT WAIST GUNNER, T/SGT. E.B.BAUER, PHILADELPHIA, PA., REPORTED: "FLAK BURSTING 300 FEET TO THE RIGHT--OUR ALTITUDE."

THE TAIL GUNNERS, S/SGT A.M.SHOUSE, 23, FRESNO, CALIF., REPORTED: "THERE'S A LOT OF FLAK 200 FEET BEHIND US."

THE NOSE GUNNER, SGT. W.R.SLOAN, 20, MILWAUKEE, WIS., SAID:

"THEY'RE LAYING IT RIGHT ON OUR BOMB RUN."

"THAT'S SOME OF THE MOST ACCURATE SHOOTING I EVER SAW," SAID CAPT.

D.D.BRADY, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., WHO MANNED A WAIST GUN ON THIS FLIGHT.

THE BOMBARDIER, LT. P.M.KING, 29, JACKSONVILLE, FLA., GOT HIS THOUSAND-POUND BOMBS AWAY AND AS WE PULLED OFF THE TARGET I SAW TWO MEDIUM GUNS STILL PEPPERING OUR FORMATION. Navy Attacks Palau, Japanese Ships Flee, Base Is Only 460 Miles From Philippines; Russians Win Cernauti in Street Fighting

MAR 31 1944

POWERFUL FLEET BLASTS JAP BASE NEAR PHILIPPINES

ERICKSON

Strong Carrier Force Attacks Bastion in Western End of Carolines.

ENEMY SHIPS FLEE

Details of Raid Not Yet Received, Admiral Nimitz Declares.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, March 30. — (AP) Powerful American naval forces, believed to include new aircraft carriers, opened up an assault Wednesday on Palau island within 460 nautical miles of the Philippines, and Japanese warships fled the area rather than offer a fight.

Announcing the attack in a communique today, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said:

"Our attack continues."

Jap Ships Flee

Admiral Nimitz said that Japan- ships were observed fleeing from the Palau area before our fleet units could reach "attack positions."

The communique explained that the task force had been sighted by enemy planes searching from their bases from the Carolines and New Guinea.

The fact that Japanese ships fled is a definite indication that the American task forces probably are of the same overwhelming strength as the aircraft carrier forces which attacked Truk Feb. 16-17 and the Marianas Feb. 22.

The Nimitz communique did not describe the nature of the force attacking Palau but it is almost certain that it contains several new and large aircraft carriers. It is likely that the Palau attack is a heavy carrier bombing strike such as those which blasted Truk and the Marianas.

MAR 31 1944

Text of Communique

The communique text:

"Strong Pacific fleet forces, at dawn Wednesday, 29th of March (west longitude date) initiated attacks on Japanese-held Palau island. After discovery of the approach of our forces by enemy planes searching from their bases in the Carolines and New Guinea, their ships were observed fleeing the area before our units could reach attack positions.

"Our attacks continue. No further details are as yet available."

The fleet force attacked on Palau is the nearest blow of major power yet delivered in the direction of the Philippines. Palau is 906 nautical miles east and slightly south of Manila and about 2,000 nautical miles from Tokyo.

200 Small Islands

The Palau islands are a group of 200 small, heavily wooded, volcanic islands at the western end of the Caroline chain. The communique's mention that enemy search planes operating from New Guinea as well as the Carolines detected the approaching task force suggests that the fleet force cruised south of Truk in closing in on Palau.

The Japanese had withdrawn warships from Truk after that naval base stronghold was battered Feb. 16-17. Some observers believed that some enemy combat ships probably were using Palau as an operational base.

One of the major purposes of the present Palau strike possibly was to try to trap and force a fight with Japanese ships.

Babelthuap island, largest in the Palau group, contains 142 square miles of land. It is the second largest land mass in the Carolines, exceeded only by Ponape.

The town of Koror just south of Babelthuap is the Japanese administrative seat for the 1,500 Caroline islands.

The task force strike against Palau occurred on the same day that Liberators of the Seventh Air Force, probably operating from the western Marshalls, delivered an attack on Truk.

The Two Chief Targets

Eten and Moen islands in the Truk atoll were the targets. The raiders left fires behind them. Anti-aircraft fire was intense.

Other planes attacked Ponape, eastern guardian of Truk in the Caroline Islands; Ujelang atoll in the western Marshall Islands, and four unidentified positions in the eastern Marshalls.

Once previously, on March 15, American land-based bombers hit Truk and ran into heavy ack-ack. In the first raid one American plane was damaged. In neither attack was there any Japanese interception reported.

A navy search plane bombed Ponape, starting fires in the hangar area. Marine dive bombers strafed gun positions and buildings on Ujelang.

Army Mitchell medium bombers, marine dive bombers and Corsair fighters attacked the four Marshall positions, dropping 45 tons of explosives. They set fire to oil tanks at one objective and damaged runways on another.

INVASION DANGER IS NOT YET ENDED, LEADERS DECLARE

ERICKSON

HONOLULU, March 30—(AP) Continuation of martial law in Hawaii is necessary because of the ever-present danger of an invasion by Japanese armed forces, the territory's top-ranking military commanders said in affidavits in a habeas corpus case to be heard in Federal court tomorrow.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz and Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson voiced this conclusion in opposing a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Lloyd C. Duncan. The case is expected to be a test of the status of martial law in the territory.

NIGHT

Duncan, former Navy yard civilian worker, was sentenced to six months in jail by a provost court for assaulting two Marine Navy yard sentries. His attorney, Garner Anthony, former attorney-general of Hawaii, contended that martial law now is unnecessary and that the provost court no longer has any legal standing.

Admiral Nimitz, commander of the Pacific ocean areas, and Gen. Richardson, Army commander and military governor of Hawaii, said in their answer to the petition that the territory "is in imminent danger of invasion" and always has been since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941. They did not amplify this statement but asserted the conviction and sentencing of Duncan was necessary to prosecution of the war in these islands.

The case will be heard by Judge Delbert E. Metzger on his order that the government show cause why the petition should not be granted.

In a similar case last October, Judge Metzger found Gen. Richardson in contempt of court for refusing to release two internees of German descent on habeas corpus writs. He fined the general $5,000 but reduced this later to $100 when informed the two men had been released and sent to the mainland. The case was closed last Jan. 24 when President Roosevelt unconditionally pardoned Gen. Richardson.

2 Commanders Put Hawaii In Danger Zone

ERICKSON

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, March 30 (AP) — Admiral Chester W. Nimitz and Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson jointly declared in affidavits filed in Federal District Court yesterday that the Territory of Hawaii "now is in imminent danger of invasion" by Japanese armed forces and has been in such danger since the attack on Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941.

The affidavits were filed with their answer to a habeas corpus case challenging the necessity and validity of continuing martial law in Hawaii.

DAY

Nimitz is commander in chief of the Pacific ocean areas. Richardson commands United States Army forces in the Central Pacific and is Military Governor of Hawaii.

Outgrowth Of Assault Case

Garner Anthony, former Attorney General for Hawaii, has petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Lloyd C. Duncan, former navy yard worker who was sentenced to six months in the Honolulu city-county jail by a Provost Court for assault and battery of two marine navy yard sentries.

Anthony contended that martial law was no longer necessary and that the provost court no longer has legal standing.

Nimitz and Richardson responded that conviction and sentencing of Duncan "where and are necessary for the prosecution in the Territory of Hawaii by the United States of the war against the Empire of Japan." They did not amplify their statement about the continued danger of invasion.

Showdown Test Expected

The case is expected to be a showdown test of the scope and status of martial law in the territory. The United States Attorney General and the War Department sent representatives here to enter the case.

Edward J. Ennis, representative for the attorney general, appeared last October for General Richardson, who was found in contempt by Federal Judge Delbert E. Metzger for refusing to release two internees of German descent on a habeas corpus writ.

Richardson's fine of $5,000 was reduced to $100 and the habeas corpus writs were discharged when the judge was informed the two men had been released and sent to the mainland.

JAPS AT TRUK HIT IN 2 HEAVY RAIDS

MAR 31 1944

Shops, Hangar Areas Blasted, 49 Enemy Planes Destroyed on Ground.

STANLEY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Friday, March 31—(AP) Gen. Douglas MacArthur's heavy bombers smashed at Japanese bases at Truk, in the Caroline islands, and Hollandia, northern New Guinea, Wednesday and destroyed 172 enemy planes.

In the first bombing of Truk from the south Pacific, Liberator heavy bombers at midday pierced heavy Japanese anti-aircraft fire to score more than 200 direct hits on shop and hangar areas and parking aprons, and to destroy 49 enemy planes on the ground.

NIGH

90 Japs Attack Raiders

The attack was centered on Eten island in the Truk atoll. Ninety intercepting Zeros challenged the Liberators, which downed from five to 20 of the enemy planes as they harassed the raiders for 45 minutes during the flight back to base. The attackers lost only one plane.

Hollandia was hit by two waves of Liberators, one Tuesday night around midnight and another Wednesday, during daytime. The bombers, from southwest Pacific bases, smashed 108 enemy planes on the ground.

The Japanese put 40 intercepting fighters in the air and lost 10 for certain and seven more probably to the Allied gunners. The attackers' losses were listed as "moderate" in Gen. MacArthur's communique.

Hollandia has been strengthened by the Japanese since Wewak, farther down the coast to the east, has been virtually eliminated by Allied bombers as an operational base.

Second Raid on Truk

The south Pacific bombers' attack on Truk preceded by one day an assault by central Pacific heavy bombers of the 7th Army Air force. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported that the Thursday attack (Truk time) of the 7th A.A.F. also hit Eten island, and included Moen island in the atoll as well, starting large fires.

In an earlier communique Gen. MacArthur reported that Navy Catalina bombers had struck at Woleai island in the Carolines Tuesday night. The Japanese have a seaplane base and airfield at Woleai, which is 380 miles south of Guam, American possession occupied by the Japanese.

MacArthur reported other aerial activities, in which Allied bombers struck at Japanese installations around the Bismarck sea.

Ninety tons of explosives set fire to installations at Rabaul, New Britain, and 95 tons were dropped on Wewak, northeastern New Guinea. Many buildings were destroyed at Wewak, only remaining important enemy base in the Bismarck sea area.

Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, and Hansa bay on the New Guinea coast, were raided again, and Babo, on the south shore of McCluer gulf at the western end of Dutch New Guinea, received another of several recent visits by Allied bombers. Kavieng, New Ireland, also was bombed.

The communique announced for the first time a loss of Allied surface craft possibly as the result of bombings by Allied planes or ships.

P-T Boats Lost

Two P-T boats were sunk the morning of March 27 while operating in the open bay area on the northeastern New Britain coast. Preliminary indications were that the speedy little boats were sunk by fire from Beaufighters and Warhawks.

The communique said possibly "friendly planes, failing to recognize identification signals, may mistakenly have attacked" the boats.

Loss of a third P-T boat off Bougainville as the result of a hit by a shell from an American destroyer also was reported in the communique.

A headquarters spokesman said seven men were reported lost in the Open bay mishap and the communique said four were reported lost when the P-T boat was hit off Bougainville.

U. S. PLANES ATTACK JAP BASE AT TRUK

Washington, March 30 (A. P.).—Liberator bombers of the Seventh United States Air Force, attacking the Japanese base at Truk despite a heavy anti-aircraft fire, bombed two islands in the lagoon at that enemy stronghold last night, starting large fires, the Navy reported today. The big bombers hit the islands of Eten and Moen within the protective reefs surrounding Truk.

The Pacific Fleet announcement also told of another raid by a Navy plane on Ponape Island, east of Truk, in which fires were started in a hangar area; and of an attack by dive bombers on Ujelang Island, where gun positions and Japanese buildings were strafed. Meanwhile, other planes carried out raids, which have become almost daily occurrences, against Japanese-held positions in the Eastern Marshall Islands, setting afire oil storage tanks and damaging enemy airfields, it was stated.

revealed that the cameras were installed at the bomber-modification center here, and gave this account of operations.

Carry Three Cameras

The Liberator camera ships carry three cameras in the nose and three in the bomb bays, each trio capable of taking three pictures simultaneously, one directly down and two at angles of 30 degrees from the horizontal so that at 30,000 feet a composite picture can be taken from horizon to horizon, or approximately 185 miles wide.

This setup makes it possible to photograph an area of twice as many square miles as the plane is thousands of feet in the air. At 20,000 feet, a 40-square-mile area can be covered, which means that a single plane traveling 200 miles an hour can photograph 8,000 square miles per hour with 40 seconds between exposures.

Recent Developments

Recent developments have made it possible, officials said, for these cameras to distinguish mountains, rivers and lakes at the tip of the horizon, mainly for mapping. And 40-inch telephoto cameras, at 30,000 feet, can record an area of six square miles so clearly that pictures will show the difference between light and medium tanks, number of troops, conditions of roads and bridges and will even distinguish men moving about the ground.

The camera ships carry the standard amount of armor for a Liberator bomber and have ten .50-caliber guns. The two planes on the Truk mission battled freak tropical storms, including heavy icing and snow condition, and yet completed the assignment successfully.

First of the ships was prepared last fall and developments since that time have made it possible for American flyers to study in minute detail the targets to be hit. They have been used both in the European and Pacific theaters.

'Super-Eye' Camera Planes Paved Way For Truk Raids

St. Paul, March 30 (AP)—Two special Liberator bombers, equipped with six "super-eye" cameras in place of bombs, prepared the way for the recent spectacular bombing of the Japanese naval base at Truk, it was disclosed here today through permission of the War and Navy departments.

'First Lady' Does Well In Mud

Saidor Sector, New Guinea, March 30 (AP)—On her recent visit to Australia, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt climbed into an army tank for a look.

"It doesn't seem that such a monster possibly could be any good in the jungle mud," she commented to Maj. Gen. William Gill as they walked away.

The tank's crew didn't forget her visit. They painted a name on their machine: The First Lady.

New Guinea Battle

From Australia the scene changed to New Guinea's battle-scarred north coast. Japanese snipers, machine gunners and mortar-fire experts had dug in on the west bank of the Mot. From the east side 32d Division troops tried to cross. Several companies made it to the opposite ridge only to fall back under enemy fire.

"Send for the tanks," General Gill ordered. Up the jungle trail came the tanks, their steel tracks biting into the mud. Leading them was The First Lady. The tanks sent volley after volley across the river and with artillery blew Japanese positions sky high.

Foe Was Silenced

General Gill watched gunners lay shell after shell into the enemy until all was quiet on the opposite bank. Spearhead unit shoved across the Mot.

Inspection showed mangled enemy dead and battered gun emplacements in positions The First Lady had been firing upon.

For its work, the crew had been commended by General Gill, testifying that these monste s can be good in muddy jungles.

FASHION SHOW STAGED FOR G. I.'S

Somewhere in New Guinea, March 30 (A. P.).—When American Red Cross girls asked G. I.'s at a New Guinea base what sort of show they would like to see more than anything else, the popular answer was: "A fashion show with real American girls wearing the latest American styles."

So last night they got it. Wearing everything from play suits to evening gowns, the Red Cross girls appeared before a crowd of New Guinea veterans.

While the mistress of ceremonies described one gown as "the ultimate in sophistication," a soldier in the last row sang out: "And she looks good, too."

General Commends Signal Building Unit

The Virginians are Corporal Technician Arthur M. Atkinson, Hanover; Pfc. Arthur C. Hogan, Roanoke; Private Charles E. Bise, Saltville, and Private William N. Green, Bland.

The commendation stated that the daily observation of progress made by the company has been "a source of pride to the commanding general."

Tokyo Raids Inevitable

New York, March 30 (AP)—The Japanese people have been warned by Gen. Kensuke Fujiye that Allied air raids on Tokyo are inevitable and that the "state of affairs" there is "truly urgent," the Tokyo radio said today in a broadcast reported by United States Government monitors.

The broadcast said that Fujiye, on assuming the post of head of the eastern defense command, had issued a statement calling upon "all those in the capital, whether they are with the Government or are civilians," to "be really united" in defending Tokyo to their best efforts.

SATELLITE NATIONS GET NEW WARNING TO ABANDON AXIS

Nazi Defense Covering Balkan Frontier Is Smashed, Says Stalin.

HUNGARIANS SURRENDER

300 Troops Yield, Rumanian Infantry Company Also Quits.

LONDON, Friday, March 31—(AP) Battering down the barriers of Hitler's cringing satellite states, the Red army yesterday seized Czernowitz, German fortress that had guarded the path to Rumania and Hungary, and climbed up the Prut river banks into the Carpathian mountains to a point only 15 miles from the Hungarian-held corner of Czechoslovakia.

After storming Czernowitz and smashing its large German garrison, the Russians raced on through Storozhints, 11 miles to the south.

Troops Poised on Prut

No move beyond the 1941 Soviet borders was reported, although Soviet troops remained poised along the Prut where it forms the Rumanian frontier southeast of Czernowitz, and broadened their grip on the north bank.

Enhancing a plainly implied bid to Hungary and Rumania to turn against Hitler or be invaded, the Soviet midnight communique told of surrenders by units of both countries' troops and the rout of others.

Hungarian Seventh division regiments helping Germans defend Tlumach in the Carpathian foothills were routed, the communique said, while 300 Hungarians surrendered.

Rumanian Cavalry Routed

On the Ukraine front south and east of Byeltsi a large detachment of Rumanian cavalry was routed, losing more than 200 horses while a Rumanian infantry company surrendered, the Russians announced.

The bid to the foe was clear: Yield or be destroyed.

The bloodiest single action of the day as described by the Russian communique was annihilation of German groups encircled in the forest east of Mynkovtsy, 28 miles northeast of Kamenets Podolsk. There 2,000 of the enemy died and many were captured, the Russians said. Other advances in the sector all but wiped out the Kamenets Podolsk pocket on which the Russians have been squeezing for several days.

All along the line the story was one of Germans killed, captured or fleeing so fast they abandoned their cannon still in firing position.

Odessa Grip Tightened

In ground gained, the most significant thrust was on the east side of the big "box" of German-held territory enclosing Odessa. There the Russians showed advances up to 20 miles east of Voznesensk and said they were breaking into the retreating German formations, killing many.

The announcement of German destruction also served as a warning to Rumania and Hungary, and Marshal Stalin himself pointed out the threat in an order of the day describing captured Czernowitz as "an important economic and political center of northern Bucovina and a powerful strongpoint in the German defenses of the river Prut covering the approaches to the frontiers of Hungary and Rumania."

The city was taken by storm after street fighting that began yesterday, and the Russians immediately spread out to take nearby villages, thrusting 14 miles southwest to capture Storozhints, only seven miles from the Rumanian-Russian border delimited in 1940. The Germans acknowledged a withdrawal.

For the fourth day since they reached the Prut river boundary of Rumania south of Czernowitz, the Russians refrained from crossing into Rumania proper, still leaving the door open for Rumania to chuck her German alliance and invite the Red army in. The Russian hold on the boundary stream was extended to a total of more than 80 miles.

This respite meant no slackening in the general Russian drive, however.

Push on in Poland

Soviet troops pushed unchecked westward into the southeastern corner of old Poland and towards the old Czech border—now Axis-Hungarian—at several points, the nearest being Delatyn, 15 miles from Tatar pass that forms the boundary and is one of the few crossings in that region.

A railway runs up the mountain-flanked Prut river valley from Delatyn to the Czech border city of Korosmezo.

In the same vicinity the Russians captured Tysmyenitsy, six miles east of Stanislau, where the Germans said a great battle was raging, and Tlumach and Nadvornaya, 22 miles north and 20 northwest, respectively, of the already-captured city of Kolomea.

Of perhaps greater strategical importance than these tactical victories was the Soviet announcement that the railway from Pervomaisk, deep in the Ukraine, to Byeltsi more than 150 miles westward, now has been entirely cleared of Germans, opening it to Russian use.

This route should greatly simplify the supply problem for the troops now on the Rumanian border as well as for those still pressing southward to smash in the big swath of territory in the Odessa region still held by the Germans.

Capture of the towns of Rybnitsa and Lubashovka contributed to freeing the line.

In the far south the Russians announced they had hurdled the Bug river estuary from Nikolaev and taken the town of Varvarovka, on the west bank just above Nikolaev, along with 60 other villages.

This was a further advance into the great semicircle around Odessa, the contracting edges of which are rapidly becoming the "Odessa inferno."

Altogether, on the far-flung fronts, the Russians reported they had freed more than 420 localities, more than 100 of them in the Czernowitz region.

The greatest inroad into the German "box" in the Odessa sector was carved west and south of the Bug River town of Voznesensk. In that thrust the Russians regained more than 150 localities. On the other side they gained fifty more places by a push down the Prut River and took sixty more at the top of the Odessa front, southwest of Pervomaisk.

The drive across the Bug estuary from Nikolaev was intended to head off Nazis trying to escape along the Black Sea coast to Odessa.

German reports yesterday stressed the growing weight of Russian assaults west of Kovel on the road to Brest-Litovsk, and west of Brody, one of the last strongholds keeping the Russians back from Lwow.

The Polish Ministry of Information in London issued a report from its European underground sources, saying the Germans now had nearly completed evacuation of Lwow, Brody and Stanislau and that routes westward were jammed with military equipment being moved out.

London, March 30 (A. P.).—Czernowitz, capital of Bucovina and gateway to the Balkans, has fallen to the Red Army's advance, Premier Stalin announced tonight a few hours after Berlin acknowledged German evacuation of the strategic city.

Russian forces had broken into this third largest city of pre-war Rumania from the north and west after forcing the Prut River. The city, which lies seventeen miles north of present-day Rumania, is astride the rail line extending northwest to Lwow, in old Poland, and south to Iasi (Jassy), Galatz on the Danube, and the oil center of Ploesti.

Its capture cut the Germans off from their supply bases in pre-war Poland and split the southern German armies off from those of the central and eastern Ukrainian front.

Stalin Contradicts Nazi Claim.

In his order of the day broadcast from Moscow Stalin said the city had been captured by storm —a statement denying the German announcement it had been evacuated. He termed it an important economic and political center of northern Bucovina and a powerful strong point of German defenses on the River Prut covering the approaches to the frontiers of Hungary and Rumania.

He ordered a twenty-artillery salvo salute from 224 guns to thunder out over Moscow tonight in celebration.

The early German announcement had admitted also that "German troops disengaged themselves" from the lower Bug River on the eastern approaches to Odessa, but as usual claimed this was done without enemy interference.

Advance on Carpathians.

Other Russian forces were driving through the Carpathian foothills toward the northern frontier of Czecho-Slovakia, following the capture of Kolomea, Prut River town on the main Berlin-Lwow-Bucharest Railway forty-five miles northeast of Czernowitz.

Indicating another Russian threat to Lwow in old Poland, the Berlin broadcast said that heavy fighting was under way with advance Red Army formations in the area of Stanislau, about seventy miles below Lwow and only forty miles from the old border of Czecho-Slovakia on the Lwow-Bucharest rail line.

Another Berlin broadcast said the Russians were throwing fifteen rifle divisions and three tank corps, upward of 175,000 men, into the battle for the White Russian pathways to the Baltics in new smashes at the 100-mile German arc between Vitebsk and Chausy. It said the new offensive had been unable to gain ground, however.

Advance units of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First Ukrainian Army were reported less than thirty miles from the famous Pass of the Tatars leading across the Carpathians into Carpatho-Ukraine, taken over from Czechoslovakia by Hungary in Hitler's re-shufflement of the Balkans.

Severing of the Berlin-Lwow-Bucharest railway by Marshal Zhukov's troops cut the last German rail supply line to Czernowitz and the entire southern front, dispatches said, rendering still more critical the position of Field Marshal Von Mannstein's armies struggling to escape the Russians closing in from the north, east and south.

Street Fighting in Czernowitz.

Driving into Czernowitz from two directions, the Russians thrust across a Prut River bridge from the north bank into the outskirts of the city while other motorized forces forced a crossing further to the west. Both groups drove into the town at the same time and proceeded to drive the Nazi garrison from street to street.

One hundred and seventy miles to the east, meanwhile, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukrainian Army stormed Balta, southern Ukraine city 115 miles northwest of the Black Sea port of Odessa, toward which other Russian forces are driving on a 215-mile semi-circular front extending from captured Nikolaev to the Dniester River.

German positions in the area above Odessa appeared to be collapsing as columns of Russian troops smashed down on them from three directions—from Balti (Baltshi), Balta and Vozhesensk —to capture more than 150 occupied places.

More than 2,000 Germans died in the futile attempt to hold Balta, the Moscow war bulletin said. Another 2,000 were killed as Konev's troops ploughed through Nazi defenses south of Yarmolintsi.

Rumania's "Last Chance"

Konev's main army remained poised on the eastern bank of the Prut river for the fourth day, apparently waiting to give Rumania a final chance to invite Russia into her territory as an ally. Supporting this belief was a Moscow dispatch quoting the newspaper Izvestia as urging Rumania, as well as Bulgaria, to resist the Germans and join the "democratic countries" before it is too late.

RUSSIANS EXPLAIN TIE WITH BADOGLIO

Declare Pact Remedied Reds' 'Unequal Position' In Italy

Moscow, March 30 (AP)—The Soviet newspaper Izvestia declared today the Soviet Union's recognition of the Badoglio Government in Italy was undertaken to establish direct relations with that Government and to put Russia on an equal basis with the United States and Great Britain.

Both Britain and the United States had enjoyed these direct relations, but not Russia, Izvestia said in a three-column, page-one editorial indicating displeasure at having been left out of British and American decisions in Italy.

Declaring the exchange did not necessarily establish diplomatic relations, but did establish "factual relations," Izvestia said the "unequal position" of Russia in Italy had been remedied by the act.

Allied Contacts Cited

It pointed out that the Allies had had many contacts in southern Italy with all factions, as well as military leadership there, while Russia had only a "few representatives connected with the consultative council on Italian questions."

Izvestia said democratic elements of Italy were for the immediate abdication of King Vittorio Emanuele and for replacing Badoglio's Government with another, and added flatly that "those liberal democrats are not going to be satisfied by the decisions of Great Britain and the United States."

It went on to say, however, that Badoglio's Government had declared its willingness to include new elements and there "should be no objection to this."

Wants Question Settled

Diplomats in Moscow interpreted all this as meaning that the Soviet wants the question settled at the first possible moment as to what kind of government will represent the Italian people, wants to have as much to say about it as either of its allies, and thus has put the question squarely up to London and Washington.

[Naples dispatches said Izvestia's pronouncements coincided with a conference of Italian Communist leaders with their chief, Palmiro Togliatti—he has gone under the name of M. Ercoli—who has just arrived from Moscow and who was expected to inform his subordinates in Italian Communism of the party line to be followed in future political action.

[The belief was expressed that the Communists might suspend their drive against the King and Badoglio for the time being and seek a reform of Badoglio's Government following the exile's return. It was suggested the Communists might even accept a post in the Badoglio Government.

Izvestia, referring to Prime Minister Churchill's declaration in the British House of Commons on February 22 that only in Rome could an Italian government with a solid foundation be formed, said "this opinion did not result from common decisions and discussions of the three Allied powers."

New York, March 30 (AP)—Forty German transport planes preparing to take off with key German personnel were destroyed on the ground by Soviet aviators at Cernauti shortly before that city fell to the Red army, the BBC said tonight.

Russ Minimize Badoglio Tie

Moscow, March 30 (AP)—A front-page editorial in the Government newspaper Izvestia explained today that the exchange of envoys with the Italian regime of Marshal Pietro Badoglio did not mean full recognition of his Government and, in effect, called on Britain and the United States for a change in the Government in Italy.

"The Italian question is one of the important problems confronting the Allies and it should be settled as soon as possible to help hasten victory over Germany," the editorial said.

Agreeable To Immediate Change

Izvestia expressed irritation with American and British newspapers which, it said, had interpreted the exchange of envoys as meaning Soviet support for undemocratic elements in Italy. It added the Soviet is willing to have immediate changes in the Badoglio Government without waiting for the occupation of Rome.

(Prime Minister Churchill told Commons recently that Britain expected to consider the Italian political situation anew when the Allies reached Rome.)

Parley Discussion Mentioned

Pointing out that British and American statesmen have declared this is not the correct time to raise the question of the monarchy's existence or the abdication of King Vittorio Emanuele, Izvestia said: "But it cannot be denied that this question was not discussed by all three Allied powers. . . ."

Referring to Churchill's declaration in the House that only in Rome could a solid Italian Government be formed, Izvestia said "this opinion did not result from common decisions and discussions of the three Allied powers."

Apparently Irritated By Eden

The editorial also showed irritation over Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's part in the Italian question. Recalling that he was questioned on March 22 whether the Russians had joined in the provisional agreement on the question of future changes in the Italian Government after the occupation of Rome and that he replied that the Russians did not express any dissatisfaction, the paper declared:

"Mr. Eden could have recalled that the British Government, as well as the American Government, received special representation on the necessity of unsuspended approval of the content of the Badoglio Government from the Soviet Government with the purpose of uniting Italian forces in the struggle against Hitler and Mussolini."

Russia, Japan Renew Fisheries Agreement

Moscow, March 30 (AP)—The Soviet Union renewed its fisheries pact with Japan today, granting Japanese companies the right to fish in Russian Far Eastern waters.

The 1943 pact expired December 31 and a renewal has been under negotiation since that time.

The signature indicated that Soviet-Japanese relations, which are based on the 1941 treaty of neutrality, remained unchanged. Last year's fishing agreement also was signed in March.

Russian Song Extols Deeds Of U. S. Bombers

Moscow, March 30 (AP)—Russia's first song praising an ally's aircraft or flyers is "The Song of the American Heavy Bombers" being sung here by a pretty redhead as the feature of a jazz band's program.

The program, entitled "Salute," also includes such famous Soviet songs as "Wide Is My Native Land," "The Stones of Sevastopol" and "Moscow."

Tito Repels New Nazi Drive

Repulses East Bosnia Attack, Pressing Assaults in Serbia

LONDON, March 30 (AP).—Partisan forces of Marshal Tito (Josip Broz) are standing off a new German offensive in East Bosnia and are pressing their own drive against the Nazis and other foemen in Serbia, a Free Yugoslav communique said tonight.

"On the Slovene Adriatic coast violent battles are in progress against German motorized columns moving into Hungary," the bulletin said.

The communique said the Germans had attacked Partisan forces near Bejeljina, in East Bosnia, but were "successfully repulsed" in violent battles.

RAF Hits French, Nazi Targets

London, March 30 (AP)—RAF Halifaxes attacked railway targets at Vaires, 15 miles east of Paris, and Lancasters again raided an engine works at Lyon in southern France last night while Mosquitos bombed Kiel, the Air Ministry announced. One bomber was lost.

It was the first time since Sunday night that the RAF's four-engined bombers had been out but it was their 12th attack of the month on French targets figuring importantly in Hitler's anti-invasion program.

Forts Hit Brunswick

The British night operation came after a day in which the United States Eighth Air Force sent Flying Fortresses against the Brunswick area of central Germany and Liberators to the Pas-de-Calais coast of France.

For the first time since March 23 German fighters gave serious battle as the Fortresses and their escort of Lightnings, Mustangs and Thunderbolts roared over the Brunswick region, vital Nazi aircraft producing center.

U. S. Downs 48 Nazis

A United States communique announced today that the American flyers had shot down 48 Nazi planes, escorting fighters accounting for 39 of the enemy and the heavy bombers for the remaining nine. Other enemy planes were shot up on the ground.

Nine United States bombers and nine fighters failed to return from all operations of the day, including the Pas-de-Calais foray.

Gentile Improves Score

The Brunswick bombing, carried out with instruments through a heavy overcast, was the 15th time this month that United States forces had attacked Germany from British bases and the 25th attack against all enemy targets, a communique said.

In the dogfights that dotted the skies around the Fortresses Capt. Don S. Gentile, of Piqua, Ohio, a Mustang pilot, shot down three of the enemy, raising his score to 21 and tying Major Walker Mahurin, of Fort Wayne, Ind., for second place among American aces in the European theater.

Two RAF Night Forces Out

London, Friday, March 31 (AP)—RAF heavy bombers headed out toward the continent last night in two great forces which took more than an hour to cross the English coast, and various German radio stations began filling the air with warnings.

One broadcast said one enemy formation is over the Rhine and another formation is over the northern part of the Eiffel area."

The Frankfurt radio left the air after warning: "Enemy bombers are heading toward us," and the last DNB announcement was "enemy formations are over Thuringia, central Germany and northern Bavaria." Those districts are on a line with Leipzig and Munich.

London Has Brief Alert

London itself had a brief alert early today and some gunfire was reported in suburban sections.

The RAF night action followed up daylight attacks by American Thunderbolts on German airfields in Holland and the Holland-German border region.

Thunderbolts used both bombs and guns in their attacks upon the airdromes. The United States Eighth Air Force heavy bombers took the day off.

One Thunderbolt was lost and one German plane was destroyed while attempting to land at one of the fields. This brought the total number of Nazi planes knocked out by the Americans in the last four days to at least 106.

No Air Opposition

The Thunderbolts which attacked objectives "at Eindhoven, near the Belgian border, and Soersterberg, near Utrecht, reported no enemy air opposition," headquarters announced.

This was the 25th operation of the month by the Eighth Air Force, of which all but two were made by Flying Fortresses and Liberators. Of the 23 major raids, 15 were directed at targets inside

Germany proper.

Locomotives and flak towers were shot up by the Thunderbolts en route to the Holland-German border targets and one pilot said eight enemy interceptors attempted to attack him, but were outmaneuvered.

The Thunderbolt attack came after a night which saw the RAF hit railway targets at Vaires and Lyons in France and Kiel in Germany.

Nazi Fields Damaged

The Eighth Air Force said American planes which struck Monday and Tuesday at 12 German airfields in occupied France, repair plants at Tours and Reims and a Focke-Wulf assembly plant at Bordeaux caused severe damage and destroyed at least 57 enemy aircraft.

A study of reconnaissance photos was said to show nine large hangars destroyed and 42 damaged, 11 medium hangars destroyed and 14 damaged, 11 workshops destroyed and 21 damaged and 33 miscellaneous buildings destroyed and 28 damaged.

New "Superfighter" Being Groomed By RAF

London, Friday, March 31 (AP)—The RAF soon will have a new "superfighter" with "more sensational performance than any now in use," according to an announcement circulated today to the London press.

The quasi-official announcement, not credited to any specific Government agency, said the plane "will be ready this spring."

It said an enormously powerful, highly supercharged engine fitted the plane for fine performance at great heights.

Asked for details, the press officer of the Ministry of Aircraft Production said neither his office nor the Air Ministry was ready to make an official announcement, but admitted the story as appearing in London morning papers had been sanctioned.

Simsbury, Conn., a pilot, and Lt. Leonard R. Burnette, Jr., of Ardmore, Okla., his co-pilot.

Wearing six-day beards, they related their experience from beds in this hospital to which they were brought for a rest. Both escaped injury and pronounced themselves "okay except a little weak from hunger and cold." Four companions, with whom they bailed out Saturday afternoon after their Marauder bomber was shot down by flak and German fighters, apparently drowned.

25 Miles From France

With one-third of the right wing knocked off and one engine shot up, Betts gave the bail-out order 25 miles off France and 75 miles from England. The pilot jumped just before the second and last engine quit and the bomber crashed.

Betts and Burnette landed together in fog and tied their one-man dinghies together. They heard a few yells and whistles from their unseen companions—then silence.

The sea battle which they estimated to have occurred 40 miles away was on Saturday night.

"It sounded like a hell of a battle with flashes, flares and guns booming," Betts said.

"Sunday about eight FW-190s and P147s got in a dogfight right over our heads, bullets splashed in waves around us."

"A Liberator formation passed over Sunday," Burnette related. "One salvoed a bomb which apparently had stuck. It landed about 200 yards away and exploded. It sure made us feel funny. I was wishing the Liberators would come down and see us—then all of a sudden they dropped the bomb."

Ration Water Supply

They rationed their meager supply of water, allotting themselves six drops each twice a day.

Betts only pretended to be drinking his share. He wanted to save more for Burnette who developed a fierce thirst after a wave washed salt water down his throat.

Drift Toward Coast

Unable to make headway with the sail they drifted slowly toward Nazi-occupied France. They passed the time praying, watching rescue planes and talking of their wives and other relatives.

The weather was mild during the day. Betts suffered a sunburn which dehydrated him and later necessitated a blood transfusion. At night it was so cold they stayed awake most of the time and kept moving to keep from freezing.

They were getting lightheaded when British planes rescued them Tuesday afternoon.

When the rescue plane approached, a half pint of water was still left. They joyfully gulped it down—half each.

They were transferred late today from a British hospital to this one near their base. Comfortable under heavy blankets, they ate a supper tonight consisting of shredded chicken and vegetables with gravy relish.

Simsbury Flier Drifts Three Days in Channel

AT A U. S. ARMY HOSPITAL IN ENGLAND, March 30—(AP) Two young bomber crewmen who drifted three days in the English channel with no food and only a pint of water told tonight how they witnessed a distant naval battle and aerial dogfight and narrowly escaped bombing by an American Liberator before they were rescued.

Confidence Vote Backs Churchill, 425 To 23

House Members "Eat Own Words" In Killing Teachers' Equal Pay Proposal

London, March 30 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill pulled a rebellious House of Commons into line today and won a 425-to-23 vote of confidence—his strongest showing since January, 1942—and served plain notice that he intended to run Britain's wartime program, both domestic and foreign, entirely or not at all.

Thus the House showed its solidarity behind the Churchill leadership on the eve of the planned invasion of western Europe even though, as many members put it, they had to eat their own words and "vote against something we were really for."

Staked On Minor Issue

Churchill had staked his Government's existence on a demand that the House kill an amendment to an education bill providing equal pay for men and women teachers, a comparatively minor domestic issue, which the Government had opposed but which had been passed in committee, 117 to 116.

Silent but smiling, Churchill strode from the chamber to ringing cheers after the overwhelming vote for the Government was announced.

A majority of London's morning newspapers chided Churchill in editorial cartoons.

Depicts "Shotgun Wedding"

Typically, the Daily Herald's cartoon pictured a gun-packing Prime Minister marching an Amazon - sized bride, labeled "Clause 82," and a midget groom, labeled "MP," down the aisle under the caption "Shotgun Wedding."

Critics commented that Churchill, having forced his confidence vote, now should state plainly his position on the pay issue.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express continued defending the Prime Minister, urging long and sober consideration of such a matter as "permanently establishing as part of our way of life equal pay for equal work."

Shows "Worrier Winston"

The Evening Standard cartooned the Prime Minister as "Warrior Winston, Liberator of Mankind," peering into a mirror showing "Worrier Winston, Leader of the Tory Party," but, whatever the political concerns which promoted his radio "fireside chat" Sunday appealing for support on the domestic front, they were not reflected in the vote he won today.

The victory, in a House packed with Government supporters who had been summoned urgently, was as expected, but a number of members were openly annoyed at being called to task over such a small issue.

Mrs. Cazalet Keir, Conservative who originally proposed the equal-pay amendment, told the members in advance of the vote:

"The Prime Minister has left no other possible choice open to us than to support him. In this vote of confidence I am going to vote against a clause embodying my own amendment, not because my views are changed at all on equal pay, but because more vital matters have been superimposed upon it.

"In this great democracy of ours convention for once seems to have overruled common sense."

Government supporters were included among many who took a similar stand.

"It would have been more in keeping with the traditions of Parliament," said Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, Conservative, "if the Government had introduced a measure in which the whole House could have shown their unbounded support of the Government in the war effort on a vote of confidence, and not put the House in the position it is today, in which members have to eat their own words and vote against the very measure they supported so recently."

Debate Limited

Several newspaper editorials were critical along the same lines.

Churchill briefly explained that he would offer no argument on the main issue because of limitation on debate. He engaged in a snappish exchange with James Maxton, Independent Laborite, who commented that "the Government will be very annoyed if there is no vote, after all the backwoodsmen turning out," waving toward the jammed Conservative benches.

Many women teachers were in the galleries. Their present salaries are 10 to 20 per cent. less than those of men teachers.

Richard A. Butler, Minister of Education, said the equal-pay amendment was unacceptable to the Government in the form presented, but that the Government did not oppose equal pay and that a committee now was working on a new scale.

30 Abstain From Voting

About 30 members abstained from voting, including Megan Lloyd George, daughter of the World War Prime Minister.

The "no confidence" votes were cast by 16 Labor members, including Aneurin Bevan and Dr. Edith Summerskill, a leading feminist; two Independents, one Independent Liberal, two Independent Labor and two Commonwealth members, including Sir Richard Acland, Commonwealth party leader.

The pro-Government Conservative turnout was believed to be 100 per cent.

Rebels who beat the Government Tuesday consoled themselves with having brought the equal-pay issue to the forefront, and it was reported Mrs. Keir would ask Churchill at the next sitting what he intended to do about it.

Confidence Vote Of 425-23 To Churchill

London, March 30 (AP)—Winston Churchill tonight won his eighth vote of confidence in four years, from a recalcitrant House of Commons openly vexed at being called to mark over a minor domestic issue but ready to show its continued support of the Government's overall program on the eve of a great new phase of Allied attack.

The division was 425 to 23—the Prime Minister's strongest showing since the first three virtually unanimous votes of confidence early in his leadership through the grim days of warfront reverses.

The House, packed with an urgently summoned turnout of Government supporters, cheered until the old chamber rang as the vote was announced.

Churchill left the hall a few minutes later, smiling.

Had Demanded Vote

He had won hands down as expected—won on a vote which he demanded to reverse his Government's one-ballot defeat (117-116) Tuesday night on a Government-opposed amendment providing equal pay for men and women teachers.

Churchill steadfastly refused to regard this as a domestic issue, and said he must have the support of the House all down the line or his Government would resign.

He thus forced Commons to reverse its stand on the education issue, in the face of several critical newspaper editorials and one opposition declaration from the floor that Churchill had turned Parliament into a rubber stamp.

"Common Sense Overruled"

Mrs. Cazalet Keir, who offered the equal-pay amendment in the first place, told the House:

"The Prime Minister has left no other possible choice open to us than to support him. In this vote of confidence I am going to vote against a clause embodying my own amendment not because my views are changed at all on equal pay—but because more vital matters have been superimposed upon it. In this great democracy of ours convention for once seems to have overruled common sense."

Many in the House, Government supporters among them, were plainly provoked at their position.

"It would be more in keeping with the traditions of Parliament," said Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, conservative, "if the Government had introduced a measure in which the whole House could have shown their unbounded support for the Government in the war effort on a vote of confidence, and not put the House in the position it is today, in which members have to eat their own words and vote against the very measure they supported so recently."

Cabinet Members Stand

Many women teachers looked on anxiously from the gallery. Under present wage scales, men teachers receive about 10 to 20 per cent. more than women. The government said it did not oppose equal pay, but believed action should be taken on the basis of findings by a committee now working out a new scale.

The House seats only 450 of its 615 members, and scores stood for the debate, among them cabinet ministers.

Cheers greeted Richard A. Butler, minister of education, when he declared that the equal pay amendment was unacceptable to the Government in the form presented.

Churchill spoke only once and briefly. That was to say that because of a limitation on debate he did not feel justified in offering any arguments on the main issue, but that he wished to "assure the House my not taking part in the debate is not due to any want of respect or a desire to shirk my duty."

CHURCHILL REAFFIRMS CHARTER'S PRINCIPLES

Tells Prodding M. P. They Remain 'Dominating Aim, Purpose'

LONDON, March 30 (AP)—"The Atlantic Charter and its principles remain our dominating aim and purpose," Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today under the prodding of R. W. Sorensen, Laborite.

Mr. Sorensen called upon the Prime Minister to express, along with the President of the United States, a more specific declaration on post-war economic reconstruction benefits for all peoples.

Mr. Churchill replied that he had nothing to add to his statement of March 22, but Mr. Sorensen, a former preacher, pleaded that disquiet existed over what were felt to be modifications in the charter and asked the Prime Minister to aid in restoring faith in those principles.

"I am always thinking about it, but there are others to be considered as well as the British Government," Mr. Churchill answered.

Back came Mr. Sorensen with: "Does that mean, therefore, they may be modified in view of the consideration of other people?"

This brought Mr. Churchill's declaration that the "Atlantic Charter and its principles remain our dominating aim and purpose."

EIRE WON VICTORY ON FOREIGN POLICY, G. B. SHAW WRITES

L. HAWKINS

LONDON, March 30 — (AP) "That powerless litlte cabbage garden called Eire" has won through against the great powers with a neutrality policy which once seemed "crack-brained," George Bernard Shaw writes in the current issue of the Scottish weekly "Forward."

Shaw called the United States' efforts to influence Irish policy "Mr. Roosevelt's first really stupid mistake" and predicted Prime Minister Eamon De Valera, with all Ireland behind him, "will tell the President in fact to go to hell; and he will get away with it again."

Shaw recalled that when the Irish Free State was established he assumed Britain would have to reoccupy it as a military necessity in the event of another great war, and that when Britain proved reluctant to do this because of its possible effect on the United States, he had suggested that Eire "should stand in with the commonwealth."

Shaw went on to say that De Valera "described the suggestion as contemptible and declared that with his army of 40,000. . . He would fight any and every power that dared to invade his country; this in the then quite possible event of Germany invading Eire on the west and south and England necessarily throwing in an army on the north and east."

Such a development, Shaw wrote, might have obliged De Valera to "fight the British commonwealth and the German Reich with his three divisions unless they allowed him to intern their puissant armies."

"It seemed a crack-brained line to take, yet Mr. De Valera got away with it.

"England, still with an eye on America, pocketed his refusal of ports and decided to be content with Northern Ireland. Thus he was saved by the partition which he abhorred.

"Pearl Harbor changed the situation completely. The U.S.A. came thundering into the war and now it is not Mr. Churchill asking for ports and putting up with a defiant refusal, but President Roosevelt peremptorily ordering Mr. De Valera to declare war on Germany at once."

(The United States asked that Eire oust Axis representatives in a position to do espionage against the Allies.)

Predicting De Valera's "go to hell" response, Shaw went on to write, "Can it be that Mr. Roosevelt is overworked and is catching too many colds? Or is he determined to show that the U.S.A. can be as unilateral in respect of Ireland as the Soviet in respect of Poland, Finland and Italy?"

SHAW OFFERS GIFT FOR NEW ALPHABET

MAR 31 1944

London, March 30 (A. P.).—George Bernard Shaw declared today that he was willing to bequeath his entire fortune to establish a new forty-two-letter English alphabet which would represent all speech sounds in the language.

In a letter to the London Times indorsing Basic English, Shaw said he had used the alphabet—which he himself devised—for years to save time in his own writing.

"If only the British Government were as intelligent as I am!" he jibed. "We have no English alphabet. English speech has forty-two sounds which must be spellable before the language can be written or read intelligently. To do this with twenty-six letters we have to resort to permutations and combinations."

Describing the time-saving advantage of his proposed system, Mr. Shaw said that only a fraction of a second is lost if a man spells "though" with six letters instead of two, but that fraction should be multiplied by the total time lost throughout the British Empire and North America.

"The fact that Russia, with her thirty-five-letter alphabet, can spell my name with two letters instead of four may conceivably make it impossible for us to compete economically with Russia," he said. "I am ready to bequeath all I possess (if war taxation leaves me anything to bequeath) to establish a new forty-two-letter alphabet with it. I have saved years by using the alphabet for my own works, but they all have to be transcribed and typed and set-up and printed in Phoenician, so nobody's time is saved except my own."

BRITISH UNCOVER A-A ROCKET GUNS

A SOUTHERN ENGLAND COASTAL TOWN, Friday, March 31—(AP) Pour the roar of a thousand Niagaras together, coat them with high octane gasoline, touch a match to this and beat a tattoo on your chest with a couple of sledge hammers.

H. COWAN

This will give you an idea of the way a fellow feels standing alongside a group of mechanical scare crows spouting $10,000 worth of anti-aircraft rockets into the sky.

It happened last night to about 40 newsmen invited to a demonstration by British Gen. Sir Frederick Pile, chief of the anti-aircraft command.

Gen. Pile predicted that the rocket was destined to replace heavy ack-ack guns altogether. The latter have about reached their maximum ceiling, he said, and the rockets have not.

The two-men crews handling the rocket guns at this base are workers and coppersmiths who labor at their crafts in the day time and then don home guard uniforms at night.

They are aided by girls in the home guard who do the plotting and predicting of the course of enemy aircraft.

Rockets are more accurate than is generally believed, Gen. Pile insisted. They can be controlled enough to allow for wind and give the target a lead.

And they are accurate enough that British night fighters often are in action right above the death dealing pattern bursting in the sky.

U. S. Army Units On Parade Win High Praise In London

KASISCHKE — MAR 31 1944

London, March 30 (AP) — The American army's "Salute the (British) Soldier" parade today turned into a "Salute the Doughboy" affair as the London press lauded the march through Trafalgar Square.

Britons long have accepted the fact that Americans do things in a big way, but this mile-and-a-half procession of soldiers, WACs, bands, machines and guns set London reporters reaching for superlatives.

"Londoners' opinion of the American army stripped for battle and showing its magnificent range of armaments leaped to the skies when they watched the parade," said the Daily Star. ". . . Every man looked trained down to fighting fit, and the demeanor of all detachments under the critical eyes of Londoners left nothing to be desired. As for spit and polish, our guards could have done no better."

"London Has New Slogan"

"It was a huge parade—and then some," said the Evening Standard, "and London had a new slogan—'Salute the Doughboy.' There were so many of them it was easier to believe than to count them."

The press praised all of the units, especially the "smart-looking" WACs, the Star noting "there was not a single platinum blonde among them and everyone wore silk stockings precisely the same shade."

The parade obviously pleased the staid Londoners, but they were not to be cajoled out of their non-cheering tradition. Kids whooped, however, for the tanks bearing such names as "Exterminator" and "Annihilator."

There was a scattering of hand-clapping when the first Americans moved into Trafalgar Square, when the Stars and Stripes passed, when a large contingent of Negro troops moved by and when the parade ended—about the same audible enthusiasm usually aroused by British parades.

Londoners Do Not Cheer

Londoners just do not cheer—"not even for the Queen."

The parade was the American contribution to "Salute The Soldier Week"—Britain's fourth big war savings campaign.

Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, deputy commander of American forces in the European theater, took the salute in Trafalgar Square.

Earlier, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, in a proclamation issued as part of the program, called on the United Nations to "live and work together regardless of race or nationality, creed or service, uniform or rank."

"We must fight on relentlessly, side by side, so that we will win together a better world, secure and free for all men everywhere," the Allied supreme commander said.

U. S. Troops, WACs March In London

London, March 30 (AP) — Three thousand American soldiers and WACs staged the biggest parade they ever put on in London in a mile-and-one-half procession today as the feature of the United States forces day of the Salute-The-Soldier Week—Britain's fourth big war-savings campaign.

Led by fast tanks, tanks, big guns and floats carrying planes, the Americans paraded across Westminster bridge past the House of Parliament and into Trafalgar Square as thousands of Londoners applauded. Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, deputy commander of American forces in the European area, took the salute in Trafalgar Square.

Eisenhower Proclamation

Earlier Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, in a proclamation issued as part of the ceremonies, called on the United Nations to "live and work together regardless of race or nationality, creed or service, uniform or rank."

"We must fight on relentlessly, side by side, so that we will win together a better world, secure and free for all men everywhere," Eisenhower said.

The London County Council later gave a luncheon in honor of the American forces.

Nazis Admit Loss Of Outstanding Ace

London, March 30 (AP)—The German high command acknowledged today the loss of one of its greatest aces; Colonel Wilke, in an air battle presumably with British or American flyers over western Europe.

Colonel Wilke, who claimed to have shot down 151 planes, was one of the German air force's "most eminent fighter pilots and squadron leaders," said the German communique. He was the holder of the Oak Leaves with Swords to the Knight's insignia of the Iron Cross.

SOLDIERS ORDERED TO GIVE UP DIARIES

LONDON, March 30—(AP) An order calling in all diaries kept by Allied soldiers in the European theater of operations was issued tonight by the censor's office in a pre-western front tightening of the rules.

The diaries will be stored by the chief base censor for the duration of the war. They were called in, an official said, because it has been found that men in combat "have a habit of keeping diaries in their pockets where they are liable to be captured by the enemy." The information written in them sometimes is of military value.

Among other things banned is the playing of chess by transAtlantic mail. It was explained this was done to prevent enemy agents from employing such mediums to get code messages across the Atlantic.

The new security rules also ban correspondence with lonely hearts clubs back home and indulging in chain letters and round-robin circulars.

'FDR' In Service Paper Headlines Criticized

London, March 30 (AP)—A memorandum suggesting that headline writers of the Stars and Stripes cease referring to President Roosevelt as "FDR" and use "CINC" or some other term was delivered to the soldier paper last week in the name of Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, but since has been withdrawn.

Stars and Stripes staff members declined to discuss the matter for publication. However, one source who preferred not to be named said the memorandum followed a conference of high-ranking officers at which there was comment that "FDR" recurred monotonously in the headlines and was not in particularly good taste.

Several "FDR's" were in the paper today.

Britain Warned of Future War

LONDON, March 30 (AP).—R. W. Sorensen, Laborite, suggested today in the House of Commons that "in view of the possibility of another war . . . provision for construction of bomb-proof shelters should at least be considered" during the post-war building period. Home Secretary Herbert S. Morrison replied that "such considerations form part of the general security policy of the country in peace and would not be lost sight of."

London Invokes Draft As 115,000 Stay on Strike

25,000 Shipyard Apprentices Lose Deferments

LONDON, March 30 (AP).—With more than 115,000 workmen idle in a series of spreading strikes, the harried British government cracked down today by issuing military draft papers for 25,000 apprentices striking at northern shipyards. The government asserted their walkout to gain exemption from possible drafting into jobs at coal mines voided their military deferment as essential workers.

The strikes spread to three more coal pits today, raising to 70,000 the number of miners who have walked out of jobs at fifty pits in Yorkshire in a dispute over a 40-cent weekly deduction in pay for coal used at home.

In Belfast 20,000 shipyard engineering workers, out for weeks, were ordered by their union to return to work but showed no inclination to respond.

Finnish Army Recalls All Troops On Leave

London, Friday, March 31 (AP)—The Finnish army has canceled all leaves and soldiers away from their posts have been recalled, London morning papers said in Stockholm dispatches quoting the Morgen Tidningen.

The report created surprise in Stockholm, the dispatches said, with most observers expressing a belief that the move was not directed against Russia.

The correspondents all indicated that Russian-Finnish talks are again under way and that Britain and the United States have persuaded the Soviets to forego preparations and to delay occupation of Karelia.

FINNS REPORTED TRYING FOR PEACE

Stockholm, March 30 (A. P.).—Finland's veteran peace emissary, Juho K. Passikivi, was reported off today for another try at arranging a Finnish-Russian armistice.

Reliable reports filtering through the tight Finnish censorship said that Mr. Passikivi may already have made contact with Russian representatives, possibly in Moscow. All efforts to locate him either at his home in Finland or in Stockholm in the last few days have failed.

It was in Stockholm that Mr. Passikivi, who negotiated the peace that ended the Finnish-Soviet war in 1940, first met Russian diplomats February 16 to hear Moscow's six points for getting out of the war. Premier Edwin Linkomies's Government informed Moscow two weeks ago that it could not accept the terms, but it is known that peace advocates have remained active in Helsinki.

According to some reliable reports current here the Russians would like to see Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustav Mannerheim, the Finnish commander-in-chief, and Reinhold Svento, ardent Socialist advocate of peace, as members of any Finnish peace delegation along with Mr. Passikivi.

Copenhagen Buildings Taken Over By Nazis

Stockholm, March 30 (AP)—German authorities have requisitioned many buildings around the Danish Royal Palace at Copenhagen where it is understood several bombed-out German ministries will be quartered, the free Danish press service reported today.

The castle at present is the residence of the Crown Prince, but the King lives at Sorgenfri, outside the city.

Stockholm, March 30 (A. P.).—Several Hungarian daily newspapers, including three of Budapest's largest — Pesti Hirlap, Nepszava and Magyar Nemzet—have been banned since the German occupation of Hungary, the Axis-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau reported today from Berlin.

The Nazi press had declared the Budapest papers spread defeatism and contained too many Jews on their staffs.

SOFIA RAIL-YARDS RAIDED AGAIN BY BIG U. S. BOMBERS

Bulgarian Capital Hit Before It Recovers From R.A.F. Attack.

FIGHTERS SWEPT ASIDE

Powerful Escort Guards Fortresses, Liberators in Record Attack.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 30—(AP) Explosive-scarred Sofia was blasted from the air today for the second time in 24 hours by the largest force of heavy bombers ever sent against a single target from Mediterranean bases.

Both U. S. Fortresses and Liberators participated in the new assault and reached the Bulgarian capital while it still was smoking from a heavy blow last night by R.A.F. Liberators and Wellingtons.

Fighter Opposition Strong

Fighter opposition was fairly strong over the city, returning fliers reported, and the bombers and their escort of Lightning and Thunderbolt fighters destroyed several enemy interceptors.

The attack was directed at Sofia's vital railroad yards through which passes the main line from Berlin to Istanbul, Turkey, and other Balkan points. However, other targets in the capital also were hit.

The bombing set off huge explosions and crews reported smoke rose 10,000 feet as they left and the "choke points" of the rail yards were completely blanketed by their bombs.

One navigator, Lt. Charles McCarthy, West Springfield, Mass., commented, "The town was smoking from earlier attacks when we got there and it was on fire when we left."

A Lightning outfit—the 82nd fighter group, commanded by Lt Col. William P. Litton of Shaw Miss.—passed its 400th victory mark on the raid.

Yugoslav Ports Hit

Smaller formations of Fortresses and Liberators carried out a diversionary attack on two of Yugoslavia's principal ports—Split and Mostar.

The R.A.F. fliers who made last night's raid also reported good coverage of the Sofia rail yards and said they started two great fires.

In all, the Allies flew 1,800 sorties compared with 120 for the Germans. They destroyed 22 planes and lost 11.

The Allied communique dismissed action on the Cassino sector with a one-sentence, seven-word reference to patrol activity.

Artillery and mortar fire continued to stir dust in the dead town and patrols pushed their way up and down the rocky hills to the northwest, but the big push was suspended as the lessons of a futile battle were studied.

The Anzio-Nettuno beachhead also remained moderately quiet, with less artillery fire. Two small raids by German forces on the left flank were thrown back with little effort. There was a flurry of patrol activity on the long dormant Eighth army front inland from the Adriatic.

In Italy more than a score of aerial targets were listed, several in the Rome vicinity. Harbors at Leghorn and Porto Ferraio on the Napoleonic island of Elba came under the sights of Marauder medium bombers. Invader dive bombers struck the docks at Civitavecchia and San Stefano.

Railway Targets Hit

The railway at Togi, 55 miles north of Rome, and bridges at Spoleto, 55 miles northeast of the capital, were targets, as were the airfield and an overpass near Viterbo. Still other planes made sweeps off the Dalmatian coast.

presumably in another attack on the capital's rail yards and outlying airfields, but there was no Allied confirmation of a raid on the capital today.

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 30 (AP)—Fifth army forces repelled two small enemy attacks on the Anzio beachhead yesterday while Allied planes ranged far and wide over Italy, hitting targets in the Rome, Turin and Bolzano areas and sweeping across the Adriatic to bomb Sofia.

The communique made no reference to the Cassino front.

The attack on Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, was carried out last night by formations of both heavy and medium bombers, a communique said.

Airdrome Pounded

In addition to assaults on rail lines in northern Italy by large formations of escorted bombers, air operations yesterday included medium bomber sweeps against the Viterbo airdrome north of Rome and harbor and rail installations in northwest Italy.

Twenty-two enemy aircraft were destroyed during the day's operations against an Allied loss of 11. The Mediterranean Allied Air Force flew approximately 1,800 sorties during the day.

Field dispatches said German tanks in Cassino again tried the strength of Allied defenders in the Continental Hotel area, but Fifth Army artillery dispersed them. A German patrol crossed the Rapido river south of the town but withdrew when Allied forces engaged it.

Traffic Blocked

Reconnaissance indicated heavy damage to railway yards at Milan, Turin and Bolzano by heavy bombers with traffic probably impossible at Milan. The yards were temporarily blocked at Turin and Bolzano.

It was the first daylight attack on Milan by bombers based in this theater and the second attack on the great industrial center in 12 hours.

Beachhead Unit Repels 2 Jabs

New York, March 30 (AP)—The German-controlled Rome radio said that "enemy air formations" had bombed Rome's outskirts this morning. The broadcast was recorded by the United States foreign broadcast intelligence service.

Allied headquarters in Naples announced that bombers had hit the Rome area yesterday,

New York, March 30 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Barnard C. Freyberg, commander of New Zealand troops at Cassino, was reported in a British broadcast tonight recorded by NBC and CBS monitors to have messaged Prime Minister Churchill:

"We share the town of Cassino with German parachutists. They have been severely mauled and our own losses have not been light."

Cassino No Test of Power Of Allies, Says Stimson

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP) Acknowledging Allied failure at Cassino, War Secretary Stimson said today that "the simple fact is the Germans stopped us," but he added:

"No one made this a test of Allied power."

The secretary devoted part of his news conference to a discussion of the efforts to drive the Nazis from the bomb-rubbled town that straddles the road to Rome. The fighting has subsided, he said, "without achieving the results for which we had hoped."

He coupled with the statement, however, his own reemphasis that Allied forces already have attained major objectives in the Italian campaign: Knocking Italy out of the war, capturing her fleet, occupying vital airports and pinning 19 German divisions to the Italian front, thus keeping them out of the Russian fighting.

"I say this," Secretary Stimson told reporters, "not to minimize the obvious facts of the Cassino action but to keep that action in a proper perspective. Despite Cassino, the final chapter of the story has not yet been written."

Secretary Stimson said the fierce Nazi resistance at Cassino — still more than strong enough to fight off the Allies despite terrific air bombardments of the fortress town, has shown that the Germans "are obstinate and effective soldiers who do not quit when they are ordered to hold a key post at all cost."

"Their occupation of the steep hills where their guns covered the town gave the Nazis a continual advantage," he said. "The bomb and shell destruction which our planes and guns wrought at Cassino did not prevent a garrison defense by those who survived our explosives and by other enemy troops who filtered into join them."

Secretary Stimson reminded reporters no one ever has "suggested that in these operations we are concentrating our main strength."

To emphasize the point, he turned to the fighting in the southwest Pacific where the week "added to the mounting total of Japanese losses," and said the Luftwaffe has become "a reluctant dragon" in fighting against the Allied air campaign over Europe.

In a statement covering all theaters of war he said the Army Air forces destroyed 9,463 enemy craft. Demonstrating the mounting crescendo of Allied air power, he said our forces destroyed nearly twice as many enemy planes in the last six months of the year as in early 1943.

Nazi Traffic In Rome Reported Increased

Bern, Switzerland, March 30 (AP). The movement of German tanks, armored forces and artillery through Rome has "tripled since the Allied landing at Anzio," a letter from the Italian capital to the Journal De Geneve said today.

Unlike most dispatches from Rome, which tell of German army efforts to have Rome considered an open city, the letter to the neutral Swiss newspaper apparently was routed to avoid German censorship.

Jammed With Convoys

The letter said it was true there were no barracks filled with German troops in the city, "but from evening until dawn the ground is jammed with the passage of German convoys."

Despite this intense traffic, the letter continued Rome's center escaped bombings directed against railway stations girding the capital.

But bombs dropped from high altitudes sometimes miss their mark, it continued, citing as an example a crater between the graves of Shelley and Keats in the Protestant cemetery a few hundred yards from the Ostia railway station.

Italian Civilians' State Improved, Hull Says

Washington, March 30 (AP)—Conditions among the civilian population behind the Allied lines in Italy are improving, Secretary Hull said today, adding that the military officials responsible are handling civilian problems with increasing efficiency.

The Secretary was asked at a press conference about published reports that John Daly, returned CBS reporter, had said the people of Naples felt they were economically worse off now, especially with respect to food supplies, than when they were under German domination.

Hull said he had no information that conditions in Italy now were worse than under the Germans.

Mary Jo Marlin Is First WAC To Wed In Italy

Naples, March 30 (AP)—Corporal Mary Jo Marlin, of Wheeling, W. Va., was married tonight to Lieut. Robert B. Spangler, of Baytown, Texas, in the first wedding of a WAC in Italy.

The bride works in the headquarters of the peninsular base section. Her husband is an officer in the 36th Division.

Chaplin Capt. Fred R. Zammert, of Brady, Texas, performed the ceremony before a flower-banked altar in the quartermaster officers' mess building. The bride cut a large white cake for the crowd of WACS, officers and GI's who witnessed the wedding.

The bride wore the regulation uniform.

NAZI PLANES FOILED

Algiers, March 30 (A. P.).—Beaufighter pilots beat off a strong German attempt to attack an Allied convoy off the North African coast, destroying two Dorner-217s and damaging a Junkers-88, it was announced today.

The raiders were repelled before they reached the vicinity of the convoy. No coastal air force planes were lost or damaged.

CARDBOARD SIGNS OF THE TIMES

With the A. E. F. in Sardinia, March 20 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Airmen no sooner get their adobe brick houses built here than they named them. One is the "Little Red Wagon," another "Sweet Home." One is "The Hot House" because it has twice caught fire.

Outside a gunner's tent hung a red cardboard sign, memento of a New York hotel, which said: "Do not disturb, war worker asleep inside."

Children And Aged Work In Reich

By Wade Werner

Lisbon, March 30 (AP) — Little girls and grandmothers are being harnessed to Germany's war-production tasks as the Nazis seek to overcome new manpower problems created by the destruction of thousands of factories by Allied planes.

A special appeal, German newspapers disclose, is being made to women over 45 in a campaign to get women volunteers to replace hundreds of thousands of male workers diverted from war production to emergency reconstruction, repair and relocation tasks.

May Work Part Time

Articles in the Nazi press hopefully point to the "great reservoir" of part-time workers among elderly women, and also disclose that girls too young for regular jobs can effectively be used part time in some branches of industry.

As an example, the Hamburger Fremdenblatt describes operations in a bombed-out almond paste factory supplying concentrated foods to the German army. Operations have been scattered among six establishments, where the workers—chiefly old women and young girls—are working two-hour shifts.

These girls, says the paper, "average 12 years of age but there are also 9 and 10-year-olds among them." The story declared that the children "sing while they work." Grandmothers on the pay roll range in age up to 72.

In addition, women volunteers expect to work in munitions plants and other factories "wherever possible near their homes," the paper said, and millions of others are being urged to accept home work assignments. Work previously done in a large scale garment industry is now being scattered among hundreds of thousands of homes.

Some Sew At Home

All kinds of sewing tasks which can be farmed out this way are being transferred from city shops to country cottages—especially to elderly women or women with young children evacuated from bombed cities.

The Muenchner Neuste Nachrichten mentions one group of 31 women who repaired 1,200 army overcoats in 12 days.

Jewish-Arab Clash In Palestine Feared

Jerusalem, March 30 (AP) — The situation in Palestine on the eve of the expiration of the British White Paper, under which the difficult Jewish and Arab matters have been regulated since 1939, found both sides considerably, although illegally armed today, with the picture splotched by recent sporadic outbreaks of violence and the outlook still admittedly tense.

Authorities continued to be outspokenly hopeful, however, that major clashes could be averted. A dusk curfew has been imposed and stringent laws carrying the death penalty for extreme terroristic activities have been reissued following last week's bomb-throwing incidents, which cost the lives of nine policemen, of whom six were British.

Dust Storm Rages

While the brooding calm continued, the fiercest dust storms in 15 years raced across the Sinai desert, cutting off Palestine rail and road communications with Egypt. Only air travelers have been able to get through in the past two days.

Representatives of the leading Jewish organizations now are mapping plans to combat and isolate outlaw elements. Some authorities are hopeful of averting any full-scale flareup in the near future.

Majority Consent

The 1939 White Paper which expires tomorrow and which neither the Arabs nor Jews agreed to, provided that 75,000 Jewish immigrants might be admitted to Palestine up to March 31, 1944, with immigration prohibited thereafter except with the consent of the Palestine majority. This meant the consent of the Arabs, who now outnumber the Jews by two to one.

Jewish immigration into the country has been slowed to a trickle by the war and the latest announcement in the British House of Commons on the number who have entered said only slightly more than 47,000 had arrived in the country since 1939. The announcement said another 28,000 would be admitted to fill the original quota as conditions permitted. This statement caused little open stir in the Middle East.

Policemen Killed

However, in recent weeks outbreaks of violence have been more frequent. A number of policemen have been murdered in Jerusalem, Haifa and Tel Aviv. Bombs have been placed in immigration offices and police stations, causing some deaths in the latter. Palestine authorities claim these are due almost entirely to Jewish extremist groups and that the Arabs have been ostentatiously refraining from terrorist activity in the hope of improving their case.

Most of the terrorism has been attributed to the Abraham Stern extremist group. This group was broken up two years ago and Stern himself was killed in a gun battle. After a recent mass jail break, however, the organization revived and in the last few weeks authorities believe it has grown from around 40 members to more than 100.

Most members have sworn to be killed rather than be captured. They are well armed. Jewish authorities and newspapers have deplored their activities as harmful to their cause.

Another extremist Jewish group, known as the Irgun Zvaileumi or "national organization" and believed to number between 3,000 and 7,000 members, also has been charged with some terrorism, although on lesser scale.

Arab Power

A third underground Jewish organization which is considered illegal by the British is known as the Hagana. It is by far the largest, numbering between 50,000 and 70,000 members, who are well armed with machine guns, rifles and hand grenades. They consider themselves to be mainly a "defense organization."

Authorities have information that the Arabs likewise are well armed, although on a more individual and less organized basis.

A Pan-Arab movement, which started in a small way under Nahas Pasha, the Egyptian Prime Minister, has snowballed into a powerful group in the Middle East. The seven Arab-speaking countries, as an example, protested to Washington against a pro-Jewish Congressional resolution.

Small Influx Now

The Palestine situation may come to a showdown at the time the next sizable group of Jewish immigrants enters the country. Presently the influx amounts to only 50 to 100 weekly, mainly escapees through the Balkans and Turkey.

The Arab and Jewish views so far have proved completely irreconcilable. Both sides claim historical backing for controlling the country. A solution even moderately acceptable to both sides is still to be found.

Steps To Save Jews In Balkans Discussed

London, March 30 (AP)—Foreign Minister Anthony Eden told Commons today that the United States and Britain are discussing further action toward saving Jews in the Balkans from German terror and promised punishment for Hitler's satellites guilty of an extermination policy.

"Happily," he said, "there are individuals and even official authorities among the satellites who have resisted the evil of the German example and have shown toleration and mercy. The British Government is concerned to make it clear that those who followed the right path also will not be forgotten on the day of final reckoning."

No Word On Palestine

Eden said Britain was trying to rescue all menaced by German terror but avoided commitment on the Palestine question. He asserted it had always been possible for persecuted Jews to enter Palestine within the quota and that the difficulty had been for them to leave their countries.

He answered in the negative a query by Laborite Member John David Mack who asked, "are you not aware about 1,400 unfortunate people who succeeded in reaching Palestine were turned out?"

rope and get to Pal[illegible]ne is a life saved.

"In 1939, when the White Paper was issued, Hitler and Mussolini were wielding a great influence in the Near and Middle East. Today Mussolini's bluster is gone with the wind and Hitler's threats are powerless.

Compared To Munich

"The White Paper was no more justified in 1939 than was Munich in 1938. It sprang from the same unworthy and unwise appeasement now being atoned for by a bloody war."

Goldstein called the White Paper concession "a paltry sop to an outraged public opinion in an obvious attempt to pacify the sense of bewilderment and wonderment that Jews should be prohibited from entering their own national home-land."

Palestine Closing 'Victory For Hitler'

Washington, March 30 (AP)—Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the Zionist Organization of America, declared today that the closing of Palestine to Jewish immigration "will mean a moral victory for Hitler."

Criticizing the British White Paper of 1939, which set tomorrow as the deadline for Jewish entry into Palestine, Goldstein asserted at a press luncheon that at least 300,000 lives could have been saved if Jewish pleas for free entry into the area had been heeded in the past few years.

Lives Can Be Saved

"In 1939, when the White Paper was issued, Jews in Continental Europe, badly off as they were, could still manage to survive," he said. "Today every Jew who can escape the charnel houses of Eu-

BURMA TROOPS KILL 400 JAPS

Stilwell Force Repels Five Attempts To Break Trap

New Delhi, March 30 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's American and Chinese troops in northern Burma have killed at least 400 Japanese in repulsing five counter-attacks launched in an attempt to rescue a force of approximately 1,000 Japanese trapped by a road block north of Leban in the Mogaung valley.

Stilwell's combined force, which encircled two makeshift battalions of the Japanese 18th Division two days ago by cutting the main road 14 miles inside the Mogaung valley, threw withering fire into the attackers, and when the Japanese finally retired they left their dead stacked in front of the Allied positions, it was disclosed today.

None Of Allies Killed

Perhaps the most amazing feature of the fight was the discovery that not a single American or Chinese was killed and only a handful wounded. The toll of Japanese brought to at least 640 the number of enemy killed since Stilwell's forces swept into the Mogaung valley March 19 in their drive southward toward Myitkyina.

Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's Southeast Asia headquarters estimated that another 2,500 Japanese had been killed by British forces opposing the enemy's invasion of India. There was hard but inconclusive fighting inside the India border yesterday. There was no indication that any of the four Japanese invasion columns had gained any ground in the past 24 hours.

The Japanese column pushing toward Imphal from the northeast continued to exert pressure and the fighting was bitter, a communique said, but British troops apparently clung to new positions they took up on Tuesday. One strong Japanese force was caught in an open valley and torn to shreds by artillery and planes.

Regain Vantage Point

Other British forces opposing the Japanese thrust up the Tiddim road from south of Imphal drove the enemy from a vantage point and inflicted heavy casualties.

[The Tokyo radio said that the Japanese "control the entire mountain region surrounding the Imphal plateau and are fully prepared for a decisive battle there."]

To the south, near the western Burma coast, the British announced the capture of the western tunnel on the Maungdaw-Buthedaung road, one of two tunnels piercing the Mayu road and for which hard fighting has been in progress several weeks.

An Allied air-borne commando force was disclosed to have attacked and damaged Japanese headquarters at Mohnyin, 80 miles southwest of Myitkyina in northern Burma. Mohnyin is far inside Japanese-held territory, on the enemy railway supply line between Myitkyina and Mandalay.

[The Tokio radio, in a broadcast monitored by the National Broadcasting Company, said that the Japanese "control the entire mountain region surrounding the Imphal plateau and are fully prepared for a decisive battle here."]

Air-Borne Commandos Stab Burma Japs Anew

New Delhi, India, March 30 (AP)—Glider-borne air commandos, in another of their slashing attacks on Japanese communications in nothern Burma, have damaged the enemy's headquarters at Mohnyin, 80 miles southwest of Myitkyina, a communique from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters announced today. Mohnyin is on the railway to Mandalay, chief connecting line with Myitkyina, chief enemy base north of the Burma road.

At the same time, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Chinese, pushing southward toward Myitkyina, cut the main road 14 miles inside the Mogaung Valley and established a road block about a mile north of Laban, encircling two makeshift battalions of the mauled Japanese 18th Division.

Chinese Blast Japs

While other Chinese to the north of Shaduzup, in the same valley, blasted the Japanese out of a honeycomb of entrenchments with bayonet and grenade in fierce close-range combat, this force was only about 28 miles from Kaiming and within striking distance of the Mandalay railroad.

Heavy and continuous fighting in the past 24 hours blazed along the India-Burma border where the Japanese are driving toward Imphal, particularly in the Soma Hills tract northeast of Imphal, but there was little change in the situation.

British Take Tunnel

Three hundreds miles to the south in Arakan, the British announced the capture of the western tunnel on the Maungdaw-Buthedaung road, further clearing the way for the offensive southward against Akyab.

The occupation of the tunnel was completed after the British had driven through dense jungle defenses and taken positions on top of the tunnel.

Bitter fighting had raged for weeks over the two tunnels piercing the Mayu Range between Maungdaw and Buthedaung. Originally built for a rail line through the mountains, the tunnels were converted by the Japanese into strongholds surrounded by mazes of entrenchments, bunkers and foxholes in the dense woods.

The western tunnel was about 200 feet long. The British said they captured a medium-size gun and much equipment and stores in the fortress.

The Japanese still hold the eastern tunnel, which is about 70 feet long. They must be dislodged from it also before the British can push their lines on down the coast.

2,500 Japs Killed

In the offensive against Imphal, the Japanese had gained a position on a hill near the Tamu-Palel road, about 35 miles southeast of Imphal, and it was being attacked.

In the offensive thus far the Japanese have lost 2,500 killed, the communique declared.

Heavy bombers, out in strength last night, bombed the Japanese supply area at Victoria Lake just north of Rangoon, while fighters on a sweep of the Arakan area yesterday destroyed 18 river craft and damaged 32.

Allied troops have driven Japanese forces from another vantage point on the Tiddim road, up which they have been moving toward the Indian communications center of Imphal.

were observed on the airdrome tower, and hangars were bracketed by bombs. A large column of yellow smoke rose after a heavy explosion.

Warehouses Leveled

Fighter-bombers attacked bridges and leveled a warehouse Tuesday in the Yangtze area and Lightnings wrecked a railroad bridge at Kienchang.

The 14th Air Force carried out the two days of attacks without loss.

PROTESTS TO PERU

Quito, Ecuador, March 30 (A. P.).—A Foreign Ministry bulletin distributed yesterday said that Ecuador had protested to Peru over "the persistent occupation by Peruvian troops" of points on the Morona and Yaupi rivers declared to be located in Ecuadorean territory.

Dated March 25, the bulletin said both the occupied zones had been defined in a friendship and limitations pact signed January 29, 1942, after a series of frontier incidents.

Correspondents Clash At Chinese Press Parley

Chungking, March 30 (AP)—The most acrimonious press conference ever held in Chungking was punctuated by sharp exchanges today when several correspondents complained censorship prevented their giving American and British publications a true picture of the situation in China.

A correspondent for a London newspaper, when rebuked for his remarks, said he would speak his mind at the conferences whenever he wanted and if the official spokesman did not like it he could exclude him.

Some correspondents also were bitterly critical of repeated delays in a Government-sponsored trip to the Communist-dominated area of China.

U. S. Flyers Pound Nanchang Rail Depot

Chungking, March 30 (AP)—Shooing their way through 15 Japanese fighters and downing one, American fighter-bombers caused considerable damage yesterday to the railroad station and yards at Nanchang, in the central China province of Kiangsi, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

Other fighter-bombers scored 1 direct hits on the enemy airdrome at the same place the previous day a communique said. Direct hits al

Immediate Induction of 4-Fs Into Work Corps Proposed

House Group Recommends Action Despite Opposition of Stimson.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP) Immediate induction of 4-F's for a special army work corps was recommended today by a House Military sub-committee.

Acting shortly after Secretary of War Stimson had expressed disfavor for the whole idea, the House group made these formal recommendations:

"1. That the War department accept and use men for special labor duty and that the department publicly so announce.

"2. That Selective Service process 4-F's for classification, deferring those then engaged in industry or agriculture so long as they remain so engaged.

"3. That appropriate legislation be drafted to cover, and supplement if necessary, compliance with the action proposed."

Apply Also to Navy

Chairman Costello (R-Calif.) said the House group's recommendations were intended to apply also to the Navy.

By directing deferment for those engaged in industry or agriculture, the program is intended to force a shift of 4-F's into essential occupations rather than actually to create large labor battalions in the armed services.

The committee decided to forego an Easter recess in order to work on the proposed legislation. Mr. Costello said it would apply not only to 4-F's between the ages of 18 and 37—the brackets from which the armed services are drafting men—but also to non-fathers between 37 and 45 and 4-F's of every age.

Favor Special Legislation

While the draft law is sufficiently broad to permit induction of 4-F's for a work corps, army spokesmen have urged special legislation if this is to be done.

While the proposal for labor battalions was approved yesterday by Under-Secretary of War Robert Patterson in testimony before the House group, Secretary Stimson voiced vigorous objections to it.

He told a news conference he would regard such a step a last resort, but that the final decision was up to Congress and the War department would cooperate in carrying out any moves the legislators approved for meeting the manpower problem.

Secretary Stimson said he believed "very strongly," however, that national service legislation, allowing the drafting of men and women for war work, was the best solution.

He agreed that 4-F's—men rejected by the Army as physically unfit—should be utilized in the war effort, but added:

"I do not think that this most vital step should be taken by indirection and by induction into the army of men not qualified to serve in the army."

Million Men 4-F

Mr. Patterson estimated there are a million 4-F's aged 18 to 37, inclusive, who are not in essential jobs. He expressed the opinion that if they were given the choice of taking such work, or being drafted into army work battalions at army pay, virtually all would find essential jobs.

The need for getting these men into essential work is intensified by the prospective heavy draft of men in the 18-25 age bracket from among those heretofore deferred for employment in vital war work.

There are 250,000 such deferments and under present plans the Army plans to take virtually all such men except those in key jobs of a few selected industries.

The identity of some of those industries was definitely determined today when the War Production board, the Army, the Navy and the Maritime commission announced the ones for which they will recommend deferments. Recommendations also are to be made by the Solid Fuels administration, the Rubber administration, and other agencies which are expected to add coal mining, synthetic rubber plants, 100-octane gasoline plants, and some others to the list.

Those announced today include plants making the following items or component parts for them:

Army list—Amphibious "ducks;" tires and tubes (aircraft, combat and heavy duty) including necessary tire cord, fabric and molds; radar; rockets; critical components for trucks 2 1-2 tons and heavier, including truck trailers and class one and class two tractors; research and development work specifically assigned by the technical services; certain airplanes.

Navy list—Landing craft; rockets; submarines; aircraft carriers; high capacity ammunition; radar; maintenance of ships and aircraft for the fleet; certain airplanes.

Maritime list—All tanker construction; combat-loaded cargo and transport ships.

An inter-agency committee, headed by Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt, will consider all recommendations and advise Selective Service which men it believes should be deferred. These findings will be passed on to State Selective Service directors for actual deferments.

America, that she was sure most 4-F's would be glad of a chance to serve the war effort.

Mrs. Roosevelt also digressed from a description of her tour to reiterate her belief that everybody should think about the importance of having women represented at conferences concerning peacetime plans.

"Women should be represented at every international conference now held on any subject whatsoever which can serve to lay the foundations for future peace," the first lady asserted.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she carried a message from the President expressing his "interest, admiration and respect" for those servicemen she visited at 24 different bases scattered from the Virgin islands to the Galapagos.

On behalf of the President, the first lady told those restless to get nearer battlefronts that they would consider victories in Russia, the southwest Pacific and elsewhere are their victories too, "because they wouldn't have been possible without them."

FIRST LADY WARNS ON USE OF 4-F MEN

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP) Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today warned that physical disabilities of 4-F's must be taken into consideration if they are drafted for war work as proposed by Selective Service Director Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey.

The First Lady told her press conference, the first since her return from a 14,000-mile tour of U. S. military bases in Latin-

Seamen On Alien Ships Lose Security Benefits

Washington, March 30 (AP)—The Senate today passed and sent to the White House a bill to exclude from coverage under the old-age benefits and survivors' insurance law work performed by seamen employed on foreign-flag vessels chartered by the War Shipping Administration.

Also excluded would be services performed by a seaman for the WSA under a contract entered into outside the United States, and during the performance of which the vessel did not touch at a United States port.

Such services are not covered under existing law when performed for a private shipping company, but by a quirk of law were considered covered when performed for the War Shipping Administration.

WAR CASUALTIES UP 4947 IN WEEK

Washington, March 30 (A. P.).—The latest reports on American war casualties set the total at 173,239 for the Army and Navy, an increase of 4,947 in a week.

Secretary of War Stimson said today that Army casualties in all theaters through March 15 totaled 130,619. The latest total reported for the Navy, Marines and Coast Guard is 42,620.

The Army casualties are made up as follows: 22,570 killed, 53,124 wounded, 27,183 missing and 27,742 prisoners.

The Navy casualties are: 18,087 killed, 10,974 wounded, 9,138 missing, and 4,421 prisoners.

Of the total casualties for the sea services, the Navy had 28,043, the Marines 14,123 and the Coast Guard 454.

Mr. Stimson said that of the 53,124 Army wounded, 27,296 have returned to duty. Of the 27,742 prisoners, 1,675 have been reported by the enemy as having died of disease in prison camps, mostly in Japanese-occupied territory.

President Gets Bill For Naval Projects

Washington, March 30 (A. P.).—The Senate passed and sent to the White House yesterday a bill authorizing $1,644,373,024 for naval shore projects designed to support fleet and aircraft operations for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

U.S.-Newfoundland Labor Deal

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—The War Food Administration announced today that an agreement has been reached with the Newfoundland government under which workers will be imported for agriculture work in Northeastern states, primarily on dairy farms, W. F. A. officials said they expected to obtain as many as 1,500 workers from Newfoundland soon, including single men and husbands and wives.

COMPETITION IN AIR IS SEEN AFTER WAR

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP) Commercial aviation insurance companies must meet foreign rates if American airlines are to get their share of post-war international trade, Oswald Ryan, member of the Civil Aeronautics board, told the Senate Judiciary committee today.

Mr. Ryan steered clear of commitment on a pending bill to exempt insurance companies from regulation under the Federal anti-trust laws during testimony in which he advocated development of "an American insurance market of sufficient proportions to absorb all ordinary aviation insurance risks."

Chairman McCarran (D.-Nev.) commented at one point that British interests would "utilize every means to dominate post-war commercial aviation."

"Great Britain deals friendship with one hand, and business with the other, always keeping one hand free," Senator McCarran observed.

Senator O'Mahoney (D.-Wyo.), opposing the bill, asserted "the little people of the United States are carrying the insurance of the big chain stores and other interstate group."

"By passing of this bill, Congress would divest itself of its duty to protect the public interest," he added.

Edward L. Williams, president of the Insurance Exceutive association, argued that insurance has been regulated through the years by the states and the Federal anti-trust statutes conflicted with state regulations.

Enemy Aircraft Toll 11,042 In 1943

Washington, March 30 (AP)—The army air forces destroyed 9,463 enemy planes in the air and 1,579 on the ground in 1943, Secretary of War Stimson reported today, while losing 2,809 in aerial combat and 76 on the ground.

This edge of nearly four to one, said the Secretary, represented a careful tabulation of results from all theaters. As the scale of the offensive increased, he said, the air forces destroyed almost twice as many enemy planes in the last six months of the year as in the first half of 1943, and its own losses increased about 80 per cent. in that period.

Box Score Summary

In a summary box score on victories and losses, Stimson presented these figures:

WORLD TOTAL — 9,463 enemy planes destroyed, 2,743 probably destroyed, 3,402 damaged in air combat; 1,579 destroyed, 222 probably destroyed and 575 damaged on the ground. AAF Losses—2,809 destroyed in the air, 76 on the ground.

UNITED KINGDOM—3,832 enemy planes destroyed, 962 probably destroyed, 1,832 damaged in the air; no claims of enemy aircraft destroyed on the ground; AAF losses, 899 in the air, none on the ground.

In The Mediterranean

MEDITERRANEAN — 2,824 enemy planes destroyed, 789 probably destroyed, 960 damaged in the air;

814 destroyed, 113 probably destroyed and 397 damaged on the ground; AAF losses, 1,307 in the air, 24 on the ground.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AND CHINA-BURMA-INDIA—2,279 enemy planes destroyed, 820 probably destroyed, 459 damaged in the air; 742 destroyed, 103 probably destroyed, 147 damaged on the ground; AAF losses, 420 in the air, 41 on the ground.

SOUTH PACIFIC, HAWAII, ALASKA. 528 enemy planes destroyed, 172 probably destroyed, 151 damaged in the air; 23 destroyed, 6 probably destroyed, 31 damaged on the ground; AAF losses, 183 in the air, 11 on the ground.

HOUSE DELAYS VOTE ON RECESS

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP) Representative Clare Hoffman (R-Mich) went on a one-man sitdown strike against a resolution to adjourn Congress for the Easter holiday today and tied the House in a parliamentary knot.

The congressman threw the leadership of both parties into a series of protesting huddles when he objected to consideration of the adjournment resolution by raising the point of no quorum . . . and there wasn't a quorum. What's more, there weren't enough congressmen in town to make up a quorum.

The House leadership had planned to recess today until April 12. Then Lewis Deschler, House parliamentarian, recalled that President Roosevelt has until midnight Friday to act on the service vote bill and return it to Congress.

Mr. Deschler scurried over to the Senate and had the House-passed resolution amended for a Saturday adjournment. It returned to the House today and Mr. Hoffman got to his feet.

He said he was against acting on the resolution until he was absolutely sure of the time element in the service vote bill.

"First of all, I'm against a couple of leaders getting together and running this House and then making one mistake after another," he told a reporter later. "I just wanted to show them, that. You know what would have happened if we had adjourned today as they planned? The President could have acted on the service vote bill and sent it here and we wouldn't have been home. So there wouldn't have been a law. And the President could have told the soldiers: 'Look what your Congress did to you'."

Mr. Hoffman finally agreed to withdraw his point of order and the leadership decided to wait until tomorrow before pressing the resolution to a vote.

Only about 50 House members attended today's session. A quorum is a majority of the 435 members.

ROOSEVELT GAINS IN BRONCHITIS FIGHT

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP) The White House said today that President Roosevelt's bronchitis was "clearing up nicely."

Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, the President's physician, said he would complete a report tomorrow or Saturday on a physical examination of the Chief Executive. The checkup was completed Tuesday but McIntire said it took some time to analyze the results.

Until the irritation of Mr. Roosevelt's bronchial tubes has been cleared up, McIntire has ordered the President to ease up and, again today, the President had no appointments. Several long-standing engagements were canceled.

SENATORS TO PROBE EXECUTIVE ORDERS

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP) With an admonition from Majority Leader Barkley (Ky) against any "fishing expeditions," the Senate voted $5,000 to its Judiciary committee today for an investigation into the constitutional and statutory authority for all of President Roosevelt's executive orders.

Senator Barkley told his colleagues that the investigation, sought by Senator Shipstead (R-Minn), might "prove useful to Congress" but he warned against any attempt by the Senate committee to inquire into the President's reasons for issuing any order.

There was no more excuse for Congress to probe into executive conferences which preceded issuance of such directives, Senator Barkley said, than there was for a Senate committee to summon members of the Supreme court to ask them what went on in their conferences before they issued opinions.

Senator Shipstead said he was interested primarily in determining the authority for certain fines and penalties which he said departments had attempted to assess for violations of executive orders.

Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) of the Judiciary committee indicated he planned to assume the chairmanship of a sub-committee scheduled to make the inquiry.

Senator Barkley, who previously had blocked action on the resolution to study it further, said that President Roosevelt had issued 3,361 executive orders through March 29. He said there was precedent for executive orders as far back as the Lincoln administration.

CUT IN DRAFT AGE OPPOSED FIRMLY BY RICKENBACKER

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP) Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker tonight urged every American to fight "with all the strength at his command" any movement to lower the draft age to 17 years.

In an address delivered before a meeting of Junior Achievement, Inc., the country's ace of the first World war declared:

"There has been some talk in recent weeks about lowering the draft age to include boys of 17. I urge that every one who has an intelligent understanding of what education means to the future of this nation fight this movement with all the strength at his command."

Capt. Rickenbacker said, however, that he could "see no reason" why 17-year-old boys who have left school and gone to work should not be considered eligible for military training.

"But to raid the classrooms of our high schools to recruit boys of that age would be a serious mistake," he asserted.

Junior Achievement, Inc., according to its officers, is supported by individual and business corporation contributions. Its purpose is to provide business training for persons 14 to 21 years old by helping them to organize and operate small money-making business concerns.

Capt. Rickenbacker said one reason the Japanese were weakening in the war was that they were running low on brain power because "they are running out of educated school boys."

"We have learned," he declared, "that the better educated a soldier is, the better soldier he becomes."

Commenting on the four freedoms, Capt. Rickenbacker said there was another freedom which "we are apt to exercise too much—and that is the freedom from responsibility." He said:

"Those of us who neglect our responsibilities toward youth are neglecting our responsibilities toward the future. And unless we are fighting this war to make the future secure for the coming generation—I would like to know what we are fighting for."

Bertrand Russell Looks To America

MAR 31 1944

New York, March 30 (AP)—Bertrand Russell, 71-year-old English mathematician and philosopher, believes that America rather than Britain will be the great western power in the future.

America will have the most influence throughout the world, he said.

In an interview preceding his final public appearance here before leaving for England, he said that chances for a lasting peace "were not very good, since the two greatest world powers, America and Russia, have not arrived at any long-run understandings."

The philosopher, who has been in America for six years teaching and lecturing at colleges and universities, said that to insure a lasting peace Russia must also arrive at a "long-run understanding with England."

MARTIN DEMANDS CONGRESS DECIDE POSTWAR ISSUES

BOSTON, March 30—(AP) House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., declared tonight that the Republican party would "lead the world back to sanity, peace and prosperity" by keeping "faith with the men and women on the fighting fronts and protecting at home those sacred ideals they are so gallantly protecting all over the world."

In an address at a meeting of the Massachusetts Women's Republican club — broadcast over the Mutual system, the Massachusetts congressman said:

"We must prepare a forward-looking post-war program which will maintain private enterprise and permit this country to go forward to a great era of genuine prosperity and progress. We must maintain the freedom of labor, freedom of the farmer and freedom of management. We must see that each group in America is given a fair chance and equal opportunity to share in the fruits of prosperity and progress."

Asserting that discussions of post-war problems of tremendous magnitude have been in progress, Martin declared that "both Congress and the people have been left completely in the dark as to the decisions which are contemplated."

Hits Bureaucrats

"A few bureaucrats alone have been participating in these conferences and making the crucial decisions which will affect the future of America for many years to come," he added.

"Such practice is as wrong as it is dangerous. The men and women who are actually fighting this war, the people who are paying for the prosecution of the war through staggering taxes, the members of Congress who are the chosen representatives of the people, should have a real voice in those far-reaching decisions.

"Agreements made as a result of these conferences should not be presented to Congress with the blunt warning that they must be ratified or else we shall be brought into a rift with our Allies. Congress should be represented at these international conferences. And this representation should include delegates of both major parties.

"Foreign policy should be a national policy, and not the judgment of one individual or small group of individuals."

"This is not a one-party or a one-clique war," the House minority leader asserted. "It is a war of all the American people. The future policy of our country must be in the final analysis by a policy satisfactory to a majority of our people. If it is not, any international agreements will be as worthless, as far as being permanently effective is concerned, as a piece of scrap paper."

Martin said that the "New Dealers and their propagandists have made Congress the subject of ridicule and attack" in "an effort to destroy the people's confidence in their representatives and thus strengthen their own hold upon all the functions of the government."

"The final culmination of such attacks upon Congress," he added, "and encroachment by the executive branch on legislative functions forced even the Democratic leader of the Senate, Senator Barkley, to resign temporarily."

Martin declared that he was "glad to say" that the days are over when "vast powers vested in the legislative branch by the founders of the republic were transferred by rubber-stamp congresses to the President and by him to the bureaucrats under the pretext of emergency."

"Opposition to the drift toward permanent regimentation of America is by no means confined to those of us who profess the Republican faith," he continued. "If that were so, there would be no hope for success. But happily, the opposition includes legions of Americans who proudly boast of their loyalty to Jeffersonian ideals.

"Then there is also a multitude of independent voters, who hold the balance of power in this fight to free America from the clutches of a selfish and power-ridden bureaucracy. This fight against bureaucracy is not merely a Republican fight. It is an American fight."

Ex-Prisoner Of Nazis Tells Of Eating Grass

Richmond, March 30 (AP)—How starving prisoners in a German prison camp in Northern Italy stripped the only available tree completely bare of leaves and bark and eagerly devoured them was told here today by Staff Sergeant John Gaffney, of the Richmond Army Air Base.

Sergeant Gaffney escaped from the camp last October.

"The 104 men in my hut were so ravenous that when we heard a 'meow' in the middle of the night we made a simultaneous lunge for the cat, hoping to catch it and eat it raw," Gaffney said. "We ate every scrap of grass in the camp."

Bomber Crashed Into Sea

A tail gunner in a Liberator bomber, the 23-year-old sergeant was flying from North Africa to Messina, Sicily, in April 1943, when the crew of the ship was "bushed" by three Messerschmitts and hit by enemy flak over the Mediterranean. The plane, out of control, crashed into the sea at a speed of 350 miles an hour, carrying three of the crew to death.

With three other flyers, Gaffney remained afloat for three hours until an Italian P-T boat picked them out of the icy water. Two of the men died in the water.

Operated By Italians

Transported 350 miles up the coast, Gaffney and his remaining companion were thrown into a prison camp operated by Italians for the Germans. The men, whose only fare was a small bowl of weak soup and a crust of bread three times a day, lived for the day when the Red Cross sent food parcels containing small cans of meat, soup and vegetables, chocolates, coffee and cigarettes.

Cruelly, Gaffney related, the captors punched all the cans full of holes so that the week's supply of food had to be eaten in a single day as precaution against spoilage.

German Soldiers Use Wooden Bullets In Italy

Battle Creek, Mich., March 30 (AP)—Enemy soldiers infiltrating American lines in Italy fire wooden bullets capable of wounding the Yanks but of such short range that the German lines are protected, veterans at Percy Jones Hospital said today.

The bullet, they explained, has a range of between 100 and 200 yards, a distance sufficient to wound an adversary but not enough to carry back into German lines. They said it is made in the pattern o fa regulation .30 caliber shell with a brass casing and a hard wood "like mahogany" pressed inside.

"We seized four of five cases of these wooden bullets outside of Salerno," said Private John B. Melze, 27, of Saginaw.

Harvard Group Hits Chinese Plan

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 30 (AP)—Acting on reports from Chunking that the Chinese Ministry of Education would henceforth control the studies of all Chinese nationals abroad, the steering committee of American defense, a Harvard University group, asked the Federal Government today to refuse admission of Chinese students if the report is true. The committee declared that it was "unreservedly against such control and believes that it does not represent the will of the Chinese people." In a letter to the State Department the committee asked that the Government ascertain the correctness of the announcement.

GUNS OF THE AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBERS HAD THEIR SECOND DAY OFF IN THE LAST 15. THEIR LAST PREVIOUS ATTACK IN MARCH 25 WHICH WAS FOLLOWED WITH FOUR SUCCESSIVE OPERATIONS INVOLVING BETWEEN 1,750 AND 2,500 BOMBERS.

THE NIGHT ATTACK ON RAILWAY TARGETS AT VAIRES, 15 MILES EAST OF PARIS, WAS CARRIED OUT BY RAF HALIFAXES. BRITISH LANCASTERS AGAIN RAIDED AN ENGINE WORKS AT LYON IN SOUTHERN FRANCE, WHILE MOSQUITOS STRUCK KIEL AND OTHER OBJECTIVES IN WESTERN GERMANY. ONE BRITISH BOMBER WAS LOST.

MAR 31 1944

IT WAS THE FIRST TIME SINCE SUNDAY NIGHT THAT THE RAF'S FOUR-ENGINED BOMBERS WERE OUT BUT THE TWELFTH ATTACK IN MARCH BY THE STREAM-LINED HEAVILY LOADED FORCES ON TARGETS SCATTERED THROUGHOUT FRANCE WHICH FIGURE IMPORTANTLY IN HITLER'S ANTI-INVASION PROGRAM.

THE NIGHT BLOWS FOLLOWED AN RAF ATTACK ON A GERMAN CONVOY OFF THE FRISIAN ISLANDS NORTHWEST OF THE NETHERLANDS COAST. BRITISH BEAU-FIGHTERS ESCORTED BY MUSTANGS HIT TWO VESSELS WITH TORPEDOES AND DAMAGED AT LEAST THREE OTHERS WITH CANNON. ONE BEAUFIGHTER DID NOT RETURN.

CZERNOWITZ, CAPITAL OF THE BUCOVINA TERRITORY WHICH RUMANIA CEDED TO RUSSIA IN 1940, IS 17 MILES NORTH OF THE RUMANIAN BORDER ON THE RAILWAY THAT RUNS NORTHWEST TO LWOW AND SOUTH TO IASI (JASSY), GALATI (GALATZ) AND THE OIL CENTER OF PLESTI.

IN THEIR COMMUNIQUE, WHICH TOLD OF ONE NAZI SETBACK AFTER ANOTHER ON THE EASTERN FRONT, THE GERMANS SAID SIMPLY THAT "THE CITY OF CZERNOWITZ HAS BEEN EVACUATED." THE RUSSIANS ALREADY HAD TOLD WEDNESDAY HOW THEIR FORCES BROKE INTO THE STREETS TO LIBERATE THE CITY WHICH IN 1940 SENT MARSHAL ZHUKOV TO THE SUPREME SOVIET AT MOSCOW AS DEPUTY.

MAR 31 1944

TO THE NORTHWEST THE RED ARMY'S MOBILE UNITS PUSHED UP THE RISING VALLEY OF THE PRUT APPROACHING THE POLISH RAIL TOWN OF DELATYN IN THE FOOTHILLS OF THE CARPATHIANS AFTER CAPTURING THE TOWN OF KOLOMEA IN A QUICK ASSAULT WHICH TOOK THE GERMANS COMPLETELY BY SURPRISE.

STILL FARTHER TO THE NORTHWEST THE RUSSIANS STORMED TO THE REGION OF STANISLAU, THE GERMAN COMMUNIQUE SAID, MARKING A RUSSIAN ADVANCE OF 22 MILES WESTWARD FROM THEIR NEAREST PREVIOUSLY REPORTED POSITIONS. STANISLAU IS A COMMUNICATIONS CENTER 30 MILES ABOVE KOLOM ON THE MAIN BUCHAREST-CZERNOWITZ-LWOW RAILWAY, AND "A VIOLENT BATTLE IS IN FULL SWING" THERE, BERLIN SAID.

MAR 31 1944

THIS RAILWAY ALREADY HAS BEEN CUT BY THE RUSSIANS, IN EFFECT DIVIDING THE EASTERN FRONT INTO TWO FOR THE GERMANS. IT WAS THE LAST LINE NORTH OF THE CARPATHIANS BY WHICH THE GERMANS COULD SUPPLY THEIR LARGE ARMIES FIGHTING A LONG RETREAT FROM THE LOWER UKRAINE. THESE FORCES NOW MUST BE SUPPLIES PRINCIPALLY THROUGH RUMANIA.

THE BERLIN RADIO TOLD OF STILL ANOTHER SOVIET OFFENSIVE, LAUNCHED IN WHITE RUSSIA ALONG A 100-MILE FRONT BELOW VITEBSK, BETWEEN THE DNIEPER AND SOZH RIVERS, IN A RENEWAL OF THE BATTLE FOR PATHWAYS TO THE BALTIC STATES. THE GERMANS SAID THAT THE RUSSIANS H[illegible]ROWN 175,000 MEN INTO THE FRAY, INCLUDING 15 RIFLE DIVISIONS AND THREE TANK CORPS. MOSCOW WAS SILENT, AS IT OFTEN IS ON THE FIRST PHASE OF A BIG ATTACK.

DISPATCHES FROM THE FRONT LINES TO MOSCOW NEWSPAPERS PICTURED A NAZI ARMY IN ALMOST FRANTIC ROUT. A RED STAR CORRESPONDENT, CAPT. BORIS KONSTANTINOV, SAID THE RUSSIANS GOT ACROSS THE PRUT IN THE CZERNOWITZ SECTOR BEFORE MANY RETREATING GERMANS COULD BEGIN TO FIGHT AT THE CITY'S APPROACH[illegible].

THIS DISPATCH SAID THE GERMANS SENT SOME RESERVES INTO BATTLE BUT THAT FRESH TROOPS WHICH HITLER RUSHED TO THE PRUT WERE UNABLE TO GET INTO ACTION. FIGHTING FOR THE CITY WAS BLOODY, HE SAID.

A DISPATCH FROM RED STAR'S KONSTANTIN BUKOVSKY WITH THE TROOPS WHICH TOOK KOLOMEA SAID THAT VICTORY WAS WON OVER HUNGARIANS AND REMNANTS OF A TANK DIVISION ARRIVED FROM ITALY THROUGH LWOW. POINTING OUT KOLOMEA'S POSITION AS A HIGHWAY AND RAILWAY HUB, THIS REPORTER SAID, "THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THIS VICTORY IS HARD TO OVER-ESTIMATE."

LT.VLADIMIR KURBATOV, CORRESPONDENT FOR RED STAR WITH THE THIRD UKRAINIAN ARMY, REPORTED THAT THE GERMAN DIVISIONS ON THAT SECTOR WERE "ROLLING BACK TO ODESSA, ABANDONING ONE INTERMEDIATE LINE AFTER ANOTHER" AS SOVIET CAVALRY AND TANKS SLASHED COMMUNICATIONS AND STRONG SQUADRONS OF SOVIET PLANES POUNDED GERMAN CONCENTRATIONS AGROUND.

AS THE LAND BECAME DRIER WITH THE ADVANCING SPRING IN THIS REGION, THE BIG SOVIET PUSH ON ODESSA APPEARED TO BE COMING DOWN THE RAILWAY, WHERE FORCES ALREADY WERE PAST KOVALEVKA ON THE WESTERN BANK OF THE BUG AND WERE CLOSING IN ON BERESOVKA, 50 MILES ABOVE ODESSA, THE LAST OUTPOST FOR THE PORT STILL HELD BY THE GERMANS.

NOTHING WAS REPORTED FROM THE TERRITORY BETWEEN NIKOLAEV AND ODESSA. THE LAST 25 MILES OF THE ROAD TO ODESSA RUNS ALONG THE BLACK SEA COAST AND CAN BE COVERED BY RUSSIAN GUNBOATS.

LONDON, MARCH 30--(AP)--- THE QUESTION OF EQUAL PAY FOR MEN AND WOMEN TEACHERS, WHICH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL USED AS THE TECHNICAL MEANS OF FORCING A SHOWDOWN ON PARLIAMENTARY SUPPORT OF HIS WAR PROGRAM, IS IN ITSELF A RELATIVELY UNIMPORTANT ISSUE.

UNDER THE PRESENT SCALE OF WAGES, MEN TEACHERS RECEIVE ROUGHLY FROM 10 TO 20 PER CENT MORE THAN WOMEN. PARLIAMENT APPROVED BY ONE VOTE AN AMENDMENT TO THE GOVERNMENT'S EDUCATION BILL SEEKING TO ELIMINATE THE DIFFERENTIAL.

THE GOVERNMENT'S POSITION WAS NOT THAT IT WAS OPPOSED TO EQUAL PAY FOR EQUAL WORK, BUT RATHER THAT IT BELIEVED THAT THE QUESTION SHOULD BE LEFT TO THE FINDINGS OF LORD BURNHAM'S PUBLIC COMMITTEE, WHICH IS NOW WORKING OUT A NEW SCALE.

HERE ARE SOME COMPARISONS RE FROM THE PRESENT SCALE, THE RANGE DEPENDING ON THE TYPE OF SCHOOL AND THE SIZE OF THE COMMUNITY:

LONDON, FRIDAY, MARCH 31-(AP)-REPORTS THAT ANTHONY EDEN IS CERTAIN TO LEAVE THE FOREIGN SECRETARYSHIP, WHICH HE HAS HELD FOR THE MAJOR PART OF A CRITICAL DECADE, IN ORDER TO DEVOTE FULL TIME TO LEADERSHIP OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS, PERSISTED TODAY.

THESE SAID THE MOST LIKELY AMONG POSSIBLE SUCCESSORS AS FOREIGN SECRETARY WAS LORD CRANBORNE, SECRETARY OF STATE FOR DOMINION AFFAIRS AND A LONG-TIME EXPONENT OF EDEN'S FOREIGN POLICY.

(JOHN MCVANE, NBC REPORTER IN LONDON, SAID IN A BROADCAST LAST NIGHT THAT HE HAD LEARNED DEFINITELY FROM "TRUSTWORTHY INFORMATION" THAT EDEN WOULD RESIGN AS FOREIGN SECRETARY AND BE SUCCEEDED BY LORD CRANBORNE.

(MCVANE SAID: "THIS DOES NOT IMPLY ANY RADICAL CHANGE IN BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY. IT IS FELT THAT, BY DEVOTING HIMSELF EXCLUSIVELY TO HOUSE AFFAIRS, MR. EDEN WILL RECEIVE THAT TRAINING IN DOMESTIC AFFAIRS WHICH A FUTURE PRIME MINISTER SHOULD HAVE.")

THE NEWS-CHRONICLE SAID TODAY THAT IF EDEN MADE THE CHANGE IT WOULD BE BECAUSE "AS THINGS NOW STAND HE IS ALMOST CERTAIN TO BE THE NEXT CONSERVATIVE PRIME MINISTER."

LORD CRANBORNE, NOW 50, AND THE 46-YEAR-OLD EDEN HAVE BEEN PARTICULARLY CLOSE POLITICALLY AND OFFICIALLY SINCE BOTH BROKE WITH PRIME MINISTER NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN OVER HIS APPEASEMENT POLICY SIX YEARS AGO.

EDEN, FOREIGN SECRETARY, RESIGNED FROM THE CHAMBERLAIN GOVERNMENT FEB. 20, 1938, IN PROTEST AGAINST THE SETTLEMENTS WITH ITALY AND GERMANY WHICH THE LATE PRIME MINISTER HELD TO BE "REALISTIC."

LORD CRANBORNE WAS THE PRINCIPAL FOREIGN UNDERSECRETARY UNDER EDEN AND HAD TAKEN PART WITH HIM IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS AFFAIRS. HE LEFT WITH EDEN AND REMAINED OUT OF THE GOVERNMENT UNTIL WINSTON CHURCHILL TOOK OVER IN MAY, 1940. THEN HE BECAME PAYMASTER GENERAL.

EDEN RETURNED TO HARNESS EARLIER, BECOMING SECRETARY FOR THE DOMINIONS SHORTLY BEFORE THE OUTBREAK OF THE WAR. HE SERVED A TERM AS SECRETARY OF STATE FOR WAR AND LATER SUCCEEDED LORD HALIFAX AS FOREIGN SECRETARY WHEN THE LATTER BECAME BRITISH AMBASSADOR TO WASHINGTON.

THE COMMAND CAR TAKES HALF A DOZEN WAR CORRESPONDENTS WITHIN 100 YARDS OF THE FIGHTING. WE CONTINUE AFOOT OVER ROADS ALMOST BLOCKED BY TANKS WAITING TO RETURN TO THE ATTACK.

CAPTAIN JACKSON LEADS THE CORRESPONDENTS FORWARD TO A FORK IN THE JUNGLE ROAD WHERE SEVERAL SOLDIERS APPEAR TO BE PINNED DOWN. JAPANESE SNIPER BULLETS ZING OVERHEAD. MACHINEGUN FIRE GROWS HEAVIER.

A TANK LABELED "SHOOT, YOU'RE FADED!" CRAWLS BY HALF A DOZEN SOLDIERS DECIDE TO GO FORWARD. "DON'T GET TOO CLOSE IN FILE, THERE ARE SNIPERS AROUND," SOMEONE WARNS AS THEY CRAWL UP THE ROAD BANK. A SNIPER FIRES A COUPLE OF SHOTS AND THE MEN FADE INTO THE JUNGLE. A HOSPITAL JEEP GOES BY CARRYING WOUNDED. IT HAS THREE BULLET HOLES IN THE WINDSHIELD.

"COME ON IN, WE'RE PINNED DOWN," ONE CORPSMAN SAID.

MACHINEGUN FIRE INCREASES. SOLDIERS, SINGLY AND IN PAIRS, MOVE

WORD COMES THAT THE JAPANESE HAVE BEEN DRIVEN BACK 500 YARDS. ARTILLERY AND MORTAR FIRE BECAME SO INTENSE IT MERGED INTO A SOLID WALL OF NOISE. SHELLS WERE DROPPING INTO THE JAPANESE LINES SOME DISTANCE AHEAD BUT EVEN BACK HERE YOU FELT A MILD CONCUSSION.

WE MOVED AHEAD 50 YARDS AND RAN INTO PFC.ADOLPH H.HANSON, 2623 COLUMBUS AVE, MINNEAPOLIS, WHO VOLUNTEERED: "YOU CAN GO UP A COUPLE OF HUNDRED YARDS IF YOU WANT TO. THE JAPS ARE PRETTY WELL CLEANED OUT. WE'RE USING EVERYTHING -- MORTARS, MACHINE-GUNS, GRENADES -- AND DOING A DMANED GOOD JOB.

"THEY REALLY GOT IN CLOSE LAST NIGHT."

(TWENTY EIGHT BODIES WERE LATER COUNTED IN ONE SPOT.)

WE MOVED UP THE ROAD AGAIN. THERE WAS A WHITE MOVIE SCREEN, UNDAMAGED BY ALL THE FIRING. NEARBY IS A LONG LINE OF SOLDIER LAUNDRY DRYING IN THE SUN.

THE BULLET-MARKED HOSPITAL JEEP PASSES AGAIN BUT THERE ARE FIVE INSTEAD OF THREE BULLET HOLES IN THE WINDSHIELD.

TWENTY MINUTES MORE OF SPORADIC MACHINEGUN FIRE AND CAPT.JACKSON REPORTS THAT "FOR ALL PRACTICAL PURPOSES THE WAR (THIS ENGAGEMENT) IS OVER. THEY'RE MOPPING UP NOW."

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC.

THERE IS NO OFFICIAL RECORD OF ALL THEY HAVE DONE BUT THIS MUCH IS KNOWN:

THEY HAVE BEEN IN ON EVERY LAND ACTION FOUGHT BY GENERAL DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S TROOPS SINCE HE LAUNCHED HIS SERIES OF OFFENSIVE DRIVES MORE THAN A YEAR AGO. THEY HAVE FOUGHT IN THE AIR IN THE PILOTS SEATS OF BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS, BEHIND THE MACHINE GUNS IN BOMBER TURRETS. THEY HAVE RIDDEN INVASION BARGES AND HIT THE BEACH AMONG THE FIRST TROOPS.

MAR 31 1944

IN THE AIR THEY HAVE PILED UP MORE THAN 20,000 HOURS FLYING TIME IN COMBAT AGAINST THE JAPANESE IN BOMBERS, FIGHTERS AND IN TRANSPORT PLANES BRAVING ADVERSE WEATHER AND THE ENEMY TO DELIVER MEN AND SUPPLIES TO ADVANCED LINES. THEIR HEROISM AND COURAGE HAS BEEN RECOGNIZED BY THE MORE THAN 225 MEDALS AWARDED THEM IN THE YEAR 1943.

LIEUT. GREEN, 80 VERNDALE ST., BROOKLINE, WAS AWARDED THE SILVER STAR FOR HIS PART IN THE BATTLE BETWEEN THE LONE LIBERATOR AND THE ZEROS. THE FIGHT OCCURRED LAST OCTOBER AFTER A RAID ON POMELAA, CELEBES.

HIS BOMBER WAS IN A FLIGHT WHICH MADE A SUCCESSFUL RUN, BUT WHEN THE ZEROS ATTACKED IT FELL BACK IN AN ATTEMPT TO PROTECT ANOTHER BOMBER WITH THE RESULT ONE ENGINE WAS DESTROYED AND A SECOND SET ON FIRE. THE CREW PUT OUT THE FIRE, BUT BECAME SEPARATED FROM THE OTHER PLANES.

EMERGING FROM THE CLOUDS WHICH GAVE IT COVER, IT ENCOUNTERED MORE FIGHTERS AND IN A 40-MINUTE BATTLE DESTROYED EIGHT JAPANESE PLANES FOR THE LOSS OF ANOTHER ENGINE AND THE OUTLOOK OF A TURN.

IN DIVING TO UNREEL THE DAMAGED ENGINE THE CREW SAW THE TAIL SECTION WAS DAMAGED BY THEM.

THE CREW THEN CUT VERTICAL POSITIONS TO LIGHTEN THE SHIP AND JETTISONED ALL EXCEPT THE TOP TURRET AND SOME OF AMMUNITION.

IT WAS NOTICED WHEN IT ENCOUNTERED TWO MORE AND THE PLANE WAS FORCED DOWN INTO THE SEA.

GREEN, THE CITATION SAID, "DISPLAYED MARKED SKILL AND DETERMINATION IN THE FACE OF ENEMY ATTACK." A SHELL TORE AWAY PART OF HIS HEEL, A BULLET PIERCED THE OTHER AND ANOTHER SEARED HIS FOREHEAD. DESPITE THIS HE GAVE ASSISTANCE TO THE RADIO OPERATOR AND IT WAS BECAUSE THEY SENT OUT THEIR POSITION THAT THEY WERE RESCUED LATER.

CORP. LEO MCKNIGHT OF FAIRHAVEN WAS ONE OF THE TWO MARINE GUNNERS ON AN ENCOUNTER OFF CAPE GLOUCESTER. STARTED CARRYING BACK WOUNDED AFTER A JAPANESE BOMB KILLED BOTH OF THEIR GUNNERS. THEY WEREN'T ENTIRELY DEFENSELESS, THOUGH, AS THEIR GUNNER AND HIS COMPANION WERE GUNNERS AND CRACKED UP THE ENEMY.

MAR 31 1944

KILLED BOTH OF THE ENEMY.

SELDOM HAVE THE JAPANESE SUFFERED

THEY HAVEN'T STARTED HANDING OUT MEDALS AS YET FOR THE TROOPS WHO HAVE TAKEN PART IN NUMEROUS LANDING OPERATIONS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC IN RECENT MONTHS. BUT ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENTS HAVE FOUND THEM EVERYWHERE. HERE ARE SOME MEN FROM MASSACHUSETTS.

CAPT.ANTHONY LAWRENCE, 419 UNION ST., NEW BEDFORD, LED A CAVALRY TROOP IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC'S LATEST LANDING ON LOS NEGROS ISLAND IN THE ADMIRALTY GROUP. ON NEW BRITAIN, CAPT.ANDY HALBOHR, 100 EDGEWOOD AVE., METHUEN AND SGT.WILLIAM H.MURPHY, GUINEPOINT ST., JEFFERSON, TOOK PART IN HEAVY FIGHTING ON HALT'S RIDGE. FREDERICK KERSEY, 205 W. 8TH, BOSTON, AND HAROLD J.MCKENZIE, 15 SPOONER ST., NORTHEASTON, WERE AMONG THE FIRST MARINES TO BATTLE THEIR WAY TO THE TOP OF HILL 660, THE CLOSING BATTLE OF THE GLOUCESTER ACTION.

WHEN THE TANKS WENT INTO ACTION AT GLOUCESTER WILLIAM J.ANTHONY, SPRINGFIELD, RODE ONE OF THEM, WHILE HOWARD HALFIED OF LYNN WAS IN A "HALF TRACK" THAT BLASTED THE NIPS OUT OF THEIR FOXHOLES.

IN THE ARAWE ACTION, ONE GROUP OF BRAVE SOLDIERS ATTEMPTED TO FORCE A LANDING IN RUBBER BOATS BUT WERE BLASTED OUT OF THE WATER WHEN THEY WERE CAUGHT ON THE ISLAND'S TREACHEROUS REEFS. ONE OF THE GROUP WAS CORP.ROGER C.JERNET, WRENTHAM.

ONE OF THE ORIGINAL 26 NURSES TO GO TO NEW GUINEA WAS A MASSACHUSETTS WOMAN, LIEUT.JEAN WEBSTER OF NORTH WEYMOUTH.

ONE OF THE DARING STORIES OF THE WAR IS THAT OF THE FOUR LIGHTNING PILOTS WHO ENCOUNTERED FROM 20 TO 25 ZEROS AND ABOUT 30 BOMBERS IN A FLIGHT OVER FINSCHAFEN. THE ODDS WERE GREAT BUT THE FOUR FIGHTER PILOTS ATTACKED AND LIEUT.SHERMAN BRINGED DOWN

THE FUEL TANKS DAMAGED AND THE FUSELAGE PUNCTURED BY 400 BULLET HOLES. LIEUT.ARNAULT ACCOMPLISHED THE DIFFICULT TASK OF MAKING A PERFECT LANDING WITH THE TWO LEFT ENGINES SHOT OFF.

SGT.ERNEST HARRISON AND HERBERT SMITH, FRANCIS HANNAN, ERNIE POWERS, WERE ON PLANES WHICH DESTROYED JAPANESE SEAPLANES.

SGT.MURPHY AND SERGEANTSON WERE ON PHOTO RECONNAISSANCE AND WHILE PICTURES WERE BEING TAKEN OF RABAUL'S DEFENSES, THE GUNNERS SHOT DOWN THREE OF 15 ZEROS THAT ATTACKED. IN A 30-MINUTE FIGHT BETWEEN THESE AND AUSTRALIA, SGT.HAZEL'S PLANE SHOT DOWN THREE ZEROS.

INSTANCES OF INDIVIDUAL HEROISM HAVE BEEN NUMEROUS. LIEUT.VINCENT, CO-PILOT ON A MITCHELL BOMBER ON RECONNAISSANCE OVER RABAUL BAY, WAS ATTACKED BY FIVE ZEROS AND THE TWIN-ENGINE BOMBER WAS FORCED TO LAND IN THE WATER. SERGEANT HELPED THE PILOT OUT OF THE PLANE AND STARTED FOR SHORE WHEN HE SAW A CREW MEMBER IN NEED OF HELP. HE SWAM BACK TO THE PLANE AND TOWED THE CREW MEMBER TO SHORE.

CORP.GRANT HAS STANDING BY AN AIR FIELD IN NEW GUINEA ONE DAY WHEN A BOMBER CRASHED ON THE TAKE-OFF WITH A FULL LOAD OF BOMBS. THE BOMBER CAUGHT FIRE AND THE BOMBS EXPLODED, BUT GRANT, HELPED BY TWO OTHERS, RESCUED TWO OF THE CREWMEN.

PALAU IS KNOWN AS JAPAN'S SINGAPORE. IT HAS A POWERFUL SEA BASE CLOSE TO THE EAST INDIES AS WELL AS THE PHILIPPINES.

THE JAPANESE DEVELOPED THE BASE RAPIDLY. TOWNS APPEARED THROUGHOUT THE ISLANDS. THE NATIVES HAD TO RETIRE INLAND. SHIP BASINS WERE DREDGED DEEPER. CHANNELS WERE WIDENED. WHOLE ISLANDS WERE LEVELLED TO PROVIDE AIRDROMES. TE ENEMY IDEA WAS TO MAKE THE STRONGHOLD SELF SUPPORTING IN CASE OF A SIEGE.

A UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS OFFICER, LT.COL.EARL ELLIS, WAS HELD BY THE JAPANESE AND DIED MYSTERIOUSLY IN 1923 AFTER INVESTIGATIONS THAT INCLUDED THE PALAUS.

OF PONAPE IN THE EASTERN CAROLINES, FOR THE FIRST TIME ON MONDAY, WHILE NAVY AND MARINE PLANES SMASHED AGAIN AT ENEMY POSITIONS IN THE MARSHALLS, MEETING ONLY ANTI3AIRCRAFT OPPOSITION.

THE PAKIN BOMBING FOLLOWED TWO ATTACKS LAST WEEK ON ANT ISLAND ATOLL, 10 MILES WEST OF PONAPE, AND SERVED UP THE POSSIBILITY THAT AN INVASION OF PONAPE, JAPAN'S PRIME DEFENSE OUTPOST FOR TRUK, 440 MILES TO THE WEST, MIGHT BE IN THE CARDS.

LIBERATORS OF THE FIFTH AIRFORCE REACHED FAR WEST OF NEW GUINEA TO START FIRES AT PENFOEI AIRDROME ON TIMOR ISLAND, GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR ANNOUNCED TODAY, AND OTHER UNITS BOMBED HOLLANDIA ON THE NORTH COAST OF DUTCH NEW GUINEA, DROPPING THEIR BOMBS THROUGH HOLES IN THE OVERCAST. RESULTS WERE NOT OBSERVABLE.

TO THE EAST ALONG THE NEW GUINEA NORTH COAST, LIBERATORS AND PATROL BOMBERS HIT KARKAR ISLAND ABOVE MADANG AND TARGETS ALONG THE COAST.

NINETY-THREE TONS OF BOMBS WERE UNLOADED ON SHATTERED RABAUL, NEW BRITAIN, WHERE AT LEAST 39 MORE BUILDINGS WERE LEVELLED AND LARGE EXPLOSIONS AND FIRES STARTED IN SUPPLY DUMPS.

JAPANESE SHORE INSTALLATIONS EAST OF EMPRESS AUGUSTA BAY ON BOUGAINVILLE IN THE SOLOMONS WERE SHELLED BY DESTROYERS AND GUNBOATS. FIVE ENEMY BARGES WERE DESTROYED OR DAMAGED.

THE FUTILELY COUNTERATTACKING JAPANESE ON BOUGAINVILLE, CUT OFF FROM THEIR RABAUL SUPPLY ROUTE BY ALLIED OCCUPATION OF THE GREEN ISLAND CANNOT LAST LONGER THAN 10 DAYS MORE, IN THE OPINION OF MAJOR GEN. ROBERT S. BEIGHTLER, COMMANDER OF THE 37TH DIVISION.

"THEY'RE ALREADY IMPOTENT AS A FIGHTING FORCE," HE TOLD ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT CHARLES MCMURTRY. "I THINK CONSERVATIVELY 5,000 HAVE BEEN KILLED BY THE 37TH. HIS (THE ENEMY'S) LOSSES WERE AT A RATIO OF 30 TO ONE OF OURS."

MAJOR GEN. JOHN R. HODGE, COMMANDER OF THE AMERICAL DIVISION, HAS ESTIMATED THAT THE ENEMY STILL HAS AT LEAST 20,000 TROOPS ON THE ISLAND.

AN ALLIED SPOKESMAN AT GUADALCANAL SAID SMALL GROUPS OF ENEMY TROOPS ATTEMPTED TO INFILTRATE AUGUSTA BAY OUTPOSTS ON THE NIGHT OF MARCH 26-27, BUT WERE REPELLED BY FIRE FROM ARTILLERY, MORTARS AND HEAVY WEAPONS. MOP-UP PATROLS ACCOUNTED FOR 24 MORE JAPANESE.

GUADALCANAL HEADQUARTERS ALSO SAID DESTROYERS SHELLED ENEMY POSITIONS AT THE MOUTH OF THE TAVENA RIVER, STARTING FIRES. MORE THAN 30 LIGHT BOMBERS STABBED AT THE JAPANESE AROUND THE PARIMETER, DESTROYING A BRIDGE ACROSS THE PURUATA RIVER AND FIRING SUPPLY DUMPS AT THE MOUTH OF THE TEKESSI.

MAR 31 1944

A U.S. AIR BASE SOMEWHERE IN THE MARSHALLS, MARCH 25-(DELAYED)-WE CAUGHT T JAPANESE GARRISON AT KUSAIE NAPPING TODAY AND BLEW UP A COUPLE OF HEIR BUILDINGS.

JAPANE. ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNNERS, LOCATED STRATEGICALLY ON A HILL GUARDING LELE HARBOR AND THE ISLAND OF THE SAME NAME IN THE HARBOR, DIDN'T GET A SINGLE SHOT AT US.

THIS WAS A ROUTINE PATROL WITH THE PRIMARY OBJECT OF WATCHING FOR JAPANESE FLEET UNITS AND SHIPPING. THE PILOT WAS LT. GEORGE L. HICKS, 31-YEAR-OLD ANNAPOLIS GRADUATE FROM THREE RIVERS, CAL., AND THE CO-

PILOT, LT. (JG) WILLIAM A. WARREN, 28, ST.PAUL, MINN.

KUSAIE IS A MOUNTAINOUS VOLCANIC ISLAND RISING ABRUPTLY FROM THE SEA. ON IT ARE SHARP POINTED HILLS AND RIDGES, THE HIGHEST PEAKS BEING 2,064-FOOT MT. CROZER AND 1,946-FOOT MT.BUACHE.

IT IS NEARLY EQUALLY-DISTANT FROM THE NEWLY ESTABLISHED AMERICAN BASES AT KWAJALEIN AND ENIWETOK IN THE MARSHALLS, 350 AND 385 MILES RESPECTIVELY.

MAR 31 1944

IN A DELIBERATE PLAN TO CATCH THE JAPANESE OFF-GUARD, HICKS CAME IN LOW FROM THE WEST. HE HAD ATTACKED KUSAIE BEFORE AND KNEW ABOUT THE ACK-ACK GUNS ON THE HILL. HE PICKED A GAP BETWEEN TWO MOUNTAINS, CLIMBING WITH THE BELLY OF THE PLANE JUST CLEARING THE TREE-TOPS. THE JAPANESE DIDN'T HAVE A CHANCE. IF THEY HAD BEEN ABLE TO TRAIN THEIR GUNS ON THE PLANES THEY WOULD HAVE BEEN FORCED TO SHOOT DOWN INTO THEIR OWN BUILDING AREA.

THERE WERE NO SHIPS IN THE HARBOR, SO HICKS SWERVED AND PULLED UP TO 200 FEET AND RELEASED A STICK OF 100-POUND BOMBS IN THE BUILDING AREA OF LELE ISLAND AS THE GUNNERS FIRED HUNDREDS OF 50-CALIBRE SLUGS AT ENEMY INSTALLATIONS. THEN HE SWUNG NORTH AND MADE TWO PASSES OVER ANOTHER BUILDING AREA.

PINGELAP ATOLL, MIDWAY BETWEEN PONAPE AND KUSAIE, WAS THE NEXT STOP. HICKS SWUNG OVER PINGELAP FOUR TIMES, BLOWING UP A RADIO STATION OR A WEATHER STATION WITH TWO 100-POUNDERS, AND STARTING FIRES IN THE SAME AREA WITH A CLUSTER OF INCENDIARIES. THE GUNNERS LACED THE AREA WITH 50-CALIBRE SLUGS, BUT THERE WAS NO FIRE FROM THE ENEMY.

THE BUSIEST MAN ON THE ENTIRE PATROL WAS ENSIGN DICK WIELAND, 24-YEAR-OLD NAVIGATOR OF DEARBORN, MICH. HE PLOTTED THE TRICKY COMPREHENSIVE SEARCH COURSE, AND A HALF DOZEN RAIN SQUALLS DIDN'T HELP ANY.

THE MEMBERS OF THE CREW INCLUDED AVIATION MACHINISTS MATE 1/C H.D.FISHER, 23, FERNDALE, MICH., TAIL-TURRET GUNNER; AVIATION MACHINIST'S MATE 3/C W.A.MCNEIL, 20, SPRINGFIELD, MO., BELLY-GUNNER; AVIATION RADIOMAN 2/C DONALD CONRY, FOND DU LAC, WIS., TOP-TURRET GUNNER; AVIATION METALSMITH 1/C EDWARD C. MAZEWSKI, WOODHAVEN, N.Y., BOW-GUNNER, AND AVIATION ORDNANCE MAN 1/C SIDNEY R. METCALF, 20, FRAMINGHAM, MASS., STARBOARD WAIST-GUNNER.

MEN OF THE DELEGATION, APPOINTED BY THE STATE DEPARTMENT, HAVE BEEN SOUNDED OUT ON THEIR REACTION TO THE APPOINTMENT OF A WOMAN, IT DEVELOPED.

PURPOSE OF THE CONFERENCE IS TO CONSIDER THE "RESTORATION OF THE INTELLECTUAL AND EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES DESTROYED BY THE AXIS."

THOSE PROTESTING THE OMISSION OF REPRESENTATIVE WOMEN POINTED OUT THAT AMERICAN WOMEN HAVE A PRIMARY INTEREST IN PLANS FOR POSTWAR EDUCATIONAL REHABILITATION IN BOTH ALLIED AND ENEMY NATIONS, AS WELL AS WITHIN THIS COUNTRY.

WOMEN ARE MORE CONCERNED THAN MEN ABOUT THE EDUCATION OF THEIR OWN CHILDREN, IT WAS ARGUED, AND MANY WOMEN FEEL THAT THE POSTWAR EDUCATION OF CHILDREN IN OCCUPIED AND ENEMY COUNTRIES WILL HAVE A PROFOUND INFLUENCE UPON THE POSSIBILITIES OF LASTING PEACE.

Russ-Jap Pact Called Blow To Tokyo DAY

Moscow, March 31 (AP) — The Japanese government received today a staggering blow from the west when the Soviet Government announced it had signed a protocol under which Tokyo agreed to surrender her oil and coal leases on northern Sakhalin island in the Pacific.

The Russians contracted to furnish Japan with 50,000 tons of oil a year for five years beginning after the war.

Five Million Rubles

Russia agreed to pay Japan 5,000,000 rubles (about $950,000) and to allow Japan free export of stored oil and coal in the concession territory. Japan agreed to hand over to Russia all property belonging to Japanese concessionaires, including oil wells, other equipment, material and food.

The oil and coal leases on north Sakhalin Island were to have extended until 1970. Under the protocol, Tokyo is forced to reduce by 26 years its concessions to these vital materials of war and return the wells and coal mines immediately to the Soviet Union.

Japanese Comment

(Tokyo radio, discussing the agreements, said that "long-pending matters that had been constant problems between our nation and the Soviet Union have been solved at one stroke" and called them a "definite illustration that the neutrality pact is rigidly maintained between Japan and the Soviets."

("It also proves," Tokyo asserted, "that the relationship between Japan and the Soviet Union is always secure and stabilized.")

Yielded In 1925

The oil and coal rights were yielded to Japan in 1925 for a 45-year period. The official announcement of the protocol said:

"In the spring of 1941 during negotiations on the conclusion of the Soviet-Japanese neutrality pact, the Soviet Government raised the question of liquidation of the above-mentioned concessions. Simultaneously with the signature of the neutrality pact on April 13, 1941, the Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs Matsuoka gave a written promise to the Soviet Government to solve the question about the liquidation of concessions in northern Sakhalin.

"The promise was confirmed in May, 1941, by the Japanese Ambassador Tatekaya. The Japanese promised to solve the question no later than six months after the signature of the neutrality pact. This pledge was not fulfilled by the Japanese side. As a result of this present agreement, the Japanese concessions in northern Sakhalin are ended 26 years before the fixed term."

London Sees Red Gain

(London interpreted the agreement as a clear-cut diplomatic victory in which the Soviets had driven a hard bargain. The British capital called it a possible sign of Japanese weakness. Associated Press Correspondent Henry C. Cassidy broadcast over NBC from Moscow that "the Soviet Union has won a clear-cut bloodless diplomatic victory in the Pacific."

(Sakhalin was estimated in 1925 to be capable of supplying half the Japanese navy with oil, and the Japanese Diet voted a 3,000,000 yen subsidy to exploit the concession.

(In 1939, however, Vice-Admiral Masazo Sakonji, president of the North Sakhalin Oil Company, declared Russian obstructionist tactics had reduced the annual oil yield from 150,000 barrels to less than 40,000. At that time the Japanese were reported massing their fleet in northern waters as the result of a Russian threat to confiscate the oil and coal properties, and a Soviet news report said the Japanese had served an ultimatum on Russia concerning her rights in the concessions.

(Until Japan's conquest in the current war, Sakhalin was Japan's only source of petroleum for distillation into the best aviation gasoline.)

The official newspaper Izvestia commented in an editorial that Japanese politicians were betting on Hitler in 1941.

"The Japanese-Soviet agreement of March 30 solved a number of ripe questions of mutual interest between the U. S. S. R. and Japan," the newspaper said. "These agreements indicate a strengthening of the Soviet Union's international position and the correctness of her foreign policy as well as a consideration of the special interests of our allies in the Pacific."

Believed Hitler Would Win

Izvestia said that in 1941 many Japanese politicians believed Hitler's boasts that he would crush the Soviet Union and placed their bets on him.

"The success of the Red army and the developing war operations of our Allies played their role," Izvestia said. "A sobering up had to come and it took quite a while to come."

Japan owns the southern half of Sakhalin island and Russia owns the northern half.

Only last night the Russians announced renewal of an agreement granting Japan fishing privileges in Far Eastern waters for five more years. The fisheries-pact renewal is based on the 1941 neutrality treaty under which Russia and Japan have remained at peace.

The Russians will supply Japan with oil from the Okhinsky fields after the war.

The agreement was signed by Solomon Lozovsky, Russian Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs, and by Nautake Sato, Japanese Ambassador. It became effective immediately. Pravda said the agreement was reached after "last month's discussions."

JAPAN LOSES OIL AND COAL

Russia Forces Tokyo To Give Up Rights In North Sakhalin

NIGHT

GILMORE

Moscow, March 31 (AP) — The Soviet Union in what may be its biggest diplomatic victory of the war has forced Japan to surrender coal and oil concessions on Sakhalin Island, north of Japan, which still had 26 years to run, it was announced today.

In an agreement signed in Moscow yesterday, the Russians won an immediate return of the rights to these resources, granted to Japan in 1925 for a 45-year term.

The Russians on their part have agreed to furnish Japan 50,000 tons of oil a year for five years beginning after the war. The upper half of Sakhalin Island, which loes off Siberia, is Soviet territory, the southern half Japanese.

Big Aid To Allied Cause

The new protocol is considered by diplomatic circles in Moscow to be a great contribution to the war which the United States and Britain are waging against Japan. The Japanese rely on northern Sakhalin for oil and coal vital to their Pacific war, and with this shut-down Tokyo is regarded as suffering a staggering blow.

Announcement of the agreement followed prolongation of the Japan-Russian fisheries pact for five years covering rights off Kamchatka peninsula, northeast of Sakhalin.

It was disclosed today that in this pact the Russians induced the Japanese to cease exploiting certain fishing grounds off Kamchatka —the nearest points in the Pacific to Alaska—and thereby turned a trick which also should meet with a welcome in the United States.

The government newspaper "Izvestia" today made it clear that Japan had been compelled to give up the coal and oil concessions in view of the changing fortunes of the war in favor of the Allies.

A high-ranking diplomat at Moscow called the agreement "a great contribution" to the Allied cause and said that Russia's agreement to supply oil to Japan after the war would probably meet with no objection from the United States or Britain because these two countries expect to defeat Japan. One diplomat said the new protocol was "the next best thing to giving us bases."

Japanese Interpretation

[The Japanese official news agency, Domei, in a Tokio broadcast, interpreted the new agreement with Moscow as having "further bolstered" the "friendly relations between Japan and the Soviet Union." Domei elaborated this theme as length, stating it was "especially significant" that the agreement was reached now, with many nations at war. It was done on a basis of "mutual concession" and it "definitely brightens relations between the two contracting powers," Domei said.

[The Tokio radio, in a broadcast recorded by the United States foreign broadcast intelligence service, told the Japanese people: "The giving up of these rights at this time does not bring much loss on our part." It said Sakhalin oil production was only 16,000 tons last year, as compared with a peak of 190,000 tons in 1933, while coal production last year was only 5,000 tons, as compared with a peak of 240,000 in 1935.]

There was considerable bickering between Moscow and Tokio over the Sakhalin rights during the 1930's. In the spring of 1941, it was disclosed in today's announcement, the Soviet Union "put before the Japanese government the question of liquidation" of the concessions. Japan agreed to liquidation within a period of six months but failed to carry out the promise.

The fact that Moscow now has won its point is a result of the Soviet government's having taken a firm diplomatic stand with Japan. "Izvestia" recalled, in an editorial on the new agreement, that some Japanese politicians in 1941 were betting on a German victory

Tokyo Belittles Loss

[The official Japanese news agency Domei in a Tokyo broadcast interpreted the new agreement with Moscow as having "further bolstered" the "friendly relations between Japan and the Soviet Union." Domei elaborated this theme at length, stating it was "especially significant" that the agreement was reached now with many nations at war, it was done on a basis of "mutual concession" and it "definitely brightens relations between the two contracting powers."]

[Developing its claim that oil and coal production in north Sakbalin had fallen off since the earlier peak years, the Tokyo radio, in a broadcast recorded by the United States Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service, told the Japanese people that "the giving up of these rights at this time does not bring much loss on our part."

[The broadcast claimed that oil production there was only 16,000 tons last year, compared with a peak of 190,000 tons in 1933, while coal production last year was only 5,000 tons, compared with a peak of 240,000 in 1935.]

Under the new agreement Russia will pay to Japan 5,000,000 rubles (technically about $950,000) and Japan is to hand over to Russia all property, including equipment, materials and food, belonging to the Japanese concessionaires. Japan is to get free export of oil and coal now in storage on the island.

Simultaneously with publication of the oil and coal protocol the Russians announced details of the prolongation of the fishing convention announced briefly yesterday.

The convention provides a return to Russia of twenty-four fishing allotments rented by the Japanese but not having been used by them for the last two years; the right for Soviet organizations to get 10 per cent of the fishing allotments which are auctioned; increase of rental and other payments in gold to the amount of 6 per cent over the rent to which the Japanese agreed last year.

Valuable Source of Oil

Sakhalin was estimated in 1925 to be capable of supplying half of the Japanese Navy with oil, and the Japanese Diet (Parliament) voted a 3,000,000-yen subsidy to exploit the concession.

In 1939, however, Vice-Admiral Masazo Sakonji, president of the North Sakhalin Oil Company, declared Russian obstructionist tactics had reduced the annual oil yield from 150,000 barrels to less than 40,000. At that time the Japanese were reported massing their fleet in northern waters as the result of a Russian threat to confiscate the oil and coal properties, and a Soviet news report said the Japanese had served an ultimatum on Russia concerning rights in the concessions.

Until Japan's conquests in the current war, Sakhalin was Japan's only source of petroleum for distillation into the best aviation gasoline.

Sakhalin, which is separated from the Asiatic mainland by the Strait of Tartary, is 1,000 miles north of Tokio. It is 600 miles long and sixteen to 105 miles wide and has an area of 24,560 square miles.

During the Russian civil war and the Allied intervention which followed the 1917 revolution, Japanese troops occupied the entire island and did not evacuate the northern part until the 1925 agreement.

The northern territory forms three-fifths of the island and abounds in coal and petroleum deposits which have been developed by Japanese concessionaires. Iron and gold also exist and amber is cast up on the eastern shores. There is also plenty of timber in the northern, or Russian, half of the island. Steamers run from Vladivostok to the chief town, Alexandrovsk, from April until October, after which telegraph and dog sleds are the only means of communication with the mainland. The whole island has a cold, foggy climate, with heavy rainfall in the summer and bitter cold and severe storms in the winter.

Russia first settled Sakhalin in 1857 and from 1875 until 1905 owned the whole of it. Still imperfectly surveyed, the island is unfavorable for agriculture. Fishing is the most common occupation of the natives, vast quantities of fish being exported to Japan.

Following is the text of the Soviet-Japanese protocol on the liquidation of Japanese oil and coal concessions in northern Sakhalin, as recorded by the United States Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service from an English-language wireless transmission by the Tokyo Domei agency:

The Government of Japan and the Government of the U.S.S.R., as a result of negotiations conducted with the view to putting into force the understanding regarding annulment of Japanese oil and coal concessions in northern Sakhalin which was reached between the two Governments in connection with the pact of neutrality of April 13, 1941, have agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I

The Government of Japan shall transfer all rights concerning Japanese oil and coal concessions in northern Sakhalin in accordance with stipulations of the present protocol and the terms for application of the protocol attached thereto.

Concession contracts concluded on Dec. 14, 1925, and additional contracts and agreements subsequently concluded between Japanese concessionaires on the one hand and the Government of the U.S.S.R. on the other hand shall be abrogated by virtue of the present protocol.

ARTICLE II

All property—installations, equipment, materials, spare stocks, provisions, etc.—possessed by the Japanese concessionaires in northern Sakhalin shall be transferred in their actual state, unless otherwise provided for in the present protocol and the terms for application of the protocol attached thereto, to the possession of the Government of the U.S.S.R.

ARTICLE III

In connection with the preceding two articles the Government of the U.S.S.R. agrees to pay to the Government of Japan the sum of 5,000,000 rubles in accordance with stipulations of the terms for application of the protocol attached to the present protocol.

The Government of the U.S.S.R. will undertake to deliver each year to the Government of Japan 50,000 metric tons of oil produced in the Okha oil fields in northern Sakhalin on ordinary commercial terms for a period of five consecutive years after cessation of the present war.

ARTICLE IV

The Government of the U.S.S.R. guarantees removal from the concession territory, without hindrance and without taxation, of oil and coal stored and possessed by the Japanese concessionaires in accordance with stipulations of the terms for application of present protocol.

ARTICLE V

The present protocol shall come into force on the date of its signature.

The present protocol is done in the Japanese and Russian languages, both texts having equal force. In witness whereof the undersigned, duly authorized by their Governments, have signed the present protocol and have affixed their seals to it.

Done in duplicate in the city of Moscow on the 30th day of the third month of the 19th year of Showa, corresponding to March 30, 1944.

(This text, as transmitted by Domei, carried no signatures, but Japanese and Russian accounts of the agreements said the documents were signed by S. A. Lozovsky, Soviet Vice Commissar for Foreign Affairs, and Naotaka Sato, Japanese Ambassador in Moscow.)

Soviet Statement

Following is the text of a Soviet statement on the agreements signed with Japan, as broadcast to the Russian press from Moscow yesterday and reported by the United States Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service:

As the result of negotiations during the last few months between the Deputy People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics [Solomon A.] Lozovsky, and the Ambassador Extraordinary and Plentipotentiary of Japan to the U.S.S.R., Mr. Sato, a "protocol on the transfer to the Soviet Union off Japanese oil and coal concessions in north Sakhalin," published in today's papers, was signed in Moscow March 30, 1944.

The agreement is also published below as to the order in which the property of Japanese oil and coal concessions in northern Sakhalin is to be handed over to the Soviet Government, signed by representatives of both powers March 10. Besides the aforementioned protocol, "the conditions of the carrying out of the protocol" were also signed March 30. In this document are set out details connected with the fulfillment of the stipulations of the protocol regarding the transfer to the Soviet Government of the rights and property of Japanese concessions in north Sakhalin, terms of the evacuation to Japan of workers and employes, Japanese subjects engaged in oil and coal concessional enterprises, etc.

In 1925 the Soviet Government granted Japan oil and coal concessions in northern Sakhalin. Soviet-Japanese agreements on these concessions were concluded for a term of forty-five years, the agreement expiring in the year 1970. In the spring of 1941, in the course of negotiations for the concluding of the Soviet-Japanese neutrality pact, the Soviet Government put before the Japanese Government the question of the liquidation of the aforementioned Japanese concessions. Simultaneously with the signing on April 13, 1941, of the neutrality pact, the then Japanese Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr. [Yosuke] Matsuoka handed the Soviet Government a written undertaking containing a commitment to solve in a few months the question of the liquidation of the concessions in northern Sakhalin. This undertaking was confirmed by Mr. Matsuoka May 31, 1941, by a new declaration handed the Soviet Government through the Japanese Ambassador in Moscow, Mr. [Yoshitsugu] Tatekawa.

At the same time the Japanese undertook to solve the question of the liquidation of the concessions not later than within six months from the day of the signing of the neutrality pact. This commitment was not carried out by the Japanese. Only as the result of negotiations concluded March 30 were the Soviet-Japanese agreements signed on the liquidation of Japanese concessions in northern Sakhalin and on the transfer to the Soviet Union of the whole property of the concessions on the conditions stipulated in the agreement. Thus, as the result of the present agreement, Japanese concessions in northern Sakhalin are being liquidated twenty-six years before the expiration of the term of the concession agreements.

Simultaneously, the Soviet-Japanese protocol established amendments in the conditions of Japanese fishing in Far Eastern waters of the U. S. S. R. The new Soviet-Japanese agreement on the fishing convention stipulates the following:

1. The exclusion of twenty-four fishing areas leased to Japanese fishing concerns and not put into exploitation for two consecutive years.
2. The right of Soviet organizations to acquire yearly 10 per cent of the Japanese fishing areas put up for sale.
3. Increase in the lease and other payments in gold paid by Japanese fishing concerns by 6 per cent as compared with 1943.

Amending the fishing convention of 1928, according to which fishing activities of Soviet organizations and Soviet citizens were subject to a number of essential limitations, the Soviet-Japanese agreement of March 30 stipulates that all these limitations are to be abolished. This agreement exempts from the fishing convention all questions relating to the fishing activities of Soviet organizations and Soviet citizens as being subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of organs of the Soviet state.

The present Soviet-Japanese agreement also provides that until the end of this war Japanese subjects and other foreigners are prohibited from fishing in certain fishing areas in the Far East established by the Soviet Government in July, 1941.

Furthermore, in accordance with the wishes of the Government of the U.S.S.R., the Japanese Government assumed an undertaking to guarantee that all fishing areas leased by Japanese subjects situated on the eastern coast of Kamchatka and in the Olizutorsky district are not to be exploited by Japanese lessees until the end of the war in the Pacific. On March 30 the Japanese Government informed the Government of the U.S.S.R. of its decision to close the Japanese consulate general in the town of Alexandrovsk and the Japanese vice consulate in the town of Okha in northern Sakhalin.

The same day the Soviet Government informed the Japanese Government of its decision to close the Soviet consulates in the Japanese towns of Hakodate and Tsuruga.

Summary of Protocol

In a separate transmission reported by the United States Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service the Moscow radio broadcast to the Russian press this summary of three points contained in a protocol:

1. It is agreed between the U.S.S.R. and Japan that the Soviet Union will pay to Japan the sum of5,000,000 rubles as a consideration for the canceling of the concessions.
2. The U.S.S.R. agrees to supply Japan with 50,000 metric tons of oil obtained from the Okha oil wells on customary commercial terms during the five years following the end of the present war.
3. The U.S.S.R. guarantees to allow Japan to export unimpeded and tax free stored stocks of oil and coal from the territory of the concessions.

Chinese Worried Over Red-Jap Pact

MCOSA

Chungking, March 31 (AP)—The new Russian-Japanese agreements were taken here generally to imply that Russia will remain neutral in the Pacific war after Germany's defeat.

The developments also were regarded as explaining why Japan has found herself in a position to withdraw troops—rumored at ten divisions—from Manchuria for possible action in China and elsewhere.

Chinese here were increasingly apprehensive over the possibility of an all-out Japanese attempt to knock China out of the war, particularly if troops invading India disrupt the present air supply route—a tenuous link of immense value to the Chinese.

Army spokesmen recently have pointed to the likelihood of a major Japanese offensive designed to close the Chinese-held gaps in the Peiping-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow railways. If carried out this would have the effect of splitting China in half and neutralizing potential bases from which Japan could be bombed.

U. S. FLEET ATTACKING ISLES OFF PHILIPPINES

DAY

American Warships Hammer Palau and Jap Naval Units There Flee—Truk Is Blasted Again by U. S. Planes.

ERICKSON APR 1 1944

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, March 31 (A. P.).—Roaring defiance within 600 statute miles of the Philippines, masses of American warships opened the war's first attack Wednesday on the powerful Japanese naval base of Palau, and Nipponese naval units there, forewarned by planes of the armada's approach, deserted the area in flight.

"Our attacks continue," announced Admiral Chester W. Nimitz in phraseology recalling first disclosure of the overwhelming two-day carrier plane strike February 16-17 on Truk, 1,175 miles east of Palau.

It seemed likely that this deepest penetration on the road back to the Philippines was made by aircraft carrier task forces at least equal in size to those which dealt such heavy plane and naval losses to Japan at Truk and, a few days later, ripped part of the air defenses of Saipan, Tinian and Guam in the Marianas.

Admiral Nimitz's communique yesterday succinctly stated that "strong Pacific fleet forces, at dawn Wednesday, March 29 (west longitude (U. S.) date), initiated attacks on Japanese-held Palau Island."

His announcement of the Truk attack was in similar vein, leaving the presumption that the Palau assault was undertaken by hundreds of carrier planes, many of them believed operating from new, large aircraft carriers. Palau is 1,175 miles west of Truk.

The fact that Japanese warships at Palau, at the west end of the Carolines, "were observed fleeing the area before our units could reach attack positions" plainly indicated the attacking armada's impressive size. At Truk, in the Marianas and now at Palau, the United States Navy has moved boldly afar from home bases into long fortified nests of the enemy, fairly spoiling for a fight with Japan's elusive fleet.

4595 Miles From Pearl Harbor.

Admiral Nimitz said that Nipponese search planes from New Guinea helped spot the task force's approach, which may be taken to mean the Navy swung south of the Carolines to get at Palau. That would put the task forces in waters adjacent to the south-southwest Pacific command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

TRUK BOMBED FOR 3D TIME IN TWO DAYS

Pulusuk, In Carolines, Raided—Radio Silence Veils Palau Attack

JAMES DAY

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, March 31 (AP)—Japan's five principal strong points on Truk atoll were bombed by Seventh USAF Liberators Wednesday night in continuing the long-range aerial siege while heavy fleet units struck elsewhere in the Pacific, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The Liberators hit Dublon, Param, Uman, Fefan and Moen islands. American bombs set off heavy explosions and started fires on Dublon. Other fires were left blazing on Uman and Moen.

Only moderate anti-aircraft fire was encountered, Nimitz said.

Third Attack In Two Days

It was the third attack on Truk within two days by land-based planes from the Central and Southwest Pacific.

In other Central Pacific operations, a single Liberator bombed Ponape in the eastern Carolines, and army, navy and marine planes struck at four enemy positions in the Marshall Islands. Ammunition dumps, anti-aircraft batteries, warehouses and barges were targets in the Marshalls.

Silence Veils Truk Attack

Meanwhile, a force of American warships has carried the war to the Palau Islands, Japan's important naval base far on the way back to the Philippines.

Warned by scout planes of the approach of the armada, Nipponese ships fled before the United States combat vessels could get into position for the attack at the far western side of the Caroline islands.

Admiral Nimitz announced the new fleet action last night. He gave no details but stated "our attacks continue." Radio silence cloaks operations of this kind until the forces involved have completed their mission and returned to safer waters.

U. S. Fliers Machine-Gunned

DAY

IN ADVANCE SOLOMONS BASE, March 29 (Delayed) (AP)—Liberator bombers gave Truk its "best bombing" today, but in doing so encountered far stronger Zero opposition "than over Rabaul on its worst day."

McMURTRY

Airmen reported at least ten large fires, believed to be fed by oil, gasoline and ammunition, were left blazing on Eten Island. Among the fiery ruins were at least forty-nine Japanese planes caught on the ground. Hangars, machine shops and buildings were destroyed or damaged.

All fliers agreed at least 90 to 100 enemy fighters—some swore 200—gave them a ninety-minute battle. These planes were identified as Zeros, Tonies, in-line fighters, and still newer Tojos, which resemble the American Thunderbolt.

"Rabaul, Kahili and Nauru were a snap in comparision," Staff Sgt. George Benedict, 25, of Springfield, Mo., said.

The lead plane of one group was shot down in flames. Some crewmen bailed out and Zeros "followed them down like vultures," strafing the men and plane, Sergeant Benedict said.

Tech. Sgt. Chester A. Grabiec of Cleveland, Ohio, said, "I know at least sixty Zeros dived on us from above and thirty at our belly." He said he got one Zero and Staff Sgt. Oscar Loper of Long Island, N. Y., ball gunner, another. Both were in a Liberator piloted by Lieut. Hugh F. Scott of 481 Stadium Avenue, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Lieut. Herbert Mazer of 95 Newport Street, Brooklyn, a bombadier, said "We never did a better bombing job."

"We plastered the target," he went on, "we saw at least three planes burning on the ground. We got some Zeros."

Staff Sgt. George Volchko, 302 Lynn, Central City, Pa., radioman and waist gunner, commented: "It was a wonder the Zeros didn't shoot us out of the sky." He said the Japanese strafing of the downed Liberator crew "was plain murder."

"They were one of our best crews. All had over forty missions."

He said he saw some ships in the Truk lagoon scurrying away, but none was bombed as the fliers had orders to concentrate on Eten.

Tech. Sgt. Lewis Stults, radio-man-waist gunner of Portland, Me., said: "I think the Japs had been drinking sake all morning and were just waiting for us. They are eager fanatics—pretty rugged for little guys—but inaccurate."

Second Lieut. Sherwood Griffith of Middleborough, Mass., said flak vests saved "lots of us" as Zero shells hit several Liberators.

Pulusuk Raided For First Time

Advanced Solomons Base, March 26 (AP — Delayed) — Thirteenth Air Force Liberators today raided Pulusuk Island, 200 miles from Truk in the Caroline islands, dropping more than 30 tons of bombs.

[This is the first report of a bombing attack on Pulusuk. It preceded Wednesday's raid on Truk by South and Central Pacific forces.

Lieut. Willard Pueppke, 24, Avaner, Mo., pilot, said the Liberators met neither anti-aircraft fire nor Zeros. However, 100 miles out on the return journey three single-engine planes dogged the formation for 20 minutes, but never attacked or came close enough for positive identification.

M'ARTHUR FLIERS RAN RACE TO TRUK

Liberators Vied for 'First' From South Pacific—Other Airmen Tell of Fierce Foe

DOPKINS DAY

ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BOMBER BASE, Thirteenth United States Air Force, March 29 (Delayed) (AP)—American airmen raced over 1,000 miles of ocean in two night reconnaissance Liberators to see which land-based United States planes from the South Pacific would drop the first bomb on Truk.

The plane of Lieut. Donald Thompson of Newkirk, Okla., won the race by five minutes, sweeping in before dawn today and starting a huge fire in fuel tanks on Dublon Island.

Right behind him came Lieut. Arthur A. Deland of Dunkirk, N. Y., to kindle a fire with more bombs.

Flames lighted the sky for miles. It was so bright Capt. Gerard M. Leies of Chicago could make out his weather report in the plane by the light of Truk's fires.

The raid was among the longest of the war, covering more than 2,000 miles. Pilots had barely enough gasoline to make it back.

The bombs stuck in the bomb bay when Lieutenant Thompson made his first run. Some fell out on the second run. Others stuck. Second Lieut. Robert L. Curnow of Platteville, Wis., bombadier, kicked them out. A few minutes later a huge red ball of fire spurted up. They had hit a fuel tank.

No interception was encountered by either plane and only two bursts of ack-ack were seen.

"We caught them with their pants down," said Lieutenant Thompson.

Members of his crew include Second Lieut. Gordon C. Zwirtz of Gaylord, Minn., co-pilot; Second Lieut. Clayton F. Seavers of Cleveland, Ohio, navigator; Tech. Sgt. Andrew R. Palandino of Center Ridge, Ark., engineer and top turret gunner; Staff Sgt. Norman C. Ryster, assitant engineer and gunner, of Durham, N. C.; Staff Sgt. Robert H. Crissoan, radio operator, of Sanford, N. C.; Tech. Sgt. Horace T. Sullivan, communications, of Fort Pierce, Fla., and Staff Sgt. Grady Ayers of Gadsden, Ala.

Truk Bombed Also By MacArthur's Planes

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Saturday, April 1 (AP)—Fresh raids on Japanese bases at Truk and Woleai islands in the Carolines by navy Liberator and Catalina bombers from the South and Southwest Pacific, were reported in General MacArthur's communique today.

The latest attacks were in far smaller force than the noonday blow against Truk Wednesday, but they served to establish the fact that the strike need not be regarded as an isolated one-time bombing stunt.

A headquarters spokesman said the Truk operation reported today was in the nature of a harassing raid. It was conducted by South Pacific-based Liberator and heavy bombers early Wednesday morning, a few hours before the main assault.

Woleai Hammered

Woleai was hit by navy Catalinas and Liberators the following night, the Catalinas striking first about midnight across the southern end of the island and the Liberators coming over during the early morning to bomb the airdrome in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire. Catalinas had attacked Woleai, 380 miles south of Guam, Tuesday night for the first time.

Enemy installations on Euaripik Island, 60 miles southwest of Woleai, also were bombed by the Catalinas.

The communique also announced new gains for Allied land forces in the Admiralty Islands and New Guinea.

In the Admiralties, dismounted troopers of the First Cavalry Division landed Thursday on Pityilu Island, in the chain of isles guarding the entrance to Seadler harbor, which touches Manus and Los Negros islands. The latter islands already are under the control of the cavalrymen.

Sniping Fire Encountered

The cavalrymen, covered by American destroyers and PT boats, and Australian aircraft, encountered only sniping fire as they advanced across Pityilu. Destroyer attacks on the island last week had made the conquest easier for the troopers.

On the northeast coast of New Guinea, the Allies tightened the two-way squeeze on Japanese holdings in the Bogadjim-Madang area. Australian troops advancing through the mountains south of Bogadjim reached a point only ten miles south of that objective Wednesday, coming in contact with the enemy.

To the east, on the same day, strong American patrols from the Saidor garrison—leading elements of the main force—reached positions only 13 miles from Bogadjim.

Large Fires Started

In Thursday raids on enemy installations north of Australia, Liberators hit Langgoer airdrome with 47 tons of bombs, starting large fires, and Dutch-manned Mitchell medium bombers attacked Penfoei airdrome on Timor.

Five Japanese fighter planes jumped a Liberator during the assault on Langgoer airfield, and the crew of the big bomber knocked down three of the attackers.

A Japanese destroyer in Keravia Bay, at Rabaul, New Britain, was strafed by Solomons-based fighters Wednesday. An explosion was observed aboard the warship.

HEAVY AIR RAIDS PROTECT REAR OF FORCES OFF PALAU

American Planes Strike From Marshall and Solomon Islands.

NIGHT

FUEL DUMPS HIT

Progress of Attack East of Philippines Unknown as Ships Keep Radios Silent.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Land-based American bombers, converging on Truk from two directions, are continuing an unprecedent series of raids on Japan's central Pacific fortress.

Four-engined bombers from the Solomon and the Marshall islands have carried out four heavy strikes on Truk within two days, protecting the rear of the Navy's powerful carrier forces attacking the Palau islands, Japan's guardian of the Philippines.

Fuel Dumps Set Afire

Central Pacific bombers hit five Truk islands in their second midweek raid. Solomons planes, making a 2,000-mile round trip flight, set fuel storage dumps afire on Truk's Dublon island. Simultaneously southwest Pacific planes raided Woleai and Eauripik islands, midway between Truk and Palau, General Douglas MacArthur announced today.

The communique indicated that Japan's central Pacific strongholds may take a regular spot on Gen. MacArthur's bombing schedule.

The latest attacks to be announced were in far smaller force than the noonday blow against Truk last Wednesday, but they served to establish the fact that the strike need not be regarded as an isolated one-time bombing stunt.

A headquarters spokesman said the Truk operation reported today was in the nature of a harassing raid.

Airdrome Bombed

Woleai was hit by Navy Catalinas and Liberators, the Catalinas striking first about midnight across the southern end of the island and the Liberators coming over during the early morning to bomb the airdrome in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire. Catalinas had attacked Woleai, 380 miles south of Guam, Tuesday night for the first time.

Enemy installations on Euaripik island, 60 miles southwest of Woleai, also were bombed by the Catalinas.

The communique also announced new gains for Allied land forces in the Admiralty Islands and New Guinea.

New Gains in Admiralties

In the Admiralties, dismounted troopers of the First Cavalry division landed Thursday on Pityilu island, in the chain of isles guarding the entrance to Seadler harbor which touches Manus and Los Negros islands. The latter islands already are under the control of the cavalrymen.

The cavalrymen, covered by American destroyers and P-T boats, and Australian aircraft, encountered only sniping fire as they advanced across Pityilu. Destroyer attacks on the island last week had made the conquest easier for the troopers.

On the northeast coast of New Guinea, the Allies tightened the two-way squeeze on Japanese holdings in the Bogadjim-Madang area. Australian troops advancing through the mountains south of Bogadjim reached a point only 10 miles south of that objective Wednesday, coming in contact with the enemy.

To the east, on the same day, strong American patrols from the Saidor garrison — leading elements of the main force—reached positions only 13 miles from Bogadjim.

Radio Silence Shields Result of Palau Raid

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, March 31—(AP) A challenging force of American warships, so powerful that it frightened a section of the Japanese fleet, has carried the war to the Palau islands, Japan's important naval base far on the way back to the Philippines.

Warned by enemy scout planes of the approach of the armada, Nipponese ships fled before the United States combat vessels could get into position for the attack at the far western side of the Caroline islands.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced the new fleet action last night in a terse communique. He gave no details but stated significantly, "our attacks continue." Radio silence cloaks operations of this kind until the forces involved have completed their mission and returned to safer waters.

bombing range of General MacArthur's heavy bombers.

Headquarters called newsmen into special conference to announce that Solomons-based Liberators at midday Wednesday had smashed through a Japanese aerial defense of 90 Zeros to score 200 direct hits which destroyed 49 parked aircraft.

Fleet Attacks Palau

A subsequent announcement by the navy that the United States Fleet was attacking Palau west of Truk indicated that MacArthur's raid on Truk and an earlier one on the same islands by central Pacific planes were designed to pin down the enemy air force while the big surface ships carried the fight westward.

MacArthur's flyers were busy elsewhere, taking Liberator four-engine bombers over Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, for a stinging blow at that enemy base. A third strike, by Catalinas, was directed at Woleai, in the Caroline group.

Shops, Hangars Bombed

Liberators hitting at Eten in the Truk group—without fighter cover—springled bombs thoroughly on shop, hangar area, parking aprons, runways and dispersal areas. They claimed 35 enemy fighters, 4 medium bombers and ten dive bombers were destroyed.

"Other damage was heavy," said the communique. One Liberator was lost.

While the announcement did not give the take-off point for MacArthur's bombers, Truk is about 625 nautical miles from Lorengau in the Admiralties.

In other air forays Allied bombers dropped 95 tons of explosives on shipping and supply areas in the Wewak sector, New Guinea; 20 tons at Bogia in the Hansa Bay, New Guinea, supply area, and 90 tons on Rabaul, New Britain, airdromes and supply dumps.

FORTRESS OF TRUK CAN BE BY-PASSED, PALAU RAID HINTS

WASHINGTON, March 31—(AP) The Pacific fleet attack on Palau island was regarded today as final proof that the once strong Japanese fortress of Truk now can be bombed, by-passed and forgotten by American forces striking from the central and southwest Pacific toward the Philippines and a strangle-hold on Japan's sea supply lines.

This assault, taken in conjunction with the raid on Saipan island northwest of Truk several weeks ago, indicates that Truk itself probably won't have to be invaded and captured as part of the campaign to open a sea road to the Philippines and eventually to the South China coast.

Moreover, by coincidence in timing, the assault was viewed as having an important bearing on the Moscow-Tokyo disclosure today that for the duration of the war the Japanese would have to relinquish their oil concessions in the northern and Russian half of Sakhalin island.

Whether the Russians intended it that way or not, the Japanese appear to be headed into an economic squeeze play the full pressure of which they will feel when American forces cut their north-south supply lines at the Philippines and they no longer get any oil from Sakhalin.

Their Sakhalin oil take is small—estimated by Washington experts to total approximately 100,000 tons a year. This compares with their total need of seven to eight million tons.

Most of this huge requirement the enemy now obtains from north Borneo, the Netherlands Indies and Burma. These sources could be entirely shut off from Japan proper once blockading American ships and planes operate from Philippine bases.

In evident anticipation of this catastrophe the Japanese for two years have been developing synthetic oil plants in their home islands and in Manchuria, manufacturing oil from coal, of which they have ample supplies in north China, Manchuria and Korea.

Should they be compelled to rely on synthetic oil for the bulk of their fuel, however, every ton of natural oil would be of utmost importance and their loss of the Sakhalin concession would prove extremely damagir.

Air Loss Biggest In Any Allied Operation DAY

BEALMEAR

London, March 31 (AP)—A great armada of RAF bombers numbering probably more than 1,000 smashed at the southern German transport center and Nazi congress city of Nuernberg and other points in the Reich last night at a cost of 96 planes—the heaviest toll ever taken of an Allied air fleet in a single operation.

The record loss was announced just as the entire German network with the exception of Vienna in old Austria shut down this morning shortly after the warning that "enemy planes are approaching."

The first warnings said the daylight raiders were over Hessen-Nassau province in Prussia in which Frankfurt is situated.

Germans Claim 132

The RAF's announced loss, which contrasted to German claims of having shot down 132 four-engined bombers, was incurred in the 17th heavy bomber operation in March by the British sky fleet.

The attack force, which probably was one of the largest ever sent out, the daylight raiders streaking over the Reich, and a huge fleet which raided Sofia in Bulgaria yesterday wound up the biggest month yet in the European air war.

Airfields Shot Up

The attack on Nuernberg—the scene of Adolf Hitler's pre-war Nazi party rallies and the peacetime center of the toy industry—was the ninth of the war on that city.

It was carried out while British Intruders ranged over the continent shooting up airfields in France, the low countries and Germany itself and while a small force of German raiders was giving London its first alert in three nights.

Key Railway Center

The official description of the Nuernberg raid as in "very great strength" suggested that about 2,240 short tons of bombs had fallen on the city where 108 acres of the built-up area had been devastated by previous blows.

The heaviest previous load for that target was 1,680 tons on August 27, 1943, when the city was last hit in force.

The city is one of the most important railway and industrial centers of southern Germany. It is the site of such war plants as the M. A. N. Diesel engine works, the Faun motor works, the Siemens-Schukert electrical works and other plants turning out tanks, armored vehicles and other front-line equipment.

Plane Plant There

It is the junction of railway lines leading from the Ruhr to southeast Germany and from Berlin to Munich and Italy. It had a peacetime population of 450,000.

The industrial area is chiefly in the southern outskirts which extend to suburban Furth, where a big Messerschmitt factory is located.

The record loss suffered by the RAF—which the Germans attributed to their fighters rather than to their ground defenses—demonstrated that Reichsmarshal Goering's air force still has a potent wallop.

79 Lost At Leipzig

It served as a reminder of the statement of Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair only this week that the German fighter force is massed in western Europe and has many vicious battles in its system yet.

While the loss was far above anything the RAF previously had suffered—the previous top loss wa 79 in the raid on Leipzig on February 19—and was still farther beyond the record American loss of 68 in the daylight raid on Berlin on March 6, it failed to compare numerically with the 185 which the Germans lost in their biggest day over Britain on September 15, 1940.

94 R.A.F. BOMBERS LOST IN NIGHT RAID

NIGHT

Nuernberg Blasted, Loss Is Greatest for Single Mission by Allies.

HERCHER

LONDON, March 31—(AP) The R.A.F. suffered a record loss of 94 planes last night as its heavy bombers fought grimly, through the greatest Nazi fighter force ever seen by British pilots and a determined ground defense which included a new type of "scare crow rocket," to rip Nuernberg and other Reich targets.

While the cost was the greatest ever sustained by the Allies for a single operation, March remained a month of victory for British and American air power. It was reliably estimated that the R.A.F. made 6,500 bomber sorties (individual flights) over Germany in March with a loss of 4.6 per cent of the force sent out.

Three-Hour Sky Battle

Nor were the Germans able to turn back this latest thrust of the big British Lancasters and Halifaxes in a three-hour pitched battle which raged alternately through clouds and bright patches of moonlight.

The official description of the Nuernberg raid as in "very great strength" suggested that in the neighborhood of 2,240 short tons of bombs were dropped by a force of probably 1,000 four-engined bombers on that southern German transport center and Nazi congress city which now is about the size of Cincinnati, Ohio. Nuernberg, the birthplace of the Nazi party, was a peacetime center of the toy industry and now is a war plant and electrical engineering hub.

The German warning radio began its usual refrain tonight declaring: "Single nuisance planes were penetrating western Germany." This probably heralded new Mosquito bomber attacks and possibly the first strong, fresh R.A.F. fleet return to get revenge.

A round trip of 1,000 miles was required for the Nuernberg operation. While the city is not as far from the British planes' home bases as Berlin, to reach it the R.A.F. bombers had to fly over long stretches of German territory which seem lately to be more desperately defended than the Berlin route.

Nazis Claim 141 Bombers

The British announcement of the loss of 94 planes contrasted with a German claim that 141 bombers were destroyed.

Describing the new type "scare crow rocket," which is fired from the ground, one Lancaster pilot said:

"I saw a lot of them soon after we got into Germany and some over the target. They came up like flares and then hung in the sky. Then they burst and scattered like clusters of incendiaries. One hit the ground and it looked almost as if a 100-pounder was going off."

While searchlights raced across the sky, German fighter planes charged into the light of their own flares, returning British airmen said. They reported seeing fires spreading and taking firm hold in Nuernberg below the clouds.

Big Explosion Reported

Reporting one large explosion observed during the middle of the attack, Flight Sergeant C. P. Steedsman, of Parrytown, Ontario, Canada, said "a light flashed through the clouds in a bright orange glow. It lasted some seconds."

The Germans' aggressive night fighter defense, coupled with their daytime wariness, was interpreted as being not inconsistent with their policy of conserving planes since it is much harder to shoot down fighters in night combat.

RAF night bombers, armed principally with light .303 machine guns, shoot down so few Germans compared with dayHght bombers that their bag is not an item of the regular official report.

Still exulting over the British loss, the German radio today asserted that the RAF failed to fool the Nazi defending force with diversionary thrusts and that the German attack increased the deeper the bombers went.

A recapitulation of March air activities reveals that during the month United States heavy bombers scored 23 major attacks against Hitler's European fortress and with their fighter escort destroyed at least 734 enemy aircraft in the air and on the ground.

During March American Flying Fortresses and Liberators reached Berlin for the first time in daylight and then in four heavy attacks proceeded to dump more than 6,000 short tons of bombs on selected targets in the area of the German capital.

Fighter Records Broken

American Thunderbolts, Lightnings and Mustangs broke all fighter records in the first heavy Berlin attack on March 6 by shooting down 83 Nazi fighters in one operation, and then made the same score over Berlin two days later.

Both American and British losses were high in the month's offensive, directed especially against the German air force and its sources of production.

The Americans lost at least 293 heavy bombers and 134 fighters, the latter figure being a record for one month's operation.

Including last night's loss, 279 British planes failed to return from night operations during the month, which saw RAF bombers of some type over Europe for 28 nights.

Greatest Bomb Load

There were five nights during the month when 1,000 or more British aircraft crowded the skies and on March 22 the RAF dropped more than 3,360 short tons of explosives and incendiaries on Frankfurt—the greatest bomb load ever deposited on a single target.

In a steady series of lighter attacks, medium Marauders of the United States Ninth Air Force flew more than 3,500 sorties during the month, dropping nearly 4,500 short tons of bombs on enemy airfields and transportation centers in occupied France, Belgium and the Netherlands.

This was the heaviest month yet for the expanding tactical force and far exceeded the previous record of 2,000 sorties and 3,200 tons established in February.

RAF Hits Troopship DAY

London, March 31 (AP)—A 14,000-ton German troopship was torpedoed in RAF attacks on a convoy off Norway, the British announced today.

The announcement said the troopship, the former Monte Rosa of the Hamburg-South American Line, was hit twice by torpedoes from RAF Beaufighters, who were unable to observe the results because of intense flak. Two of the escorting ships were also believed damaged and an ME-110 was shot down to the loss of two British planes, the announcement said.

Berlin's account said seven out of 18 attacking British planes were shot down by the convoy's guns and escorting planes. It termed the attack unsuccessful.

Convoy Off Holland Attacked

British motor torpedo boats attacked a German convoy off the coast of Holland during the night but were driven off, the Berlin radio said today. There was no immediate mention of the reported action by British sources.

A later German broadcast said that light British naval forces had attacked another Nazi convoy between Dieppe and Boulogne and declared two of the British vessels were set afire.

DIARIES OUT FOR DURATION AY

London, March 31 (A. P.).—Diaries have been ruled out for the duration, as far as allied troops in the European theater of operations are concerned.

In a move obviously linked with preparations for the forthcoming invasion of western Europe, the censor's office last night called in all diaries and said they would be stored for safekeeping until the war is over. Censors explained that diaries sometimes contain information of military value which might fall into enemy hands during combat.

At the same time new security rules banned the playing of chess by trans-Atlantic mail. Chain letters and correspondence with lonely hearts clubs were forbidden.

Meanwhile, the Germans intensified anti-invasion preparations by directing that every German not in the armed forces must learn to shoot immediately.

BRITAIN RESTRICTS INVASION COAST

NIGHT

LONDON, March 31.—(AP) British authorities tonight sealed a 10-to-30-mile deep belt of their whole invasion coast facing Hitler's continental defenses to screen massed American-British forces preparing for the greatest assault in history.

It need not necessarily be taken that the action banning telescopes and binoculars and tightly controlling civilian movements in this front-line coastal area from the wash on the north to Land's End in the southwest foretells an imminent Allied attack.

The moves, announced ten days ago, are intended to guard against espionage inside the limits of the great potential springboard for a cross-channel assault which—when-

Chairman Maloney (D-Conn) said tonight the session was secret because of the delicate international questions involved in Leavell's testimony.

The Ministry of Aircraft Production announced that subject to shareholders' ratification the Government will operate the company.

SAYS U. S. USED I. R. A. DOCUMENT

Member of Parliament Tells of Protest to Eire.

APR 1 1942

London, March 31 (A. P.).—The House of Commons was told today that a document captured by the Royal Ulster Constabulary showed that the outlawed Irish Republican Army planned to cooperate with the enemy, that this document was among evidences given to Prime Minister Eamon de Valera by the American Minister, David Gray, to support the request for closing Axis consulates in Eire.

Prof. Douglas Lloyd Savory, Conservative, from Belfast, said that the document included complete maps of bays and water depths along the whole coast of Northern Ireland.

"I am not disclosing secret information I have, but I have an immense amount of material to show the danger of these enemy agents being maintained in Ireland," he declared.

Emery S. Evans, Under-Secretary for Dominion Affairs, replied for the Government: "I can give this assurance that the position with regard to the presence of Axis legations—which we would be only too glad to see out of Ireland—is being very carefully watched."

Shaw Takes Part in Row.

Meanwhile today, in an article published in Forward, the Scottish weekly, George Bernard Shaw declares that President Roosevelt has made a really stupid mistake in trying to influence Irish policy in international affairs.

Mr. Shaw said that Eire, "that powerless little cabbage garden," has come out on top against the great Powers witn a neutrality policy which once seemed "crackbrained," and predicted that Prime Minister De Valera, backed by all Ireland, soon "will tell the President in fact to go to hell; and he will get away with it again."

Recalling that when the Irish Free State was established in 1921 he assumed that Great Britain would have to reoccupy it as a military necessity in the event of another great war, Mr. Shaw wrote that when Britain failed to do this because of its possible effect on the United States he had suggested that Eire "should stand in with the commonwealth."

Recalls Fight Threat.

Mr. De Valera, Mr. Shaw went on, "described the suggestion as contemptible and declared that with his army of 40,000 . . . he would fight any and every Power that dared to invade his country; this in the then quite possible event of Germany invading Eire on the west and south and England necessarily throwing in an army on the north and east."

"It seemed a crack-brained line to take, yet Mr. De Valera got away with it," Mr. Shaw declared.

Changed by Pearl Harbor.

"England, still with an eye on America, pocketed his refusal of ports and decided to be content with Northern Ireland. Thus he (De Valera) was saved by the partition which he abhorred."

Eden Reported Set To Quit

London, March 31 (AP)—Anthony Eden was reported on the verge today of stepping down as Britain's Foreign Secretary and the London News-Chronicle commented that "as things now stand, he is almost certain to be the next conservative Prime Minister."

There has been talk for a week or more, that Eden might resign his present office with such a higher post in view as the ultimate objective. It was said he may give his full time to the role of Government leader of the House of Commons, a position which he now fills in addition to being Foreign Secretary.

"Training For Prime Minister"

"It is felt that by devoting himself exclusively to House affairs," said John McVane, NBC reporter, last night, "Mr. Eden will receive that training in domestic affairs which a future Prime Minister should have."

McVane said he had learned definitely from "trustworthy information" that Eden would resign the post he has held for the major part of a critical decade.

Possible Successor Named

Lord Cranborne, Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs and long-time advocate of Eden's foreign policy, was mentioned as the most likely among possible successors as Foreign Secretary.

"To be Foreign Secretary at this moment in the world's history and in the existing political circumstances is not the surest road to success," the News-Chronicle said in commenting on the Eden report.

"In such a role at such a time the strongest Minister would find his capacities and courage taxed to the uttermost. If, in addition, he had to accept the responsibility for defending and implementing policies that were not his own, but were taken—so to speak—over his head, he might well judge his prospects to be unrosy."

Eden A Churchill Protege

Eden, now only 46, long has been more or less of a protege of Prime Minister Churchill. Ten years or more ago Churchill described Eden as "the only fresh figure of first magnitude arising out of the generation which was ravaged by the (first) great war."

If Eden does decide to devote himself wholly to leadership of the House of Commons, he will be faced with the problem offered by some members still disgruntled over the procedure by which the Churchill Government won a vote of confidence yesterday.

Papers Chide Prime Minister

Some London newspapers continued to chide Churchill today in editorial cartoons. Critics commented that the Prime Minister, having forced his confidence vote, should now state plainly his position on the equal-pay issue for men and women teachers, the comparatively insignificant spark that brought him into the House chambers, demanding unqualified support for his policies.

During the question period that preceded yesterday's confidence vote, the Prime Minister reaffirmed, under the prodding of Laborite R. Sorensen, that "the Atlantic Charter and its principles remain our dominating aim and purpose."

hurchill Pays a Visit 'o British Armored Unit

Takes Practice Run in Tank, Looks Fit and Cheerful

A BRITISH ARMY CORPS HEADQUARTERS, Somewhere in England, March 31 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill dashed through an inspection of this elite armored outfit today, clambering into tanks and aggressively poking about amid the armor assembled here.

With his famous square hat jammed firmly on his head, his enormous cigar tilted belligerently upward and his manner determined, he spoke to the famous troop unit in terms of challenge and faith.

He radiated confidence and pride in his recent victory in the House of Commons and seemed particularly cheerful over the tanks in this outfit—some new British types and some American Shermans.

The Prime Minister helped himself over the steep sides of a half-tractor and into the bows of a tank—in which he took a sharp and rough practice run—and looked more fit than at any time since his winter illness.

Churchill inspected some of the finest troops under the British banners and peered down reflectively at them all as he rode slowly by on his half-tractor. He asked a dozen or more penetrating questions and turned away at last, waving as he left.

135,000 MEN IDLE IN BRITISH STRIKES

DAY LONG

London, March 31 (A. P.).—Britain's war industry strikes had 135,000 men idle in the coal mines and shipyards today, despite union pleas and a Government crackdown voiding draft deferments.

At least 25,000 shipbuilding and machinist apprentices were on strike throughout the great Tyneside and Clydeside districts and in the Huddersfield and Middlesbrough areas of the Midlands, in protest against the Government's failure to exempt them from a draft to the mines.

Many apprentices who rejected union pleas to return to work received notice to report for medical examinations, the first step in the Government's move to make them work or fight. Some went back to work when the call-up was threatened, but the strike spread to virtually as many others.

The Yorkshire miners' strike extended to 20,000 more men, bringing the total to over 90,000. Production was crippled in seventy pits. Unlike the recent South Wales strike, over extra pay for special work, the dispute in Yorkshire hinges upon the miners' objection to pay deductions for coal taken to their own homes. Meetings were called in many communities for this week end to vote on union appeals to resume work.

For several weeks, 20,000 have been on strike in the Belfast shipyards where the latest union appeals likewise apparently were ignored.

SCHMELING TO BOX YOUNG NAZI IN ROME

DAY

Stockholm, March 31 (A. P.).—Max Schmeling, Germany's former world heavyweight boxing champion, has arrived in Rome for a boxing match with a young Nazi paratrooper stationed on the Cassino front, the German-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau reported today from the Italian capital.

Reports from Stockholm in January said that Schmeling had been released from German military duties and had retired to a farm near Cologne.

The former heavyweight champion was reported by the Berlin radio on September 8, 1942, to have been so badly wounded in the battle for Crete that he would never be able to enter the ring again. A month later the same radio announced that Schmeling had turned in his continental European heavyweight crown to the European Boxing Union.

Hungarians Reported Surrendering To Reds

NIGHT

Madrid, March 31 (AP) — Entire Hungarian army units, in some cases led by their officers, are abandoning long-prepared Carpathian Mountain defenses and surrendering to the advancing Russian army, reports reaching here tonight said.

The surrenders may open wide breaches in the Carpathian defenses to allow the Russians to pour across into Hungary proper, the reports said. Clashes between Hungarian and German forces were said to be increasing.

Other reports said two members of the quisling government named after the German occupation of Hungary had resigned and that the Nazi Government had "suggested" to Admiral Nicholas Horthy, Hungarian Regent, that he accept the appointment of a "special representative" of Hitler in Budapest.

Suggested for the job were Arthur Seyss Inquart, present Gauleiter of the Netherlands, or Manfred von Killinger, who was one of the most powerful Nazi agents in the pre-war Balkans. He is said to have played an important part in the organization of Ustachi bands in Hungarian territory and is believed to have helped plan the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia in October, 1934.

Reds Capture Ochakov

DAY

London, March 31 (AP)—Red army forces rolling westward along the shores of the Black Sea have captured Ochakov, 40 miles east of the former great Russian naval base of Odessa, Premier Stalin announced today in a special order of the day.

Ochakov's capture represents a gain of 32 miles from Nikolaev by Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Third Ukranian Army, which forced the Bug river estuary south of Nikolaev only yesterday.

"Troops of the Third Ukrainian front developing their offensive, captured the fortress and town of Ochakov, an important strongpoint in the German defenses covering the entrance to the Dnieper-Bug estuary," said Stalin's announcement broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Moscow, March 31 (A. P.).—Surging across the northern Prut river through captured Czernowitz, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First Ukrainian Army is moving up into the Carpathian mountains toward Hungary and Rumania, dispatches from the front declared today.

[The Galician oil town of Stanislavov is today within gun range of the Russian forces, the British radio reported in a broadcast recorded by CBS. The German news agency spoke of fighting in the outskirts of Stanislavov, after Russian troops have broken through defenses held by Hungarian chasseurs.

The broadcast also quoted Reuter's Moscow correspondent as reporting that in Buckovina the Red Army has reached a point high up in the Prut Valley which is only eight miles from a pass leading into Tisza Valley and down on the far side of the Carpathian Mountains. The Tartar Pass, a little further west, is now also threatened. By today the Russians were within twelve miles of this pass.

Marshal Zhukov's forces "have already made contact with guerrillas bands on the higher slopes of the Carpathians," a Moscow message quoted by the British radio reported today.]

Marshal Zhukov's vanguards rolled through Delatyn, fifteen miles north of the Hungarian border where the pass of the Tartars leads through the Carpathians into former Czecho-Slovakian territory given to Hungary when Hitler dismembered the Czecho-Slovak State. After routing the German defenders of Czernowitz, Zhukov's troops pushed on south through Storozhints, fifteen miles north of the present Rumanian border, a Russian communique said.

Meanwhile, the Second Ukrainian Army, commanded by Marshal Ivan S. Konev, remained poised on the east bank of the Prut, where it forms the frontier of Rumania.

200,000 Germans Face Capture in Trap Being Forged at Odessa.

YARBROUGH

LONDON, Saturday, April 1.—(AP) Russian troops hurling thousands of exhausted Germans back into the Odessa bottleneck on the Black sea yesterday captured the ancient fortress of Ochakov, 38 miles east of the big port, and to the west cut the main Axis escape route into Rumania by seizing Sipotyany on the Odessa-Kishinev-Iasi railway, Moscow announced today.

Soviet marines attacking across the Bug and Dnieper river estuaries from Kindurinskaya Kosa on a peninsula two miles south of Ochakov aided in the capture of the fortress which Russia's 18th century military hero, Marshal Alexander Suvorov, seized from the Turks.

Near Odessa Defenses

This blow by sea occurred while other Red army forces broke into the city from the northeast and raced through more than 160 other villages with such speed that the Russians might reach Odessa's lake-fringed defenses over the week end.

Whole trainloads of German equipment were seized intact from an enemy fleeing "in panic" toward Odessa, said a broadcast-bulletin recorded by the Soviet monitor.

It is estimated that 200,000 Germans, many of them wounded and exhausted by their long retreat, were being herded into the Odessa area for possible entrapment as other Russian forces attacking southward in pre-war Rumania overran their major escape channel and struck to within 32 miles of Kishinev, Bessarabian capital.

2,000 Nazis Slain

One Soviet unit driving on Kishinev killed more than 2,000 Germans yesterday, the bulletin said, and a total of more than 430 localities were seized by three Russian armies in advances up to 10 miles.

In the northwest the Russians reduced the Kamenets Podolsk pocket along the middle Dniester river to less than 200 square miles by capturing a score of localities in a circular area where thousands of Germans already have perished and it was likely the Russians would crush the last enemy resistance in that area shortly.

Moscow dispatches also placed the Red army within 12 miles of the Hungarian and north Rumanian borders, and Berlin said the Russians were attacking at Stanislau in the southeastern corner of old Poland, 70 miles northwest of Czernowitz, Bucovina capital taken Thursday.

At Czernowitz the Russians said today their troops killed more than 1,500 Germans, captured 900, and also destroyed or captured 40 enemy transport planes before the craft could take off.

Hold East Bank of Prut

The Russians also were poised on an 85-mile section of the east bank of the Prut river for a smash into eastern Rumania, but there was no official Soviet indication that the Red army yet had crossed the river although Berlin again told of a Russian attack "in the direction of Iasi, Rumanian rail hub seven miles beyond the Prut."

The Russians first reached the Prut near Iasi last Sunday, but since then Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second front army has sent his troops southward in Bessarabia toward the Rumanian coastal plains instead of crossing the Prut and emptying into the Black sea. That stroke may foreshadow Soviet amphibious operations against Odessa, the former Soviet Black sea fleet naval base which the Russians lost in 1941 after a two-months' siege.

Berezovka, 50 miles north of Odessa, also fell to Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Third Ukraine army attacking on the eastern wing of a 175-mile front which rapidly is folding back the Germans against the Black sea and the lower Danube in Rumania.

SOFIA BLOWS TIED TO RUSSIAN DRIVE

Allied Air Attacks Called Link in Politico-Military Assault on Balkans

KENNEDY DAY

NAPLES, March 31 (AP)—Day and night assaults by American and British heavy bombers on the Bulgarian capital of Sofia have "definite political aspects" and are closely tied up with the Russian advance into the Balkans, a high Allied air officer disclosed today.

He said the bombings, which for a thirty-six-hour period ending yesterday rained almost continuous destruction on Sofia's railway yards and other installations and sent smoke mounting two miles into the sky, might have far-reaching effects on Adolf Hitler's shaky Balkan satellite.

"They are also linked with any western front offensive which may come," the officer said. "The idea is to give the Germans as much trouble as possible and tie up as many of their troops as possible, both in Italy and the Balkans."

Sofia is about 400 airline miles from the nearest points of the Russian advance, and it lies on a main Balkan rail line that is of vital importance to the Germans in their efforts to stem the Red Army's great push into southeastern Europe.

Balkan Unrest Grows

The Bulgarian masses are strongly pro-Russian, and it long has been predicted that the approach of Russian troops would have tremendous repercussions in the country.

Some evidence of this has come already. The German radio said Tuesday that twenty-seven persons had been condemned to death for pro-Russian activities and the Bulgarian radio said the Government was resorting to stern measures against sabotage. Ever-increasing unrest, giving every sign of being an organized campaign, was reported from Hungary and Rumania.

Reliable reports reaching here say the Germans are building a powerful line along the Carpathian Mountains, which swing crescentwise through central Rumania. The biggest single prize in Rumania—the Ploesti oil fields—are on the Russian side of the Carpathians, however, and it is reported the Germans already have crews there ready to destroy the wells in the event it becomes necessary to evacuate the area.

U. S. RAID ON SOFIA LINKED TO RED PUSH

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 31 (A. P.).—The Allied Mediterranean air forces are not working in co-ordination with the Russian Army's advance into the Balkans, it was stated today following yesterday's devastating American raid on Sofia.

"Our air attacks on the Balkans are linked not only with the Russian advance there but with the whole Balkan situation and have definite political aspects," a high air officer said.

attackers, it was announced.

Enemy Tanks Shelled

Nazi tanks again appeared near the fortified Continental Hotel, but Allied artillery immediately brought them under heavy fire.

In the air yesterday an American attack on Sofia took the spotlight. While Fortresses and Liberators, in the greatest force ever sent out by the 15th Air Force against a single target, attacked railway objectives in the Bulgarian capital, other bombers spread all over Italy and into Yugoslavia.

Germans Claim Gain.

London, March 31 (A. P.).—The German communique declared today that an Allied force encircled southwest of Cassino for some considerable time had been annihilated after stubborn resistance. The broadcast communique added that German shock troops had captured several Allied strongholds in northern Cassino.

ITALIAN FRONT BATTLE RESTS

Air Arm Continues To Pound Axis Rail Lines

APR 1 1944

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 31 (AP)—Ground fighting in Italy slackened almost to zero today following the Allied failure to take Cassino, but constant pressure is being maintained on German positions and the campaign to take Rome and central Italy has by no means been abandoned.

The Germans occupied two positions on Monastery Hill abandoned by the Indian and New Zealand troops earlier this week and made small attacks inside the shattered city without success. Artillery rumbled in the snow-covered mountains to the north.

Anzio Raids Repulsed

Two small enemy raids on the Anzio beachhead were repelled and Allied artillery shelled German positions near Carroceto.

Headquarters announced the toll of dead and wounded suffered Wednesday night when enemy bombs fell on a hospital at the beachhead had risen to 85. According to information available at headquarters tonight, 16 were known dead. It had not yet been learned here whether nurses were among the casualties, or what percentage of the dead and wounded were patients.

Allied air forces struck at German communications, paying particular attention to the west coast. Targets in the 1,500 sorties yesterday included the docks and shipping at Leghorn, a railroad at Orte, above Rome, the Imotski airfield in Yugoslavia and an east coast rail line between Ancona and Rimini.

Opinion Of Air Command

Photographs of the record daylight attack on Sofia yesterday showed the main central railyards received many hits, damaging repair sheds and firing warehouses. Outlying lines were well covered. Thirteen German planes were destroyed over Sofia.

The air campaign against Italian rail targets has been going on for months without yet weakening the Germans to a point where they are unable to supply effectively their front-line forces.

Air force leaders are convinced, however, that the breaking point is bound to come and when it does, the effect will be cumulative. If the desired result is achieved, the Germans will no longer be able to supply their front and will be forced to withdraw to the area north of Rome, probably along a line between Pisa and Rimini.

Nazis Occupy Cassino Hills Quit By Allies

HEINZERLING DAY

Allied Headquarters, Naples, March 31 (AP)—German troops have moved into two positions on Monastery Hill evacuated several days ago by Indian and New Zealand troops and small enemy groups have attacked inside Cassino, it was announced today, but air operations again overshadowed ground activities.

On the Anzio beachhead, 65 casualties resulted when German planes bombed an Allied hospital area, headquarters said.

Fifth Army forces clinging to positions inside battered Cassino repulsed the new German thrusts and inflicted severe losses on the

NEW JERSEY TROOPS FIGHT HARD IN ITALY

5th Army Has Men From Almost Every Town and Village

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, March 30 (Delayed) (AP)—Thousands of New Jersey troops are in action on the main Italian front.

Doughboys representing almost every town and village in the State are in contact with the German forces and their conduct has brought a tribute from the officers who served with them under fire.

"Our men simply happen to be wonderful," said Major Constanta Troiano, Jersey City. "I was amazed at their aplomb under fire.

"We've been hitting seasoned troops. The prisoners we've taken are men who fought on the Russian front and in Africa, but our men are just as bold and just as determined as the enemy despite the fact they've had nowhere near the experience of the Germans. It's the fine basic training they received before they got here that's paying off dividends now."

Major Troiano, whose brother Nicholas is a private with the military police in Italy and whose wife is in the Waves, said the Jersey men predominated in the rifle companies, but were represented in every outfit at the front, including the artillery, tank battalions, anti-tank companies and heavy arms companies.

In the important Garigliano sector special reconnaissance troops are commanded by Capt. Hugh Quigley of Nutley, N. J.

"All my boys are 'Kraut killers'," said Captain Quigley. "They aren't afraid of anything. When they run into trouble they stand there and shoot it out. They're the best damned bunch of men in the Army."

Solons Ask Recognition Of Rome As Open City

Madrid, March 31 (AP)—Professors of international law at all Spanish universities have signed a manifesto calling for recognition of Rome as an open city.

The appeal, to be published tomorrow in the magazine Ecclesia, influential organ of the largest group of Catholics in Spain, said all belligerent states were obliged to respect the territory of "neutral and super-national states like the Vatican City" and added that to guarantee the inviolability of the Vatican, Rome should be placed under the Vatican's protection.

The professors suggested a commission designated by the Pope to supervise demilitarization of Rome.

Italians To Get Sugar Now

Naples, March 31 (AP)—Allied authorities announced last night that for the first time since southern Italy was liberated food rations for Italians in April will include sugar as well as canned meats and vegetables.

The sugar allotment was placed at 250 grams per person, a little more than half a pound, for the month.

The rations also include a can of United States Army C rations—combination ground meat and vegetables—and two cans of meat per person. Bread, olive oil, beans and soap are other items on the ration list.

Clocks in Italy Put Ahead

NAPLES, Saturday, April 1 (AP)—Another hour of daylight saving time comes into force throughout liberated Italy, including the battle fronts, tomorrow when the clocks will be turned ahead an hour at 2 A. M., it was officially announced today. This will make six hours difference between Italian time and Eastern War time.

BADOGLIO'S O. K. ON COMMUNIST

Italian Premier Willing To Put One In His Cabinet

Naples, March 31 (AP)—Premier Badoglio would welcome a Communist into his Italian Government, a close associate said today, as a sign of democracy and in keeping with Moscow's desires.

Publication in the Moscow newspaper Izvestia of a statement that the Soviet Union is ready to contribute toward a government reform in Italy before the Allies reach Rome brought a response at the Badoglio seat of government that the Premier would be glad to have a Communist in his Cabinet either as Minister of Labor or without portfolio.

The Premier himself had gone to Palermo to establish a new Italian High Commissioner for Sicily, but his advisers said Badoglio was eager to have representatives of every party in his Cabinet to show the Italian people are behind him.

Moscow Accepts Badoglio

Nothing in Izvestia's editorial as reported here was interpreted in Government quarters as calling for the replacement of Badoglio as Premier.

[An Associated Press dispatch from London said the Soviet's representations to Britain and the United States on the need for broadening the base of the Italian Government probably would be studied at conferences after the arrival there of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., United States Under Secretary of State.

[There was no indication that Britain and the United States would change their announced plan of waiting until the Allies reach Rome before urging a reorganization of the Italian Government.]

Communists Are Willing To Join French Group

Algiers, March 31 (AP)—It was reliably reported today that French Communists are ready to take two posts in the French Committee of National Liberation, bringing to an end months of bickering with Gen. Charles de Gaulle, the committee president.

The committee changes, it was said, will be made early next week after the consultative assembly adjourns until some time in May. The assembly adjournment is expected Saturday after assemblymen adopt their press reforms project.

Communist leaders conferred today with de Gaulle and were reported to have reached an agreement whereby they would obtain a portfolio of youth training and sports and a state commissioner post. There now are three state commissioners whose functions correspond roughly to those of committee vice-presidents.

The addition of two Communists to the committee has been urged upon de Gaulle as a step to improve his relations with the Soviet Union.

Vichy Reprisal Arrests Told

Madrid, March 31 (AP)—Allied sympathizers and de Gaullists were being arrested in France today to die in reprisal for every Vichy collaborationist executed by the de Gaullist Government at Algiers, reports direct from Paris said.

These reports said the roundup was approved yesterday at a Paris Cabinet meeting called by Pierre Laval but believed to have been largely fostered by the pro-German Marcel Deat, the Minister of State, who represents radical Paris elements.

Even the friends and relatives of "the men of Algiers" will be arrested during the roundup, it was reported.

Efforts "Too Late"

Dispatches from Paris said, meanwhile, that Vichy's extermination war against French Patriots continued with the announced arrest of "several hundred terrorists" in the Alps of southeastern France, but Spanish correspondents at Paris said that Vichy's efforts had come too late.

One Paris correspondent estimated Patriot forces actively resisting the Germans in France at 100,000 "invisible men" actively aided by the greater part of the population. He said that 20,000 attacks were made on the personal property of German collaborationists during 1943 and that more than 2,000 engagements had been recorded thus far in 1944.

PALESTINE IS TENSE AS DEADLINE PASSES

Period for the Immigration of Jews Is Over

JERUSALEM, March 31 (AP)—All Palestine was tense today—date of the stoppage of Jewish immigration to Palestine under the British White Paper—but no disturbances were reported.

There were no statements by the Palestine Government or by any Jewish agency on the cessation of immigration.

The Socialist party, "Hashomer Hatzair," published a manifesto demanding "the complete and final liquidation of the White Paper" on the ground that it "ignored the necessity of rescuing the Jews, the need for the development of the country, and the international obligation embodied in the Balfour Declaration and in the mandate."

About 28,000 Jews still are eligible for entry into the country. The White Paper permitted the immigration of 75,000, but because of war conditions only about 47,000 were able to come in.

British Quit Tiddim Base In Burma

New Delhi, March 31 (AP)—British forces have surrendered Tiddim, their forward base in the Chin Hills of Burma, 100 miles below Imphal, General Sir Claude Auchinleck, British commander in India, told the Indian Legislature today.

The disclosure was made almost simultaneously with the announcement in a communique from Admiral Lord Louis Montbatten that Japanese jungle parties spread over a front of nearly 200 miles were persistently probing deeper into eastern India's defenses and had penetrated into the main communications of the vital Manipur plain.

Imphal Strongly Defended

Auchinleck declared, however, that Imphal itself was strongly defended and declared such penetration was not likely to be of major importance.

At the same time he announced that British forces fighting their way north from Tiddim through Japanese road blocks had joined other British forces which fought their way southward along the road from Imphal.

A communique from Mountbatten's headquarters said one raiding party broke through to the main road running north from Imphal, capital of Manipur State, to Kohima, 60 miles to the north, and although this party was forced away after it had damaged a bridge and carried out some ambushes still other Japanese were able to lay down mortar fire on the highway.

Pressure On Tiddim Road

Another Japanese infiltration party was reported to the north of Kohima, striking at the communications of that center on the road to the Brahmaputra valley and the main Allied supply system.

Japanese pressure, meanwhile, remained heavy on the Tiddim road, south of Imphal, near Palel, 24 miles southeast of Imphal, in the northern hill tracts east of Kohima.

The fighting near Palel apparently represented an advance of several miles, for the Japanese last were reported halfway between Palel and Tamu on the Burma border, 48 miles from the Manipur capital.

Japs Scattered

The communique said, however, that Japanese had been forced to scatter into the hills northeast of Imphal, following a heavy Allied bombing and strafing.

While air-borne Commandos again carried out a daring strike, raiding the airfield of Aniskan and destroying an aircraft, British and American aviators carried out a record series of operations for this theater, making 850 sorties and losing but one plane.

Gains Despite Reassurance

The Japanese gains in the border area were made despite the reassuring statement to the Indian Legislature by General Auchinleck declaring the enemy invasion carried no threat to India and that British forces were determined to hold the advance base of Imphal.

He conceded, however, that temporary interruption of communications might take place.

"We cannot stop every Japanese thrust as soon as it makes itself apparent," he said. "And it therefore always is possible that some of these may succeed in temporarily interrupting our communications."

(The Tokyo radio declared the Imphal-Kohima highway had been cut 25 miles north of Imphal. In the southern sectors, presumably in Arakan, the radio said, the bodies of 2,500 Allied soldiers had been picked up when the British were forced to adjust their lines. Seventy-six prisoners were taken, it was declared, while booty included 23 guns and 150 tanks and armored cars. The Japanese admitted 357 casualties of their own.)

300 Japs Killed

In northern Burma, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's campaign in the Fort Hertz Valley on the Sumprabum-Myitkyina route progressed to the south bank of the Daru river, approximately 50 miles north of Myitkyina, a main Japanese base.

The combined force of all-American Marauders of Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill and Chinese holding a roadblock at Laban in the Mogaung valley, 41 airline miles from the Myitkyina railway, killed more than 300 Japanese attacking both to the north and south from their pocket below Shaduzup.

Leader Is Confident

"I am convinced, however, that the security of Assam never has been in danger, let alone the security of India," Auchinleck said.

The first commander in chief in 16 years to appear before the Assembly, Auchinleck explained that he was giving information supplied by Mountbatten and reminded his hearers that a previous Japanese offensive against India from Arakan had been beaten back with very heavy losses for the enemy.

Explaining the surrender of Tiddim, Auchinleck said the real objective was for British troops to attack the Japanese and not merely to hold points on the map.

Explains Operation

The Japanese had penetrated to the Manipur road behind the British at Tiddim, he pointed out, so they turned and began fighting northward at the same time the British operation from Imphal struck southward and these two forces have now united, he said.

"I would like to make it quite clear," he added, "that Imphal is still in our hands, that it has not been captured by the Japanese and that it is strongly defended. It always is possible that small parties of the enemy may penetrate into the Imphal Plain because this is made easy by the very nature of the country. Such a penetration, however, is not likely to be of major importance."

"The opinion expressed in an American paper that the fall of Imphal would be of little importance is erroneous. Our commanders have no intention that Imphal should fall into the enemy's hands."

British Yield Tiddim as Foe Gains in India

Japanese Invade Plain in Manipur Above Imphal; Auchinleck Not Alarmed

By The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, India, March 31.—Japanese forces invading India along a front of nearly 200 miles have thrust into the vital Manipur plain above Imphal and also have forced the British to abandon Tiddim, their forward base in the Chin Hills in Burma, 100 miles south of Imphal, it was disclosed today, but General Sir Claude John Eyre Auchinleck, Allied commander in India, declared there was no cause for alarm.

"It is only within the last day or two that they have come up against our prepared defenses and met serious opposition on our part," General Auchinleck assured the Indian Legislative Assembly. "I am convinced that the security of Assam [province in northeastern India] never has been in danger, let alone that of India.

"The opinion expressed in an American paper that the fall of Imphal would be of little importance is erroneous. Our commanders have no intention that Imphal should fall into the enemy's hands."

A communique from the headquarters of Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Southeast Asia Allied commander, said one Japanese raiding party broke through to the main road running north from Imphal, capital of Manipur State, to Kohima, sixty miles north, and although this party was forced away after it had damaged a bridge and effected some ambushes, still other Japanese were able to lay down mortar fire on the highway.

A Japanese patrol operating well ahead of the enemy force thrusting in from the southeast was reported to have reached a point within a dozen miles of Imphal.

30.24 - 14273

The Japanese-dominated Singapore radio claimed Japanese captured the Mashan road junction between Imphal and Kohima, "virtually isolating" the British-Indian Fourth Army.

"Face Imminent Destruction"

The broadcast said the defending forces "face imminent destruction as a result of the change in Japanese strategy from destroying individual units to the general crushing of all enemy resistance."

The Tokyo radio reported Japanese also are slashing at British efforts to supply cut-off forces by air.

Auchinleck, reminding his hearers that a previous Japanese offensive against India from Arakan had been repulsed, explained that Tiddim was abandoned because the objective of British troops was to attack the advancing enemy, not merely to hold points on a map. He said the British force that quit Tiddim had fought its way north and united with British troops pushing south from Imphal.

"Imphal Still In Our Hands"

"I would like to make it quite clear," Auchinleck said, "that Imphal is still in our hands, that it has not been captured by the Japanese and that it is strongly defended. It always is possible that small parties of the enemy may penetrate into the Imphal plain. Such a penetration, however, is not likely to be of major importance."

Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's American-trained Chinese forces tightened their noose around some 1,000 Japanese trapped in northern Burma by lunging southward on the Mogaung road to a point about two miles beyond Shaduzup and only two miles from Laban, where Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's American Marauders and their Chinese allies were stubbornly holding a road block.

The Japanese suffered 400 men killed two days ago when they made five desperate counterattacks in an attempt to rescue the encircled enemy force. Heavy showers slowed operations somewhat, but failed to dampen the enthusiasm of Stilwell's troops.

American and British fliers carried out 850 sorties, a record for this theater, and lost one plane. For several days the Japanese air force had offered almost no opposition to Allied raids, nor had it given support to its ground units probing into India. Allied planes, on the other hand, continued to strike viciously at the Japanese every time they emerged from jungle cover, and many bodies had been counted from the air.

Allies Cleaning Up Saidor Sector

EUNSON DAY

Saidor Sector, New Guinea, March 30 (AP—Delayed)—With advance patrols of the 32d Division on the outskirts of Bogadjim, 50 miles west of Saidor, American and Australian troops now control the north eastern coast of New Guinea from Vitiaz Strait to Astrolabe Bay, a stretch of about 100 miles.

"It looks like the Saidor sector is about cleaned up," proudly announced Major General William H. Gill, commanding the Red Arrow Division which landed on New Guinea January 2 to begin its second major campagin against the Japanese.

Composed Of Veterans

Composed mostly of veteran members of former Michigan and Wisconsin National Guard units who have been overseas more than two years, the 32d Division with Australians defeated the Japanese at Buna last year.

After several months of slogging through the New Guinea mud the men of the outfit do not take kindly to the idea they should rest and regroup.

"Let's get the war over with and go home" is their battle cry.

Small Enemy Units

Patrols working inland are still encountering small enemy units. Early this week, General Gill said, a 12-man patrol led by Lieut. Robert Gilette, of Ada, Okla., killed 17 Japanese stragglers.

General Gill said that with Australians maintaining pressure about 15 miles inland from Bogadjim and the Americans strengthening their hold on the coast, the Japanese around Bogadjim and at Madang, 20 trail miles north, must be feeling the pinch.

"ghost army" on a four-months expedition deep inside Japanese lines in Burma.

Himself a relative of the late T. E. Lawrence, the famed "Lawrence of Arabia," Wingate was called "the new Lawrence," "the man of legends," "a Cromwellian captain" as a result of his exploit.

His force covered more than 1,000 miles through the deepest Burma jungles, fought countless skirmishes with enemy patrols and finally returned to India, after suffering great hardship, with vital information for the Allied command.

Bobbing up here, there and everywhere, to the consternation of the Japanese, Wingate's raiders destroyed 100 miles of railway at 70 different places along the Irrawadry from Mandalay to Myitkyina, and finally came out of the bush after eating their own mules and subsisting for weeks on supplies dropped by plane.

A strict believer in the unorthodox, Wingate hammered at the theory that Allied troops—British storekeepers as well as colonials—could be quickly conditioned to fight in the jungle better than the Japanese.

His recommendations were reported to have played a part in the decisions on strategy reached at the Cairo conference of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek last December, and the decision at the earlier Quebec conference of the British and American leaders to organize an air commando force in India.

This latter force of British and Indians was suddenly set down near Myitkyina, 150 miles behind the Japanese lines, by glider on March 8.

In a dispatch from New Delhi dated March 26—two days after his death—he was quoted as saying the first stage of the airborne operation was completely successful. Everything we set out to do has been done."

The dispatches at that time were not permitted to disclose that he was already dead.

A holder of the triple Distinguished Service Order, Wingate first won recognition as a brilliant leader of guerrilla fighters in 1936 when he built British and Palestinian Jews into an unorthodox band that beat marauding Arabs at their own type of night fighting and broke up a threat to the Haifa-Mosul pipeline.

Led Natives In Ethiopia

Later, in Ethiopia, he led 3,000 Sudanese and Ethiopian warriors against the Italians and captured or destroyed 40,000 of them.

His romance was as unorthodox as his warfare. His wife-to-be was 15 and he was 30 when they met aboard a ship bringing him back from Libyan explorations. She said last year that "I marched up to him and said, 'You're the man I'm going to marry.' We both felt the same way about it."

She returned to school, but left it two years later to marry him.

Gen. Wingate Killed in Burma, Led Allied Jungle Fighters

HAWKINS NIGHT

LONDON, March 31—(AP) Maj. Gen. Orde Charles Wingate, the adventurous and spectacular leader of Allied jungle fighters in Burma, was killed recently in a plane crash, it was announced in London today.

A brief announcement from the War office said Wingate was killed in Burma on March 24, and gave no details of how death overtook the 41-year-old British soldier who early last year captured the world's imagination by leading a

Unarmed Captain Wins Fight With Crocodile In Jungle

DAY

[The following story was written by Staff Sergeant Ward Walker, of Chicago, a Marine Corps combat correspondent, formerly a Chicago Tribune reporter. Distributed by the Associated Press.]

Cape Gloucester, New Britain, March 22 (Delayed) — In the murky depths of a jungle pool, an army scientist today waged a bare-handed fight for his life against a vicious 10-foot crocodile — and won.

With both arms badly torn and suffering from the shock, the scientist, Capt. Philip Darlington, 39, of Cambridge, Mass., managed to make his way to a field hospital.

As entomologist of a United States Army research unit working with the marines, Darlington was prowling through the jungle alone, hunting for insect specimens. He came to a stagnant jungle pool and worked hi.. way out to the middle on a log submerged about two feet under the surface. A crocodile rose from the depths.

Captain Darlington started edging toward the jungle wall. He lost his footing on the slimy log just as the reptile rushed him.

He tried to grasp the thing's jaws, got one grip, lost it.

The reptile's jaws closed on Captain Darlington's arms. It spun over, tossing the six foot, two inch, 190-pound captain as though he were a child. Then it carried him to the bottom.

"I kicked," he said, "and it was like trying to kick in a sea of molasses."

He must have landed on the reptile's soft belly for it opened its jaws. Gasping, the captain fought his way to the surface.

Signalmen Win Praise

DAY

With the Army in Bougainville, March 31 (AP)—A signal construction company of which four Marylanders are members has been commended by Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, USA, commanding general of Allied forces in Bougainville.

The Marylanders are Sergt. (4th grade) Morgan L. Cook, R. F. D. 3, Cambridge; Corporal Technician Robert F. Mason, Cabin John; Pfc. Kenneth M. Largent, Eckart, and Private William K. Roeper, of 1417 Sulphur Springs road, Arbutus.

The commendation says, in part:

"Operating at half strength during a most pressing period and being given very limited time in which to accomplish its mission, the signal construction company has performed in a most creditable manner. The resultant neat and well-constructed pole lines are making possible an efficient signal system, of which every member may well be proud."

Newark Man Decorated For Valor in Pacific

Headquarters Southwest Pacific, March 21 (Delayed), (A. P.).—Matthew G. Adamkoski, aviation radio man, first class, son of Mrs. Helen Adamkoski of 117 Pulaski street, Newark, N. J., has been decorated with the Air Medal, it was revealed today.

Adamkoski was a member of a Navy plane crew which attacked Japanese warships and merchant craft during a night operation in bad weather. The citation said in part: "You made numerous and extended flights at night, in unusually hazardous weather conditions and in the face of automatic, medium anti-aircraft fire. Your plane bombed enemy men-of-war and merchant ships. Although your plane was hit while approaching your target, you made direct hits on a medium-sized merchant vessel with fragmentation bombs, probably causing serious damage."

Navy Sanctuary For The Gooney Bird

A PACIFIC BASE—(AP) The Gooney bird, found on several of the Pacific islands, is a No. 1 entertainer to many a sailor and marine so it wasn't too surprising when the station newspaper carried the following plea:

"The return of the island's famed Gooney birds brings with it the reminder that drivers must exercise unusual care to avoid them in the roadways. Every year thousands of these lovable birds are killed unavoidably. The Gooneys are very senseless to danger from vehicles, aircraft and automobiles, alike. They are, in fact, quite disdainful of the hurrying motorist. Therefore, it is up to everybody to look out for the Gooneys when they have decided that the middle of t road will be a good place to sleep

"The Gooneys are the best ente tainment we have on this islan Let's protect them. Let's give a fe moments to pause in our drivin about the island so that they ca waddle out of the way. If nece sary, let's get out of our cars an trucks and gently push them out o the way."

Allies To Win, Jap Says

DAY

New Guinea Headquarters, March 31 (AP)—A Japanese prisoner captured near Talasea, New Britain, thought the marines already were in Rabaul.

Ira Rosenberg, former New York Herald Tribune photographer, now with the Army Signal Corps, said a Japanese lieutenant and his orderly surrendered to marines on a jungle trail with the question:

"Where did you fellows come from, Gloucester or Rabaul?"

The lieutenant was a doctor who had lived in the United States three years and spoke English. He conceded it is just a matter of time until the Allies win the war.

MARTIAL LAW CASE NEARS SHOWDOWN

NIGHT

HONOLULU, T. H., March 31.—(AP) Federal Judge Delbert E. Metzger today ordered the release of Lloyd C. Duncan on a writ of habeas corpus despite affidavits by commanding naval and Army officers of the central Pacific that he should be held under martial law, which they asserted still is required because of the "imminent danger of invasion" of Hawaii.

The court directed Duncan to post $500 bond and set next Wednesday for trial on the issue of whether the 25-year-old Navy yard worker from Sheridan, Wyo., has been held illegally by military authorities. Duncan is under a six months sentence by a provost court for assaulting two Marine sentries.

In next Wednesday's hearing the lengthy dispute over continuation of martial law in Hawaii may be joined into a clearcut issue which may be conclusively settled by appeal.

Edward J. Ennis, special assistant to the United States attorney, asked that the writ be denied, contending that martial law previals with the writ of habeas corpus suspended. The cited affidavits filed by Admiral Chester W. Nimits and Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., declaring Hawaii was still in imminent danger of Japanese invasion and martial law was required for public safety.

In announcing his decision Judge Metzger said, "I can conceive that a state of martial law can exist with the suspension of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus. This court has so held and the court has seen nothing since to convince the court that it was in error."

Operators said they were demanding a subsidy of 79 cents a ton on all coal mined for one year.

British Bag U. S. Plane, Kill 6, By Mistake

DAY

Washington, March 31 (AP)—British fighter planes from an aircraft carrier shot down a United States Army transport airplane and its crew of six by error in the Atlantic this week, the War Department and the British Admiralty announced jointly today.

The fighters were protecting an Allied convoy, siad the announcement, and apparently mistook the four-engine C-54 transport plane for a German Focke-Wulf 200 bomber when identification was not established as the transport plane approached the convoy.

5 Lost From Virginia, 1 D. C.

There were no passengers on the plane, which was loaded with cargo. It was flown by a civilian-contract crew, all of whom were lost. There were:

Crew Captain Charles S. Garber, Arlington, Va.; First Officer George Edward Shelton, Alexandria, Va.; Navigator Orville V. Scholtz, Alexandria, Va.; Engineer Royce Theodore Welliver, Alexandria, Va.; Radioman Beuford Hermann Mann, Washington, D. C., and the purser, Avery Bruce Merritt, McLean, Va.

The British Ambassador, Lord Halifax, wrote Secretary Stimson tonight asking him to extend sympathy to the families of the victims of the transport accident.

"I hasten to send you a message to say with what distress I, and I have no doubt the whole British community in this country, have read this news," the Ambassador wrote.

Letter From Maj. Gen. Surles

The quick announcement of the mistaken identity attack came at a time when the War Department was under criticism for long delays in reporting some unfavorable incidents of the war and was defending itself on grounds that useful information must be withheld from the enemy.

In a letter made public in Kansas City today, Maj. Gen. A. D. Surles, director of army public relations, acknowledged that "general misunderstanding concerning the reasons for our reluctance to give out information is having a detrimental effect on the public's support of the War Department and the army."

The letter, released by the War Department, was written to Roy A. Roberts, managing editor of the Kansas City Star and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. U. S. Transport Plane Shot Down By Mistake

APR 1 1944

Washington, March 31 (AP)—In another of the war's tragic errors, a United States Army transport plane was shot down in the Atlantic this week by British fighter planes with the loss of its six-man civilian crew.

The fighters, a joint army-British Admiralty announcement explained, were from an aircraft carrier protecting an Allied convoy. Mistaking the four-engined skytrooper for a German bomber of the Focke-Wulf 200 type, they attacked when it approached the convoy route.

Carrying Only Crew, Cargo

The transport was carrying only cargo. Members of its civilian crew were Capt. Charles S. Garber, Arlington, Va.; First Officer George Edward Shelton, Navigator Orville V. Scholtz and Engineer Royce Theodore Welliver, all of Alexandria, Va.; Radioman Beuford Hermann Mann, Washington, and Purser Avery Bruce Merritt, McLean, Va.

The British Ambassador, Lord Halifax, wrote Secretary Stimson tonight asking him to extend sympathy to the families of the victims of the transport accident.

"I hasten to send you a message to say with what distress I, and I have no doubt the whole British community in this country, have read this news," the Ambassador wrote.

Letter From Maj. Gen. Surles

The quick announcement of the mistaken identity attack came at a time when the War Department was under criticism for long delays in reporting some unfavorable incidents of the war and was defending itself on grounds that useful information must be withheld from the enemy.

In a letter made public in Kansas City today, Maj. Gen. A. D. Surles, director of army public relations, acknowledged that "general misunderstanding concerning the reasons for our reluctance to give out information is having a detrimental effect on the public's support of the War Department and the army."

The letter, released by the War Department, was written to Roy A. Roberts, managing editor of the Kansas City Star and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Roberts had written the War Department saying there was growing uneasiness in the nation that the army was not always withholding information for security reasons alone.

Surles discussed the Patton incident, the sinking of Allied ships at Bari, and the case where Allied anti-aircraft fired on American transport planes off Sicily and, with enemy help, shot down 23—all instances where the news was long delayed in reaching the American public.

Plea For Tolerance

He said he would have preferred full reports to the public immediately after each instance, but contended there were sound reasons for withholding them so that they would not also reach the enemy.

"There is no student of former wars, and I make no exception of any war, but will admit that this one has been skillfully and effectively planned," Surles said. "To knock it out of balance by continual harping on every personal error will destroy boldness of conception and action more surely than anything I know. That is why I plead for a tolerance of the actions of the commanders to whom we assign a responsiblity that is out of all proportion to that of their critics."

Navy Announces 11 Vessels Lost

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Two mine sweepers, a harbor tug and eight landing craft have been lost in the Mediterranean since January 22 "due to a variety of causes," the navy announced today, bringing to 158 the total of naval vessels lost in the war.

The U. S. S. Portent, 700-ton mine sweeper, was the largest of the 11 craft and normally carried a crew of 100. Her commander, Lieut. Howard C. Plummer, Beaumont, Texas, was reported to the safe, but the skipper of the other mine sweeper, the 260-ton YMS-30, was lost. He was Lieut. (j. g.) Thomas E. Garner, Memphis, Tenn.

The YMS-30 carried a crew of about 30, as did the harbor tug, the 250-ton YT-198. The navy was advised that Chief Boatswain's Mate Roby Benfield, Chattanooga, Tenn., was the senior casualty on the tug, but the reports did not say whether he was the commanding officer.

RETAIN STRONG NAVY, FORRESTAL SUGGESTS

WASHINGTON, March 31—(AP) James V. Forrestal, undersecretary of the Navy, declared tonight the "tremendous sea and air power which is presently being created in the United States Navy should not be allowed to fall apart as soon as this war is over."

The Navy official, speaking to members of the National Geographic society here, said "If we permit disintegration of the great sea and air power which our Navy will have at the war's end, and which must truly be the first line of offense as well as defense, we shall have forgotten every lesson in history, and we scarcely deserve to survive."

British Tell of New Gun

Motorized 40-Mm. Bofors Fires 120 2-Pound Shells a Minute

WASHINGTON, March 31 (AP).—The British army staff here and the War Office in London revealed details tonight of Britain's self-propelled 40-millimeter Bofors anti-aircraft gun.

This model of the widely known Bofors gun has been mounted on a Morris chassis with road speeds up to forty miles an hour and four-wheel drive, the announcement said. The gun is able to combat tanks as well as planes. It fires two-pound shells at the rate of 120 a minute up to 9,000-foot altitude.

Many of the self-propelled models have been made in Canada.

THREE-POWER AIR TALKS SCHEDULED

STREBIG

U. S., England, U. S. S. R. To Discuss Post-War Aviation

Washington, March 31 (AP)—American officials have arranged talks with Great Britain and Russia in preparation for a "preliminary international discussion" of post-war aviation this summer, the State Department announced tonight.

It was the first formal statement concerning the long-awaited conferences on questions related to air commerce when peace ends the emergency arrangements under which half a dozen or more domestic carriers now fly world routes.

The Announcement

The brief announcement appeared to emphasize the tentative nature of the discussions. It said:

"Adolf A. Berle, Jr., Assistant Secretary of State, and Edward Warner, vice-chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, are going to London for an exploratory exchange of views with his Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom on civil aviation as a first step toward preliminary international discussion this summer.

"It is expected that a group composed of Joseph C. Grew, special assistant to the Secretary of State; L. Welch Pogue, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board; W. A. M. Burden, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Air, and others will conduct similar exploratory conversations with representatives of the U. S. S. R. in Washington within the next fortnight.

Had Conferred In Canada

The Canadian Government announced, meanwhile, that Berle and Warner had been in Canada for informal talks with C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply; Norman Robertson, Under Secretary of State for External Affairs, and H. J. Symington, president of Trans-Canada Airways.

The United States, Canada and Great Britain have been working on post-war aviation policies for sometime. One important difference between this country and the others in their work thus far is that while Canada and Great Britain have put forth concrete proposals for international control of the air, the United States has not gone beyond listing the questions to be considered.

Because of that, some officials feel that nothing definite is likely to come out of the preliminary discussion. The fact that Russia may join in such talks is a long step toward final action, however, since the opinion is held that the Soviet, China and certain other countries are necessary parties to conferences on post-war flying.

International Issue

Some officials take the view that this country must adopt a policy on the basic questions of international flying before anything final can be done. The basic questions concern commercial air rights around the world.

Along with that, the feeling is held that international security is so closely related to air commerce that the two problems must be dealt with as one. This phase involves not only who shall fly but along what paths.

AIR FORCE TO TERMINATE PROGRAM IN COLLEGES

WASHINGTON, March 31—(AP) The Army airforce announced today that it will terminate the air crew training program in 81 colleges on June 30.

The action, the War department explained, affects only air crew students and does not concern the training of A.A.F. personnel in other college programs nor the Army Specialized Training Program and the A.A.F. ground crew training program.

The Army also is terminating contracts at 11 civilian flying schools, effective Aug. 4.

More than 40,000 students in the air crew training program will be withdrawn monthly on a quota basis between now and June 30. Students in college on June 30 will be assigned to aircrew training at airfields in the A.A.F. training command while awaiting pre-flight instructions.

PRESIDENT LETS SERVICE VOTING ACT GO THROUGH

DAY

Sends Message to Congress Saying He Won't Sign or Veto It.

IS IN EFFECT AT MIDNIGHT

APR 1 1944

Bill Called Wholly Inadequate by White House Becomes Part of U. S. Statutes.

Washington, March 31 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt notified Congress today that he was letting the service vote bill become a law without his signature, even though he considered it wholly inadequate in providing service men and women an opportunity to vote.

The President sent a message to Capitol Hill announcing his intention to let the controversial measure become a law at midnight tonight. In it, he appealed to the States to co-operate in making the bill as "fully effective as its defective provisions will allow."

Poll of Governors.

The measure would let service men and women overseas vote with Federal ballots, but only if they had applied for State ballots by September 1 and did not receive them by October 1. In addition, the Governors of their States would have to certify that the ballots were authorized by State law.

In a poll of all the Governors, Mr. Roosevelt had learned that at least twenty States planned to do nothing about authorizing the use of supplementary Federal ballots, that nineteen would permit their use or probably would, and that nine were non-committal. The President also appealed to Congress "to take more adequate action to protect the political rights of our men and women in the service."

He asked that the measure, which he was allowing to become law, be amended to permit all persons in uniform who have not received State ballots by an appropriate date, regardless of whether they have applied formally for them, to use the Federal ballot without previous express authorization by the States.

"If the States do not accept the Federal ballot," Mr. Roosevelt declared, "that will be their responsibility. Under this bill, that responsibility is shared by the Congress.

"Our boys on the battle-fronts must not be denied an opportunity to vote simply because they are away from home. They are at the front, fighting with their lives, to defend our rights and our freedoms. We must assure them their rights and freedoms at home so that they will have a fair share in determining the kind of life to which they will return."

Earlier Senator O'Mahoney, (D.-Wyo.), chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, had predicted that relatively few men overseas would get to vote in November. Most congressional leaders had anticipated the President's action in letting the bill become law without his signature.

Roosevelt's Ballot Message

APR 1 1944

WASHINGTON, March 31 (AP).—The complete text of President Roosevelt's message to Congress today, advising he was letting the service-vote bill become law without his signature, follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

I am permitting S. 1285, entitled "an act to facilitate voting, in time of war, by members of the land and naval forces, members of the merchant marine and others, absent from the place of their residence, and to amend the act of Sept. 16, 1942, and for other purposes," to become law without my signature.

The bill is, in my judgment, wholly inadequate to assure to service men and women as far as is practically feasible the same opportunity which they would have to vote if they were at home.

Because of the confusing provisions of the bill and because of the difficulty of knowing just what will be the practical effect of the bill in operation, It is impossible for me to determine whether in fact more service men and women will be able to vote under the new measure than under existing law. That determination will largely depend upon the extent to which the states co-operate to make the measure as effective as its provisions permit. In view of this situation, I have resolved the doubt in favor of the action taken by the Congress, and am permitting the bill to become law without my approval.

Congress Shares Responsibility

In other words, this bill might fairly be called a standing invitation to the several states to make it practicable for their citizens to vote: in this sense the Congress is placing a certain responsibility on each state for action. But it will, of course, be understood by those in the armed services, who want to vote but cannot, that the Congress itself shares the responsibility through the complexities of this bill.

The issue regarding soldiers' voting has been confused. The issue is not whether soldiers should be allowed to vote a full ballot, including state and local offices, or a short ballot confined to Federal offices. I am, and always have been, anxious to have the Federal government do everything within its power compatible with military operations to get the full state ballots to the men and women in the service. I always have been, and I am now, anxious to have the states do everything within their power to get the full state ballots to the men and women in the service.

The real issue is whether after the states have done all that they are willing to do to get the full state ballots to the men and women in the service, and after the Federal government has done everything within its power to get the full state ballots delivered to the men and women in the service, those who have not received their full state ballots should be given the right to cast a short, uniform Federal ballot which can readily be made available to them. This right, which should be assured to all men and women in the service, is largely nullified by the conditions which the provisions of this bill attach to its exercise.

The Right to Vote

In my judgment, the right of a soldier to vote the Federal ballot if he does not receive in time his state ballot should not be conditioned, as it is by this bill, upon his having made a prior application for a state ballot, or upon the prior certification by the Governor of the state that the Federal ballot is acceptable under state law. This bill provides a Federal ballot, but because of these conditions, it does not provide the right to vote.

The Federal government will and should do everything it can to get the state ballots to our men and women in the service. But it is not in my judgment true, as some have contended, that the Federal government can assure the use of state ballots as readily as the use of Federal ballots. No matter what effort the Federal government makes, in many cases it will not be possible to insure the delivery in time of state ballots to designated individuals all over the world or their return in time to the respective states.

Some of the service men and women, not knowing where they will be a month hence or whether they will be alive, will not apply for their ballots. Others will not receive their state ballots in time or be able to get their ballots back to their states in time. Remember that a number of states will require a special form of application and that the postal card application forms supplied by the Federal government are only treated as an application for an application for a state ballot.

The Federal government can insure, and in my judgment it is the duty of the Federal government to insure, that every service man and woman who does not get his state ballot in time shall have the right to use a short and uniform Federal ballot.

Appeals to States

It is in my judgment within the authority of the Congress to use its war powers to protect the political rights of our service men and women to vote for Federal offices as well as their civil rights with respect to their jobs and their homes. If Congress did not hesitate to protect their property rights by legislation which affected state law, there is no reason why Congress should hesitate to protect their political rights.

In 1942 Congress did exercise the war powers to provide Federal war ballots and they were counted in almost every state. What was constitutional in 1942 certainly is not unconstitutional in 1944.

In allowing the bill to become law, I wish to appeal to the states, upon whom the Congress has placed the primary responsibility for enabling our service people to vote, to co-operate to make the bill as fully effective as its defective provisions will allow. The response of the governors to my questions and reports made to me by the War Department indicate that many states have not yet taken action to make the bill as fully effective as it could be and that a considerable number of states do not presently contemplate taking such action.

I wish also to appeal to the Congress to take more adequate action to protect the political rights of our men and women in the service.

It is right and necessary that the states do all in their power to see that the state ballots reach the men and women in the service from their states. In particular, I appeal to them to see that their state laws allow sufficient time between the time that their absentee ballots are available for distribution and the time that they must be returned to be counted.

Urges an Amendment

I also appeal to the states to see that the postal card application forms for state ballots distributed by the Federal government to the troops are treated as a sufficient application for their state ballot and not merely as a request for a formal application for a state ballot.

I also appeal to the states to authorize the use of the Federal ballots by all service people from their states who have not received their state ballots before an appropriate date, whether or not they have formally applied for them. No state of Federal red tape should take from our young folk in the service their right to vote.

I further appeal to the Congress to amend the present bill, S. 1285, so as to authorize all service men and women who have not received their state ballots by an appropriate date, whether or not they have formally applied for them, to use the Federal ballot without prior express authorization by the states. If the states do not accept the Federal ballot, that will be their responsibility. Under this bill that responsibility is shared by the Congress.

Our boys on the battlefronts must not be denied an opportunity to vote simply because they are away from home. They are at the front fighting with their lives to defend our rights and our freedoms. We must assure them their rights and freedoms at home so that they will have a fair share in determining the kind of life to which they will return.

PUBLIC LISTING URGED FOR 4-F'S

Star Would Be Put Beside Those In War Plants

APR 1 1944

Washington, March 31 (AP)—The selective service suggested to a Congressional committee today that publicity be used to induce 4-Fs to "do their patriotic duty" in war industry.

The idea was advanced by Col. Francis V. Keesling, legislative representative of the draft headquarters, at a meeting of the House Military subcommittee on deferments.

Outlines Possible Procedure

Colonel Keesling outlined this possible procedure:

Local draft boards comb their lists of 4-Fs, those deferred for physical defects, and find out how many can hold down war-production jobs. List them publicly, with a star beside the names of those who "do their patriotic duty" by taking a job in an essential plant.

The Government's Inter-agency Committee could get a plant-by-plant survey of just how many of these 4-Fs are needed in specific jobs, he said. Then the draft boards could channel them into those jobs in their home towns.

Integrated with this, Representative Sparkman (D., Ala.) said, could be the committee's proposal to establish an army labor corps as a "penalty" for those who refuse to take proffered war jobs.

'Last Resort'

Colonel Keesling said there are "many" of these men unfit for military service who "are anxious to do their job," but they don't know where to do it.

The 4-Fs constitute the "last resort" of manpower in the current stringent situation, he declared. He estimated that there are about 6,000,000 men of draft age in the nation unfit for military service.

The selective service, meanwhile, indicated that it was working on some new orders to the local boards, but was not ready to disclose the details.

Colonel Keesling made public the draft figures as of March 1, showing that 9,502,000 men have been inducted or enlisted, 215,000 of them being fathers. Two thirds of the 1,871,000 now in A-1, subject to immediate call, are fathers, he said.

MISS KELLEMS LINKED TO NAZI

APR 1 1944

Coffee Reads From Letters to Agent in Argentina.

DAY

Washington, March 31 (A. P.).—Representative Coffee (D.-Wash.) told the House today that Miss Vivian Kellems, Westport, Conn., business woman who recently advised business men not to pay their income taxes, was friendly with "a Nazi agent named Count Karl von Zedlitz in Buenos Aires, Argentina."

He described Miss Kellems in a floor speech as "a menace to the American war effort."

Mr. Coffee read excerpts from telegrams and letters which he said had been exchanged between the two and asserted he had in his possession a letter from Miss Kellems to Von Zedlitz signed: "All my love sweetheart, Vivian."

"I say that Vivian Kellems is a menace to the American war effort," Mr. Coffee said. "This woman, who is in constant touch with our hated Nazi enemies, admits by her own statements, that right now in Connecticut, she is engaged in (manufacturing) work for the armed forces of a highly restricted and confidential nature and that she has in her desk blue prints, drawings and specifications of inestimable value to the enemy.

An 'Incredible Conspiracy.'

"I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that it is high time the Justice Department put an end to the incredible conspiracy."

Miss Kellems, whose Westport plant turns out items used in mine-sweeping operations and certain equipment for the Signal Corps, announced last January she had not paid her December 15 income tax installment because she needed the money to set aside post-war reserves for her business. She suggested that other industrialists follow her example, made a number of speeches on the subject, and accused the Government of squandering billions on "boondoggling" when Secretary Morgenthau stated that "to advise citizens to refuse to pay taxes—particularly in time of war—smacks of disloyalty.

The Treasury has made no announcement concerning disposition of the case.

Mr. Coffee charged that Miss Kellems had been in communication with Von Zedlitz as late as last January, that she wrote him December 28 addressing him as "My Darling Boy," and that she had consulted Von Zedlitz in Buenos Aires "on her proposed seditious speaking tour."

"Vivian Kellems," said Mr. Coffee, "is today the tool of the Goebbels propaganda machine."

Allied Parley On Education

APR 1 1944

Washington, March 31 (AP)—The State Department announced today that it proposes to cooperate with the other United Nations in forming "as soon as practicable a United Nations organization for educational and cultural reconstruction."

In the meantime, a delegation of five American officials headed by Representative Fulbright (D., Ark.) will go to London to collaborate with a conference of Allied ministers of education and take up the question of the larger body.

Aim Explained

The State Department said the London conference would make no attempt to deal with the educational programs of Axis countries but would be aimed to help liberated nations restore their own educational and cultural facilities.

In the expressed opinion of the department, it would be unwise for the United States to try to send American teachers or textbooks to the liberated countries.

Others In Delegation

The program in mind is aimed primarily, the State Department said, in aiding in restocking essential educational facilities, especially with books; providing opportunities for training selected foreign students in American institutions, re-establishing essential library facilities and recovering and restoring to their rightful owners educational, scientific, artistic and archival materials looted by the Axis countries.

Members of the American delegation in addition to Representative Fulbright are Archibald MacLeish, Librarian of Congress; John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education; Grayson N. Kefauver, consultant to the Department of State, and Ralph E. Turner, of the State Department.

WOMAN DELEGATE DAY

Washington, March 31 (A. P.).—A possibility that a woman will be added to the five-man United States delegation to the Conference of Allied Ministers of Education which will meet in London in April arose today. Persons concerned with educational activities have protested the omission of a representative woman from the delegation. Men of the delegation, appointed by the State Department, have been sounded out on their reaction to the appointment of a woman, it developed.

Purpose of the conference is to consider the "restoration of the intellectual and educational resources destroyed by the Axis."

Those protesting the omission of representative women pointed out that American women have a primary interest in plans for post-war educational rehabilitation in both Allied and enemy nations, as well as within this country.

Second UNRRA Conclave In Montreal in June

DAY

Washington, March 31 (A. P.).—The second session of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration council is to open at Montreal on June 23, it was announced today.

Sir Arthur Salter, acting director-general of UNRRA, said that the meeting would be a brief business session and that reports of Director-General Herbert H. Lehman, now in the Mediterranean area inspecting UNRRA facilities, would be considered.

PETROLEUM COMMITTEE HOLDS CLOSED SESSION

WASHINGTON, March 31—(AP) Col. John Leavell, petroleum attache in the State department's eastern affairs division, was questioned for more than five hours today at a closed session of the Senate's Special Petroleum Policy committee.

Chairman Maloney (D-Conn) said tonight the session was secret because of the delicate international questions involved in Leavell's testimony.

The witness was questioned at length about the policy aspects of Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes' plan for the construction of a 1,250-mile pipeline from the Persian gulf area to the Mediterranean.

The diplomatic complications surrounding the post-war oil picture, Senator Maloney added, make it advisable to hold executive sessions at the beginning, "but we hope to be able to open up the hearings as soon as we have arrived at a stage where this is advisable."

WINCHELL IS DEFENDED

House Is Told That He Was Not Stripped of Navy Uniform

WASHINGTON, March 31 (AP)—Walter Winchell, radio commentator, was not stripped of his Navy uniform, Representative Warren G. Magnuson, Washington Democrat, told the House yesterday in taking issue with statements made earlier this week by Representative Clare E. Hoffman, Michigan Republican, a Winchell critic.

Submitting a record of Mr. Winchell's naval experience, Mr. Magnuson termed it a typical record of the average naval reserve officer of his age and stated the radio commentator's present status as inactive duty.

Mr. Hoffman had asserted that Mr. Winchell's "conduct became so offensive to so many Americans that the Administration was forced to strip him of his uniform, of his pay, of his duties."

The record read to the House by Mr. Magnuson stated that Mr. Winchell first entered the Navy in 1918 as an apprentice seaman and that he is now a lieutenant commander. His latest active duty was started in November, 1942, when he was ordered to report to the commander of the South Atlantic force.

The record stated that this tour of active duty was completed in January, 1943, and he was returned to inactive duty the following month.

Posthumous Award For Private Minue

Washington, March 31 (AP)—A posthumous award of the Medal of honor will be made tomorrow to Private Nicholas Minue, 44-year-old infantryman and veteran of two wars.

The medal will be given to his mother, Mrs. Mary Minue, Carteret, N. J., in ceremonies at Fort Dupont, Del. The presentation will be by Maj. Gen. Alvan G. Gillem, commanding general of the 13th Corps.

The Czechoslovakian-born Minue bayoneted to death ten Germans, silenced two machine guns and then died in a one-man charge against the enemy on the Tunisian battlefield.

WOULD EXPLAIN 'MISSING'

Thomas Asks Congress to Print Army Article on Casualties

WASHINGTON, March 31 (AP)—For the benefit of "every family having a boy in the armed forces," Representative J. Parnell Thomas, Republican of New Jersey, has asked Congress to explain just what is meant by the phrase "missing in action."

He introduced a resolution calling for the printing as a public document of an article entitled "Army Personnel Missing in Action," by Col. George F. Herbert, chief of the War Department's casualty branch. This article, he feels, will do much to relieve the anxiety of parents, wives and sweethearts of men reported "missing in action."

"Among other things," Mr. Thomas said, "Colonel Herbert's article explains the term 'missing in action,' and the efforts of the organization commander, the theatre commander and our Government to obtain the details that will determine the soldier's fate."

WASHINGTON, March 31 (AP).—The War Department announced today a list of personnel missing in action, among them the following:

Thinks Nazis Will Use Gas Before Quitting

Philadelphia, March 31 (A. P.).—Germany probably will launch a concentrated gas attack before surrendering, says Dr. Russell C. Erb, professor of chemistry and toxicology at the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy.

"All countries, Allied and Axis," he said in a statement, "have huge gas plants producing poisonous gas for war use. You can be assured that if they are spending fortunes on making the gas, they surely plan to use it."

Clock Hands To Wave In World Time Changes

New York, March 31 (AP)—The lengthening spring days are bringing time changes in various portions of a world at war, with Great Britain going on double summer time, two hours ahead of Greenwich mean time, beginning Sunday and running to August 13. This will put Britain six hours ahead of United States Eastern War Time.

On the same day, daylight-saving time also goes into force throughout liberated Italy, including the battle fronts, and summer time becomes operative in Algeria and Tunisia, making a six-hour difference between the time in those places and New York.

Clocks in Portugal were advanced one hour on March 11-12, and will be moved up another hour on April 22-23. After the second change there will be a six-hour difference from New York time.

50 PLANE CARRIERS NOW SAIL PACIFIC, KNOX DISCLOSES

APR - 1 1944

CHICAGO, March 31—(AP) Navy Secretary Knox asserted today that American naval forces moved as they pleased in the Pacific, and reported that more than 50 aircraft carriers were plying that ocean.

"We have taken possession of the initiative in the Pacific," he stated in a speech before the State Street council. "We go where we please and dare the enemy to come."

After telling of the steps taken against German U-boats in the Atlantic, he said:

"Then we undertook an offensive submarine campaign in the Pacific and, while you have heard very little about it, nevertheless the constructive blows struck against Japanese sea power have been the blows struck by the submarines. x x

"It is not violating security to tell you that today more than 50 aircraft carriers are plying the Pacific."

Secretary Knox said the German U-boat problem caused concern even before Pearl Harbor, but he added:

"The U-boat in its former form of threat is no longer a peril to us. This month and last month we sank more submarines than they sank of our ships."

But Secretary Knox reported we have only broken down the outer defenses of our enemies. He continued:

"We shall have to fight our way ashore either in China or Japan itself against the main element of Japan's strength, which is its army. In Germany we face possibly the best trained army assembled anywhere, and it is in full possession of its home fortress. We can't get within that fortress until we have achieved the most difficult operation in the book—an amphibious landing."

He reported the Navy now had more than 3,000,000 officers and men, and that "every day in the year, including Sundays, the Navy must find crews for 12 ships."

up against in trying to retain respect for my honesty in view of the peculiar conditions I must face from day to day. I can sense the growing idea that we are endeavoring to cover up mistakes under the guise of military security and yet it is difficult to counteract this impression in view of the fact that the problem is complicated by the need for the theater commander to use information as a psychological weapon against the enemy, and because of the necessity for the theater commander to maintain high morale among troops who are in physical contact with the enemy. I must confess that we, tack to evade radar, struck successfully and, in addition, blew up two ships filled with ammunition, causing great damage.

"The harbor is sixty feet deep and the ships sank completely, with the result that German reconnaissance the next day had no idea of the extent of the damage. They claimed, with what they thought exaggeration, only one-half of the loss to us in that harbor. There was an immediate job to be done in harbor clearance, reorganization of radar and fighter coverage before ordinary security would allow them to ance or the actions of the commanders to whom we assign a responsibility that is all out of proportion to that of their critics.

"Frankly, I would like every citizen to be informed concerning the circumstances of the incidents described above, immediately upon their occurrence. However, I believe that you will agree with me that the explanations, if made too soon, contain information of value to the enemy. Therefore, I must confess that I am at a loss as to how to proceed. I realize, as you so aptly point out, that general misunderstanding concerning the reasons for our reluctance to give out information is having a detrimental effect on the public's support of the War Department and the Army."

Major-General, U. S. A.
Director.

Gen. Surles Explains Army's News D

DAY

Kansas City, March 31 (A. P.)—The War Department, in a letter made public here today, acknowledged that general misunderstanding of official reluctance to make public certain information was having a detrimental effect on public support of the department and Army, but explained that sometimes a time lag is mandatory because of the immediate battle situation. The statement was made in a letter from Major-Gen. A. D. Surles, director of Army Public Relations, to Roy A. Roberts, managing editor of the Kansas City Star and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, who, writing to the War Department regarding the delayed release of several news stories recently, had pointed out that there was a growing uneasiness in the nation that the Army was not always withholding information for security reasons alone.

Gen. Surles admitted his knowledge of this feeling, and stated in his letter, which discussed the Patton incident, the Bari sinkings and the shooting down of twenty-three friendly airplanes off Sicily, that the War Department had every desire to give out all information from battle fronts, favorable or unfavorable, as quickly as possible, but at times a lag was necessary to keep valuable information from the enemy. The letter, made public by the War Department, follows:

"I have just read your letter of March 25 and thank you for the clear exposition of what I am here at home, are in a poor position to judge the national interest in terms of these ramifications.

Patton Case as Example.

"As an explanation of some of the occasions where I have been roundly scolded, let's take a few instances. In the Patton case, that general was to be used in a cover plan following his operations in Sicily. In view of that, the theater commander was extremely desirous that his reputation should not be impaired by a wide discussion of the soldier-slapping incident and the resultant punishment.

"At the very time that (Drew) Pearson broke the story, Patton was in Corsica with his staff, closely watched by the Germans, while he made certain surveys which he himself believed were preliminary to an amphibian operation from that island. There were twenty-seven German divisions in Italy and it was vitally necessary that the bulk of them be held from attack on our projected thin line in the southern end of the boot. The story from the United States that he was in disgrace and was going to be relieved struck like a bombshell in the theater, where responsibility is terrific and where, by agreement with the correspondents in the theater, the story was to be withheld until Patton's operations were accomplished.

Incident at Bari.

"In the Bari incident, the Germans tried a new method of atknow the extent of their operation. In addition, it was a British supply point and they should have had something to say about the matter.

Plane Loss Over Sicily.

"As to the loss of twenty-three planes, the majority by friendly anti-aircraft fire in the airborne operation off Sicily last summer, the loss of the planes was 'one of those things' that will happen in a highly complicated operation due to a number of factors that could only be explained adequately by giving a blueprint of the plans to include the timing, method of identification, time of issuance of orders, &c., which led to the occurrence. I can sit at my desk here in Washington and recognize the fact that from our standpoint here things might be handled differently, to better effect, in the theaters, but I am also sympathetic with a man who, saddled with immense responsibility, has won or is desperately trying to win his ball game and can't quite see the advantage in having all errors highlighted by critical commentators.

"It hurts the morale and his own units, it weakens them in the eyes of their enemy and, as a rule, these things are relatively unimportant, in view of the over-all effort which is at stake. There is no student of former wars, and I make no exeeption of any war, but will admit that this one has been skillfully and effectively planned. To knock it out of balance by a continual harping on every personal error will destroy boldness of conception and action more surely than anything I know That is why I plead for a toler-

Cox Urges U. S. To Join World Peace League

Calls Wilson's Forebodings a 'Prophecy Fulfilled'; Assails Roosevelt Critics

MIAMI, Fla., March 31 (AP).—James M. Cox, former Governor of Ohio and Democratic nominee for the Presidency in 1920, when Franklin D. Roosevelt was his running mate, said today in an appeal for United States adherence to a world organization such as the League of Nations that "the star that Woodrow Wilson followed is still my light and guide."

Supporting the league as an instrument of peace, now as in 1920, Mr. Cox, seventy-four years old today, said that President Wilson "warned us in words that are now prophecy fulfilled. I cannot believe, following these years of torment and suffering, that a civilized world will permit to be destroyed the noblest project conceived by mankind. Nor can there be, in the face of our tragic history, another triumph in this country for a political cabal such as blasted our hopes a quarter of a century ago. But there is a task to be completed first. We cannot insure the future without first dealing with the present.

Home Front Seen Lax

"There is much to be done at home," Mr. Cox said, "and the gravity and extent of the things to be done here will become more apparent with each day. I wish I had the facility to tie thought into phrase in such a way as to convey to all of us what is deep rooted in the minds and the souls of the brave men and women on the battlefronts. We have not been as faithful to our defenders as they have been to us. There are countless numbers of individual exceptions, but by and large we can't be proud of ourselves.

"We have feasted so long at the table of the gods that we cease to regard our fortune as a gift but take it rather as a right. When emergency compels any trespass upon our bounty, we do not respond with our better selves. We complain and criticize. As our comforts and conveniences are disturbed, demagogues try to take our minds from the nation's great achievements of war to things so little and so relatively unimportant that we should reproach ourselves for even thinking of them. This leads us to nag and hamper our leaders with energies that might better be employed against the enemy.

Hits Arm-Chair Generals

"Thousands of us presume to know more about the direction of armies than General Marshall and of naval strategy than Admiral King. We should long ago have learned the dangers of such back-seat driving. Our assumption of superior knowledge runs in other directions too. We are reading in the press and hearing over the radio a continuing inquiry into the necessary secrets of the war movement. What went on at the conferences at Cairo and Teheran? What did Roosevelt say to Stalin? What did Stalin say to Churchill? and so on and on. A man from Mars might easily assume that we think these leaders are stupid or unfaithful when the facts are obviously otherwise.

"We need to remember that a very delicate situation existed with respect to the relations among our Allies. Russia trusted no one because no one trusted Russia. We have advanced far from that state of things, and can any one deny the vast military advantages that have accrued from the agreements which have been reached? There will doubtless be future differences to adjust, but I have never known a personal quarrel to be bettered by neighborhood meddling. Too many editors, columnists and commentators demand the details of the most confidential situation. What could they do about it if they knew? There would be wide differences of opinion not only as among them but their readers and hearers as well. There would be no agreement, no solution, only worse confusion. We must trust our leaders. A million commanders cannot win a war."

WOULD SAVE ROME

Baltimore, March 31 (A. P.).—Archbishop Michael J. Curley of the Catholic archdiocese of Baltimore and Washington, proposed today that the declaring of Rome as an open city be arranged through a neutral intermediary.

"If any good will is still left in the great human family, surely some way may be found through a neutral intermediary to deal with our enemies and effect a solution, whereby Rome may be saved," the Archbishop said.

He declared that it was his fervent prayer and earnest hope that the Eternal City would not become another Cassino. "What ultimate advantage will accrue to any one by such destruction?" Archbishop Curley asked.

Glider Pilot Coogan Earns New Promotion

Los Angeles, March 31 (A. P.).—Jackie Coogan, "The Kid" of Charlie Chaplin's silent screen days, is an Air Forces lieutenant now.

His mother, Mrs. Arthur L. Bernstein, had a chatty letter from him yesterday, written March 17, after he had landed a glider plane behind the Japanese lines in Burma.

In a postscript Jackie said: "I am a lieutenant now."

THE NUERNBERG ATTACK FOLLOWED A DAY IN WHICH BRITISH-BASED AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBERS REMAINED AT HOME, BUT AN OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT IN NAPLES LAST NIGHT SAID THAT FORTRESSES AND LIBERATORS, IN THE LARGEST FORCE EVER SENT AGAINST A SINGLE TARGET FROM MEDITERRANEAN BASES, HAD BLASTED SOFIA, BULGARIAN CAPITAL, YESTERDAY WHILE IT WAS STILL SMOKING FROM AN RAF NIGHT ATTACK.

NUERNBERG, A CITY IN SOUTH CENTRAL GERMANY WITH A PEACE-TIME POPULATION OF ABOUT 450,000, LAST WAS ATTACKED BY THE RAF AUG. 27,1943. THE BIRTHPLACE OF THE NAZI PARTY, IT IS THE JUNCTION OF RAILWAY LINES LEADING TO ITALY AND THE CENTER OF THE ELECTRICAL SYSTEM SERVING A WIDE AREA.

APR 1 1944

THE NUERNBERG FORAY, INVOLVING A ROUND TRIP OF MORE THAN 900 MILES FOR THE FOUR-ENGINED BOMBERS, CONSTITUTED A THRUST INTO A SECTION OF GERMANY TO WHICH, ACCORDING TO NEUTRAL REPORTS, HITLER HAS MOVED SOME OF HIS WAR INDUSTRIES FROM THE MORE ACCESSIBLE AREAS IN THE WEST.

LAST NIGHT'S OPERATION WAS THE SECOND LARGE-SCALE RAF BLOW AGAINST TARGETS IN GERMANY SINCE MORE THAN 1,000 BOMBERS BLASTED BERLIN AND OTHER TARGETS A WEEK AGO TONIGHT WITH 2,800 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES. SEVENTY-THREE BOMBERS WERE LOST THAT NIGHT, SIX UNDER THE RECORD 79 THAT FELL JAN.19 IN A RAID ON LEIPZIG.

THE RAF LAST HIT GERMANY IN FORCE THE NIGHT OF MARCH 26 WHEN FORMATIONS POSSIBLY 750 STRONG DUMPED 2,000 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES ON ESSEN AND HANNOVER AND ALSO HIT COURTRAI, IN FRANCE. NINE BOMBERS WERE LOST THAT NIGHT.

A U.S.COMMUNIQUE LAST NIGHT ANNOUNCED THAT AMERICAN THUNDERBOLTS YESTERDAY ATTACKED GERMAN AIRFIELDS IN HOLLAND AND THE HOLLAND-GERMAN BORDER REGION, USING BOTH BOMBS AND GUNS IN THEIR ASSAULTS. ONE THUNDERBOLT WAS LOST AND ONE GERMAN PLANE WAS DESTROYED.

WHILE THE BRITISH BOMBERS WERE OUT, LONDON HAD ANOTHER BRIEF ALERT LAST NIGHT, BUT AN OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT SAID SCATTERED BOMBS CAUSED ONLY SLIGHT DAMAGE AND A SMALL NUMBER OF CASUALTIES.

LONDON'S ANTI-AIRCRAFT DEFENSES AGAIN WENT INTO ACTION, INCLUDING THE ROCKET BATTERIES WHICH WERE DEMONSTRATED TO NEWSMEN THIS WEEK. DURING THE DEMONSTRATION, GEN.SIR FREDERICK PILE, CHIEF OF THE ANTI-AIRCRAFT COMMAND, PREDICTED THAT ROCKETS EVENTUALLY WILL REPLACE HEAVY ACK-ACK GUNS ALTOGETHER.

ON THE OFFENSIVE SIDE OF THE AIR WAR, THE BRITISH SOON WILL PUT INTO USE A NEW "SUPER-FIGHTER." A CRYPTIC ANNOUNCEMENT CIRCULATED TO THE LONDON PRESS LAST NIGHT SAID IT WOULD HAVE A "MORE SENSATIONAL PERFORMANCE THAN ANY NOW IN USE" AND WOULD "BE READY TO JOIN IN THE GREAT SKY BATTLES OVER NORTHWESTERN EUROPE THIS SPRING."

THE LOSS WAS FAR ABOVE ANYTHING THE RAF HAD SUFFERED BEFORE, THE PREVIOUS TOP BEING 79 IN THE RAID ON LEIPZIG FEB. 19. IT STILL WAS FURTHER BEYOND THE RECORD AMERICAN LOSS OF 68 IN THE DAYLIGHT RAID ON BERLIN MARCH 6, BUT IT FAILED TO COMPARE NUMERICALLY WITH THE 185 PLANES WHICH THE GERMANS LOST IN THEIR BIGGEST DAY OVER BRITAIN ON SEPT. 15, 1940.

THE 25-YEAR-OLD HOUSTON, TEX., PILOT GOT ONE OF THE ME-110S HIMSELF TO BRING HIS PERSONAL SCORE TO 16 AND BECOME ONE OF THE LEADING ACES OF THE EUROPEAN THEATER. "I DON'T THINK THAT FORT WILL EVER BE USED BY THE GERMANS," HE GRINNED.

AMONG OTHER PILOTS PARTICIPATING IN THE 100TH MISSION WAS CAPT. CHARLES C.ETTLESEN, OF 1174 SUMMIT AVE., SUMMIT, N.J., WHO FIRED AN OIL DUMP AND SHOT UP FIVE LOCOMOTIVES.

"I SAW TWO FREIGHT TRAINS APPROACHING EACH OTHER," HE RELATED. "WE DIVED ON THEM, SHOOTING ONE LOCOMOTIVE WHICH BLEW UP, DERAILING THE TRAIN. IT HIT THE APPROACHING TRAIN AND THAT LOCOMOTIVE ALSO BLEW UP, DERAILING THE SECOND TRAIN. BOTH WERE LOADED WITH COAL AND WHEN WE FINISHED COAL WAS SPREAD OVER QUITE A T OF TERRITORY."

APR 1 1944

BY GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, MARCH 31-(AP)-OF THE SEVERAL FACTORS ENTERING INTO LAST NIGHT'S RAF RECORD LOSS OF 94 BOMBERS, ONE OF THEM WAS THE UNQUESTIONABLE FACT THAT GERMANY HAS BEEN GREATLY STRENGTHENING HER HOME DEFENSES WITH BOTH PLANES AND GUNS WITHDRAWN FROM THE RUSSIAN AND ITALIAN FRONTS.

IT IS DOUBTFUL THAT GERMANY HAS ANY NEW DEFENSIVE "SECRET WEAPON." BY DRAWING FROM THE OTHER FRONTS AND STORING UP STRENGTH DURING THE RECENT FIVE-WEEKS RAF LULL, HER AIR FORCE IS STILL CAPABLE OF THROWING A STIFF PUNCH UNDER THE RIGHT CONDITIONS.

THE GERMAN AIRFORCE, HOWEVER, WAS NOT THE FULL ANSWER TO LAST NIGHT'S RECORD LOSS ON A RELATIVELY EASY OPERATION OF ONLY 500 MILES TO SOUTHWEST GERMANY.

IT IS LIKELY GERMAN DEFENSES WERE AIDED GREATLY BY CLEAR WEATHER IN CONTRAST TO THE PROTECTION OF CLOUDS THE RAF HAD DURING MANY RAIDS ON BERLIN.

FLAK, STILL A MAJOR PROBLEM TO NIGHT BOMBERS OPERATING MILES LOWER THAN THE AMERICAN DAYLIGHT BOMBERS, MAY HAVE ACCOUNTED FOR A SIZABLE PORTION OF THE LOSS. DOUBTLESS ESPECIALLY STRONG DEFENSES HAD BEEN CONCENTRATED AROUND NUERNBERG, WHOSE PARTICULAR INDUSTRIES MAKE IT A POTENTIAL BOTTLENECK IN GERMANY'S WAR PRODUCTION.

FINALLY, THE LOSS ITSELF WAS NOT SO EXTREME AS FIRST APPEARS SINCE THE SIZE OF THE RAIDING FORCE WAS INDICATED AT BETWEEN 750 AND 1,000 PLANES, POSSIBLY TWICE AS BIG AS SOME OF THE FORMATIONS SENT OUT ON PREVIOUS RAIDS WHEN HALF AS MANY WERE LOST.

FD919AEW

LONDON,MARCH 31-(AP)-THE BERLIN RADIO SAID AT 8 A.M. (3AEW) TODAY THAT "SINGLE ENEMY PLANES ARE OVER WESTERN GERMANY," INDICATING THAT SMALL FORCES OF ALLIED DAYLIGHT RAIDERS WERE ON THE PROWL.

RECENTLY THESE VETERANS OF PLOESTI, ROME AND OTHER BIG RAIDS WERE ROARING EASTWARD OVER GERMANY WHEN SUDDENLY THEY RECEIVED A RADIOED RECALL ORDER. THIS MEANT THEY HAD TO FORGET ABOUT THEIR BRIEFED TARGETS DEEPER IN GERMANY.

"STEALING" A LITTLE TIME COL.FREDERICK R.DENT, JR., OF KERRVILLE, TEX., AND MERCER, PA., TOOK A QUICK LOOK AROUND, SEEKING TARGETS OF OPPORTUNITY. LUCK WAS WITH HIM. WITHIN TWO MINUTES THE GROUP'S FIRST WAVE OF BOMBERS HIT THE CITY AND THE THREE MAIN TRANSPORTATION LINES CONNECTING RUHR VALLEY WAR PLANTS WITH THE BIG PORT OF EMDEN.

AMONG THE 40 LOCALITIES CAPTURED ON THE WESTERN END OF THE BROAD FRONT MOVING TOWARD THE BLACK SEA WAS THE RAIL STATION OF SIPOTYANY, 32 MILES NORTHWEST OF KISHINEV, THE CAPITAL OF THE BESSARABIAN TERRITORY CEDED BY RUMANIA TO RUSSIA IN 1940. THE SEIZURE OF THIS RAIL STATION , 30 MILES EAST OF IASI, SEVERED THE MAIN GERMAN ESCAPE ROUTE FROM THE ODESSA AREA.

THE RUSSIANS MOVING DOWN ON ODESSA ALONG BOTH SIDES OF THE TRUNK RAILWAY EAST OF THE DNIESTER RIVER CAPTURED MORE THAN 100 TOWNS

AND VILLAGES, INCLUDING ANANYEV, 90 MILES NORTHWEST OF ODESSA AND 67 MILES NORTHEAST OF KISHINEV.

IN THE NORTHWEST MARSHAL GREGORY K. ZHUKOV'S FIRST ARMY TROOPS ATTACKING A GERMAN BULGE ABOVE THE MIDDLE DNIESTER RIVER NEAR KAMENETS-PODOLSK NARROWED THAT POCKET TO 400 SQUARE MILES WITH THE CAPTURE OF DUNAYEVTSY, 15 MILES NORTHEAST OF KAMENETS-PODOLSK.

BETWEEN THE DNIESTER AND THE PRUT RIVERS SOUTH OF KAMENETS-PODOLSK OTHER SOVIET UNITS UNDER MARSHAL KONEV ROLLED THROUGH HAMLYCA, A RAIL STATION 29 MILES SOUTHEAST OF CZERNOWTIZ, BUCOVINA CAPITAL WHICH FELL THURSDAY TO MARSHAL ZHUKOV'S TROOPS.

APR - 1 1944

STANISLAU, A RAIL CITY IN THE SOUTHEASTERN CORNER OF POLAND BETWEEN THE UPPER PRUT AND DNIESTER RIVERS, APPEARED RIPE FOR SOVIET CAPTURE. BERLIN DISPATCHES TO STOCKHOLM DESCRIBED THE GERMAN GARRISON AT STANISLAU AS ENCIRCLED AND ITS SITUATION "TERRIBLE."

AN UNDERGROUND REPORT RECEIVED IN LONDON SAID THE GERMANS WERE MOVING THEIR GUNS AND OTHER HEAVY EQUIPMENT OUT OF THE ENCIRCLED AND BY-PASSED CRIMEAN PENINSULA, WHOSE COAST LIES 110 MILES SOUTHEAST OF IMPERILLED ODESSA, BUT FOR THE TIME BEING WERE KEEPING AXIS TROOPS THERE. THESE ARE ESTIMATED AT 300,000 MEN INCLUDING 50,000 OF RUMANIA'S BEST.

APR 1 1944

THIS SAME UNDERGROUND DISPATCH SAID THAT THE GERMANS WERE ANTICIPATING AN EARLY RUSSIAN CROSSING OF THE LOWER PRUT RIVER INTO RUMANIA, AND THAT MAJ. GEN. RITTER VON MANN, GERMAN COMMANDER IN THAT COUNTRY, HAD TAKEN CHARGE OF BUCHAREST'S DEFENSES, SUPERSEDING RUMANIAN AUTHORITIES IN THEIR OWN CAPITAL.

THE FIRST SIZABLE BATTLE FOUGHT BY THE POLISH GUERRILA ARMY AGAINST THE GERMANS WAS REPORTED BY THE POLISH MINISTRY OF INFORMATION HERE. IT SAID THE POLES FOUGHT 4,000 GERMANS A FEW DAYS AGO AT SKARZYSKA NEAR KIELCE IN SOUTHWESTERN POLAND 180 MILES WEST OF THE ADVANCING SOVIET TROOPS. THE POLES KILLED 100 GERMANS AND WOUNDED 300, THEMSELVES SUFFERING "CONSIDERABLE CASUALTIES," THE MINISTRY SAID.

A CZECH INFORMANT IN LONDON SAID A CZECH BATTALION WHICH HAD FOUGHT ALONGSIDE THE RUSSIANS AT KHARKOV AND KIEV WAS WITH THE RUSSIAN ARMY PUSHING TOWARD THE CZECH CARPATHIAN FRONTIER WHICH NOW IS RULED BY GERMAN-OCCUPIED HUNGARY.

GERMANY'S HIGH COMMAND ALSO ANNOUNCED HEAVY FIGHTING AT TARNOPOL, BRODY AND KOVEL IN FORMER POLAND, NEAR MOGILEV IN WHITE RUSSIA ON THE CENTRAL FRONT, AND SOUTHEAST OF OSTROV AND SOUTH OF PSKOV OPPOSITE THE LATVIAN AND ESTONIAN BORDERS.

THE BERLIN COMMUNIQUE CLAIMED THAT MORE THAN 6,000 RUSSIANS, "THE BULK OF SEVERAL DIVISIONS ENCIRCLED AND ANNIHILATED" IN THE WOODS AND SWAMPS SOUTHWEST OF NARVA, INSIDE NORTHERN ESTONIA, HAD BEEN KILLED. MOSCOW HAS NOT MENTIONED THE NORTHERN SECTOR FOR WEEKS.

"EDS:" LONDON, MARCH 31-(AP)-THE BROADCAST GERMAN COMMUNIQUE ASSERTED TODAY THAT "THE BULK OF SEVERAL SOVIET DIVISIONS WAS ENCIRCLED AND ANNIHILATED" SOUTHWEST OF NARVA IN NORTHERN ESTONIA AFTER A FIERCE DEFENSIVE BATTLE LASTING SEVERAL DAYS.

THE GERMANS CLAIMED THAT 6,000 WERE KILLED AND SEVERAL HUNDRED CAPTURED. THE RUSSIANS HAVE SPOKEN OF NO SUCH ENGAGEMENT AROUND NARVA FOR WEEKS.

IN BESSARABIA, THE GERMANS SAID RUMANIAN TROOPS HAD REPELLED THE RUSSIANS AT THE PRUT RIVER AND "RECAPTURED SEVERAL LOCALITIES." CONTINUED SOVIET ATTACKS BETWEEN THE LOWER UKRAINIAN BUG RIVER AND THE DNIESTER, AND BETWEEN THE DNIESTER AND THE PRUT WERE REPORTED.

LONDON, MARCH 31-(AP)-JAPAN HAS AGREED TO HAND BACK TO RUSSIA THE OIL AND COAL CONCESSIONS IN NORTHERN SAKHALIN ISLAND 26 YEARS BEFORE THEY WERE SCHEDULED TO EXPIRE, THE MOSCOW RADIO SAID TODAY IN A BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE SOVIET MONITOR.

RUSSIA GRANTED JAPAN THE CONCESSIONS IN THE ISLAND NORTH OF JAPAN AND OFF THE SIBERIAN COAST IN 1925. THEY WERE SCHEDULED TO EXPIRE IN 1970.

UNDER TERMS OF THE PROTOCOL, SIGNED MARCH 30 BY THE SOVIET DEPUTY COMMISSAR FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS, S.A.LOZOVSKY, AND JAPANESE AMBASSADOR SATO ALL JAPANESE NATIONALS WILL BE REMOVED FROM SAKHALIN. THE DATE OF THE REMOVAL, IF SETTLED UPON, WAS NOT ANNOUNCED HOWEVER.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE LIQUIDATION OF THE JAPANESE CONCESSIONS IN SAKHALIN WERE MADE SIMULTANEOUSLY WITH EXTENSION OF THE JAPANESE-RUSSIAN FISHING AGREEMENT FOR FIVE YEARS.

APR 1 1944

JAPAN OWNS THE SOUTHERN HALF OF SAKHALIN ISLAND. BORDER DISPUTES ON THE ISLAND AND CONTROVERSIES OVER THE CONDUCT OF JAPANESE NATIONALS IN THE NORTHERN HALF WHERE THEY WERE SENT TO WORK THE JAPANESE CONCESSIONS HAVE BEEN A FERTILE CAUSE OF TENSION BETWEEN MOSCOW AND TOKYO IN THE LONG YEARS OF ENMITY BETWEEN THE TWO NATIONS WHEN JAPAN WAS BUSY PUSHING HER EXPANSION PROGRAM ON THE ASIATIC CONTINENT.

SAKHALIN, WHICH IS SEPARATED FROM THE ASIATIC MAINLAND BY THE STRAIT OF TARTARY, IS 1,000 MILES NORTH OF TOKYO. IT IS 600 MILES LONG, 16 TO 105 MILES WIDE AND HAS AN AREA OF 24,560 SQUARE MILES.

APR 1 1944

DURING THE RUSSIAN CIVIL WAR AND THE ALLIED INTERVENTION WHICH FOLLOWED THE 1917 REVOLUTION, JAPANESE TROOPS OCCUPIED THE ENTIRE ISLAND AND DID NOT EVACUATE THE NORTHERN PART UNTIL THE 1925 AGREEMENT.

THE NORTHERN TERRITORY FORMS THREE-FIFTHS OF THE ISLAND AND ABOUNDS IN COAL AND PETROLEUM DEPOSITS WHICH HAVE BEEN DEVELOPED BY JAPANESE CONCESSIONAIRES. IRON AND GOLD ALSO EXIST AND AMBER IS CAST UP ON THE EASTERN SHORES. THERE IS ALSO PLENTY OF TIMBER IN THE NORTHERN OR RUSSIAN HALF OF THE ISLAND. STEAMERS RUN FROM VLADIVOSTOK TO THE CHIEF TOWN, ALEXANDROVSK, FROM APRIL UNTIL OCTOBER, AFTER WHICH TELEGRAPH AND DOG SLEDS ARE THE ONLY MEANS OF COMMUNICATION WITH THE MAINLAND. THE WHOLE ISLAND HAS A COLD, FOGGY CLIMATE, WITH HEAVY RAINFALL IN THE SUMMER AND BITTER COLD AND SEVERE STORMS

IN THE WINTER.

RUSSIA FIRST SETTLED SAKHALIN IN 1857 AND FROM 1875 UNTIL 1905 OWNED THE WHOLE OF IT. STILL IMPERFECTLY SURVEYED, THE ISLAND IS UNFAVORABLE FOR AGRICULTURE. FISHING IS THE MOXT COMMON OCCUPATION OF THE NATIVES, VAST QUANTITIES BEING EXPORTED TO JAPAN.

IN THE PAST FEW YEARS THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT HAS ESTABLISHED SEVERAL COLONIES IN THEIR HALF OF THE ISLAND, WHICH HAD BEEN LARGELY OCCUPIED, IN ADDITION TO THE NATIVE POPULATION, BY KOREANS AND JAPANESE.

APR 1 1944

A MOSCOW BROADCAST HEARD BY THE FCC SAID "ESSENTIAL AMENDMENTS" WERE MADE IN THE NEW JAPANESE-SOVIET FISHING AGREEMENT BEFORE IT WAS SIGNED. IT QUOTED IZVESTIA, THE GOVERNMENT NEWSPAPER, AS SAYING THE AGREEMENTS "BEAR WITNESS OF THE STRENGTHENING INTERNATIONAL POSITION OF THE SOVIET UNION AS WELL AS TO THE CORRECTNESS OF THE SOVIET FOREIGN POLICY, FULLY TAKING INTO ACCOUNT THE SPECIAL CONDITIONS CREATED IN THE PACIFIC FOR OUR ALLIES."

TOKYO RADIO, DISCUSSING THE AGREEMENTS, SAID THAT "LONG-PENDING MATTERS THAT HAD BEEN CONSTANT PROBLEMS BETWEEN OUR NATION AND THE SOVIET JNION HAVE BEEN SOLVED AT ONE STROKE" AND CALLED THEM A "DEFINITE ILLUSTRATION THAT THE NEUTRALITY PACT IS RIGIDLY MAINTAINED BETWEEN JAPAN AND THE SOVIETS."

"IT ALSO PROVES," TOKYO ASSERTED, "THAT THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN JAPAN AND THE SOVIET UNION IS ALWAYS SECURE AND STABILIZED."

FURTHER WEST THE SOVIET MARSHAL SENT OTHER ADVANCE UNITS THROUGH TYSMYENITSY, FIVE MILES EAST OF THE IMPORTANT CITY OF STANISLAU, WHICH IS ON THE RAILWAY RUNNING SOUTH THROUGH THE PASS OF THE TATARS, ALREADY CUT AT DELATYN. TLUMACH AND NADVORNAYA WERE ALSO CAPTURED IN THIS DRIVE.

(THE VIEW IN LONDON WAS THAT JAPAN'S SURRENDER OF THE SAKHALIN CONCESSIONS SO FAR AHEAD OF SCHEDULE CONSTITUED STRONG EVIDENCE OF TOKYO'S DESIRE TO REMAIN AT PEACE WITH RUSSIA. THE ISLAND'S COAL AND OIL PRESUMABLY HAVE CONTRIBUTED HEAVILY TO JAPANESE WAR ECONOMY AND LONDON INTERPRETED THE PREMATURE SURRENDER AS A SACRIFICE TO AVERT ANY DISPUTE WITH RUSSIA.)

RUSSIAN NEWSPAPERS INTERPRETED THE DEAL AS A SOVIET DIPLOMATIC VICTORY.

THE PACT HAS BEEN UNDER NEGOTIATION SINCE DEC.31, WHEN THE 1943 AGREEMENT EXPIRED. LAST YEAR'S AGREEMENT ALSO WAS SIGNED IN MARCH AFTER PROLONGED NEGOTIATIONS IN KUIBYSHEV, THEN THE TEMPORARY CAPITAL

JAPAN RECEIVED THE BASIC RIGHT TO BID FOR FISHING CONCESSIONS IN SIBERIAN WATERS UNDER THE PORTSMOUTH TREATY OF 1905, WHICH ENDED THE RUSSIAN-JAPANESE WAR. SINCE JAPAN ENTERED THE WAR AS A MEMBER OF THE AXIS THE ANNUAL NEGOTIATIONS FOR THE FISHERIES AGREEMENT HAVE BEEN WATCHED WITH KEEN INTEREST BY THE ALLIES AS A BAROMETER OF RELATIONS BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES.

TERMS OF THE 1944 AGREEMENT WERE NOT IMMEDIATELY KNOWN. THE 1943 AGREEMENT, HOWEVER, PROVIDED FOR AN INCREASE IN THE RATES TO BE PAID BY THE JAPANESE FOR THE PRIVILEGES ACCORDED THEM.

THE AGREEMENT IS OF CONSIDERABLE IMPORTANCE TO JAPAN, AS HER FISH CATCH IN RUSSIAN WATERS IS A BIG FACTOR IN HER FOOD SUPPLY PROBLEM.

DAVIS USED TO DRIVE A TRUCK FOR THE J.L. WILLIAMS LUMBER CO., IN SHERIDAN, ARK., BUT NOW HE DIVIDES HIS TIME BETWEEN CARRYING MESSAGES TO THE FRONT AND SPYING OUT ENEMY POSITIONS FROM ADVANCED DUGOUTS.

DURING A LULL IN THE MORTAR FIRE HE LEAPED OUT FOR HIS GUN, BUT TO GET IT HE HAD TO TURN HIS BACK ON THE ENEMY AND BEND OVER.

"WHEN IT LET GO, THERE WAS A SORT OF SMALL VESUVIUS ERUPTING AROUND ME. THE CONCUSSION PICKED UP A HEAVY SANDBAG, THE SANDBAG HIT ME RIGHT IN THE REAR AND KNOCKED ME BACK INTO MY HOLE--RIGHT ON MY REAR."

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, MARCH 30-(DELAYED)-(AP)-LT.HAROLD C.FOSTER OF SAINT JOSEPH, MO., LED HIS COMPANY OUT OF THE FRONT LINES LAST NIGHT WITH ONE OF THE MOST REMARKABLE RECORDS OF THE WAR. FOR 24 DAYS IT LIVED IN FOXHOLES AND IN DITCHES UNDER THE NOSE OF FIELD MARSHAL GEN.ALBERT KESSELRING'S ARMY AND NEVER LOST A MAN. ITS ONLY CASUALTIES WERE TWO SOLDIERS WHO SUFFERED SLIGHT FLESH WOUNDS FROM SHRAPNEL AND NEITHER WAS HOSPITALIZED.

"OUR MEN WERE WONDERFUL," SAID FOSTER. "IT WAS THEIR FIRST TIME UNDER FIRE AND THEY CAME THROUGH LIKE VETERANS. I WAS WORRIED ABOUT SEVERAL OF THE MEN WHOSE TEMPERAMENTS INDICATED ON THE WAY OVER THEY MIGHT NOT BE ABLE TO TAKE IT. THEY WERE SUPERB."

FOSTER AND HIS DOUGHBOYS REACHED THE REST AREA, A SPACIOUS OLIVE GROVE, AT 3 O'CLOCK THIS MORNING AND THE MEN WERE IN SUCH HIGH SPIRI HE FINALLY HAD TO GO AROUND TO THE TENTS AND QUIET THEM DOWN.

"WE FELT GOOD," SAID SGT.JEAN A.DOUET OF SAINT MARTINVILLE, LA. "YOUR FEET DRAG A LITTLE WHEN YOU GO IN BUT THEY GET REAL SPRINGY WHEN YOU COME OUT."

DOUET AND PVT.JOE MARTINEZ OF 530 CAMARON ST., SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, HAD STRIPPED A MACHINE-GUN AND WERE SITTING IN THE COMPANY STREET CLEANING IT WITH RAGS. THE WHOLE REST AREA LOOKED LIKE AN UNMADE BED. MILDEWED BLANKETS THAT HADN'T BEEN DRY FOR DAYS WERE OPEN IN THE SUN. DRAWERS, SOCKS, PANTS AND SHIRTS HUNG FROM OLIVE TREES. SOME OF THE MEN WERE SHAVING. OTHERS WERE SWAPPING CIGARETTES FOR WINE WHICH SOME ITALIAN WOMEN HAD BROUGHT INTO CAMP. THE WOMEN DIDN'T WANT MONEY. THEY WANTED CANNED MEATS OR CIGARETTES. A QUART OF VINO FOR A PACKAGE OF SMOKES.

ONE BLIND ITALIAN VENDOR AIDED BY A CONFEDERATE WITH SAD EYES DID A THRIVING BUSINESS SWAPPING COLORED LITHOGRAPHS OF RELIGIOUS SCENES FOR CANDY CHEWING GUM AND CANNED HASH.

APR 1 1944

THE MEN LOLLED IN THE SUN STRIPPED TO THE WAIST GRINNING TO THEMSELVES, TELLING CAMPFIRE JOKES, WRITING LETTERS HOME, SCRAPING THE MUD OFF THEIR SHOES. LATER IN THE DAY THEY WOULD BE DELOUSED, GIVEN HOT SHOWERS AND A COMPLETE CHANGE OF GEAR.

STAFF SGT.WILLIAM LENTS OF 414 NORTH MALIGH ST., INDIANAPOLIS, IND., TOLD HOW HIS MORTAR CREW TRIED THEIR BEST TO DISCOURAGE ART IN THE FRONT LINES.

"WE WERE OBSERVING IN AN OBSERVATION POST AND WE SAW A GERMAN WHO SEEMED TO BE SKETCHING PICTURES. HE WAS SITTING ON A HILL IN THE SUNLIGHT JUST SKETCHING AWAY MAKING PICTURES. THAT WAS CARRYING THINGS TOO FAR AND WE FIRED ONE ROUND AT HIM. IT DIDN'T SEEM TO DISTURB HIM MUCH."

"THAT'S RIGHT," SAID STAFF SGT.MYRTH M.YEAR OF GLOBE, TEXAS, (EDS: UNLISTED IN POSTAL GUIDE), "SO WE DROPPED ANOTHER ROUND ON HIM AND THAT DISCONCERTED HIM. HE JUMPED UP AND BEGAN TO COLLECT HIS PAPERS AND A LITTLE STAND HE HAD WITH HIM."

APR 1 1944

"THE THIRD ROUND MADE HIM FORGET ALL ABOUT ART," SAID STAFF SGT.C.J.WORTHINGTON OF 6210 DARNELL AVE., BELL, CALIF. "HE RAN INTO A HOUSE ON A NEARBY HILL AND WE GOT A DIRECT HIT ON THE HOUSE. STRETCHER BEARERS RAN OUT AND WE SAW THEM TAKE THREE MEN AWAY."

COMMENTING ON HOW WELL THE GERMANS WERE DUG IN AND HOW DIFFICULT IT WAS TO DISLODGE THEM, STAFF SGT.RALPH R.RICHARDSON OF PECAN GAP, TEXAS, TOLD OF SCORING THREE DIRECT HITS ON A GERMAN FOXHOLE. "WE DROPPED THEM RIGHT ON TOP OF HIM AND COUNTED HIM AS SURE DEAD. FIFTEEN MINUTES LATER HE CALMLY WALKED OUT OF HIS FOXHOLE AND GOT AWAY."

SGT.ROY L.HUTSON OF PARIS, TEXAS, ADMITTED HE HAD FINALLY MADE THE ACQUAINTANCE OF FEAR. "JERRY GOT A DIRECT HIT ON MY GUN POSITION AND IT WAS THE FIRST TIME I GOT REAL SCARED OR SAW THE MEN GET SCARED. OUR FACES WERE WHITE AS SHEETS. THEIRS WERE AND I GUESS MINE WAS TOO."

"I GUESS WE WERE ALL LUCKY," ADDED PVT.WILLIAM A.WHIPPLE OF MILFORD, MICH. "WE ALL PRAYED GOOD AND HARD."

THE SCORES OF SMALL ISLANDS MAKING UP PALAU HAVE BEEN TRANSFORMED INTO "JAPAN'S SINGAPORE" SINCE THEY, THE REST OF THE CAROLINES AND ALL OF THE MARSHALLS WERE TAKEN OVER BY JAPAN FROM HER PRESENT AXIS PARTNER, GERMANY, IN 1914.

THE TOWN OF KORKOR, TO THE SOUTH OF PALAU'S BIGGEST ISLAND OF BABELTHUAP, IS THE ENEMY'S ADMINISTRATIVE CENTER FOR THE 1,500 CAROLINE ISLANDS. PALAU'S SOUTHERNMOST ISLAND OF ANGUAR IS ONE HUGE PHOSPHATE MINE, EIGHT SQUARE MILES IN AREA, AND ITS PHOSPHATES ARE SHIPPED TO JAPAN FOR MUNITIONS MAKING. IT IS KNOWN TO HAVE SHIPPED 60,000 TONS AS FAR BACK AS 1934. IN PRE-WAR DAYS JAPAN OBTAINED ABOUT ONE FIFTH OF HER PHOSPHATE CONSUMPTION FROM THIS ISLAND.

APR 1 1944

MEASURED FROM PEARL HARBOR, STARTING POINT OF THE PACIFIC WAR, THE NAVAL PENETRATION TO PALAU WAS EVEN GREATER THAN THE DARING STAB AT THE MARIANAS. PALAU IS 4,595 STATUTE MILES SOUTHWEST OF PEARL HARBOR WHILE GUAM, IN THE MARIANAS, IS 3,800 MILES AWAY.

PALAU LIES CLOSE TO THE JAPANESE-HELD RICH NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES, IS 1,040 MILES FROMM MANILA AND 1,980 MILES SOUTH OF TOKYO.

THE COMMUNIQUE INDICATED ONE PURPOSE OF THE STRIKE AT PALAU WAS TO TRAP ENEMY FIGHTING SHIPS, PRESUMABLY MOVED THERE AFTER THE FIRST ATTACK ON TRUK. ANOTHER PURPOSE APPARENTLY WAS TO SCOUT ONE OF THE ENEMY'S PRIMARY DEFENSE POSITIONS PROTECTING THE CONQUERED PHILIPPINES AND TO INFLICT DAMAGE WHILE DOING SO.

PALAU HAS TWO ANCHORAGES: SCHONIAN AND MALAKAL HARBORS, EACH OF WHICH IS BELIEVED TO HAVE BUT ONE NARROW ENTRANCE. THE ANCHORAGES ARE PROTECTED ON THE WEST BY CORAL REEFS.

U.S.PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS,PEARL HARBOR, MARCH 31 (AP)- A CHALLENGING FORCE OF AMERICAN WARSHIPS, SO POWERFUL THAT IT FRIGHTENED A SECTION OF THE JAPANESE FLEET, HAS CARRIED THE WAR TO THE PALAU ISLANDS, JAPAN'S IMPORTANT NAVAL BASE FAR ON THE WAY BACK TO THE PHILIPPINES.

NIGHT

APR 1 1944

WARNED BY ENEMY SCOUT PLANES OF THE APPROACH OF THE ARMADA, NIPPONESE SHIPS FLED BEFORE THE UNITED STATES COMBAT VESSELS COULD GET INTO POSITION FOR THE ATTACK AT THE FAR WESTERN SIDE OF THE CAROLINE ISLANDS.

ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ ANNOUNCED THE NEW FLEET ACTION LAST NIGHT IN A TERSE COMMUNIQUE. HE GAVE NO DETAILS BUT STATED SIGNIFICANTLY, "OUR ATTACKS CONTINUE." RADIO SILENCE CLOAKS OPERATIONS OF THIS KIND UNTIL THE FORCES INVOLVED HAVE COMPLETED THEIR MISSION AND RETURNED TO SAFER WATERS.

THE FORCES WHICH STRUCK WEDNESDAY AT PALAU, WHERE THE ENEMY HAS AT LEAST FIVE BASES FOR LAND OR SEA PLANES AND A NAVAL BASE, REFERRED TO AS THE JAPANESE SINGAPORE, PRESUMABLY INCLUDED LARGE, NEW CARRIERS SUCH AS WERE USED AGAINST TRUK AND THE SOUTHERN MARIANA ISLANDS IN FEBRUARY.

AT PALAU, THE AMERICAN FORCES WERE APPROXIMATELY A THOUSAND MILES NEARER THE PHILIPPINES THAN WAS THE CARRIER TASK FORCE THAT HIT GUAM, SAIPAN AND TINIAN ISLANDS, IN THE SOUTHERN MARIANAS, ON FEB.22. THAT FORCE ALSO WAS DETECTED BY ENEMY SCOUT PLANES BEFORE IT REACHED ITS OBJECTIVES AND FOR MANY HOURS FOUGHT A RUNNING BATTLE WITH JAPANESE PLANES AS IT PUSHED ON TO CARRY OUT ITS MISSION SUCCESS-FULLY.

IN STRIKNG SO AUDACIOUSLY AT PALAU, THE TASK FORCE BY-PASSED THE VAUNTED ENEMY BASE OF TRUK, 1,175 MILES TO THE EAST. THIS FORAY INTO HERETOFORE NIPPONESE DOMINATED WATERS WAS THE FARTHEST WESTWARD PENETRATION BY AMERICAN WARSHIPS SO FAR REPORTED.

EARLY IN MARCH A TASK FORCE OF AMERICAN CRUISERS AND DESTROYERS PROWLED FAR WESTWARD INTO JAPAN'S SOUTH PACIFIC ISLAND EMPIRE WITHOUT MEETING AIR OPPOSITION AND NOT SIGHTING A SINGLE ENEMY SHIP. VERN HAUGLAND, ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT ABOARD ONE OF THE CRUISERS, QUOTED REAR ADM.AARON S.MERRILL, COMMANDER OF THE FORCE, AS SAYING THE DARING CRUISE "DEMONSTRATED OUR NAVAL AS WELL AS AIR SUPERIORITY OVER A LARGE SECTION OF THE SOUTH PACIFIC." THAT SEARCH FOR THE ENEMY MAY HAVE BEEN A RECONNAISSANCE OPERATION IN PRE-PARATION FOR THE MOVE AGAINST PALAU.

APR 1 1944

PALAU IS ONLY SOME 530 LAND MILES EAST OF MINDANAO, SOUTHERN-MOST OF THE PHILIPPINES. THERE WAS A STRONG JAPANESE COLONY ON MINDANAO, CENTERED AT THE PORT OF DAVAO, PRIOR TO THE WAR, AND THE JAPANESE MAINTAINED DAILY AIRLINE SERVICE BETWEEN DAVAO AND PALAU. THE ADMINISTRATION CENTER FOR JAPAN'S ENTIRE SOUTH PACIFIC ISLAND EMPIRE IS SITUATED AT KOROR, ONE OF THE PALAU ISLANDS. GG 3 PCW NM

RAIDS ON TRUK AND OTHER CAROLINE ISLANDS, PRECEDING OR SIMULTANEOUS WITH THE SLASH AT PALAU, WERE MADE BY ALLIED WARPLANES BASED IN THE CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST AND SOUTH PACIFIC. THE INDICATIONS WERE THAT THESE OPERATIONS WERE COORDINATED WITH THE THRUST AT PALAU AND DESIGNED TO ENGAGE ENEMY AIR FORCES THAT OTHERWISE MIGHT MOLEST THE TASK FORCE UNDER ORDERS TO SMASH PALAU.

APR 1 1944

ONE OF THESE OPERATIONS WAS AN ATTACK AGAINST TRUK WEDNESDAY NIGHT, NIMITZ ANNOUNCED TODAY, LIBERATORS OF THE 7TH AAF CONTINUING THE AERIAL SIEGE TO PIN DOWN ENEMY FORCES THERE. THE FIVE PRINCIPAL STRONG POINTS OF TRUK ATOLL--DUBLON, PARAM, UMAN, FEFAN AND MOEN ISLANDS--WERE UNDER ATTACK. EXPLOSIONS AND FIRES WERE REPORTED. ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE WAS MODERATE.

PONAPE, ONE OF THE EASTERN OUTPOST DEFENSES OF TRUK, ALSO WAS BOMBED AS WERE FOUR UNIDENTIFIED JAPANESE BASES IN THE MARSHALL ISLANDS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, MARCH 31-(AP)-

PLANES WRECKED ON THE GROUND AND SMOKE RISING FROM SHOP AND HANGAR AREAS ON ETEN ISLAND IN THE ATOLL, GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR SAID IN A SPECIAL COMMUNIQUE TODAY. SEVERAL INTERCEPTING PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN.

APR 1 1944

UNITED STATES NAVY CATALINA PLANES THE SAME DAY HIT THE JAPANESE
SEAPLANE BASE AND AIRDROME AT WOLEAI ISLAND, 460 NAUTICAL MILES WEST OF TRUK AND 380 MILES SOUTH OF GUAM, THE UNITED STATES
POSSESSION WHICH FELL TO JAPANESE FORCES SHORTLY AFTER THE WAR STARTED.

BOTH THESE STRIKES, ALONG WITH A MIGHTY ALLIED AIR SMASH AT THE JAPANESE BASE AT HOLLANDIA, DUTCH NEW GUINEA, TUESDAY NIGHT
AND WEDNESDAY, COINCIDED WITH THE OPENING ATTACK ON THE PALAU ISLANDS AT DAWN THURSDAY (WEST PACIFIC TIME) BY A POWERFUL UNITED STATES TASK FORCE. ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ
ANNOUNCED THE PALAU ASSAULT LAST NIGHT.

SOUTH PACIFIC BOMBERS WHICH ATTACKED TRUK SCORED 200 DIRECT HITS ON INSTALLATIONS, IN THE FIRST DEMONSTRATION THAT THE BASE
NOW MAY EXPECT AERIAL BLOWS FROM TWO DIRECTIONS FROM THE SOUTH AND FROM AMERICAN AIRDROMES IN THE MARSHALL ISLANDS,

IN THE TRUK ATTACK 90 JAPANESE FIGHTERS ATTEMPTED INTERCEPTION, HARASSING THE LIBERATORS FOR 45 MINUTES ON THEIR HOMEWARD FLIGHT.
THE COMMUNIQUE SAID FIVE TO 20 OF THE INTERCEPTORS WERE SHOT DOWN, WHILE THE ATTACKERS LOST BUT ONE PLANE, WITH OTHERS DAMAGED.

IN THE BLOW AT HOLLANDIA, WHERE THE JAPANESE HAVE BUILT UP
STRENGTH TO COMPENSATE FOR ALLIED DESTRUCTION AT WEWAK, FARTHER
EAST ALONG THE NEW GUINEA COAST, LIBERATOR BOMBERS SMASHED 108 ENEMY PLANES ON THE GROUND, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID.

THE ATTACKERS DROPPED 15,600 FRAGMENTATION BOMBS ON THE HEAVY CONCENTRATION OF JAPANESE PLANES, AND THE LAST WAVE OVER THE BASE WEDNESDAY FOUGHT OFF 40 ENEMY INTERCEPTORS, SHOOTING DOWN
10 FOR SURE AND SEVEN PROBABLES. ALLIED LOSSES WERE "NEGLIGIBLE," THE COMMUNIQUE SAID.

APR 1 1944

AN EARLIER COMMUNIQUE TODAY TOLD OF THE LOSS OF THREE

U.S.PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, APRIL 1-(AP)-AMERICAN NAVAL TASK FORCES, INCLUDING SOME OF THE MORE THAN 50 AIRCRAFT CARRIERS JUST DISCLOSED TO BE PROWLING THE PACIFIC, WERE PROTECTED TODAY BY A RADIO SILENCE WHICH PREVENTED REPORTS OF THE DEVASTATION WROUGHT ON PALAU, JAPANESE SEA BASE GUARDING THE APPROACHES TO THE PHILIPPINES.

BUT MORE REPORTS CAME OF SUPPORTING AIR BLOWS BEING RAINED ON TRUK, BOLDLY BYPASSED BY THE FLEET WHICH MOVED 1,175 MILES WEST OF IT TO OPEN THE ASSAULT ON PALAU WEDNESDAY.

ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ, WHOSE LAST WORD CONCERNING THE PALAU OPERATION WAS THAT "OUR ATTACKS CONTINUE," ANNOUNCED YESTERDAY THAT FIVE ISLAND STRONGPOINTS OF TRUK'S ATOLL WERE POUNDED WEDNESDAY NIGHT BY ARMY LIBERATORS OF THE SEVENTH AIRFORCE.

THIS WAS THE SECOND RAID ON TRUK IN AS MANY DAYS FROM CENTRAL PACIFIC BASES, OCCUPYING THAT AI

AND NAVAL BASE IN THE HEART OF THE CAROLINES WHILZHTHE TASK FORCES WENT AFTER PALAU ON THE WESTERN FRINGES OF THOSE ISLANDS. TRUK ALSO HAS UNDZRGONE TWO ATTACKS BY LIBERATORS FROM THE SOLOMONS, MARKING THE OPENING OF A TWO-WAY STRIKE AT THAT BASTION.

ADMIRAL NIMITZ SAID THAT THE WEDNESDAY NIGHT RAIDERS, IN THE FACE OF MODERATE ANTI-AIRCRAFT OPPOSITION, TOUCHED OFF HEAVY EXPLOSIONS AT TRUK ON DUBLON ISLAND, STARTED FIRES ON UMAN AND MOEN, AND ALSO HIT PARAM AND FEFAN.

DUBLON ALSO HAS BEEN A TARGET OF THE SOUTH PACIFIC BOMBERS AS WELL AS ETEN.

APR 1 1944

ADMIRAL NIMITZ DISCLOSED THURSDAY THE TASK FORCE ASSAULT ON PALAU, SLIGHTLY OVER 500 MILES EAST OF THE PHILIPPINES, BUT FRIDAY PASSED WITHOUT THE ISSUANCE OF ADDITIONAL COMMUNIQUES ON THAT DARING THRUST MORE THAN 2,000 MILES WEST OF THE NAVY'S RECENTLY WON LAGOON BASE AT KWAJALEIN IN THE WESTERN MARSHALLS.

LARGE, NEW AIRCRAFT CARRIERS WERE BELIEVED TO BE INCLUDED IN THE ATTACKING FORCE.

(AT CHICAGO, NAVY SECRETARY KNOX SAID YESTERDAY "IT IS NOT VIOLATING SECURITY TO TELL YOU THAT TODAY MORE THAN 50 AIRCRAFT CARRIERS ARE PLYING THE PACIFIC." HE ALSO OBSERVED THAT IN THE VAST REACHES OF THE PACIFIC "WE GO WHERE WE PLEASE AND DARE THE ENEMY TO COME.")

HILL 129, BOUGAINVILLE IN THE SOLOMONS, MARCH 24-(DELAYED) -(AP)-PFC. EDWARD YORK, 6937 SOUTH MAPLEWOOD, CHICAGO, A HOSPITAL CORPSMEN SAYS EMPHATICALLY "THERE'S NO MORE HELL ON EARTH THAN A LONG LITTER HAUL THROUGH MACHINEGUN FIRE."

HOSPITAL CORPSMEN MADE SCORES OF TRIPS THROUGH THAT HELL TODAY, BRINGING OUT WOUNDED FROM FORWARD LINES WHILE TANKS AND INFANTRY BROKE UP THE DEEPEST PENETRATION BY JAPANESE OF THIS BLOODY, FIERCELY-CONTESTED PERIMETER OUTPOST AT EMPRESS AUGUSTA BAY.

"THEY REALLY GOT IN CLOSE LAST NIGHT," SAID YORK WHILE AWAITING A CALL FOR ANOTHER TRIP THROUGH GUN AND MORTAR FIRE.

APR 1 1944

"THEY PINNED US DOWN NEAR A WOUNDED MAN. HE CALLED FOR US TO BRING HIM IN BUT MACHINEGUNS WERE FIRING ONLY SIX INCHES OVER OUR HEADS SO WE CALLED TO HIM TO COME ON IN. HE MADE IT AND PLOPPED DOWN AT OUR FEET. WHEN THE FIRING LET UP, WE MANAGED TO GET OUT OF THERE WITH HIM."

STANDING BAREHEADED FOR A TIME, DIRECTING WORK FROM A TEMPORARY ROADSIDE STATION ONLY 50 YARDS FROM THE FIGHTING, WAS MAJOR WILLIAM T. HOLLADAY, OF AMBOY, ILL. SNIPERS BULLETS OCCASIONALLY ZINGED NEARBY. HE IS THE OUTFIT'S SURGEON. CAPT. HARRY M. (KX) U.S.PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS,PEARL HARBOR,MARCH 31 (AP) HEARING ON A HABEAS CORPUS ACTION WHICH BROUGHT AFFIDAVITS FROM NAVY AND ARMY COMMANDERS THAT HAWAII STILL IS "IN IMMINENT DANGER" OF JAPANESE INVASION WAS SET FOR TODAY IN FEDERAL COURT IN HONOLULU.

ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ, COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF THE PACIFIC OCEAN AREAS, AND LT.GEN.ROBERT C.RICHARDSON, COMMANDER OF ARMY FORCES IN THE CENTRAL PACIFIC, FILED THE AFFIDAVITS IN ANSWER TO THE HABEAS CORPUS CASE CHALLENGING THE NECESSITY OF CONTINUING MARTIAL LAW IN HAWAII.

APR 1 1944

THE ACTION WAS FILED IN BEHALF OF LLOYD C.DUNCAN, FORMER NAVY YARD WORKER SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS IN JAIL BY A PROVOST COURT FOR ASSAULT AND BATTERY OF TWO MARINE YARD SENTRIES. DUNCAN'S COUNSEL, GARNER ANTHONY, FORMER ATTORNEY GENERAL OF HAWAII, CONTENDED THAT MARTIAL LAW NO LONGER WAS NECESSARY AND THAT THE PROVOST COURT NO LONGER HAS LEGAL STANDING.

APR 1 1944

NIMITZ AND RICHARDSON DID NOT AMPLIFY THEIR STATEMENT ABOUT THE CONTINUED DANGER OF INVASION, WHICH THEY SAID HAD BEEN IMMINENT EVER SINCE THE PEARL HARBOR ATTACK OF DEC.7, 1941. THEY ARGUED THAT THE CONVICTION AND SENTENCING OF DUNCAN "WERE AND ARE NECESSARY FOR THE PROSECUTION IN THE TERRITORY OF HAWAII BY THE UNITED STATES OF THE WAR AGAINST THE EMPIRE OF JAPAN."

THE HEARING TODAY BEFORE JUDGE DELBERT E.METZGER WAS ON HIS ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE WHY THE HABEAS Corpus WRIT SHOULD NOT BE GRANTED

THE GOVERNMENT'S ANSWER QUOTED ARMY AND NAVY AUTHORITIES AS SAYING THAT OF THE TERRITORY'S TOTAL POPULATION OF 485,000, APPROXIMATELY 35,183 ARE JAPANESE ALIENS AND APPROXIMATELY 124,351 ARE AMERICAN CITIZENS OF JAPANESE ANCESTRY. OF THE LATTER GROUP 67,675 ARE DUAL CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES AND JAPAN.

THE ANSWER ALSO STATES THAT CERTAIN JAPANESE ALIENS AND CITIZENS OF JAPANESE ANCESTRY "ARE KNOWN BY INTELLIGENCE AGENCIES OF THE UNITED STATES X X TO BE LOYAL TO THE EMPIRE OF JAPAN AND DISLOYAL TO THE UNITED STATES."

THE DOCUMENT FURTHER DECLARES THAT SOME OF THESE ARE INTERNED

the other requested chancellor jaime benitez to submit information as to whether "he had knowledge that lovett had been accused by the dies committee of participating in anti-american activities," a paragraph of the first resolution said "it would be dangerous for puerto rican youth to be influenced in any way by persons who participate in anti-american activities.

WASHINGTON,MARCH 31-(AP)-THE PACIFIC FLEET ATTACK ON PALAU ISLAND WAS REGARDED TODAY AS FINAL PROOF THAT THE ONCE STRONG JAPANESE FORTRESS OF TRUK NOW CAN BE BOMBED, BY-PASSED AND FORGOTTEN BY AMERICAN FORCES STRIKING FROM THE CENTRAL AND SOUTHWEST PACIFIC TOWARD THE PHILIPPINES AND A STRANGLE-HOLD ON JAPAN'S CHINA SEA SUPPLY LINES.

THIS ASSAULT, TAKEN IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE RAID ON SAIPAN ISLAND NORTHWEST OF TRUK SEVERAL WEEKS AGO, INDICATES THAT TRUK ITSELF PROBABLY WON'T HAVE TO BE INVADED AND CAPTURED AS PART OF THE CAMPAIGN TO OPEN A SEA ROAD TO THE PHILIPPINES AND EVENTUALLY TO THE SOUTH CHINA COAST.

MOREOVER, BY COINCIDENCE IN TIMING, THE ASSAULT WAS VIEWED AS HAVING AN IMPORTANT BEARING ON THE MOSCOW-TOKYO DISCLOSURE TODAY THAT FOR THE DURATION OF THE WAR THE JAPANESE WOULD HAVE TO RELINQUISH THEIR OIL CONCESSIONS IN THE NORTHERN AND RUSSIAN HALF OF SAKHALIN ISLAND.

WHETHER THE RUSSIANS INTENDED IT THAT WAY OR NOT, THE JAPANESE APPEAR TO BE HEADED INTO AN ECONOMIC SQUEEZE PLAY THE FULL PRESSURE OF WHICH THEY WILL FEEL WHEN AMERICAN FORCES CUT THEIR NORTH-SOUTH SUPPLY

LINES AT THE PHILIPPINES AND THEY NO LONGER GET ANY OIL FROM SAKHALIN.

THEIR SAKHALIN OIL TAKE IS SMALL -- ESTIMATED BY WASHINGTON EXPERTS TO TOTAL APPROXIMATELY 100,000 TONS A YEAR. THIS COMPARES WITH THEIR TOTAL NEED OF SEVEN TO EIGHT MILLION TONS.

MOST OF THIS HUGE REQUIREMENT THE ENEMY NOW OBTAINS FROM NORTH BORNEO, THE NETHERLANDS INDIES AND BURMA. THESE SOURCES COULD BE ENTIRELY SHUT OFF FROM JAPAN PROPER ONCE BLOCKADING AMERICA SHIPS AND PLANES OPERATE FROM PHILIPPINES BASES.

IN EVIDENT ANTICIPATION OF THIS CATASTROPHE THE JAPANESE FOR TWO YEARS HAVE BEEN DEVELOPING SYNTHETIC OIL PLANTS IN THEIR HOME ISLAND AND IN MANCHURIA, MANUFACTURING OIL FROM COAL, OF WHICH THEY HAVE AMPLE SUPPLIES IN NORTH CHINA, MANCHURIA AND KOREA.

SHOULD THEY BE COMPELLED TO RELY ON SYNTHETIC OIL FOR THE BULK OF THEIR FUEL, HOWEVER, EVERY TON OF NATURAL OIL WOULD BE OF UTMOST IMPORTANCE AND THEIR LESS OF THE SAKHALIN CONCESSION WOULD PROVE EXTREMELY DAMAGING.

NEW YORK, MARCH 31-(AP)-GERMAN PRISONERS SEEM ANXIOUS TO BE INTERNED IN THE UNITED STATES AS LONG AS PRISON IS INEVITABLE FOR THEM, A 19-YEAR-OLD AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE AMBULANCE DRIVER, JUST BACK FROM THE ANZIO-NETTUNO BEACHHEAD, SAID TODAY.

WARREN G.FUGITT, WHO WAS A 17-YEAR-OLD BUFFALO STUDENT MAJORING IN MODERN LANGUAGES AT PRINCETON UNIVERSITY WHEN HE VOLUNTEERED FOR OVERSEAS SERVICE WITH THE AFS MORE THAN A YEAR AGO, SAID AT A PRESS CONFERENCE THAT HE WAS ABLE TO GET SOME PRACTICE IN GERMAN WHEN HE EVACUATED WOUNDED GERMAN PRISONERS FROM FRONTLINE AREAS.

"I EVACUATED ALMOST AS MANY GERMAN PRISONER PERSONNEL AS I DID BRITISH WOUNDED," HE SAID. "MY PRACTICE IN GERMAN CAME WHEN I WOULD TRANSLATE FOR THEM AT THE FIELD HOSPITALS."

INDIFFERENCE OF ITALIAN CIVILIANS TO GUNFIRE GREATLY COMPLICATED THE WORK OF EVACUATING WOUNDED, SAID FUGITT, WHO LANDED ON THE BEACHHEAD WITH THE FIRST BRITISH MEDICAL UNITS OF THE ALLIED FIFTH ARMY ON JANUARY 22.

"IN THE MIDST OF GUNFIRE THAT DROVE MILITARY PERSONNEL UNDER COVER, YOU WOULD SEE ITALIAN WOMEN HANGING OUT THEIR WASH AND PLAYIN WITH THEIR BAMBINOS," HE RELATED.

FUGITT, WHOSE HOME IS 110 DEERHURST BLVD., KENMORE, WAS WOUNDED BY A GERMAN PATROL ON FEBRUARY 7 WHILE DELIVERING CASUALTIES FROM THE FRONT LINES TO A CLEARING STATION. AFTER A SHORT LEAVE HE PLANS TO RETURN TO OVERSEAS ACTION.

(ADVANCE)..NEW YORK, MARCH 31-(AP)-RALPH A. BARD, ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY, SAID TODAY THAT ADMINISTRATION OF OCCUPIED AREAS OF THE PACIFIC TAKEN FROM JAPAN WILL BE OF PRIMARY IMPORTANCE FROM STRATEGIC AND DIPLOMATIC STANDPOINTS AT THE END OF THE WAR.

IN AN ADDRESS PREPARED FOR GRADUATING OFFICERS OF THE NAVAL SCHOOL OF MILITARY GOVERNMENT AND ADMINISTRATION AT COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY, BOARD ASSERTED THAT "THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AREAS WHICH FORM THE MAIN BULK OF TERRITORIES OF NAVAL RESPONSIBILITY HAPPEN TO BE OF PECULIARLY GREAT STRATEGIC SIGNIFICANCE FOR THE LONG-RUN DEFENSE OF THE UNITED STATES AND ITS NATIONAL INTERESTS." APR 1 1944

"THESE ISLAND AREAS--SOME OF THEM MERE PINPOINTS ON THE VAST PACIFIC--ARE IN THE SPOTLIGHT OF THE NEWS TODAY BECAUSE OF THE MIGHTY BLOWS OUR PACIFIC FLEET IS STRIKING IN THAT REGION," BARD SAID.

"BUT THEY WILL ALSO BE IN THE SPOTLIGHT AT THE END OF THIS WAR, FOR THEIR IMPORTANCE IN NAVAL STRATEGY IS BETTER APPRECIATE THAN A GENERATION AGO, WHEN THE JAPANESE WERE ALLOWED TO TAKE THEM AS MANDATES.

"THIS MEANS IN BLUNT TERMS THAT THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE OCCUPIED AREAS OF THE PACIFIC WILL BE PECULIARLY SUBJECT TO CRITICAL OBSERVATION BY VARIOUS POWERS AND BY THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND PEOPLE. IN TERMS OF SQUARE MILES OF LAND AREA--OR IN TERMS OF POPU-LATION--THOSE AREAS ARE OF SECONDARY IMPORTANCE. BUT IN STRATEGIC TERMS--AND PERHAPS IN TERMS OF DIPLOMACY--THEY WILL HAVE FOR A PERIOD FRONT RANK.

"IT WILL BE WELL FOR YOU TO REMEMBER THIS IF YOU EVER ARE TEMPTED TO UNDERESTIMATE YOUR OWN RESPONSIBILITIES BY MEASURING THEM FROM THE SIZE OF A CORAL ATOLL."

APR 1 1944
